The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the concurrent resolution.

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

ETHNOLOGICAL REPORTS.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report back favorably with amendments the concurrent resolution for printing the eleventh and twelfth annual reports of the Director of the Bureau of Ethnology, and I ask for the present consideration of the resolution.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the concurrent resolution, which was read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed at the Government Printing Office 15,500 copies each of the eleventh and twelfth annual reports of the Director of the Bureau of Ethnology, with accompanying papers and illustrations, and uniform with the preceding volumes of the series, of which 3,500 shall be for the use of the Senate, 7,000 for the use of the House of Representatives, and 5,000 for distribution by the Bureau of Ethnology.

Mr. MANDERSON. I move to amend the resolution first by striking out, in line 3, after the word "Office," "15,500" and inserting "8,000." The question on all the amendments might as well be taken in gross. I send the amendments that I propose to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 3, strike out the words "fifteen thousand five hundred" and insert "8,000;" in line 6, strike out "3,500" and insert "1,000;" in line 7, after the word "Senate," strike out "7,000" and insert "2,000;" so as to make the concurrent resolution read:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed at the Government Printing Office 8,000 copies each of the eleventh and twelfth annual reports of the Director of the Bureau of Ethnology, with accompanying papers and illustrations, and uniform with the preceding volumes of the series, of which 1,000 shall be for the use of the Senate, 2,000 for the use of the House of Representatives, and 5,000 for distribution by the Bureau of Ethnology.

Mr. MANDERSON. These amendments make the concurrent resolution conform to the public-printing bill that has passed the Senate.

The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. Was the number of those ethnological reports cut down to 1,000 for the Senate in the public-printing bill?

Mr. MANDERSON. Yes; that was the provision of the general bill, 1,000 for the Senate, 2,000 for the House, and 5,000 for the Bureau of Ethnology.

The concurrent resolution as amended was agreed to.

TARIFF COMPILATION.

Mr. COCKRELL. Before we leave the question of printing I should like to inquire of the Senator from Nebraska whether any order has been made for printing the tariff compilation of 1891. That was the report of the Senate Committee on Finance. It is a very valuable document, and it ought to be printed. I supposed it had been ordered printed until I inquired this morning and found it had not been printed.

Mr. MANDERSON. My recollection is that such a concurrent resolution has passed the Senate. I am not positive that it has passed the House of Representatives. I will look the matter up, however.

Mr. COCKRELL. It ought to have been printed long ago.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the concurrent resolution of the Senate to print the eulogies delivered in Congress on the late Hon. Preston B. Plumb.

The message also announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 2050) to repeal the provisions of an act entitled "An act to amend sections 4488 and 4489 of the Revised Statutes, requiring life-saving appliances on steamers," approved March 2, 1889, so far as they relate to steamers plying exclusively upon any of the lakes, bays, or sounds of the United States.

The message further announced that the House had passed a bill (H. R. 6185) to absolutely prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bill and joint resolution, and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (H. R. 610) extending the privileges of the first and seventh sections of the act approved June 10, 1880, governing the transportation of merchandise without appraisement to the port of Ogdensburg, in the State of New York; and

A joint resolution (H. Res. 92) to encourage the establishment and endowment of institutions of learning at the national capital, by defining the policy of the Government with reference to the use of its library and scientific collections by students.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. McPHERSON introduced a bill (S. 2840) to confer appointments upon the enlisted men of the Navy; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. COCKRELL (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2841) for the relief of Henry C. Rose; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 2842) to reappoint Warren C. Beach as a captain in the Army and to place him on the retired list in addition to the number now authorized; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CAREY (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2843) creating a commission to inquire into and report upon the material, industrial, and mental progress of the colored race in the United States of America since the year 1865, and making appropriation for the same; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 2844) for the relief of John Eckert; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 2845) regulating the sale of distilled and fermented liquors in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 2846) granting a pension to Granville R. Turner; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 2847) granting an increase of pension to Sarah Clorson; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2848) granting an increase of pension to William A. Hogg; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2849) granting an increase of pension to John A. Miller; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. ALLISON introduced a bill (S. 2850) exempting from taxation the House of the Good Shepherd of the city of Washington, and providing for the cancellation of assessments or taxes heretofore levied against the said corporation; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. COKE (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2851) granting an increase of pension to Eli Moore Boggs; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MANDERSON (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2852) to change the name of the Capitol, North O Street, and South Washington Railway Company, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

AMENDMENT TO A BILL.

Mr. WARREN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the agricultural appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, and ordered to be printed.

COMMITTEE SERVICE.

Mr. COCKRELL. I ask unanimous consent that the Chair may fill the vacancies upon the Committees on Coast Defenses, Mines and Mining, Patents, and Post-Offices and Post-Roads, made vacant by the retirement of Senator Chilton, of Texas.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and the Chair appoints the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS] upon the Committees on Coast Defenses, Mines and Mining, Patents, and Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER BRIDGE AT MEMPHIS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day; which will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted yesterday by Mr. BERRY, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of War be directed to inform the Senate whether or not the Kansas City and Memphis Railway and Bridge Company, authorized by act of Congress approved April 21, 1888, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River at Memphis, Tenn., have complied with that portion of said act which required such company to provide for a passageway for wagons and vehicles of all kinds and for the transit of animals.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

Mr. BERRY. Mr. President, when the bill was before the Senate four years ago to authorize the Kansas City and Memphis Railway Company to build a bridge across the Mississippi River at Memphis, the bill as it came from the committee left it at the option of the company to provide a wagon-way for vehicles or not, as they saw proper. I offered an amendment at the time have heard much talk of "the Silver Baron." He must be a rare bird. We have never heard of him where silver is found. And we are told of the cheap cost at which the white metal is produced.

I wish, sir, that you could know something of the toil and the failures that accompany its finding. The cañons and valleys of Colorado are full of the discarded processes for the extraction of the metals from the rock, which proved unsuccessful. They stand deserted and decaying, with only ruin and their tall chimneys to tell the story of the investments that failed. The mountain sides are dotted and covered from one end of the State to the other with prospect holes and shafts and tunnels and workings, now filled with water, caved in, and abandoned, and in them all are buried hopes and fortunes. There is no dollar of coin produced that has not cost in the sum of the labor which supplied it, far more than the value it represents. The search is fraught with excitement, and buoyed by hope and courage, and success sometimes means fortune, but for one success there are dozens of failures. No, Mr. President, the silver that we seek to add to the wealth and credit of the nation, is represented to its full value in toil and industry, and the men who dig for it have discovered no royal road to wealth.

It is difficult to anticipate what the voters of Colorado will do in November. Unless I am greatly mistaken they will first endeavor, with the limited influence at their command, for the State is not large in population, to secure at the national conventions the nomination of candidates who would feel bound to give to the expression of the will of the two Houses of Congress on this great question, the sanction of law. Failing in this they will seek some other honorable solution of the difficulty.

The people of Colorado are intelligent, thoughtful, and independent. They have been the architects of their own fortunes, and they are devoted to the interests of the Commonwealth which they have founded and developed and made prosperous. Her citizens claim the privilege of liberty of thought and freedom of action, and they concede the same right in those who stand for them here. And I may add that their Representatives in this body would cease to value their high office as worth a moment's holding if this full freedom were not accorded them.

Mr. President, so marvelous and so extensive has been the growth of our country during the past century that it may even now be said of us as a nation, as was said a hundred and twenty years ago, that we "are a people still in the gristle, and not yet hardened into the bone of manhood." Vast areas have been reclaimed from savagery, the boundaries of the Union have been widened, and States have come into being that a generation ago were uninhabited wilderness. This process of moulding is still active; new industries, new sources of wealth, and new settlements are everywhere springing into life and activity. With them come greater demands for such wise and careful legislation as shall enable this widely scattered population, engaged in various pursuits, to yet coalesce with each other, and to conduce by their individual efforts to the prosperity of all. There was never a time when a broadened, a humane, and unsectional view was so demanded. Sin and poverty and suffering will, no doubt, always abound, but a wise and generous economical policy can do much for the amelioration of the people of these States and the establishment of their permanent prosperity. No partisan feeling should be invoked. An equal patriotism pervades every hamlet in the land, and while we differ as to policies, no one State surpasses another in lofty devotion to the perpetuity and welfare of our institutions.

It is a mistake for the representatives of one section to seek financial aggrandizement at the expense of any other. We have a common interest, a common country, and should share a common prosperity. The music of the looms in New England, the song of the field hand on the cotton plantation, the echo of the woodman's ax in Oregon, and the ring of the prospector's pick on the granite of the Western mountains, all blend in one melodious harmony, and tell the same story of the energy of free men, who conquer success because in this country industry and hope are companions. The uniting of all these interests so that no one shall suffer because of the other, and so that each shall benefit and bless the other, is a mission more glorious than one of conquest, is the noblest task that could be imposed upon man by his brother man. [Applause in the galleries.]

Mr. MORGAN. I offer an amendment to the resolutions, which I send to the desk and which I will ask the Secretary to read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Alabama to the resolutions heretofore submitted by him will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to add to the resolutions the following:

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance is instructed to prepare and report to the Senate an act supplementary to the "act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes," approved July 11, 1890, which shall provide for the coinage of gold and silver bullion on equal terms as to each metal, and for the issue of Treasury notes in denominations not to exceed $500, and upon the terms and conditions prescribed in said act, upon all gold and silver bullion that the United States shall acquire by purchase, and that any depositor who shall deposit in the Treasury gold or silver bullion in quantities of not less than $100 in value, the product of mines in the United States, which has not been previously coined, shall, at his option, receive coin certificates for the same at the mint value of such bullion.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 4th instant approved and signed the act (S. 1841) for the relief of Daniel McClure.

The message also announced that the President had on the 5th instant approved and signed the following act and joint resolution:

An act (S. 1884) to prevent fraud upon the water revenues of the District of Columbia; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 49) constraining article 4 of the agreement with the Citizen band of Pottawatomie Indians in Oklahoma Territory and elsewhere.

INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. DAWES. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 5974) making appropriations for current and contingent expenses and fulfilling treaty stipulations with Indian tribes for fiscal year ending June 30, 1893.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Indiana [Mr. VOORHEES] is entitled to the floor.

Mr. DAWES. Before the Senator from Indiana takes the floor he will allow me a moment?

Mr. VOORHEES. Certainly.

Mr. DAWES. Yesterday, in calling the attention of the Senate to the manner in which President Grant followed out the policy prescribed by law at his suggestion for keeping the peace with and promoting civilization among the Indians I was unable at the moment to give the names of those men to whom he intrusted that work, and was compelled to speak from memory. I desire now simply to put upon record those names and call the attention of the Senate to them. They were William Welsh, John V. Farwell, George H. Stuart, Robert Campbell, William E. Dodge, E. S. Tobey, Felix R. Brunot, Nathan Bishop, and Henry S. Lane.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, with the music of the silver-toned eloquence with which we have just been charmed by the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT] still ringing in our ears, I do not know that I can get any hearing for the Indian at this time.

I have been very reluctant to take any part in this discussion, but there are certain matters which I think ought to be known and laid before the Senate and the country in regard to the proposed change in the management of Indian affairs.

It is proposed here to make a change of policy, a great and marked change, and I confess it ought not to be made unless for weighty and sufficient reasons. I propose to occupy the time of the Senate briefly, in order to give the reasons which will govern me in the vote I shall cast. In doing so, I do not desire to be understood as assailing anybody, or any bureau, or set of men. I shall leave the facts, when I am through, to speak for themselves.

I have the most kindly sympathy for the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES] in his earnest efforts to retain the system which he believes is best. The facts which have come to my knowledge, however, for some years past have led me to a different conclusion. It is but a little more than twelve months since this country was shocked throughout all its borders by a bloody disaster connected with one of our Indian agencies.

It is but little more than a year since I stood upon this floor, and, in response to a proposition to arm the people of the Northwestern States for their own defense, I said that it would be better to feed the Indians than to fight them. I gave the authority then on which I spoke; I gave some facts which were then in my possession and which have accumulated up to this time. That is as it were but yesterday, and yet this protracted debate, this able debate, has progressed thus far with hardly an allusion to the great facts which led to what I conceive to be one of the most deplorable events in the modern history of this country.

I have been accustomed in considering questions in court and elsewhere to rely upon the facts of the case. I know of no reason to displace one system of policy for another except it arises out of the experience which the system tried and to be retired has passed through. Now, I propose for a short time to speak further upon the point I made a little more than a year ago, and that is, that the administration of Indian affairs under its present system has been inefficient and dangerous to the peace and welfare of the Indian and of the white settlers and corrupt.

I know no other way to reach a correct conclusion than by searching the record upon this question. I hold in my hand a most valuable report, authorized and required by law; a report which the American people are entitled to have, and to which they should listen. Maj. Gen. Miles is not a West Point man. He did not enter the Army through that military gateway on the Hudson. He is a native of the Senator's own State, a son of Massachusetts, and I believe is the only volunteer officer who has achieved a major-generalship in the regular Army in modern times. He is one of the three major-generals of the American Army, and, I repeat, he is the only one of modern times who has achieved that great distinction from a volunteer standpoint, as far as I now recall. He has none of the prejudices of the regular Army, if any they have, in regard to matters of civil life.

Mr. HIGGINS. The Senator will allow me to suggest that I think Gen. Terry was also a volunteer officer.

Mr. VOORHEES. I am glad to be corrected, if I am in error. I simply did not think of any more, but the number is very small and very exceptional.

On this subject, in December 1890, I quoted Gen. Miles. At that time I quoted him verbally. I stated then that, in his opinion, the troubles which were brewing, and which had not yet culminated, were due to the wrong and imperfect policy of our Indian affairs. I was antagonized very sharply upon the subject and the foresight of Gen. Miles was violently discredited. Bloodshed came sooner than I anticipated, and after the slaughter was over Gen. Miles had to speak up on the subject to his superiors in the War Department. In his report of last September, only about six months ago now, after stating his transfer under orders from San Francisco to his headquarters in Chicago, he proceeds as follows:

While en route to the division headquarters at Chicago, I received information at Fort Keogh, Mont., from Cheyenne Indians I had known for many years, of the distressed condition they were in, particularly the tribe of Northern Cheyennes; their suffering for want of food, their being compelled to kill cattle belonging to the white people to sustain life, and the disaffection then existing, as well as the alarm prevailing among the citizens of that State.

I presume I need waste no time in elaborating the idea that the purpose of Indian agencies is to so treat the Indian as to keep the peace, protect the frontier, and preserve the property of settlers.

To relieve their immediate wants—

Continues Gen. Miles—

I sent a telegram to the Adjutant-General at Washington stating that the principal trouble with the Cheyenne Indians, whose reservation was south of Fort Keogh, was the result of the Government's failure to provide sufficient food and the means to render them self-supporting, saying, when I left there ten years previous they had a herd of cattle and were at the time largely self-supporting; that they had been obliged to kill their cattle for food; that they had been on the verge of starvation and were at that time very little better; that when without food, or the means of providing for it, they had been obliged to kill cattle belonging to white men; that there was not the least difficulty in controlling them, but ample means should be appropriated at once to supply them with food and the means to render them self-supporting. At the same time I recommended that funds should also be appropriated to reimburse the white citizens who had been obliged to supply them with food. This telegram resulted in their being granted an additional appropriation of $25,000, and reasonable appropriations for their necessities.

Mr. President, if there is somebody ready to say that we are oversensitive, humane, and careful for the Indian and his rights, I wish for one moment in this connection to call attention to the true relations between this Government and the Indians. My heart goes out to those who are helpless and dependent more than to the powerful. The Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of the United States vs. Kagama (118 U. S. Reports), use this language:

These Indian tribes are the wards of the nation; they are communities dependent on the United States; dependent largely for their daily food, dependent for their political rights. They owe no allegiance to the States and receive from them no protection; because of the local ill feeling, the people of the States where they are found are often their deadliest enemies. From their very weakness and helplessness, so largely due to the course of dealing of the Federal Government with them, and the treaties in which it has been promised, there arises the duty of protection, and with it the power. This has always been recognized by the Executive, by Congress, and by this court whenever the question has arisen.

The recognized relation between the parties to this controversy, therefore, is that between a superior and an inferior, whereby the latter is placed under the care and control of the former, and which, while it authorizes the action on the part of the United States of such policy as their own public interests may dictate, recognizes, on the other hand, such an obligation of their acts and promises as justice and reason demand in all cases where power is exerted by the strong over those to whom they owe care and protection.

In commenting upon this opinion of the Supreme Court the following sentence commends itself to my sense of equity and justice:

This opinion—

Says the writer—

is simply the application, as between the United States and the Indians, of the uniform rule of equity that where any person has an habitual influence over another, or where there are relations of confidence between the parties, or where there are any fiduciary relations existing, or where one has dominion or power over the other, relief will be granted in favor of the inferior who has been unfairly dealt with.

We are dealing with people who stand to us as wards, as orphan children toward their guardian, and the spectacle of their starvation at the hands of this Government has sometimes given me sleepless nights. I do not rest easily when a spectacle of that kind is presented by a great and powerful government.

Let us go further, however, with the testimony. I am dealing with this case as I would in court upon evidence. I have called witnesses and shall examine them here and comment upon their testimony. Gen. Miles continues by saying:

The causes that led to the serious disturbance of the peace in the Northwest last autumn and winter were so remarkable that an explanation of them is necessary to comprehend the seriousness of the situation. The Indians assuming the most threatening attitude of hostility were the Cheyennes and Sioux. Their condition may be stated as follows: For several years following their subjugation in 1877, 1878, and 1879 the most dangerous element of the Cheyennes and the Sioux were under military control. Many of them were disarmed and dismounted; their war ponies were sold and the proceeds returned to them in domestic stock, farming utensils, wagons, etc. Many of the Cheyennes, under the charge of military officers, were located on land in accordance with the laws of Congress, but after they were turned over to civil agents, and the vast herds of buffalo and large game had been destroyed, their supplies were insufficient and they were forced to kill cattle belonging to white people to sustain life.

These words are pregnant with meaning to my mind, and while they do not fill the ears of Senators who are just now comfortable at their lunch, at this the lunch hour, still perhaps, like bread cast upon the waters, they will do some good hereafter.

The fact that they had not received sufficient food is admitted by the agents and the officers of the Government who have had opportunities of knowing.

Mr. President, if anybody is to be arraigned here for these statements let it be this high officer; let them arraign this man of splendid military reputation, and high character for truth and honor. He proceeds to say:

The majority of the Sioux were under the charge of civil agents, frequently changed and often inexperienced. Many of the tribes became alarmed and remounted. They claimed that the Government had not fulfilled its treaties and had failed to make large enough appropriations for their support; that they had suffered for want of food, and the evidence of this is beyond question and sufficient to satisfy any unprejudiced, intelligent mind. The statements of officers, inspectors, both of the military and the Interior Department, of agents, of missionaries, and civilians familiar with their condition leave no room for reasonable doubt that this was one of the principal causes.

Causes of what? One of the principal causes of that field of blood, where nearly 100 of our young soldiers went down—thirty-old killed outright, I believe, and more than double that number wounded, one of the bloody disasters of the American frontier. This distinguished officer is dealing with the causes which led to that result. They are not remote. This disaster occurred only a little while ago, but yesterday as it were, and enters directly into the question under debate. Shall the system which produced that result be continued, or shall we try something else? As I said in the beginning, I do not desire to engage in reproaches unnecessarily, but at the same time these facts bear on the vital question whether the present system of Indian affairs ought to be continued, or whether we shall be justified, indeed compelled by our sense of duty to try another.

Gen. Miles, continuing, says:

While statements may be made as to the amount of money that has been expended by the Government to feed the different tribes, the manner of distributing those appropriations will furnish one reason for the deficit.

FAILURE OF CROPS.

The unfortunate failure of the crops in the plains country during the years of 1889 and 1890 added to the distress and suffering of the Indians, and it was possible for them to raise but very little from the ground for self-support. In fact, white settlers have been most unfortunate, and their losses have been serious and universal throughout a large section of that country. They have struggled on from year to year, occasionally they would raise good crops, which they were compelled to sell at low prices, while in the season of drought their labor was almost entirely lost. So serious have been their misfortunes that thousands have left that country within the last few years, passing over the mountains to the Pacific slope or returning to the east of the Missouri and the Mississippi.

The Indians, however, could not migrate from one part of the United States to another; neither could they obtain employment as readily as white people either upon or beyond the Indian reservation. They must remain in comparative idleness and accept the results of the drought—an insufficient supply of food. This created a feeling of discontent even among the loyal and well-disposed, and added to the feeling of hostility of the element opposed to every process of civilization.

I will now ask the Secretary at the desk to read the report made by Brig. Gen. Roger, commanding the Department of North Dakota, in regard to the disaffection at Standing Rock Agency, commencing on page 6 and ending on page 7, as I have marked.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will read as requested.

The Secretary read as follows:

The commanding officer at Fort Yates, N. Dak., under date of December 7, 1890, at the time the Messiah delusion was approaching a climax, says in reference to the disaffection of the Sioux Indians at Standing Rock Agency, that it is due to the following causes:

1. Failure of the Government to establish an equitable southern boundary for the Standing Rock Agency Reservation.
2. Failure of the Government to expend a just proportion of the money re-means anything) that representative government is a failure. Hence we have earnest advocates for laws to restrict the power of the people to control their servants.

That is followed with assaults upon men in executive positions, and this movement to substitute army and navy officers for civilians.

Mr. President, when you look back over the past fifteen years and see what steps you have taken in that direction, I think Senators would be amazed—I am sorry that I can not present them all to the Senate—but begin with the District of Columbia. Here it was said that there was corruption in the administration by civil officers; and it was said you can not find among the great corps of civil engineers of the entire country honorable and honest men to conduct the affairs of the District of Columbia; they can not be had from civil life, and therefore we must go to the Army and select from that splendid corps an officer and make him a Commissioner; put him over a people as intelligent and as wealthy as are to be found upon the face of the globe. And on the sole ground that in that way only could you have honesty and integrity. The integrity and capacity of the Engineer Corps I gladly concede. I protest against the proposition that they are more honest or capable than those in civil life.

We have by law placed public buildings to be constructed in a city in charge of army officers. Ten million dollars or more per annum is expended upon your rivers and harbors by army men, all for the reason, as it is claimed, that there have been cases of mismanagement and sometimes corruption and extravagance by the civil engineers.

The integrity of the army officer is conceded, but the claim that they alone can be trusted is offensive to the American people. The dishonest man in the public service is the exception, not the rule. The people are honest; their public servants are honest, and this substitution of the military for the civilian can not be justified except in cases of war or threatened outbreak.

Mr. President, this is not the only proposition to substitute the military for civil officers. Now, you have another proposition to take your revenue police, the men who guard your rivers and harbors, and say that they, civilians as they are, are no longer fit for that duty, that the boys who grow up, the sons of these sea captains coming into your Revenue Marine Service from private life, without influence and without much education—only such as they may gain from the public schools—that they are to be excluded, and none shall enter that service except through the Naval Academy at Annapolis, appointed upon the recommendation of a member of Congress or the President of the United States, so that you may have honesty and efficiency and better service than you have now, and, of course, the life tenure, with retirement upon half pay.

Mr. President, to any and all propositions looking to the use of army and naval officers in the civil service I enter my protest. I protest against such legislation upon an appropriation bill. It will be a bad precedent; it will return to plague us. Now, it is said a few Indian agents have misbehaved, and therefore the whole system must be turned over and placed in the hands of captains and lieutenants. Next year it may be your collectors of internal revenue or the United States marshals.

Mr. President, I believe that this is only one of the steps in the assault that is being made, as I before said, upon the civil service. I am not content, sir, to cast my vote without this one word of protest against an innovation which I think leads us away beyond what those who advocate the passage of the bill to-day contemplate.

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, I had hoped that I should not be called upon to say anything in this matter; but as all the members of the Committee on Appropriations who favor this provision, including my colleague on the committee from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN], have spoken, it is proper for me to say just a few words in vindication of my dissent from the distinguished gentlemen who constitute the majority of the committee and the only argument they have made here.

I am for this provision of the bill unequivocally, and not because it transfers any civil jurisdiction to military officers, for it does not do any such thing. I am for it because it is the best thing for the Indian and the best thing for the white man, and saves money to the taxpayers of the United States. Those are three sufficient reasons.

This is no great innovation. Once the Indian Bureau was under the War Department, and whenever the management of the Indian Bureau has been such as to bring the Indians and the whites into mortal combat by its civil administration an army officer is always called in to adjust it. We want to anticipate the conflicts that have been caused by the civil management and the Indians getting into conflict, having wars, destruction of life, and waste of money, by putting army officers there, not as army officers with their shoulder straps to exercise military power under the orders of the Commanding General of the Army, but detailed to do that specific duty under the orders and regulations and control of the Interior Department just as completely and as fully as are the Indian agents to-day.

We take no power from the Secretary of the Interior. We take no power from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. They are still to be supreme. The only thing is that they are not to recommend to the President, if they do such a thing, the appointment of some man as Indian agent. That is the only power we take from the civil branch. The only power that this provision wrests from the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs is simply the privilege of soliciting the President to appoint somebody, a civilian, as an Indian agent. These army officers are to be under their control.

It seems to me that the distinguished Senator from Iowa and my colleague on the committee from Maryland should have seen that only good can result when you will have the civilians there appointed under the Secretary of the Interior and an army officer detailed there from the War Department, each watching the other, each supervising the action of the other. It must result in good. It has resulted in good, and it will result in good. The provision of the bill simply authorizes the President to exercise a discretion in this matter. It says:

That from and after the passage of this act the President shall detail officers of the United States Army to act as Indian agents at all agencies where vacancies from any cause may hereafter occur, who, while acting as such agents, shall be under the orders and direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

The following additional proviso has been agreed to by the Senate:

Provided further, That whenever the President shall be of opinion that the good of the service specially requires it, he may appoint a civilian.

So we leave the President almost as free as he is to-day. Whenever he thinks it is better to have a civilian he can appoint him, otherwise he details an army officer and saves the salary in the Treasury of all the Indian agents where an army officer acts. There is where the saving is, and it is a considerable item to save.

Mr. President, I am not criticising the Indian Bureau. If it has managed this matter ever so well, twice as well as the Senator from Iowa and the Senator from Massachusetts have represented, it would be an improvement to put new blood into these agencies where there are collected so many civilians, by detailing an army officer as Indian agent, an educated gentleman who has something at stake, his character, his life, his being, in acting honestly and honorably. There they will be in contact with each other, the civilian jealous of the officer, and the officer watching the civilian employees, and no harm can come from such a thing.

I trust the Senate will keep this wise and just and economical provision in the bill.

Mr. DAWES. I hope we may now have a vote.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. PETTIGREW], on which the yeas and nays have been ordered.

Mr. CULLOM and Mr. TELLER. Let it be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be read.

The SECRETARY. On page 1, beginning with line 12, it is proposed to strike out the following proviso:

Provided, That from and after the passage of this act the President shall detail officers of the United States Army to act as Indian agents at all agencies where vacancies from any cause may hereafter occur, who, while acting as such agents, shall be under the orders and direction of the Secretary of the Interior: Provided further, That whenever the President shall be of opinion that the good of the service specially requires it he may appoint a civilian.

And to insert in lieu thereof the following:

The President is authorized to detail officers of the United States Army to act as Indian agents at all agencies where he shall deem such action for the best interests of the service.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will call the roll on agreeing to the amendment.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BRICE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from California [Mr. FELTON].

Mr. CAREY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS] on this question. If he were present he would vote "nay" and I should vote "yea."

Mr. DUBOIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER] on this question. If he were present he would vote "nay" and I should vote "yea."

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired on all these questions with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH]. If he was present he would vote "yea" and I should vote "nay."

Mr. BERRY (when the name of Mr. JONES of Arkansas was called). My colleague [Mr. JONES] is paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. HISENCK].

Mr. FAULKNER (when Mr. KENNA's name was called). My colleague [Mr. KENNA] is detained from the Senate by indisposition, and is paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT].

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE].

Mr. MANDERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN]. He would vote "nay" on this proposition, and I therefore vote "nay."

Mr. STEWART (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. With the consent of the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. MANDERSON], I will transfer my pair to the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. MANDERSON. I think that is right, for I know that the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN], if present, would vote "nay" on this proposition.

Mr. WALTHALL. I vote "nay."

Mr. WARREN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON]. Perhaps my pair may be transferred. Perhaps the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER] may wish to transfer the pair of the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON]. I will withhold my vote for the present.

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. FAULKNER. I understand that there has been a transfer of pairs, so that the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] and the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON] stand paired. As the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] has come into the Chamber, I propose to transfer his pair to the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON], who will stand paired with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON], so that both the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] and the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN] can vote.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I vote "nay."

Mr. WARREN. I vote "yea."

Mr. CAREY. I see that the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS] is now in his seat, and I will vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS. I agreed with the Senator from Massachusetts a moment since that I would pair with the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] upon these questions, but I understand that the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], who voted "nay" on the former occasion, and who would, if present, vote "nay" now, is not paired, and I transfer my pair with the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] to the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], and record my vote. I vote "nay."

Mr. ALLISON (after having voted in the affirmative). I voted inadvertently, having agreed with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR] to pair with his colleague [Mr. MORRILL]. I therefore withdraw my vote.

Mr. McMILLAN. Now that the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE] has been paired, I vote "nay."

Mr. HANSBROUGH (after having voted in the affirmative). I find that I am paired with the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY], and I withdraw my vote.

The result was announced—yeas 24, nays 29, as follows:

So the amendment was rejected.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question now is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES], to strike out the paragraph.

Mr. DAWES. I hope that we shall now have a vote on the original proposition. The yeas and nays have been ordered upon it. Mr. MANDERSON. I ask that the question be stated so that it may be understood.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to strike out the proviso beginning on the last line of page 1 of the bill in the following words:

Provided, That from and after the passage of this act the President shall detail officers of the United States Army to act as Indian agents at all agencies where vacancies from any cause may hereafter occur, who, while acting as such agents, shall be under the orders and direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

Provided further, That whenever the President shall be of opinion that the good of the service specially requires it he may appoint a civilian.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The roll will be called on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES], to strike out the proviso which has been read.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BRICE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from California [Mr. FELTON].

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH].

Mr. STEWART (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON].

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. I have arranged to transfer that pair to the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON]. I vote "nay."

Mr. WARREN (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON]. By an arrangement that pair has been transferred, and I vote "yea."

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. DUBOIS. I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER].

Mr. ALLISON. At the request of the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR] I have agreed to pair with the senior Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] on this question. If he were present I should vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 25, nays 28, as follows:

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. SANDERS. I desire to offer an amendment to the bill, which I send to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

To enable the Secretary of the Interior to appoint a commission to negotiate with the Crow Indians of Montana, for a modification of the agreement concluded with said Indians December 24, 1890, and ratified by Congress March 3, 1891, and to pay the necessary and actual expenses of said commissioners, the sum of $1,500, said sum to be immediately available: Provided, That no such modification shall be valid unless assented to by a majority of the male adult members of the Crow tribe of Indians and be approved by the Secretary of the Interior.

Mr. DAWES. If the Senator will turn to the last line on the forty-first page of the bill and propose to change the $10,000 which is put in the hands of the Secretary of the Interior to carry on all these negotiations I will not raise the point of order on him. Otherwise I shall, because undertaking to specify just what terms and on what ratification by the Indians a new negotiation shall be made I think is not proper, but it should be left to the Secretary of the Interior. On the forty-first page, for the very purpose of putting in the hands of the Secretary of the Interior all the money necessary for every one of these negotiations, there is a sum appropriated. That sum may not be enough.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, April 7, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. C. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, calling the attention of Congress to the evil resulting from the present method of selecting candidates for vacancies in the offices of local inspectors of steam vessels under the existing law, etc.; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

LISTS OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYÉS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the Commissioner of Labor, transmitting, in response to a resolution of the 24th ultimo, information in regard to employés in that office not specifically appropriated for; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment, and ordered to be printed.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. HARRIS. I present a petition of the members of the Nashville (Tenn.) Academy of Medicine and practicing physicians of Nashville, signed by Dr. Briggs and some 40 others, praying for the establishment of a department of health, with a cabinet officer at its head. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. I present the petition of Mosby & Hunt, of Memphis, Tenn., praying compensation for the sinking of one of their coal boats by collision with a Government vessel. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Claims to accompany Senate bill 674, for the relief of the petitioners, now pending before that committee.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. DAWES. I present a petition of 800 citizens of the United States and of Massachusetts, praying Congress to provide by law for the naturalization of such Chinamen as came into this country before the first exclusion act for the purpose of making this country their home and identifying themselves with its institutions. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. DAWES presented two petitions of Dalton Grange, No. 23, Patrons of Husbandry, of Massachusetts, praying for the passage of the bill to prevent gambling in farm products; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of Dalton Grange, No. 23, Patrons of Husbandry, of Massachusetts, praying for the passage of the bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of Dalton Grange, No. 23, Patrons of Husbandry, of Massachusetts, praying for the passage of the bill making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom were referred the following bills, submitted adverse reports thereon; which were agreed to, and the bills were postponed indefinitely:

A bill (S. 469) granting an honorable discharge to William Mackey;

A bill (S. 513) to muster into the service of the United States, as second lieutenant of infantry, Joseph B. Samuels; and

A bill (S. 1261) for the relief of Nancy Wallace.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2260) for the relief of the trustees of Isaac R. Trimble, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. BATE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2151) to perfect the military record of Capt. Jacob H. Hay, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1877) for the relief of William H. Nave, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. PROCTOR, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1129) for the recognition of Henry O. Kent as colonel of the Seventeenth New Hampshire Volunteers, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. WOLCOTT, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5119) to prevent the building of houses along certain alleys in the city of Washington, and for other purposes, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1203) to exempt improvements to real estate in the District of Columbia from taxation, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

PORT OF MARQUETTE, MICH.

Mr. SAWYER. I am directed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 4531) to extend to Marquette, Mich., the privilege of immediate transportation of unappraised merchandise, to report it favorably without amendment. I ask for immediate action, as it is a short bill and is recommended by the Department.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The Chief Clerk read the bill; and there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. SAWYER. I am directed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1789) to extend to Marquette, Mich., the privilege of immediate transportation of unappraised merchandise, to report it back adversely. I move that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

The motion was agreed to.

HEARING BEFORE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE.

Mr. JONES of Nevada, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. HOAR March 31, 1892, reported it without amendment; and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary be authorized to employ a stenographer, to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate, to report the evidence and arguments at the hearing with regard to pending measures for the relief of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 2861) to authorize the Secretary of War to purchase for governmental and industrial use at Rock Island Arsenal, Rock Island, Ill., a testing machine for tension and compression; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 2862) granting a pension to George Phillips; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PEEFFER (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2863) for the relief of Mrs. Lititia S. Elliott; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. PEEFFER. By reason of the fact that the claim arose out of a matter alleged to have occurred in the District of Columbia, it would be better to have the bill referred to that committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. CARLSLE introduced a bill (S. 2864) for the relief of Elizabeth Fulwiler; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. FAULKNER introduced a bill (S. 2865) authorizing the construction of a building for the accommodation of the United States Patent Office; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 2866) granting a pension to E. C. Trowbridge; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 2867) for the relief of Mrs. Mary L. Roderick; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. Towles, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following bills:

A bill (S. 18) for the relief of Edward S. Armstrong; and

A bill (S. 440) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River, between the city of Chamberlain in Brule County and Lyman County, in the State of South Dakota.

The message also announced that the House had passed without amendment the following concurrent resolutions of the Senate:

A resolution to print 8,000 copies each of the eleventh and twelfth annual reports of the Director of the Bureau of Ethnology; and

A resolution to print 50,000 copies of the eighth and ninth annual Reports of the Bureau of Animal Industry for the years 1891 and 1892.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the enrolled bill (S. 2056) to repeal the provisions of an act entitled "An act to amend sections 4488 and 4489 of the Revised Statutes, requiring life-saving appliances on steamers," approved March 2, 1889, so far as they relate to steamers plying exclusively upon any of the lakes, bays, or sounds of the United States; and it was thereupon signed by the Vice-President.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

On motion of Mr. DAVIS, it was Ordered, That the papers on file in the office of the Secretary of the Senate, in the case before the Committee on Claims, in the Fiftieth Congress, of H. K. Belding, be, and the same are hereby, withdrawn, there having been no adverse report thereon.

PURCHASE OF SILVER BULLION.

Mr. TELLER submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to furnish the Senate with a statement of the amount of silver bullion offered to the Government each month since the passage of the act approved July 14, 1890, entitled "An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes," under the provisions of said act, and by whom and at what prices; and also the amount of silver bullion purchased each month during said period, and from whom and at what place, and the prices paid therefor; the number of days given each seller or person offering silver for sale in which to deliver the silver.

SANITARY CONDITION OF THE CAPITOL.

Mr. VEST submitted the following resolution; which was read:

Resolved, That the necessary expenses incurred by the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds in making the examination of the sanitary condition of the Capitol, and especially the structure recently built on the terrace of the Capitol, and the tunnels through which the air is pumped through the two wings of the buildings, etc., adopted March 22, 1892, be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

Mr. VEST. I ask for its present consideration.

Mr. HARRIS. I suggest to the Senator from Missouri that I think under a statute such resolutions must go to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

Mr. VEST. Let it go, then, to the Committee on Contingent Expenses.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be so referred.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. STEWART. Mr. President, I ask leave to have business suspended for a moment while I make a short statement.

I find, in the New York Evening Post of April 5, 1892, a list of mortgages in Alameda County, Cal., made to me, wherein it is charged, and I suppose truthfully, that they contain an obligation to pay in gold coin.

These mortgages to me resulted from several sales made at auction through a firm of brokers in San Francisco, Easton Eldridge & Co., in the usual way, and were made for deferred payments. The mortgages undoubtedly were made on the ordinary blanks used in that country. I never examined the mortgages myself. I signed some of the deeds, but most of the deeds, however, were signed by my agent. Undoubtedly in making the mortgages the ordinary printed form was used, which contained an obligation to pay in gold. That has existed since about 1863, when there was passed in California what was known as the specific contract law, by which the gold standard was maintained during the war. Greenbacks, as they are called, Treasury notes, never circulated on the Pacific coast previous to the resumption of coin payments. In consequence of that specific contract law all the printed forms for mortgages and notes contain an obligation to pay in gold, and I presume my agent used the ordinary form in taking mortgages. I have no doubt of that at all, though I gave no directions in regard to it. I do not recollect that I ever saw one of the mortgages, but take for granted they were the usual forms. That is the established practice there, as is well known on that coast.

Mr. HALE. The Senator will see to it that no such forms of mortgage are used hereafter. [Laughter.]

Mr. STEWART. I shall see to it, because money is so scarce now that I shall be glad to get any kind of legal-tender money.

This business was conducted without any directions from me, and in the usual form of doing business there. I have always been opposed to the specific contract law, as is well known, and believe that it was always a great detriment to the Pacific coast. During the war, and for years afterwards, until the resumption of specie payments, immigration to that country was absolutely shut out because the people would not stand the discount in taking their money from here and investing it there. It even kept travelers away. For a time a man who had $100 had to reduce it to $50 when he got to California. I have always been opposed to that law, but the business referred to in this article has been done in the usual way, for which I am not responsible, and I make no apology.

Mr. FELTON. You still survive.

Mr. STEWART. Yes; I still survive, notwithstanding I have seen some hard times.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 6th instant approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 808) establishing a port of delivery at Des Moines, Iowa;

An act (S. 2315) to protect foreign exhibitors at the World's Columbian Exposition from prosecution for exhibiting wares protected by American patents and trade-marks; and

An act (S. 2643) changing the time for holding the circuit and district courts in the district of West Virginia.

DISTRICT APPROPRIATION BILL.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business? If not, that order is closed and the Calendar under Rule VIII is in order.

Mr. ALLISON. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 6746) making appropriations to provide for the expenses of the Government of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. CALL. I ask the Senator from Iowa to consent to allow me to call up for consideration a pension bill to grant a pension to a very old man. It is a very meritorious case, and I think will only require the reading of the bill. It was favorably reported by the committee yesterday while I was absent. The man is nearly 90 years old.

Mr. CAMERON. Mr. President—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Iowa yield to the Senator from Pennsylvania?

Mr. ALLISON. I will yield for an inquiry, to see what the Senator desires.

Mr. CAMERON. I was about to make a motion that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business. I did not know that the morning business had been finished. I intended when it was completed to ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of executive business, but it seems that the Senator from Iowa made a motion to take up the District appropriation bill.

Mr. ALLISON. Does the Senator desire to make some other motion?

Mr. CAMERON. I desire to make a motion to go into executive session. I have been wanting to do that for a week past, but the Indian appropriation bill was delayed so long that I put it off until now.

Mr. HOAR. Why not wait until after the District appropriation bill is concluded?

Mr. CAMERON. The executive session will probably take some time. It will be a long session.

Mr. ALLISON. I hope the Senator from Pennsylvania will not interpose that motion at this moment. I desire very much, I will say to the Senator and to the Senate, for reasons that are personal to myself, to dispose of this appropriation bill, and in addition to that the public business, I think, would be best promoted by going on with the bill now.

Mr. CAMERON. I have no objection to the appropriation bill being considered to-day, but I now give notice to the Senate that to-morrow immediately upon the conclusion of the morning business—

Mr. ALLISON. Or immediately after the appropriation bill is disposed of, I suggest.

Mr. CAMERON. No, I do not want to do that. I want the executive session early in the day. I shall make the motion to-morrow morning immediately upon the completion of the morning business.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well. Then I hope the Senate will sit with me until we can conclude this bill to-day.

I ask the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] not to interpose this morning. I think we can finish this bill to-day if we go on carefully with it.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 6746) making appropriations to provide for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes; which had been reported from the Committee on Appropriations with amendments.

Mr. ALLISON. I ask that in the consideration of the bill the formal reading be dispensed with and that the amendments of the Committee on Appropriations may be first disposed of and acted on as the reading progresses.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That course will be pursued if there be no objection.

The Chief Clerk proceeded to read the bill, and read to line 21, on page 2.

Mr. ALLISON. On behalf of the committee, I move to strike out all after the word "dollars" in line 21 down to and including the word "dollars" in line 22, being the words:

Three laborers, at $1 per day each, $839

And to insert:

One laborer, at $1 per day, $313; two laborers, at $350 each, $720

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The first amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in the appropriations "for salaries and contingent expenses, executive office," in section 1, on page 3, line 3, before the word "assistant," to strike out "two" and insert "three;" so as to read:

Three assistant inspectors of plumbing, at $1,000 each.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 3, line 6, to increase the total amount of the appropriations "for salaries and contingent expenses," executive office, from "$41,047" to "$45,017."

Mr. ALLISON. I move to strike out "forty-seven" before "hundred" and to insert "one hundred and forty-one;" so as to read "$45,141," to agree with the amendment just adopted.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in the appropriations "for assessor's office," in section 1, on page 3, line 8, after the words "assistant assessors," to strike out "until January 1, 1893, at the rate of," and insert "at;" so as to read:

For assessor's office: for one assessor, $5,000; three assistant assessors, at $2,500 per annum each.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the same clause, in section 1, on page 3, line 20, after the word "law," to insert "in the assessment of real and personal property;" so as to read:

And perform such other duties as may be assigned to them by the assessor not inconsistent with existing law in the assessment of real and personal property.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in the same clause, in section 1, on page 3, line 23, after the word "dollars," to insert:

Two clerks, at $1,300 each.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in the same clause, in section 1, on page 3, line 24, after the word "each," to strike out "one clerk, $1,200," and insert "two clerks, at $1,200 each."

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to line 7, on page 4.

Mr. ALLISON. In line 6, on page 4, I move to strike out the words "and messenger;" so as to read, "one clerk, $900."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 4, line 7, to increase the total amount of the appropriations "for assessor's office" from "$22,250" to "$30,000."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 4, line 11, after the word "dollars," to strike out "four" and insert "two;" in line 12, after the word "each," to strike out "three" and insert "two;" in line 13, after the word "each," to insert "one clerk and bank messenger, $1,000;" and in line 15, after the word "all," to strike out "seventeen" and insert "fourteen;" so as to make the clause read:

For collector's office: For one collector, $4,000; one cashier, $1,800; one bookkeeper, $1,000; two clerks, at $1,400 each; two clerks, at $1,200 each; one clerk and bank messenger, $1,000; one messenger, $600; in all, $14,200.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in the appropriations "for auditor's office," in section 1, on page 4, line 22, after the word "each" to insert "one clerk, $1,000."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 5, line 20, to increase the total amount of the appropriations "for auditor's office," from "$16,700" to "$17,700."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations "for engineer's office," in section 1, on page 6, line 17, after the word "each," to insert:

One clerk and stenographer, at $1,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the same clause, in section 1, on page 6, line 24, after the word "dollars," to insert:

One general inspector of surveys, $1,800.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the same clause, in section 1, on page 7, line 2, after the word "dollars," to strike out "one inspector of lamps, at $900," and insert "two inspectors of lamps, at $900 each."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the same clause, in section 1, on page 7, line 13, to increase the total amount of the appropriations "for engineer's office" from "$41,530" to "$45,230."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in section 1, on page 9, line 15, after the word "exceeding," to strike out "three" and insert "four;" so as to read:

That the register of wills of the District of Columbia shall not, hereafter, retain of the fees and emoluments of his office for his personal compensation, over and above his necessary clerk hire and the incidental expenses of his office, certified to by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, or by one of its justices, appointed by it for that purpose, and to be audited and allowed by the proper accounting officers of the Treasury, a sum exceeding $4,000 a year, or exceeding that rate for any time less than a year; and the surplus of such fees and emoluments shall be paid into the Treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the same clause, in section 1, on page 9, line 19, after the word "clerks," to strike out "copyists;" in line 20, after the word "increased," to insert "except that additional copyists may be employed for temporary service as the necessities of the office may require;" in line 23, after the word "salary," to insert "or compensation;" in the same line, before the word "clerks," to strike out "said" and after the word "clerks," to strike out the word "copyists;" and in line 24, after the word "salaries," to strike out "rates" and insert "or compensation;" so as to read:

Provided, That the number of clerks and others employed in the office of the register of wills shall not be increased, except that additional copyists may be employed for temporary service as the necessities of the office may require, nor shall the salary or compensation of clerks and others be increased beyond the salaries or compensation paid during the fiscal year 1891.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in section 1, on page 10, line 1, after the date "1891," to insert the following proviso:

Provided further, That a deputy register of wills, at a salary of $4,500, to be paid out of such fees and emoluments, is hereby authorized to be appointed as the register of wills, who shall hereafter, in the necessary absence or inability of the register from any cause, perform his duties without additional compensation.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 10, line 15, after the word "exceeding," to strike out "three thousand and six hundred" and insert "four thousand;" so as to read:

That the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia shall not hereafter retain of the fees and emoluments of his office for his personal compensation, over and above his necessary clerk hire and the incidental expenses of his office, certified to by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, or by one of its justices, appointed by it for that purpose, and to be audited and allowed by the proper accounting officers of the Treasury, a sum exceeding $4,000 a year, or exceeding that rate for any time less than a year; and the surplus of such fees and emoluments shall be paid into the Treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the same clause, in section 1, on page 10, line 19, after the word "clerks," to strike out "copyists;" in line 21, after the word "increased," to insert "except that additional copyists may be employed for temporary service as the necessities of the office may require;" in line 23, after the word "salary," to insert "or compensation;" in the same line, before the word "clerks," to strike out "said;" in line 24, after the word "clerks," to strike out "copyists;" in line 25, before the word "paid," to insert "or compensation;" and on page 11, line 1, after the date "1891," to insert "and the salary of the deputy recorder of deeds shall hereafter be $4,800 per annum;" so as to make the clause read:

Provided, That the number of clerks and others employed in the office of the recorder of deeds shall not be increased, except that additional copyists may be employed for temporary service as the necessities of the office may require, nor shall the salary or compensation of clerks and others be increased beyond the salaries or compensation paid during the fiscal year 1891, and the salary of the deputy recorder of deeds shall hereafter be $4,800 per annum.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 11, line 5, to increase the appropriation for compensation of "superintendent of charities" from "$2,500" to "$3,000."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations for "contingent expenses," in section 1, on page 11, line 11, after the word "records," to strike out "books and repairs of books for register of wills;" in line 18, after the words "sinking-fund office," to insert office of superintendent of charities;" and in line 19, before the word, "thousand," to strike out "twenty-four and insert "twenty-five;" so as to make the clause read:

For contingent expenses of the government of the District of Columbia, namely: For printing, checks, books, stationery, detection of frauds on the revenue, repairs of market houses, painting, binding, re-binding, repairing, and preservation of records, maintaining and keeping in good order the laboratory and apparatus in the offices of the inspector of gas and meters and inspector of asphalt and cement, damages, care of horses, not otherwise provided for, horseshoeing, fuel, ice, gas, repairs, insurance, repairs to potters and vehicles, and other general necessary expenses of District offices, including the sinking-fund office, office of superintendent of charities, health department, and police court, $25,000; and the Commissioners shall so appropriate this sum as to prevent a deficiency therein: Provided, That horses and vehicles appropriated for in this act shall be used only for official purposes.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 12, after line 9, to insert:

For rent of attorney's office, $100.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 13, to strike out the clause from line 1 to line 11, inclusive, as follows:

That whoever intends to present to Congress a petition or bill for an act of incorporation, or for an alteration or extension of the charter of a corporation in the District of Columbia, or for any special privileges in said District, shall give notice of such intention by publishing a copy of the petition or bill at least once a week for four successive weeks, in a newspaper published in the District of Columbia, the last of said publications to be made at least fourteen days prior to the presentation of such petition or bill. Such newspaper shall be designated by the petitioner and approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 13, line 15, before the word "dollars," to strike out "five thousand five hundred," and insert "eight thousand;" so as to make the clause read:

For advertising notice of taxes in arrear July 1, 1891, as required to be given by act of March 19, 1890, $8,000, to be reimbursed by a charge of $1.20 for each lot or piece of property advertised.

The amendment was agreed to.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 14, line 19, to increase the appropriation for "Southwest section schedule," from "$27,220" to "$54,440."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 14, line 22, to increase the appropriation for "Southeast section schedule," from "$38,070" to "$76,140."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 14, line 24, to increase the appropriation for "Northeast section schedule," from "$48,560" to "$97,120."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 4, on page 15, line 2, after the word "dollars," to insert the following proviso:

Provided, That the streets and avenues shall be completed in the order in which they appear in said schedules, except High street, so far as the amount of money herein appropriated shall suffice for the work, and the cost of widening High street, named in the Georgetown schedule, shall be charged to the Georgetown and Tonnallytown Railway Company of the District of Columbia and collected from said company in the same manner as the cost of laying down pavements, sewers, and other works, or repairing the same, lying between the exterior rails of the tracks of street railways, and for a distance of 2 feet from and exterior to such track or tracks on each side thereof, are collectible under the provisions of section 5 of the act entitled "An act providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia," approved June 11, 1878; and the act of August 22, 1888, entitled "An act to incorporate the Georgetown and Tonnallytown Railway Company of the District of Columbia," is hereby altered and amended so as to authorize and require such charge and collection.

Mr. MORGAN. I move to amend that amendment, in line 6, by inserting, after the word "schedule," the words "one-half of which."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 6 of the amendment of the committee, after the word "schedule," it is proposed to insert the words "one-half of which;" so as to read:

And the cost of widening High street, named in the Georgetown schedule, one-half of which shall be charged to the Georgetown and Tonnallytown Railway Company, etc.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. I ought to say in respect to this subject that when the committee had it under consideration they thought the whole of this expense should be charged to the Georgetown and Tonnallytown Railroad Company. Since that time I have ascertained that the company has made absolutely nothing in the way of income, and as far as I am concerned I am willing to let the matter go.

Mr. CULLOM. I hope it will be allowed, because my opinion is that the company is losing from $600 to $700 a month regularly.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, the thing that ought to be done is to require this company to take up its tracks and place them where they will not be the constant nuisance and menace which they are to-day to everybody who travels this great thoroughfare into the country. The right which this company got to spoil this road was gained in an insidious fashion, and some of us remember that when we returned to Washington one winter a few years ago the Tonnallytown road had been occupied by this company and its uses destroyed under a bill which none of us knew anything about. Since that time no man can send his family, his wife, or his children into the country by this road without the greatest danger of accident and loss of limb or life.

The intent of these companies, Mr. President, is by constant importunities before the committees of the House and the Senate to gradually absorb and occupy every avenue from this city into the country. They do not recognize any public rights in these great thoroughfares, and the Senate has been remiss in its duty in not watching and guarding the public interests against these corporations. I do not hold myself wholly free from blame in this regard, although I have sometimes, as Senators may think, "in season and out of season," protested against the gobbling up of the great streets and thoroughfares leading into the country by these companies, but it goes on from year to year, and although Washington is to be the great winter resort, the pride and satisfaction and comfort of a great people, soon to be one hundred millions in number, we are going to be encircled by these street railroad corporations so that it will not be possible for men or women or children to get into the country without great danger, as I have said, to life and limb from these railroads.

Senators know that already there are schemes here for cutting off the few avenues that remain to ourselves, to our friends, and our constituents: that the determination is to occupy and possess them all. I am glad to be able to say that the Committee on the District of Columbia has been awakened to the importance of this matter, and is looking to these things, and I commend to the chairman of that committee, who is a vigilant business man, and who knows what business is, the necessity for eternal vigilance on his part against the encroachments of these corporations. If he does not look out these matters will be smuggled through the committee, and will get through the Senate and the House at hours when nobody is paying attention, and we shall find every year the rights of the public curtailed and at last destroyed.

Now, this company is a chief sinner. It got its privileges and proceeded in a way that nobody knew anything about. It has got the most valuable franchise of all the roads that run into the country.

There are other roads that have put out thousands and tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars, who have been obliged to lay their tracks in such a way that it would not be unsafe to the public, because somebody had found out that the intention was to restrict them by amendments to their charters, which have to a degree prevented their doing this mischief; but this company has no such restriction. They went onto that road, a great thoroughfare, and destroyed it, and now because for a short distance—what is the distance they are required to pave?

Mr. STEWART. A little over a thousand feet.

Mr. HALE. A little over a thousand feet, a fifth of a mile; and because, without having paid a dollar for their franchise and contributed nothing to the public revenues, we ask that they shall be compelled to pave this thousand feet, which is only a small fractional part of their line, they come in with a declaration that they are not making money and that they only ought to pave half. Mr. President, they not only ought to be obliged to pave the whole of this, but they ought to be obliged to take their track up and lay it as some other companies that we have been watching and guarding are obliged to do.

But nobody asks that; no committee reports that; and when an amendment is put on here compelling them to do this little paving, all that they have ever done for the public and all that they have ever paid, then we are beset and importuned by agents and lawyers and lobbyists lurking in the pathway of Senators, who clamor at their doors and meet them at their committee rooms and in the corridors, and Senators are persuaded to give way, to yield to them.

Well, the Senate can do that, Mr. President, if they choose. I have done my duty in informing the Senate what this situation is. If the Senate choose to give up to this company and cut the amount down which the committee reported this company should pay, I can not hinder it. I have done what I think is right in notifying the Senate, and I certainly, for one, shall not vote to reduce this amount one-half, whatever may be the action of the Senate.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, it has been about thirty years since the people in that neighborhood and on that road have been clamoring for some conveniences in the way of a street railroad leading from Georgetown out towards Rockville, in Maryland. Some gentlemen who had more intrepidity about this matter than they had money, I suppose, to back them with, induced a large number of citizens of this city to make contributions in the way of subscriptions to the stock for getting this railway established. They came to Congress; they have been here twice; two bills have passed upon this subject, having gone before the Committee on the District of Columbia and been thoroughly examined, and their charter has been amended since it was first granted, and no provision has been inserted of the kind that is now presented on a bill of appropriations.

Well, I think that after all this is rather a harsh way of legislation. The legislation of itself is simply destructive of the railroad. We have granted the privilege; these people have put their money in there; and now, upon a bill of appropriations, to take this subject up and give no chance for consideration, and no chance to answer at all, and bring in an amendment of this kind to the bill, is harsh legislation. I think that the whole provision ought to go off this appropriation bill and go to the Committee on the District of Columbia and let them investigate it.

I am not prepared to accept the very earnest and intense statement of the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] on this question. I think the Senator is very widely mistaken about it. I think he is very much mistaken in respect of the men who are concerned in this road, or of their having in any degree or at any time insidiously got an act of Congress passed for their benefit. The truth is, they were making a very risky venture in putting any money in the enterprise at all. This matter has been twice investigated by the Committee on the District of Columbia. The company have got their charter, and this proposition is merely to amend or repeal the charter on a bill of appropriations.

Now, the company can live at one-half of this cost, but they can not live if they have to pay it all. It is pretty bloody sort of work to get a set of people to invest their money in a railway of this kind, and then come in on a bill of appropriations and destroy them. This is going to be the effect of it. I am informed that the railroad company can get along with one-half of this, having to tax their own pockets for the purpose of doing it, and having no chance to get it out of the community.

So I think the Senator from Maine ought not to make the objection after bringing in this amendment here. He ought to be satisfied with one-half now. If that is not enough, let the Committee on the District of Columbia take up the subject and amend the charter. That is the way to do it. The only power we have got over them is to amend it or repeal it, and let the matter come up in some form where these gentlemen can have a chance to be heard.

The Senator complains that lobbyists and lawyers and friends of railroad schemes are around the Capitol. Who else have they got to represent them in this place? What government have they got to represent them? What voice have the people here got in any government of theirs? If the right of petition and the right to see Senators and to talk with them and explain to the Committee on the District of Columbia and the Committee on Appropriations is cut off from them, then they are helpless, they have no chance to say a word or do anything. They can not make an appeal through any local authority at all. The local authorities in the city of Washington are not under the control of the people in the slightest degree and not responsible to them. They sit in judgment upon their rights and destroy them at will and pleasure; they carry out their own schemes and purposes of government doubtless with good intent, but at the same time it is a cruel method of administering law in an American community.

I hope the Committee on Appropriations will not take upon itself now to amend all the charters of railway companies in the District of Columbia. I have noticed here in the last four or five years that whatever has been done in respect of the amendment of railroad charters or a change of plan, traction, and the like of that, has been done by the Committee on Appropriations, and we have to submit to it because we can not get any appropriation unless we take the wishes of that committee in regard to a proposed improvement or the repeal or the amendment of a charter.

So I think we ought to go moderately about this. While the Senator from Maine doubtless has some good reason for every statement he has made here, I think it would appear that the men who are concerned in this railroad are about as honorable a set of men as there are in this country, just about as good as Washington City can afford, and if they have to be urgent and attentive to their interests it is only because they have got no other chance in the world of being heard.

I hope the amendment will be allowed to stand.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, as a matter of course, whenever the District of Columbia appropriation bill comes up we have the same old discussion in regard to self-government here and corporations. It is hardly necessary to observe that there are two very distinct sides to this question.

I never belonged to the class of legislators who believe that corporations deserve no consideration at the hands of Congress or Legislatures, but I believe they ought to be treated exactly like private individuals, made to observe the law, to assume their portion of the public burdens, and also receive their portion of the public benefits. But it seems to me that, in regard to this matter, it makes no difference what we say here in this bill; the railroads will do exactly as they please, and our experience in the past shows it.

Here is a provision that if the company do not comply with this law, the amount necessary shall be "collectible under the provisions of section 5 of the act entitled 'An act providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia, approved June 11, 1878,'" and the legislation in regard to laying down pavements, etc., between the external tracks of the railroads. I remember very distinctly some years ago that we had a protracted contest over the question of forcing these railroads in the city of Washington to put their tracks down level with the surface of the streets, which is required in every other city in the United States, in order that their rails should make no obstruction to vehicles. It was finally passed here after a long debate, and I call the attention of the Senate to-day to the fact that the Belt Line in this city has paid no more attention to it than if the act had never been passed.

Two of the railroad companies have complied with it so far as I know, but the Belt Line, that runs entirely around the city, so far as my knowledge extends—and I ride upon it every day going to and coming from my residence—has paid no more attention to it than if Congress had never passed the law, and the officers of the District of Columbia have made no attempt, so far as I am informed, to enforce the law at all, just as if, in so many words, they were saying the railroad company cares nothing for an act of Congress, and will do as it pleases. My experience teaches me that they do not propose to obey the law unless they see proper to do it.

If we continue in this line of legislation, as I have noticed here for the last ten years, there will not be a street in this entire city that will not be in possession of some railroad company. The chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia informed me this morning that there were over twenty bills now pending before that committee for constructing street railroads here, all of them speculative enterprises, and the railroad tracks proposed to be laid down upon streets from 30 to 32 feet wide, where the construction of such railway tracks absolutely destroys the street for any other purposes than the purposes of the railroad, making property upon both sides of it almost untenable; and yet these bills slip through Congress in some sort of way, and the first thing those of us who own property here or live here know is that we wake up some morning and find the street torn to pieces and a railroad being constructed of which we never heard before. So it seems to me that it is "mere leather and prunella" whether we pass this provision of the present bill or not.

I shall take the course indicated by the Senator from Maine

[Mr. HALE], with my present information, being under the impression that the railroad company afterwards, no matter what we do, will do exactly what it pleases.

Mr. HALE. Does not the Senator think it is worth while for the Senate, before adopting that fatalistic view, to make a few more efforts, or one more effort at least, to see if we can not stand up against the corporations?

Mr. VEST. I will stay with the Senator from Maine to the last ditch, but I do not expect any other result than what we have had.

Mr. CULLOM. I agree with the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] and with the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] on the question of legislation. I desire to say that on one occasion since the road in question has been built, I became very much outraged by finding myself involved almost in a runaway with a carriage team, on account of an electric car on that road. I felt that certainly the track had been put there without authority. I could not imagine that the Congress of the United States would deliberately pass a bill authorizing any railroad company to put a track down in the middle of the ordinary traveled road. Hence I felt that the railroad company was greatly to blame for the condition; but on inquiry and examination it turned out that we had authorized all this, and if there is anybody to blame about it it certainly is the Congress of the United States. I have two of the acts which have been passed—I do not know whether these are all or not—first the act incorporating the Georgetown and Tennyaltown Railway Company of the District of Columbia. After reciting the names of the corporators, the act proceeds:

Created a body corporate under the name of the Georgetown and Tennyaltown Railway Company of the District of Columbia, with authority to construct and lay down a single or double track railway, with necessary switches, turn-outs, and other mechanical devices for operating the same by cable or electric power for carrying passengers in the District of Columbia, from the Potomac River near High street, to, and along High street in Georgetown to the Tennyaltown road, but wholly outside of the limits of said road, and along the side of the said road to the District line.

Now, whether the track was put down under that act or under another act that was passed on the 24th of March, 1890, I am not advised.

Mr. ALLISON. Will the Senator yield to me a moment?

Mr. CULLOM. Yes.

Mr. ALLISON. The original act from which the Senator has just read provided for a track on High street. High street is a very narrow street, the roadway between Georgetown and Tennyaltown.

Mr. VEST. What is the width?

Mr. ALLISON. It is a very narrow street. I do not remember what is the width of it. I do not think it exceeds 60 feet, perhaps not over 54 feet. It is a narrow street, extending entirely through the city of Georgetown and beyond that to the summit of the hill, where it intersects the Tennyaltown road.

By that first act the company was authorized to build in the middle of that street or anywhere they saw proper, and they did construct a railroad in the center of the street until they reached the Tennyaltown road. Then the original act required that when they reached the Tennyaltown road, they should build their track outside of the Tennyaltown road. The subsequent act which the Senator from Illinois now has in his hand, was passed on the 24th of March, 1890, which authorized them to build, not outside of the Tennyaltown road, but in the Tennyaltown road. So the charter was modified in their interest from the point of intersection of High street and the Tennyaltown road.

The point in question here is a little portion of the road between the Tennyaltown road and the city of Georgetown, wherein the Commissioners of the District of Columbia have discovered that, as a matter of fact the road is, as they believe, 120 feet wide, but it is fenced up, so that it is a narrow lane. Now, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia desire to widen so much of High street as will bring High street to the point of Thirty-fifth street, which is now a paved road through its entire length, a road that has asphalt up to the point where this intersection is proposed by this amendment. It will cost a considerable sum of money to widen that road, and the Committee on Appropriations believed, after such examination as they were able to give it, that the Georgetown and Tennyaltown Railroad Company should pay the whole expense, because they had placed their tracks in such a way as to destroy this road practically, as they have.

Mr. MORGAN. They placed the track according to law.

Mr. ALLISON. Undoubtedly the law authorized them to do just what they have done.

Mr. HALE. The Senator will bear in mind that in the organic law specific provision is made that the charter may be changed at any time.

Mr. MORGAN. I know that.

Mr. CULLOM. I have only a word more to say.

Mr. ALLISON. I beg the Senator's pardon. I believe he has the floor.

Mr. CULLOM. It is all right. The chairman of the committee has said much of what I intended to say myself, and has said it better than I could have done, and I am very glad of it.

I confess when this subject was up in committee I voted that the railroad company should pay the whole cost of that provision in the bill, but I was not as familiar then with the law that controlled the subject under which the tracks were built as I am now. I confess that it would seem to me a little hard, perhaps, for a company that has not violated any law that I know of, and which is losing money, as this company seems to be doing, to be required to incur the whole expense provided in the amendment reported by the Committee on Appropriations; and while I shall go with the committee, I am perfectly willing myself that the Senate shall adopt the amendment proposed by the Senator from Alabama.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] has a general complaint to make about railroad legislation and railroad procedure here in this town. I expect it is very just; but at the same time a great deal of the fault of this matter rests upon Congress, and I do not know but that the whole of it rests upon Congress. But the Senator from Missouri, I think, has not stated, and perhaps he will not state, that this railroad company has not complied exactly with the statutes of the United States upon this question.

If the people who took stock in the railroad company to enable the company to build the road had known that Congress, after the railroad had been laid down, would place upon that company or upon that road a burden which would be impossible for it to bear, they certainly never would have put their money in there; and it is the people who have built the railroad by taking stock and paying for their subscriptions who are affected by this legislation. It is very harsh and very wrong. It is true we have the power to amend or repeal this charter, and this provision in this appropriation bill proposes to do that. But we know that that is not a fair way of proceeding, to repeal charters or to amend charters. Men have no notice; they can not bring forward the facts or the circumstances to the attention of the proper committee, the Committee on the District of Columbia, to look into this matter and to ascertain what were all the circumstances.

Now, I am not advised, while I am advocating this amendment, whether this road, or any part of it, is upon an embankment, or whether it is through a cut, or on a level. My impression is that that part of High street, in the center of the street through which this road passes, according to the provision of the act of Congress, is precisely in the location we authorized the company to put it. The widening of a street, either by making a deep cut or a fill is a very difficult work, and I am not certain but both have to be done. Perhaps some Senator can inform me about that.

Mr. McMILLAN. Mr. President, I have given this matter some little attention; in fact I introduced a bill here for the opening of Thirty-seventh street for the purpose of enabling people driving in carriages with their families to escape this dangerous track that had been built there on High street. When the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations spoke to me about the arrangement which he proposed to make to widen this street so as to connect with Thirty-fifth street and avoid to a great extent the travel on this narrow part of the road, I thought it was a very fair proposition to ask this company to pay this small amount. It is only for a short distance, and it does not affect their main line down in the city. It can not cost a great deal of money. The charter is a very valuable charter, and, though the road may not pay now, it will pay hereafter.

Mr. VEST. How much will it cost to do this work?

Mr. McMILLAN. I can not tell exactly, because they have to widen the street, but there is no heavy work to be done there. After this company obtained its charter, built the road on this narrow street and built the road up High street, they never fixed the street at all, but they left it just as it was. They never leveled the street at all. The result is that a man driving there has to go right into a ditch to get rid of the cars. If the company had treated the public a little differently, leveled the road and made it possible for carriages to pass over it, I have no doubt the people of Georgetown and the people of Washington would not have had so much fault to find with it. But now it is actually impassable. This piece of road provided for in the bill is not a very great distance. I do not think it will be a very great hardship for this company to be asked to pay the expense.

Mr. MORGAN. I understand under the provisions of the bill it will cost $26,000.

Mr. ALLISON. That is the estimate.

Mr. McMILLAN. I would say in that connection that the District Committee have decided that hereafter these country roads shall be protected and that no company shall be chartered, if the committee can prevent it, unless it has its right of way entirely free from the roadway which has been laid out.

Mr. HALE. That is right.

Mr. CULLOM. I hope the District Committee will protect the streets somewhat, as well.

Mr. McMILLAN. We are going to do that if we can.

Mr. CULLOM. That has not been done heretofore.

Mr. MORGAN. There is another question about this matter. The private owners, I am informed, on either side of this street have been permitted for thirty or forty years to encroach upon it, and perhaps to the extent of 40 or 50 feet have appropriated the public land of the city of Georgetown to their own private purposes, and yet we find these men are to escape entirely from all the punishment which we are inflicting upon the Tennallytown Railroad, and the whole matter is to be dumped upon that corporation, I suppose, because it is a corporation; but that corporation represents only the people of this District who have subscribed their money to it, and I insist again that it is a very great hardship to require them to take upon themselves the whole expense of rectifying that which the Congress of the United States has permitted to take place there in the way of the encroachment of private owners upon that street.

If the encroachments of these private owners had been removed, or if they had been compelled to go back to their proper lines heretofore, there would have been no difficulty, perhaps, about this street at all, but it would have been wide enough and good enough for the accommodation of the public. They are the people who brought this hardship upon the railroad company and upon the community. I think the committee ought to proceed at least now on the line that I suggest, and if Congress think proper let them put one-half the expense upon this railroad company, but let us see if, on a proper adjustment of this matter, the owners of the adjacent lots, who have made these encroachments, ought not themselves to bear at least one-half of this burden.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN], who is chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia, and largely intrusted by the Senate to see that the rights of the public are maintained, and also that the corporations shall have their fair treatment, has told the whole story about this matter.

Mr. MORGAN. He has not said anything about these encroachments of private owners on that road, I understand. Has the Senator from Michigan made any mention of that?

Mr. McMILLAN. No; I have not.

Mr. MORGAN. That is a very important matter.

Mr. HALE. The railroad company, when it got this charter, which nobody would father, built the road in the most reckless defiance of public rights, ran its track through the center of the narrow street, and did not even look to the care and safety of the street. Whoever has gone along since over this way has been obliged to run into the ditch, as the Senator from Michigan has said.

Now, if it is found that this road, over which this company got its charter, has a width ample to protect the public. It is to be opened and paved, and all that is asked here is that this company with this valuable franchise shall do now precisely what, if any attention had been called to it at the time, it would have been compelled to do at first, that is, pave this street. Can anybody give any reason why it should not?

All that has been said is that it seems hard that it should pay the whole, and that therefore we had better let up on it; because it is not making any money now that we should ask it to pay but half. If it is hard that these corporations should pay the whole, it is hard that they should pay half. They have got, as the Senator from Michigan has said, a very valuable franchise, and whether they are making money or not now, they were glad to put their money in there, and in the end it will be one of the most valuable properties about Washington.

Mr. MORGAN. I will state to the Senator from Maine that, while it may be true that it may hereafter be very valuable property, it will be after these people have been driven out who are not able to hold it and pay $26,000, and a new company can come in and absorb this, and perhaps that is the bottom of the whole business.

Mr. HALE. Contrast the treatment which this company has had which is now importuning Congress that it shall not pave this little part of the road which it occupies—contrast its treatment with that of so many other companies. When the Rock Creek Railroad Company was chartered, we obliged that company to find its own right of way, to condemn lands, to pay the value of them, do its own grading, let the public streets alone, and gave them no avenues, and we put upon that company burdens of hundreds of thousands of dollars compared with what this company has had to bear.

Mr. McMILLAN. If the Senator will allow me, the bridge alone that that company has built at Rock Creek must have cost $130,000 or $140,000.

Mr. HALE. I am obliged to the Senator.

Mr. McMILLAN. We granted a charter at the last Congress to build a railroad from the other side of the Potomac at Arlington, near the Three Sisters, in which we compelled the company to build a bridge across the Potomac that will cost $200,000 at least.

Mr. HALE. Precisely. Any one of these items that we have obliged other companies to expend in the way of bridges will six times swamp the little sum that is asked of this company now for paving this street which it has destroyed; and yet this company comes in and finds its advocates here to declare that it is hard that we should oblige it to pay the whole of this sum of $26,000, when we oblige other companies to build bridge after bridge, costing from $100,000 to $200,000 each.

Mr. MORGAN. I wish to call the attention of the Senator from Maine to the concluding proviso in the act of March 24, 1890:

And provided further, That said railway shall be located on such side of the roadway as may be indicated by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The whole jurisdiction was placed in the hands of the Commissioners. What have the Commissioners been doing?

Mr. HALE. All of these acts have that provision. They followed the letter of the law. There is no doubt about that. As somebody has said here, why should we oblige this company to pay this money when they have not violated the law? They got this law through to the surprise of everybody, and nobody will father it. They then come in and want to take advantage of their own wrong. Undoubtedly the provisions of the bill that Congress passed looked out for these people, because they drew the bill themselves; and it is no answer, when we are seeking to subject them, not to hardship but to an ordinary burden in the course of the transaction of public business, that we shall take this matter in hand, as we are permitted to do by the terms of the act, and vary this charter at any time.

It is to me a wonder, Mr. President—like the Senator from Missouri I ought to be more fatalistic and cease to wonder—that whenever any attempt is made to make a railroad corporation in the District of Columbia contribute its portion to the public burdens, it finds advocates here who declare it is not fair, when here are a thousand feet or less of road that this company has heretofore ruined, which we seek to make it put in order, so that the public can travel over it, and Senators declare that it is hard on this company to oblige them to do it.

Instead of discussing this question we ought to be discussing the question of whether this company shall not be obliged to take up its tracks entirely and find its roadway outside of the street, as we have obliged other companies to do. This has been a favorite company. No company has had the favors that this has. It was allowed to select its avenues, the choicest and best leading into the country, run its line through them, destroy their use, and oblige men to go off elsewhere so as to get out into the country. Here is an opportunity to make the evil less, and this great company is asked to pave part of the roadway to the extent of twenty-five or twenty-six thousand dollars.

Senators say it is hard to make them pay more than $13,000. I do not see the difference. If we are going to exempt this company, if we are going to wait until they begin to make money, and do not ask them to pay anything until then, let us do all the paying for them. If they are not paying dividends, when their track needs repairs, let Congress furnish the new rails, and if their funds are not enough to pay their officers and employees, then let Congress pay them, because it is hard for them to pay their employees! Let us help them! There is no end to this. The truth is it ought to end here. The company ought to be glad to get off with paying this small sum.

The Senator from Michigan, who is vigilant in looking after these things, and who knows all about this matter, voices his committee in saying what ought to be done here. I hope the Senate will stand by the action of the committee.

Mr. MORGAN. I do not think that there is any more impropriety in advocating what a Senator thinks is a just thing on this floor than there is for a Senator to get up here and lampoon Congress and plead the baby act on what we have enacted solemnly and deliberately. I think Congress is perfectly able to take care of the District of Columbia at all events; it has been compelled to do it very much against what I think is the best policy, to be adopted in regard to the government of this city, at least the American policy, if not the best.

The Committee on Appointments seems to have taken charge of all this business of reforming all the laws of corporations, charters, and the like, in the District of Columbia. Why not leave it to the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] and his committee, allow that matter to come before that committee, and let it have a fair investigation and debate on this floor without voting it on appropriation bills?

Mr. HALE. The Senator knows, by the rules of the Senate, that the question of appropriations for these streets, the paving of them, and all that, is found and settled upon the District appropriation bill.

Mr. MORGAN. Not always.

Mr. HALE. That is the rule, and in this case the Committee on Appropriations is backed up by the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. MORGAN. Let the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia bring his bill in here and let us have a proper discussion of it without the embarrassment of its being attached to an appropriation bill. That is the fair way to do the thing, not proposed to amend or alter the charter upon accusations which, I am informed, are not correct. I am so informed by gentlemen of very high respectability, and I know personally many persons in this city have taken stock in this railroad company because they thought it was a fair investment. It has never paid a cent of dividends, may never pay a cent of dividends, and the result of this legislation, I think, will be simply to break up this company and transfer it into the hands of some speculators. That is not infrequently done here.

The harsh legislation of Congress prohibits men to make fair and just investments upon the merits of property like this, and prohibits them from enjoying the benefits of their investment by putting burdens upon them that they can not afford, by reason of which they are compelled to sell out their stock, go into bankruptcy and liquidation, and the property passes into the hands of somebody else.

This seems to be, according to the opinion of the Senator from Maine, a very valuable corporation, and yet it will be in the hands of people who can not hold it if these enormous burdens are put upon it. Here is a judgment of condemnation; here is a fine, and nothing but a fine, imposed upon this company for some dereliction that the Senator from Maine thinks he has discovered, perhaps when his carriage horses may have been scared in passing over this road.

The Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] is very much distressed because some morning he may wake up and find a street-car line progressing through the city of Washington. That may be, Mr. President, but after all there is nothing that contributes as much to the happiness and comfort and health and welfare of the common population of this city and of the great number of visitors, too, who do not happen to have large sums of money in their hands, as this street-railway system. While it is a system to be regulated, it is nevertheless a system to be encouraged.

It is the poor man's way of getting through the town, and I think there is scarcely a road, not even that Belt line that the Senator from Missouri says has its tracks above the level of the streets, that could be dispensed with without inconvenience to a very large number of people who need this assistance. I have never seen a community in my life where there was as few enormously rich men and such a vast mass of poor people as there are in Washington City. They are drawn here by the invitation of the Government to hold minor offices and the like, in the employ of the Government of the United States, to educate their children, etc., and we have a very large number of impecunious people. They are an industrious people, a good people, for I do not believe that the streets of any city of America, or in the world, present as little that is offensive to the people who pass along them at any time of the night or day as Washington City. According to the outside appearance of it, according to what happens here night and day, we would call it one of the best regulated and one of the most moral cities in the world. There is no question of that.

It is the most orderly city I ever saw. So then, in contributing to the welfare and the happiness and the comfort of this people, we are not violating any of the great laws of government or the proprieties of legislation. Congress has to give due consideration to all these measures. This subject has been twice before Congress, and these provisions have been put into the statutes with care, and I maintain that they have been put into them without lobbying and without any incorrect operations on the part of the persons interested.

The fact is I do not believe any bill of this character or any bill of any other character passes through the Senate of the United States in consequence of its being lobbied. I have never seen a bill passed here that I thought had the least touch of dishonesty about it, and it does not become us to get up here and plead that an act has been surreptitiously passed, then surreptitiously amended, that lobbyists have been about, that Congress has been asleep, and that Senators have not been paying attention to the public interests, have not been taking care of the general welfare of the people. I can not be induced to vote upon a hypothesis of that sort against or for any measure. I must take what is recorded in the statutes of the United States as having been honestly and honorably put there.

These people have built there, they have spent their money upon the foundations that we have laid for them. Here are your Commissioners of the District of Columbia, who are authorized expressly by the proviso to this last act of 1890, to indicate where this line of road shall be put. Now, what have they been doing? I do not hear that they are arraigned here for neglect of duty. Doubtless their attention was called to this subject. Senators say that that provision is in every such bill.

Mr. ALLISON. That discretion given to the Commissioners applies to that portion of the road lying west of the junction of the Tennallytown road, and does not include the portion of the road that is now under debate.

Mr. MORGAN. Well, Mr. President, if I am incorrect about the part of the road to which this proviso refers—

Mr. ALLISON. I am speaking about the act of the 24th of March, 1890.

Mr. MORGAN. At the same time the Commissioners have made no complaint here of this company. They have had the duty resting upon them. I do not hear of any report of the Commissioners condemning it or saying that the company has placed the road in the wrong place, that it obstructed the highway or is impeding travel. Nothing of that sort has been done, and I claim this is very harsh and surprising legislation. If this had come in the form of a bill reported and placed upon the Calendar, somebody would have attended here, evidence would have been produced to have brought the correct information before the Senate of the United States, but the first we hear of it, it originates in the Appropriations Committee room.

No amendment was offered to this bill in the Senate and sent to the committee, but it is the work of the committee itself, with no notice given, no opportunity for defense; and yet because I arise here and say in my opinion this is harsh legislation and unjust in its character, the Senator from Maine rather impeaches me for being always ready to cry out hardship in favor of a corporation.

No, Mr. President, I have as little to do with corporations as any man in the world. I have as much desire and have as frequently tried to put the hand of control upon them as any man in this body, according to my feeble ability. I have been instant "in season and out of season" to try to control the corporations here. I have not been hand in glove with any of these great arrangements by which this city or any part of the United States is controlled, with national banks, or any of the plans of the great corporations of this country.

On the contrary, while I have been willing to do them justice, I have been in a sense inimical to them; that is to say, I have been always anxious that they should have no more power than was absolutely necessary to carry on such part of their functions as made for the general welfare of the people. I feel no embarrassment in the world in getting up here and asking the committee who have originated in this appropriation bill this new measure of appeal, which has never been before the legitimate committee of the District of Columbia for a hearing—I feel no embarrassment in saying that this is a harsh fine to place upon a company that is unable to bear it, and I merely ask that the committee, with all their great powers, will have a little mercy, and at all events postpone one-half of this amendment, one-half of this fine, one-half of this penalty, until the subject can be looked into. I have only had an hour to study it, or less time even than that. At the same time my information comes from sources that I do not discredit in the slightest degree. I believe just as much in the statement made to me about this as in the statements of any person in the world.

Mr. HALE. Has the Senator the act from which he was reading a moment ago?

Mr. MORGAN. I have.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Mr. PLATT in the chair. The present occupant of the chair understands that the amendment proposed by the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] to the amendment of the committee was announced as agreed to.

Mr. MORGAN. It was.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. And the announcement was made that the amendment of the committee as thus amended was agreed to.

Mr. HALE. The discussion has proceeded upon the assumption that no vote had been taken.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If it is the desire of the Senate that the amendment of the committee shall be considered open, as well as the amendment of the Senator from Alabama, the Chair will so rule; otherwise there is nothing before the Senate.

Mr. HALE. The discussion has proceeded, as I said, upon the assumption that the subject was still open. I did not know that any vote had been declared.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no objection, the amendment of the Senator from Alabama will be regarded as pending to the amendment of the committee, and both will be considered open.

Mr. HARRIS. Both amendments remain open, the committee amendment and the amendment proposed to it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It will be so considered.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, this is no question between the people who use these roads and anybody else. The company has got its charter and built its road in a way that has been described, and now, as an incident to this privilege, finds not suddenly—for this company is not taken unawares; it is not fighting for the people—it finds, as an incident to the great privilege which it has got, that a certain portion of its track needs to be paved for the convenience of the whole public. There is no surprise to this company in this. This condition might occur at any time. The company all the time must take notice. If next year it should be found that another piece of the road that this company occupies needs to be paved and the company has neglected to pave it, the Committee on Appropriations would have to put it on the bill, because by the rules of the Senate that committee takes charge of roads and appropriations for paving, and always decides what part shall be paid by the public and what part by the companies, what part by the nation and what part by the District.

So there is no surprise here. I do not need to repeat and I do not want to repeat what has already been said. It is a small sum. It is not to be compared with what we put upon other companies. The company ought to be glad to get off as cheaply as this.

Mr. FAULKNER. I will ask the Senator, who is a member of the Committee on Appropriations, whether there has been any consideration by that committee of the cost of this work and the probable effect upon this corporation if the entire amount of this liability is thrown upon it.

Mr. HALE. The committee has no expectation or fear from its investigation that the payment of this small sum of anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000 (it has been stated at $26,000, but I do not think it will cost that) will be any serious mischief to these people. It is not a large sum compared with their plant and compared with their resources. It is not a burdensome thing. If we were putting a half million dollars on this company, or if we were obliging them to take up their tracks and find their own right of way, as the Rock Creek Company had to do, it might be said we were interfering with their existence and that we were seeking to stomp the breath of life out of the company; but it is not anything of that kind.

It is an incident of their occupation and their privilege, and I notify the committee that next year if it is found that another portion of the road that they occupy ought to be paved, it is within the jurisdiction of Congress to provide that they shall pave it. It will not be very hard if they have to do it. This other road had to do all its grading, buy its land, and spend hundreds of thousand of dollars. It had to build bridges. They did not come in and ask that we should build them. They paid the bills.

Mr. FRYE. Do you require here that they shall pave anything more than the roadway?

Mr. HALE. Nothing more than in the midst of the street.

Mr. FAULKNER. I think the Rock Creek road, as the Senator has said, has done an immense service to this city.

Mr. HALE. And has spent an immense amount of money.

Mr. FAULKNER. It has spent, I think, thus far, between $400,000 and $500,000 in its improvements. But the Senator must take into consideration also, when he examines into the question, that where these companies spend large amounts which would not be justified by reason of the patronage that they receive in the transportation of passengers, they have ulterior ends which necessarily affect private interests of their own. They own large bodies of land there, and they could afford probably to make a very large expenditure which would not be reimbursed by the return from the passenger travel of the road but in the building up and enhancing of the value of the property through which the road runs, which is owned mostly by themselves. At the time the Rock Creek road was chartered there was no road laid out.

I am perfectly willing to vote for what is fair and just in reference to this matter, but I think that we ought to be satisfied that we are not doing an injustice to this corporation. I think in some instances we have done injustice to them. We have required corporations, and I voted myself in favor of it, to pay judgments which were declared null and void by the Supreme Court of the United States. We required them to pay a large amount of money, and yet I thought the equities were in favor of the District, and I voted even in a case of that kind to require them to pay it. We have also required the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company to expend, I suppose, not less than $3,000,000 to give greater facilities to the people by a better road along Pennsylvania avenue and connected with it. Wherever the expenditures are at all equal to the receipts or will benefit the road and also the District and will not operate too harshly upon them I am in favor of perfecting the service of street railways. I believe that the Metropolitan and the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Companies have complied with the law in reference to laying the rails on a level with the surface of the street, and in every other respect I believe those roads are complying with the provisions of law.

Mr. HALE. Now, let me ask the Senator a question. He has large familiarity with the management of this District from his valuable service on the District Committee. Will the Senator inform the Senate, while Congress has been obliging these other roads to pay thousands and tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands and millions of dollars for the public convenience up to this day, what has Congress required this company to pay?

Mr. FAULKNER. I know of no instance in which Congress has required any railroad company to pave a street except between the rails and two feet on either side. I do not know of any instance in which Congress has required any corporation to which it has granted a privilege similar to this, to grade a street if the grade was established at the time the corporation was granted the privilege of using the street.

Mr. HALE. No; but it has obliged them to do other things in the way of adopting a certain method of motive power. It has obliged them to build bridges entirely at their own expense, involving sums of money, ten and twenty and thirty times larger than this amount, and this is the first that has been asked of this company.

Mr. FAULKNER. In the case of the Rock Creek road that was not required by Congress, but it was asked as a privilege by the corporation when it applied to Congress for the franchise which it obtained. The bill which was presented on behalf of that corporation had all those provisions in it. There was no street then laid out through which they desired to run, and they had to grade the street in order to accomplish the purposes which they had in view. They had provided in that very bill when it was presented that the bridge over Rock Creek should be paid for by the company. I do not know of an instance in which, after the franchise has been granted, a regrading even has been charged to the corporation that had the privilege of running upon the street.

Yet that consideration will not affect my vote. If this matter has been properly investigated and it is not too severe a tax upon this corporation, I should be willing to go with the Committee on Appropriations; but when we required the Washington and Georgetown road to lay down the cable system, to change its motive power, to change its rails, as we did the Metropolitan road, we investigated thoroughly as to the ability of both those corporations to do it, as to their capacity to stand under the tax to be imposed upon them; and having once become satisfied of that we then determined to bring up the roads to the very highest state of efficiency.

Mr. HALE. That involved some millions of dollars.

Mr. FAULKNER. Three million dollars, at least, in the case of the Georgetown road.

Mr. VEST. While we are upon this question I should like to have some information from the District of Columbia Committee. I wish to ask the Senator from West Virginia, while the committee has made this and that road comply with the law, why it is that the B & O Line have never been compelled to do it? They can never observe that law any more than if they were not under the jurisdiction of Congress.

Mr. FAULKNER. I do not know anything in reference to the B & O Line. I never traveled over it, and I do not know whether they have complied with the law or not. I assume that they have not done so from what the Senator from Missouri has said.

Mr. VEST. I travel on it every day.

Mr. FAULKNER. But I desire to state for myself and not for the Committee on the District of Columbia that it is our province and duty to pass legislation, not to execute the laws. There are other persons whose function it is to see that the laws passed by Congress are properly executed. That does not belong to the District Committee. I did not know there was any violation of the provisions of law in reference to that question by the Belt Line, but I assume that it is true from what the Senator says.

Mr. President, before I am willing to vote for this amendment of the Committee on Appropriations I should like to be satisfied, as that question has been raised by the Senator from Alabama, whether it would really be almost equivalent to the confiscation of this company's property.

Mr. HALE. Let me ask the Senator whether he supposes that the expenditure of anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000 by this corporation would be in anyway a death blow to the company? It seems to me that the Senator himself, who is a lawyer, a man of business, and an experienced legislator, can not have in his mind any fear lurking about that this provision is intended or will result as a serious mischief to this company's organization.

Mr. FAULKNER. I am frank to say that I can not answer that question to my satisfaction or that of the Senate.

Mr. MORGAN. I can answer that question upon the information of a gentleman in whose veracity I have perfect reliance, that it would be what the Senator from Maine has said, a death blow to the present organization.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 2729) to amend an act entitled "An act to establish circuit courts of appeals, and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdictions of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes."

Mr. ALLISON. I ask that the unfinished business be laid aside informally for the purpose of proceeding with the appropriation bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there be no objection, the unfinished business will be informally laid aside, and the consideration of the appropriation bill will be proceeded with. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. FAULKNER. I think, when the Committee on Appropriations come forward with this amendment, they ought to be ready themselves to answer specific questions put by Senators who have examined to some extent at least into this matter, and who assert that it will be equivalent to the confiscation of the franchise and rights of this company. They ought to be able to state to the Senate that it will not prejudicially affect the company.

Mr. HALE. I have no doubt whatever upon that subject. The committee had no belief that it was going to interfere seriously with the company.

Mr. FAULKNER. But has the Senator from Maine examined into the financial condition of this corporation to ascertain that fact?

Mr. HALE. If this company is in a condition now where this slight burden for the public use is going to bankrupt it and throw it out of business, it will be bankrupted and go out of business from other cause. If this simple item is going to destroy it, then it is a failing company and can not maintain itself, and Congress will never find itself able to deal with a corporation to put a reasonable burden upon it without being confronted by the declaration of somebody interested in the company that that very act will cause the ruin of the company. This is a chimera. It is not an actual fear. I do not say that the Senator from West Virginia and the Senator from Alabama do not have these doubts about it; I am not impugning their sincerity, but the officers of the company have no fear of it. This company that is running the cars and getting public benefits increasing its property every year, which will be a great corporation with valuable property, is not going to be harmed by being obliged to pave these few hundred feet. It is not in that condition, and I repeat, if it is in that condition we can not help it.

Mr. FAULKNER. I wish to say that I know nothing about this matter. My only information is what the Senator from Alabama and the Senator from Maine have stated. I have no other information whatever. But I desire, in justification of myself and also of the District Committee, to say that any imputation by the Senator from Maine that the act was lobbied through originally, or that there was any improper course adopted either in committee or in the Senate in the passage of the bill originally, is an entire misapprehension upon his part as to the condition under which that act was passed.

Mr. HALE. All I said, which I firmly believe, is not that there was anything improper or any shade or approach of corruption, but that there was negligence on the part of the Senate generally in not looking into it. I know when we came back here and found that this company had taken possession of the street we had a discussion of it, and I could not find any Senator who knew that they had a right to do that; and they had afterwards to get an act through giving them authority to go into the middle of the street, as they claim, although the very act that they got through here to enable them to do this says at the close that—

Said railway shall be located on such side of the roadway as may be indicated by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

I think it was the impression—I think the chairman of the committee had that impression—that this road would not be built right through the middle of the street, but that it would be on one side, out of the way. The Senator himself may have known about this, and may have followed it up, but if so he is the first Senator I have ever found who was ready to take the responsibility of saying that he knew what this company was going to do with that street. We could not find anybody at the time who knew.

Mr. McMILLAN. I wish to try and answer the question which the Senator from West Virginia has just now asked. Everybody who is familiar with the building of street railroads knows that there is a period of time when the road does not pay very much to the stockholders; that they have to wait until the road develops the country round about. This road is built out from the populous part of Georgetown. It is the only road running in the direction of Tennallytown. Senators here know that Tennallytown and its vicinity are growing very rapidly and that that is a portion of the District where property is bound to increase in value. These gentlemen undoubtedly have a valuable franchise. The last report which we have in our committee shows that their receipts amounted to the neighborhood of $35,000 or $36,000.

Mr. FAULKNER. Gross?

Mr. McMILLAN. Their gross receipts, from their earnings from passengers, and their expenses were about $30,000. I have not any hesitation in saying, as one who has had some experience in these matters, that this road will undoubtedly be a good investment. The stockholders may have to wait a year or two for the development of the region tributary to the road, but it is bound to be a valuable franchise, and I do not believe, looking at it in that light, that this is a very great hardship to that company.

Mr. FAULKNER. I wish to answer the question in regard to negligence, because, if I recollect aright, the original bill was reported by me from the District Committee. I do not know about the amendment to the charter, but the original bill, I am satisfied from my recollection, was reported by me, though I have not referred to the matter since the passage of the bill.

Mr. HARRIS. I will say to the Senator from West Virginia that I have just looked at the history of the legislation. The original bill was introduced in the Senate by the then Senator from Kansas, Mr. Ingalls, but that bill was indefinitely postponed. However, a bill having been introduced in the other House, the bill introduced in the Senate by the Senator from Kansas was adopted in the House as a substitute for the bill introduced there. It was passed there and came to the Senate and was reported by the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER] from the District Committee of the Senate, and was so passed.

Mr. FAULKNER. I remember that I had some connection certainly with the passage of the original bill, having reported it from the Committee on the District of Columbia. It was the universal practice of that committee, whenever a bill affecting the interests of the city of Washington was before it, to refer it to the Commissioners of the District and to get their report either for or against the bill, or with suggestion of any amendments that they deemed proper.

I have not the slightest belief that any member of the Committee on the District of Columbia or its chairman was guilty of any negligence in reference to this matter. If the bill was not referred to the District Commissioners by the Committee on the District of Columbia of the Senate, it was because the bill had come from the other House and had been passed on there by the District Committee and the District Commissioners. It has been the universal practice to do that, so as to bring the attention of those who necessarily have their minds constantly directed to all these local matters to the bills that are before the District Committee so that they may suggest any amendment and give their opinion as to the advisability of the passage of the bill.

Then the bill is considered by a subcommittee and discussed fully by the whole committee, because I can say right here from my experience of five years in the District Committee, that I know of no subcommittee that has ever been authorized to report bills that have not been passed upon before the whole committee.

Mr. HARRIS. Never.

Mr. FAULKNER. We have adopted that rule, believing that it is essential to the interests of this city and to good legislation that no subcommittee, even one composed of half the committee, shall have the power to pass on bills and report them to the Senate on behalf of the committee, but that every bill, before being reported by that committee, shall be voted upon when a quorum of the committee is present. I do not know of any exception to that rule. I do not think there has been any negligence on the part of the committee or on the part of those who reported the bill from that committee to the Senate. Perhaps if I had known the road as well as I do now I might have made some objection to its going up High street, but at that time, not knowing it personally, I did not see any reason to object to the bill when it had been passed by the House of Representatives and approved by the District Commissioners.

Mr. McPHERSON. I should like to ask the chairman of the committee who has charge of the bill if this street called High street was an open street in the city of Georgetown? I understand that it is located there. Was it an open street at the time the authority was given to the railroad company to lay their tracks?

Mr. ALLISON. It was.

Mr. McPHERSON. What was the width of the street?

Mr. ALLISON. That I do not know. It is a very narrow street. Senators who have driven over it will know that it is the narrow street that turns towards Tennallytown right by the aqueduct.

Mr. McPHERSON. It is not the street then that is used for a carriage drive between the ferry and the Tennallytown road?

Mr. ALLISON. Oh, yes; I will ascertain the width of the street.

Mr. McPHERSON. I have heard somewhere mentioned in the debate that the carriage way is about 20 feet wide.

Mr. HALE. It is about 30 feet wide.

Mr. McPHERSON. The citizens of this city and Georgetown had a right, an easement, in 20 feet of carriage-way room on that road when the permission was granted to this railroad company to lay down their tracks. I understand that the effect of laying the tracks in that street has simply been to deprive the people of the use of the street and confer it upon a railroad company; and that there is authority in the act incorporating the railroad company to amend that act and to compel the railroad company to provide a wider street.

I want to know what there is in that proposition which ought to receive the condemnation of any Senator. In the first place the street belonged to the citizens of the city. They paid for it. The street had been opened perhaps by public condemnation and by tax upon the property on the line, or upon the whole city; but it was proposed to permit the railway company to lay down a railroad track on the street, from which they were to derive a private benefit; and in granting that permission Congress simply deprived the people of their right to the use of the street because, as I understand, the railway company occupy the whole street.

We have granted railroad franchises in the city of Washington as they have been granted in many other cities, that could be sold to-day for millions of dollars. These people invested their money in this railroad property with the full knowledge that the Congress of the United States sitting here and acting as a board of aldermen or councilmen for this city, because it practically has no other lawmaking power, have the right at any time to require this railway company to give better railway facilities for the transit of people over their line, and in giving better facilities they may require them at the same time to occupy only so much or such portions of a public road as will not deprive the people of the right to use it.

I say the franchises granted here could to-day be sold for millions of dollars. It is a gift, a right of way to a railroad, where the business of the road is assured for all time, and is unlike any other railroad property where you undertake to build a line of railroad across an unpopulated country. Here the population exists; it is contributing to the profits and the business of the road; and I think that this railway company should be compelled at their own private cost and expense to widen the road, retaining the rights which have been granted them, and to widen the road in order that the public benefit may not be entirely lost from it; and that the tax should be imposed upon the company instead of anybody else. I have no sympathy with any argument—and I hear it often made in the Senate—in which we approach one of these railroad companies very gingerly, and the question is asked, Can the railway company afford all this? After granting them the free franchise upon a graded road, the street graded at public expense, then the question is, after they have invested their money in this kind of property, whether we have a right to make any exaction upon them with respect to surrendering some portion of the value of that right which we have granted to them for nothing to enable the people to have some rights upon that street.

It would seem to me as though it was about time that we began to deal with railroad companies in the District of Columbia as they ought to be dealt with. If I invest my money in a railroad property in the District of Columbia, believing it to be a good investment, as I presume these people have done, I do it at my own peril. I do it with the full knowledge that the Congress of the United States may amend that law and require some exaction from me provided it be made to appear that it is a just and equitable and reasonable one. I can see no inequity in this requirement. We require these railroad companies, if I am correctly informed in respect to the law, to pave inside their tracks and outside their tracks, and to maintain the trackway; and we have just as much right to say to them, "You shall widen this street." The Congress of the United States did not grant to this railroad company the exclusive right to use that street. The public have some rights there.

Mr. KYLE. May I ask how many tracks there are on the street?

Mr. McPHERSON. I do not know. There are enough, I understand, to completely occupy it and blockade it so that travel is very difficult, if not dangerous, in going through the street.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I am inclined to think myself that justice demands that this railroad company should pay either the whole or a large proportion of the expenditure necessary to make that way what it ought to be, and I shall so vote.

I rose, however, chiefly for the purpose of saying that inferentially the Senator from Maine, the Senator from Missouri, and the Senator from New Jersey, criticize the action of the Committee on the District of Columbia in a way that seems to me hardly fair, and not kind nor just. I have for fourteen years, not in accordance with my wishes but in obedience to a duty, served on that committee, and I want to say frankly that in respect to chartering railroad companies in the District of Columbia I do not know of one single instance where the committee has consented to report a bill granting such a charter until the bill that had been introduced was referred to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and their scrutiny invited, and their report received as to the public necessity for the railroad, and as to the best method and the best location for such road.

In the light of the report of the District Commissioners and in the further light of all the information the committee could obtain from the localities to be served, the committee have responded invariably not to the demand of the people who asked the act of incorporation, but to what they understood to be the public demand and the public necessity.

I want to say further that in my fourteen years' experience on that committee, as organized at the various periods, I have served on no committee in this body that has given more careful attention to all the questions which have been submitted to it for its action. Like any other committee, it may commit errors and make mistakes, but it has been as vigilant, it has been as careful in scrutinizing the various propositions that have been submitted to it for its consideration and report as any other committee upon which I have had the honor of serving since I have been a member of this body.

I do not quite think the tone of criticism that has been indulged in here to-day is fair to the committee; nor is it such as I would be willing to make in respect of any one of the standing committees of this body.

Mr. McPHERSON. It is due to the Senator from Tennessee and the members of the Committee on the District of Columbia that I should disclaim any intention in any manner to criticize either the Senator from Tennessee or any member of that committee. I have done this: I have found fault with the methods that we have pursued with respect to railroads since the time that railroads were first organized in this District. I commend the committee for very much that it has done. It has, I understand, imposed a tax, which I think is perfectly right and proper, upon the receipts of these railroads, and in that way the city is benefited, to the extent of that tax.

Speaking for my self, I believe that upon railroad property, wherever it is located, and especially if located within the limits of a city, if franchises are granted and a right of way is given without any purchase of property for right of way or even for making the roadbed, the tax should be very heavy. It should equal at least the tax of any private citizen's property in the city.

I do not criticize the committee with respect to this bill. I think, considering the plan that has always been followed (and I have been a member of that committee myself, I would have voted to grant this railroad company the power to lay its tracks upon High street; I would have done just as the committee have done, and therefore there is no ground for criticism by me upon the Senator from Tennessee or other members of the committee. Congress reserved the right to amend the act, and now it is proposed to amend it. Congress is simply exercising its reserved right under the original franchise, and proposes to say now to that railroad company: "Your road is laid upon High street. That street should be widened, and we demand of you that you shall pay the expense of widening it." The committee are not censured by me. I have no intention to censure them. We have reserved all the rights that we need and require with respect to this railroad company in their charter, and we are asking to-day to exercise those rights; that is all.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, the Committee on Appropriations have done nothing in this provision, but what this railroad company obligated itself to perform, and that is that whatever the public necessity should require should be done, and that all its franchises should be held subject to this requirement; that is the tenure and the conditions on which all corporate rights are granted.

The railroad corporations of the District of Columbia have been immensely profitable. They have received, I am told, five or six times above their original stock valuation, and their original stock, as that of all railroad companies, is largely beyond the cost of construction. The value of a street railroad franchise in all municipalities is necessarily very great, and the prospective value is as much a part of the consideration value of the property as its present receipts.

The demand which has been made upon this company can not be regulated by its capacity to pay but by the necessity of the public. I do not think it was ever before heard of that while the citizen was taxed the corporation should be considered as exempt from the necessity of contributing to the public policy in the interest of the people.

Whether this corporation is able to perform this public duty, which is part of the consideration of its franchise, is somewhat immaterial. If they can not perform their obligations to the public, then some other persons must be found to take their place. All over this country it is a fact well known that corporations have been stocked far beyond their original cost; and that with this franchise as all other franchises of transportation there is granted a power of taxation of the people quite as direct and far more oppressive than that which is reserved to the people and their representative bodies.

As to whether this trilling imposition upon this corporation, possessing a franchise which of necessity must grow in value with the increase in population of this District, is to crush it out, it seems to me that there is nothing whatever to sustain this objection. The value of this franchise does not depend upon its receipts of to-day, which have been shown by the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] to be large and to be growing, but it depends upon the prospective value, the prospective increase in population. The Committee on Appropriations could not have done otherwise in respect to the impositions which have been made upon other corporations in this District than to have recommended this provision.

Mr. MORGAN. Will the Senator from Florida inform me what the width of that road is there where complaint is being made?

Mr. CALL. I do not know with accuracy.

Mr. MORGAN. Does the Senator know at all, with accuracy or without accuracy?

Mr. CALL. The Senator from Alabama should not ask me the question; he should know himself. His propositions are well founded. I know this about it. It was discussed in committee, and it was agreed by every one to be too narrow for public convenience.

Mr. MORGAN. The road?

Mr. CALL. The road.

Mr. MORGAN. As it originally stood?

Mr. CALL. It was said that there was necessity for widening it and for creating these additional facilities, and upon that subject the committee were all united. What the specific width is I do not undertake to say.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, we are going in the dark about this business, and the reason of it is that the case has not come from a committee that is in the habit of making reports upon bills. If the facts could be spread before the Senate in the form of a report from the Committee on the District of Columbia we should find a different state of case from that which has been presented here this morning. I have searched around and got some private information from some Senators on this floor about what the question is and what the facts are. I understand now that they amount about to this: This part of High street was perhaps not originally called that, but it was the Tennallytown road. According to the map it had a certain width, which the Senator from Iowa perhaps has ascertained and can inform me of. I have been trying for an hour to find out what the width of the street is, and I can not find anybody who can tell me. It may be 22 feet or it may be 50 feet; we do not know. The Senator from Florida does not know. The Senator from Iowa, the chairman of the committee, does not know.

We do not know what the proper legal width of that street is, but one thing we do know, that for twenty or thirty or it may be for fifty years, or longer even than that, encroachments have been made upon what is now esteemed to be or supposed to be the east and west lines both of that street or that road, whatever you please to call it. Many other things have encroached there. There is a cemetery. That cemetery has a great many feet of frontage on the road, and I am informed that before the District of Columbia can tear up that road and make its proper width according to law they have to get the consent of the cemetery company to remove the graves and build a wall.

I suppose that is part of the expense that is to be put upon this railroad company. The expense is entirely indefinite. There is no sum fixed whatever. The sum the Commissioners may see proper to expend there, if it is a million dollars, this bill imposes upon the company. The tearing down of the cemetery, the removal of the dead bodies, if you can get the consent of the people to do it, or if the law compels them to consent to it, is part of this scheme. Does the Senator from Florida know anything about that?

Mr. CALL. That was discussed in the committee.

Mr. MORGAN. I know it was discussed, but where is the report.

Mr. CALL. Will the Senator from Alabama allow me to interrupt him?

Mr. MORGAN. Certainly.

Mr. CALL. There is no reason to suppose that there is any very immense cost involved, or that anything like a million dollars are to be expended in the removal of a few graves.

Mr. MORGAN. We do not know the situation at all. Here is a measure proposed that brings in an indefinite charge against this railroad company, when the Commissioners of the District of Columbia see proper to improve High street, to widen it out to its original boundaries, whatever they are; we do not know what they are at all. They can go on and widen it in accordance with their own will and judgment as to what work ought to be done there. It may cost $25,000 or $250,000 it makes no difference, and we saddle the whole of it by this bill on this corporation. Yet that committee have not furnished us, and in the debate now on the floor of the Senate we are not furnished with the facts. We are mulcting this company in what could not be less than $25,000 or $250,000, and we are doing it really without any knowledge of what the facts are. We do not know what it is going to cost.

Private owners, in addition to the cemetery company, or the cemetery corporation, or whatever it is there, have also encroached upon this road or this street, and they must be gotten rid of in some way or other through some process of law. Actually the boundaries of the street are not now ascertained, and nobody knows whether it can be done or not. No person knows whether the original measurement of this road has not been obliterated by adverse holdings of citizens who have built their improvements down to the line of the road, so supposed to be, and even by the dead who are buried on its side.

Mr. GORMAN. Mr. President, I supported this amendment in the committee which reported it, requiring the railroad company to pay the whole of the cost of this improvement in widening the street. I am in entire sympathy with what the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] has said in regard to the looseness of Congress in granting charters to these various railroads, and when the proposition shall come in a few days before the body for granting another charter creating another means of destroying another one of the great boulevards here, I shall have something to say upon that matter.

As I said a moment since, when the proposition was presented to require this railroad company to pay the entire amount of this improvement of widening the street it met with my approval, and I voted for it. Since then I have examined the matter more carefully, and I am rather inclined to think that the proposition will be a hardship upon this company; that we are applying to them a rule we do not apply to any of the other existing railroad companies; that in the very bill which we are considering, in the amendments which were reported from the committee, we have adopted an entirely different measure, that is, to make the railroad company pay one-half of the amount.

As the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS] has said, and said well, in the case of the charter of this railroad company, as in all others, the District Commissioners, or the engineer or officer of the District, it coming immediately under his charge, but with the approval of the whole board, recommended the location of this railroad on High street and then upon the road leading thence to Tennallytown; that when they located it on High street and on this road at the particular juncture here designated I understand that they knew that the street would not be wide enough to accommodate the railroad and leave sufficient room for carriages in the highway, but they had in mind and had perfect knowledge of the fact that the street had been encroached upon by private parties, and that more than one-half of the width of the street was occupied, as it is to-day, by private parties. Now the proposition comes to widen it.

The fault of locating the road is the fault of the District Commissioners as well as of the railroad company; and it seems to me that the only question is what amount we should make the railroad company bear. If it was a mistake, and I believe it was, in the location, Congress has determined that matter in all cases heretofore and in this bill by making the amount one-half.

Mr. McPHERSON. Will the Senator from Maryland allow me to ask him a question?

Mr. GORMAN. With great pleasure.

Mr. McPHERSON. If what he states is true, and I presume it is, that private parties have taken possession of the street, they certainly have no right there; and if the Commissioners will force them to move back their improvements on the fence line it certainly would not cost the railroad company much to have the street opened.

Mr. GORMAN. That is all there is in the proposition. It is not one improvement. Under the charter they are required to pave between the tracks and 2 feet beyond; but it is proposed to widen the street, to make private individuals remove their fences and buildings and what not, and put them back to the building line, and to make this railroad company pay the entire cost of grading it and putting it in the form of a street.

Mr. McPHERSON. If the street has been encroached upon by owners of property along the line unlawfully, certainly the Commissioners could have the property moved back without any expense to the public.

Mr. GORMAN. But it is proposed to make the railroad company pay the entire amount of that improvement.

Mr. McPHERSON. Oh, no.

Mr. GORMAN. Yes; that is the whole proposition. There is nothing else in it. It is not a payment for making pavements.

Mr. President, what do we find upon an examination of the bill? Take the F street line of railroad, a rich corporation. They pay their dividends, and are able to make the improvements. They are thoroughly able, for the road has been in operation for a great many years, and runs through the center of the city. They were permitted to occupy the bridge across Rock Creek, on P street. They took the whole of that bridge for their use, except a small walkway on each side of the railroad. Public interest requires that there shall be a new bridge put up, the railroad company occupying the present structure almost solely. On page 24 of the bill we find the provision for the construction of a new bridge across Rock Creek at P street, and it is provided that the Metropolitan Company shall pay one-half of the cost of that construction and the District one-half. If that is the right measure, as I suppose it is, upon the recommendation of the Commissioners, then it does seem to me that the same rule should be applied to this smaller railroad.

We have this great railroad with a franchise on Pennsylvania avenue from Georgetown to the Navy Yard, the most valuable franchise I suppose to-day, certainly in this part of the country, paying 20 per cent dividend upon the capital stock and with a surplus nobody knows how much, with their six per cent bonds selling upon this market at 150. They occupy the bridge across Rock Creek at M street. They occupy at least the greater portion of it; but a new bridge is to be constructed. It is necessary for their change of motive power from horses to a cable line that there should be a new bridge, and on page 24 of the bill we provide that that bridge must be reconstructed for the public convenience and for the railroad. The District pays one-half and we require the railroad company to pay one-half.

Mr. McMILLAN. Will the Senator allow me to ask him a question?

Mr. GORMAN. With great pleasure.

Mr. McMILLAN. It is true that the recommendation came from the District Committee that the Washington and Georgetown Railroad should pay one-half and the District one-half, but that was because we have required the bridge to be the whole width of the street. It is now about half of the width of the street, and, as the Senator says, it deprives the public of the proper use of it. So we have compelled the bridge to be built the full width of the street, giving room enough for a street railway, room enough for a carriage way, and room enough for sidewalks, and then we ask the railroad company to pay one-half.

Mr. GORMAN. That is precisely as I understand the case.

Mr. McMILLAN. But in this other case the paying is only for a short distance, and the company do not pay for the street. They simply pay for improving one side of the street.

Mr. GORMAN. The distance has nothing to do with this case. In one case you want to make a small railroad company pay the entire cost of widening the street, if it is but for 1,000 feet, and the provision with reference to the Washington and Georgetown Railroad and the F Street Railroad is 300 feet. The principle is the same. The District Committee have come to the conclusion that one-half is the right allotment. If that be true, then we must apply it to all the roads and to this small road.

That is what has convinced me since the adjournment of the committee that we were in error. The Committee on Appropriations went beyond the recommendation of the District Committee, and it does not seem to be fair in the one case. There is no question about this new road. I have, like the Senator from Alabama in front of me, received this morning a statement from a gentleman as to whose integrity and knowledge of the affair I have no question. He says it is a new road and that the owners have not been able to make a dollar. They hope and expect to do so; and I believe, as the Senator from Maine says, that it will be a great charter in the future; but at present it would embarrass them. The point I insist on, however, is that we should not compare them with the Georgetown Railroad, the richest company in the District of Columbia, whose dividends are 20 per cent.

Mr. HALE. Does not the Senator remember that we have just put upon the Georgetown Railroad Company an immense burden in compelling them to change their entire plant and motive power and to spend, somebody said, $3,000,000? We have never put anything on this company whatever.

Mr. GORMAN. I have no doubt, from my knowledge of the condition of these companies, that the Georgetown company, with its franchise running for twenty-five or thirty years, with a monopoly of the business, is more abundantly able to pay $5,000,000 than this company would be able to pay $50,000. I have no question about that. Left as it is to-day, requiring the Georgetown Railroad to have this new motive power, it is the most valuable franchise in this entire section of the country. It pays 20 per cent upon the capital stock, and I have no doubt that within a year I shall stand with the Senator from Maine in imposing upon them the additional burden of reducing their fare to 3 cents, which they can do and yet make 10 or 15 per cent upon their capital invested.

Mr. HALE. The Senator and I have always agreed in the policy of watching and restricting these railroads and putting proper burdens upon them, and the only way he and I will ever reach it is when the question comes up, as it does here, to make these roads contribute to the public burden. If whenever a case comes up we find reasons for letting them off, as the Senator is now finding reasons, he and I will find our work here in restraining and restricting them all the harder.

Mr. GORMAN. No, Mr. President, I am ready to go now, if the rule is a right one, and I am not certain that it is not, and apply the same requirement to all three of these roads in this very bill, making each of them pay for the whole improvement, if that is the right rule. But I do insist, since looking at the matter, that it is unjust to this company to make them pay the entire amount of the charge and only charge the other two great corporations one-half.

Mr. HALE. Does the Senator believe that anywhere in this city a selection can be made of a more valuable franchise than this company have in this very road? It is an exceptional case. There have been no burdens put upon them. This is the first time we have undertaken to make them contribute in any way. They are not like other roads. They have had everything their own way. It is a small matter we are asking from them.

Mr. GORMAN. I will go further than that, and join the Senator in the statement with regard to the recommendation of the District Commissioners in permitting this road to be located where it is that it was a great outrage. It ought never to have been permitted. It has destroyed one of the great drives out of this city, and they are nearly all destroyed. Begin in the eastern section of this city, and you have not built a bridge over the Eastern Branch but that there is a charter for a railroad to be constructed over it; there is not a drive out to any section of the city that there is not a horse railroad or an electric railroad on it, I think.

Mr. McMILLAN. I should like to correct the Senator from Maryland. We have not granted any charter to build a road on the two bridges, the Bennings bridge and the Eastern Branch bridge. There are applications for half a dozen roads to go over them, but we have not granted any such charter. In the case of the Bennings street road we have recommended that they build a bridge for themselves and that they shall not interfere at all with the highway. There have been no charters granted to go over the bridges.

Mr. GORMAN. There is a railroad across the Eastern Branch bridge, near the navy-yard.

Mr. McMILLAN. I am speaking of the new bridge.

Mr. GORMAN. I am speaking of the old one. There is one in the direction of Blandensburg; there is one in the direction of the Soldiers' Home on Seventeenth street, and on Fourteenth street. Then there is the road that is referred to here, that was built by a private corporation, on which they spent $500,000, the Woodley Lane road, which goes out towards Georgetown, and the sharp angle there at the top of the hill almost destroys it for a drive. Then comes another project, to take the Aqueduct bridge and use that. There are one or two steam roads projected, crossing at right angles and on grade, or running along the side of the river. So we shall be hemmed in and bound down by these roads on every street leading out until every drive will be practically destroyed.

I am ready to restrict them whenever we have the opportunity; but the point I make, after consideration of this matter, is that it is not fair in the same bill to have a different rule for these roads. If we are to make them pay for the whole cost of improvements and widening the streets for these bridges are nothing but a widening of the streets), then let us apply that rule to all, but if one-half the expense is to be considered fair and is charged on the two great railroads, then one-half ought to be applied to this road.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, the proposition of the Senator from Maryland does not sustain his conclusions. There is no principle involved in this matter as to the rate of charge or the burdens to be imposed on either road. You can not make a principle out of that. It is a question that must be determined by the public convenience and the necessity for improvement, and whether the railroad company in the specific instance ought to perform that duty. It is true that the matter may be regulated somewhat by the financial condition of the company, but the Senator from Michigan has well discriminated in this case. In the one case there is a bridge to be constructed because of a new public necessity. In the other case there is a street already made and dedicated to the public use, and the question whether the use of that street shall be destroyed by this franchise or privilege given to a few private individuals is the only question to be decided.

In the case of the bridge, there is an artificial structure to be made new. In the other case there is a public property already created and ready for use. Upon what possible ground it can be said that when the use of this public property is granted to individuals they should not be required to keep it in a condition in which the public may make use of it I can not conceive. This is a private interest granted to individuals in a public property and a public use, and the proposition of the Committee on Appropriations, as I understand it, is that this private interest should not be permitted to destroy the public use.

Mr. GORMAN. Will the Senator from Florida permit me to interrupt him?

Mr. CALL. Certainly.

Mr. GORMAN. If the Senator will examine the question he will find that that is the identical case of the P street bridge. It is in the exclusive use of the railroad tracks. They occupy the whole bridge except two little walks on the sides. The improvement is not for the purpose of accommodating the public travel or to make width enough there to allow a carriage to pass, as is the case with this road.

Mr. CALL. So I agree; but a public bridge is required not only by the use of the corporation and its franchise but by the public convenience in connection with it for other purposes; and in that case we provide that the bridge to be built, not the old bridge, shall be made of the same width with the street in order that it may accommodate the public uses, and at the same time that the use of the corporation shall be provided for, and that they shall pay one-half. It seems to me that that is a very proper discrimination, and in that case a proper rule, because the new structure to be built is to be used conjointly for the two uses. But in the case of the street already built, already used by the public, and which has been destroyed by this franchise to private persons, the committee simply ask that the corporation shall put the street which has thus been rendered incapable of use in a condition in which it may subserve the purposes of a highway.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment to the amendment was rejected.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question recurs on agreeing to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 16, line 24, before the word "thousand," to strike out "four" and insert "five;" so as to make the clause read:

Plats of subdivisions outside of Washington and Georgetown: To pay the expenses of such surveys as may be necessary to enable the Commissioners of the District to determine if plats of subdivisions of land within the District offered for record have been made in conformity to the "Act to regulate subdivision of land within the District of Columbia," approved August 27, 1888, §5,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 16, after line 24, to insert:

Plan for extension of highways: To enable the Commissioners of the District to prepare a plan for the extension of a permanent system of highways over all that portion of the District of Columbia not included within the limits of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, $20,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations for "sewers" in section 1, on page 17, line 7, to increase the appropriation "for cleaning and repairing sewers and basins," from "$40,000" to "$45,000."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 17, line 9, to increase the appropriation "for replacing obstructed and insufficient sewers" from "$20,000" to "$25,000."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 17, line 11, to increase the appropriation "for main and pipe sewers" from "$65,000" to "$75,000."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 17, line 14, after the words "intercepting sewer," to insert:

As a part of, and in accordance with, the general plan for sewers recommended by the Board of Sanitary Engineers, appointed by the President of the United States, pursuant to the provisions of an act of Congress approved March 2, 1889, and whose report is published in House Executive Document numbered 445, first session, Fifty-first Congress.

Mr. GORMAN. I wish the Secretary to read the rest of the paragraph without action upon any amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will state the amendments to the entire paragraph.

The SECRETARY. Also, on page 17, line 22, after the word "northwest," the committee report to strike out "sixty thousand" and insert "one hundred and twelve thousand five hundred;" so as to read:

To run from the Potomac River near Easbys Point to near the intersection of Fifteenth and E streets northwest, $112,500.

Also, on page 18, line 9, the committee report to add the following proviso:

Provided further, That the plans for said sewer shall be approved by a consulting civil and sanitary engineer, who shall be appointed by the President, and whose services shall be paid for from this appropriation; and who shall also make personal inspection of the work in detail as it progresses.

So as to make the paragraph read:

For commencing the construction of a main intercepting sewer as a part of, and in accordance with, the general plan for sewers recommended by the Board of Sanitary Engineers, appointed by the President of the United States, pursuant to the provisions of an act of Congress approved March 2, 1889, and whose report is published in House Executive Document No. 445, first session, Fifty-first Congress, to run from the Potomac River near Easbys Point to near the intersection of Fifteenth and E streets northwest, $60,000: Provided, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to enter into contract for the construction of the whole of the said sewer, at a cost not to exceed $25,000, to be paid for as appropriations may from time to time be made by law. And the said Commissioners are hereby authorized to construct the said sewer where necessary across lands and reservations belonging to the United States: Provided, That after the construction of the said sewer the excavated portions of the said lands and reservations shall be restored to their original condition from the appropriations herein provided for: Provided further, That the plans for said sewer shall be approved by a consulting civil and sanitary engineer, who shall be appointed by the President, and whose services shall be paid for from this appropriation; and who shall also make personal inspection of the work in detail as it progresses.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there be no objection, the amendments of the committee to the paragraph will be treated as one question.

Mr. ALLISON. Before that is acted upon, in line 13, on page 18, in the last proviso, after the word "appropriation" I move to insert—

At a rate fixed by the President.

That relates to the compensation of the consulting engineer. These are amendments to perfect the text. I suppose there will be no objection to them.

Mr. GORMAN. None in the world.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Iowa to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. After the word "progresses," in line 14, at the close of the paragraph, I move to insert:

And shall forward all approved plans, and report the result of all inspection, to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

So as to read:

And who shall also make personal inspection of the work in detail as it progresses, and shall forward all approved plans, and report the results of all inspection, to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Mr. GORMAN. I have no objection to the amendment to the amendment.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. Does the Senator object to any part of the amendment?

Mr. GORMAN. No, I only wish to ask the chairman of the committee, for I have not had an opportunity to read carefully the amendment until this moment, whether it is the intention of the amendment to follow out the plan recommended by the commission, consisting of Messrs. Hering, Gray, and Stearns, found in Executive Document No. 445, of the first session of the last Congress, or whether by the last provision, on page 18, in which "the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall cause to be made the needful surveys and investigations, and cause to be prepared all the detailed plans, specifications, and estimates necessary for constructing in the District of Columbia a system of works for the disposal of the sewage," etc., it is intended to place in the hands of the Commissioners and their engineers who may be employed the power to change this plan or to make a new one.

Mr. ALLISON. It certainly was not our intention, and if the words are not there I think they should be inserted. I am obliged to the Senator for calling my attention to it. I think, in line 10, on page 18, it should read, "that the detailed plans for said sewer," that is to say, the working plans for said sewer shall be approved by this consulting engineer. The general plan has been marked out by the sanitary commission or sanitary board; and our own purpose in the committee was—and I endeavored to execute that purpose in framing the amendment—

Mr. GORMAN. I am aware of that.

Mr. ALLISON. To provide that this sewer should be a part of this general plan, and that when the detailed plans for this portion should be made by the Engineer of the District of Columbia they should receive the approval of this consulting engineer. So I think the word "detailed" before "plans" should be inserted.

Mr. GORMAN. So I understood the intention of the Senator, as it was of the committee, and I thought it well to call attention to it, so that we may have no mistake about the construction of the language.

Mr. ALLISON. In line 10, after the word "the," I move to insert the word "detailed;" so as to read:

Provided further, That the detailed plans for said sewer shall be approved by a consulting civil and sanitary engineer, who shall be appointed, etc.

Mr. HALE. I had not noticed the print before. I thought it was the understanding that that was to be in.

Mr. ALLISON. I prepared the amendment with that understanding. The Senator from Maryland raises the point that the words as they appear here may not cover just what we intended.

Mr. GORMAN. That is all.

Mr. ALLISON. I intend to put words in that will.

Mr. HALE. That will exactly cover what the committee intended.

Mr. ALLISON. So I understand. I ask that the amendment to the amendment may be agreed to.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 18, after line 14, to insert:

That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall cause to be made the needful surveys and investigations, and cause to be prepared all the detailed plans, specifications, and estimates necessary for constructing in the District of Columbia a system of works for the disposal of the sewage of said District and for the protection of the low portions of the city of Washington against damage by local flooding and freshets, which system of works shall be in accordance with the general plan recommended by the Board of Sanitary Engineers appointed by the President of the United States, pursuant to the provisions of an act of Congress approved March 2, 1889, and whose report is published in House Executive Document No. 445, first session Fifty-first Congress, and may employ all requisite assistance for said purpose, which said plans, specifications, and estimates shall be approved by the consulting civil and sanitary engineer hereinafter provided for. And for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this paragraph there is hereby appropriated the sum of $75,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

Mr. ALLISON. On page 19, line 6, after the word "approved," I move to insert the words "from time to time." Otherwise it might be inferred that this whole detailed plan should be completed before it is presented to the consulting engineer.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GORMAN. Mr. President, this is a very important provision in the bill. The matter of sewerage in this District is one of the greatest concern to everybody who has had occasion to examine into it. The Senator from Iowa, the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, and his committee two years ago inserted a provision in the appropriation bill providing for the appointment of a commission of three sanitary engineers to take this whole matter into consideration and report to Congress. The result of their examinations is before us in the document referred to in the pending amendment; but in that report they have three or four or half a dozen suggestions, practically all on the same plan, differing in character as to the size of the sewers and the outlets and the pumping arrangement.

Mr. HALE. And location sometimes.

Mr. GORMAN. And locations. Either of these, they claim, would perfect the sewerage system. Their description of it in its present condition is alarming. It was constructed, I think principally, by army engineers who had had no special training and knowledge of that class of work, and the result I think is that we are simply living in the lower section of this city over a great cesspool, with no way at all to carry off the sewage. It is marvelous that the health of the town is as good as it is.

But what I want to get at, and I do it for the purpose of having the opinion of the Senator from Iowa that it may guide the gentlemen who are to do this great work, having disposed of the commission of scientists and provided for the employment of someone to be appointed by the President, is whether they are at liberty to take any one or all of these systems which have been proposed. I understand that it is to be in accordance with the recommendations made in Executive Document No. 445. Has the Senator in his mind, after consultation with the engineers, any knowledge as to which of the recommendations will be acted upon?

Mr. ALLISON. Does the Senator want an answer now?

Mr. GORMAN. I do, and that is all I want to know.

Mr. ALLISON. I take it that the consulting engineer may adopt not any new plan, but that he may adopt suggestions respecting the general plan. For example, this board of consulting engineers suggest that the sewage of this city may be thrown into the Potomac at two or three different points. Then they suggest (I so regard it) that the best is a point crossing the Eastern Branch by a tunnel or pipe having the pumping station at the foot of New Jersey avenue, and emptying the material into the Potomac River below Gesboro Point, which is, I believe, the narrowest point in the river between here and its mouth, with a quick and rapid current, and with deep water.

So the Commissioners think that ultimately the whole sewage of this city should be thrown into the river by means of pumping machinery, etc., at that point. They have said, however, that it might be done at what is called Gravelly Point, which is a point, I believe, on the Virginia side. They say it might be thrown in there, but they think it would be only a question of time when that should be changed. I have no doubt that any consulting engineer will adopt what might be regarded as the plan suggested by these three eminent engineers.

So far as I am concerned as a member of this body, when that matter is brought to my attention for action I shall be in favor of appropriations of money that will put this city and this District into the best possible condition of sewerage. I believe that that is the best economy. If Senators will examine the details of this bill they will see, as the Senator from Maryland very well knows, that the increases we have made here have been made chiefly for the purpose of supplying this city with additional sewerage and additional water and conveniences for securing health. If I had supposed it could have passed the ordeal of another coordinate body, I should have been willing to double the appropriation this very year for this sewerage.

This sewerage system when completed will be completed upon the best modern plans and methods. They have been prepared by three of the best sanitary and mechanical engineers in the United States, and we have provided here that one of them, as we supposed, is to be employed as the consulting engineer to execute this work. It will cost when completed a very large amount of money, but it is so devised that it can be completed in detachments, as it were. The first sewer is the most important one of all for present construction.

Mr. McPHERSON. May I ask the Senator if this plan involves the pumping of the sewage?

Mr. ALLISON. It does eventually, a portion of the time.

Mr. McPHERSON. Are we to have the continual expense of pumping the sewage for all future time? Is it not possible to cast the sewage into the river here in front of the city?

Mr. ALLISON. We certainly are to have it. The annual cost of that pumping of sewage is given here. It will not exceed $21,000, and there is no doubt, at least I think there is no doubt, as a layman having no special knowledge upon this subject, that the project and plan of these engineers is absolutely necessary to the future health of this city. If the Senator from New Jersey will take up House Executive Document No. 445, Fifty-first Congress, first session, and will read it carefully, as I have read it, and if he will examine as I have examined the maps accompanying this statement, I think he will readily agree with me that the plan here is a plan that should be entered upon and prosecuted with as much vigor as the condition of the finances of the District of Columbia will justify.

The first sewer under this plan is the sewer provided for in the bill. It will cost in round numbers $228,000. It empties into the Potomac River at what is known as Easby's Point, a point where the river is comparatively narrow, and the channel of the river is on the Washington side, where the flow of the river is such that except perhaps during a very few weeks in the year, perhaps only two weeks, there will be an active flow of the sewage down the Potomac. During extreme low water there may be some trouble. When that is completed it will dispense with an open sewer which runs down Seventeenth street, and which is an absolute disgrace to this city and to this country.

The next important sewer that is to be built, and that one I should be perfectly willing to provide for myself in this bill, is a sewer which is called the Rock Creek connecting sewer, which also will cost about $228,000, and that is the sewer into which empty two-thirds of the pipes of this city. The first sewer I have named extends as far as the Patent Office and the Post-Of-five buildings, and this sewer comprehends the entire north-western portion of this city.

I will say to the Senator from Maryland that I do not believe there is any probability that the general plan which has been laid down here with such clearness by this board will be diverged from in any material particular by any sanitary engineer who may be consulted, because I think it will be seen that this general plan is practically the only effective plan whereby the people of the District of Columbia can have sewerage such as should be had here.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, I am very glad that the Senator from Maryland has called the attention of the Senate to this most important matter which has evoked this discussion. The committee, which took a good deal of pains in this matter, was, as the Senator from Iowa has said, greatly impressed with the strength and wisdom of the report of these sanitary engineers. They were three of the most eminent in their profession throughout the country selected by the President and appointed on the 17th day of August, 1889—Rudolph Hering, of New York, Samuel M. Gray, of Rhode Island, and Frederic P. Stearns, of Massachusetts. They gave much time and attention to this great subject, coming upon the ground, employing all the assistance needed, and they mapped out this great work in which we are all and in which the whole country are interested. A short summary of their conclusions is found at the bottom of page 50 of their report, where they say:

The more important features and the merits of the recommended project may now be summarized as follows:

The proposed plan includes deeply-laid intercepting sewers to carry practically all the sewage of the city to a suitable outlet in deep water of the Potomac River, storm-water sewers to drain the low districts and to intercept the waters which would otherwise reach it from the higher districts, dikes to prevent the entrance of river water during freshets, and pumps to lift the sewage at all times and the storm water of the low district when the river is unusually high. The pumps for both purposes are to be at one station near the foot of New Jersey avenue. The large sewers designed primarily for storm-water removal, serve also as sewage interceptors.

They estimate the cost of this great work at $3,598,093.

Mr. President, it is most important, if the scheme of the committee which rests upon the report of these engineers is carried out, that it should be carried out in complete harmony with that original project. That is why the committee have provided for this sanitary engineer. I should hope, and I think that is the feeling of the committee, that if it is practical one of the gentlemen who were engaged in the work of making this report shall be appointed for this purpose. The committee have given money enough so that it can be made an object for one of these great sanitary engineers to devote, if not the whole of his time, enough of it to take charge and supervision of the work. Then we may feel when we are appropriating from year to year, as we shall in reaching at last the sum of $3,000,000, that if not for ourselves for others who will come soon after us there will be a city here at the national capital with as good a scheme for water and sewerage as the wit of man can devise.

Mr. GORMAN. My only object in interrupting the Senator in charge of the bill was to call attention, first, to the report under which we are acting and under which this scheme is proposed, so that there might be some expression from him as the representative of the committee immediately in charge of the bill, and we would have no trouble hereafter with a new scheme to be presented by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, or the sanitary engineer, who may be appointed by the President, but to show that the intention of Congress in making this appropriation was to follow out the recommendations of the commission; and I am very glad to have had his expression.

There is one other thing that I desire to say. While the bill came here from the House of Representatives appropriating $4,987,580.27, the recommendations of the Committee on Appropriations have been to increase it $746,119, and of that amount of increase two hundred and seventy odd thousand dollars, I understand, are embraced in this one item of sewerage. While I am in favor of economy and of making the appropriations as small as they can possibly be made with due regard to the management of the affairs of the Government, I do express the hope that in paring down, if that shall be necessary, the appropriations we are making in this bill when it comes to be considered elsewhere, this one item will not be abandoned by the Senate conferees.

We have had complaints in this body of the bad ventilation of the Hall, and we have had them for years. There have been complaints in both Houses of Congress. When we come to take into consideration the facts stated in this report by the sanitary engineers that the sewerage from the building in which we are, emptying into the tide sewer, which is one-third of the time closed by high water or by high tides in the Potomac River, and driving the noxious gases back into this building and into all the buildings whose sewerage empties into the old Tiber Canal, we can not afford, in my judgment, to abandon the worthy project we are now entering upon to correct that great defect.

I trust there will be no opposition here or elsewhere to the appropriation, and I again express the hope that if there is opposition to the appropriations we intend to make, the Senator from Iowa, in the interest of humanity and good health, will insist upon this appropriation being retained in the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 19, line 12, to increase the appropriation "for suburban sewers" from "$58,300" to "$75,000."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 19, after the words "public sewers," to strike out "three thousand five hundred" and insert "five thousand;" so as to make the clause read:

For condemnation of rights of way for the construction, maintenance, and repairs of public sewers, $5,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations for streets, in section 1, on page 20, in line 1, before the word "thousand," to strike out "fifty" and insert "sixty;" so as to make the clause read:

Repairs county roads: For current work of repairs of county roads and suburban streets, $90,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 20, after line 20, to insert:

For the extension of Kenesaw avenue to the Zoological Park, $1,000: Provided, That no part of this sum shall be expended until the owners of the land shall dedicate a street at least 90 feet wide for said purpose, nor until a street is dedicated by the owners of the land 60 feet wide from quarry road around the east side of the Zoological Park to the Rock Creek National Park; and connecting said Quarry road with Kenesaw avenue extended.

Mr. McPHERSON. Before agreeing to this amendment I should like to make an inquiry of the chairman of the committee: What disposition is being made in appropriations at this session of Congress to supply the Zoological Park or the grounds with animals; in other words, to complete the park in the manner intended and provided for in the original act? If nothing is to be done what is the particular necessity of improving the streets leading to the Zoological Park at a vast expense? I understand that there is a great deal of dissatisfaction, and justly, as I think, manifested on the part of the citizens of Washington against the plan which was adopted of charging one-half of the cost upon the people of the city of Washington for the Zoological Garden—one-half the cost of its maintenance, and even the purchase of the property as well. I should like to know if any change is contemplated by the committee with respect to that matter?

Mr. ALLISON. The appropriations for the Zoological Park are generally made, as the Senator is aware, in the sundry civil bill. That bill has not yet passed the other house. It has been reported by the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives. It has not been considered by the Senate Committee on Appropriations. So I am not able to state what will or will not be done in that regard. I will say, however, as respects this particular appropriation, that it is an easy method of reaching the Zoological Park, and inasmuch as we own the ground, although we may not be able in the future to feed the animals, a good many people will want to go out there for recreation, I have no doubt.

Mr. CULLOM. While, as the Senator from New Jersey states, there is a good deal of complaint on the part of the citizens here on account of the division of the expense necessary to establish and maintain the park, yet I think in the other branch of Congress there will be an appropriation made probably in the line of taking care of the park, and it is only a question of amount as to what sum will be appropriated, so far as I now know. I am aware that there are a number of gentlemen who are taking quite an interest in the subject, and I think it may be reasonably expected that some reasonable appropriation will be made to maintain the park.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 21, after line 3, to insert:

In regulating and macadamizing the street connecting Columbia road with Connecticut avenue extended toward the District Line, $10,000, and the appropriation of $10,000 made by the District appropriation act approved March 3, 1891, for graveling said street is hereby authorized to be used for regulating and macadamizing the same: Provided, That the sum of $2,000 shall be contributed by the abutting owners for the same purpose.

Mr. FAULKNER. I desire to offer an amendment as a substitute for the one reported by the committee. I believe it is satisfactory to the committee. I move to strike out the amendment of the committee and insert what I send to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be read.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to strike out the paragraph and in lieu thereof to insert:

For regulating and macadamizing the street connecting Columbia road with Connecticut avenue extended, and thence along said avenue extended to the District line, $30,000, which said amount shall be assessed upon the property fronting on said street and avenue in proportion to the number of front feet of each lot or parcel of land so fronting. Such assessment shall be collected in the same manner as other taxes on real estate in the District of Columbia. And the $10,000 appropriated by the act of March 3, 1867 for graveling said street and avenue shall be used for regulating and macadamizing the same, and both of said sums shall be immediately available.

Mr. ALLISON. That amendment was prepared by some gentleman and shown to me. The difference between that and the amendment proposed by the committee is, that I believe the whole sum is assessed upon the property. I certainly see no objection to it if the property is worth enough to pay the cost of improvements. It seems to be assessed against the property.

Mr. FAULKNER. According to the front foot.

Mr. ALLISON. I suppose there is no doubt about the fact that the property is valuable enough to pay the cost of the improvement.

Mr. McPIERSON. I should like to inquire what has been the custom in regard to the opening and improving of streets in the District of Columbia heretofore? Has any portion of the expense heretofore in the opening, regulating, grading, and paving of the streets, been paid by the District, or has it all been paid out of the Treasury by taxes levied upon the whole people?

Mr. ALLISON. Mr. President, recently, as a rule, the cost of paving has been paid, under an arrangement we have made, one-half out of the Treasury of the United States and the other out of the taxes levied upon the people of this District; but that rule has been varied from in various ways and at various times. This is the best variation that I have seen. The amendment practically assesses the whole of the tax upon the abutting property-holders, except that $10,000 of this sum is to be paid out of the general revenue and $30,000 is to be assessed upon the property; that will be three-fourths to one.

Mr. McPIERSON. Right in the line of my previous inquiry. I now ask if the practice heretofore has been to make payments for these improvements out of the District Treasury, of which this property has paid its share to complete by way of taxes paid into the public Treasury? By what right do you vary the rule now, and because this property is to be improved and developed, compel the owners to pay the whole cost of the improvements, when they have already paid their share of the cost of all other improvements in the city of Washington? Is there any equity in that?

Mr. ALLISON. Well, Mr. President, to thoroughly go into that question would require considerable time, and it would be necessary to inquire why it was that the cost of improving and paving streets in this city and in Georgetown has been paid out of the general revenues.

I will state the case briefly as I understand it. It will be borne in mind that during the system of Government which prevailed here from 1871 to 1875 abutting property-holders were required to pay one-third of the cost of the grading and of the paving of the streets and alleys in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and the cost was assessed against those property-holders.

The pavements that were laid were wooden pavements that rotted out, as we all know, in the course of five or six years. The people owning land in this city were taxed, of course, to pay for those pavements. When the readjustment was made, all these sums were thrown into the 3.65 bonds of the District of Columbia as respects the pavements not paid for by the city. Therefore, there was an equity in the Government of the United States by appropriations paying for these pavements, because they had once been paid for, or at least one-third of them had been, and they had proved to be of no value. That was within the cities of Washington and Georgetown.

Now, we go outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and we find enterprising and energetic people who contribute their pittance of revenue and income to the purchase of land. They lay that land out into city lots and property, and they having paid a portion of the taxes that were assessed for the purposes of paving in this city, have no equity, in my judgment, that will justify us in paving outside of the city in the District as we have paved within the limits of the city. Therefore, for one, I wish to say that when the question comes up for my consideration I shall apply what I regard as an equitable rule outside of this city in any vote I may cast here, and that will be a rule which will put upon a par the people outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown with the people inside the cities.

If we are to pave the new portions of this District that are carried into our expenditures, I do not think it is wise, or even just, for us to pave these portions of the District outside of the city out of the general revenue. Hence I, for one, welcome this proposition which proposes to have three-fourths paid by the proprietors.

Mr. McPIERSON. I wish to say that I am in entire sympathy with the amendment. I see the distinction now which the Senator draws between the city of Washington and the District of Columbia. If I understand him aright, the rule which had been applied to the city of Washington was a rule which had not been enforced outside of the city within the District.

I believe street improvements should be assessed upon the property benefited, and whenever the people along a proposed street line desire the opening of a street, the regulating, the grading, the paving, or the sewerage of that street, they may petition the District Commissioners to do it, and when it is done, the cost of the entire improvement should be paid by them.

I supposed that the same rule was enforced outside of the city within the District which had been enforced within the city proper, and that was why I propounded the inquiry.

Mr. FAULKNER. I desire to say in reference to condemnation that, after a most thorough examination by the District Committee, as to the extension of streets here, the committee adopted the plan which seems to carry out the views of the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, that, after first ascertaining by a jury the difference between the damages to the property taken and the benefits to the residue of the tract, say for a space of a thousand feet or any particular tract of land, after ascertaining and setting off the benefits against the damages of taking, then the bill provides that one-third of those damages shall be assessed upon the property, having already deducted from the damages the benefits received—one-third of the damages shall be assessed on the property so benefited and taken, and of the other two-thirds, one-third shall be paid by the District and the other third by the Government of the United States, carrying out, to some extent at least, the view of the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. McPIERSON. This amendment is right in the same line.

Mr. FAULKNER. This amendment goes further.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. This question is on the amendment of the Senator from West Virginia, which is offered as a substitute for the amendment of the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. McPIERSON. Now, I wish to make another inquiry. I do not understand the Senator from West Virginia. If I understand him aright, he says the rule applied heretofore to property outside of the city within the District, has not been to assess the benefits entirely upon the property, which his amendment now proposes to do, if I understand the amendment.

Mr. FAULKNER. That is right.

Mr. McPIERSON. If the streets outside of the city limits and within the District line have been improved by other methods, and if other property outside of the city has been taxed a portion of the expense, and the public to-day have the benefits of those improvements, which they have not paid for in toto, but paid for in part, why adopt this rule in respect to that class of property?

If the Senator from West Virginia will give me his attention a moment, I understand him to say that this is a new rule and that it has not been applied to other property outside of the city limits within the District.

Mr. FAULKNER. Not to the extent that this amendment proposes.

Mr. McPIERSON. The improvements heretofore made are public improvements, and all the people of the District have the benefit of them. Why adopt a new rule, then, in respect to the people who own this property and compel them to pay a larger share of the expense of improvements than we have compelled other people to pay for like improvements of which they are now receiving the benefit?

Mr. FAULKNER. Because the parties who have to pay this I think are more benefited by these public improvements than others which have been made outside of the city limits. I do not think there is any objection on the part of the persons against whose land this amount would be assessed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment offered by the Senator from West Virginia as a substitute for the committee's amendment.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. On behalf of the Committee on Appropriations I offer an amendment to be inserted on page 21, after line 12.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 21, after line 12, it is proposed to insert:

For grading North Capitol street between T street and the Soldiers' Home, $5,000, to be expended only when the land is donated: Provided, That the sum of $5,000 shall be contributed by the parties directly interested in the grading of said street for the same purpose.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 21, in line 14, to increase the total amount of the appropriations for "streets" from "$41,500" to "$55,500."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. I ask that the Secretary may be authorized to change the footings so as to correspond with the amendments which have been made.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is customary to do that after the bill has been passed.

Mr. ALLISON. That is all right.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 21, line 17, after the word "alleys" to strike out "two thousand five hundred" and insert "ten thousand;" so as to make the clause read:

Condemnation of streets, roads, and alleys: For condemnation of streets, roads and alleys, $10,000

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 21, line 21, before the word "thousand," to strike out "three" and insert "fifteen;" and in line 22, after the word "dollars" to strike out the following proviso:

Provided, That no expenditure hereunder shall be made at a price higher than 24 cents per 1,000 square yards for improved streets and avenues—so as to make the clause read:

Sprinkling, sweeping, and cleaning: For sprinkling, sweeping, and cleaning streets, avenues, alleys, and suburban streets, $115,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 22, line 5, before the word "thousand," to strike out "eighteen" and insert "nineteen;" so as to make the clause read:

For the parking commission: For contingent expenses, including laborers, cart hire, trees, tree-boxes, tree stakes, tree straps, planting and care of trees on city and suburban streets, whitewashing, care of parks, and miscellaneous items, $19,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 23, line 17, after the word "scales," to strike out "fifty" and insert "one hundred;" so as to read:

For public scales: For repair and replacement of public scales, $100.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 24, beginning in line 1, to insert:

Rebuilding bridges: For rebuilding the bridge across Rock Creek at K street NW, to be rebuilt in such manner that the bridge shall be substantially a part of the street as to width, paving, and sidewalks, $20,000: Provided, That no street railway shall be constructed over said bridge.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move to amend the amendment, in line 4, by striking out "twenty" and inserting "forty," before "thousand."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In the amendment of the committee, on page 24, line 4, before the word "thousand," it is proposed to strike out "twenty" and insert "forty;" so as to read: "$40,000."

Mr. McMILLAN. The amendment is offered for the reason that the District Committee and the Commissioners believe that it is now proper to rebuild a number of bridges, and among others the K street bridge. Instead of having flimsy, narrow bridges, it is intended to build them as wide as the streets, pave them, and have proper sidewalks. The engineer in making up the estimate made a mistake in regard to the cost of this bridge across Rock Creek. He estimated that it could be done for $20,000. He writes me now that it will require $40,000, and I ask the Committee on Appropriations to allow that amendment to be made.

Mr. ALLISON. I have a letter of a similar character from the Engineer Commissioner.

Mr. GORMAN. I should like to ask the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia in regard to that bridge, for I know it is important, being on one of the principal streets in the city. On the west side of it, the Georgetown side, coming right up to the bridge, by a charter which has been granted, there is a steam railroad, with the right to construct a road, to lay tracks, but with no engines or cars yet running. There is a measure now pending before this body, reported from the Senator's committee, to permit the use of steam right across the creek where this bridge is to be constructed. It is true that there is a proviso that the bridge itself shall not be used for railroad purposes, but if that railroad is permitted to be operated there by steam, coming right up to the bridge, then the bridge will be practically of no earthly use for travel, and the $40,000 proposed to be appropriated will be thrown away.

Mr. McMILLAN. I do not understand that to be the case, but the Board of Commissioners recommended that this bridge, being out of repair, should be rebuilt. They themselves prepared a bill. It was done under the charge and control of the engineer, and I suppose there is a necessity for this bridge.

Mr. GORMAN. I have no question but that the engineers are right. I am perfectly familiar with the bridge, and have been since its construction. It is in a very bad condition.

Mr. ALLISON. Do I understand the Senator from Maryland to say that there is authority now to run steam cars right above this bridge on the Georgetown side?

Mr. GORMAN. I do, and the tracks are down. The charter has been granted, and there is pending now in this body a bill providing for the extension of that road across Rock Creek. I have no doubt that but for this provision, which the Senator himself has inserted here, that the bridge shall not be used for railroad purposes, it would have been constructed for a steam railroad.

Mr. HALE. What bridge is that?

Mr. GORMAN. The K street bridge across Rock Creek.

Mr. HALE. Is it the bridge that we cross in driving out to Georgetown along Pennsylvania avenue?

Mr. GORMAN. No; below that.

Mr. HARRIS. Away below.

Mr. GORMAN. It is on the street below the Aqueduct bridge, where the water pipes are.

Mr. HALE. At the line of Rock Creek, and it is below Pennsylvania avenue?

Mr. GORMAN. It is below Pennsylvania avenue. I suggest to the chairman of the committee that this appropriation is, I think, a very proper one and a very necessary one, but he ought to move to recommit the bill which has been reported to this body providing for the extension of the line of that steam railroad. If this appropriation is to be of value, the railroad certainly ought not to be permitted to use the bridge or to come within 40 feet of it.

Mr. FAULKNER. I do not know of any railroad that has authority to use this bridge or cross it. I know of no such bill that ever came from the District Committee.

Mr. GORMAN. No, I did not say they had authority to use this bridge, but they occupy the street up to the bridge on the west side, and a bill is pending now permitting them to cross Rock Creek, and as a matter of course they will cross right at this proposed bridge to come over on the Washington side. There is no question about that at all.

Mr. FAULKNER. To what company does the Senator refer?

Mr. GORMAN. The Georgetown Barge, Dock, and Elevator Company.

Mr. FAULKNER. That bill requires the company to go south of this bridge in coming over as far as Twenty-sixth street. That is not involved in this question at all.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] to the amendment of the committee.

Mr. McPHERSON. Let it be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 21, line 4, in the amendment of the committee, before the word "thousand," it is proposed to strike out "twenty" and insert "forty;" so as to make the clause read:

Rebuilding bridges: For rebuilding the bridge across Rock Creek at K street northwest, to be rebuilt in such manner that the bridge shall be substantially a part of the street as to width, paving, and sidewalks, $40,000: Provided, That no street railway shall be constructed over said bridge.

Mr. HALE. I think it ought to be understood that the action of the Senate here, so far from being an encouragement that this road shall use this bridge or cross Rock Creek at the particular place where this bridge is to be rebuilt, shall be notice to them that they are not to have that privilege. Otherwise, with their tracks laid and coming squarely against the end of this bridge, unless we take such action here as would negative it, the presumption would be that they would ask us to run over this bridge, and permission would be given them. It ought to be understood that they must build somewhere else, that they must divert their track either below or above.

Mr. CULLOM. We could not afford to have engines standing at the other end of the bridge.

Mr. FAULKNER. If the Senator will examine either of the bills now pending in the Senate in relation to this subject he will see at once that they do not in any way interfere with this bridge.

Mr. HALE. The track should be taken away from the end of the bridge and there should be no railroad over the bridge.

Mr. FAULKNER. There is no railroad over this bridge.

Mr. HALE. No, but the Senator from Maryland says the track comes up square to the end of the bridge. That must be taken away, of course.

Mr. FAULKNER. It comes, I suppose, to within 50 or 100 feet of the bridge.

Mr. HALE. Below it?

Mr. FAULKNER. Yes, down by Water street, which is used entirely for warehouses and foundries.

Mr. HALE. That is below.

Mr. FAULKNER. No, it is on the same street. This bridge is right near Water street.

Mr. HALE. That is the river street, the lower street.

Mr. FAULKNER. Yes, there is nothing on either side of that street, except warehouses and foundries, and the railroad was put there originally for the purpose of supplying and accommodating those foundries and warehouses. That is the purpose for which it is used, entirely and exclusively.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Michigan to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. I move in line 5 of the amendment, after the word "street," to insert "or steam."

Mr. McPHERSON. I have not heard any reason for increasing this appropriation from $20,000 to $40,000.

Mr. ALLISON. I will state to the Senator that the Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia in making the original estimate for $20,000, did not estimate for the full width of the street, and the Commissioners now recommend that it shall be built with sidewalks, etc., to go with it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment of the Senator from Iowa to the amendment of the committee will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 5, of the amendment, after the word "street," it is proposed to insert the words "or steam," so as to read:

Provided, That no street or steam railway shall be constructed over said bridge.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 24, after line 6, to insert:

For rebuilding the bridge across Rock Creek at M street northwest, to be rebuilt in such manner that the bridge shall be substantially a part of the street as to width, paving, and sidewalks, $40,000, one-half of which sum shall be paid by the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company.

Mr. McPHERSON. Here comes that question again. I wish to submit just this one proposition, and I think it is an exceedingly fair and proper one. The Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company have the free use of the streets of the city of Washington, I understand, from the navy-yard clear across to Georgetown, for which they pay nothing whatever, which is a most valuable franchise. They have had the free use of this bridge in the past. Now, adopting the same principle which was adopted with reference to another line of railroad in a former amendment, I think this company should be compelled to rebuild the M street bridge at their own expense. I think the same rule should apply to this amendment and the one which follows in relation to the Metropolitan Railroad Company.

The District has furnished them truckways through the streets of the city and a bridge across Rock Creek up to the present time. Now the railroad company should furnish to the District, reserving, of course, its right to cross this bridge, as it has its right under the charter, a free bridge across Rock Creek as a partial equity for the advantages they have in this city and for the great revenues they are deriving from the contributions of the people who patronize their cars. I move that the word "one-half" be stricken out.

Mr. McPHERSON. The amendment reads:

One-half of which sum shall be paid by the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company.

I propose to strike out the words "one-half of."

Mr. McMILLAN. I introduced a bill on behalf of the District Committee proposing that the amount to be paid by the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company and by the Metropolitan Railroad Company should be divided in that way.

In reply to the Senator from New Jersey, I would say that the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company pays a large tax for its privileges, upwards of $30,000 a year to the revenues of this District. They were originally given by Congress the right to use the M street bridge. The bridge is a weak and narrow one, not fit for the purposes for which it was originally built, but the policy at that time seemed to be a cheap policy, to build anything that would take across a team.

To-day on all these bridges there are notices that you must walk your horses across the bridges, because they are not safe. A bridge could be built on M street for a very small amount of money that would answer the purposes of the railroad company, but it was thought desirable by the committee that a proper bridge should be constructed, as wide as the street itself, properly paved, and with paved sidewalks, as if it was part of the street. Under those circumstances the committee thought it was only right and fair that the District government should pay one-half the cost, and I believe that is a fair division of the amount expended there, considering that the people of the District are going to use this bridge with their carriages and teams and as foot passengers, and it is intended for the public. If the railroad was not there, the public would have to have the bridge just the same. I therefore think the provision in the bill as reported by the Committee on Appropriations is a fair division of the amount that should be paid.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment to the amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 24, in line 10, in the amendment of the Committee on Appropriations, after the word "dollars," it is proposed to strike out "one-half of," so as to read:

Which sum shall be paid by the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company.

Mr. McPHERSON. If it be the decision both of the District Committee and the Committee on Appropriations that this is equitable, and only equitable to the railroad company, I do not wish to press my amendment, although I think the railroad company at this time should be compelled to build the entire bridge and to give the easement over the bridge to the citizens of Washington, the same as the railroad company has been enjoying from the District government.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator withdraw his amendment to the amendment?

Mr. McPHERSON. I withdraw it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment proposed by the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in section 1, on page 24, after line 12, to insert:

For rebuilding the bridge across Rock Creek at P street northwest, to be rebuilt in such manner that the bridge shall be substantially a part of the street as to width, paving, and sidewalks, $50,000, one-half of which sum shall be paid by the Metropolitan Railroad Company.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. I offer the following amendment to be inserted on page 24, at the end of line 17:

Provided, That the control of bridges in the District of Columbia is hereby conferred on the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and they are hereby required to make such proper regulations as they may deem necessary for the safety of the public using said bridges, and for the lighting and police control of the same.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in the appropriation for "Washington Aqueduct," in section 1, on page 24, line 20, before the word "thousand," to strike out "twenty" and insert "twenty-one," and in the same line, after the word "dollars," to insert:

Provided, That all appropriations for the Washington Aqueduct shall be available until expended.

So as to make the clause read:

WASHINGTON AQUEDUCT.

For engineering, maintenance, and general repairs, $11,000. Provided, That all appropriations for the Washington Aqueduct shall be available until expended.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 48, after line 21, to insert:

For extending the high-service system of water distribution, to include all necessary land, machinery, buildings, reservoirs, standpipes, mains, and appurtenances, $100,000, or so much thereof as may be available in the water fund after providing for the expenditures hereinbefore authorized; and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized and empowered to acquire by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, the land, including necessary portions of public roads, required for the said extension, and the right of way, where necessary, for the construction, maintenance, and repair of the requisite water mains and their appurtenances for the said extension.

Mr. ALLISON. In line 23, I move to strike out from the amendment the word "reservoirs" before "standpipes."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was to strike out section 3, as follows:

SEC. 3. That the Treasurer of the United States is hereby directed and authorized to apply such portion as may be deemed expedient of any surplus which may remain at the close of the fiscal 1893, and of each fiscal year thereafter, of the general revenues of the District of Columbia in excess of one-half of those appropriations payable equally out of the revenues of the District and the United States, together with any surplus revenues of the water department, to the payment of the balances yet remaining unpaid of the debts of the District of Columbia created by the act approved July 15, 1882, entitled "An act to increase the water supply of the city of Washington, and for other purposes," and of section 2 of the District of Columbia appropriation act, approved March 3, 1891: Provided, That the amount of said surplus shall be first reported to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and the Treasurer of the United States by the First Comptroller of the Treasury when called upon to do so.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was concluded.

Mr. McMILLAN. I offer the amendment which I send to the desk, recommended by a majority of the Committee on the District of Columbia. Then I have a substitute to offer on my own account.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 46, after line 8, it is proposed to insert:

That the sum of $75,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated to pay the proper and legitimate expenses attending the reception and entertainment of such honorably discharged Union soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the war of the rebellion as may attend, as delegates or otherwise, the twenty-sixth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, in the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, and attending the preparation for such reception and entertainment.

SEC. 2. That one-half of the sum hereby appropriated shall be paid out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, and the remainder out of the revenues of the District of Columbia.

SEC. 3. That the sum hereby appropriated shall be paid to, and be disbursed by, the citizens' executive committee of Washington having in charge such reception and entertainment, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury: Provided, That no part of the above appropriation shall be available until the sum of $50,000 shall have been raised by popular subscription for a like purpose, and said money so subscribed shall first be expended.

Mr. McMILLAN. I now offer a substitute for the amendment just read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The substitute will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 46, after line 8, it is proposed to insert:

National encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic: To pay the proper and legitimate expenses attending the reception and entertainment of such honorably discharged Union soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the war of the rebellion, as may attend as delegates or otherwise the Twenty-sixth National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in the city of Washington, D. C., and attending the preparation for such reception and entertainment, $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the substitute.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I desire to say that the amendment reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia was not authorized by the unanimous committee. It is a report of a majority.

I have stood here for fifteen years objecting to and voting against all appropriations which proposed to take money out of the Treasury and appropriate it to any mere charitable purpose, for any mere donation. I am one of the few who believe that Congress has no constitutional power or authority to levy taxes and collect money from the earnings of the people for any other than a public and legitimate governmental purpose. This can not be considered as a public or a governmental purpose. It would be a graceful charity if Congress should take $100,000 or $75,000 of the moneys of the people out of the Treasury and give a magnificent entertainment to our distinguished visitors, but I deny the right of the Senate to appropriate moneys out of the Treasury, obtained by taxation, to any such purpose or to any purpose other than that of defraying the necessary expenses of the Government itself.

Upon that narrow, but as I think constitutional, ground I have stood for the fifteen years that I have had the honor of occupying a seat upon this floor, and upon that ground I shall continue to stand.

It would not have mattered with me, sir, whether this were proposed as a fund to honor the visitation of a Confederate reunion any more than for the persons to whom it is proposed to be appropriated. My point is that it does not fall within the line of any duty of the Government; that we have no right to levy and collect taxes for any such purpose; and when you take the revenues out of the Treasury already collected, you superinduce the necessity of levying and collecting a similar amount to replace them.

I shall be for that reason compelled to vote against the amendment, and against any appropriation for the object suggested.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, in addition to what has been said by the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS], I desire to add that this seems to me the most extraordinary movement in the way of particular appropriation which I have encountered during my public service. In defiance of all sorts of misconstruction arising from the fact that I was not a Federal soldier, I simply want to appeal to the justice of the Senate in regard to appropriating this amount of money, not out of the treasury of the District of Columbia, not out of the municipal funds of the city of Washington, but from the tax-money of the whole people of the United States.

If, Mr. President, Congress had invited this association here, then, under the rights of hospitality and the generous liberality that characterizes the American people in regard to all such occasions I should be the last Senator to oppose an appropriation twice or three times as large; but Congress has not been consulted in regard to this matter at all. The invitation was extended by the citizens of the city of Washington alone, and a brief résumé of the facts will show how palpably unjust would be the appropriation of this amount of money from the general treasury of the people.

It is very well known that it has been the custom for years of rival cities extending invitations to the Grand Army of the Republic to hold their national encampments from year to year in those cities, and it is very well known that the merchants, hotel-keepers, saloon-keepers, and others reap a rich harvest from the assembling of this large number of old soldiers upon these occasions. When this annual encampment was about to occur, during the last year the city of Washington, as a municipality, sent its citizens, with large promises of hospitality and entertainment, to attract this encampment to their midst. Was it the action of Congress? Was it the action of the representatives of the people, or was it the action of the citizens, shop-keepers, hotel-keepers, and others in the city of Washington alone? Now, under this promise of obtaining this encampment the people of the whole country are called upon to defray one-half of the expense of it.

Mr. President, these exorbitant demands, for they are nothing else, by the people of Washington upon the General Government are becoming disgusting to the people of the whole of the United States. We have built up with the money of all the people of the country the most beautiful city almost in the world. There is not a city in the United States that would not to-day give $20,000,000 in order to obtain the location of the capital of this great country of 65,000,000 people and it would pay all the taxes besides. But we are now building magnificent edifices here; we are paying one-half the taxes; we are making this city the favorite amongst all the municipalities of the country. They are not satisfied with this, but come here now and propose to make us pay one-half of the expenses of entertaining their guests, when they know at the same time that Congress has not been consulted in regard to the matter at all. It surpasses all that I have ever known in the exorbitant demands that are made upon the Congress of the United States because it is located here in this city of Washington.

As to what has been said by the Senator from Tennessee in regard to the constitutional objections, if the right were so clear under the Constitution that it could be seen of all men at a distance, I should not vote for this appropriation. When Washington City and its people are reaping all the results and all the benefits, when they are their guests and not ours, when the Treasury to-day is not in a condition to sustain this sort of expenditure for any such purpose, it would, with my convictions, be a criminal act upon my part to sit here silent at the risk of any such misconstruction and permit any such appropriation to go through.

Mr. COCKRELL. I offer an amendment to the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to add to the proposed amendment:

And the whole of said amount shall be paid exclusively out of the revenues of the District of Columbia.

Mr. McMILLAN. Mr. President, the objection to that in my mind is, that all the expenses of the District of Columbia are governed by Congress. The amount expended here for every purpose is divided between the Government of the United States and the District. The United States Government owns practically one-half of the property in this District, and, therefore it pays one-half of the taxes. It seems to me in a matter of this kind that it is only right and proper that this amount of money should be divided between the two, just as everything else is, just as it is suggested to me as the Zoological Park is, which is a national matter, though we make the District pay one-half, and for the Rock Creek Park, which is practically for the use of the whole country, Congress has made the citizens here pay one-half of the expense not only of the land, but of supporting it.

I hope the amendment will not prevail.

Mr. HIGGINS. Mr. President, the annual encampments of the Grand Army of the Republic have been held at one and another city of the country always upon the invitations of such cities, and upon them has fallen, as a part of their municipal functions, the duty of hospitality. In every case the fund for such entertainment, as has been stated by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST], has been made up in part by the subscriptions of citizens, and invariably in part by contributions from the municipality and from the State in which the encampment is held.

This year the invitation has been extended by citizens of Washington, it has been accepted by the Grand Army of the Republic, and their encampment is to be held in this city. So we are met by this question under the particular exigencies of the government of this city. We have taken from the people of Washington the right of self-government. We have, I will not say usurped, but we have absorbed that authority and that duty. This call comes upon us with precisely the same force and is of just the same character as the call which has been made to the municipal governments of the cities and to the Legislatures of the States where this encampment has been held in other cities. The constitutional authority that we have is precisely the authority which the Legislatures of the States have, and our duty is no larger nor other than their duty.

Shall it be said that it does not belong to the municipality to exercise the function of hospitality? Have the Legislatures of the States no power to make such appropriations? If they have, certainly we have. So, Mr. President, it comes to the other question as to what the amount shall be. The committee, in the first instance, placed the amount at $75,000, the representation having been made to the committee that the citizens would raise $50,000, and $100,000 having been asked for from the Government.

The committee first recommended an amendment to the bill placing the amount of the appropriation by Congress at $75,000, of course one-half of that sum to be paid, like all others raised by taxation, from the revenues of the District and one-half from the revenues of the General Government. But that has elicited and called forth from the committee of citizens having charge of this matter, and from the public press and other representatives of public opinion and those having charge of the subject the claim that $100,000 is needed for the proper exercise of the function of hospitality in this instance.

I wish to ask if this Government is going to put a narrow limit upon the amount that will properly be appropriated for this patriotic subject? It is perfectly clear that the occasion of the meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic in this capital and historic city is going to call forth a larger number of visitors, a larger encampment than has ever before been held in the history of that organization or in the history of the Government. I shall not expect that Congress, representing the people of the United States, will stint their allowance to less than the exigencies of the occasion may require.

Neither can I see that this appropriation differs from any other as to the fund from which it should be drawn. It falls upon the municipality properly, and how are all of these obligations met? Upon the principle by and large that the Government, owning one-half of the property, shall assume one-half of the taxes, obligations, and duties that fall upon the District.

It seems to me, therefore, that the amendment suggested by the committee is just and ought to pass, and that the amendment to the amendment offered by the Senator from Missouri just before I rose to submit these remarks should not be adopted.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, if the proposition of the Senator from Delaware be correct, then both as a matter of law and equity our wards in the city of Washington should assume the position of wards, and not undertake to bind us by extending even hospitable invitations to anybody. The fallacy of the argument is that when the people of Washington propose to exercise the functions of a municipal government they do so and then come to Congress to make good the liability they assume themselves.

The Senator says that an enormous encampment will be held here. Every soldier or ex-soldier who comes here will pay so much money to the people of Washington. Every one of them who spends a dollar here will pour it into the coffers of the people of this city. Why do the cities of the United States scramble for this encampment year by year exactly as they do for the conventions of the great political parties? It is to put money in their pockets, and for no other purpose.

When the Senator says that we occupy the position of a State Legislature relatively to this matter I would be glad for him to show me the custom that has sprung up in this country of the State Legislatures paying the expenses of these encampments invited by cities.

Mr. DAWES. The encampment was held last year in Boston. The State Legislature appropriated $50,000, the city of Boston $25,000, and the citizens raised thirty-odd thousand dollars.

Mr. VEST. Exactly, and that was the State of Massachusetts. When this encampment was held in the State of Missouri, the city of St. Louis paid the expenses, as it ought to have done, and the General Assembly of Missouri paid nothing.

Mr. DAWES. The Legislature of Massachusetts paid $50,000.

Mr. VEST. I understand, and they had the right to do it; and I do not question that; and if this was the Legislature in that sense of the people of the city of Washington, if we had authorized them to extend this invitation, if we were at all responsible for it, as a matter of course it would be in the nature of a contract. The Legislature of Massachusetts represented the people of the State. The Congress of the United States represents the people of the whole Union, not of the District of Columbia alone.

I say no such custom has prevailed. It may have been done in the State of Massachusetts. It was not done in the State of Missouri, and if there are other States in which the Legislature has been called upon to do it, it furnishes no precedent for us. The whole thing rests at last upon the single question whether if the people of the city of Washington acted without consulting Congress, Congress is bound in any way to pay the expenses of the guests whom they have invited.

Mr. PEPPER. Mr. President, the argument in favor of this appropriation is based upon an assumption that Congress is under an obligation in some way to pay at least a certain amount or money to entertain the soldiers when they come here this fall. I do not agree with that assumption. I do not believe that the people of the United States are under any obligation to pay for entertaining the old soldiers when they come to Washington. If that were true, the same obligation would rest upon Congress no matter where the Grand Army should hold its national encampment.

At the outset permit me to say that I was a Federal soldier. I served in the army three of the best years of my life. I have some recollections of that great war that I shall carry with me to the bivouac at the other side. I do not believe that the old boys who wore the blue are beggars. I do not believe that they are going about the country asking for the hospitalities of the people either of a particular locality or of the country in general. But I do believe that when a city or a State, or, if it might be, the nation, invite the Grand Army to come and partake of their hospitalities the city or the State should pay the expenses. I think that the old boys will feel just that way about Washington City.

I understand that the people of the capital city have invited the soldiers to come and hold their national encampment here. I understand that they bid for their coming, and that they promised them entertainment; but they were not authorized by this body to say that the people of the whole nation would pay the expenses.

Now, another thing, Mr. President. This custom is one that is growing in the country; and it seems to me that if we are not able to stop it now, those of us who are thinking about the growing custom ought to put upon at least one mild objection to it. First the citizens of a particular town, and only a small portion of those citizens, the real-estate dealers, the bankers, the hotel-keepers, and other classes who expect to profit by the coming of the people extend an invitation. They pledge their own people.

Perhaps they are authorized to do that, and it may be well enough; but when they come to pledge the money and the resources of a larger body, of a whole State or a whole nation, they go far beyond their authority. First, these pledges will be made to the Grand Army, and then as soon as the invitation is accepted and arrangements are made for the encampment, immediately a system of begging—if I am not using too harsh an expression—is indulged, asking somebody else to come in and to pay the burdens that may be imposed upon a particular people, when as a matter of fact all that is gained, in a pecuniary view, from the coming of these men goes into the coffers of the people of the particular city.

The people of the country will not be benefited by the coming of the old soldiers here. If any personal or pecuniary benefit is derived from their coming it will be to the citizens of Washington and to no other class of people.

In making these remarks I know that I am treading upon tender ground; I know that I am arousing tender feelings in the hearts of many members of this body and of others who are listening, and I want to give my reasons for my position before I conclude. It seems to me, sir, it is time that we, the old soldiers, should cry out against this practice of first inviting the boys to come and then asking other people to pay for their dinners. I do not believe in it, and I think it is time that some one at least who was connected with the Grand Army should have the courage to say so before the people.

There is another point to be considered. We have no authority even to pledge ourselves to grant this money. Whatever money we agree to pay is the people's money; it is not ours. We are here as the custodians of the people's money, to use it in their interest and not to appropriate it for private uses.

I was surprised when I heard of the amendment being proposed to this bill, that the people of the country should be asked to pay an obligation that the citizens of Washington have voluntarily assumed.

Having said this much, I will now take one night to consider. I think that we will hardly dispose of this measure finally until to-morrow. I will take one night to consider what my old soldier friends in Kansas would ask me to do in voting upon this question. There are many of them here in this city. I say I will take time to think about that; and if my vote should in the end be in favor of the appropriation, it will be under my own personal protest and in obedience to the wishes of those who stand behind me.

Mr. HIGGINS. Mr. President, it seems to me quite indifferent whether we regard the Congress of the United States as standing here as the city council or municipal government of Washington and the District of Columbia or as the State Legislature. It seems that in Massachusetts the State Legislature appropriated a part of the fund for the entertainment of the Grand Army at Boston. We are told by the Senator from Missouri that the State of Missouri did not contribute to the entertainment of the Grand Army in St. Louis, but it was done by the municipality of St. Louis alone.

However, the Congress of the United States is virtually the municipal government of the District of Columbia, and that District is not a State. Originally it was but 10 miles square. After that Alexandria was taken off of it, and virtually the city of Washington is coterminous with the District of Columbia. It therefore comes before Congress, virtually acting for this municipality, and the reason why we have to act upon it is that we have taken away from this people the power and right of municipal government. So our obligation is precisely equivalent to what it would be if we were the city council of the city of Washington.

The Senator from Missouri has said that we are called upon to pay the bill of an entertainment which we have not asked for, but which was asked for by the citizens of Washington on their own motion before they came to Congress in the first instance. I would ask if that has not been the course in every instance of the kind? I would ask whether in any city of this country where the Grand Army has held its encampment an invitation was not extended in the first place by the citizens before they had support from their city council or from their State Legislature? They go forward upon the expectation that they are speaking for all the people of the city, and that the citizens will be perfectly willing to expend their money on that behalf.

Neither can it be said in this case that we are voting the money of the people of the United States in any different sense from what we do in the payment of all our appropriations for the District of Columbia. The duty to pay one-half of this tax, like that of every other, rests upon the fact that the United States is the half owner of the property here, and therefore has to meet one-half of its obligations.

Mr. COCKRELL. I do not know that we can dispose of this question this evening, and therefore I should like to suggest one or two amendments. I propose to strike out "$100,000" and insert "$50,000." In connection with that I propose to make it payable by the District. I want that to come in with my amendment, and I hope that it will be agreed to.

Mr. CULLOM. Pending that I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. ALLISON. I ask the Senator from Illinois to yield to me.

Mr. HAWLEY. I wish to offer an amendment.

Mr. CULLOM. I yield to the chairman of the committee and to the Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. HAWLEY. I wish to submit an amendment to the amendment, which I shall propose to-morrow to the paragraph under consideration. There is already an amendment to the amendment pending, so I can not offer it now, but I submit it so that it can go into the RECORD. I propose to add, after the words submitted by the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia:

And the sum hereby appropriated shall be paid to and disbursed by the citizens' executive committee of Washington having in charge such reception and entertainment, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War.

I shall offer that amendment to the amendment when it will be in order.

Mr. ALLISON. I omitted to propose one amendment in behalf of the committee, which I ask may be disposed of now, and then I will yield to the motion of the Senator from Illinois for an adjournment or an executive session. On page 21, after line 12, I move to insert:

For Harewood road, widening, grading, and extending to Bates' road, $5,000; Provided, That there is dedicated to the District of Columbia enough of the abutting land on each side of said Harewood road to make said road 20 feet wide (the cost of removing and rebuilding the Soldiers' Home east gate lodge and the fencing, to be paid for out of said appropriation); and the board of commissioners of the Soldiers' Home is hereby authorized to dedicate its share of the abutting land and to allow the said road to be so widened, graded, and improved where it abuts on the Soldiers' Home grounds; Provided further, That the extension of the Bates' road shall be dedicated along such line as may be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall apply to that portion of the Harewood Road between the Soldiers' Home and the National Cemetery.

I desire to have the amendment acted upon now. It relates to the narrow road between the Soldiers' Home grounds and the University grounds, in the eastern part of the District.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment submitted by the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON]. The amendment was agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed a bill (H. R. 6007) to place wool on the free list and to reduce the duties on woolen goods; in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

LIST OF TREASURY EMPLOYÉS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting, in response to a resolution of March 24, 1892, a list of the employés of that office not specifically authorized or appropriated for by law, but appointed or employed according to the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, and paid from some general or special fund subject to his control; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment, and ordered to be printed.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, April 7, 1892.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

SECTION 445. REVISED STATUTES.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting draft of bill to amend section 445 of the Revised Statutes; which was referred to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

HEATING APPARATUS IN PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, requesting an additional appropriation to enable the Department to furnish heating apparatus in public buildings at Greenville, S. C., Los Angeles, Cal., Statesville, N. C., and Vicksburg, Miss.; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

THOMAS THATCHER.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a communication from the Court of Claims, transmitting copy of the findings in the case of Thomas Thatcher; which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

EDWARD S. ARMSTRONG.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (S. 18) for the relief of Edward S. Armstrong.

Mr. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that this bill be now considered, a bill relating to the same subject having been reported by the House committee.

The SPEAKER. The bill will be read subject to objection. The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the sum of $1,673.14 be, and the same is hereby, appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay Edward S. Armstrong, of Falls County, Mo., it being the one-eighth part of a judgment rendered by the Court of Claims on the 23d of November, 1890, against the United States, in favor of the estate of James B. Armstrong, deceased.

Mr. BURROWS. Has this bill been considered by the House committee?

Mr. NORTON. Yes, and unanimously reported.

Mr. BURROWS. How much does it carry?

Mr. NORTON. The sum of $1,663.

There being no objection to the consideration of the bill, it was ordered to a third reading, and was accordingly read the third time, the question being on its passage.

The question was taken; and on a division there were—ayes 96, noes 6.

Mr. BAILEY. No quorum.

The SPEAKER. The point of order being made that no quorum has voted, the Chair will appoint tellers.

Mr. BAILEY and Mr. NORTON were appointed tellers.

The House again divided; and the tellers reported—ayes 167. Mr. BAILEY. Mr. Speaker, a quorum having voted, I withdraw the point.

So the bill was passed.

On motion of Mr. NORTON, the motion to reconsider the last vote was laid upon the table.

The House bill of the same purport was ordered to lie upon the table.

PRIVILEGE OF THE FLOOR.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I rise to submit a question, and am not certain whether it be a question of privilege or a parliamentary question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. In the first session of the Fiftyth Congress a resolution of thanks, directing that a medal be prepared was voted to Joseph Francis, the inventor so prominently known in connection with the founding of the Life-Saving Service. Our rules, I believe, admit such gentlemen to the privileges of the floor; but I am not advised whether it is necessary to make a motion to that effect or not.

The SPEAKER. If the rule provides for the admission a card is issued on application to the Speaker.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I desire that Mr. Francis be admitted.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman will call the attention of the Chair to the matter the Chair will cause a card to be prepared.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows: To Mr. VINCENT A. TAYLOR, for one week, on account of important business.

He also presented the petition of E. F. Burr and other citizens of Lyme, Conn., praying that no exposition or exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress shall be opened on Sunday, and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat: which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the petitions of Security Council, Mahanoy City Council, Central Council, No. 61; Gen. Taylor Council, No. 298; Pennfield Council, Hemmings Mill Council, Shanksville Council, No. 729; Hunter Council, No. 596; L. Scallette Council, No. 442; Bessie Council, No. 302; Springfield Council, No. 657; Jorkintown Council, North Star Council, No. 67; Dawson Council, Iron Council, Kensington Council, Integrity Council, High Spire Council, No. 155; Washington Camp, No. 102; Washington Camp, No. 106; Washington Camp, No. 517; Littlestown Council, No. 386; United Council, No. 182; Washington Camp, No. 450; Washington Camp, No. 478; Coalton Council, No. 438, and Industrial Council, No. 437; Patriotic Order United American Mechanics of the American Defense Association, of Pennsylvania, praying for the passage of the bill to amend the naturalization laws as agreed upon and reported by the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives: which were referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. BERRY presented the petition of J. T. Hannaford and 65 other citizens of Morrilton, Ark., and a petition of citizens of Arkansas, praying for the passage of what is known as the Butterworth option bill; which were referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. HUSCOCK presented the petition of Irving Schmitz and 6 other citizens of New York City, the petition of Walter Gillis and 4 other citizens of New York City, praying for the passage of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting any legislation by the States respecting an establishment of religion or appropriating any money for sectarian purposes; which were referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a petition of Sinclairville Grange, No. 101, Patrons of Husbandry, of New York, praying for the passage of the bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs, and the bill (H. R. 395) defining lard and imposing a tax thereon; which were ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented the petition of Miles N. Smith and 18 other citizens of Chautauque County, N. Y., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bills; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. SAWYER presented a petition of members of Sawyer Post, No. 7, Grand Army of the Republic, of Wisconsin, praying for the passage of Senate bill 897, providing for the preservation and to properly mark the battle lines at Gettysburg; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DUBOIS presented a petition of the Democratic Club of Pocatello, Idaho, praying for the passage of legislation providing for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people; which was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. GORMAN presented the petition of William Anthony and other citizens of Solomons, Md., praying for the passage of a sixteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, providing that no State shall pass any law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof or making an appropriation of money for sectarian purposes; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented the petition of William A. Cowen, late of Company D, Fifth Maryland Infantry Volunteers, praying for the removal of the charge of desertion now standing against him; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented the following petitions of Glencoe Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Maryland:

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation for the encouragement of silk culture—referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Petition praying for the passage of House bill 395, defining lard and imposing a tax thereon—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts—referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. McPHERSON presented a petition of the faculty and students of the Chicago Theological Seminary, of Chicago, Ill.; a petition of students of the Drew Theological Seminary of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Madison, N. J.; a petition of the faculty and students of the Gammon Theological Seminary, of Atlanta, Ga.; a petition of the faculty and students of the Allegheny United Presbyterian Theological Seminary, of Allegheny, Pa.; and a petition of the students of the Newton Theological Institution, of Newton Center, Mass., praying that the World's Columbian Exposition may be closed on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select.)

He also presented the petition of Margaret Solly, of Camden, N. J., formerly the widow of John Barr, who was a member of Company C, First Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, during the Mexican war, praying to be allowed a pension; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PEPPER presented a petition of the Wage-workers' Political Alliance of the District of Columbia, praying that an appropriation of $75,000 be made for supplying the children in the District of Columbia with free schoolbooks; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PALMER presented the following petitions of Rutland Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Illinois:

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation for the encouragement of silk culture—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs—ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. TURPIE presented the following petitions of Owen Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Indiana:

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Petition praying for the passage of House bill 395, defining lard and imposing a tax thereon—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the free delivery of mails in rural districts—referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts—to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MILLS presented a petition of 23 citizens of Goliad County, Tex., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bills; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. FAULKNER, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. Res. 47) authorizing the resubdivision of square 673 in the city of Washington, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1077) relieving the personal representatives of John Sherman, jr., late United States Marshal for the Territory of New Mexico, from the requirements of section 833 of the Revised Statutes, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 484) to amend an act entitled, "An act relating to tax sales and taxes in the District of Columbia," reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1887) to amend an act entitled, "An act relating to tax sales and taxes in the District of Columbia," reported adversely thereon, and the bill was indefinitely postponed.

Mr. VOLCOTT, I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1308) to prevent the building of houses along certain alleys in the city of Washington, and for other purposes, to report it adversely and move its indefinite postponement, a similar bill from the other House being on the Calendar.

The report was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom the subject was referred, reported a bill (S. 2808) to regulate the practice of medicine in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1235) to regulate the practice of medicine in the District of Columbia, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1962) granting an honorable discharge to William Pierce, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. VOORHEES, from the Committee on the Library, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2159) in regard to a memorial column to commemorate the battle of Princeton, and appropriating $30,000, reported it without amendment.

MARTELLO TOWER, ON TYBEE ISLAND.

Mr. HAWLEY. I report back favorably, without amendment, from the Committee on Military Affairs, the joint resolution (H. Res. 69) authorizing the use of the martello tower, on Tybee Island, Georgia, for a signal station. It is a simple matter of consent to a disposition of that property which will be valuable to the commercial interests of Savannah, and I hope the Senate will immediately concur with the other House in the passage of the joint resolution. I ask for its immediate consideration.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution. It proposes to permit the use of the martello tower, on Tybee Island, Georgia, by telegraph or telephone companies for a signal station, to report passing vessels, under such conditions as the Secretary of War may deem proper to protect the interest of the United States.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading; read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. DOLPH. I should like to have the attention of the chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs. I introduce a bill to provide for the reservation of certain timber lands upon the Siletz Indian Reservation for the benefit of the Indians. I wish to say that this is a bill attempting to put into practical operation upon the Siletz Indian Reservation in Oregon the suggestion made by me in discussing the Indian appropriation bill, to have the Government provide upon the reservations employment

So the amendment to the amendment was rejected.
The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question recurs on the amendment of the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN].

Mr. HAWLEY. I offer now the amendment of which I gave notice yesterday.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment to the amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to add at the end of the amendment:

And the sum hereby appropriated shall be paid to and disbursed by the citizens' executive committee of Washington having in charge such reception and entertainment, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Connecticut to the amendment of the Senator from Michigan.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. QUAY. I desire to offer a further amendment to the amendment, to which I think there will be no objection. I move to strike out in the amendment of the Senator from Michigan in the third line the words, "the proper and legitimate expenses attending the reception and entertainment" and insert in lieu thereof "for the subsistence and quarters." in the fifth line, before the word "union," to insert the word "nonresident," and to strike out in the ninth line the words "and attending the preparation for such reception and entertainment," the effect of the amendment being to restrict the appropriation to the actual necessary expenses of board and lodging of the visiting delegation, leaving the ceremonial and social expenditures to be paid from the subscriptions of the citizens of the District.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment to the amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to strike out, in line 3, after the word "pay," the words "the proper and legitimate expenses attending the reception and entertainment" and insert "for subsistence and quarters;" at the beginning of line 5, to insert the word "nonresident," and in line 9, after the word "Columbia," to strike out the words "and attending the preparation for such reception and entertainment;" so that the amendment would read:

NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT OF THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.
To pay for subsistence and quarters of such honorably discharged nonresident Union soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the war of the rebellion as may attend, as delegates or otherwise, the Twenty-sixth National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, in the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary. And the sum hereby appropriated shall be paid to and disbursed by the citizens' executive committee of Washington having in charge such reception and entertainment, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania to the amendment of the Senator from Michigan.

Mr. QUAY. On that I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Several Senators having responded to their names—

Mr. MORGAN said: What is the question before the Senate?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY] to the amendment of the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN]. As there seems to be a misunderstanding as to the pending question, the Chair suggests that it should be again stated. Is there objection? If there be no objection, the amendment as proposed to be amended will be again read.

The Secretary read the amendment as it would read if amended.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on adopting the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania to the amendment of the Senator from Michigan. The roll call will be continued, unless there is a misunderstanding as to the question. If so, it will be begun anew.

Mr. PALMER. I should like to inquire whether the amendment to the amendment affects that provision which gives to the Secretary of War the control of the fund.

Mr. FRYE. That has already been adopted as a part of the amendment.

Mr. PALMER. If it does not affect that provision, it strikes me that the amendment proposed by the Senator from Pennsylvania is an exceedingly proper one.

Mr. PERKINS. It does not interfere with that at all.

Mr. QUAY. It does not interfere with it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The roll call will be continued.

The Secretary resumed the call of the roll.

Mr. DOLPH (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE].

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. PAULKNER (when Mr. KENNA's name was called). My colleague [Mr. KENNA] is detained from the Senate by indisposition. He is paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT].

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE].

Mr. MORGAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES].

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I again announce my pair with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. BARBOUR].

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. CALL. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR].

The result was announced—yeas 43, nays 5; as follows:

YEAS—43.

So the amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. KYLE. At the request of the Department of the Potomac of the Woman's Relief Corps of this city, I move to add at the close of the amendment as amended:

Provided, That $5,000 of this sum shall be placed at the disposal of the Department of the Potomac of the Woman's Relief Corps.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from South Dakota to the amendment as amended.

The amendment to the amendment was rejected.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question recurs on the amendment of the Senator from Michigan as amended.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

Mr. VOORHEES. The amendment has not been made part of the bill yet. There is another amendment, is there not?

Mr. HARRIS. The amendment of the Senator from Michigan was an amendment to an amendment that he reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia. So the question now is, I take it, on the amendment reported from the committee as amended.

Mr. BERRY. Upon that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] as amended to the amendment reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia. Upon that question the yeas and nays have been demanded.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. ALLISON. As I understand the situation, the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY] has been inserted as a substitute for all these amendments.

Mr. CULLOM, Mr. HARRIS, and Mr. HAWLEY. Oh, no.

Mr. ALLISON. Senators say "no." Let us consider for a moment. That amendment having been adopted, the question is upon placing that amendment in the bill.

Mr. HARRIS. Yes, upon agreeing to the amendment as amended.

Mr. PERKINS. As perfected.

Mr. ALLISON. Certainly, upon agreeing to the amendment as amended. So when Senators said "no" they were mistaken. I submit.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Michigan as amended.

Mr. HAWLEY. Which is an amendment to an amendment.

Mr. ALLISON. As I understand the matter, the Senator from Michigan reported an amendment from the Committee on the District of Columbia, and then himself offered an amendment to that amendment.

Mr. HARRIS. A substitute for it.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well, an amendment to that amendment in the nature of a substitute, and thereupon the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY] moved to strike out all that had been inserted by way of amendment.

Mr. BERRY and Mr. FRYE. No, no.

Mr. HARRIS. Only a part of it.

Mr. SHERMAN. Only a few words.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well; when I am mistaken of course I yield gracefully. Now I ask that the amendment be read as it stands, and that the Chair state upon what we are to vote.

Mr. HAWLEY. If the Senator will allow me, I will try to make the history of it a little clear.

Mr. ALLISON. I understand it. I only ask to have it read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 46, after line 8, it is proposed to insert:

NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT OF THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

To pay for subsistence and quarters of such honorably discharged non-resident Union soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the war of the rebellion as may attend, as delegates or otherwise, the Twenty-sixth National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, in the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary. And the sum hereby appropriated shall be paid to and disbursed by the citizens' executive committee of Washington having in charge such reception and entertainment, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment, which has just been read, to the amendment reported by the committee.

Mr. HARRIS. The amendment of the Senator from Michigan, as reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia, was the pending question, but the Senator, in his character of Senator, offered a substitute for it, and the Senate, by vote, has adopted the substitute. Now the question is upon the amendment as amended.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That is just the position of the question that the Chair intended to state.

Mr. ALLISON. And that was just the position I endeavored to state, but it seems when I stated it it was entirely wrong.

Mr. SANDERS. Is an amendment in order?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator is in order to offer an amendment to the original text.

Mr. SANDERS. I move to strike out the last eight words, "or so much thereof as may be necessary."

Mr. ALLISON. That is the usual phrase.

Mr. HAWLEY. It is the common phrase.

Mr. SANDERS. I propose that we shall appropriate $100,000 and quit.

Mr. HAWLEY. But, if it is worth while to argue that question at all, that being the usual and proper phrase, I make this suggestion to the Senator, that when the Secretary of War comes to make his regulations for the disbursement of this fund he will make them in such a manner that nothing shall be wasted, and the money will be given only to those who actually come and sleep and eat here. I think there will be something saved. If there should be $10,000 saved it will go back into the Treasury. There is nobody to give it to if it is not used for subsistence and quarters.

Mr. SANDERS. I thank the Senator from Connecticut for his suggestion.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Montana is not in order, as the Senate has already passed upon the first amendment as amended. The roll will be called upon agreeing to the amendment as amended.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CHANDLER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. BLODGETT].

Mr. CALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR]. I do not know how he would vote and I withhold my vote.

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired upon all questions with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. If he were here I should vote "yea."

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. BARBOUR]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. POWER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. WARREN (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON] upon political questions, but by the votes on the other side I observe that this is not taken to be such, and I therefore vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. MORGAN. I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES]. If he were here I should vote "nay."

Mr. QUAY. I desire again to announce the pair of my colleague [Mr. CAMERON] with the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER]. If my colleague were present he would vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL. I wish to announce that my colleague [Mr. GEORGE] is paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH]. My colleague would vote "nay" if present and at liberty to vote.

The result was announced—yeas 41, nays 10; as follows:

YEAS—41.

Allen,	Gorman,	Paddock,	Teller,
Allison,	Gray,	Peffer,	Turpie,

Cass,	Gordon,	Pettigrew,
Chandler,	Harris,	Platt,
Cockrell,	Hill,	Power,

So the amendment as amended was agreed to.

Mr. McMILLAN. On page 22 of the bill, line 23, after the word "hour," I move to insert:

And the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized, in their discretion, to provide for lighting, by means of incandescent lamps instead of gas and oil lamps, any of the streets, roadways, and avenues outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown; Provided, That the said incandescent lamps shall be of at least 25-candle power, that the price paid per lamp per year shall not exceed the existing contract price for lighting the oil lamps, and that the lamps shall each be burned not more than three thousand hours per annum; and the sum of $1,500 is hereby appropriated, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for that purpose.

Mr. ALLISON. I understand that to be a unanimous report of the Committee on the District of Columbia. If so, I do not interpose the point of order, which otherwise I think I should make.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN].

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. On page 37, after line 11, I am authorized by the Committee on the District of Columbia to move the insertion of the following words:

For bathing beach; For remodeling the bathing beach in the tidal reservoir into the form of pools, also the adjacent grounds, dressing-houses, etc., in accordance with designs and specifications, to be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, $10,000.

The proposed amendment meets with the unanimous approval of the Committee on the District of Columbia, and I present it as coming from the Committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. VEST. On page 43, line 14, before the word "dollars," I move to strike out "five hundred" and insert "two thousand;" so as to read:

For St. Joseph's Asylum, maintenance, $2,000.

Mr. ALLISON. I hope the Senator from Florida will not insist upon that amendment. I will say to him that the first paragraph, namely, that appropriating $16,000 for the relief of the poor, has been amended so that there is an opportunity of getting what he desires in conference, and if there is any power to do that, I think that can be done.

Mr. CALL. I withdraw the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment is withdrawn.

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, I have been requested to offer the amendment which I send to the desk, to come in at the end of line 8, on page 42.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 42, line 8, after the word "dollars," it is proposed to add the following:

Provided, That from and after the passage of this act the term of office of all of the members of the board of directors, except the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, the United States Senator, and the two members of the House of Representatives, shall expire on the 1st day of January in each year, and their successors shall be chosen on the second Monday in December of each year, one-third of which number shall be nominated and appointed by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and the other two-thirds elected by a majority of the directors then in office; Provided further, That one-third of the number of said directors oldest in service as such directors shall not be reelected nor be appointed by the Commissioners, as aforesaid, nor shall they be eligible for such reelection or appointment for the period of two years next after the expiration of their term of office; Provided further, That the term of office of the Senator and Representatives in said board of directors shall continue as provided in the act of Congress of June 19, 1852, and the term of office of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia shall continue so long as he shall remain such Commissioner.

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, I have no personal knowledge in regard to this matter, and I ask that the memorandum may be read which was sent to me to accompany the amendment.

Mr. ALLISON. Why not let it be printed in the Record?

Mr. COCKRELL. It will only take a moment to read it.

Mr. ALLISON. I may want to make the point of order on the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The memorandum presented by the Senator from Missouri will be read.

The Secretary read as follows:

Memorandum relating to the proposed amendment of the appropriation bill relating to the Columbia Hospital.

1. Under the charter and by-laws all the members of the board of directors except the Senator and two Representatives and the Commissioner of the District of Columbia hold their office for life; while the representatives of the Government, the Senator and Representatives and the Commissioner, hold only for a limited time.

2. The board of directors is not elected by the corporation. By the charter, the first twelve of the incorporators were male directors, and they elect those to fill vacancies caused by death, resignation, or by the increase in the number.

3. By reason of this situation, and the fact that the Government's representatives are in a hopeless minority (4 to 14), and that these life members elect their own successors, the Government is a mere feeder, furnishing money to a strictly private corporation in the management of whose affairs and in the election of whose officers it has practically no voice.

4. During the recess of Congress the Government has no representation at all, because of absence of members of Congress, and from March 4 to December of every two years, by reason of the expiration of Congress, according to the rule adopted by the board, Congress has no membership, because its representatives are appointed only for the life of Congress, and a member, though reelected, is not regarded as a director, because the Congress from which he is appointed has expired.

5. The corporation is really a Government institution because it is supported not by contribution of these directors, but by appropriations by Congress and the profits derived from pay patients.

6. The only way to remedy this condition and give the Government a real control is by limiting the term of office of directors to one year and having a substantial number, one-third, appointed by the Government, by its representatives, the Commissioners, leaving the entire board to elect the balance of the members and thus secure a real representation by all concerned.

Mr. ALLISON. I make the point of order on the amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. What is the point?

Mr. ALLISON. That it is legislation.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order is well taken.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, I intended to offer an amendment to this bill relating to the High Street Railway, or the railway from Georgetown to Tennallytown, but after conference with several members of the committee and other Senators I have concluded that it is better to leave that matter to the conference committee, who, I think, are now prepared to consider it, and to do justice to all concerned.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ADJOURNMENT TO MONDAY.

On motion of Mr. HALE it was and read, That when the Senate adjourn to-day it be to meet on Monday next.

CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS.

Several SENATORS addressed the Chair.

Mr. HOAR. I rise to a question of order. What is the business now before the Senate?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate

the unfinished business, being the bill (S. 2729) to amend an act entitled "An act to establish circuit courts of appeals, and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes."

Mr. HOAR. Now, Mr. President, I desire to take the floor on that bill, but I yield to any Senator who wishes to make any motion.

REMOVAL OF GARBAGE IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. BLACKBURN submitted the following resolution: which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia:

Whereas there was appropriated by the last Congress the sum of $24,000 for the removal of garbage in the District of Columbia for the year ending June 30, 1892; and

Whereas it is stated by the Commissioners for the District of Columbia in their last annual report now before Congress that said appropriation is already "practically exhausted," and an additional appropriation is asked for; Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Senate of the United States in Congress assembled do hereby instruct the Committee of the Senate on the District of Columbia to investigate the manner and methods by which said appropriation has been expended, and to report to the Senate at an early day the result of their investigations.

Also, that said committee be directed to report what changes have been made in the official management of the health department of the District of Columbia, and for what reasons; and if any unusual or unfair means have been used to accomplish such changes.

Also, if the present contractor for the transportation of garbage and the collection and transportation of dead animals in the District of Columbia, carrying out his contract according to the specifications thereof.

Also, if said contractor is an employee of the War Department, drawing a salary from the United States; and if so, why he is allowed to occupy such a double position.

Also, if said contractor has been awarded a five years' contract for the collection of garbage and dead animals in the District of Columbia; and if so, the amount of said contract; and if said contractor has been allowed to sublet said contract; and if so, to whom, and what consideration here given for the same.

BUILDING OF WAR SHIPS ON THE GREAT LAKES.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following resolution:

Whereas it is alleged that the iron and steel shipbuilding plants along the Great Lakes of the Northwest exceed in combined facilities, in magnitude, and in capital the interests of all other shipbuilding plants of the country combined; and

Whereas it is further alleged that these great inland shipbuilding interests have been denied an opportunity to bid for the construction of torpedoes and the smaller class of war ships which can be taken by the water route through the St. Lawrence to the sea; Therefore,

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate whether any bids for the construction of certain types of war ships have been received from any of said shipbuilding companies, and whether such bid or bids have been refused or rejected by his Department for any reason or reasons other than such as follow from the usual rule in accepting or rejecting bids for such class of work, and if so, the reasons therefor.

Mr. HALE. I do not know that there is any objection to that resolution; but I want to examine it. Let it lie over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will lie over and be printed.

NAVAL FORCE ON THE GREAT LAKES.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate whether the agreement entered into between the United States and Great Britain in the year 1845, covering the question of the naval force to be maintained by the two Governments on the great lakes of the United States is now held to be in force by the Department of State, and what, if any, action has been taken by our Government to revive or put in force the terms of said agreement, and if so, under what authority or action on the part of our Government such agreement has been held to be in force since the giving of the required formal notice by the President to Great Britain in December, 1861, of a desire on the part of the United States to annul said agreement at the expiration of the six months from the date of said formal notice, and of the ratification of said notice by the act of Congress of February 9, 1865.

Mr. HALE. Let that lie over, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will lie over, and be printed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TWOLE, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 418) to change the times for holding the circuit and district courts of the United States for the western district of Missouri.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills; in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 6788) to establish subports of entry and delivery at Superior, Wis., and at Ashland, Wis., in the Superior collection district of Michigan and Wisconsin; and

A bill (H. R. 5649) to increase the pension of Cassie A. Davis.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the enrolled bill (H. R. 474) to extend to Marquette, Mich., the privilege of immediate transportation of unappraised merchandise.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. CAREY. I ask to call up for present consideration Order of Business 448, being the bill (S. 577) for the relief of W. H. Ward. It is a short bill.

Mr. DOLPH. Mr. President, I rise to a question of order. I want to know if the general agreement to go to the Calendar for two days after we disposed of the Indian appropriation bill is not now the order of the Senate and if the Calendar is not in order under that agreement?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair understands that was the understanding reached some days ago.

Mr. CULLOM. I think, besides the unfinished business, there are several special orders pending.

Mr. HOAR. I was not aware that the consent was now in force. I hope the Senate will be willing to take up the bill to amend the court act, the discussion of which I think will be very short indeed.

Mr. DOLPH. Mr. President, the agreement was that after the disposition of the Indian appropriation bill we should go to the Calendar for two days under Rule VIII, and the agreement was made subject to the understanding that if the Committee on Appropriations desired to take up the District appropriation bill that bill should take the place of the consideration of the Calendar. I suppose a fair construction of the agreement would be that we should now go to the Calendar for two days. However, that is a matter for the Senate to decide.

Mr. HOAR. I shall not interpose.

Mr. DOLPH. I think if we do that we shall reach in two days' time all these bills.

Mr. COCKRELL. I hope that either now or on Monday next we shall carry out that agreement. It ought to be done.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The title of the bill called for by the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY] will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (S. 577) for the relief of William H. Ward.

Mr. COCKRELL. I do not think Senators should call up special bills from the Calendar at this time. If we are to proceed with business, let us go to the Calendar regularly.

Mr. CULLOM. We want two whole days for the Calendar.

Mr. COCKRELL. I understand we want two whole days, and this is not the time now to go to passing bills out of their order.

NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY BRIDGE COMPANY.

Mr. FRYE. I move that the bill (S. 455) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey be recommitted to the Committee on Commerce.

The motion was agreed to.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. SAWYER. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After forty minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and (at 5 o'clock and 30 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until Monday, April 11, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, April 8, 1892.

The House met at 12 o'clock m., and was called to order by the Speaker. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D. The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

INVESTIGATION OF LEASES, YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

Mr. McMILLIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from the Speaker's table a privileged resolution heretofore reported from the Committee on Rules, authorizing an investigation of certain leases in the Yellowstone National Park.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. McRAE submitted the following, which was referred to the Committee on Rules:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Public Lands be instructed and directed to examine and report, by bill or otherwise, as to the circumstances under which certain leases for parcels of grounds in the Yellowstone National Park were made on or about March 20, 1890, by the Secretary of the Interior to the Yellowstone Park Association, and also why the privilege given to said association in said leases to transport passengers into and through said park was afterwards rescinded and forfeited, and the same granted to one S. S. Huntley, together with all the facts concerning such transaction; that the committee make full inquiry into the manner of administering the affairs of said park, touching leases and privileges therein, and the management of said park generally by the Interior Department; that the committee, or any subcommittee it may designate to prosecute the inquiry and examination have power to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer; and that the expenses shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House, and the chairman of said committee, or of such subcommittee, if one be designated, is authorized to draw for the same on the Clerk of the House in sums not to exceed $200 at any one time.

Mr. McMILLIN. I demand the previous question, Mr. Speaker. That will give fifteen minutes' debate on either side, if desired.

The previous question was ordered.

Mr. McMILLIN. There is an amendment authorized, striking out the words "and to employ a stenographer." This is in order that the official stenographers to committees of the House may be employed.

The SPEAKER. Without objection that amendment will be considered as agreed to.

There was no objection.

Mr. BURROWS. Mr. Speaker, I have forgotten whether a special committee was ordered by the House to make this investigation.

Mr. McMILLIN. Not a special committee. It simply authorizes one of the standing committees of the House.

Mr. BURROWS. What committee?

Mr. McMILLIN. The Committee on Public Lands.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

WILLIAM M. BLACKFORD.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings of the court in the case of William M. Blackford against the United States; which was ordered to be printed, and referred to the Committee on War Claims.

PUBLIC BUILDING, ALLENTOWN, PA.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the bill (S. 109) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Allentown, in the State of Pennsylvania; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the special order set for this afternoon at 2 o'clock may be so modified that it will await the action of the House on this bill; that it may be postponed, if necessary, to enable us to take a vote upon this bill. I understand the gentleman in charge of the special order assents to the arrangement.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Georgia asks that the special order for 2 o'clock this afternoon be postponed until the conclusion of this bill. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

[Mr. TURNER withholds his remarks for revision. See Appendix.]

Mr. ATKINSON. Mr. Speaker, I proposed an amendment, which was to strike out the words "cotton-gin" from the bill.

The SPEAKER. That amendment will not be in order unless the demand for the previous question be voted down.

Mr. ATKINSON. I ask the gentleman from Georgia to withdraw the demand for the previous question and let this amendment be considered.

Mr. TURNER. I would be very glad to oblige the gentleman from Pennsylvania, but we are proceeding under the courtesy of the gentlemen who have given way as to the special order for our benefit, and I hope the gentleman will not urge his request.

Mr. ATKINSON. Well, it will occupy but a few minutes.

Mr. HATCH and others. Regular order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman demands the previous question on the pending amendment and to the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by adding, in the tenth line of the printed bill, after the word "gins," the words "and parts thereof."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading; and it was accordingly read the third time.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the passage of the bill.

Mr. BURROWS. Mr. Speaker, on that I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 167, nays 46, not voting 115; as follows:

The SPEAKER. On this question the yeas are 167 and the nays are 45. The ayes have it, and the bill is passed.

Mr. TURNER moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed; and also moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

APPROPRIATION BILL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER. If there be no objection, the Chair will lay before the House the District of Columbia appropriation bill, with Senate amendments, which will be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HEARD. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to make a report at this time from the Committee on the District of Columbia. Monday will be District day, and this is the only opportunity we can have before then to present the report.

There was no objection.

WASHINGTON AND GEORGETOWN RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. HEARD, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported back with a favorable recommendation the bill (S. 2045) to amend the act incorporating the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

LIGHT-HOUSES, ETC.

Mr. BRICKNER, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, by unanimous consent, reported back with a favorable recommendation the bill (H. R. 8007) providing for sundry light-houses and other aids to navigation; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

FREE TIN PLATE, ETC.

Mr. SHIVELY, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported a bill (H. R. 8033) to reduce the duty on tin plate, terne plate, tappers tin, and to repeal paragraph 209 of section 1 of an act entitled "An act to reduce the revenue, and for other purposes," which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

On motion of Mr. BURROWS, unanimous consent was given for the minority of the committee to file their views upon the bill, to be printed with the report.

RETURN OF RESOLUTIONS FROM THE SENATE.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have the order adopted which I send to the desk.

The order was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House be directed to request the Senate to return to the House of Representatives the concurrent resolution of the Senate "to print 50,000 copies of the eighth and ninth annual reports of the Bureau of Animal Industry for the years 1891 and 1892." Also the concurrent resolution of the Senate "to print 8,000 copies of the eleventh and twelfth annual reports of the Director of the Bureau of Ethnology."

The resolution was adopted.

BRIDGE BETWEEN OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

Mr. GEARY, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, by unanimous consent, reported back with a favorable recommendation the bill (S. 2388) to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the Oregon and Washington Bridge Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Columbia River between the State of Oregon and the State of Washington, and to establish it as a post-road," which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE TENNESSEE.

Mr. GEARY also, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, reported back with a favorable recommendation the bill (H. R. 6091) to amend an act to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Tennessee River at or near Knoxville, Tenn., approved August 9, 1888; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. HALL, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

To Mr. PEARSON, for one week, on account of important business.

To Mr. BRYAN, until April 21, on account of important business.

THE LATE REPRESENTATIVE MELBOURNE H. FORD.

Mr. BELKNAP. Mr. Speaker, I ask for the regular order.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the special order for this day.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That Saturday, April 9, beginning at 2 o'clock p. m., be set apart for paying tribute to the memory of Hon. Melbourne H. Ford, late a member of the House of Representatives from the Fifth district of Michigan.

Mr. BELKNAP. Mr. Speaker, I offer the resolutions which I send to the desk.

The resolutions were read, as follows:

Resolved, That the business of the House be now suspended, that opportunity may be given for tribute to the memory of the Hon. Melbourne H. Ford, late a Representative from the State of Michigan.

Resolved, That, as a particular mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, and in recognition of his eminent abilities as a public servant, the House at the conclusion of these memorial proceedings shall stand adjourned.

Resolved, That the Clerk communicate these resolutions to the Senate.

Resolved, That the Clerk be instructed to send a copy of these resolutions to the family of the deceased.

Mr. O'DONNELL. Mr. Speaker, the frequent assignment of days in which the course of business is suspended in the House of Representatives to pay tribute to the worth of departed members of the Fifty-second Congress who have gone to the silent continents of eternity furnish impressive lessons of the mutability of human affairs, the uncertainty of life, and the certainty of death. Since my service in this House many have been summoned from the activities of being to the stillness of the grave. What a roll of names that can make answer only from the silent depths of memory! In the present Congress what a membership have gone to the solemn shades!

Since Michigan became a State five of its members in this House and two Senators have died in office. The latter were Kinsley S. Bingham, one of our early statesmen, who died in 1861, and Zachariah Chandler, the great war Senator, unexpectedly taken from earth in 1879. Of the members of the House whose terms were closed by death were Edward Bradley, died in 1847, before taking his seat; Wilder D. Foster, who passed away in 1872; Alpheus S. Williams, summoned hence in 1878; Seth C. Moffatt, suddenly called in 1887; and the fifth and last of the list of Michigan's representatives released from duty by death was Melbourne H. Ford, whose memory we honor to-day, and who was numbered with the dead less than a year ago, April 20, 1891.

Mr. Ford was born in Saline, Mich., June 30, 1840. My first acquaintance with him began in my own city, where he was employed as a clerk. I remember that the duties of the clerkship were performed faithfully and acceptably by the youth. When he had given up the humble position he departed, and I did not meet him again until the winter of 1887 in this Hall, when he came to enter upon the duties of a Representative in the Fifty-third Congress.

Mr. Ford commenced his education at the Agricultural College at Lansing, and while there received the appointment of naval cadet at Annapolis. He pursued the studies at that historic school for a few months. The young man desired to serve his country. He had not attained the years on entering the Academy to be enrolled among the country's defenders, but after a time he joined the naval forces and saw a little service before the ordeal of war was fully ended. He was permitted to be a participant in the great struggle that made ambition vain, and repaid the nation in following the profession for which it had partially educated him.

When peace was restored he quitted the Navy and turned his talents to the conquests of peace, studied law, and was admitted. He never practiced that profession, but served many courts in another capacity than that of advocate or counsel. He ranked among the most proficient of stenographers and enjoyed the work. He held but two elective positions, both legislative. In 1884 he was chosen a member of the lower house of the Michigan Legislature, being accredited to that branch by the great manufacturing city of the State. He soon gave evidence of decided ability, his service being so acceptable that he was rewarded in 1886 by an election to this House.

During the term here he exhibited application and industry, accomplishing much for his constituency and district. He sought by law to stay the tide of immigration of the unworthy to our shores; to elevate American citizenship, and debar dangerous to Indians, to report it adversely, with the recommendation that it be indefinitely postponed. I will state that the reason for the adverse report is that the Senate has already passed a bill upon this subject.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. PALMER, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 866) authorizing the Secretary of War to detail certain officers of the Army for special duty in connection with the World's Columbian Exposition, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. HOAR. I am directed by the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1185) to establish a court of appeals for the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, to report it with amendments.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. HOAR. I desire to give notice that after the bill to amend the act establishing circuit courts of appeals shall have been disposed of, I shall desire to call up this bill and a kindred measure in reference to the Court of Claims, so that the three bills which relate to the jurisdiction of the different courts of the United States may be considered in succession.

TRANSFER OF REVENUE-CUTTER SERVICE.

Mr. BLACKBURN. In the absence of the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER], I ask leave to submit a report from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to accompany the bill (S. 67) to transfer the Revenue-Cutter Service from the Treasury Department to the Navy Department. That bill is already on the Calendar, and I ask leave, in the absence of the Senator from South Carolina, to submit his report to go with the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will accompany the bill on the Calendar.

Mr. CHANDLER submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Ordered, That there be printed for the use of the Senate 1,000 additional copies of the report on the bill (S. 67) to transfer the Revenue-Cutter Service from the Treasury Department to the Navy Department.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. CAMERON introduced a bill (S. 2883) for the relief of Katherine B. Montgomery, administratrix; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HISCOCK introduced a bill (S. 2884) for the relief of Charlotte A. Von Cort; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. WALTHALL introduced a bill (S. 2885) to authorize the Legislature of the State of Mississippi to sell or lease the lands heretofore appropriated to the use of schools within the Chickasaw cession, and to ratify and approve the sales already made; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. ALLEN introduced a bill (S. 2886) for the relief of Louis B. Kopp; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. McPHERSON introduced a bill (S. 2887) for the relief of the legal representatives of James V. Bomford; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DOLPH introduced a bill (S. 2888) to provide for the survey and construction of a wagon road from Gold Hill Station, Jackson County, Oregon, to Crater Lake; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. MORGAN (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2889) for the relief of Thornton A. Washington; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2890) to provide for the allotment of lands among several Indian tribes in the Quapaw Agency, in the Indian Territory, and for the sale of certain surplus lands of such tribes, and for the creation of the county of Cayuga in the Territory of Oklahoma, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 2891) to increase the pension of Warren Hullett; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PALMER (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2892) to remove the limitation in the payments of arrears of pensions; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas introduced a bill (S. 2893) authorizing the construction of a free bridge across the Arkansas River connecting Little Rock and Argenta, Ark.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. HANSBROUGH (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2894) to quiet title to certain lands in the State of North Dakota; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

AMENDMENT TO A BILL.

Mr. PADDOCK submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the agricultural appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, and ordered to be printed.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Mr. VOORHEES. Some days ago I introduced the bill (S. 2893) for the relief of John H. Crane, of the District of Columbia, and had it referred to the Committee on Claims. I am satisfied that the bill ought to go to the Committee on the District of Columbia. I ask that that change of reference be made.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there be no objection, the Committee on Claims will be discharged from the further consideration of the bill, and it will be referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia. The Chair hears no objection.

INSTITUTIONS OF LEARNING.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I move that Order of Business 381, ~~the~~ joint resolution (S. R. 55) to encourage the establishment and endowment of institutions of learning at the national capital, be indefinitely postponed. A similar measure has passed the other House and is now on the Calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

HEARINGS BEFORE COMMITTEE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Mr. MORGAN submitted the following resolution; which was read:

Resolved, That the Committee on Indian Affairs have authority for the employment of a stenographer to report the hearings of March 5 and March 19, 1892, relative to allotments of lands in severally to certain Indian tribes before a subcommittee of said committee, the compensation of said stenographer to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. MORGAN. I inquire whether the resolution must go to the Committee on Contingent Expenses?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Under the rule the resolution must go to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

Mr. MORGAN. Very well.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will be so referred.

TRADE RELATIONS WITH HAITI AND GERMANY.

Mr. MORGAN. I submit the resolutions which I send to the desk, and ask for their present consideration.

The resolutions were read, as follows:

Resolved, That the President is requested, if it is not in his opinion incompatible with the public interests, to communicate to the Senate the items of taxation upon imports from the United States imposed by the laws of the republic of Haiti, upon which he has based his finding and proclamation that the tariff laws of Haiti are, reciprocally, unjust to the United States, and that he send to the Senate the correspondence with the Government of Haiti relating to reductions of taxation under the tariff laws of Haiti, that have been proposed by either Government to secure reciprocal justice in tariff taxation between the two Governments.

Resolved, That in like manner, the President is requested to send to the Senate any agreement made by him, on behalf of the United States, with the Imperial Government of Germany, and the correspondence relating to the subject of such agreement, in which it is provided that sugar, or any other German production or export, shall be admitted free of duty into the United States. And that he inform the Senate what articles of American production he has proposed or demanded that Germany shall receive free of duty or upon a schedule of reduced duties, as the fair reciprocal equivalent of permitting the import into the United States of German sugar, hides, tea, or coffee; and, whether such proposals, or demands, made by the President, have been accepted by the Imperial Government of Germany.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolutions?

Mr. HALE. Let them lie over for a day.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolutions will go over and be printed.

BUILDING OF WAR SHIPS ON THE GREAT LAKES.

Mr. HALE. Has any action been taken on the two resolutions which on my request were laid over on Friday?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair will lay the resolutions before the Senate.

Mr. HALE. I have examined them, and I have no objection to their being passed.

The resolution submitted by Mr. McMILLAN on the 8th instant was read, as follows:

Whereas it is alleged that the iron and steel shipbuilding plants along the Great Lakes of the Northwest exceed in combined facilities, in magnitude, and in capital the interests of all other shipbuilding plants of the country combined; and,

Whereas it is further alleged that these great inland shipbuilding interests have been denied an opportunity to bid for the construction of torpedo boats and the smaller class of warships which can be taken by the water route through the St. Lawrence to the sea. Therefore,

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate whether any bids for the construction of certain types of war ships have been received from any of said shipbuilding companies, and whether such bid or bids have been refused or rejected by his Department for any reason or reasons other than such as follow from the usual rule in accepting or rejecting bids for such class of work, and if so, the reasons therefor.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

NAVAL FORCE ON THE GREAT LAKES.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate another resolution coming over from a previous day, which will be read.

The resolution submitted by Mr. McMILLAN on the 8th instant was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate whether the agreement entered into between the United States and Great Britain in the year 1817, covering the question of the naval force to be maintained by the two Governments on the Great Lakes of the United States is now held to be in force by the Department of State, and what, if any, action has been taken by our Government to revive or put in force the terms of said agreement, and if so, under what authority or action on the part of our Government such agreement has been held to be in force since the giving of the required formal notice by the President to Great Britain in December, 1864, of a desire on the part of the United States to annul said agreement at the expiration of the six months from the date of said formal notice, and of the ratification of said notice by the act of Congress of February 9, 1865.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

PURCHASE OF SILVER BULLION.

Mr. STEWART submitted the following resolution; which was read:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate what is the aggregate cost of the silver bullion and standard dollars coined therefrom purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, and now held in the Treasury, and what amount of Treasury notes issued for such purchase is now outstanding; and whether any of such notes have been received by the Treasury in exchange for gold coin or redeemed in gold coin; and what amount of silver coin there is now in the Treasury applicable to the redemption of such notes; and also whether, when such notes are received into the Treasury for customs, taxes, and other public dues, they are reissued or retained in the Treasury; and if any such notes have been retained in the Treasury, what amount has been so retained. Are persons selling bullion to the United States under the act of April 14, 1890, required to make immediate delivery and take the bullion so sold out of the market, or are they given time to make such deliveries after having made a contract to supply the United States and deprived others of that opportunity? Does the public have notice of the times, places, and amounts of silver bullion which will be purchased by the United States, or are such purchases made of brokers and bankers without such public notice? Is the business of purchasing silver bullion under the act of July 14, 1890, conducted with a view of depressing the price of bullion and obtaining it as cheap as possible, or with a view of carrying out the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals (gold and silver) on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio. And what amount of gold coin and gold bars is there in the Treasury, exclusive of outstanding gold certificates?

Mr. STEWART. I ask for the present consideration of the resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. PLATT. I presume the resolution had better be printed.

Mr. FRYE. Let it be printed.

Mr. STEWART. I should like to make a few remarks in regard to it.

Mr. PLATT. I have no objection to that; but I should like to have the resolution printed before it is passed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be printed.

Mr. STEWART. I do not know that I understand the Treasury statement and the mode of making up the accounts. It seems to me that there is some doubt about the possibility of maintaining the gold standard under the theory of the Secretary of the Treasury. The last report—

Mr. CHANDLER. Will the Senator allow me to interrupt him for a moment? My colleague [Mr. GALLINGER] gave notice that to-day he wished to submit some remarks, and I also gave notice that I desired to make some remarks to-day upon a joint resolution introduced by the Senator from Illinois [Mr. PALMER]. Do I understand that the Senator from Nevada proposes to occupy the time with a speech?

Mr. STEWART. I propose to occupy about fifteen minutes. If that is not convenient, I will let the matter go over until to-morrow.

Mr. CAMERON. I also gave notice that I should ask for an executive session this morning, and I do not want all the time consumed with other matters.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Morning business is still in order.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HOAR. I should like to know the purpose of the Senate in regard to the two days to be spent upon the Calendar. The bill for the amendment of the act to establish circuit courts of appeals is the unfinished business; but when it was made the unfinished business some ten days ago I said that I did not wish to interfere with the desire of the Senate to have two days spent upon the Calendar. I should like to have that settled now, if the Chair please. I desire to know what we can depend on.

Mr. CHANDLER. I do not suppose the Senator from Massachusetts intends to interfere with the remarks which Senators gave notice they would like to make in the morning hour to-day.

Mr. HOAR. No.

Mr. CHANDLER. It seems to me that the Senator from Nevada was about to occupy the time on his resolution, and I thought I would ask him if he would not postpone his remarks until to-morrow.

Mr. STEWART. I ask the Senator to allow me to make a suggestion and I will then yield the floor. I will allow the resolution I offered to lie on the table for the present, and I shall occupy about fifteen minutes to-morrow morning, as Senators desire to have it in print before it is acted upon. Let it lie on the table, and I shall to-morrow occupy about fifteen minutes, not to make a speech, but to explain how I understand the statements of the Treasury Department.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be printed and lie over.

Mr. STEWART. I want it distinctly understood that to-morrow morning I shall occupy about fifteen minutes, not to make any speech, but to call attention to the statements of the Secretary of the Treasury on this subject.

Mr. HOAR. Does the Chair understand that the order to spend two days on the Calendar is in force for to-day and to-morrow?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It was the understanding of the Chair at the time, that when the District of Columbia appropriation bill was completed the next two days should be devoted to the Calendar.

Mr. HOAR. Then I give notice that I shall insist upon the observance of that order for to-day and to-morrow, excepting, of course, the opportunity for the Senator from Nevada to make his remarks.

Mr. CAMERON. I hope the Senator from Massachusetts does not propose to cut off my motion for an executive session to-day.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 2503) for the relief of R. A. Spaulding, administrator of estate of Solomon Blue, deceased, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

The bill (H. R. 6006) to admit free of duty bagging for cotton, machinery for manufacturing bagging, cotton-ties, and cotton-gins, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance; and

The joint resolution (H. Res. 107) authorizing the State of Wisconsin to place in Statuary Hall at the Capitol the statue of Père Marquette was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Library.

RETURN OF CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the request of the House of Representatives to return to that body the concurrent resolution of the Senate to print 50,000 copies of the eighth and ninth annual reports of the Bureau of Animal Industry for the years 1891 and 1892; and, by unanimous consent, the request was ordered to be complied with and the concurrent resolution returned to the House of Representatives.

He also laid before the Senate the request of the House of Representatives to return to that body the concurrent resolution of the Senate to print 8,000 copies of the eleventh and twelfth annual reports of the Director of the Bureau of Ethnology, and, by unanimous consent, the request was ordered to be complied with, and the concurrent resolution returned to the House of Representatives.

NATIONAL SANITARIUM.

Mr. GALLINGER. In pursuance of the notice heretofore given by me, I call up Senate joint resolution No. 67.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate the joint resolution (S. R. 67) providing for the appointment of a commission to select a site for the establishment of a national sanitarium for the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, it may not be unprofitable for the Senate to pause for a brief time from the consideration of political and financial questions and give thought to a subject that deeply concerns the physical and moral well-being of a large class in every State of the American Union—a class of citizens environed by misfortune and rendered hopeless and helpless by disease. The statistics of mortality show that consumption destroys more lives than war, pestilence, and famine combined, and the individual sufferer is powerless to cope with this relentless enemy of mankind. In their utter helplessness these unfortunates appeal to the Congress of the United States for sympathy and help. Shall their appeal be in vain?

The joint resolution for the establishment of a national sanitarium for the treatment of pulmonary diseases, which I had the honor to introduce on the 22d day of March last, reads as follows:

SECTION 1. That the President of the United States shall appoint a commission consisting of three persons, two of whom shall be physicians, whose

Mr. DOCKERY. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HENDERSON] has voted?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is informed that the gentleman's name is recorded.

Mr. DOCKERY. I have a pair with the gentleman from Iowa, and have just come into the Hall. I do not know what the proposition is, but vote in the affirmative.

The result of the vote was then announced as above recorded.

On motion of Mr. HEARD, the motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

BUILDINGS IN ALLEYS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I send to the desk a joint resolution which I ask unanimous consent to have considered at this time. I will state that it is not reported from the committee, but I will be glad to inform the House as to the necessity for its passage as soon as it has been read.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The clerk will read the joint resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Joint resolution (H. Res. 118) to suspend the issue of permits to erect dwellings in the District of Columbia.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives, etc., That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby instructed not to issue any more permits for buildings intended for human occupation in alleys in the District of Columbia, until further provided for by Congress.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

There was no objection.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I will state, Mr. Speaker, that we passed a law providing that no more dwellings should be constructed in alleys of less than 40 feet width. The Senate committee, I am told, have proposed to amend this by making it 30 feet. While the bill is pending in the two Houses everybody in the District of Columbia who happens to own property of this character is running down to the Commissioner's office to get permits so that they can have the right to commence the construction of these buildings before the law goes into effect.

The joint resolution directs the Commissioners not to issue any more such permits until Congress shall pass finally upon the matter.

Mr. BLOUNT. I would like to ask the gentleman from South Carolina a question. I wish to know where the permits are obtained; what compensation is given for the streets or portions of streets that are occupied by these alleys?

Mr. HEMPHILL. I do not think they occupy any part of the alleys.

Mr. HEARD. This is for the construction of buildings on alley lines—on the sides of the alley.

Mr. BLOUNT. Well, if they are on either side of the alley to whom do they belong?

Mr. HEMPHILL. This is private property. It belongs to the individuals.

Mr. HEARD. This is to prevent their building houses in there until the street is opened through and they have light and gas, and to prevent their building where the alley is not 40 feet wide. It makes a den of vice now that is too difficult to police, and it is impossible to cause the observance of proper sanitary regulations.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I would like to ask the gentleman whether it is not a fact that immediately upon the passage of that bill through the House the Commissioners, without waiting for any law, refused to give any more permits?

Mr. HEMPHILL. I do not know how that is.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I am reliably informed that that is the case.

Mr. HEMPHILL. This will protect the Commissioners. They are being besieged by persons who wish to get in before Congress can act on the matter. This is simply to stop action until Congress shall decide what width of alleys they will allow.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and, being engrossed, was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. HEMPHILL, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

SQUARE 26, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I ask to call up the bill (H. R. 7081) confirming title to lands in the subdivision of square 26, in the city of Washington, D. C.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the subdivision of square 26, in the city of Washington, D. C., made by C. P. Patterson and recorded in book R. W., page 102, in the office of the surveyor of the said District, be, and the same is hereby, confirmed so far as the said subdivision embraced any part of the original alleys in said square, and the title of the persons claiming any part or parts of said original alleys under the owner of the original lots in said square at the time said subdivision was made is hereby confirmed: Provided, That the area dedicated to the public in the subdivision made by said Patterson is at least as great as that of the alleys in the said original division of said square into lots.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I would say that this simply provides for the confirmation of this subdivision, which was made in 1856, and upon which houses have already been constructed. There is no objection to it on the part of anyone, so far as I know.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. HEMPHILL, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

INSPECTOR OF PLUMBING, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I ask to call up the bill (S. 1492) to authorize the appointment of an inspector of plumbing in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

The bill was read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and their successors be, and they hereby are, authorized and empowered to make, modify, and enforce regulations governing plumbing, house drainage, and the ventilation, preservation, and maintenance in good order of house sewers and public sewers in the District of Columbia, and also regulations governing the examination, registration, and licensing of plumbers and the practice of the business of plumbing in said District; and any person who shall neglect or refuse to comply with the requirements of the provisions of said regulations after ten days' notice of the specific thing required to be done thereunder, within the time limited by the Commissioners for doing such work, or as the said time may be extended by said Commissioners, shall upon conviction thereof be punishable by a fine of not more than $200 for each and every such offense, or in default of payment of fine, to imprisonment not to exceed thirty days.

SEC. 2. That the said Commissioners and their successors be, and they hereby are, authorized and empowered to require every person licensed to practice the business of plumbing in the District of Columbia, before engaging in the said business, to file a bond in such amount and with such number of sureties as the said Commissioners shall determine, conditioned upon the faithful performance of all work in compliance with the plumbing regulations, and that the District of Columbia shall be kept harmless from the consequence of any and all acts of the said licensee during the period covered by the said bond.

SEC. 3. That the said Commissioners and their successors be, and they hereby are, authorized to establish and charge a fee for each permit granted to connect any building, premises, or establishment with any sewer, water, or gas main, or other underground structure located in any public street, avenue, alley, road, highway, or space; and also to establish and charge a fee for each permit granted to make an excavation in any public street, avenue, alley, highway, road, or space for the purpose of repairing, altering, or extending any house sewer, water main, or gas main, or other underground construction. The fees authorized by this section shall be paid to the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia and by him deposited in the Treasury of the United States, to the credit of the District of Columbia.

SEC. 4. That the said Commissioners of the District of Columbia and their successors be, and they hereby are, authorized and empowered to appoint an inspector of plumbing and such number of assistants as they deem necessary, which may be authorized by appropriations made by Congress, not exceeding four, in and for the District, whose duty it shall be, under the direction of said Commissioners, and they are hereby empowered accordingly, to inspect or cause to be inspected all houses when in course of erection in said District, to see that the plumbing, drainage, and ventilation of sewers thereof conform to the regulations hereinbefore provided for, and also at any time, during reasonable hours, under like direction, to inspect or cause to be inspected any house in said District, to examine the plumbing, drainage, and ventilation of sewers thereof, and generally to see that the regulations hereinbefore provided for are duly observed and enforced.

SEC. 5. That all laws or parts of laws inconsistent herewith be, and they hereby are, repealed.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I move to amend section 4, line 12, after the word "direction," by inserting "on the application of the owner or occupant, or the complaint of any reputable citizen."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman must reduce his amendment to writing.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I will do so. In the mean time I offer the following amendment:

The Clerk read as follows:

Strike out all of section 4 down to and including "duty," in line 6, and insert:

"That the inspector of plumbing and his assistant shall be."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is upon this amendment.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. We do not know what is stricken out, and we would like to have some explanation of it.

I will state, Mr. Speaker, that the bill provided that the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and their successors are hereby authorized and empowered to appoint an inspector of plumbing and such number of assistants as Congress may from time to time appoint. I understand from the Commissioners that they already have an inspector of plumbing and two assistant inspectors. This bill simply provided for the appointment of one more. They can get along without this additional inspector, and this will simply comply with the point made by the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] the other day, who objected to the appointment of any more officers. This will strike out that power, and simply provides that the inspector of plumbing and his assistants shall do what these new officers would have done.

Mr. HOLMAN. I ask that the amendment be reported again. The amendment was again reported.

Mr. HEMPHILL. The first part of section 4 provided that the Commissioners of the District were authorized and empowered to appoint an inspector of plumbing.

Mr. HOLMAN. I suggest this amendment, to strike out the section down to line 6, including the words "in and for," and inserting simply this:

That the said inspector of plumbing shall be under the direction of said Commissioners.

Mr. HEMPHILL. That is exactly what my amendment is. It says that the inspectors and assistants shall be under the direction of said Commissioners. I will ask the Clerk to again report the amendment.

The amendment was again reported.

Mr. HOLMAN. I have no objection to that.

The amendment was agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will now report the second amendment offered by the gentleman from South Carolina.

The Clerk read as follows:

In line 12, after the word "direction," insert the words, "on the application of the owner or occupant, or on the complaint of any reputable citizen."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HOLMAN. Now, Mr. Speaker, these salaries, of course, are permanent, and paid out of the general funds in the Treasury. The provision of section 3 is as follows:

The fees authorized by this section shall be paid to the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia and by him deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the District of Columbia.

Now, in this really private business of plumbing, the matter concerns the citizens of the District more than it does the general public and the United States; and it seems to me that under no circumstances should the compensation of these plumbers be paid out of the public Treasury. That work ought to be paid entirely out of the funds paid into the Treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia. As it stands now the Government pays one-half of the amount and the District one-half, and the District of Columbia gets the benefit of all the fees.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Oh, no, the Government only pays its half.

Mr. HOLMAN. That provision is not in this bill.

Mr. HEMPHILL. It is not in any bill of this kind. This bill does not fix any salary; does not provide compensation for anybody; and it does not provide for the appointment of anybody. There are already in the District of Columbia one plumber and two assistants, who are provided for in the District appropriation bill, of which the committee of the gentleman from Indiana is chairman has charge, and whatever regulation that committee makes will govern.

Mr. HOLMAN. Conceding that, we will let the present arrangement stand, under which one-half of the expenses of the District of Columbia are charged to the Government, and the other half to the revenue of the District, still the effect of this bill, as my friend must see, is this: Assuming now that the appropriation bill provides for these three officers, an inspector and two assistants, and the appropriation is made for it, one-half of it has to come out of the District fund and the other half to come out of the Government Treasury. Now, it is a fact, if this system be introduced, and that the expense shall be refunded by fees, these fees certainly should not go entirely into the funds of the District of Columbia, but ought to go equally to the credit of the funds of the District of Columbia and to the Treasury of the United States.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Why, Mr. Speaker, the bill does not provide for any such system as the gentleman suggests. It simply says that there are now certain fees charged in the District, and they are appropriated exactly as this bill provides. This bill fixes where these fees are to go with the matters covered by this bill; they are to go as the fees now go.

Mr. HOLMAN. Why should the District of Columbia get the whole benefit of the fees?

Mr. HEMPHILL. That is a matter that can be regulated by the Committee on Appropriations when they come to fix the salaries.

Mr. HOLMAN. Oh, no; because this money is placed to the credit of the District of Columbia.

Mr. HEMPHILL. It goes to the credit of the District of Columbia. There is no money appropriated from the District of Columbia that goes to any place except the District of Columbia.

Mr. HOLMAN. But all the fees go to the credit of the District of Columbia in this case.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Of course they do.

Mr. HOLMAN. Why not have a provision inserted that the District of Columbia shall have one-half of the fees placed to its credit, and that the other half shall go to the credit of the United States?

Mr. HEMPHILL. Why, the whole of the fees only amount to five, six, or seven thousand dollars.

Mr. HOLMAN. It does not matter how much the fees are, the principle is the same. I prefer to look after the interests of all the people rather than those of a favored community of people. Now, the gentleman must see that the effect of this provision is that the Government pays one-half of the fees for these inspections—

Mr. HEMPHILL. I trust that the gentleman will kill the bill and be done with it.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I feel very indignant every time that this kind of bill comes up, under which my constituents have to bear a large portion of the expenses of this District; and I am not willing that they shall have deducted from the results of their labor such amounts as are provided for in the matters of these salaries.

Mr. HEMPHILL. What provision does the gentleman propose?

Mr. HOLMAN. Why, that one-half of the amount of the fee shall go to the credit of the District of Columbia and the other half to the Treasury.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Very well offer your amendment, and I will agree to that. Let every bit of it go to the Treasury, if you prefer.

Mr. HOLMAN. Very well; I will take that.

Mr. HEMPHILL. It does not tax the Treasury a single cent.

Mr. HOLMAN. I move to amend by inserting "that one-half of the fees shall go to the credit of the Treasury of the United States and the other half to the credit of the District of Columbia."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Where does the gentleman desire his amendment to come in?

Mr. HOLMAN. I want to insert that amendment in lieu of the words "and by him deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the District of Columbia."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will state that the bill at the Clerk's desk is in manuscript; therefore the gentleman must write his amendment and send it up to the desk to be reported.

The amendment was read, as follows:

In line 13, after "United States," insert "one-half to the credit of the United States and one-half to the credit of the District of Columbia."

Mr. HOLMAN. Now, Mr. Speaker, before that is voted upon—

Mr. HEMPHILL. I am perfectly willing to agree to that: so it is not worth while to argue it.

Mr. HOLMAN. I am not going to argue it, but I wish to say to my friend having charge of the business of the Committee of the District of Columbia that the list of health officers, inspectors, and persons employed in connection with matters relating to the public health occupies a whole page.

I have before me a letter written by a very intelligent gentleman, a leading citizen of this city, protesting against this proposition as unnecessary, claiming that something ought to be left to the good sense and discretion of the citizens themselves, saying that this Government ought not to be made unnecessarily paternal, and that all these matters pertaining to our homes and firesides should not be subjected to Government supervision. I will not ask to have the letter read, but that is the substance of it. I have here also the list to which I have referred, of the officers and employes now engaged in connection with health matters in this city.

Mr. WASHINGTON. I will ask the gentleman from South Carolina whether the fees will not more than pay the salaries provided for in this bill?

Mr. HEMPHILL. Yes, sir.

Mr. BLOUNT. But the money will not go that way.

Mr. WASHINGTON. It goes into the Treasury.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Who pays the fees?

Mr. WASHINGTON. The people who own the property, and they ought to pay them. It is an outrage that the children of people who come here to serve the Government should be subjected to the danger of being poisoned by sewer gas because of defective plumbing in many of the old buildings that exist here. There should be an officer of the kind proposed here to inspect the plumbing in these old buildings, and also in new buildings, so as to prevent the destruction of innocent life which comes from such causes.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. There is an officer to do that now, is there not?

Mr. WASHINGTON. I am informed that there is not, and that this bill is necessary in order to make the existing system thoroughly effective.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I will ask the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] to state the number of persons that are now engaged in this line of business.

Mr. HOLMAN. In this particular branch of making inspections, etc., in connection with health, the number of officers and employes covers this entire page of paper which I hold in my hand.

Mr. BLOUNT. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say a word or two in support of the position of the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN]. It is well for us to bear in mind that the financial system of this District is based on the idea that one-half the revenues of the District are to be raised by taxation on the people and that the rest of the country, or the general Treasury, is to pay the other half.

Now, we have already created here a corps of officers and employes, just referred to by the gentleman from Indiana, who are paid for out of the general Treasury, and yet the moment we are confronted with the question of the disposition of these fees, gentlemen insist that the rule shall not obtain. There is nothing narrow in the suggestion of the gentleman from Indiana. The idea that we shall be compelled to pay one-half of the expenditure of this District, enormous as it is, upon the theory that we own one-half the property, although that one-half, when you come to investigate, consists largely in the streets of the city, is so absurd as to be repugnant to the common sense of any gentleman to whose attention it is brought.

But that is the existing rule; yet, when the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] simply asks that that rule shall be adhered to in a matter of this kind it seems to excite in some minds impatience. For one I am prepared to vote to change the basis whenever I can get an opportunity to do so, but while it exists, bad as it is, I intend, so far as my voice and my vote will go, to insist that it shall be enforced and that the abuse shall not be enlarged.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, before the vote is taken on the amendment I ask permission to put into the RECORD this list of persons already employed in this District in connection with health matters, with the salaries paid to them. They number 38 and over.

There was no objection.

The list is as follows:

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from Indiana.

The amendment was agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the third reading of the Senate bill.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I have sent for a copy of the Senate bill, but can not procure it. The bill was read here from the Senate manuscript. I would like to ask the gentleman in charge of it whether the bill does not provide that before any man can establish himself here as a plumber he must give bonds to the District.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Yes; he must file a bond in a certain amount.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. What amount.
Mr. HEMPHILL (reading):

In such amount and with such number of sureties as the said Commissioners shall determine.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Now, I ask the gentleman whether he thinks that is legislation in the right line? I would legislate to place these plumbers under severe inspection, to subject them to as severe rules and restrictions as may be justifiable; but I do not believe in compelling a young man, when he commences business, to take out a bond that he will ~~transact his business~~ in a particular way. I think it would operate as a discrimination against young men desiring to start business, who might not be able to procure the required bond, and who might thus be excluded from business as plumbers. Make your restrictions as severe as you please, but do not compel young men beginning business to give bond.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Coming as I do from a country town, I am not very well informed from personal experience as to these matters; but I have had occasion to look into this question with some interest, and I find that there is a rule of this kind in a great many other cities.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. So, too, a great many murders have been committed this year: still, murder is a poor business.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Murder is a violation of law; but here we are trying to make people conform to the law. There is this to be said: if in the future we should find that the Commissioners have exercised this power with any degree of harshness it would be very easy for Congress to correct the evil. It appears that at present the plumbing and sanitary regulations here amount practically to nothing. This bill, as I understand, is not opposed by any person who is interested as a taxpayer or who follows the business of plumbing. None of the reputable plumbers of this city, so far as I know, object to this measure; in fact, nobody, as I understand, makes any objection.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Of course the plumbers now in business would not object.

Mr. HEMPHILL. There may be a great many people ~~desiring~~ desiring to follow this business who could not give bonds; and the reason is that they are not suitable persons to carry on the business—they are not experts. We are not proposing to adopt a harsher rule than that which already prevails in many other cities of the Union.

Mr. HOLMAN. I wish to suggest to the gentleman from South Carolina an amendment to an amendment already adopted on motion of the committee. Between lines 11 and 12 there have been inserted the words "or on complaint of any reputable citizen." I move to amend by inserting after the word "complaint" the words "under oath." I think a citizen's home should not be invaded upon complaint of an outsider, unless that complaint be made under oath.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I cheerfully assent to the amendment.

The SPEAKER. If there be no objection, the words suggested by the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] will be inserted. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I move to amend by striking out the second section of the bill. This section provides—

That the said Commissioners and their successors be, and they hereby are, authorized and empowered to require every person licensed to practice the business of plumbing in the District of Columbia, before engaging in said business, to file a bond in such amount and with such number of sureties as the said Commissioners shall determine, conditioned upon the faithful performance of all work in compliance with the plumbing regulations; and that the District of Columbia shall be kept harmless from the consequences of any and all acts of the said licensee during the period covered by the said bond.

This covers all acts, whether of omission or commission. The section requires a bond resting upon such contingencies that very few men would be willing to sign it. I reiterate the point I have already made that we ought not to compel a young man beginning business for himself to give a bond like this. Make the restrictions as severe as you choose; and if a plumber does not properly perform his duties, deprive him of his license; but to provide that a young man beginning business of this sort, without capital and trying to work his way up, shall be required at the start to give a stringent bond of this sort, must operate as a discouragement upon industry and enterprise—a discouragement to which young men ought not to be subjected.

Mr. HEMPHILL. In Chicago the law requires in these cases a bond of $3,000.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Well, I do not think any the better of Chicago for that.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I suggest that we limit the amount of the bond in this case to a sum not exceeding $2,000. Any young man of good character could easily give such a bond.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Does the gentleman move that as an amendment?

Mr. HEMPHILL. I move to amend the section by inserting after the word "amount," in line 5, the words "not exceeding $2,000," so as to read, "a bond in such amount not exceeding $2,000, and with such number of sureties," etc.

The SPEAKER. If there be no objection, the amendment suggested by the gentleman from South Carolina will be agreed to. There was no objection.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Now, I move to strike out the section as amended:

The motion of Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey was rejected.

The bill as amended was ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. HEMPHILL a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

DEPOSITS IN BUILDING AND OTHER ASSOCIATIONS, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I now call up for consideration the bill (H. R. 6794) regulating deposits in building and other associations in the District of Columbia.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That whenever any deposit shall be made in any building and loan association, savings bank, or other institution authorized by law to receive deposits, by or in the name of any person being a minor, or a female being or hereafter becoming a married woman, the same shall be held for the exclusive right and benefit of such depositor, and free from the control of him or of all persons whatsoever except creditors, and shall be paid, together with the dividends or interest thereon, to the person in whose name the deposit shall have been made, and the receipt or acquittance of such minor or female shall be a valid and sufficient release and discharge for such deposit, or any part thereof, to the corporation.

Mr. HEMPHILL. This is a bill that simply provides where a person accumulates money and puts it in a savings bank, a building or loan association, or other like institution authorized to receive money on deposit, that their receipt shall be sufficient for it, even though the party be under age.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. HEMPHILL, the motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

WASHINGTON AND GEORGETOWN RAILROAD COMPANY,

Mr. HEMPHILL. I now call up for consideration the bill (S. 2015) to amend the act incorporating the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company is hereby authorized and required to change its track as follows: Commencing at M and High streets, in the city of Georgetown, thence west along M street to the Aqueduct bridge. Provided, That the terminal points hereby authorized shall be located under the direction of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, so as not to interfere with access to the said Aqueduct bridge.

Sec. 2. That the changes hereby authorized and required shall be made, and cars shall be operated on the extension of the line, by December 1, 1892, and during the laying of said tracks, the amount of street to be opened at any one time, and the closing of any cross streets, shall be subject to the orders of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. Any damages to or changes in any underground conduits, made necessary by reason of the construction of the road, shall be made at the expense of the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company.

Mr. HEMPHILL. This bill was introduced into the Senate, and passed that body. It is a bill authorizing and requiring the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company to extend its road from M and High streets to what is known as the District end of the Aqueduct bridge. M street, at Thirty-second, is the present terminus in Georgetown of the road, and if the road is to be extended at all to the bridge the bill ought to be passed now while the cable is being put down on the present line of road, in order that the whole system may be completed at the same time. The Senate, as I have said, have passed the bill, and it has met with very favorable consideration in this House, because at an early date the Grand Army of the Republic will meet here and there will be, of course, a large number of people present, many of whom will desire to visit the cemetery at Arlington. There is now a road constructed from the other end of the Aqueduct bridge, on the Virginia shore, to Arlington Cemetery, but there is no road, either from the city of Washington or Georgetown, to the bridge. The nearest approach to it is the terminus of this Washington and Georgetown line at M street.

If the House chooses to pass this bill it will enable the persons who are here at the meeting of the Grand Army, or, in fact, at any other time, to reach that bridge and for one fare, and after crossing the bridge, to take the street-car line on the other side and visit Arlington Cemetery at a cost not exceeding 10 cents; whereas now it requires the hiring of a hack to reach the bridge at all. The bill fixes the time within which this work shall be completed as December 1, 1892. The railroad authorities have not asked for the bill, and they are willing that it shall be passed or not be passed; but they desire if it is to be passed at all that action be taken promptly, so as to enable them to go on with the work.

The House can pass the bill or not just as they see fit, and they can limit the time to any reasonable period for the completion of the work. The railroad authorities inform me that if it be passed they can have the road in running order by the time the Grand Army meets here. But it will be hardly fair to limit them to that time, because some unforeseen accident might happen which would necessitate some further delay and make it beyond their power to comply with the law. They cannot do all these things themselves; they are compelled to have all the ribs and ties and cables and matters of that kind manufactured, and are consequently dependent upon the manufacturing establishments for them.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I would like, if the gentleman would permit me, to read a short item from the Washington Post of this morning.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Certainly.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. It is as follows:

RAPID TRANSIT TO ARLINGTON.

Since the passage of the bill authorizing the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company to extend its tracks on M street from their present terminus at the stables to the District end of the Aqueduct bridge there is a prospect of easier access to Arlington during the coming encampment. The Washington and Arlington Electric Road promises to have the Virginia section of its line completed by the same time, so that there will be no break in the line of track, except the length of the Aqueduct Bridge, and for the convenience of those who wish it, even this interval will probably be satisfactorily spanned.

I think that tells the whole story.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Well, Mr. Speaker, I ought to state that of course there is no authority here for the railroad company to go over the Aqueduct bridge. A railroad was chartered on the other side which proposed to go across on that bridge, and the House of Representatives refused to grant the authority. So far as I am concerned I should oppose any railroad coming across the bridge; and so far as this bill is concerned it is entirely immaterial to me whether it is rejected or passed. I do not care a snap of the finger one way or the other.

Mr. BUSHNELL. Let me ask the gentleman why he opposes the granting of a charter to allow a railroad company to cross that bridge?

Mr. HEMPHILL. Well, because it is a bridge that you can not well cross with vehicles as well as with cars. It is a public bridge and was built for the benefit of the public, and not with the expectation of being used for the benefit of any corporation, but for the general public. The bridge itself is too narrow for vehicles and cars to cross it.

Mr. BUSHNELL. I would like to ask the gentleman this further question: I believe this road is to be completed by the railroad company up to the Aqueduct bridge by December 31?

Mr. HEMPHILL. Yes, sir.

Mr. BUSHNELL. Are there not some other railroads that would build that road before that time and be sure to have it done in time?

Mr. HEMPHILL. Well, I do not know about that. There was a road chartered to go from Arlington down to M street, but they used an overhead electric wire, they were authorized to pass over a part of the tracks of the Washington and Georgetown road, but they said they could not use it at present and asked permission to change their route, cross the river at a different point and come down into the city on their own track.

Mr. BUSHNELL. Well, are there not several other street railway companies besides the one mentioned in this bill?

Mr. HEMPHILL. There are none of them that go in that direction, that I know of.

Mr. BUSHNELL. And that might finish the line sooner?

Mr. HEMPHILL. Oh, no; there are none of them can complete the road any sooner; and there is this about it, that if any other railroad goes there of course everybody must get out at this M street station and change cars, while if this one line goes straight through there will be no change of cars except at the bridge.

Mr. HEARD. I only want to say that this proposition is simply to authorize and require the Washington and Georgetown road to extend its line up to the neighborhood of the Aqueduct bridge, instead of leaving a gap of about four or five blocks. Last year there was a proposition of another railroad company to begin at the terminus of this road and build up to the bridge and across. As the chairman of the committee [Mr. HEMPHILL] says, Congress refused that for two reasons. The committee, as well as the two Houses of Congress, were opposed to granting to any railroad company the privilege of crossing the surface of the Aqueduct bridge.

It is not a wide enough or strong enough bridge to justify its use for such purposes, and besides it was built for the benefit of the public, outside of the railroad companies, and we have been trying to make them build their own bridge. That was one reason. Another reason is, that this is a stretch of only about four blocks, and when the railroad is thus extended it will be one road and one fare clear to the Aqueduct bridge, which is and always will be a focal point in railroad street travel in this city. We believe there is every reason why the road should be extended there, and, as the chairman of our committee has well said, it is of vital importance to every patron of this road that the terminal plant shall be put in at the beginning, because otherwise, if it is put in at the present terminus and has to be changed, the road will necessarily be idle while that change is being made.

I understand the company to say that while this bill gives them until December that they do not expect to require one hour beyond the 6th day of August. They ask this out of an abundance of caution, but at the same time they say they expect to put their men at work immediately if we pass this now, and have it in operation together with the rest of the line before the Grand Army encampment in September. I think it is in the interest of the public that this bill should pass.

Mr. BLOUNT. Mr. Speaker, during the last Congress a railroad chartered in the State of Virginia sought authority of Congress to provide for an extension of its line across the Aqueduct bridge and on to the terminus of the present line of the railroad now under discussion.

Mr. HEARD. The terminus of the Washington and Georgetown road?

Mr. BLOUNT. The Washington and Georgetown Railroad. Objection was made to that bill on several grounds. The first was on the part of the Secretary of War, to the placing of any line of railway on that bridge, on the ground of its strength. The second objection was that that bridge was one mode of access to the people of the United States and to the people of this locality in resorting to Arlington; and the third objection was a proposition to pass a bill introduced by Mr. Lee of Virginia, to incorporate the Washington and Arlington Railway Company of the District of Columbia—

Beginning at Seventh street and B street northwest; along B street and Virginia avenue northwest to Twenty-sixth street; along Twenty-sixth street to M street, along M street and Canal road to a point on the Potomac River at or near the point known as "The Three Sisters," where the said company is hereby authorized to construct and maintain a bridge across the Potomac River on such plans as the Secretary of War may approve; and from thence by, on, and over such lines as may be selected by the said company, with the approval of the Secretary of War, to the northwest entrance of the Arlington Cemetery, and thence through the Arlington estate to the south or west line thereof, in the State of Virginia. Proviso. That should any part of the track herein authorized coincide with portions of any other duly incorporated street railway in the District of Columbia but one set of tracks shall be used when, on account of the width of the street, or for other sufficient reason, it shall be deemed necessary by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia; and the relative conditions of use and of chartered rights may be adjusted upon terms to be mutually agreed upon between the companies, or, in the case of disagreement, by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, on petition filed therein by either party, and by such notice to the other party as the court may order.

This was an extensive bill, and I shall not take the time to read it to the House. There was a bill defeated, to which I have already referred, contemplating a commencement at the terminus at the present road across the Aqueduct bridge, going down to Alexandria and to some watering place, and it was very much urged by some friends of that section. But the House refused to grant any charter for any such purpose. The House believed that it was possible, and they were assured by the members of the District Committee that there was a company eagerly desiring a charter on the very line that I have indicated, which would not touch the Aqueduct bridge, which would go for one fare from Seventh street along the line indicated, down to and through Arlington, and, if need be, on to Mount Vernon, furnishing a most desirable line for the people of the United States visiting the capital to make over this company's line a way to this point of public interest. I say this bill, proposing the crossing of the Aqueduct bridge, as then proposed, was defeated, as I have stated, and this one which I have read in part was substituted for it.

Now, sir, what is the present situation? We have been told that there is a line chartered by the State of Virginia for the building of a road up to the Aqueduct bridge. There is in the Senate at this time a bill introduced by Mr. PETERREW—

That pending the building of the bridge—

That is, by the company referred to in this bill which I have read—over the Potomac River at or near a point known as Three Sisters, the construction and maintenance of which is authorized in the act approved February 28, 1891, entitled "An act to incorporate the Washington and Arlington Railway Company of the District of Columbia," and during the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic to be held in the city of Washington in the year 1892, the Washington and Arlington Railway Company be, and is hereby, authorized and permitted to lay and maintain track across the Aqueduct bridge over the Potomac River and its approaches in such manner and upon such conditions as shall be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, etc.

Then it goes on to provide for its consolidation with the Pennsylvania line or any other line that sees fit.

It is true, sir, that this bill has not become a law.

Mr. HEARD. Will the gentleman allow me to interrupt him there?

Mr. BLOUNT. Certainly.

Mr. HEARD. I want to state for the benefit of the gentleman from Georgia, and also of the House, that the Secretary of War and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia have reported adversely on that proposition. I understand from publications in the newspapers that the Senate committee have also reported adversely on it, and so has the Committee on the District of Columbia of the House. So that all are unanimous in their condemnation of that proposition.

Mr. BLOUNT. But that does not meet the suggestion I have made to this House. Here is a bill at this time in the Senate of the United States providing for a road running across that bridge. Here, by way of inducement, is a suggestion that there is to be an encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic held in this city during the year 1892; and this bill provides that it shall be completed in 1892, perhaps after the encampment is over. So that this little suggestion of an encampment is one of those things which is likely to mislead.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. And the Grand Army has not asked for it.

Mr. BLOUNT. And, as the gentleman says, the Grand Army has not asked for it; and if they had, it does not meet any such situation. Then what do you find? A significant thing just at this time, a charter has been granted by the State of Virginia to build a road up to the Aqueduct bridge on the other side, and this proposition to allow this company to build its line up to the Aqueduct bridge with nothing in the way of union of the two lines except the bridge. When each shall have been completed, Mr. Speaker, how suggestive the situation to allow them just to cross over the bridge, if not for the benefit of the Grand Army, for some other matter with which Washington is eternally crowded. If this measure is passed, Mr. Speaker, I predict—and I do not claim to have great capacity of foresight in that way—the time will soon come when the necessity for the crossing of this bridge will be urged.

The gentleman from Missouri [Mr. HEARD] says that the District Commissioners do not approve the crossing of the bridge. It would be an unfortunate time to approve it, Mr. Speaker, just now. Again, the District Commissioners are not life occupants of office. They shift, and they are generally in accord with the influences at the Federal capital. The Secretary of War is opposed to it, it is said; and yet, Mr. Speaker, he may be changed, and the reasons will change when you have this road running up to the Aqueduct bridge from the Virginia direction. Are you not bringing to bear an influence to stop the building of a railroad which is now built under a charter, and designed to go to Arlington and Mount Vernon, the very places the American people want to go.

Are you not putting this in the way of it? And, Mr. Speaker, is it not likely that a further suggestion of the incorporation of this company under the Washington and Georgetown Company may be here for consideration hereafter. You have the fact, Mr. Speaker, and I believe it has not been gainsaid, that a railroad company is building a line near to the Aqueduct bridge, at the Three Sisters, from the city of Washington, along down to Arlington and Mount Vernon, and that they have a charter for that purpose. You have that fact proposed to you now. Then why amend this charter to allow this railroad to run its line up to this bridge when it only lacks three blocks of being there now. What is the purpose? Why, the people are accommodated by the other line, and are better accommodated, and likely, under the terms of its charter, at one fare. There is some regulation as to the fare. Then why, sir, shall we go on and provide that this company shall be allowed to extend its line up to that bridge?

Mr. HEARD. Will the gentleman allow me to interrupt him again?

Mr. BLOUNT. Certainly.

Mr. HEARD. Would it accomplish the object that the gentleman desires if we were to insert a provision in this bill to prevent the use of the bridge at any time in the future by this company?

Mr. BLOUNT. Mr. Speaker, if I knew that provision of law would not be repealed on the suggestion of the Committee on the District of Columbia when they wanted it, I would say "yes."

Mr. HEARD. I would give any assurance that way, so far as I am concerned—of course I can not speak for the Committee on the District of Columbia—but so far as I am informed, I am satisfied that the committee is adverse to the use of that bridge. They have so voted and so reported whenever a proposition has been before them to permit the crossing of a railroad over that bridge.

Mr. BLOUNT. What I have been saying has not been any reflection on the view of my friend from Missouri, nor on any member of the Committee on the District of Columbia. I am discussing only the probable situation, and I am asking this House to act as this body did in the last Congress. Turn away from this scheme which points to the final passage over that Aqueduct bridge belonging to the Government by this corporation. Turn away from it, and do as the last House did: turn to this road which proposes to build its own line and its own bridge across the river at the Three Sisters, which is the very point of the river at which the bridge ought to be built. Build this line, make this situation, and how probable it is that you will stifle the other project. I am unwilling, sir, in view of the assurances that we had in the last House, assurances given by my friend from Missouri himself, that that company were able and willing to construct that line. I am unwilling to put this obstacle in the way of its completion.

Mr. HEARD. Does not my friend know that the company to which he refers have a charter now authorizing them to run over this track, and that if the Washington and Georgetown Company is permitted to extend its line as contemplated, still the other company can run over its track, as it is already authorized to run, over six blocks of the road already built by the Washington and Georgetown Company.

This bill will not hinder the other company from its right to go over these tracks which this company may put down. It is true, as my friend from South Carolina [Mr. HEMPHILL] suggests, with the power they contemplated using, they could not run over those six blocks, or over the rest of the track, for the reason that there would be a conflict in the application of motive power. But I repeat to my friend from Georgia that this other company to which he refers can use the six blocks already constructed as well as these four blocks if constructed.

Mr. BLOUNT. Mr. Speaker, I do not want any tracks put along there. This Washington and Georgetown road runs now within three blocks of that bridge. It has not been contemplated that there shall be any railroad approaches to that bridge, and for one I think we should maintain that situation.

Mr. HEARD. The other line that the gentleman refers to runs by the end of the bridge.

Mr. BLOUNT. Mr. Speaker, I reiterate that this whole matter came up before the last House and was thoroughly discussed, and that the proposition to extend this line in the way here proposed was voted down by a vote of more than 4 to 1; and I regret very much that the sudden and unexpected bringing up of this bill at this time has left me no opportunity to gather together and exhibit to the House the bills that were then pending, the debate that was then had, and the action of the House. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment which I send to the desk.

The amendment was read, as follows:

Add after the end of section 2: And said Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company shall, and is hereby required, to run its cars at not less than half hour intervals on its various lines between the hours of 12 o'clock midnight and 6 o'clock a. m.

Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts. I hope the committee will offer no objection to that amendment.

Mr. HEMPHILL. The only trouble about that is that, as I understand the matter, the cable can not be run the whole twenty-four hours, it being essential that there shall be some time between midnight and daylight for inspection and repair. Otherwise the cable is liable to get out of order or to break and stop the entire machinery of the road. I would not object to an amendment requiring the company to run cars up to certain hours, say 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning; but, I repeat, it is necessary to the successful operation of the cable system that there shall be some time when it is not running, and when they can put their men at work to go over the whole of it and see that it is in order, or repair it if it is out of order.

Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts. I am aware of that, but there is nothing to prevent them from running horse cars at those hours.

Mr. HEMPHILL. The trouble about that is that they will have no horses when they abandon that form of power.

Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts. Oh, no railroad company will ever do away with horses entirely. They must keep horses for some purpose, and can use them for this purpose if necessary. This is a thing that is asked for by all the newspaper men and by a great number of the regular residents. I am credibly informed that this company last year ran its cars all night while Congress was in session and made a promise to the committee that it would keep on running them throughout the year, but that when Congress adjourned it immediately stopped them.

Now, I submit that this accommodation is required by the people, and that it is no more than is afforded by the street railroads in every large city. Notwithstanding the claim that it will not pay, I believe it will pay; but even if these particular cars do not pay, yet the road as a whole, taken for the twenty-four hours, pays well, and this accommodation is due to the public who require and demand it.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I will state that there is a bill pending before the committee providing for that very thing. I think it is a matter of some consequence both to the public (I have been a sufferer myself) and also to the railroad company, but, while the company are in process of adopting this new power, it would be hardly fair to them without investigation to put this additional obligation upon them.

Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts. What investigation do you want?

Mr. HEMPHILL. I understand that the railroad did run cars for twelve months in this way, and that they averaged only eight passengers, some of these being fellows who had got drunk and wanted to ride until they got sober [laughter], a class of persons who ought not to be encouraged either by day or by night. Now, if the gentleman will allow this to come up in a separate bill, as it will when reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia, it can then receive the action of the House.

Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts. I prefer to have it taken as an amendment to his bill, and I want a vote upon it.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Well, of course I can not object to a vote upon it.

Mr. HEARD. Mr. Speaker, I am in favor of having these all-night cars, or at least cars which will answer substantially the end in view. I do not say that they must be run every hour between midnight and morning, but the company ought to come near enough to that to afford transportation to that portion of the public who may reasonably demand it. As stated by the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. HEMPHILL], there is pending before our committee a bill in relation to this very matter; and it being a subject which comes within my particular province of investigation, I will state that I have been waiting simply because a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator HANSBROUGH has been considered by the District committee in the Senate, and I understand that he and Senator FAULKNER have been trying to arrange a compromise on the basis of the company running until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. Having received that information, I delayed considering the House bill in our subcommittee.

I am in favor of requiring the company to give such service as is necessary and as the people may reasonably expect at night. It may be that we should fix the limit of this night service at 2 o'clock or 3 o'clock (the company begin regular trips at 5 o'clock). At all events, I do say that the company ought to be required to furnish reasonable transportation to people who require it between midnight and daylight.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate what the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. BLOUNT] says about this road going to the Aqueduct bridge; but it is only a question whether or not persons desiring to go to Arlington shall be compelled to hire a hack at an expense of $3 or $4, or shall have to walk four or five blocks from the present terminus of the railroad to the bridge, all because it is possible that at some future day some other Congress may authorize this road to run its track over the Aqueduct bridge.

That is all there is in it. He does not claim that we are going to do it under this bill, or that there is any provision here for it. But we have already chartered a road, or rather, under the authority of the Secretary of War, a road chartered by the State of Virginia comes down to the other end of the Aqueduct bridge. If this road should be extended to this end of the bridge, persons desiring to go or come to one side or the other will simply have to walk across the bridge.

Mr. HEARD. The gentleman will allow me to say that as I am advised only 1,000 feet of track remain to be provided between Arlington and the Aqueduct bridge.

Mr. HEMPHILL. So I understand; and it is expected that this road will be in operation some time in May.

I will state further that not one person connected with this railroad has been before our committee asking for the passage of this bill. It has been introduced in the interest of the public, so as to require the road to be extended in this way. If the House is satisfied that the public will be inconvenienced by the bill, let it be passed; if satisfied that it would not be wise to adopt the measure, I am perfectly willing it shall be voted down.

Mr. BLOUNT. The gentleman from South Carolina says this is simply a question whether we shall do without the convenience now offered us because of the possibility of some future Congress authorizing the building of a line that will better accommodate the public.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Oh, I beg the gentleman's pardon; I said, "because some future Congress may authorize one of these lines to be extended across the Aqueduct bridge."

Mr. BLOUNT. Very well; because some future Congress may authorize the running of this or some other road across the Aqueduct bridge. Now, Mr. Speaker, that is not all of the story. There was a struggle in the last Congress on the part of one company to get the use of this bridge to cross the river upon it, and we defeated the proposition; we passed a bill chartering another company to build a line which will not touch this bridge, but is required to build a bridge of its own across the Three Sisters. The difficulty is that when you begin with this sort of legislation you interrupt and discourage the progress of the other work. There has been a standing pressure here on the part of different corporations to get the right to cross that bridge. As the bridge has been built by the Government, if they can get the right of way across it they avoid the expense of building a bridge of their own, and if permitted they would use that bridge even though the public should thereby be greatly inconvenienced.

I trust the House will not hesitate to dispose of this bill adversely. The proposition is made here that the company shall be allowed till December, 1892, to build the road; that is all you require of them; yet gentlemen come into this House and say, "We want this road for the Grand Army when it comes." But the Grand Army will come and go before the period mentioned will arrive.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I did not say we wanted the road for that occasion; I said that had been suggested.

Mr. BLOUNT. I do not care what gentleman may have said it; that has been presented here as one of the reasons why this bill should pass.

Mr. Speaker, I move to lay the bill on the table.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I trust that question will not be voted on until there has been some further discussion of this measure.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. If the people of the District do not want the bill, why not lay it on the table?

Mr. HEMPHILL. The people of the District do want it, as I understand. The Virginia company referred to has built its road down to the other side of the bridge; and I know no reason why this company should not extend its road to this side. The other company, if it comes across, will have the entire monopoly of the business—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that unless by unanimous consent the pending motion to lay the bill on the table is not debatable.

Mr. HEARD. I hope my friend from Georgia will not insist on his motion for a few moments. If he will withdraw it, I will yield the floor to him to renew it. I wish to say a few words by way of correcting some of the mistakes of the gentleman from Georgia, which I am sure he does not desire the House to accept, if I can show that he has been in error.

Mr. BLOUNT. I am perfectly willing the gentleman shall be heard. I withdraw the motion temporarily.

Mr. HEARD. The gentleman from Georgia has, with perfect honesty of purpose I am sure, but under a misapprehension of the facts, stated that this measure would operate to discourage the completion of the road which has been chartered to go across the river on a bridge of its own construction. That is an error. This will have no effect whatever on that proposition. The company already chartered proposes to go over six blocks of road now built by this company, and if it goes on the route which its charter now authorizes at all, it will go over these four blocks of new road to be built—will go right to the end of this bridge and beyond. My friend, therefore, is mistaken in saying that the road already chartered does not tend in this direction. By the terms of its charter it goes exactly over the route on which this company is expected and required by this bill to build its road.

The fact is, Mr. Chairman, that people riding on the Washington and Georgetown road can now go to its terminus for one fare. If the company should extend its line four blocks farther they could still go to the end of the route for one fare; the company would get no more for carrying passengers to this extended point than they now get, but the public would get a fuller and better service. But, you can see that if the road to which my friend from Georgia refers is to be completed along this line by the Aqueduct bridge and on to the region of the Three Sisters, it is an additional reason why this line should be extended from its present terminus to the Aqueduct bridge, because it gives facilities for passengers to ride on one continuous line for one fare, and connect with the road carrying them to Arlington. It will be a decided advantage to the traveling public.

Therefore, my friend, if he will consider for a moment, will see that this will give to all the patrons of this road a great advantage. You can now go to M and Thirty-second streets by the Washington and Georgetown line; but that is four blocks from the Aqueduct bridge. This extension will give those who wish to go to the bridge or desire to connect with the other road the advantage of riding this additional four blocks and enable them to connect with Arlington. That is all there is in this bill. It does not propose to give any right to cross the bridge. And it seems to me that these people should be permitted that they should be in fact compelled—to extend this road, and that the gentleman from Georgia should be as earnest in that direction as he is in opposition to the bill.

But the position of my friend from Georgia that we should refuse to compel these people or permit them, rather, to put in these four blocks for fear that at some time, at some point in the future, by some authority or other they would get the right to cross the bridge, is, I submit, not up to the ordinary measure of that gentleman's foresight in legislation; because he knows just as well as I do that this Congress can impose no restraints or limitations on any other Congress. So far as this Congress is concerned I know that it is so in this House and in the District Committee and that it was so in the Committee on the District of Columbia in the Senate the members have expressed themselves as being in line with the District Commissioners and the Secretary of War against permitting anybody to build a railroad across that bridge.

But because we do not want to go across is no argument why we should not build the line up to the bridge or permit them to go as near to the bridge as possible without interfering with the traffic across it. If they can get a charter hereafter from Congress to cross the bridge they can easily get a charter to extend the line up to the bridge. But there is a decided advantage in building the line up to the bridge now, if it is to be built at all.

As the gentleman from Georgia has stated, this road which is chartered in Virginia is, as I am advised, completed, except about 1,000 feet of it, down to the bridge on that side of the river. Now, if this road is completed or permitted to be built on this side, and that other road is completed down to the bridge, it will give passengers who desire to go to Arlington an almost continuous line. They will only have to cross the bridge and get on the cars on the other side. I respectfully submit, if the gentleman apprehends that this road entertains any covert design hidden in the provisions of this bill by which they can have access to the bridge hereafter, that he had better insert a modification so that this company can not be authorized to cross the bridge. Let a provision be inserted that they shall never go over the bridge. True it will never bind any future Congress, but it will express as plainly as we can that we want to give no such right by this legislation.

I submit, Mr. Speaker, most earnestly, that there has never, to my mind, been a proposition more plainly in the interests of the public than this one. True, this railroad company does not ask the privilege, but no doubt they will be glad to get it if it is given them. The chairman of the District Committee in the Senate introduced the bill and his committee recommended it.

But even if this railroad company were not willing to extend their road for one should be in favor of compelling them to do it before putting in their terminal plant. I would require that they should complete the road up to the Aqueduct bridge before they could run a foot of the cables now being put in on their lines to save to the public the inconvenience which must necessarily flow to them by the stoppage of the cars on the road long enough to change the terminal plant hereafter.

Mr. BLOUNT. Mr. Speaker, I wish to call the attention of the House to the fact that during the last Congress, when the bill was pending providing for the completion of a line to which my friend has just referred on the Virginia side of the river, and which provided for the crossing of the Aqueduct bridge, when it was objected that they should not be allowed to cross it, the argument was made, and was not denied, that unless they were allowed to do so the road would not be self-sustaining. The men in charge of that matter, who have constructed that nonpaying road, perhaps can see further than our friend from Missouri, who complains of my own shortsightedness, and expect to find their way over that bridge and into connection with the Pennsylvania avenue line, and the incorporation of the one with the other at some time hereafter.

Mr. HEARD. They can not, without the authority of Congress.

Mr. BLOUNT. Why, certainly not. But of course this Congress does not legislate for all time.

Mr. HEARD. Well, we are only responsible for what we do legislate for.

Mr. BLOUNT. My friend says that is all we are responsible for. Perhaps he is content with that. We are making conditions every day in the shape of new legislation; and when you shall have passed this bill and have this road running up to that bridge, these men in Virginia, with business shrewdness, who are just across the line, will say we have a provision here in the shape of new legislation that will make some other new legislation altogether desirable in the minds of some persons. It would not be long before an effort was made to secure a consolidation of the two lines.

No, sir, there is no danger about communication between this city and Arlington and Mount Vernon, over a bridge not furnished to a corporation by the Government, but furnished by the parties themselves. You have chartered another road purposely to avoid this very thing. Let us stand by what we have done.

I move that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I trust that will not be done.

The question was taken; and on a division there were—ayes 42, noes 14.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I will have to ask for tellers.

Mr. BLOUNT. The gentleman has other bills. He had better let this go.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I will let it go and take a vote on it next District day.

Mr. HOLMAN. Oh, no.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I ask that the bill go over until the next District day.

Mr. BLOUNT. Regular order.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, there has no quorum voted. I ask for tellers.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will appoint tellers.

Mr. HEMPHILL and Mr. BLOUNT were appointed tellers.

The House again divided; and the tellers reported—ayes 15, noes 22.

Mr. RICHARDSON. I move that the House do now adjourn.

Mr. HEMPHILL. If the motion to adjourn is going to be put—

Mr. RICHARDSON. No quorum has voted, and we had better adjourn.

The SPEAKER. If the point of no quorum is made, the Chair will submit the motion to adjourn. Does the Chair understand the gentleman to make the point?

Mr. HEMPHILL. I make the point.

The motion of Mr. RICHARDSON was agreed to; and accordingly (at 4 o'clock and 48 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII, private bills and resolutions were severally reported from committees, delivered to the Clerk, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House, as follows:

By Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on War Claims:

A bill (H. R. 869) for the benefit of William Burton. (Report No. 1045.)

A resolution referring the bill (H. R. 3709) for the relief of Charles Banks to the Committee on Claims. (Report No. 1046.)

A resolution referring the bill (H. R. 5632) for the relief of Daniel Lake, deceased, to the Court of Claims. (Report No. 1047.)

By Mr. CLANCY, from the same committee:

A bill (H. R. 7464) for the relief of the assignees or legal representatives of John Beach, deceased. (Report No. 1048.)

A bill (H. R. 7282) for the relief of George W. Quintard. (Report No. 1049.)

By Mr. STONE of Kentucky, from the same committee: A bill (H. R. 4174) for the relief of the Madison Female Institute, located at Richmond, Ky. (Report No. 1050.)

By Mr. WILSON of Missouri, from the Committee on Pensions: A bill (H. R. 7303) to increase the pension of Wills Goodwin. (Report No. 1051.)

By Mr. CADMUS, from the Committee on War Claims: A resolution referring the bill (H. R. 6518) for the relief of William T. Miles, to the Court of Claims. (Report No. 1052.)

BILLS, MEMORIALS, AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills of the following titles were introduced, severally read twice, and referred as follows:

By Mr. BLANCHARD: A bill (H. R. 8045) to declare certain lands in Louisiana part of the public domain and subject to entry only by actual settlers under the provisions of the homestead laws—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. LANHAM: A bill (H. R. 8046) to create the tenth judicial circuit—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. WISE (by request): A bill (H. R. 8047) to incorporate the Pan-American Naval Marine Institute and to promote the United States naval reserve—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. COOMBS: A bill (H. R. 8048) to place German looking-glass plate on the free list—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. JOHNSON of North Dakota: A bill (H. R. 8049) granting to the State of North Dakota certain portions of the abandoned Fort Abraham Lincoln military reservation, together with the buildings thereon—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. PATTISON of Ohio: A bill (H. R. 8050) for the relief of telegraph operators during the war—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. BEEMAN: A memorial of the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, asking an additional appropriation by Congress

Mr. HAWLEY. I hope the Senator from Alabama will go on.

Mr. MORGAN. I shall take but a few moments.

Mr. STEWART. I ask that the unfinished business be informally laid aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It will be informally laid aside if there be no objection. The Senator from Alabama will proceed.

Mr. MORGAN. I could stop here, perhaps, with decided advantage to myself and to the Senate, but I wish to add one or two very brief reflections.

We shall have, I repeat, when we have made it optional with the citizen of the United States to have his silver bullion coined, the best financial system we can secure in times of peace and in times of trial, famine, distress, or war that any people in this world have ever had. I will again recur to an idea which I have not been able to dismiss from my mind recently, for we have had some bodings of trouble with great powers, with dangerous powers. I have not been able to dismiss from my contemplation what the present situation of this country would be in the event of a war with a great power, when the very first step we should have to take would be to go to a country that buys silver and gold from us to borrow the money to carry on a war with that or a neighboring country. Of course we could not borrow it from the country we were at war with.

Our resources of credit would be very much cramped in the event of a struggle with Great Britain, and we should then be forced to look to our own internal resources for the strength to raise, equip, maintain, and transport armies, and to furnish them with munitions of war, with hospitals, and the like. Then we would turn our attention to this matter, which to my mind is just as palpable as if we were in the midst of a war, of providing out of our own resources for conducting it, and we should then consider this very important point. Our mines furnish to us $100,000,000 of metal a year, one-third gold. The redeeming factor adopted by the banks throughout Christendom for all time since banks were first ordained, is one-third of coin, or 3 to 1.

We have $100,000,000 a year, one-third gold, upon which you can issue with perfect safety $3 for $1. So you have $300,000,000 a year, if you choose to use it in that way—$300,000,000 that can be represented among our own people with coin certificates which they will take gladly and use in all of their business and prosper upon it, and have perfect security. In ten years it is $3,000,000,000, and it is such a fund as enables us not merely to bring every resource and power of this great domain that we occupy here immediately into action for military defense or other purposes, but it will draw to it a commercial and financial power the like of which has not been enjoyed by any other government in this world.

Great Britain during five hundred or eight hundred years of her noble and magnificent history, through her statesmanship, by adopting always the best expedient for the relief and advantage of her people, has been able to accumulate a resource of money and credit that has hitherto been entirely unparalleled. She has done it by scouring the seas, taking the islands, going wherever nature invited the hand of agriculture or of any other industrial pursuit, there gathering the rich harvests of the world, carrying them to Liverpool and London, and distributing them again out among the nations of the earth. In this way Great Britain has grown enormously rich through many years, and will still remain enormously rich.

Providence, however, without any exertion on our part except to employ our labor in our own mines and within our own territory, places within our reach $100,000,000 a year, of specie, one-third gold, which is in the right proportion, and which we may with absolute safety, as has been demonstrated by the experience of mankind through five hundred years, use as a basis of redemption for our paper issues, thereby making it, as I have observed, $300,000,000 a year, thrown into our hands as an assisting fund for the wonderful, marvelous work we are engaged in here, of conducting the best, noblest, truest, the most gentle, the most perfect, and yet the strongest Government that mankind has yet conceived of.

Are we to pass by such an opportunity as this and still hold ourselves in an attitude of humiliating dependence upon Great Britain, or any foreign country, merely because through her thrift and industry and skill she has been able to pile up credit and money; or shall we grasp the outstretched hand of Providence and thankfully proceed with that great encouragement which the Divine Maker of man has extended to us to try to achieve for this country that which it is entitled to in every sense and under every consideration—the supremacy of the civilized world?

CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the first case on the Calendar be stated.

Mr. HAWLEY. The regular order must first be laid before the Senate.

Mr. MANDERSON. The unfinished business, which is the court bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. The unfinished business can be temporarily laid aside. That is always understood.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 2729) to amend an act entitled "An act to establish circuit courts of appeals, and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States and for other purposes."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The unfinished business will be temporarily laid aside and the Calendar will be proceeded with under the order of the Senate.

Mr. HAWLEY. Before we proceed with that, there are many Senators absent who are much interested in the Calendar, and I suggest a call of the Senate. Of course they ought to have been here listening to the Senator from Alabama, as I was. Let us call them in now for what they are interested in.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there be no objection the roll will be called.

The Secretary called the roll, and the following Senators answered to their names:

Allen.	Dolph.	Manderson.	Sherman.
Bate.	Dubois.	Mitchell.	Shoup.
Berry.	Faulkner.	Morgan.	Stewart.
Blackburn.	Frye.	Paddock.	Teller.
Blodgett.	George.	Palmer.	Turpie.
Call.	Gibson, M.	Parso.	Vest.
Cameron.	Gray.	Peffer.	Voorhees.
Chandler.	Hawley.	Platt.	Walthall.
Cockrell.	Hoar.	Power.	Warren.
Coke.	Jones, Nev.	Pugh.	Wilson.
Colquitt.	Kyle.	Quay.
Davis.	McMillan.	Sanders.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Forty-six Senators have answered to their names. A quorum is present, and the Senate will proceed with the Calendar.

L. A. DAVIS.

Mr. COCKRELL. The first case on the Calendar is Senate bill 735, that was passed over. The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR] I understand does not insist upon his amendment.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 735) for the relief of L. A. Davis.

Mr. COCKRELL. I understand that the Senator from Massachusetts does not insist upon any amendment this morning. I suggest a further amendment. I supposed it was done yesterday. I move, in line 16, after the word "limitations," to strike out the words "or other legal defense;" so as to read:

And no statute of limitations shall be available in such case.

There will be no objection to that.

Mr. MITCHELL. That is right. The Senator from Massachusetts I understand does not insist on his amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment submitted by the Senator from Missouri.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DISTRICT INSPECTOR OF PLUMBING.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PLATT in the chair) laid before the Senate the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 1492) to authorize the appointment of an inspector of plumbing in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

The amendments of the House of Representatives were in section 2, line 5, after the word "amount," to insert "not exceeding the sum of $2,000;" and after "United States" to insert "one-half to the credit of the United States and on half" to strike out all of section 4 down to and including the word "duty," in line 6, and insert "that the inspector of plumbing and his assistant shall be," and in the same section, line 5, after the word "direction," to insert "on the application of the owner or occupant, or on the complaint of any reputable citizen."

Mr. McMILLAN. I move that the Senate concur in the amendments of the House of Representatives.

The amendments were concurred in.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT SEATTLE, WASH.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The next bill on the Calendar will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (S. 1907) to amend section 3 of the act approved June 27, 1890, granting pensions to soldiers and sailors.

Mr. COCKRELL. I will state in regard to Senate bill 618, providing for the erection of a public building at the city of Seattle, in the State of Washington, that it stands at the head of the Calendar. On the reading of that bill yesterday evening the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TURPIE] suggested that's one of the two Senators from Washington and moved an adjournment. I did not understand the Senator from Indiana to object to the consideration of the bill.

Mr. TURPIE. No, sir.

Mr. COCKRELL. It comes up in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be taken up.

The bill (S. 618) providing for the erection of a public building at the city of Seattle, in the State of Washington, was announced as regularly in order on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill was partially read yesterday. The bill should be read in full. If there is no objection the Chief Clerk will proceed with the reading of the bill.

Mr. ALLEN. I wish to state, in the absence of my colleague [Mr. SQUIRE], who has that bill specially in charge, that I desire it to be passed over for the present without prejudice.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

PENSIONS TO WIDOWS AND MINOR CHILDREN.

The bill (S. 1907) to amend section 3 of the act approved June 27, 1890, granting pensions to soldiers and sailors, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Pensions with amendments, in line 14, after the word "absent," to insert "by due authority;" in line 15, after the words "from the," to strike out "technical;" and in the same line, after the word "duty," to strike out "(excepting cases of death occurring during desertion from the service);" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That section 3 of the act of June 27, 1890, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 3. That if any officer or enlisted man who served ninety days or more in the Army or Navy of the United States during the late war of the rebellion, and who was honorably discharged, has died, or shall hereafter die, leaving a widow without other means of support than her daily labor, or minor children under the age of 16 years, or if any officer or enlisted man, who served ninety days or more in the Army or Navy of the United States, died in the service, whether in the line of active duty, or in hospital, or on individual furlough, or whilst otherwise absent by due authority from the line of duty, and shall have left such widow, or such minor children under 16 years of age, in either case after said such widow shall, upon due proof of her husband's death, without proving his death to be the result of his army service, be placed on the pension roll from the date of the application therefor, under this act, at the rate of $8 per month during her widowhood, and shall also be paid $2 per month for each child of such officer or enlisted man under 16 years of age; and in case of the death or remarriage of the widow, leaving a child or children of such officer or enlisted man under the age of 16 years, such pension shall be paid such child or children until the age of 16; Provided, That in case such officer or enlisted man shall leave a child who is insane, idiotic, or otherwise permanently helpless, such child shall be pensionable under this act without regard to his or her age and whether pensioned heretofore as a minor under any former act; and the pension thus granted to such child shall continue during life, or during the period of such disability, from and after the date of application therefor, after the passage of this act; And provided further, That said widow shall have married said soldier prior to the passage of this act."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

GEORGE A. ORR.

The bill (S. 2097) for the relief of George A. Orr was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to direct the Secretary of the Treasury, through the accounting officers, to audit and pay the claim of George A. Orr, as acting assistant provost-marshal at Mount Vernon, Mo., from May 28, 1863, to January 30, 1864, at the rate of $100 per month for his services, and such sum for legitimate expenses during that period as may be shown and found to have been actually expended by him in the lawful discharge of his duties and necessary for the public service.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ILWACO RAILWAY AND NAVIGATION COMPANY.

The bill (S. 213) granting a right of way across the Scarborough Hill military reservation to the Ilwaco Railway and Navigation Company was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with amendments.

The amendments were, in line 4, after the word "Company," to insert "a corporation existing under the laws of the State of Washington;" in line 9, after the word "exceeding," to strike out "forty" and insert "thirty;" and in line 10, after the word "thereof," to strike out "with the necessary ground for sidetracks and the necessary buildings;" so as to read:

That it may, and shall be, lawful for the Ilwaco Railway and Navigation Company, a corporation existing under the laws of the State of Washington, to construct its road across a certain military reservation in the State of Washington, commonly known as Scarborough Hill, under the direction of the Secretary of War; and for this purpose a right of way therefor, not exceeding 30 feet in width on each side of the center of the track thereof, subject to the approval of the Secretary of War, is hereby granted to said company.

The amendments were agreed to.

The next amendment was, to add to the bill the following proviso:

Provided, That the actual construction of a roadbed over the right of way herein granted shall not be commenced until after the Secretary of War shall have approved its location; and for this purpose said Ilwaco Railway and Navigation Company shall furnish him with a map showing the boundaries of this reservation, the center line of the proposed right of way, together with the topographical features of the ground for a distance of 200 feet on either side thereof; Provided further, That said corporation, its assigns, or successors, shall build and maintain at its own expense for the free use of the Government such railroad-depot buildings and side tracks on said reservation as the exigencies of the Government service may require; and the Secretary of War may direct; Provided further, That if, in the judgment of the Secretary of War, the exigencies of the Government service at any time so require, the right of way herein granted may be changed or relocated at the expense of said corporation, its assigns, or successors; And provided further, That if a railroad be not built and regularly operated over the right of way herein granted within two years from the date of the passage of this act the act shall become null and void.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. I see that I omitted to put in as an amendment another section. I move to add:

SEC. —. Congress reserves the right at any time to alter, amend, or repeal this act.

Mr. ALLEN. I will inquire of the Senator from Missouri if that is the usual provision?

Mr. COCKRELL. It is always put in these bills.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ESTATE OF M. C. MORDECAI.

The bill (S. 1423) for the relief of Jacob I. Cohen and J. Randolph Mordecai, administrators of M. C. Mordecai, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay to Jacob I. Cohen and J. Randolph Mordecai, administrators of M. C. Mordecai $6,400, in full compensation for the postages on mails transported by him in the steamer Isabel, or any other steamer, from Charleston, S. C., to Havana, Cuba, by way of Savannah, Ga., and Key West, Fla., from the 1st of October, 1859, to the 20th of July, 1860.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ARMY PROMOTIONS.

The bill (S. 882) to repeal the proviso in section 1, of the act of October 1, 1890, providing for the examination of certain officers of the Army and to regulate promotions therein, and to extend lineal promotion to first lieutenants, was announced as next in order.

Mr. PROCTOR. I ask that Order of Business 380, House bill 328, to establish lineal promotion throughout the several lines of artillery, cavalry, and infantry of the Army, be taken up instead of this bill, as it is identical, and will save action on the Senate bill.

Mr. DOLPH. Let the Senate bill go over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Being objected to, the bill will go over. Does the Senator from Oregon object to the House bill being substituted for the Senate bill?

Mr. DOLPH. I do not object to that; I object to the consideration of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It will be understood then that the House bill is substituted for the Senate bill, and the Senate bill will be indefinitely postponed. The bill, being objected to, goes over without prejudice.

Mr. DOLPH. Let the bill go over, retaining its place. I do not care to remove the bill from the Calendar under Rule VIII. Let it go over without prejudice.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there be no objection, the House bill which has been substituted for the Senate bill will take the place on the Calendar of the Senate bill; the Senate bill will be indefinitely postponed, and the House bill will be passed over without prejudice.

WILLIAM SMITH AND OTHERS.

The bill (S. 1678) for the relief of William Smith and others was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It is a direction to the proper accounting officers of the Treasury to credit Lieut. Col. William Smith, deputy paymaster-general, United States Army, in the settlement of his public accounts, with the sum of $3,015.15; and to credit Maj. William F. Tucker, paymaster, United States Army, in the settlement of his public accounts, with the sum of $5,461.61; and to credit Assistant Surg. John O. Skinner, United States Army, in the settlement of his public accounts, with the sum of $199.14; and to remove the charge of $2,185.92 standing against Maj. John S. Billings, surgeon, United States Army; and to remove the charge of $1,029.60 standing against George M. Wheeler, captain on the retired list of the Army; and to remove the charge of $634.42 standing against Lieut. P. Henry Ray, Eighth Regiment of Infantry, United States Army; these amounts having been paid out and received in accordance with the orders of the Secretary of War or the provisions of the regulations for the government of the Army of the United States prescribed by the President.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

NAPOLEON J. T. DANA.

The bill (S. 4496) for the relief of Gen. Napoleon J. T. Dana was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to authorize the President to nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint Gen. Napoleon J. T. Dana, late assistant quartermaster of the United States Army, to the position of assistant quartermaster with the rank of captain of cavalry, and to place him on the retired list of the Army with that rank and pay, the retired list being thereby increased in number to that extent.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. HOAR. I should like to hear the report read; enough of it at least to show the character of the case.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the report submitted by Mr. DAVIS February 11, 1892, as follows:

The Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 4496) for the relief of Gen. Napoleon J. T. Dana, respectfully report:

Napoleon J. T. Dana graduated from the Military Academy in 1842; was thereupon appointed second lieutenant in the Seventh Infantry, and continued in the service until 1855, when he resigned. During this period he was brevetted as captain for gallant and meritorious conduct in the battle of Cerro Gordo, in which battle he was severely wounded.

Immediately after his resignation he entered into business in St. Paul as a banker, and prosecuted that business with great success. Upon the breaking out of the rebellion he felt it his duty to rejoin the service, and was appointed colonel of the First Minnesota Infantry October 2, 1861. He was appointed brigadier-general February 3, 1862, and major-general November 19, 1862. As commander of regiment, brigade, and division, at various times, he served in the Army of the Potomac, and was severely wounded in the battle of Antietam. He afterwards returned to duty. As a division commander he commanded the troops on the coast of Texas up to March, 1864. He afterwards commanded the district of Vicksburg in 1864. He was afterwards put in command of the Sixteenth Army Corps, and commanded the Department of the Mississippi to May 12, 1865. On May 27, 1865, he tendered his resignation, "in view of the immediate close of the war, and with the opinion that my services will not be now longer required."

After his resignation Gen. Dana engaged in business, but the results were not fortunate. He is now 70 years old, incapable of work, and has no estate. He had two sons, one of whom died of consumption about ten years ago. The other son graduated in medicine, but just as he was getting into successful practice in New York City was attacked with consumption and was compelled to go to Florida, and although his health has been somewhat improved, he can not be of any assistance in supporting his father.

The military career of Gen. Dana is more particularly detailed in the annexed letter from the Adjutant-General.

In view of the long and meritorious services of this officer, the committee recommend the passage of the bill.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE.

Washington, January 21, 1892.

Statement of the military service of Napoleon J. T. Dana, of the United States Army, compiled from the records of this office.

He was a cadet at the United States Military Academy July 1, 1838, to July 1, 1842, when he was graduated and promoted in the Army to second lieutenant, Seventh Infantry, July 1, 1842; first lieutenant, February 16, 1847; captain, assistant quartermaster, March 3, 1848. Brevet captain, April 18, 1847, "for gallant and meritorious conduct in the battle of Cerro Gordo, Mexico."

He joined his regiment October 15, 1842, and served with it at Fort Pike, La., and Pass Christian, Miss., to August 18, 1845; in the military occupation of Texas, and in the war with Mexico until wounded at the battle of Cerro Gordo, Mexico, April 18, 1847; absent sick on account of wounds and on recruiting service to March, 1848; on duty as quartermaster at Boston, Mass., to August 26, 1848; at Fort Snelling, Minn., to August, 1849; at Fort Ripley, Minn., to May, 1850; at St. Louis, Mo., to November, 1850; at Fort Ripley, Minn., to December, 1851; at Washington, D. C., settling his accounts and on temporary duty in Quartermaster-General's Office, to September, 1852; on duty, at Fort Snelling, Minn., to May, 1853, and at Fort Ridgely, Minn., until he resigned March 1, 1855.

He reentered the service as colonel First Minnesota Infantry, October 2, 1861. Appointed brigadier-general volunteers, February 3, 1862, major-general volunteers, November 29, 1862.

He commanded his regiment in the Army of the Potomac, to February 26, 1862; commanded brigade in Second Corps, to July 10, 1862; on sick leave to September, 1862; commanding Third Brigade, Second Division, Second Corps, to September 17, 1862, when severely wounded at the battle of Antietam, Md.; absent on account of wounds to November 27, 1862. Member of Military Commission, etc., to May, 1863; commanding post of Philadelphia, Pa., June 16 to August 27, 1863; Second Division, Thirteenth Corps, September 24 to October 28, 1863; Thirteenth Corps to January 9, 1864; commanding troops on coast of Texas, to March 11, 1864; First Division, Thirteenth Corps, to April 1, 1864; awaiting orders to April 23, 1864; on inspection duty, under orders of the Secretary of War, to August 7, 1864; commanding district of Vicksburg to October 15, 1864; Sixteenth Army Corps, to December 8, 1864; and Department of Mississippi, to May 12, 1865. Awaiting orders until he resigned, May 27, 1865.

He tendered his resignation "in view of the immediate close of the war, and with the opinion that my [his] services will not now be longer required."

J. C. KELTON, Adjutant-General.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WILLIAM E. WOODBRIDGE.

The bill (S. 131) referring to the Court of Claims the claim of William E. Woodbridge for compensation for the use by the United States of his invention relating to projectiles, for which letters patent were ordered to issue him March 25, 1872, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move in line 4, before the word "invention," to insert the word "alleged," as that is the very question that is to be inquired into. It does not change the materiality of the bill at all.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MRS. SARAH ELIZABETH HOLROYD.

The bill (S. 133) for the relief of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Holroyd, widow and administratrix of the estate of John Holroyd, deceased, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay to Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Holroyd, widow and administratrix of the estate of John Holroyd, deceased, $1,000, in full consideration for the entire past and future use by the Government of the patented hook and eye for tackle blocks of John Holroyd.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MICHAEL P. SMALL.

The bill (S. 258) for the relief of Lieut. Col. Michael P. Small, United States Army, was announced as next in order.

Mr. MANDERSON. I think within a very short time we shall probably have a House bill identical with that, and I ask that the bill be passed over without prejudice, retaining its place on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be passed over without prejudice, if there be no objection.

WILLIAM H. ATKINS.

The bill (S. 1501) for the relief of William H. Atkins, formerly commissary sergeant United States Army, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay to William H. Atkins, of St. Augustine, Fla., $145, the amount due him for travel pay and allowances from the place of his discharge to the place of his enlistment, as an honorably discharged soldier from the United States Army, under section 1200, Revised Statutes.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ARMY REORGANIZATION.

The bill (S. 2170) to reorganize the artillery and infantry of the Army, and to increase its efficiency, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill provides that the artillery force of the Army now authorized by law shall be reorganized into seven regiments of not more than twelve batteries each. Each regiment of artillery shall consist of one colonel, one lieutenant-colonel, three majors, twelve captains, eleven first lieutenants, ten second lieutenants, and the enlisted men authorized by law, which may be organized into batteries and battalions composed of such number of officers and men as the President may direct. But the regiments shall be officered by the promotion and transfer of the officers now in the artillery according to their seniority, and any vacancies thereafter remaining in the grade of second lieutenant shall be filled in the manner now authorized by law. No appointments to the grade of first lieutenant shall be made until the first lieutenants now in service who become supernumerary by the organization herein provided shall have been absorbed. All promotions shall be subject to the examination prescribed by law. The President, in his discretion, may authorize the enlistment of colored men for service in any one or more of these regiments.

It further provides: That each regiment of infantry shall consist of one colonel, one lieutenant-colonel, two majors, twelve captains, ten first lieutenants, eight second lieutenants, and the enlisted men authorized by law, and may be organized into companies and battalions, composed of such number of officers and men as the President may direct. Original vacancies hereby created shall be filled by promotion according to seniority in the infantry arm, subject to the examination required by law.

The duties of regimental adjutants and quartermasters are to be performed by lieutenants detailed to such duty, without extra pay.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ROCK CREEK RAILROAD COMPANY.

The bill (H. R. 6286) to amend the charter of the Rock Creek Railroad Company was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BUILDING STONE ON PUBLIC LANDS.

The bill (S. 1273) to authorize the entry of lands chiefly valuable for building stone under the placer-mining laws was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. DOLPH. I see that the Senator from Nevada [Mr. STEWART] is present, who reported that bill. I should like to ask him if he considered in that connection the act, I think, of 1878, known as the timber and stone act, by which a quarter section of any lands chiefly valuable for stone may be purchased by any one person at $2.50 an acre, and if that is not ample provision for the purchase of lands containing building stone, and if this proposed act would not be in conflict with it.

Mr. STEWART. The Senator from South Dakota [Mr. PETERGREW] introduced the bill.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada will suspend for a moment. The bill had better be read.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That any person authorized to enter lands under the mining laws of the United States may enter lands that are chiefly valuable for building stone under the provisions of the law in relation to placer-mining claims: Provided, That lands reserved for the benefit of the public schools or donated to any State shall not be subject to entry under this act.

Mr. STEWART. I do not see the Senator from South Dakota in his seat. He introduced the bill. I see no objection to allowing a small quantity to be purchased at $2.50 an acre. He thought it would be more convenient for parties desiring stone to enter it in small quantities than under the former law. It does not interfere with the other act. It is rather an amplification of the former law, as he has stated.

Mr. DOLPH. I wish the Senator would let the bill be passed over temporarily and examine the other act.

Mr. STEWART. I will do so.

Mr. DOLPH. The timber and stone act is confined to the Pacific coast States, and I think all that is necessary or that is desired in other States would be to extend the provisions of the act to other States. I do not think a person is required to take 160 acres of stone land under that act; I think he may purchase at least a subdivision; but I will look it up and see the Senator.

Mr. STEWART. Let the bill be passed over until the Senator from South Dakota is here. He will explain more particularly what he desires to have accomplished by it.

PARDONS BY DISTRICT COMMISSIONERS.

The bill (S. 1886) to authorize the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to grant pardons and respites in certain cases was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It provides that the Commissioners of the District of Columbia may grant pardons and respites for offenses against the late corporation of Washington, the ordinances of Georgetown, and the levy court, the laws enacted by the Legislative Assembly, and the police and building regulations of the District.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT LEXINGTON, VA.

The bill (S. 1541) for the erection of a public building at the town of Lexington, Va., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, with amendments, in line 12, before the word "thousand," to strike out "fifty" and insert "twenty-five;" in line 21, before the word "thousand," to strike out "fifty" and insert "twenty-five;" and in the same line, after the word "building," to insert "which sum is hereby appropriated;" so as to read:

The site and building thereon, when completed upon plans and specifications to be previously made and approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, shall not exceed in cost the sum of $25,000; nor shall any site be purchased until estimates for the erection of a building which will furnish sufficient accommodations for the transaction of the public business, and which shall not exceed in cost the balance of the sum herein limited after the site shall have been purchased and paid for, shall have been approved by the Secretary of the Treasury; and no purchase of site nor plan for said building shall be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury involving an expenditure exceeding the said sum of $25,000 for site and building, which sum is hereby appropriated.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SARAH K. McLEAN.

The bill (S. 1026) for the relief of Sarah K. McLean, widow of the late Lieut. Col. Nathaniel H. McLean, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It directs the proper accounting officers to settle and adjust to Sarah K. McLean, widow of the late Lieut. Col. Nathaniel H. McLean, all back pay and emoluments that would have been due and payable to Nathaniel H. McLean as a major from July 23, 1864, to the date of his reinstatement, March 3, 1875.

Mr. COCKRELL. The bill is on the Calendar upon a majority report from the Committee on Military Affairs. At the last Congress there was both a majority and a minority report made. In the present Congress the report of the majority simply refers to the former report. The objection the minority of the committee had, of which minority I was one, was that this officer voluntarily resigned in 1861, and by special act of Congress in 1875 was authorized to be appointed back to the Army. He was out of the service during the interval, performed no service for the Government directly or indirectly, and devoted his whole time and attention to his own private affairs. The bill now proposes to pay his widow his salary between 1864 and 1875, and we do not think there is any equity, justice, or right in it. I simply want to place the minority of the committee upon the record as opposing the bill.

Mr. DAVIS. The bill was reported favorably in the Fiftieth and Fifty-first Congresses. It passed the Senate in the last Congress. The legal elements of the bill and the questions of fact are quite complicated, although so far as the legal aspects are concerned they are to my mind free from doubt.

Maj. McLean at an early period of the war was relieved of duty in the East and sent to Fort Vancouver, in Oregon, by a proceeding which in all of its elements was of the most tyrannical character. He resigned. So much feeling existed on the subject that in the Forty-third Congress, after full deliberation and an exhaustive report, an act was passed authorizing the President either to appoint Maj. McLean to the first vacancy in the office of the Adjutant-General, or in his discretion to reinstate him. It will be perceived that the act thus recommended and passed gave the President an alternative course of action, either to appoint this officer and put him anew into the office or, with a view of rectifying the injustice which had been done him, to reinstate him and appoint him to the grade to which he would have attained had not the unjust proceeding toward him been perpetrated. President Grant, instead of appointing this officer and putting him thus as it were anew into the Army, proceeded to reinstate him.

Without going at length into the legal considerations which have brought the majority of the committee to the conclusion at which they have arrived, it will suffice for present purposes to say that it is the opinion of a majority of the committee that the act of reinstatement operated in legal contemplation as a complete cancellation of what had been done to him and restored matters to the exact status that they would have occupied had he not received the treatment he did. We did not proceed without judicial authority upon this subject. I shall not go into it at length here. It is in the report referred to. The same state of facts was exhaustively considered in the case of Maj. Collins, where the precise phraseology was employed as to reinstatement, and he recovered his pay under a judgment of the Court of Claims and it was allowed by Congress. The time when he was out of the service was about the same as that of Maj. McLean.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ECLECTIC MEDICAL SOCIETY OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The bill (S. 741) to incorporate the Eclectic Medical Society of the District of Columbia was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That T. A. Bland, August P. Lightbill, W. S. Bever, Magnus L. Juhn, M. Cora Bland, J. A. Rowland, and Marie Taylor, and their associates and successors, physicians, be, and they hereby are, made a corporation by the name of the Eclectic Medical Society of the District of Columbia, with all the powers and privileges, and subject to all the duties, liabilities, and restrictions set forth in this act.

SEC. 2. That the said corporation may hold real and personal estate to the amount of $20,000.

SEC. 3. That the said Eclectic Medical Society is hereby empowered, from time to time, to make such by-laws, rules, and regulations as they may find necessary, and do and perform such other things as may be requisite for carrying this act into effect and which may not be repugnant to the Constitution and laws of the United States.

SEC. 4. That the said Eclectic Medical Society of the District of Columbia is hereby endowed with all the rights, privileges, and immunities that appertain to other medical societies of the District of Columbia.

SEC. 5. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to pay to the Southern Railroad Association, lessees of the Mississippi Central Railroad Company, $4,636.01 in payment of certain Post-Office Department drafts in favor of W. Goodman, president of the Mississippi Central Railroad Company, dated August 17, 1861, in payment for mail transportation from April 1 to May 31, 1861, returned and canceled in April and May, 1866.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PARDONS AND RESPITES IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. PERKINS. The Senate has passed Order of Business 297, being the bill S. 1886. Subsequently to the reporting of that bill House bill 4429, Order of Business 420, was reported. I ask unanimous consent to reconsider the vote by which the Senate bill was passed and to take up the House bill, which is on the Calendar, and which is the same as the Senate bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 4429) to empower the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to grant respites and pardons in certain cases. It authorizes the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to grant pardons and respites for offenses against the late corporation of Washington, the ordinances of Georgetown, and the levy court, the laws enacted by the legislative assembly, and the police and building regulations of the District.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. PERKINS. I ask that the Senate bill on the same subject be indefinitely postponed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The vote by which the Senate bill on the same subject was passed will be reconsidered, and the bill will be indefinitely postponed, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none.

ROBERT CARRICK.

The bill (S. 1458) for the relief of Robert Carrick, late first lieutenant of the Eighth United States Cavalry, was announced as next in order.

Mr. PROCTOR. At the request of the Senator who reported that bill I ask that it be recommitted to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be recommitted to the Committee on Military Affairs, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none.

NOAH SEANOR.

The bill (S. 1636) for the relief of Noah Seanor was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It directs the Commissioner of Pensions, in lieu of pension certificate numbered 199010, issued February 24, 1883, to Sarah A. Seanor, dependent mother of Harrison Seanor, to issue a certificate to Noah Seanor for $1,900.13, the amount of arrears of pension granted and about to be paid to Sarah A. Seanor when she died, and transmit the same to Noah Seanor, with proper vouchers; and, upon the return of the vouchers to the Pension Office properly executed, there shall be made and transmitted to Noah Seanor a check for $1,900.13, which when paid shall be a final and full satisfaction of the pension granted Sarah A. Seanor of the 24th day of February, 1883, aforesaid.

Mr. COCKRELL. The word "of," in line 18, should be stricken out and "on" inserted. It should be "on the 24th day of February, 1883."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In line 18, after the name "Seanor," it is proposed to strike out "of" and insert "on;" so as to read:

A final and full satisfaction of the pension granted the said Sarah A. Seanor on the 24th day of February, 1883, aforesaid.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The preamble was agreed to.

FIREPROOF BUILDING FOR NATIONAL MUSEUM.

The bill (S. 1758) to provide for the erection of an additional fire-proof building for the National Museum was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. The Senator reporting and introducing that bill is not here. Let it be passed over without prejudice, retaining its place on the present Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

BUILDING FOR UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The bill (S. 828) authorizing the purchase of a site for a building for the accommodation of the Supreme Court of the United States was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that be passed over without prejudice. The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

STATUE OF CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS.

The joint resolution (S. R. 15) for the erection and location of a bronze statue of Christopher Columbus and the removal of the Naval Monument to a new site was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that bill be passed over without prejudice.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

INCREASED PAY OF ARMY NONCOMMISSIONED OFFICERS.

The bill (S. 1721) to increase the pay of certain noncommissioned officers of the Army was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with an amendment, in line 7, after the word "sergeant," where it occurs the second time, to strike out "thirty" and insert "thirty-four;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That on and after the 1st day of July, 1892, the pay per month of the following noncommissioned officers of the line of the Army shall be as follows:

Sergeant-major, $30; regimental quartermaster-sergeant, $30; first sergeant, $34; sergeant, $20; corporal, $16; and all shall receive the increase of pay for length of service as provided by law.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT BROCKTON, MASS.

The bill (S. 699) for the erection of a public building at Brockton, Mass., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT GRAND ISLAND, NEBR.

The bill (S. 1574) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Grand Island, in the State of Nebraska, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CLASSIFICATION OF CEREALS.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. President, I ask the consent of the Senate for the consideration of Order of Business 456, which I think, on being read by its title, will convey the reasons for it. I think it ought to be passed. It is in regard to fixing a uniform classification of wheat, corn, oats, barley, etc.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The title of the bill will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill S. 795 to provide for fixing a uniform classification and grading of wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, and for other purposes.

Mr. COCKRELL. If it will take no time and lead to no discussion I shall not object; otherwise I shall.

Mr. SHERMAN. I think it will take no time.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 795) to provide for fixing a uniform classification and grading of wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, and for other purposes.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, with an amendment at the end of section 5 to insert:

Provided, however, That in interstate trade or commerce in grain, if the consignor thereof, or his authorized agent, shall so direct, public inspection, classification, or grading shall not be required nor made when said grain is consigned to the owner thereof or to his authorized agent or to a mill or private storehouse, or for deposit in a special bin, or a public warehouse, or, the purchaser consenting, to a purchaser thereof, or, if consigned to a market where the usages of trade recognize sales of grain by sample, when the consignor shall direct its sale by sample.

Mr. GRAY. I should like to ask the Senator from Ohio to state briefly what is the scope of this bill. I tried to listen to the reading of it, but whether it comes under the constitutional power to regulate weights and measures I did not understand, so far as I could gather from the reading.

Mr. SHERMAN. I do not think the question of the power of Congress to deal with these matters is included, because I think it comes fairly within the provision authorizing the establishment of weights and measures.

The passage of this bill is, I believe, requested by nearly all of the Farmers' Alliances in the United States, especially in the Northern States, where wheat and these cereals are grown.

Hitherto the rules of classification have been determined by boards of trade; for instance, at Chicago we might have one rate, in Wisconsin another, up at the headwaters of Lake Superior another, at Buffalo another, and at Cleveland another. There is some discrepancy in their rules, and this bill is to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to determine the correct classification, etc., and it is made a matter of record. It does not interfere with the right to make contracts for any other mode of classification, but merely establishes certain grades.

Mr. GRAY. I ask the Senator, for information, this question: It appears from what the Senator has just said that the bill refers to the classification of quality and grading of the different cereals spoken of in the bill, and not at all to fixing the standard of weights and measures?

Mr. SHERMAN. I do not think there is any doubt about that. It does not interfere with contracts, but it does make uniform certain classifications which are established by this bill. I do not think there is any question about the power of Congress to do what is proposed.

Mr. PADDOCK. It does not bear any relation whatever to the standard of weights and measures. It does not in any respect affect the standard of weights and measures.

Mr. GRAY. Does it refer, or can it be referred to at all, to the power granted in the Constitution to fix the standard of weights and measures? If it can not, to what legislative power can it be referred?

Mr. PADDOCK. It relates simply to interstate-commerce transactions and nothing else, transactions between States—the shipments of grain from one State to another. It is a carefully drawn and conservative bill.

Mr. SHERMAN. It is a regulation of commerce.

Mr. GRAY. Does the bill so state?

Mr. PADDOCK. The bill clearly states that it refers to interstate commerce, and the rule as to the standards of weights and measures under existing law is recognized and is in no respect to be interfered with.

Mr. GRAY. I should like to have that part of the bill read again. I think it is a matter of some importance.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The part of the bill referred to will be read.

Mr. SHERMAN. Read the third section again.

The Chief Clerk read section 3 of the bill as proposed to be amended, as follows:

Sec. 3. That from and after thirty days after such classifications and grades have been determined upon and fixed, and duly placed on record as herein provided, such classification and grading shall be taken and held to be the standard in all interstate trade and commerce in grain in all cases when no other standard is agreed upon: Provided, however, That in interstate trade or commerce in grain, if the consignor thereof, or his authorized agent, shall so direct, public inspection, classification, or grading shall not be required nor made when said grain is consigned to the owner thereof, or to his authorized agent, or to a mill or private storehouse; or, for deposit in a special bin, to a public warehouse; or, the purchaser consenting, to a purchaser thereof; or, if consigned to a market where the usages of trade recognize sales of grain by sample, when the consignor shall direct its sale by sample.

Mr. SHERMAN. I was about to say that not only have some of the Legislatures asked for this uniform rule, but the Farmers' Alliances have requested it. I have had many letters about it. This bill was prepared to carry out their views, so that there may be no dispute or litigation in regard to the grade of wheat that is sold.

Mr. GRAY. Who is to make the classification?

Mr. SHERMAN. The Secretary of Agriculture is to have charge of the matter. The bill provides for that.

Mr. HOAR. The gist of the bill is in the first six lines of the third section. Let those be read again. The other is merely a definition or classification established by this public officer.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The lines referred to will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the lines referred to.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let us vote on the bill or let it go over, one or the other.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. Were the lines read by the Secretary stricken out?

Mr. COCKRELL. Oh, no.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ESTATE OF ISAAC W. TALKINGTON.

The bill (S. 118) for the relief of the estate of Isaac W. Talkington, deceased, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay to the estate of Isaac W. Talkington, deceased, late of Pope County, in the State of Arkansas, $200, erroneously paid to the United States for the north half of southeast quarter of section 21, township 7 north, range 18 west, of the fifth principal meridian.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FORFEITURE OF RAILROAD LAND GRANTS.

The bill (S. 1380) to amend an act entitled "An act to forfeit certain lands heretofore granted for the purpose of aiding in the construction of railroads," and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with amendments, in line 7, after the word "persons," to strike out "in possession of" and insert "actually residing upon;" and in line 9, after the word "quantities," to insert "and upon the terms;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That section 3 of an act entitled "An act to forfeit certain lands heretofore granted for the purpose of aiding in the construction of railroads, and for other purposes," be, and the same is, amended so as to extend the time within which persons actually residing upon lands forfeited by said act shall be permitted to purchase the same in the quantities and upon the terms provided in said section at any time within three years from the passage of said act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PURCHASERS OF TIMBER AND STONE LANDS.

The bill (S. 2275) for the relief of purchasers of timber and stone lands under the act of June 3, 1878, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It provides that hereafter all necessary affidavits and proofs required by law of any purchaser of lands under the provisions of an act entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," in order to perfect his title to those lands, may be made before any officer qualified to take proof in homestead cases.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

R. B. WOODSON.

The bill (S. 1940) for the relief of R. B. Woodson was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. COCKRELL. In line 1, I move to insert the letters "on," after the word "Woods," so as to read "Woodson;" and then insert "postmaster at Gaines;" so as to make the bill correspond with the report and read: "R. B. Woodson, postmaster at Gainesville."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads with an amendment, in line 6, before the word "funds," to strike out "postal order" and insert "money order;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That the Postmaster-General be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to allow R. B. Woodson, postmaster at Gainesville, Ala., a credit for the sum of $142 money-order funds collected by him and lost in transit from Gainesville, Ala., to Mobile Ala., on or about September 23, 1889, and which the Postmaster-General was unable to allow to said postmaster as a credit under existing laws, and which amount was paid and lost by said postmaster. The Postmaster-General is authorized and directed to refund said sum of $142 to said Woodson, and take his receipt in full satisfaction of said claim. An amount sufficient to refund said sum of $142 is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FOND DU LAC INDIAN RESERVATION.

The bill (S. 2081) to grant to the Duluth, Missabe and Northern Railway Company a right of way through the Fond du Lac Indian Reservation, in the State of Minnesota, and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move at the end of the bill to strike out the period and insert a semicolon, and to insert the following proviso:

Provided, That Congress reserves the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act.

That is omitted I see in the bill.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

GUN FACTORY ON PACIFIC COAST.

The bill (S. 557) to provide for the establishment of a gun factory for the finishing and assembling of heavy ordnance on the Pacific coast was announced as next in order.

ate, to appoint him in the Army to be chief of the office, who shall have the rank, pay, and allowances of a colonel, and shall, under the Secretary of War, have charge of the military and hospital records of the volunteer armies and the pension and other business of the War Department connected therewith.

Mr. HAWLEY. I made some objection to this bill that was passed at a previous Congress. If I recollect aright, it was vetoed; it failed to become a law, at any rate. I do not care to renew that objection if anybody will assure me that the General of the Army, an accomplished soldier, and the President of the United States, an admirable lawyer as well as statesman, are satisfied with this form of bill. Does anybody know?

Mr. COCKRELL. There is a letter from the Commanding General expressly approving it, and I say, not officially, that the Attorney-General has approved of it.

Mr. HAWLEY. It is not a question of legality. I do not care so much about the opinion of the Attorney-General upon this as I would upon some other questions. It is a question of the wisdom of giving a promotion of two grades and a permanent office to a gentleman holding a position in the Army. The bill makes him a colonel in the Army practically for life, performing civil duty, and not a removable officer, as I understand it, like other officers, who are removable or whose details may be changed. I am not questioning in any degree the remarkable ability and merit of this gentleman, Maj. Ainsworth, and I say I do not renew any real objection to the bill. I do not think it is a wise way of rewarding merit. I would gladly vote him a salary of $5,000 a year, and if necessary a vote of thanks from Congress. I do not object to the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WILLAMETTE RIVER LIGHTS AND BUOYS.

The bill (S. 720) making an appropriation for the establishment and maintenance of range lights and buoys at twenty-five different points on the Willamette River, between the cities of Salem and Portland, in the State of Oregon, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Commerce with amendments, in line 3, before the word "dollars," to insert "five thousand;" in line 6, after the word "maintaining," to strike out "range lights and buoys at thirty-five" and insert "beacon lights and buoys at twenty-five" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the sum of $5,000 be, and the same is hereby, appropriated, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of establishing and maintaining beacon lights and buoys at twenty-five different points on the Willamette River between the cities of Salem and Portland, Oregon, the same to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The preamble was agreed to.

The title of the bill was amended so as to read: "A bill making an appropriation for the establishment and maintenance of beacon lights and buoys at twenty-five different points on the Willamette River, between the cities of Salem and Portland, in the State of Oregon."

ESTATE OF JAMES L. DAY.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. PLATT. I wish the Senator would withhold the motion until the next bill is considered. It will not take any time.

Mr. McMILLAN. Very well.

The bill (S. 271) for the relief of Nancy E. Day, administratrix of the estate of James L. Day, deceased, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay Nancy E. Day, administratrix of the estate of James L. Day, deceased, late of Norwich, Conn., $3,041.66, in payment and satisfaction of the amount found due from the United States to her by the Court of Claims upon a reference of her claim to that court by the Postmaster-General, under the provisions of an act of Congress approved March 3, 1883, entitled "An act to afford assistance and relief to Congress and the Executive Departments in the investigation of claims and demands against the Government."

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After five minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and at 5 o'clock p. m. the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Thursday, April 14, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

NOMINATIONS.

Executive nominations received by the Senate April 13, 1892.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS.

Henry Z. Osborne, of California, now collector of customs for the district of Wilmington, in the State of California, to be collector of customs for the district of Los Angeles, in the State of California, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 31, 1892.

SURGEON IN MARINE HOSPITAL SERVICE.

Passed Assistant Surg. William A. Wheeler, of Indiana, to be a surgeon in the Marine Hospital Service of the United States.

CHIEF ENGINEER IN NAVY.

Passed Assistant Engineer John A. B. Smith, to be a chief engineer in the Navy, from the 16th of February, 1892, vice Chief Engineer Montgomery Fletcher, retired.

PROMOTIONS IN THE ARMY.

Cavalry arm.

Capt. Myles Moylan, Seventh Cavalry, to be major, April 8, 1892, vice Montgomery, Tenth Cavalry, retired from active service.

First Lieut. John C. Gresham, Seventh Cavalry, to be captain, April 8, 1892, vice Moylan, Seventh Cavalry, promoted.

Second Lieut. Charles W. Farber, Eighth Cavalry, to be first lieutenant, April 5, 1892, vice Dravo, Sixth Cavalry, who resigns his line commission on accepting his appointment as captain and commissary of subsistence.

APPRAISER OF MERCHANDISE.

William C. Ralston, of California, to be appraiser of merchandise in the district of San Francisco, in the State of California, to succeed Charles M. Leavy, removed.

POSTMASTER.

Charles L. Perry, to be postmaster at New Rochelle, in the county of Westchester and State of New York, in the place of John F. Cashen, whose commission expired March 20, 1892.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, April 13, 1892.

The House met at 12 o'clock noon, and was called to order by the Speaker.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

CORRECTION.

Mr. SCOTT. I desire to state that on page 2195 of the daily RECORD there is an error in my statement as it was printed. My statement was that "during the year ending June 30, 1891, there were imported over 1,000,000,000 pounds of tin plate." The RECORD shows that I said "over 1,000,000 pounds of tin plate" were imported.

The SPEAKER. The correction will be made.

EXPENSES OF UNITED STATES COURTS.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a communication from the Attorney-General, submitting estimates of deficiencies in the appropriations for expenses of United States courts for the current fiscal year; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

CHIEF CLERK, OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting a copy of a communication from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, explaining the importance of a chief clerk being provided for the office of Indian Affairs; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

WILLIAM WIRTZ, DECEASED.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings of the court in the case of William Wirtz, deceased, against the United States; which was referred to the Committee on War Claims.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. RUSK, for five days, on account of important business.

To Mr. CUTTING, for one week, on account of important business.

THIRD DIVISION OF THE JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF KANSAS.

Mr. BRODERICK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill which I send to the Clerk's desk, which went over yesterday.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the counties of Miami, Linn, Bourbon, Crawford, Cherokee, Labette, Neosho, Allen, Anderson, Coffey, Woodson, Wilson, Montgomery, Chautauqua, Elk, and Greenwood, in the State of Kansas, shall constitute the third division of the judicial district of Kansas, and that a term of the circuit and district courts for said district shall be held therein at the city of Fort Scott, on the first Monday of May and the first Monday of November of each year. The remaining counties heretofore embraced in the first division of the judicial district of Kansas shall constitute the first division thereof.

SEC. 2. That all civil suits which shall hereafter be brought against a defendant or defendants who reside in said third division of said district shall be brought in said third division; but if there are two or more defendants residing in different divisions of said district, such suit may be brought in either division of said district in which any defendant or defendants reside, and all mesne and final process, subject to the provisions of this act, issued in either of the divisions of the judicial district of Kansas, may be served and executed in either or all of the divisions.

SEC. 3. That all crimes and offenses against the laws of the United States hereafter committed within the counties comprising the third division of said district, and all crimes and offenses against said laws known and defined as infamous hereafter committed within the limits of the Quapaw Indian Reservation, in the Indian Territory, and of which the courts in Kansas have heretofore had jurisdiction, shall be prosecuted, tried, and determined at the terms at the district court heretofore provided for: Provided, That all such crimes and offenses heretofore committed within said district shall be prosecuted, tried, and determined in the same manner and with the same effect as if this act had not been passed.

SEC. 4. That the clerks of the circuit and district courts for said district and the marshal of said district shall each appoint a deputy, who shall reside and maintain an office at the city of Fort Scott, each of whom shall, in the absence of the clerks or marshal, exercise all the powers and perform all the duties of his principal within the division for which he shall be appointed: Provided, That the appointment of such deputies shall be approved by the court for which they shall be respectively appointed, and they may be removed by such court at pleasure, and the clerk and marshal shall be responsible for the official acts and neglects of all their deputies.

SEC. 5. That all civil suits and proceedings now pending in the circuit or district court of said district of Kansas which would, if instituted after the passage of this act, be required to be brought in the third division of said district, may be transferred by consent of all the parties to said third division of said district, and there disposed of in the same manner and with like effect as if the same had been there instituted; and all process, writs, and recognizances relating to such suits and proceedings so transferred shall be considered as taken at and returnable to the term of court in the third division of said district in the same manner and with like effect as if they had been issued or taken in reference thereto originally.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this bill?

Mr. McMILLIN. I am informed that this was passed over yesterday morning in order to give the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] an opportunity to look into it. I do not see him in his seat, and I hope the gentleman will withhold it until he is present.

Mr. CULBERSON. I will state to the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. McMILLIN] that this bill does not create any new office. It simply provides for the holding of a term of the circuit and district court at Fort Scott. The same clerk or the same deputy clerk will perform the duties.

Mr. McMILLIN. Have they a public building at Fort Scott?

Mr. CULBERSON. I do not know.

Mr. FUNSTON. Yes, sir.

Mr. McMILLIN. You have a court-house there?

Mr. FUNSTON. Yes, sir.

Mr. McMILLIN. How many districts are there in the State?

Mr. BRODERICK. There are two divisions of the district.

Mr. McMILLIN. How many places are there at which court is held?

Mr. BRODERICK. The Federal court is held at three places now. This will make a third division, but a fourth place at which terms of the Federal court are held.

Mr. McMILLIN. I understand it does not increase the expense?

Mr. CULBERSON. No, sir.

Mr. BRODERICK. I would not call up this bill in the absence of the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN], if it were not for the fact that I have a note from a reputable gentleman, saying that the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] told him last evening that he would withdraw any opposition to the bill.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There was no objection.

Mr. BRODERICK. I move to amend the bill by striking out the word "reservation," in line 6, section 3, and substituting therefor the word "agency."

The SPEAKER. If there be no objection, this verbal amendment will be considered as agreed to?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER. Is there any other amendment?

Mr. BRODERICK. No other amendment.

The SPEAKER. Is there no amendment reported by the Committee?

Mr. BRODERICK. No; there are no further amendments.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed, was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. BRODERICK, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

EXPLANATION.

Mr. BRAWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I had the honor to submit some remarks on the 23d of March last on the bill for the free coinage of silver. Immediately after the conclusion thereof I was asked by the Official Reporters whether they should print the speech as delivered or whether I would withhold it for revision, as the custom was. The remarks were withheld for revision, and appeared in the RECORD on the 25th of March. The RECORD of the 24th of March, however, made no reference to the fact that those remarks were delivered on the 23d. I called attention to it at the time, my own attention having been directed to the matter, and it was said to be a mere omission through the inadvertence of some person. I did not think it worth while at the time to have it publicly corrected, as it seemed a matter of no significance. But the omission has been made the subject of injurious comment; and, in the interest of accuracy, I desire that the RECORD be corrected and that it shall appear as the fact was.

The SPEAKER. The statement of the gentleman will go into the RECORD, which will answer the gentleman's purpose.

ASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. JOHNSON of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the preamble and resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

Whereas the board of assessors are about completing an assessment upon property in the District of Columbia, and from an estimate furnished by the District Commissioners to the Committee on Appropriations it appears that this new assessment is to exceed the old by only 25 per cent; and

Whereas said old assessment on the land values alone in the District is $75,000,000, when it should be more than $300,000,000, this shows an extraordinary undervaluation, and what is still worse, the greatest injustice between the valuation of the land used for business purposes, which in many cases is assessed at less than 14 per cent of its true value, and land used for residence purposes, especially where the small homes are situated, is assessed at from 70 to 80 per cent of its true value, while in many cases land held for speculation is assessed at less than 10 per cent of its true value. The foregoing facts were brought out by an expert valuation on enough land in the District to furnish an average. A public hearing was held by the Commissioners in which this subject was thoroughly discussed, and after a careful examination they say "the figures embraced in these showings seem to have been carefully and conservatively prepared," and

Whereas the new assessment should not only show the true value of the property in lawful money, as required by law, but should also preserve an equality in assessment of the land in different localities, and not bear more heavily in some sections than in others. Therefore,

Be it resolved, That a select committee, consisting of three members, be appointed by the Speaker, which shall have power and authority to investigate and report upon the method of ascertaining land values by the board of assistant assessors in the District of Columbia; to inquire whether there is in the assessment now being prepared discrimination in favor of any section over others, and generally to inquire into all alleged inequalities pertaining to the assessment of land values.

Such committee shall have power to send for persons and papers, to examine witnesses under oath, may employ a stenographer and one clerk, and shall report the result of its investigation to the House, with such recommendation as it may deem proper to make. The expense of such investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this resolution?

Mr. HOLMAN. I think that matter ought to go to one of the standing committees of the House for investigation.

Mr. STOUT. I hope the House will take action upon the resolution at this time, as it is a very important matter.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that we are multiplying committees to a greater extent than usual, and they are attended with expense; but I understand that this is a very important inquiry and I shall not object.

Mr. DINGLEY. I think that resolution had better go to some committee.

The SPEAKER. Objection is made.

Mr. JOHNSON of Ohio. If there be present objection to the consideration of the resolution, I hope it will go to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. DINGLEY. I withdraw my objection.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this resolution. [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

who, before entering upon the duties of their appraisements, shall take and subscribe an oath that they will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of appraisement, which oath, duly certified, shall be returned with their award to be filed with the Secretary of the Interior within twenty days from the completion thereof, and a majority of said referees shall be competent to act in case of the absence of a member, after due notice; and upon the failure of either party to make such appointment within thirty days after the appointment made by the President, the vacancy shall be filled by the judge of the district court for the eastern district of Wisconsin, upon application of either party. The person appointed by the President shall be chairman of said board, and shall appoint the time and place of all hearings within the nation to which said occupant belongs. Each of said referees shall receive for his services the sum of $1 per day for each day they are engaged in the trial of the cause submitted to them under this act, with mileage at 5 cents per mile. A majority of the board, where all can not agree, may make the award. Either party being dissatisfied with the finding of the referees shall have the right, within ninety days after the making of the award and notice of the same, to appeal by original petition to the district court for the eastern district of Wisconsin, having jurisdiction over the place where the land lies, which court shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the subject-matter of the petition according to the laws of the State of Wisconsin for determining damages when property is taken for railroad purposes. If, upon the hearing of said appeal, the judgment of the court shall be for a larger sum than the award of the referees or a sum equal to said award the costs of said appeal shall be adjudged against the railroad company. If the judgment of the court shall be for a sum less than the award made by the referees, then the costs shall be adjudged against the party claiming damages. All proceedings of said district court upon appeal from the award of the referees shall be conducted in the same manner as an original action brought therein, except that the court may direct formal pleadings to be made and served.

SEC. 4. That said railroad company shall pay to the Secretary of the Interior, for the benefit of the particular nation or tribes through whose land said line may be located, the sum of $50 per mile for each mile of road constructed and maintained in said Indian reservation, in addition to the compensation provided for in this act for property taken or damage done individual occupants by the construction of said road, to be paid as each 5 miles of the railroad is graded. If, however, the general council of the Menominee tribe of Indians through whose land said railroad may be located, shall, within four months after the filing of maps of definite location as set forth in section 5 of this act, dissent from the allowance hereinbefore provided for, and shall certify the same to the Secretary of the Interior, then all compensation to be paid to such dissenting nation or tribe under the provisions of this act shall be determined as provided in section 3 for the determination of the compensation to be paid to the individual occupants of lands, with the right of appeal to the court upon the same terms, conditions, and requirements as therein provided: Provided, That the amount awarded or adjudged to be paid by said railroad company for such dissenting nation or tribe shall be in lieu of the compensation the said nation or tribe would be entitled to receive under the foregoing provision.

SEC. 5. That said company shall cause maps, showing the route of its located line through said Territory, to be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Interior, and also to be filed in the office of the chief or chiefs of said Menominee tribe of Indians through whose land said railroad may be located, and after the filing of said maps no claim for subsequent settlement, or improvement upon the right of way shown by said maps shall be valid against said company: Provided, That when a map showing any portion of said railroad's located line is filed as herein provided for, said company shall commence grading said located line within one year thereafter or such location shall be void.

SEC. 6. That the officers, servants, and employes of said company necessary to the construction and management of said road shall be allowed to reside while so engaged upon such right of way, but subject to the provisions of the Indian intercourse laws and such rules and regulations as may be established by the Secretary of the Interior in conformity with said intercourse laws.

SEC. 7. That said railway company shall construct and maintain continually all road and highway crossings and necessary bridges over said railroad, wherever such roads and highways do now or may hereafter cross said railway's right of way or may be by the proper authorities laid across the same.

SEC. 8. That said Marinette and Western Railway Company shall accept this right of way upon the express condition, binding upon itself, its successors, and assigns, that they will neither aid, advise, nor assist in any effort looking towards extinguishing or changing the present tenure of the Indians to their lands in said reservation, and will not attempt to secure from the said Indians any further grant of land, or its occupancy, than is hereinbefore provided: Provided, That any violation of the conditions mentioned in this section shall operate as a forfeiture of all rights and privileges of said railroad under this act.

SEC. 9. That all mortgages executed by said railroad company conveying any portion of its railroad, with its franchises, that may be constructed in said Indian reservation, shall be recorded in the Department of the Interior, and the record thereof shall be prima facie evidence and notice of their execution, and shall convey all rights and property of said company as therein expressed.

SEC. 10. That Congress may at any time amend, add to, alter, or repeal this act, and the right of way herein and hereby granted shall not be assigned or transferred in any form whatever prior to the construction and completion of said road, except as to mortgage or other lien that may be given or secured thereon to aid in the construction thereof.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this bill? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Are there any amendments to the bill reported by the committee?

Mr. LYNCH. There are amendments reported from the committee and suggested by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and the Secretary of the Interior.

The SPEAKER. If there be no objection, the question will be taken on the amendments in gross.

There was no objection.

The amendments are as follows:

Insert after the word "graded," in the eighth line, on page 5, the following: "And also $15 per mile per annum so long as such reservation shall be used and occupied as a reservation by said tribe of Indians."

Also amend by adding a new section, to be designated as section 11, as follows:

SEC. 11. That said railway shall not charge more for the transportation of freight or passengers through said reservation than for like services outside of the same.

Add after the word "county," in the seventeenth line of section 1, the following: "and Township 30 in range 16, Oconto County."

Add after the word "stations," in the eighth line of section 2, the following: "for purposes not to exceed one station."

Strike out the words "the chief of the nation" after the word "by," in the twelfth line, on page 3, and insert the word "the Menominee Indians in general court."

Add at the end of section 4 the following: "Provided, That all cost of appraisement and of referees shall be paid by the railway company."

Add at the end of section 4 the following:

Provided, That the title to all the right of way herein granted shall remain in the Menominee tribe of Indians, and shall be held in trust for the benefit of said Indians under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior; all such title to be removed within a reasonable time after the filing of maps of definite location of the railroad, and the time after the filing of maps of definite location of the railroad, and the approval thereof by the Secretary of the Interior, to the extent that the company shall not be hindered or delayed in the construction of its road.

The question was taken, and the amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. LYNCH, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

THOMAS CHAMBERS.

Mr. STEPHENSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (S. 1995), for the relief of Thomas Chambers.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to pay, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to Thomas Chambers, of Marquette, Mich., the sum of $3,651.56, by full compensation for the additional expenses incurred by him in carrying the Canada mails, as contractor on route numbered 2443, from Sault de Ste. Marie, Mich., to Marquette, Mich., from July 1, 1875, to June 30, 1879, inclusive, he having contracted to carry United States mails only.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this bill?

Mr. HOLMAN. I think the report ought to be read, Mr. Speaker.

The report was read at length for information.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this bill?

Mr. BUTLER. Reserving the right to object, I desire to inquire if the Post-Office Department has made any recommendation for the passage of this bill?

Mr. STEPHENSON. The bill has passed the Senate twice.

Mr. BUTLER. But my question is as to whether the Post-Office Department has made any recommendation in regard to this bill.

Mr. STEPHENSON. The bill has passed the Senate twice.

Mr. BUTLER. That is not an answer to my question. If the Department has not made a recommendation approving it, I object.

Mr. STEPHENSON. It is approved by the Department.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Iowa object? The Chair understood the gentleman's objection to be conditional.

Mr. BUTLER. I got no answer to my question, and I object.

Mr. HERBERT. Regular order.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

A MEMBER. Regular order.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is demanded. The regular order is the call of committees for reports.

Mr. McRAE. Mr. Speaker, is it not proper that bills which have come over with the previous question ordered upon them should be first disposed of?

The SPEAKER. The Chair finds from the Journal that on last evening two bills were ordered to be engrossed and read a third time and the previous question was ordered upon their passage. Those bills will now be submitted to the House.

Mr. HULL. Mr. Speaker, I wish to make a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HULL. The Committee of the Whole at previous sessions reported several bills to the House which stand, I think, in exactly the same position as those reported last evening. Do not those bills come under the head of unfinished business?

The SPEAKER. As to the other bills to which the gentleman refers, the Chair understands that the previous question was ordered upon their engrossment and third reading, but not upon their passage. There is a distinction made in the rules and in the practice of the House, and where the previous question has been ordered on the passage of the bills they come up before the House in this way.

Mr. HULL. I understood that a bill or bills were on precisely the same footing.

The SPEAKER. The Committee of the Whole reported. It appears from the Journal that the previous question was ordered last evening on the passage of two bills. The Chair will report the first bill.

JAMES A. DAVIS.

The first bill reported from the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union with the previous question ordered upon its passage was a bill (H. R. 4488) granting a pension to James A. Davis.

The bill was read in full, and passed.

Mr. MARTIN moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed; and also moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

NANCY E. RENFRO.

The second bill was a bill (H. R. 3202) to pension Nancy E. Renfro.

The bill was read in full, and passed.

Mr. McKAE moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed; and also moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will call the committees for reports.

SECTIONS 2807 AND 2881, REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. COOMBS, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, reported back with a favorable recommendation the bill (H. R. 7026) to amend section 2807 and section 2881 of the Revised Statutes; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

EDUCATION AND CITIZENSHIP OF INDIANS.

Mr. PEEL, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported back with a favorable recommendation a bill (H. R. 6878) to regulate the education and citizenship of Indians; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HERBERT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the purpose of considering general appropriation bills.

MEMORIAL IN RELATION TO THE MISSISSIPPI.

Mr. HOLMAN. I ask the gentleman to withhold that motion for a moment in order that I may ask unanimous consent to have printed in document form a memorial in regard to the Mississippi River, which I think will be useful in connection with the river and harbor appropriation bill. It is a memorial by Capt. John Cowdon.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

The motion of Mr. HERBERT was then agreed to.

The House accordingly resolved itself into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, Mr. SHIVELY in the chair.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The CHAIRMAN. The House is in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the naval appropriation bill.

Mr. HERBERT. Mr. Chairman, I yield now to the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. PENDLETON].

Mr. PENDLETON. Mr. Chairman, I very much dislike to differ with the veteran economist of the House, because I have always honored the venerable statesman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN]. Nevertheless, I think that a time comes when we can go too far in the direction of economy. Under that belief I shall vote against the amendment of the gentleman from Indiana, and also, for another reason, against the amendment of the gentleman from Maine [Mr. BOUTELLE]. I do not believe that it is in harmony with Democratic policy not to try to continue to increase our Navy. I think the legislation upon that subject should be with a view to a steady increase in its strength and efficiency, but at the same time in harmony with the condition of our revenues. If there is one thing in this country that is popular with the American people, if there is one thing for which they will cheerfully vote appropriations, it is our Navy.

The Navy has been popular with our people ever since the war of 1812, and I recollect that in the campaign of 1840 one of the principal charges that the Democratic party made against the Republican administration of our Navy was, that while we had expended nearly $30,000,000 in its support and maintenance, nevertheless at that time we did not have either in commission, in our harbors, or on the high sea, a single ship of war that was capable of facing one of the great ships of modern navies. I know that we criticised our Republican friends very severely upon that point, and that a general pledge was made that if Cleveland were elected in that campaign along with a Democratic Congress we would endeavor to do something to restore the strength and efficiency of a navy of which we had ever been proud.

There are a great many good people in this country who flatter themselves with the idea that there will never be another war in which we may be engaged. It is true that we are most happily situated. It is true that we are far, as a general thing, from the quarrels that prevail among the great nations of Europe. But there never is a time when any nation, however happily situated, can claim for itself that it will always enjoy the blessings of peace. It is not necessary that we should have a great army, for the simple reason that we are protected from foreign invasion by our happy situation. To the south of us there is a Republic that has no desire at any time to engage in warfare with our country.

To the north of us lies Canada, which of itself would never willingly go to war with this country. Consequently, we do not need a great standing army, and probably never shall need it. But a navy is the one defense that this country needs. As Themistocles once said, a navy would be the "wooden walls of Athens," so a navy for this country would be our wooden wall. We have upon our Eastern seacoast more than ten thousand million dollars worth of American property in the great cities of Boston, New York, and Philadelphia in the North; Norfolk, Charleston, Mobile, New Orleans, and other cities in the South, and on the West we have San Francisco.

Now, I say it is wise for us to spend money in order to keep those harbors of ours in a state of defense, in order that whenever a war or a difficulty of any kind with a foreign nation may break out or be threatened, we shall not be restrained in our negotiations by the fear that we are unprepared to protect our commerce upon the high seas; that we may not be prevented from endeavoring to assert our rights by the argument that the agricultural products of our Western fields may be blockaded here in this country from the fact that we have no Navy adequate to their defense.

[Mr. HOLMAN withholds his remarks for revision. See Appendix.]

Mr. BOUTELLE was recognized, and yielded twenty minutes to Mr. FELLOWS.

[Mr. FELLOWS withholds his remarks for revision. See Appendix.]

Mr. HOLMAN. I yield fifteen minutes to the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. WATSON].

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Chairman, I respectfully submit to the committee that if we decline to strike out from this appropriation bill the battle ship for which it provides we will lay ourselves open to the charge of having departed from the pledges which we deliberately made to the people at the opening of this session. By adopting the Holman resolution the country was led to understand that this Congress was pledged to retrenchment and reform, and that none of the public moneys would be expended except those that are necessary to carry on the different departments of the Government. I submit to this committee, with the greatest respect, that if we meant anything by that resolution, now is the time for us to demonstrate it.

The gentleman from New York [Mr. FELLOWS] spoke about the interior States. He alluded to the State of Georgia, which is a seacoast State. Coming from that State, I desire to say to him that we see no necessity whatever for increasing our Navy, and in the name of those people, oppressed by taxation, by favoritism in the law, by an industrial condition which does not give to the laborers the proper reward of toil, we are opposed to the committing of this Congress to any $55,000,000 scheme to build up an American Navy on a competitive basis with European navies.

The gentleman says that war will surely come; that we will need this Navy. Let us stop and ask ourselves what wars have come upon us since we achieved our independence? I submit to this committee and to this country that it is not so much the guns you have, it is not so much the forts you have, it is not so much the ironclads you have, as it is the people that you have, which makes you a dangerous antagonist in war. Sixty millions of people, Anglo-Saxons, who never met an enemy except to crush him; Anglo-Saxons, who have been the vanguard of civilization and of successful war in modern times, have nothing to fear from any other nation on the face of the earth. By his line of argument the gentleman from New York [Mr. FELLOWS] would prove that if China had more cruisers, larger cruisers, more guns, and greater guns than Great Britain, then China would be a more dangerous antagonist than Great Britain! A more untenable position can not be taken.

Mr. Chairman, I submit to the committee that we have nothing to fear from any European nation whatsoever.

the resolution that there is now a good deal of interest being taken by farmers in different portions of the country, and more especially in the prairie region, as to the use of electrical power in farm machinery. I am receiving a large number of letters from persons engaged in like investigations. I have recently been presented with an illustration of the application of electrical power in compressing hay that is now in practical operation in Italy. I have information likewise in regard to the gardeners in and about the city of Paris that they are using electrical influences in the propagation of plant life. We are also undertaking the same thing here, and I have reliable information that already a plow has been driven through the soil of Kansas by electrical power.

My object in introducing the resolution is to obtain what information we can from foreign sources concerning this same matter. I believe it will not be long until largely horse power and steam power will be superseded in farm work. There is some necessity of that kind now apparent among the Western farmers particularly, where there is so much competition with large ranches and large landed estates. I therefore hope that the Senate will grant the request that I have asked in the resolution.

Mr. SHERMAN. I should like to have the resolution read again.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION.

Mr. SHERMAN. I give notice that to-morrow, or as soon thereafter as possible, I shall endeavor to call the attention of the Senate to what is called the Chinese restriction bill, so that the Senate bill and the House bill may be considered. The reasons for early action are apparent to all Senators. The bill must be passed within twenty days in the form of law if it is to be passed at all, as the treaties expire, it is believed, some time in the month of May.

ANACOSTIA AND POTOMAC RIVER RAILROAD.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business? If not, that order is closed and the Calendar under Rule VIII is in order. The first bill on the Calendar will be stated.

The bill (S. 1742) to amend the act giving the approval and sanction of Congress to the route and termini of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad in the District of Columbia was announced as first in order, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments.

The first amendment was, in section 1, line 7, after the word "to," to strike out the following words:

Lay tracks and run cars thereon from the intersection of its tracks on Sixth street with B street north; along Sixth street to F street north; along F street to Eleventh street west; along and with the line of Eleventh street to B street north; along B street north to its tracks on said B street near Center Market; and to insert in lieu thereof:

Make the necessary connection and switches and run cars as follows: From the intersection of its tracks at Ninth street with B street NW., north on Ninth street to G street NW., over the tracks of the Metropolitan Railway Company; thence west on G street NW. to Eleventh street NW., over the tracks of the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway Company; thence south on Eleventh street to E street NW. and east on E street to Ninth street, on the tracks of the Capitol, North O Street and South Washington Railway Company; thence south on Ninth street to B street on the tracks of the Metropolitan Railway Company.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 1, after the first word "that," to strike out "should" and insert "where;" in line 2, after the word "authorized," to strike out "coincide" and insert "coincides;" and in line 4, after the word "used," to strike out "when, on account of the width of the street or for other sufficient reason, it shall be deemed necessary by the Commissioners of the District;" so as to read:

That where any part of the track extension herein authorized coincides with portions of any other duly incorporated street railway in the District of Columbia, but one set of tracks shall be used.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 7, after the word "rights," to strike out "may" and insert "shall;" so as to read:

And the relative conditions of use and of chartered rights shall be adjusted upon terms to be mutually agreed upon between the companies, or, in case of disagreement, by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, on petition filed therein by either party and on such notice to the other party as the court may order.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. McMILLAN. This bill is for the purpose of extending the tracks of the Anacostia Railroad, the railroad which begins over at Anacostia and crosses the Navy-Yard bridge and extends down as far as the market. The people in Anacostia are very desirous of having this road extended farther down into the business portion of the city, and an arrangement has been made by which this company is allowed to use the tracks of the Metropolitan and the Eckington roads, so as to bring them into the center of the city and come back again to the market and connect the road without building any further tracks. That arrangement has been made, and it has been agreed to by all the companies concerned. It simply brings the people who use the road down farther into the center of the city, and does not require any more tracks to be built.

Mr. VEST. I ask the chairman of the committee what is the motive power to be used?

Mr. McMILLAN. Horse cars. It is an old horse-car road. It is a road that does not do a great amount of business.

Mr. VEST. When was the bill reported?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. On the 7th of March.

Mr. McMILLAN. The bill simply extends the line into the heart of the city, using the tracks of other companies.

Mr. VEST. It provides, then, for branches?

Mr. McMILLAN. No, nothing of the kind, but simply that they may use the tracks of the old company and come back to the market and go on their own tracks. It does not extend their own road at all.

Mr. PADDOCK. The object is to form a loop?

Mr. McMILLAN. It is simply to accommodate the people who use the road, so as to bring them down to the heart of the city.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

AGREEMENT WITH THE KICKAPOO INDIANS.

Mr. DAWES. Mr. President, the first bill on the Calendar has been taken up two or three times and then laid aside. I ask that it may be now taken up and disposed of.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 1797) to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Kickapoo Indians in Oklahoma Territory.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. This bill has heretofore been read at length and all the amendments of the committee agreed to. The question is: Shall the bill be reported to the Senate and the amendments made as in Committee of the Whole concurred in?

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The preamble was agreed to.

DAVID DEALY AND MARY YOUNKIN.

The bill (S. 1501) for the relief of David Dealy and Moses Younkin was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with amendments, in section 1, line 5, after the word "laws," to insert "if he is duly qualified;" in line 8, after the word "allow," to insert "Mary Younkin, widow of;" in line 9, after the word "laws," to insert "if the said Moses Younkin, when living, was duly qualified;" and in line 15, before the word "Younkin," to strike out "Moses" and insert "Mary;" so as to make the section read:

That the Commissioner of the General Land Office be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to allow David Dealy to enter under the homestead laws, if he is duly qualified, the north half of the northwest quarter and lots 3 and 4 of section 16, in township 38 north, of range 2 east, of the Willamette meridian, and to allow Mary Younkin, widow of Moses Younkin, to enter under the homestead laws, if the said Moses Younkin when living was duly qualified, the north half of the northeast quarter and lots 5 and 6 of section 16, in township 38 north, of range 2 east, of Willamette meridian, both of said tracts lying in Whatcom County, in the State of Washington, and to issue patents to the said David Dealy and Mary Younkin for the respective tracts hereby authorized to be entered by them upon their making such proof as is required by existing laws and executive regulations of compliance with the requirements of the homestead laws; Provided, That the State of Washington by the proper State officer or officers thereto duly authorized by the laws of said State, or if no such officer or officers be so authorized then by a legislative act, shall signify assent to the entries hereby authorized in such manner as shall bar the said State from asserting in future any right to the described land under the grant of lands to said State for school purposes.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 6, after the word "surveyed," to insert "nonmineral;" so as to make the section read:

Sec. 2. That when the said State of Washington shall have signified her assent to the entries authorized by this act the proper officers of said State shall be entitled to select, on behalf of said State, other land of area equal to that to be covered by said entries, such land to be selected from any surveyed non-mineral and unoccupied public lands of the United States lying within the State of Washington, and to be held by said State as school land, as other lands granted or selected for school purposes are held under existing laws.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read "A bill for the relief of David Dealy and Mary Younkin."

AMENDMENTS TO ARTICLES OF WAR.

The bill (S. 2470) to amend the Articles of War, and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 5978) to extend the time for making assessments for real estate, etc.

The message also announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 112) to establish a military post near Little Rock, Ark., with an amendment, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

The message further announced that the House had passed a concurrent resolution providing for the printing of the catalogues delivered in Congress upon the Hon. John R. Gamble, late a Representative from the State of South Dakota.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills: in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 3202) to pension Nancy E. Renfro;

A bill (H. R. 4488) granting a pension to James A. Davis;

A bill (H. R. 5123) to authorize the Marinette and Western Railroad Company to construct a railroad through the Menominee Reservation, in the State of Wisconsin; and

A bill (H. R. 7519) to authorize the appointment of clerks of the United States circuit and district courts of Mississippi City, in the State of Mississippi.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

The bill (S. 1843) to provide for the punishment of offenses committed in the Yellowstone National Park was announced as next in order.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, let that bill go over. I wish to examine it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over.

PUBLIC LAND SALES IN CALIFORNIA.

The bill (S. 1486) granting to the State of California 5 per cent of the net proceeds of the cash sales of public lands in said State was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. President, I should like to know what is the estimate of the amount involved by the bill?

Mr. PADDOCK. I think it is something more than a half million dollars; indeed it is probably over $700,000.

Mr. ALLISON. Let the report be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

Mr. PADDOCK. There is no written report accompanying this bill at this session. The bill passed the Senate in the last Congress and was reported favorably by the committee of the House and placed on the Calendar, but not reached for want of time.

The object of the bill is simply to place California on the same footing as all the other States in respect to the payment of 5 per cent of the net proceeds of the sales of public lands. I have here now the report of the House committee which was incorporated in the report of the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH], the chairman of the Committee on Public Lands of the Senate, presented at the last Congress. If the Senator so desires, that report can be read. The only thing in the present situation is that this provision which has been made for all the other States has not been made for California, and as a matter of decency it should be made at once.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. DOLPH January 8, 1890:

The Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 220) granting the State of California 5 per cent of the net proceeds of the cash sales of the public lands in said State, having duly considered the same, respectfully report:

A bill similar in its provisions was reported favorably by this committee and passed the Senate at the last Congress, and was favorably recommended for passage by the House Committee on Public Lands, but failed to be reached on the Calendar in the House.

House Reports Nos. 170 and 70, Fifty-third Congress, first session, were made on said similar bill and are now submitted herewith as a part of this report.

The committee recommend that the bill do pass.

[House Report No. 159, Fifty-third Congress, first session.]

The Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 418) granting to the State of California 5 per cent of the net proceeds of the cash sales of public lands in said State, report as follows:

The bill is identical with House bill No. 1255. The committee has reported the latter bill and has recommended its passage.

For the reasons stated in the report thereon (Report No. 70), also recommended the passage of the present said Senate bill.

[House Report No. 70, Fifty-third Congress, first session.]

The Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 1370) granting to the State of California 5 per cent of the net proceeds of the cash sales of public lands in said State, make the following report:

A similar bill was reported from this committee in the Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth Congresses, and reported in the Senate in the Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, and Forty-ninth Congresses, and passed the Senate in the latter Congress, but was not reached on the Calendar in the House.

This bill is in accord with settled legislative precedents followed and adhered to by Congress in the case of every other public land State heretofore admitted into the Union. It makes no grant other than or different from that made by Congress to every other public land State in the Union, but simply places California upon an equal footing and the same plane with all other public land States in regard to existing laws relating to the 5 per cent of the net proceeds of the cash sales of the public lands in said States respectively.

California, unlike the other new or public land States, entered the Union without any enabling act; but the third section of the act under which she was admitted into the Union shows that the United States attached all the conditions to her admission so far as these conditions could be performed by California, as were attached to the admission of all the other public land States. But the United States have up to this late date failed, and in the opinion of very many of her people, mainly delayed to give to California, in consideration of those conditions, that equivalent which has been heretofore given to all the other public land States named at the preamble of this bill.

While all the other public land States have already received this 5 per cent grant as an equivalent or as an indemnity for considerations by them surrendered to the United States, California is the only public land State which, having surrendered like considerations to the United States, has not as yet received this 5 per cent grant as a similar equivalent or indemnity for the surrender of similar considerations.

Section 3 of the act of her admission, approved September 9, 1850, is as follows:

SEC. 3. As the State thereunto admitted. That the said State of California is admitted into the Union upon the express condition that the people of said State, through their Legislature or otherwise, shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the public lands within its limits, and shall pass no law and do no act whereby the title of the United States to and right to dispose of the same shall be questioned or questioned, and that they shall never lay any tax or assessment of any description whatsoever upon the public domain of the United States; and in no case shall nonresident proprietors who are citizens of the United States be taxed higher than residents; and that all the navigable waters within the said State shall be common highways, and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said State as to the citizens of the United States, without any tax, impost, or duty therefor.

A condition common to all the public land States upon their admission to the Union, and in consideration of which the United States granted to them 5 per cent of the net proceeds of the cash sales of the public lands within their limits, was that they should never impose any tax upon the public lands of the United States within their respective limits, and that condition together with other conditions and similar to those imposed upon the other public land States, is thus found incorporated in the very act admitting California into the Union; and California, by accepting such conditions is likewise irrevocably bound to observe them all just the same as the other public land States are bound to do.

Therefore the United States have already received from California, and that too in advance, the Federal considerations for this grant as a full equivalent or as the indemnity now proposed to be made to her under the terms of this bill, and which is the consideration the United States received from every one of the other public land States for making similar grants to them, and that too without a single exception as to any public land State except that of California, which in this regard stands solitary and alone.

California, in the adoption of the objects of the Constitution of the United States, that all the States of this Union shall in all respects be as nearly equal as possible, and that all the new public land States shall in all respects be as nearly equal to each other as possible—was therefore admitted into and is now in the Union not on a footing of difference, but on one of perfect equality with each and all of the other public land States so far as this 5 per cent grant or claim is concerned.

Your committee therefore recommends the passage of the bill.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. President, if California is the only State to be affected, I am somewhat surprised that some provision has not been made before. The title of California are somewhat peculiar. California came into the Union as an organized community, and most of the titles, I suppose, had been granted under Mexican or Spanish authority.

Mr. PADDOCK. This does not touch the Mexican grants, but the public lands within surveys.

Mr. SHERMAN. I will ask the Senator whether, under this bill as it is now framed, the 5 per cent on lands granted to railroad companies will be included?

Mr. PADDOCK. Not at all. These acts are all alike in respect of these accounts. They are all treated in the same way in administration. The Government has never accounted at all for the 5 per cent of the proceeds of land grants. They are disposed of by the railroad companies themselves. On these grants themselves, as such, there is no allowance.

Mr. SHERMAN. Does the Senator understand that this places California simply upon the same basis as the other States?

Mr. PADDOCK. Exactly on the same basis as all the other States. An exception was made in the case of California from the fact that she had no preceding Territorial government and had no enabling act, but the same requirements that are found in all the enabling acts for the admission of States into the Union are found in the law admitting California when she was admitted, and California has complied with all those acts in all respects just like all the other States.

Mr. COCKRELL. If that be so, permit me to ask why it is that California has not been paid as the other States have been?

Mr. FELTON. For the reason, I will say to the Senator from Missouri, that California has suffered in a great many ways, not that alone. It has been so with her Indian wars; it has been so with other appropriations. It is simply because the matter has not been considered.

Mr. PADDOCK. Mr. President, in the earlier acts, prior to 1857, the money coming from the net proceeds of the sales of these lands under the 5 per cent plan was required to be used by the States for internal improvements, the building of roads and canals, but it was not practicable to make use of money in California on such account.

Mr. COCKRELL. On account of what?

Mr. PADDOCK. On account of making canals, etc., for the shipment of produce, etc. In 1857 the rule changed with the admission of the State of Kansas into the Union, and the proceeds resulting from the 5 per cent to that State went to the school fund. Since then that rule has obtained; but by reason of the peculiar situation in California in respect of the kind of improvements which had been appropriated for before, and because California had had no Territorial government, and no enabling act before it came into the Union in which to provide for it, the matter had not received attention.

But after the passage of the act of 1857 for Kansas it came to be understood that there ought to be the same provision made for California for the benefit of its school fund. The requirements, of course, on the part of the State have all been responded to by the State of California. That State has, through her Legislature, never interfered with the primary disposal of the public lands within her limits; has passed no law and done no act whereby the title of the United States to and the right to dispose of the same has been impaired or questioned. They have laid no tax or assessment of any description whatever upon the public domain of the United States, and in no case have nonresident proprietors who are citizens of the United States been taxed higher than residents. I paraphrase this section of the act under which California was admitted in order to present, by a change to the past tense, the idea that I have suggested. That was the requirement of the act, and all those requirements which are common to all the States, and on account of which they have received the 5 per cent, have been complied with fully and absolutely in the case of California. Therefore, there is no reason under heaven why that State should not receive the same compensation for the surrender of these rights that the other States have received when they have made similar surrenders under their acts for the protection of citizens of the United States in common with all others. There is no reason under the sun why it should not be placed on the same footing with them.

A similar bill passed the Senate during the last Congress. It has been two or three times reported favorably in both Houses, and because the act has not finally been passed is no reason why it should not be done now. An act of long-deferred justice is the very act which should be preferred above all others. If it is right that it should be done, it does not make it any the less our duty to do it now that it has been long delayed. All this ought to be a reason for doing this act of justice at once.

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, there has been no delay and no injustice on the part of Congress towards California—not one particle—in this matter, and I beg to say to the Senator that I think he is very greatly mistaken on that point. The United States has done everything it agreed to do with California when she came into the Union. There was no promise in the act admitting California that she should have 5 per cent of the net proceeds of the sales of public lands. If there had been, they would not need the passage of this bill.

Mr. PADDOCK. If the Senator will allow me, I wish to say to him right here, that there was no enabling act in the case of California, as there had been in the case of other States, in which that provision had always been uniformly placed.

Mr. COCKRELL. But there was an enabling act authorizing California to be admitted into the Union.

Mr. PADDOCK. Yes; there was an act passed admitting it.

Mr. COCKRELL. There was no provision put in there, and consequently the State had no right on earth to any such thing, except a mere equity. If she had it in the act of admission, as the other States had, the Government officers would have paid it. That is what strikes me in the case.

Mr. PADDOCK. I should like to say in answer to that—

Mr. COCKRELL. It is not worth while to consume further time this morning with this bill. I ask that the bill may be laid over until to-morrow, so that we can look into the act of admission and see whether California did not receive some other equivalent for that equal to the 5 per cent at the time she was admitted.

Mr. PADDOCK. I first want to state my theory why it was not put into the act of admission, and that is that there was no preceding territorial form of government. California was admitted straight. In all other cases of public-land States there had been precedent territorial governments. Now, that very fact is in favor of California, because always where there have been preceding territorial governments there have been great expenses to which the Government of the United States has been subjected for such territorial governments. In this case California saved to the United States Treasury every dollar of such expense and was ready, without such inordinate form of Statehood, to make its application for admission. It was the most economically admitted of any of all the public-land States. That is the difference, and there is no reason why there should be any question about this at all.

If the bill is to be passed over, I hope it may be passed over without prejudice.

Mr. COCKRELL. I ask that it retain its place on the Calendar so that it may be called up to-morrow.

Mr. PADDOCK. My recollection is that the Senator from Missouri was on the Committee on Public Lands when the bill was reported.

Mr. COCKRELL. I want to examine the subject, but I want to repel the idea that it was the neglect of the United States that this thing has not been done. I do not consider that it is that at all. My impression is that the bill is correct, but I want to look at the enabling act to see about it.

Mr. PADDOCK. Another thing. At the time California was admitted it was richer than any of the other States in respect of coin money, and it was not thought to be necessary to have such a provision. They made no such importunate and determined demand as the others at the time of their admission.

Mr. FELTON. Just one word. I desire to say that, whatever may have been the reason, the fact remains that all of the other States, under similar conditions which were prescribed and have been complied with, received the 5 per cent, while California remains without her 5 per cent.

The Senator from Missouri speaks of the simple question of equity. If I understand the meaning of the word "equity," it is even and exact justice that should be meted out to all. California has not received her proportion of the appropriation of the 5 per cent which has been given to other States similarly situated.

Mr. PADDOCK. I wish the Senator from Missouri would examine the state of the law, if he can, to-day, and let us consider this bill during the day.

Mr. COCKRELL. I will read for the information of the Senator the act for the admission of the State of California into the Union.

Whereas the people of California have presented a constitution and asked admission into the Union, which constitution was submitted to Congress by the President of the United States, by message dated February 13, 1850, and which, on due examination, is found to be republican in its form of government:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the State of California shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That until the Representatives in Congress shall be apportioned according to an actual enumeration of the inhabitants of the United States the State of California shall be entitled to two Representatives in Congress.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the said State of California is admitted into the Union upon the express condition that the people of said State, through their Legislature or otherwise, shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the public lands within its limits, and shall pass no law and do no act whereby the title of the United States to and right to dispose of the same shall be impaired or questioned; and that they shall never lay any tax or assessment of any description whatsoever upon the public domain of the United States, and in no case shall nonresident proprietors who are citizens of the United States be taxed higher than residents; and that all the navigable waters within the said State shall be common highways, and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said State as to the citizens of the United States, without any tax, impost, or duty therefor: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as recognizing or rejecting the propositions tendered by the people of California as articles of compact in the ordinance adopted by the convention which formed the constitution of that State.

Approved September 9, 1850.

Mr. PADDOCK. That is the usual provision in all such cases.

Mr. COCKRELL. This simply admitted the State and did not refer to these compacts. I should think upon principles of equity and fair dealing, having been admitted upon an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever, that as a public-land State it ought to be placed upon an equality with the other public-land States, and there being no provision here, and I do not know of any legislation which could prevent it, I withdraw my objection to the bill, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The objection to the consideration of the bill being withdrawn, the question is, Shall the bill be reported to the Senate?

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the preamble.

Mr. PADDOCK. I am disposed to move to strike out the preamble. If that meets the concurrence of the Senator from Missouri, I think it had better be stricken out.

Mr. COCKRELL. The preamble amounts to nothing. It only encumbers the record.

Mr. PADDOCK. I move to strike out the preamble. The motion was agreed to.

ANACOSTIA AND POTOMAC RIVER RAILROAD.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move to reconsider the vote by which the Senate this morning passed the bill (S. 1742) to amend the act giving the approval and sanction of Congress to the route and termini of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad in the District of Columbia, with the view of substituting for the Senate bill a House bill on the same subject, which is on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there be no objection the vote by which the bill referred to by the Senator from Michigan was passed will be reconsidered, and the bill will be indefinitely postponed. The Chair hears no objection, and it will be so ordered.

Mr. McMILLAN. I now move to take up Order of Business 463, being House bill 2786.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 2786) to amend the act giving the approval and sanction of Congress to the route and termini of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad in the District of Columbia.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to ask the Senator in charge of that bill if the object is the same and the language is the same as the one we have already passed?

Mr. McMILLAN. The language is almost the same, but there is one section about the exchange of tickets, to which there is no objection. All the roads exchange tickets.

Mr. COCKRELL. It provides for running the cars on the same line?

Mr. McMILLAN. On the same line exactly.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ENTRY OF BUILDING-STONE LANDS.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I wish to call up from the Calendar Order of Business 296, being Senate bill 1273, which was passed over the other day without prejudice.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 1273) to authorize the entry of lands chiefly valuable for building stone, under the placer-mining laws.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I wish to offer an amendment to the bill. There is a law relating to four of the States for the entry of stone and timber lands, and it is feared on the part of Senators from those States that perhaps this bill, if it becomes a law as it is, may effect the repeal of that in some way. Under that law only surveyed lands can be entered, while the stone lands that are worth anything in my State are unsurveyed, and they have been taken under the placer-mining laws, and some of them have been patented; but during the last three years the Department has decided that the placer-mining law does not apply to land which is suitable only for building stone. So I offer this amendment in order not to effect the repeal of the law.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. At the end of line 8 it is proposed to add:

Provided further, That this act shall not be construed to repeal or in any way modify or affect the act of June 3, 1878, in relation to the sale of timber and stone land in the States of California, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to ask one question. Under this bill, if it becomes a law, how much land can any one person take up?

Mr. PETTIGREW. About 20 acres.

Mr. COCKRELL. Only one claim?

Mr. PETTIGREW. A person can take more than one claim, but under existing law no person can take, as I understand, to exceed 320 acres. He can take just as much as he could take under the gold-mining law. For instance, under the mineral law a person has to do $100 worth of work a year on a tract of about 20 acres and do it for five years, and then pay $5 an acre, the same as is done with the precious metals.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After one hour and thirty minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened.

CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEAL.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business, which is the bill (S. 1615) to facilitate the disposition of causes in the Court of Claims, the pending question being on the amendment submitted by the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL].

Mr. HOAR. According to the understanding last week, I desire to call up, as a privileged question, the motion to reconsider the vote by which the Senate passed the bill (S. 2729) to amend an act entitled "An act to establish circuit courts of appeals, and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes." I desire to move to lay the motion to reconsider on the table, but I do not propose to make that motion if anybody wishes to be heard upon it.

Mr. PALMER. Has the motion to reconsider been entered?

Mr. HOAR. It is merely pending. I will move to lay that motion on the table, but I do not wish to do that if the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] desires to address the Senate upon it.

Mr. PALMER. I should like to state to the Senator from Massachusetts that the Senator from Florida, before he left, asked me to call attention to this subject and to invite the attention of the Senate again to one particular clause in the bill.

Mr. HOAR. It is not my purpose to make this motion until the debate on the motion to reconsider is over, if there be any, of course.

Mr. PALMER. I am not sufficiently acquainted with the rules to say what arguments could be addressed to the motion to reconsider. The object of the Senator from Florida who made the motion—

Mr. HOAR. The Senator from Florida who made the motion is now in his seat.

Mr. PALMER. Ah!

Mr. HOAR. If the Senator will pardon me, this is a bill to amend what is known as the judiciary act of 1891, which principally limits the taking of cases by way of exception from the district courts. When that bill passed on Thursday last the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] moved to reconsider, which is a privileged motion. I have given notice that I should call that up at 2 o'clock to-day. I propose to call it up, and it is now before the Senate. When such remarks have been made upon it as any Senator desires to make, I shall ask that the vote be taken upon it, by moving to lay it upon the table, which is the usual way of treating motions to reconsider. But I will not make that motion if the Senator from Illinois or any other Senator desires to speak.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, my object in asking for a reconsideration of the vote by which this bill was passed was to enable the objections made by my colleague [Mr. PASCO] to be properly considered by the Senate. This bill, changing the word "may" into "shall," deprives a large number of persons of the absolute right of appeal, and it gives the appeal according to the sentence actually pronounced. The objection which was made by my colleague is certainly a very correct one, and that is that it gives to the presiding judge the opportunity of denying the right of appeal by fixing the sentence at some amount less than the amount actually provided as the penalty in the law, the amount of the punishment, either fine or imprisonment, the appeal may be taken.

This is done, it is true, in conformity with the recommendation of the Supreme Court of the United States where a man is sentenced to pay a fine or to suffer a certain period of imprisonment and the judge has the right to say, "I will affix the penalty so that this man shall not have the right of appeal;" it is unquestionably giving a power, and an arbitrary power, to the judge which he ought not to have; and considering the character of some of the judges which we have had—I will not say that we have now, but have had—in some portions of this country, it is a discretion which ought not to be reposed in them.

Mr. MORGAN. Will the Senator from Florida read that part of the bill the motion applies to?

Mr. CALL. The bill provides as follows:

That so much of the fifth section of the act of March 3, 1891, entitled "An act to establish circuit courts of appeals, and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes," as provides that appeals or writs of error may be taken from the district or circuit courts direct to the Supreme Court in cases of conviction of a capital or other infamous crime, is hereby repealed, so far as affects cases other than capital and excepting cases where the defendant may be—

And the change made by the amendment to which my colleague objected was the substitution of word "shall" for "may."

Shall be sentenced to a fine of $5,000 or upwards, or to imprisonment for more than one year.

It thus changes the right of appeal from a class of cases in which the liability to the punishment is created by law to those cases in which the judge shall actually impose this sentence.

Mr. MORGAN. If the Senator will allow me, I will state that the Senate the other day before the passage of the bill amended it so as to give the right of appeal in any class of cases Grounds, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2800) for the erection of a public building at the city of Dunkirk, N. Y., reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 688) to amend sections 1 and 2 of an act entitled "An act to authorize the sale of timber on certain lands reserved for the use of the Menomonee tribe of Indians, in the State of Wisconsin," and for other purposes, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1090) to amend section 1 and section 2 of an act entitled "An act to authorize the sale of timber on certain lands reserved for the use of the Menomonee tribe of Indians, in the State of Wisconsin," reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, submitted a report accompanied by the bill (S. 2929) to regulate the cutting and sale of timber reserved to the use of the Menomonee tribe of Indians in Wisconsin; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. ALLEN, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1370) for the relief of the legal representatives of Mrs. Adeline Shirley, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. ALLEN, from the Committee on Claims, I report adversely the bill (S. 723) for the relief of the legal representatives of Mrs. Adeline Shirley. The reason for reporting this bill adversely is that its provisions are embraced in the other bill just reported.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. HAWLEY, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported two amendments intended to be proposed to the army appropriation bill; which were referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

CLIMATIC FEATURES OF THE DAKOTAS.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the concurrent resolution submitted by Mr. PETTIGREW February 25, 1892, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring therein). That 5,000 copies, comprising the necessary text, tables, and charts, be printed of the paper entitled "Certain Climatic Features of the Two Dakotas," being a presentation of special information collected by the Weather Bureau for a long series of years as to temperature, rainfall, winds, barometric pressures, evaporation, and atmospheric disturbances, which are believed to have marked influence upon agricultural interests in the said States.

SEC. 2. That 1,000 copies be for the use of the Senate, 2,000 copies for the use of the House of Representatives, and 2,000 copies to be distributed by the Weather Bureau.

REMOVAL OF GARBAGE IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. HANSBROUGH, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. BLACKBURN on the 8th instant, reported it without amendment; and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Whereas there was appropriated by the last Congress the sum of $24,000 for the removal of garbage in the District of Columbia for the year ending June 30, 1892; and

Whereas it is stated by the Commissioners for the District of Columbia in their last annual report now before Congress that said appropriation is already "practically exhausted," and an additional appropriation is asked for: Therefore,

Be it resolved by the Senate of the United States in Congress assembled, That the Committee of the Senate on the District of Columbia is hereby instructed to investigate the manner and methods by which said appropriation has been expended, and to report to the Senate at an early day the result of their investigations.

Also, that said committee is directed to report what changes have been made in the old-fashioned management of the health department of the District of Columbia, and for what reasons; and if any unusual or unfair means have been used to accomplish such changes.

Also, if the present contractor for the transportation of garbage and the collection and transportation of dead animals in the District of Columbia is carrying out his contract according to the specifications thereof.

Also, if said contractor is an employee of the War Department, drawing a salary from the United States; and if so, why is he allowed to occupy such a double position.

Also, if said contractor has been awarded a five years' contract for the collection of garbage and dead animals in the District of Columbia; and if so, the amount of said contract; and if said contractor has been allowed to sublet said contract; and if so, to whom, and what consideration he received for the same.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 2930) for the relief of George Webb; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 2931) to provide for the survey and transfer of that part of Fort Randall military reservation in the State of Nebraska to said State for school purpose; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. FAULKNER introduced a bill (S. 2932) for the relief of William A. Griffin of Berkeley County, W. Va.; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE introduced a bill (S. 2933) to limit the number of civil engineers of the Navy; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. DIXON (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2934) for the purpose of limiting the conditions in patents granted to citizens of other countries, to those demanded of American citizens by these countries respectively, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. CULLOM (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2935) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the adjudication and payment of claims arising from Indian depredations," approved March 3, 1891; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Select Committee on Indian Depredations.

Mr. PLATT introduced a bill (S. 2936) for the relief of the United States Regulation Firearms Company; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 2937) for the erection of a monument in the city of Washington to the memory of the late Commodore John Paul Jones; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. MANDERSON. I ask that the bill be referred to the Committee on the Library, and I desire to call the attention of that committee to some very valuable documents which accompany the bill. They were prepared by a gentleman who has given very great research to the history of this eminent naval officer, and I hope that they will receive consideration at the hands of the committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill, with the accompanying papers, will be referred to the Committee on the Library.

Mr. CHANDLER introduced a bill (S. 2938) for the purchase of a marble bust of Ulysses S. Grant; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Library.

Mr. VEST introduced a bill (S. 2939) for the relief of Austin Aukrom; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HARRIS introduced a bill (S. 2940) for the relief of James A. Richardson, administrator of Ezekiel T. Keel, deceased, of Shelby County, Tenn.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 2941) for the relief of John Schuh; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2942) granting a pension to Lawrence Heffron, late private in United States Marine Corps; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2943) granting an increase of pension to Thomas H. Gohagan; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 2944) making the surveyor of the District of Columbia a salaried officer and to provide for more efficient service in the surveyor's office; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2945) granting an honorable discharge to Almond Munson; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2946) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate The Masonic Mutual Relief Association of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1869; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. FELTON (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2947) to provide a national currency circulating medium and to provide for the circulation thereof; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 2948) to pension William H. Pierre; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CALL introduced a bill (S. 2949) granting a pension to Josephine Glover; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 2950) for the relief of the legal representatives of Samuel Woods; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. FELTON (by request) introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 74) proposing an amendment to the Constitution in reference to a national money system; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. FELTON. I have been requested to say in connection with the measures introduced by me that it is the desire to bring the subject before the Finance Committee for their consideration. I am told that the sentiment is backed by a large number of respectable and leading citizens. I move that the bill and joint resolution be referred to the Committee on Finance.

The motion was agreed to.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. ALLEN and Mr. PELTON submitted amendments intended to be proposed by them, respectively, to the river and harbor bill; which were referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PETTIGREW submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. GRAY submitted five amendments intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which were referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLICATION OF COPYRIGHTED BOOKS IN THE RECORD.

Mr. SANDERS. I submit a resolution and ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary be instructed to inquire whether the publication in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, without the consent of the proprietor, of a copyrighted book is an infringement of the right granted to such proprietor of the sole liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, completing, copying, executing, and selling, or vending the same, and whether the publication therein subjects any person who shall sell or expose to sale the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD containing such reprint to the penalties prescribed in section 4954 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; and whether any person is liable to the owner of such copyrighted book for damages for such publication; and if so, what person, and what action, if any, is desirable to be taken in view of the publication of copyrighted books in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, and that said committee have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. PLATT. I wish that the resolution may be printed and lie over. I should like to look at it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be printed and lie over.

HEARINGS ON CHEROKEE AGREEMENT.

Mr. PLATT submitted the following resolution: which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Committee on Indian Affairs, or any subcommittee thereof, have power to employ a stenographer to report hearings in connection with Senate bill 2870, to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Cherokee Nation of Indians of the Indian Territory, to make appropriation for carrying out the same, and for other purposes; and upon the relations existing between the United States and the five civilized tribes of Indians. Said committee, or subcommittee, shall have power to send for persons and papers; and the expenses incurred by such hearings shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate, upon vouchers properly approved by the chairman of said committee.

IRRIGATION PUBLICATIONS OF GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Mr. POWER. I submit a resolution and ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and is hereby, requested to furnish the Senate with information in relation to the following matters and at as early a date as practicable:

1. What documents, reports, monographs, papers, maps, and illustrations have been printed during the fiscal years of 1890-91 and 1891-92 for the United States Geological Survey in relation to irrigation, the storage of water, the measuring of streams, the construction and character of works in this and other countries, the survey of arid lands for reclamation purposes; also if any have been printed in previous years, not already published and distributed; and, if so, what relation such reports, etc., bear to the annual and special publications of the Geological Survey, as authorized by law, and at what date (if any such documents are now printed or printing) will they be ready for distribution?

2. What reports relating to arid-land reclamation and irrigation are in preparation in the offices of the United States Geological Survey and the United States Census; whether the same are now in course of printing; by whom are such reports being prepared, and under what authority of law, from what appropriations are the costs of said reports, papers, etc., being borne, and from what rolls are the persons employed thereat being paid, with a full statement or estimate of the cost of each of such publications or documents, both for preparation and printing, with the number to be printed and specific authority under which the work is being or has been done.

3. That the information asked shall include a statement as to whether any portion, and if so, what portions, of said reports, etc., have been previously published and circulated, either public or private papers and reports; also as to the authority of law under which such data have been gathered, the names and duties of those employed to obtain and prepare the same, the rolls on which they are now or were borne and paid, the amount of the payments to them while so employed, and the offices or divisions to which they were assigned.

Mr. PLATT. Mr. President—

Mr. HALE. Let that lie over.

Mr. PLATT. I wish to suggest that if the resolution is to be passed on, the word "directed" ought to be inserted in place of the word "requested." I think we ought always to direct a Department in such resolutions.

Mr. HALE. I should like to have the resolution printed and lie over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. FRYE in the chair). Objection being made, the resolution will lie over, under the rule.

Mr. PLATT. Let the change be made from "requested" to "directed."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution has gone over.

Mr. PLATT. I rose to make my suggestion before the objection was made.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut moves that the word "requested" be changed to the word "directed." Is there any objection? The Chair hears none, and that amendment will be made. The resolution will go over, under the rule.

GEORGETOWN AND TENNALLYTOWN RAILROAD.

Mr. HALE submitted the following resolution: which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby directed to forthwith investigate the operations of the Georgetown and Tennallytown Railroad Company, as to whether said company has complied with the laws and regulations governing it, especially in regard to roads, streets, and highways which are crossed by its track; whether the rails are placed upon proper grade; whether gates are sufficiently maintained, and whether the roadbed of said track and of the street in which it runs has been by said company made unsuitable for travel, and whether any arrangement has been made with any other company for the use of any part of its track or poles, and to report forthwith to the Senate.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVAL.

A message from the President of the United States by Mr. O. L. FRIDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had yesterday approved and signed the act (S. 2388) to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the Oregon and Washington Bridge Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Columbia River, between the State of Oregon and the State of Washington, and to establish it as a post road."

FUNDING ACT OF ARIZONA.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there are no further resolutions, concurrent or other, the Calendar is in order.

Mr. PLATT. I desire to make a statement with reference to a bill on the Calendar, and then to ask unanimous consent that it may be taken up and disposed of at the present time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection the Senator will be recognized to make a statement.

Mr. PLATT. The bill relates to a slight amendment in the funding act of Arizona. It is to make the interest on some bonds payable semiannually instead of annually. That is the only amendment to the law. It is necessary in order to enable the Territory of Arizona to sell its bonds under the act. An agreement has already been made for the sale of $1,500,000 of bonds if the bill can pass Congress, and the transaction is simply waiting for the passage of the bill. The other House has passed the bill, and I ask that it may be disposed of this morning.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill H. R. 5499 to amend an act entitled "An act approving, with amendments, the funding act of Arizona," approved June 25, 1890. The bill will be read for the information of the Senate.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, and, there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

Mr. PLATT. There is an amendment proposed by the committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. The Committee on Territories report to add to section 2:

An "no further Territorial legislation shall be necessary in order to make said Territory liable for the principal and interest of said bonds; and no further advertisement for the sale of $1,500,000 of said bonds; and no less than par shall be necessary."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. STEWART. Mr. President, I wish to call attention to the fact that this bill provides for the payment of interest in gold.

Mr. PLATT. Or in its equivalent in lawful money.

Mr. STEWART. Or in its equivalent in lawful money. It is the first measure passed by Congress, at least since the resumption act, which has made any distinction in the different kinds of United States money. I do not know but that the original act contained the same provision.

Mr. PLATT. The act passed by the Legislature of Arizona in 1887 contained the same provision. The same language is followed in this bill.

Mr. STEWART. This will probably be used by our gold friends to show that the people of Arizona are opposed to the free coinage of silver and that they have joined the gold combination. The bill in this form will undoubtedly be used as an argument for that purpose. I do not think it will be a very sound argument, because it is the gold men themselves who refuse to loan money to Arizona unless they can make these terms.

It is rather a forced loan, such as the gold men are in the habit of making. They take advantage of everything of this kind to patch up their cause, being unable to show that there is gold enough for use as money, or that the legislation of 1873 was wise legislation, or that prices are not changing all over the world in consequence of an inadequate basis for circulation. The fact that we have only about half the amount of metallic coin in the commercial world that we had eighteen years ago is not denied, and its baneful effects are felt everywhere and can not be denied by argument. The advocates of a gold standard resort to little catch things like this where a Territory is forced to accept their terms to prove that they have adherents and advocates.

A few days ago some industrious individual in the employ of the gold men ascertained that I had made some mortgages payable in gold in California, where the gold law prevails and where any man who does business must sign a note payable in gold. If he gets a discount at a bank, or if he does business in that country, he must do as they do. As I explained the other day, I gave no direction in regard to the matter: it was done by an agent, who took the mortgages on the usual blanks prepared by the gold men. That has been commented upon, and I think the editor of every leading paper in the United States has taken the trouble to write an editorial on it, as if that had anything to do with the grasp of contraction, as if that had anything to do with the oppression of mankind occasioned by the destruction of one-half of the basis of circulation!

I simply call attention to this matter. We shall hear from it again. I shall not take any further action than to call attention to it, because the Territory of Arizona is in a deplorable condition, with an enormous debt, and the people of that Territory think this measure will be some relief. They think this funding bill will put their finances in a better condition. Whether that be true or not, time will tell. At all events, I am disposed to allow them to manage their own affairs, and am willing that the gold trust shall have all the benefit of the provision in this bill; but they will call attention to the fact that Congress is recognizing a difference between the different classes of money which are in use.

Mr. PLATT. Mr. President, I am very glad that the Senator from Nevada does not feel it necessary to oppose this bill. I desire to make a simple statement about it.

The original act, which we are now asked to amend, was passed in 1887 by the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Arizona. The only change that we make in it is to make the interest payable semiannually instead of annually. The law, so far as relates to the payment of interest in gold or its equivalent, is precisely the language employed in the original act by the Legislature in 1887. The sale of these bonds upon the contract which has already been made will save the Territory of Arizona about $7,000 per month interest, and the people of that Territory are very anxious that the bill shall pass without further delay.

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, the bill which was passed by the House of Representatives contains a provision that the interest "shall be paid in gold coin of the United States," without saying anything about "or its equivalent." The act of the Territorial Legislature of the Territory of Arizona contains the words that "the interest shall be payable in gold coin or its equivalent in lawful money of the United States."

Mr. PLATT. I think the Senator is mistaken about that.

Mr. COCKRELL. I am only going by the Senator's own report as he has it printed here.

Mr. PLATT. There is a mistake in the print. If the Senator will listen to the reading of the bill I think he will see that the language is all right.

Mr. COCKRELL. I not only listened to the reading of it, but I have it, and I am able to read, and I see the bill has not the words "or its equivalent in lawful money."

Mr. PLATT. I think the Senator is mistaken.

Mr. COCKRELL. We shall see who is mistaken.

Mr. PLATT. On looking at the bill I see the Senator is right.

Mr. COCKRELL. I rather thought the Senator from Connecticut was mistaken.

Mr. PLATT. I agree that I was.

Mr. COCKRELL. It is all right, then.

This bill provides further, in accordance with the language of the Territorial statute, that the principal of these bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States. The principal being payable in lawful money of the United States is the only reason why I shall make no objection to the passage of the bill, though I believe the principle is wrong in not making the interest payable in lawful money, but the principal is payable in lawful money.

Mr. KYLE. I wish to offer an amendment, to strike out, in line 11, of section 1, the words "gold coin" and insert "lawful money."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 1, line 11, after the words "paid in," it is proposed to strike out "gold coin" and insert "lawful money;" so as to read:

Said bonds shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed 5 per cent. per annum, which interest shall be paid in lawful money of the United States, etc.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be considered as agreed to, if there be no objection.

Mr. PLATT. No, Mr. President, it will not be considered as agreed to without objection, for I object to it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Then the Chair will put the question on the amendment.

Mr. KYLE. I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. PLATT. Mr. President, I desire to make this statement about the bill. The Territorial Delegate desires that the bill shall be passed in its present form; all the officers of the Territory desire that the bill shall be passed in its present form. The contract has been made for the sale of these bonds upon the theory that the bill would be passed by the Senate as it came from the other House, and I hope that no change will be made in it. It is a matter which it seems to me the people of the Territory have a right to regulate in their own way.

Mr. PEPPER. Mr. President, I shall trouble the Senate but for a moment. The request of the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT] is based upon the action of the Delegate from the Territory of Arizona, as I understand it.

Mr. PLATT. Certainly it is.

Mr. PEPPER. I am opposed to changing the tenor and the spirit of the laws of the United States at anybody's request except at the request of the people themselves. We are now just entering upon what I believe will be the most stupendous struggle in our history upon this very question as to whether or not we are going to pay or propose to pay our debts in gold instead of in lawful money of the United States, and I hope that this amendment will carry. If it be necessary to repeal the law and enact a new one very good, but it does not matter about that so far as I am concerned and the people whom I represent.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. KYLE], upon which the yeas and nays have been ordered.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CULLOM (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY].

Mr. DAVIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TURPIN].

Mr. DAWES (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN].

Mr. FAULKNER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY].

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. I should vote "yea" if the Senator from Vermont were present.

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], and therefore withhold my vote.

Mr. PALMER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. HANSBROUGH].

Mr. POWER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE].

Mr. WARREN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON]. Not knowing how he would vote on this question if present, I withhold my vote.

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. BUTLER. I am paired generally with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. I do not know how he would vote on this proposition, and I therefore withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS. I suggest to the Senator from Michigan [Mr. MCNULT], he being paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE] and I with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL], that we transfer our pairs and record our votes.

Mr. McMILLAN. That is satisfactory to me, and I vote "nay."

Mr. HARRIS. I vote "yea."

Mr. CALL (after having voted in the affirmative). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR], and therefore withdraw my vote.

Mr. CARLISLE. Is the senior Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] recorded as voting?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. He is not recorded.

Mr. CARLISLE. I am paired with that Senator, and withhold my vote.

Mr. GEORGE. Has the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH] voted?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. He has not.

Mr. GEORGE. I am paired with him, and withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. FELTON. I am paired with the Senator from Ohio [Mr. BRICE]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. HISCOCK (after having voted in the affirmative). I am paired with the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES]. I did not hear him vote, and therefore I withdraw my vote.

Mr. RANSOM. I am paired with the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE]. who is temporarily and necessarily absent from the Senate. I should vote "yea" if he were present.

Mr. HISCOCK. I suggest to the Senator that he and I transfer our pairs. I am paired with the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES] and the Senator from North Carolina is paired with the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE]. By a transfer of the pairs we shall both be at liberty to vote.

Mr. RANSOM. That is satisfactory to me.

Mr. HISCOCK. Then my vote may stand.

Mr. RANSOM. I vote "yea."

Mr. BERRY. Under the arrangement just made, my colleague [Mr. JONES of Arkansas] will be paired with the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE]. If my colleague were present he would vote "yea."

Mr. PLATT (after having voted in the negative.) I voted inadvertently. I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. BARBOUR]. If my vote standing would make a quorum I should let it remain, but as I understand it will not, I desire to withdraw it for the present.

The result was announced—yeas 21, nays 15; as follows:

YEAS—21.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Fifty-seven Senators have responded to their names. A quorum is present. The yeas and nays will be again taken on the amendment of the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. KYLE].

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BUTLER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). Being paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL], the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] and myself have consented to transfer our pairs, and I vote "yea."

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. BARBOUR], and shall not vote unless it becomes necessary to make a quorum.

Mr. POWER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. WARREN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. FAULKNER. I am paired with the junior Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. PLATT. I suggest to the Senator from West Virginia that he and I transfer our pairs, so that the Senator from Virginia [Mr. BARBOUR] and the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY] will stand paired, and we shall be at liberty to vote.

Mr. FAULKNER. That is satisfactory to me.

Mr. GEORGE. Has the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH] voted?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. He is not recorded.

Mr. GEORGE. I am paired with that Senator, and withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. HIGGINS. The Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] and I have agreed to transfer our pairs. He is paired with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON], and I with the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. We will transfer those pairs, so that we can both vote. I vote "nay."

Mr. BUTLER. Under that arrangement I vote "yea."

Mr. HISCOCK (after having voted in the negative). Has the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES] voted?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. He has not.

Mr. HISCOCK. I am paired with that Senator, but I understand that the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH], who is absent, is not paired. Therefore, I transfer my pair with the Senator from Arkansas to the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH], and I will let my vote stand.

The result was announced—yeas 28, nays 24; as follows:

So the amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended.

Mr. CAREY. Mr. President, I wish to make a statement with reference to this bill, which was considered by the Committee on Territories.

Mr. SMITH, the Delegate from Arizona, who is in favor of the free coinage of silver, appealed to the Committee to amend this bill. A law was passed in the last Congress providing for the funding of the indebtedness of Arizona. That law provided that interest should be paid in gold or its equivalent in lawful money.

Mr. KYLE. May I ask the Senator a question there?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Wyoming yield?

Mr. CAREY. Yes, sir.

Mr. KYLE. Does the law provide that the interest shall be paid in gold or in lawful money?

Mr. CAREY. In gold or its equivalent in lawful money, and that is the law on the statute book to-day.

Mr. SMITH came before the committee and said that unless this bill was amended and the interest made payable semiannually instead of annually, as in the law, they could not sell their bonds. He further stated, and it has been confirmed by the speech of the Senator from Nevada [Mr. STEWART]—that the universal custom in the Territory of Arizona, in Nevada, and in California, is to pay indebtedness, principal and interest, in gold.

I am opposed to the free coinage of silver. I am convinced that it is not right that this Government should to-day coin all the silver that may be presented at the mints. I do not believe in making contracts payable in gold, yet I believe it is the right of a Territory, or of a State, or of the Government of the United States to make a contract in gold if it wishes to do so. On Mr. SMITH's personal appeal the Committee on Territories agreed to so report this bill.

What was the nature of his appeal? He stated that the people of Arizona were burdened with an indebtedness, they were paying $150,000 per annum in interest, and they had to strain every nerve to raise the necessary amount to pay the interest. He says the minute that the law is amended as proposed by this bill the Territory of Arizona has a contract by which it can dispose of its bonds and save $75,000 per annum.

These are the reasons why I voted as I did to maintain the provision of the bill, that the people of Arizona if they wished to do so, may make a contract to pay their interest in gold and not in lawful money, and they can not sell their bonds unless they do so.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President, the provision to pay in lawful money is a provision to pay in gold or silver at the option of the debtor. At this time, fortunately, the term "lawful money" includes both gold and silver. In practice these people can pay in gold if they prefer. The United States has no obligation payable in gold save the gold certificates, in which case the Government acts simply as a trustee.

Why should we now discriminate in favor of one kind of money? Is there any condition of affairs in this country which justifies anybody in saying that gold is more valuable for payment than silver? Is it any advantage to the people of Arizona Territory to pay in gold? Is it any burden for them to pay in silver or paper, which is included in the term "lawful money?"

If the Territory of Arizona can not sell its bonds, it is because the people who have the money distrust that Territory. The State of Colorado is able to sell its securities payable in lawful money. It has recently sold at more than par $300,000 of its bonds, payable in lawful money.

Mr. HISCOCK. At what rate of interest?

Mr. TELLER. Four per cent. I do not know what rate of interest is provided for in this bill.

Mr. PLATT. Five per cent.

Mr. TELLER. You can sell in any of the markets of this country the securities of any municipal corporation or any State that is solvent, payable in lawful money.

Mr. CAREY. I will say to the Senator that, if he will make inquiry, he will find that it is very difficult to sell Western bonds now.

Mr. TELLER. I am as well advised upon that subject as the Senator from Wyoming; I spend as much time studying these questions as the Senator from Wyoming; I am as familiar with the markets of the world as the Senator from Wyoming, and I can put in the markets of the world the securities of any solvent corporation in the United States payable in lawful money.

Mr. STEWART. You can not if the United States discriminates against it.

Mr. TELLER. The United States ought not to discriminate against its money of any kind. I say here, Mr. President, that if there is any difficulty in selling these bonds, it is not because the term "lawful money" is there. If these people are burdened with a great debt and are paying large amounts of interest, with proper management and proper attention they can get out of debt without burdening themselves with a payment which must ultimately cost them 40 or 50 per cent more, especially if the sentiments expressed by the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY] and the people who think with him shall prevail in this country. These people will, when they pay their debt, not only pay the interest with appreciated money year by year, but pay the principal with appreciated money.

"Lawful money" is the term used in the statute, or "coin of the United States." I am willing that the bill shall be amended so as to read "payable in United States coin." I am not willing to vote for the bill, and I will not give my vote for it, if the amendment is not allowed to stand; nor will I vote for any security made by the United States or by its authority which disparages one of the money metals, or even that respectable class of American money called greenbacks, which are included in the term "lawful money."

Mr. DANIEL. Mr. President—

Mr. PLATT. Will the Senator yield to me for a moment?

Mr. DANIEL. With pleasure.

Mr. PLATT. I regret very much that a simple bill of this sort should start anew this financial discussion in the Senate. I do not want to enter into it. We are not passing any independent law; we are simply approving an act which the Territory of Arizona passed some time ago, and I am perfectly content that the vote shall be taken. If the amendment is adopted as it is, I shall not call for a separate vote on it in the Senate. I appeal to the Senator from Virginia to let this bill be disposed of, but still, if he wishes to enter into the discussion, that is his right.

Mr. DANIEL. I yield to the appeal of the Senator not to expose the fallacies of the gold men any more. I think they have been sufficiently exposed by what has been said here.

Mr. PLATT. The discussion has been all on that side, I believe, so far.

Mr. DANIEL. I will consent, out of respect to the Senator, not to harrow his feelings any more, and let the vote be taken.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, I wish to say that I do not understand the question discussed by the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER] to be involved at all. I understand that the people of Arizona have a debt which they suppose they can compromise upon certain terms which suit them, and that the only question before the Senate is whether the people of Arizona shall be allowed to regulate their own affairs in their own way, or whether we shall interfere with them and require them to adjust them according to our way.

I do not understand that the question discussed by the Senator from Colorado is involved at all, because the underlying question is this: Shall Congress undertake to regulate these matters for these people, which they understand and which concern them? Whatever burdens are assumed, they assume. I believe in the doctrine that the wisest people are those intrusted with the management of their own business, and that he who is interested is always wiser than the man who is not.

Mr. DANIEL. Mr. President, my friend from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT] does not exercise his powers of persuasion upon gentlemen who wish to speak upon the other side of this question, and until he gets a little more impartial I am afraid that I shall have to inflict upon him a few remarks, at least, in support of the Constitution of this country and of the bimetallic currency which was adopted for this nation just one hundred years ago.

Mr. PLATT. I assure the Senator that I shall listen to him with great pleasure.

Mr. DANIEL. I am very much obliged to the Senator.

Mr. President, this is just one of the little entering wedges by which Congress is invited to revolutionize the solemn policy which was declared to be the fixed policy of this Government a little over a year ago, to keep its constitutional metallic currency at par, that is, the coin of one metal at par with the other.

There is no difficulty inherent in the nature of the case in sustaining our silver metal at par with our gold metal when it is coined. We have a slang phrase, which even gentlemen who occupy the position of statesmen condescend at some time to use, in which they speak of our solid, old-fashioned, hundred-years-old silver dollar as an 80-cent or a 70-cent or a 60-cent dollar. Mr. President, it would be impossible for Ananias himself to embody in so many words a more unadulterated and unalloyed falsehood than is attempted to be imposed upon the people by any such declaration as that the silver dollar is an 80-cent or a 70-cent or a 60-cent dollar.

We are told also that values must be left to regulate themselves, as if money grew upon trees like apples and peaches grow; as if money sprang up in fields as wheat and corn spring up; as if anybody in the country who chose to do it could create money as he may create some fabric of the factory, or cultivate some product of the pasture or the field.

Mr. STEWART. May I interrupt the Senator?

Mr. DANIEL. It is no interruption.

Mr. STEWART. I wish to suggest that the silver dollar is worth a dollar when it has the stamp of the Government upon it, and it is only depreciated because of the policy which has been pursued in relation to silver.

Mr. DANIEL. I understand that, and I am going to say that before I get through, but we can not say everything at the same time when we are trying to put one argument on top of another.

Mr. President, this misstatement of fact that we have a depreciated dollar and this economic fallacy that Congress has nothing to do with regulation of value are the two errors that lie at the root of all the doctrines which are preached against our constitutional currency.

What is a dollar? A dollar is defined in our laws under our Constitution to consist of so many grains of silver, or of so many grains of gold plus the stamp of the Government and plus the power and force of the Government behind the stamp to make that coin accepted by all who may have the right to demand a dollar as legal tender in the discharge of debt. A cent is a mere mathematical expression for a hundredth part of that thing which is a dollar, and to speak of the silver dollar as containing only 69 cents is to say that 100 and 69 are the equivalents of each other—that 100 times one is 69.

Mr. President, as to this matter of the regulation of value, our forefathers one hundred years ago when they fashioned the Constitution appreciated—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. STEWART. I ask that the Senator be allowed to proceed with his remarks by unanimous consent.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. PLATT. I hope that the bill may be disposed of this morning.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair hears no objection to the Senator from Virginia proceeding.

Mr. DANIEL. I will hurry through.

Our forefathers one hundred years ago, when they fashioned the Constitution, appreciated the fallacy of some economists who declare that you can not regulate values, and made it the duty of Congress not only to coin money, but "to regulate the value thereof."

Mr. President, whenever you put the dollar in the silver, you find the silver in the dollar, showing that when you coin money and give the metal the functional right of money, by that very act you bring all of our money to par.

I was astonished at the nature of the argument used by the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY]. He says that the people of Arizona are afflicted with debt, that they are poor and are appealing to Congress to increase their financial facilities to pay debt, and yet, in the same breath, he tells the Senate that he would deny to them the right to coin the metal which is stored in their own soil and make it money for the purpose of relieving them from that debt.

Mr. CAREY. If the Senator from Virginia will permit me to make a statement—

Mr. DANIEL. With pleasure.

Mr. CAREY. The law itself that we are legislating in reference to is an act of the Legislature of Arizona, a funding bill passed by the Legislature, which provides for the payment of the interest on the bonds in gold.

Mr. DANIEL. Why is Congress asked to give its approbation to that act?

Mr. PLATT. It is not asked to give its approbation to that act. It is simply asked to make the interest payable semi-annually instead of annually, as the act requires, and that at the request of the people of Arizona.

Mr. DANIEL. Then, Mr. President, if the people of Arizona want favor from Congress I would require them first to respect that public policy which Congress has declared to be the fixed policy of this nation, and I would grant no favor to any suitor who came seeking to undermine the money fabric of this country, to gorge those who are trying to turn us upon the single gold standard and to contract our currency. Least of all did I expect to hear a Senator who represents one of the fresh young States of this country, a land which God has stored with the precious metals, use arguments against these riches of his own country, and while appealing to Congress to relieve the wants of an indebted community, to proclaim that he is opposed to allowing that very community to use the means with which nature has provided them for their own relief.

Mr. President, this is but an indication to me that no wave of the wand can destroy a question which is as widespread as this nation, and which has its advocates in every hamlet, in every county, and in every State. The silver question is not going to down at any man's bidding or at any party's bidding. It will press itself for solution until our Constitution is obeyed and until the spirit as well as the profession of bimetalism is respected.

A distinguished statesman of New York, Mr. President, has called attention to the fact that there is now no ratio fixed between gold and silver. The Constitution provided that Congress should regulate the value of money in order that it might fix the ratio between these two metals. We have fixed the value of the gold dollar, we have fixed the value of the silver dollar, and we have fixed the value of gold bullion, but we have not fixed the value of silver bullion.

Gentlemen sometimes say that gold is of a value which supports itself. It does not support itself. The gold bullion is always equal to the gold dollar, because the law will turn it at the expense of the whole people of the United States into a gold dollar at any one's request. The idea of our Constitution was that we should have an automatic currency, that it should regulate itself as the blood is regulated in the system by the action of the heart, that demand and supply might adjust themselves to each other by laws which would operate of their own force without further legislation.

It was provided that we should have free coinage of gold and free coinage of silver in order that this result might be accomplished, and with the free coinage of both metals at that ratio that the law fixed, is it not evident that the metals would run into coin when there was want of money and run out of coin into jewelry and into ornaments when there was abundance? But as the law stands to-day, only the value of gold is fixed. How is it fixed? It is fixed by the fact that the people of this whole country at their expense established a mint and employ artificers and pay skilled workmen to turn any man's gold bullion into a dollar for him at his own will and pleasure. That, Mr. President, has appreciated the value of gold at least 25 per cent, as estimated by the economist and statistician.

Take your gold watch, your gold ring, your breastpin, your bracelet, and you can fling it into the mint any day and it will be handed back to you in dollars. Beat those dollars up by a hammer until they are shapeless, and the mint will turn them into dollars for you again at the expense of the people of this whole country, and all the wealth of the people and all the power of the Government is behind the value of gold, appreciating it and sustaining it as the equivalent of that thing into which it may be turned. But how is it with our money metal, silver? It is tossed about upon the marts of exchange at the pleasure of the bears and bulls of the market. They are permitted to make special contracts payable in gold dollars; they loan money of any kind and require payment in a particular kind, and the result is that the money of our country is being hoarded up by a few gold men and that they are attempting to prostitute the whole fabric of Government to the gormandizement and aggrandizement of themselves.

Is anyone idle enough to believe that the people who understand these things are going to quietly bow themselves out of court because a political party at one time or another, or a coterie of gentlemen in Washington City, say, "We do not want to make the issue." Political parties, Mr. President, do not make issues; Congresses do not make issues; the people make issues, and if they are not recognized by political parties the people will recognize them notwithstanding, and will hold to accountability those who refuse to obey their will.

We have seen here for a series of years the most remarkable spectacle that ever was beheld in the Republic. According to the conception of a republic, it is organized for the purpose of giving the people an opportunity to express their will, but according to the interpretation of the word "republic" as placed upon it by the practical politicians who have attempted to deal with our affairs here in Washington it is simply an establishment to give an opportunity to certain gentlemen who have opposing interests, as they conceive, to suppress the people's will. There is a majority to-day in both sides of Congress for the free coinage of silver if no alien or subtle influences were exercised upon the members here save those which they receive from their constituency when they leave their homes.

Why, Mr. President, is the people's will set aside? Why will not representatives stand up here and defend the things which their constituencies at home expected them to defend? Because it is said there is some policy of party which prevents. Can a party hide its head in a bushel? Can you quench the thoughts of the people by patting their issues in a bag, and say they are gone?

Mr. President, these issues will not down; they will rise again; they will come and come and come, as the widow came to the unjust judge, until, at last, he will accord what is asked "for the much clamor."

Not in this act nor in any act would I seek to establish one currency in this country for the rich and another for the poor. You have got your coinage laws now so arranged that the poor people never see a gold dollar. Gold has gone out of circulation, and in order that it may go only into the hands of those who are hoarding it up, we have even ceased to coin gold dollars. Let any poor person go to work to save up his hard earnings in a stocking, and he can not find a gold dollar anywhere to save. We have stopped coining it. If silver be a 70-cent dollar, as is proclaimed by some, you have so fixed it that the mass of the people can get nothing but 70-cent dollars, and so that the rich and powerful alone may get the gold, which is coined in larger denominations.

Mr. President, I have said enough for to-day, but I will call attention to one other fact, that you are creating by your coinage laws an aristocracy of money; you are making a difference between that metal which is obliged in its very nature to be the circulation of the people, and that metal which is obliged in its very nature to be the medium of large payments. Congress, and Congress alone, with the Treasury Department at Washington, is responsible for this confusion of our financial position. It does not come from anything inherent in the nature of the metals, but it is produced artificially, and the more sturdy and steady and unyielding are those who insist here upon one equal, uniform currency for the whole people, the sooner will this wrong be righted, and the sooner will the spirit of the Republic be represented in our circulating medium.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. President, I voted upon this bill precisely as I would have voted if the amendment had been to strike out a stipulation that this interest should be paid in silver. I voted that the people of Arizona should have the right which belongs to the people of every State in this Union—to make the best bargain they can when it becomes necessary for them to borrow money or to fund an existing loan.

I understand from those who represent the Territory of Arizona in the other House that the situation is just this: Already there is a loan outstanding in the Territory of Arizona, the prin-

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will go over, retaining its place on the Calendar.

The bill (S. 1857) to further increase the naval establishment was announced as next in order.

Mr. PLATT. That bill had better go over, too.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Connecticut object to the consideration of the bill?

Mr. PLATT. The Senator who reported it is not here. I would not object if he were here; but it is a pretty important bill, and I suppose it will need some explanation. It may stand over until he comes in.

Mr. ALLISON. Let it stand over, retaining its place on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over temporarily.

The bill (S. 2424) for the appointment of consuls to the Congo Free State was announced as next in order.

Mr. ALLISON. Let that bill be passed over for the present, until the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN], who reported it, comes in.

CHEYENNE AND ARAPAHOE RESERVATION.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I ask that the resolution reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs some days ago be laid before the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate the resolution called up by the gentleman from Arkansas, which will be read.

The resolution reported by Mr. JONES of Arkansas from the Committee on Indian Affairs on the 13th instant was read, as follows:

Resolved, That for reasons set forth in the report of the Committee on Indian Affairs upon the President's message of February 18, 1892, upon the appropriation of March 3, 1891, for payment to Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations for their interest in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservation in the Indian Territory, submitted with this resolution, it is the opinion of the Senate that there is no sufficient reason for interference in the due execution of the law referred to.

Mr. ALLISON. That is an important matter. I hope the resolution will not be considered now.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be passed over without prejudice.

Mr. HOAR. Mr. President—

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. Will the Senator allow me a moment. I should like to ask if the Senator from Iowa would be willing to have some time fixed at which we can consider this resolution. It is an important matter, and I should like to have it considered at some time within a day or two. I will agree, if the Senator is willing, to take it up, say, day after to-morrow, immediately after the morning hour, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. ALLISON. I have no objection to the consideration of the question at any time when there is a full Senate and an opportunity may be given for its careful consideration. The Senator knows that this is an important matter, and it should be carefully considered.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. If there is no objection, I should like to have a time fixed so that Senators may have notice that the resolution will come up at that time, and there can be a full consideration of it. I ask unanimous consent that the consideration of the resolution which has just been presented to the Senate be fixed for 2 o'clock on Thursday next, day after to-morrow.

Mr. ALLISON. I shall object to unanimous consent for consideration of this matter then. It is a matter of too much importance to be set down so early. At some time when we have an opportunity I shall be glad to see it taken up and considered, but it is a matter that can rest four or five days without public inconvenience, I think.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I am perfectly willing to allow the resolution to remain any reasonable length of time, and would like to have the Senator indicate any time when he will be willing to take it up.

Mr. HOAR. Suppose the Senator give notice now that he will call it up some day next week, say Tuesday or Wednesday.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I would prefer to have a time fixed that would be agreeable to the Senator from Iowa. That is all I desire.

Mr. ALLISON. Has the resolution been reached on the Calendar now?

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. No, it was reported by the committee and laid over.

Mr. PERKINS. I suggest that the Senator name Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I am willing for that, or for any day that will be agreeable to the Senator from Iowa.

Mr. ALLISON. I will confer with the Senator, and perhaps we can agree upon a time. I have not yet had time to look into the question. The Senator will remember that it is a matter of considerable importance, and I am quite sure that nobody will be injured by delay.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. My purpose in wishing to have a time fixed for the consideration of the resolution was that the Senate may be full, and that it may have due notice that the subject will come up at that time. I do not want to call it up in the absence of anybody here, and if we have a time fixed at which we can consider it, I suppose everybody who chooses to do so will be present. In pursuance of the suggestion made by the Senator from Massachusetts I give notice that I shall ask the Senate to consider the resolution at 2 o'clock on Monday next.

DISTRICT COURT OF APPEALS.

Mr. HOAR. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 1185) to establish a court of appeals for the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on the Judiciary with amendments.

Mr. HOAR. The amendments, which diminish the number of the court, I should like to have acted upon as the reading of the bill proceeds, if there be no objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair hears no objection, and that course will be pursued.

The Secretary proceeded to read the bill.

The first amendment of the Committee on the Judiciary was, in section 1, line 6, before the words "associate justices," to strike out "three" and insert "two;" so as to make the section read:

That there shall be, and there is hereby established in the District of Columbia a court, to be known as the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, which shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and shall hold office during good behavior.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 2, before the word "thousand," to strike out "seven" and insert "six," and in line 4, before the word "thousand," to strike out "seven" and insert "six;" so as to make the section read:

That the said justices shall each receive an annual salary of $6,000, payable quarterly at the Treasury of the United States, except the chief justice, who shall receive $6,500.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 4, line 5, before the word "dollars," to strike out "five hundred;" and in line 17, before the word "dollars," to strike out "five hundred;" so as to make the section read:

That there shall be a clerk of said court of appeals, to be appointed by the court, who shall receive as compensation for his services, in the discretion of the court, an annual salary not to exceed the sum of $3,000, payable quarterly at the Treasury of the United States, and who shall give bond, such as the court may determine to be satisfactory, for the faithful performance of his duties; and his duties shall be such as the court may from time to time prescribe. The court shall regulate from time to time the fees to be charged by the said clerk, which shall be accounted for at least once in each quarter and paid into the Treasury of the United States; and said clerk shall receive such allowance for clerical assistance and necessary expenditures in the conduct of his office as the court may determine by special or general order in the premises, but not to exceed the sum of $2,000 in any one year, payable, as aforesaid, at the Treasury of the United States.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 6, line 2, after the word "than," to strike out "two" and insert "three;" so as to read:

That the said court of appeals shall establish such terms of the court, not less than three in each year, as to it may seem proper and expedient; and it shall make such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper for the transaction of the business to be brought before it, and for the time and method of the entry of appeals and for giving notice of appeals thereto from the supreme court of the District of Columbia, and such other rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper in the premises.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 6, line 15, to insert after the word "thereof," the words "or for any other reason whatever;" and in line 17, before the word "justices," to strike out "four" and insert "three;" so as to read:

If any member of the court shall be absent on account of illness or other cause during the session thereof, or shall be disqualified from hearing and determining any particular cause by having been of counsel therein, or by having as a justice of the supreme court of the District of Columbia previously passed upon the merits thereof, or for any other reason whatever, or if for any reason whatever it shall be impracticable to obtain a full court of three justices, the member or members of the court who shall be present shall designate the justice or justices of the supreme court of the District of Columbia to temporarily fill the vacancy or vacancies so created, and the justice or justices so designated shall sit in said court of appeals and perform the duties of a member thereof while such vacancy or vacancies shall exist.

Mr. HOAR. In line 18 I move to strike out "the" and insert "a;" so as to read: "shall designate a justice or justices of the supreme court of the District of Columbia."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment was amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to line 12 of section 7.

Mr. HOAR. In section 7, line 9, after the word "I am," I move to strike out the words "together with the original papers and record entries duly certified." It is my purpose to put in a more comprehensive provision for that at the end of the section.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HOAR. I move to insert in section 7, line 12, after the word "created"—a mere formal amendment—

Which said court of appeals is hereby vested with authority and jurisdiction to hear and determine the causes so transferred. The appellate power and jurisdiction of said general term is hereby abrogated and abolished, and no causes shall hereafter be heard in the said general term.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment of the Committee on the Judiciary was, in section 7, line 16, after the word "granting," to insert "or dissolving;" and in line 17, after the word "attachment," to strike out the words "and the like;" so as to read:

Appeals shall also be allowed to said court of appeals from all interlocutory orders of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, or by any justice thereof, whereby the possession of property is changed or affected, such as orders for the appointment of receivers, granting or dissolving injunctions, dissolving writs of attachment; and also from any other interlocutory order, in the discretion of said court of appeals, whenever it is made to appear to said court upon petition that it will be in the interests of justice to allow such appeal.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HOAR. I move to add at the end of section 7:

In all cases of appeal to the court of appeals and in the causes transferred to the court of appeals under this section, the original papers and duly certified copies of the necessary record entries shall be transferred and delivered to the court of appeals under such regulations as the court of appeals shall from time to time prescribe.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to the end of section 10.

Mr. HOAR. In section 10, line 2, after the word "be," I move to strike out:

Rendered in writing, and shall be filed in such case as part of the record thereof.

And to insert:

Reduced to writing, duly authenticated and filed with the clerk of said court before any judgment, decree, or order shall be entered in pursuance thereof.

So as to read:

That the opinion of the said court of appeals in every case shall be reduced to writing, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued. The next amendment of the Committee on the Judiciary was, in section 14, line 3, before the word "thousand," to strike out "six" and insert "five;" and in line 5, before the word "thousand," to strike out "six" and insert "five;" so as to make the section read:

That the justices of the supreme court of the District of Columbia shall hereafter receive an annual salary of $5,000 each, payable quarterly at the Treasury of the United States, except the chief justice, who shall receive $5,500.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed and concluded.

Mr. GEORGE. I move to strike out section 16 of the bill, in the following words:

Sec. 16. That the justices of the court of appeals hereby created and of the supreme court of the District of Columbia shall be deemed to be justices of the courts of the United States within the meaning of the law providing for the retirement of such justices upon their attaining the age of 70 years and having been in commission ten years or upward. And whenever any justice of the supreme court of the District of Columbia shall be appointed a justice of the court of appeals hereby created the terms of service of such justice in both courts shall be deemed continuous and as under one commission for the purposes of said law.

I think this motion to amend is proper at this time, and upon it I call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. HOAR. I desire to appeal to my honorable friend from Mississippi with this suggestion: This very proposition, as applied to the Court of Claims, was very thoroughly debated in the Senate on last Thursday the yeas and nays called upon it, and it was determined by a very large and decisive vote of the Senate. I desire to ask the Senator whether under those circumstances, the principle having been so fully discussed, he should call for the yeas and nays?

Mr. GEORGE. I do not propose to discuss it.

Mr. HOAR. It was a vote that had no partisan division about it, because there were many on the Senator's side of the Chamber who advocated the system. I ask the Senator whether he will not allow it to go without a call of the yeas and nays? Of course I do not wish to interfere with his own discretion as a Senator.

Mr. GEORGE. I have no desire at all to discuss the question. I am very much opposed to civil pensions, and I desire, as far as I am concerned, to discharge my duty by making the appropriate motion to rid the bill of the provision.

Mr. HOAR. It can hardly be supposed, my honorable friend will agree, that there would have been a change of opinion on the subject in the mind of any Senator within a few days. There has been no change of the Senate, and it is merely for the convenience of the Senate that I make this appeal.

Mr. GEORGE. If nobody wants the yeas and nays I shall not call them. I make the motion to strike out section 16.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Mississippi, to strike out section 16 of the bill. (Putting the question.) The yeas appear to have it. The yeas have it, and the amendment is not agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. As the yeas and nays have not been called, I desire to state upon the record that I vote "yea," to strike out the clause.

Mr. COKE. I desire to make the same statement.

Mr. MILLS. I call for the yeas and nays, so that we may have a record of it.

Mr. HARRIS. Yes, let us have the yeas and nays, so that we may all appear on the record.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BUTLER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON].

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). Being paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL], the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] and myself have consented, he being paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], to transfer our pairs. I vote "yea."

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. MILLS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER]. If he were here I should vote "yea."

Mr. MORGAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. BARBOUR], but I observe that on last Thursday when a similar proposition was before the Senate upon another bill he voted adversely to a proposition of this kind. I will therefore vote. I vote "nay."

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. Otherwise I should vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. DAVIS. I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TURPIE].

Mr. MORGAN. I will vote to make a quorum. I vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL. Has a quorum yet voted?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. A quorum has not voted.

Mr. WALTHALL. I feel at liberty to vote, notwithstanding my pair, to make a quorum. I vote "yea."

Mr. GEORGE. If the vote still lacks a quorum, I can vote.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. A quorum has voted.

The result was announced—yeas 11, nays 36; as follows:

YEAS—11

Bate,	Blodgett,	Colquitt,	Morgan,
Berry,	Cockrell,	Harris,	Walthall
Blackburn,	Coke,	Jones Ark.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, April 20, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting, in response to a resolution of March 21, 1892, a list of the subordinates in that Department not specially appropriated for, etc.; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment, and ordered to be printed.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT presented the memorial of Thomas Bowman, president, and James B. Kenyon, secretary, of the Northern New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, composed of over 200 churches and representing over 28,000 church members, "earnestly remonstrating against the passage of the severe Chinese exclusion act now pending before the Senate," praying that unfriendly legislation be stayed and that instead uniform laws relative to immigration be enacted that shall equally apply to persons coming from all nations to our shores; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented the petition of Peter Hutton and 30 other citizens of Southington, Conn.; the petition of Rev. Joseph Danielson and 341 members of the Congregational Church of Southington, Conn.; the petition of George A. Francis and 60 other members of Gospel Mission Church of Southington, Conn.; the petition of John C. Breaker and 21 other citizens of Southington, Conn.; the petition of Mrs. H. M. Fisk, president, and 40 members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Connecticut, and the petition of A. J. Cutting and 200 members of the Methodist Church of Southington, Conn., praying Congress to prohibit the opening on Sunday of any exhibition or exposition where United States funds are expended; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. DAWES presented a memorial of citizens of the United States, remonstrating against the passage of the so-called Geary bill for the exclusion of Chinese, and praying that section 11 of the act of May 6, 1882, be amended so as not to include Chinese who came into the United States prior thereto, with the intention of becoming citizens; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. CASEY presented a petition of 228 citizens of Fairmount and Thompson, N. Dak., and a petition of 171 citizens of Ellendale, N. Dak., praying that no exposition or exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress shall be opened on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. FELTON presented a petition of citizens of Fresno County, Cal., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the following petitions of Grass Valley Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of California:

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Petition praying for the passage of House bill 395, defining land and imposing a tax thereon—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the free delivery of mails in rural districts—referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. WOLCOTT presented a petition of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union of Fort Collins, Colo., praying for the free delivery of mails in rural districts; which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a petition of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union of Fort Collins, Colo., praying for the passage of legislation regulating speculation in fictitious farm products; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. PERKINS presented a memorial of the First Presbyterian Church of Ottawa, Kans.; a memorial of the First Presbyterian Sabbath School of Ottawa, Kans.; and a memorial of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Ottawa, Kans., remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday and praying that the sale of intoxicants be prohibited thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial Select.

Mr. McMILLAN presented sundry petitions collected by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Michigan, containing 134 individual signatures and 1,611 representative endorsements, praying that no exposition or exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress shall be opened on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial Select.

Mr. COKE presented two petitions of citizens of Bagwell, Tex., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial Select.

Mr. McPHERSON presented a petition of the faculty and students of the Union Biblical Seminary, of Dayton, Ohio; a petition of the students of the Union Theological Seminary, of Virginia; a petition of the students of the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church, of Lancaster, Pa.; a petition of the students of the Wittenberg Theological Seminary, of Springfield, Ohio; a petition of the faculty and students of the Theological Seminary of Princeton, N. J.; a petition of the Theological Seminary and Lincoln University, of Chester County, Pa.; a petition of the students of the Moravian Theological Seminary, of Bethlehem, Pa.; and a petition of members of the Theological Seminary of Virginia, praying that no loan be granted in aid of the World's Columbian Exposition unless it be closed on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial Select.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. HALE, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the amendment submitted by Mr. DANIEL on the 18th instant, intended to be proposed to the naval appropriation bill, providing for a naval review, reported it favorably, and moved that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed; which was agreed to.

Mr. BUTLER, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1289) to increase the efficiency of the Engineer Corps of the Navy, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. McMILLAN. I am instructed by the Committee on the District of Columbia to report back without amendment the bill (H. R. 9958) to vacate that part of Madison street, Georgetown, west of Back street, and extend Y street in Burleigh, in the District of Columbia, and to ask that this bill take the place of Order of Business 496, Senate bill 2619, to vacate that part of Madison street, Georgetown, west of Back street, and extend Y street, in Burleigh, in the District of Columbia now on the Calendar, and that the Senate bill be indefinitely postponed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The House bill will be placed on the Calendar and the Senate bill indefinitely postponed, if there be no objection.

Mr. HARRIS. The House bill just reported, it is asked, shall take the place on the Calendar of the Senate bill indefinitely postponed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is so ordered.

Mr. PEPPER, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 477) for the relief of Jane Boller, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs; which was agreed to.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2228) for the relief of the owners and crew of the Hawaiian bark Arctic, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. CULLOM, from the Committee on Interstate Commerce, to whom the subject was referred, reported a bill (S. 2651) directing the Interstate Commerce Commission to ascertain and report to Congress annually certain information in respect of the adoption by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce of a uniform system of automatic couplers on freight cars, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. VILAS, from the Committee on Claims, submitted the following report:

The Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1352) for the relief of August Deschinsky, have carefully considered the same, and, in accordance with the resolution of the Senate of February 7, 1884, report as follows:

That they have referred the same to the Court of Claims under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to afford assistance and relief to Congress and the Executive Departments in the investigation of claims and demands against the Government," approved March 3, 1883.

Mr. VILAS. I am directed by the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2164) for the relief of the heirs of Joseph Nicholson Chambers, late a resident of the parish of East Feliciana, in the State of Louisiana, to report it adversely. At the request of the junior Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE] I ask that the bill be placed on the Calendar, instead of being indefinitely postponed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2283) to authorize the Denison and Northern Railway Company to construct and operate a railway through the Indian Territory, and for other purposes, reported it with an amendment.

Mr. ALLEN, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1358) for the relief of Clara A. Graves, Lewis Smith Lee, Florence P. Lee, Mary S. Sheldon, and Elizabeth Smith, heirs of Lewis Smith, deceased, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. SANDERS, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1424) for the relief of the Atlantic Works, of Boston, Mass., reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 60) for the relief of the estate of James T. Sanford, deceased, submitted an adverse report thereon, which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. CAREY, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom was referred the bill (S. 378) for the erection of a public building at Menominee, State of Michigan, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

DISTRICT PRODUCE DEALERS' LICENSE TAX.

Mr. PERKINS. I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2160) to repeal the license tax of $25 per year now imposed upon produce dealers in the markets of the District of Columbia, to report it back favorably without amendment, and to submit a written report thereon. I make this report for the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER], who has been called from the city. The bill is brief, and if there is no objection to it I should like to have it considered now. The District government is quite urgent about it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information only.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, That the annual corporation license tax of $25 per year, now imposed by an ordinance of the District of Columbia upon dealers in farmers' produce, such as butter and cheese, poultry, eggs, fruits, and vegetables, or any other articles of family provisions, in the markets of the District of Columbia, is hereby repealed, to take effect at the end of the present license year, April 1, 1892.

SEC. 2. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Mr. PERKINS. I would say in explanation that under the existing law this tax must be paid before the 1st of May, and hence the necessity of an early consideration of the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. COCKRELL. None.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EULOGIES ON THE LATE REPRESENTATIVE GAMBLE.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report back favorably a House concurrent resolution, and I ask for its present consideration.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the concurrent resolution; which was read, as follows:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring). That there be printed the eulogies delivered in Congress upon Hon. John B. Gamble, late a Representative from the State of South Dakota, 8,000 copies, of which number 2,000 shall be delivered to the Senators and Representatives of the State of South Dakota, which shall include 50 copies to be bound in full morocco, to be delivered to the family of the deceased; and of those remaining, 2,000 copies shall be for the use of the Senate, and 4,000 copies for the use of the House of Representatives; and the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to have engraved and printed a portrait of the said John R. Gamble to accompany said eulogies.

Mr. MANDERSON. The concurrent resolution is in accord with the later action of the two Houses, and is exactly the provision provided for in the general printing bill.

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITORIES.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report a resolution, and I ask that it be now considered.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the argument of the Postmaster-General on the subject of postal savings depositories, addressed to the chairman of the Senate Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, be printed, and that there be printed 3,000 additional copies, 1,000 of which shall be for the Senate and 2,000 for distribution by the Postmaster-General.

Mr. MANDERSON. This is a very important and valuable compilation of the custom that obtains in foreign countries with reference to postal savings banks, and also an argument with reference to that subject-matter made by the Postmaster-General and addressed by him to the chairman of the Senate Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads. That committee recommend the printing of the document in this number. I find that the cost of it will be trifling, under $300, and it certainly is a matter of sufficient importance to receive this consideration.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to.

LIST OF CONGRESSIONAL DOCUMENTS.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report a concurrent resolution to print additional copies of the list of Congressional documents, and I ask for its present consideration.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the concurrent resolution; which was read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That 2,000 copies of the list of Congressional documents prepared by the superintendent of documents, Department of the Interior, be printed and delivered to that officer, of which he shall supply 2 copies to each Senator, Representative, and Delegate in Congress, and the remainder shall be distributed to public and other libraries.

Mr. MANDERSON. This document contains in very compact form a complete list of all Government publications from the Fifteenth to the Fifty-first Congress, inclusive. The cost is trifling to print it in this number, and it is, I think, of very great importance that it should be printed.

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill (S. 2952) for the relief of Prentice Holmes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 2953) to provide for the support of the office of the register of wills of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PEPPER (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2954) to tax land in the District of Columbia at its full market value, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. GRAY introduced a bill (S. 2955) for the relief of Sarah Burton; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. DAVIS introduced a bill (S. 2956) for the relief of Jacob Walhart; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DANIEL introduced a bill (S. 2957) to provide for the erection of a public building at Portsmouth, Va.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2958) to provide for the erection of a public building at Salem, Va.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2959) to provide for the erection of a public building at Radford, Va.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 2960) granting an honorable discharge to Bury J. O'Brien; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2961) granting a pension to Lydia Ferris; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2962) granting a pension to Mary Cochran; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2963) granting a pension to Elizabeth Breshear; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. KYLE (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2964) to establish a composite dollar; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. DUBOIS submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. GRAY submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. HIGGINS submitted six amendments intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which were referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the concurrent resolution of the Senate to print 35,000 copies of the annual report of the Commissioner of Labor relating to cost of production, earnings, efficiency of labor, and cost of living.

The message also announced that the House had passed a bill (H. R. 7093) making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes; in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (H. R. 4429) to empower the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to grant respites and pardons in certain cases;

A bill (H. R. 5978) to extend the time for making an assessment of real estate in the District of Columbia outside the cities of Washington and Georgetown; and

A bill (H. R. 6288) to amend the charter of the Rock Creek Railroad Company.

DELAWARE AND REHOBOTH BAYS.

Mr. HIGGINS submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of War be directed to furnish the Senate with copies of the correspondence of the Congressional delegation of Delaware and the War Department, together with copies of reports of December 18, 1891, and February 4, 1892, with inclosures from W. F. Smith, United States Army, Major of Engineers, retired, all in relation to the location of the proposed waterway between Delaware Bay and Rehoboth Bay, on line of the inland waterway between Chincoteague Bay and Delaware Bay.

HOUSE BILL REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 7093) making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

PUBLICATION OF COPYRIGHTED BOOKS IN THE RECORD.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day relative to infringement of copyright by the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. The resolution will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted yesterday by Mr. SANDERS, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary be instructed to inquire whether the publication in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, without the consent of the proprietor, of a copyrighted book is an infringement of the right granted to such proprietor of the sole liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, completing, copying, executing, finishing, or vending the same, and whether the publication therein subjects any person who shall sell or expose to sale the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD containing such reprint to the penalties prescribed in section 494 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and whether any person is liable to the owner of such copyright book for damages for such publication; and if so, what person, and what action, if any, is desirable to be taken in view of the publication of copyright books in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD; and that said committee have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

Mr. CHANDLER. I suggest to the Senator from Montana to make the instruction to the Committee on Patents instead of the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. PLATT. I should like to ask the Senator from Montana whether he desires the passage of the resolution now? I have not examined the RECORD this morning, but I think there is to be found in the RECORD action by the other branch (and I suppose it is not improper to speak of anything that is in the RECORD) by which the practice which has prevailed of inserting documents, books, and all that kind of matter in the RECORD has been stopped by action of the other branch of the Legislature. Therefore I ask whether the Senator desires to pursue the matter suggested by his resolution.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. President—

Mr. CHANDLER. Will the Senator allow me a word?

Mr. SANDERS. Certainly.

Mr. CHANDLER. I do not understand that any action has been taken that strikes out from the Record the half dozen volumes that have been put into it within the last two weeks, nor does it prohibit the reestablishment of the practice at any moment when an attempt may be made to reestablish it. It seems to me the resolution is a wise one, in order to determine once for all whether that thing shall be done, not merely in the past but in the future, and it is just as likely to be done hereafter as has already been the case.

Mr. PLATT. I do not want to oppose the resolution if the Senator who introduced it or other Senators think that there is necessity for it since the action of the other branch of the Legislature in regard to such matters.

Mr. WILSON. I think that this is a matter of some importance and that it ought to be considered by a committee. I therefore move to refer the resolution to the Committee on Patents, so that that committee may consider the subject and report.

Mr. McPHERSON. I should like to have the resolution again read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will be again read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion to refer the resolution to the committee on Patents.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. President, this resolution is a search after abstract truth, but it is a search after a truth which concerns the Senate; and as nothing in the resolution has reference to the other House, I see no reason why we should not pursue this inquiry, for we are already encumbered in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD with the publication of several books, the property in which is in citizens of the United States. It seems to me that before the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD shall be put into a permanent form we should know whether the publication of it is in violation of rights that we have secured by law, and if such publication is, those books, however poetic they may be, can be expunged from the Record and the citizens of the United States can be informed whether by selling a copy of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD they incur the penalties which are denounced against literary piracy.

I think the information sought for by the resolution is not useless and has not been superseded by any discontinuance of the policy that has heretofore been maintained by any class of men or body of men. I am particularly anxious for the information myself, because if it shall be affirmed that it is the right of Senators to print copyrighted books, I wish to make some selections out of the libraries and spread them before the people of the United States, they being books which, in my judgment, are useful to be comprehended and understood. I do not know of any cheaper way than the way indicated, provided it shall be determined by our Judiciary Committee that this is proper.

Besides that, there is a large number of people, very excellent of character and very disappointed in their expectations, who have been guilty of divers and sundry copyrighted noncirculative books, and how can the circulation of those books be more easily forced than by republishing them in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD?

I think the resolution should pass, but I am somewhat indifferent as to the committee to which it should go.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON] that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Patents.

The motion was agreed to.

IRRIGATION PUBLICATIONS OF GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day, which will be read.

The Secretary read the resolution submitted by Mr. POWELL April 19, 1892, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and is hereby, directed to furnish the Senate with information in relation to the following matters and at as early a date as practicable:

1. What documents, reports, monographs, papers, maps, and illustrations have been printed during the fiscal years of 1890-91 and 1891-92 for the United States Geological Survey in relation to irrigation, the storage of water, the measuring of streams, the construction and character of works in this and other countries, the survey of arid lands for reclamation purposes; also if any have been printed in previous years, not already published and distributed, and, if so, what relation such reports, etc., bear to the annual and special publications of the Geological Survey, as authorized by law, and at what date of any such documents are now printed or printing, will they be ready for distribution?

2. What reports relating to arid-land reclamation and irrigation are in preparation in the offices of the United States Geological Survey and the United States Census, whether the same are now in course of printing; by whom are such reports being prepared, and under what authority of law; from what appropriations are the costs of said reports, papers, etc., being borne, and from what rolls are the persons employed thereat being paid, with a full statement or estimate of the cost of each of such publications or documents, both for preparation and printing, with the number to be printed and specific authority under which the work is being or has been done.

3. That the information given in No. 1 shall include a statement as to whether any portion and if so, what portions, of said reports, etc., have been previously published and circulated, either publicly or privately, papers and reports, also as to the authority of law under which such data have been gathered, the names and duties of those employed to obtain and prepare the same, the rolls on which they are now or were borne and paid, the amount of the payments to them while so employed, and the offices or divisions to which they were assigned.

Mr. HALE. That resolution was read in full yesterday. I objected to it and it went over. I have since examined it and am in favor of it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If the morning business is concluded, the Calendar under Rule VII is in order.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed a bill (H. R. 8001) to authorize a national bank at Chicago, Ill., to establish a branch office upon the grounds of the World's Columbian Exposition; in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (S. 113) to establish a military post near Little Rock, Ark.; and

A bill (S. 112) to authorize the appointment of an inspector of plumbing in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

EXCLUSION OF CHINESE.

Mr. TELLER. If agreeable to the Senate, I should like to call up the resolutions introduced some time since by the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] touching the silver question, for the purpose of submitting some remarks thereon.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays the resolutions before the Senate.

Mr. TELLER. I do not desire to interfere with any business of the Senate, but this seems to me to be as favorable an opportunity as I shall get.

Mr. SHERMAN. I have no objection to interpose if the Senator will allow me a few moments to give the state of the law in regard to the Chinese question.

Mr. TELLER. Certainly.

Mr. SHERMAN. I gave notice that I would call up the bill reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations in respect of Chinese immigration. At that time the committee were of the opinion, or seemed to be, without any very careful examination of the law, that the present law for the exclusion of Chinese immigration would expire on the 6th of May of the present year. By a more careful investigation, and by examining the amendments which have been made to the act of May 6, 1882, I became entirely satisfied that the act of 1884 extended the time two years, so that the law prohibiting Chinese immigration does not expire until some time in July, 1894. Therefore there is no immediate pressure to urge the passage of the bill reported by the Committee on Foreign Relations. Certain Senators desire to speak upon this subject, however, and at some time when it is convenient to them I shall call the bill up, but not to-day.

THE FINANCIAL SYSTEM.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair has recognized the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER] as entitled to the floor on the resolution heretofore submitted by the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN].

Mr. WILSON. Unless the Senator from Colorado is anxious to proceed now, I should like to suggest that we occupy this morning on the Calendar until 2 o'clock. The Calendar is increasing.

Mr. TELLER. I should prefer, if I am to speak at all, to speak now.

Mr. WILSON. The Calendar is increasing every day.

Mr. TELLER. Of course, if the Senator objects I shall not speak.

Mr. WILSON. I shall not go to that extent, but I merely make the suggestion that it would be well to have the Calendar considered until 2 o'clock.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President, I suppose, in the condition in which the friends of bimetallism find themselves to-day in this country, perhaps I should apologize to the Senate for taking its time from the Calendar, touching unimportant and trifling bills,

SENATE.

THURSDAY, April 21, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.
The Vice-President being absent, the President pro tempore took the chair.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, transmitting, in response to a resolution of March 24, 1892, a list of all persons under the War Department, and stating their names, legal residences, compensation, duties, etc.; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment, and ordered to be printed.

COURT OF CLAIMS REPORT.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting the conclusions of fact and of law filed under the act of January 20, 1885, in the French spoliation claims relating to the brig Betsey; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EULOGIES ON THE LATE SENATOR WILSON.

Mr. GORMAN. Mr. President, I desire to give notice that on Friday, the 6th of May next, immediately after the morning business, I shall ask the Senate to consider resolutions in reference to the death of my late colleague, Ephraim K. Wilson.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. SHERMAN presented a memorial of 28 manufacturing firms of Cleveland, Ohio, remonstrating against the admission to this country of foreign-built beet-sugar machinery free of duty; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition numerous signed by citizens of Ridgeville, Ohio; a petition of the Presbyter of Wooster, Ohio, and a petition of the Reformed Presbyterian Church of Northwood, Ohio, praying that the World's Columbian Exposition be closed on Sunday, and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. DAWES presented the memorial of Mrs. L. Robinson, of Bonds Village, county of Hampden, State of Massachusetts, remonstrating against Congress committing the United States Government to a union of religion and the state in the passage of any bill or resolution to close the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. WILSON presented a memorial of three members of the Seventh-Day Advent Church and 38 other citizens of Forest City, Iowa, remonstrating against the closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. DIXON presented a petition of 26 citizens of Rhode Island, praying for the passage of legislation subjecting oleomargarine to the provisions of the laws of the several States; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. VEST presented the memorial of John Wilson and other citizens of Neosho, Mo., remonstrating against the passage of legislation committing the United States Government to a union of church and state; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. COCKRELL. I present a memorial of S. M. Baker and other leading citizens of Wellsville, Mo., remonstrating against the passage of a general bankruptcy law. I move that the memorial be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. FRYE presented the following petitions of the Bethel Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Maine:

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Petition praying for the passage of House bill 395, defining lard and imposing a tax thereon—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts—referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. FELTON presented a petition of citizens of Glenn County, Cal.; a petition of citizens of Shasta County, Cal., and a petition of citizens of Cayce, Cal., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antislavery bills; which were referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. PEFER presented a petition of the Wage-Workers'

Political Alliance of the District of Columbia, praying for the passage of Senate bill 1672, relating to the subject of botanical medicine and practitioners; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. CALL. I present a petition of the Washington County Alliance of Vernon, Fla., indorsing the efforts of their friends in Congress, and praying for the passage of legislation to emancipate the farming and industrial classes from the unjust taxation of organized capital. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Finance.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GORMAN presented a petition of Burnside Post, No. 22, Grand Army of the Republic, of Baltimore, Md.; a petition of the Naval Veteran Association of Maryland; a petition of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Baltimore, Md.; a petition of Custer Post, No. 6, of Baltimore, Md.; a petition of the Naval Veteran Association of Baltimore, Md.; a petition of the Dodge Post, No. 44, Grand Army of the Republic, of Baltimore, Md.; and a petition of the Wilson Post, No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, of Baltimore, Md., praying for the passage of legislation transferring the Revenue Marine Service to the naval establishment; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. VILAS presented the memorial of M. H. Brown and 37 other members of the Seventh Day Advent Church of Milwaukee, Wis., remonstrating against the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. McPHERSON presented the petition of Rev. Dr. Rudolph Wiczorek, pastor of the Evangelical German Lutheran Church of New York City, praying that a pension be allowed Charles H. Kosch, who served in the Indian war in Florida; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a petition of the Bureau of Charities of Newark, N. J., praying for the passage of legislation to secure the adoption of safer appliances for coupling railroad cars; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of Moorestown Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Burlington County, N. J., praying for the passage of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a petition of the students of the Drew Theological Seminary, of Madison, N. J.; a petition of the Presbytery of New Brunswick, N. J., and a petition of Rev. Judson Conklin and 89 members of the Clinton Avenue Baptist Church of Trenton, N. J., praying that the World's Columbian Exposition be closed on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. COCKRELL, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2882) for the relief of John M. Davis, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. FRYE, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2613) to amend sections 2807 and 2881 of the Revised Statutes, reported it with amendments.

Mr. FRYE. I report back adversely from the Committee on Commerce the bill (S. 1806) to amend sections 2774 and 2807 of the Revised Statutes, the bill just reported making provision for the purposes of this bill. I move that the bill be postponed indefinitely.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1600) to provide for the completion and repair of quarters, barracks, and stables at Forts Washakie and McKinney, Wyo., reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PEFER, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 364) for the relief of Barker Williams and others, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. HANSBROUGH, from the Committee on Territories, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 72) relative to the erection of a penitentiary in the State of North Dakota, and for other purposes, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. HAWLEY, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2298) for the relief of James L. Townsend, reported it without amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 740) providing for the relief of William C. Spencer, of Maryland, late captain Seventeenth Infantry, United States Army, reported it with an amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 898) to furnish the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association, at Gettysburg, Pa., with specimen of arms, accoutrements, etc., used by the armies in the battle of Gettysburg, for exhibition and preservation at the Gettysburg Museum, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. BATE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom were referred the following bills, submitted adverse reports thereon; which were agreed to, and the bills were postponed indefinitely:

A bill (S. 2058) to establish the rank of Arza B. Gilson, of Havana, Ohio, as major of the One hundred and sixty-sixth Ohio Volunteers;

A bill (S. 1976) for the relief of Charles Bandhart; and

A bill (S. 1654) for the relief of David M. Watson.

Mr. PALMER, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 64) for the relief of John A. Lynch, reported it without amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2750) to place John M. Cunningham on the retired list, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 713) authorizing and directing the Secretary of War to contract for the purchase of the letters patent granted to the late Beverly Kennon for his invention of a counterpoise battery, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. HOAR. I am directed by the Committee on the Judiciary to report back adversely the bill (S. 387) to prohibit the allowing of attorney's fees in cases of foreclosures of mortgages in courts of the United States when it is forbidden by State laws in the courts of the State. The same is true of this bill; the provisions have been inserted in another bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. PADDOCK subsequently said: I ask that the vote by which Senate bill 387 was indefinitely postponed be reconsidered, and that the bill may be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee. I may wish to say something about it.

Mr. HOAR. I have no objection if the Senator desires that to be done, but I will state to him that the Judiciary Committee has recommended in the House bill which has been reported favorably and is pending in the Senate the insertion of a provision limiting attorneys' fees in all cases to those fixed in the Revised Statutes, which are in most instances only two or three dollars a case, and which do not exceed $20, I think, in any case whatever, cutting up by the roots the system of taxing large attorney's fees in mortgage sales and all those things.

Mr. PADDOCK. I am not sure that that will satisfy me, and I prefer to have the bill placed on the Calendar for personal reasons.

Mr. HOAR. Very well; the Senator can look at the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The vote indefinitely postponing the bill will be reconsidered, and it will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none.

Mr. HOAR, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1494) to create additional associate justices of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. HOAR. I am instructed by the Committee on the Judiciary to report back adversely the bill (S. 2264) to amend an act entitled "An act to establish circuit courts of appeals, and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes." A similar bill has already passed the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. HOAR. I am also instructed by the Committee on the Judiciary to report back adversely the bill (S. 2833) in relation to the Court of Claims. The provisions of this bill have passed the Senate in another bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. CHANDLER, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 326) for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamer Tallapoosa, reported it with an amendment.

Mr. HALE. I am directed by the Committee on Appropriations, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7818) to provide for certain of the most urgent deficiencies in the appropriations for the service of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for other purposes, to report it with amendments. I give notice that I shall call up the bill to-morrow morning after the routine business.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. McPHERSON introduced a bill (S. 2965) for the relief of Capt. George H. Perkins; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2967) to amend rule 7, section 1233, Revised Statutes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 2967) for the relief of the heirs of Davis B. Bonfoey; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 2968) to provide for a May term of the district court of the United States for the eastern district of South Carolina; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. BUTLER. I beg leave to accompany the bill with a letter from Judge Simonton, the district judge of South Carolina, to which I beg to invite the attention of the Committee on the Judiciary, and ask if we can not have early action in regard to the bill. It seems to be a matter of some importance.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill and accompanying paper will be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 2969) granting a pension to Clark Martin; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. DAVIS introduced a bill (S. 2970) for the relief of H. K. Holding; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. GORMAN introduced a bill (S. 2971) authorizing the restoration of the name of Thomas Dynes, late first lieutenant First United States Infantry, to the rolls of the Army, and providing that he be placed on the list of retired officers; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2972) to refund to the corporate authorities of Frederick City, Md., the sum of $200,000 exacted of them by the Confederate army under General Jubal Early, in 1864, under penalty of burning said city; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. GIBSON of Maryland (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2973) for the relief of Thomas Stack; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 2974) granting an honorable discharge to Ephraim Morris; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 2975) granting an honorable discharge to William Brown; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 2976) for the construction of a public building at Flint, Mich.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (S. 2977) for the relief of the Stockbridge tribe of Indians, in the State of Wisconsin; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 2978) granting an increase of pension to James T. Smith; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. GIBSON of Maryland submitted six amendments intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which were referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

SALE OF NONMINERAL LANDS.

Mr. POWER submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, directed to furnish the Senate, on or as early a date as practicable, with a detailed statement of all moneys received by the General Land Office, and the cost of survey and sale of same, for all nonmineral lands sold from the public domain during the past ten fiscal years, in to and ending June 30, 1891, within the areas now included in the States of California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, and Wyoming, and the Territories of Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Utah. This information to be arranged by fiscal years, and by receipt and expenditures by States and Territories and by land districts within the same.

SALMON FISHING IN ALASKA.

Mr. PLATT submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Fish Commissioners be, and he is hereby, directed to communicate to the Senate any information in his possession relative to salmon fishing in Alaska, its extent, and whether the methods employed in catching salmon are likely to diminish the supply and eventually exterminate the salmon, together with his opinion as to what measures should be adopted for the protection and preservation of the salmon industry in Alaskan waters.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 7, to strike out lines 147 and 148, as follows:

At Rock Island, a light ship of suitable pattern, at a cost not exceeding $20,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 7, line 151, before the word "fog," to insert "steam;" so as to make the clause read:

At Little Gull Island, a light and steam fog signal, at a cost not exceeding $20,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 7, to strike out lines 153 and 154, as follows:

At Pointe aux Barques, a light and fog signal, at a cost not exceeding $25,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 7, in line 155, to strike out the word "Noque" and insert "Noquette;" so as to make the clause read:

At Squaw Point, Little Bay de Noquette, a light, at a cost not exceeding $5,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 7, line 157, before the word "Peshtigo," to insert "or near;" and in the same line, to strike out the words "light-ship with fog whistle," and insert "light-house and steam fog signal;" so as to make the clause read:

At or near Peshtigo Shoal, Green Bay, a light-house and steam fog signal, at a cost not exceeding $10,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 8, line 164, after the words "for the," to strike out "purchase of four light-ships of suitable pattern: one of said light-ships to be stationed at or near Eleven Foot Shoal, one at or near Drisco Shoal, one at or near Poverty Island Shoal, and one at or near Whale Back Shoal" and insert in lieu thereof "construction or purchase and equipment of one or more light-ships for service on the Great Lakes, and said appropriation shall be immediately available therefor;" so as to make the clause read:

That the sum of $60,000 heretofore appropriated by act of Congress, August 30, 1890, for the building of a light-house on Eleven Foot Shoal, Green Bay, be applied, under the direction of the Light-House Board, for the construction or purchase and equipment of one or more light-ships for service on the Great Lakes, and said appropriation shall be immediately available therefor.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 5499) to amend an act entitled "An act approving with amendments the funding act of Arizona," approved June 25, 1890, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. WASHINGTON, Mr. KILGORE, and Mr. PERKINS, managers at the conference on the part of the House.

BOSTON HARBOR IMPROVEMENT.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, transmitting, in response to a resolution of the Senate of the 18th instant, a letter from the Chief of Engineers, dated the 19th instant, together with a copy of a letter from Lieut. Col. S. M. Mansfield, Corps of Engineers, relative to the cost of deepening the main channel of Boston Harbor, which was read.

Mr. HOAR. I desire to ask the chairman of the Committee on Commerce to examine that report and see whether the map which accompanies it should be printed or not, as well as the letter; and, if so, that he will make the proper motion.

Mr. HARRIS. Had it not better be referred to the Committee on Commerce? Then the committee can order any printing they desire.

Mr. HOAR. I wish to have the matter advanced. It relates to an important improvement in Boston Harbor, which I want to have the committee consider in time for the river and harbor bill.

Mr. FRYE. I think that ordering the printing of the map will cause such delays that it will probably be useless at this session of Congress, and perhaps it had better not be printed, but let the communication be printed and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. HOAR. Very well.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The communication and accompanying papers, except the map, will be printed and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

MILITARY POST NEAR HELENA, MONT.

Mr. HAWLEY. I dislike to ask the Senate to take up a bill out of its order, but I am going out of town for four or five days, and I am pressed by the Secretary of War, the Senators from Montana, and various citizens to ask for the early consideration of Senate bill 1881, to establish a military post near the city of Helena, in Lewis and Clarke County, in the State of Montana. I ask unanimous consent that it may be considered now.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 1881) to establish a military post near the city of Helena, in Lewis and Clarke County, in the State of Montana.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs, with an amendment in section 2, line 3, after the word "quarters," to insert "hospital;" so as to read:

SEC. 2. That for the purpose of defraying the expenses of locating the said army post as aforesaid, and of constructing barracks, quarters, hospital kitchens, mess halls, stables, storehouses, magazines, defenses, and other necessary and suitable improvements and buildings, there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $300,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, the same to be drawn from the Treasury and applied to said purposes under the direction of the Secretary of War.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HAWLEY. This is a bill of so much importance and asking for so much money that I ought perhaps to put on record a brief statement about it.

This is a matter which has been long considered by the War Department. The establishment of this post is recommended by the Secretary of War, by the General commanding the Army, the general commanding the Department of the Missouri, and the general commanding the Department of Dakota. It is a part of a general system for rearranging the posts of the Army, which has become a wise and necessary policy.

We have no longer what is called technically "a frontier." The abolishment of small posts and the concentration of troops at points strategically strong and conveniently situated for quick distribution in case of necessity is a policy which is being carried out by the War Department. Pursuant to this policy, Fort Shaw, Fort Logan, Fort Ellis, and Fort Maginnis, in Montana, have all been discontinued, while other small posts and camps where military forces have been stationed in former time have disposal of the land afford the Government the opportunity to acquire the land at a cost for the purposes of the act.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were agreed to.

MR. CALL. There is a very large appropriation for the establishment of a military post. We passed a bill a few days ago establishing a post in the State of Florida for the erection of certain new barracks, and the appropriation, I think, was $20,000. The appropriation proposed to be appropriated, especially in the present condition of the Treasury of the country, seems to me to be a large amount.

MR. HAWLEY. Well, Mr. President, the Senator is correct; it is a large amount; but it is a matter, as I say—I can only repeat what I have already said—that the Secretary of War, the General commanding the Army, and the general's of various departments recommend. It causes the discontinuance of four very considerable forts and a number of small posts.

MR. McPHERSON. Where is it located?

MR. HAWLEY. In Helena, Mont. The Senators from Montana understand the question fully. I think the bill is wise and economical. I think it is most decidedly an economical measure.

MR. SANDERS. Mr. President, the establishment of this post in that vicinity has been approved by various generals commanding the Army from the days of Gen. Grant down until now. It was the judgment of Gen. Sheridan, as it is now of all the army officers familiar with that region, that it is in the interest of economy.

In response to what the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] is pleased to say, I will state that the bill itself contemplates as a condition precedent a very considerable contribution from the people in that region. A thousand acres of land at any place where it is likely this post will be established in that vicinity will not be likely to be worth less than from fifty to one hundred dollars an acre; and while I do not very cordially or enthusiastically support that portion of the proposition, I am satisfied that it will be accepted and the conditions be complied with.

There are a number of small posts remote from railroads which have been or are to be abolished there. The point selected in this bill is one from which railroads diverge at almost every point of the compass. It is near to our northern frontier, and troops can be maintained at the post to be established here much more cheaply than they can at the various posts to be abolished and those which have heretofore been abolished.

While it is true that the appropriation is somewhat larger, I do not know, and I do not suppose, indeed, that it will be possible, that it will all be expended this year; but the creation of such a post as will accommodate the army which may live somewhere at that point will be accompanied with some expense. That expense, however, will be largely reimbursed by the saving which will result to the Government by removing the troops from posts which are now very expensive. Gen. Merritt, I believe, states that Fort Custer, which is one of the posts contemplated to be abandoned, is the most expensive post in the United States to supply, and inasmuch as at that point the necessity for a military force has ceased to exist, it is contemplated that it shall be abolished and that the troops shall be stationed at this new post.

There is no apprehension that the property will not be worth twice as much as the Government proposes to appropriate by this bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ECKINGTON AND SOLDIERS' HOME RAILROAD COMPANY.

The bill (H. R. 110) to amend the charter of the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railroad Company was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments. The first amendment was, in section 1, line 8, after the word "across," to strike out:

Thence from the intersection of New Jersey avenue and C street north, east along C street to North Capitol street, and thence north along North Capitol street to B street north, and also beginning at the intersection of C street and New Jersey avenue, east to Massachusetts avenue, thence south easterly along Massachusetts avenue to North Capitol street, and—

And insert in lieu thereof:

And first, east, thence south along First street NW to C street NW, thence east along C street to New Jersey avenue, thence east along New Jersey avenue to a point in the center of said avenue, thence north easterly along the north center line of B street north. Beginning north at the New Jersey avenue to D street, thence west on D street to First street NW, thence north on First street to C street, and along C street to First street NW, also beginning at the intersection of C street and New Jersey avenue, thence across New Jersey avenue to and along C street to North Capitol street.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, after line 27, to insert:

Also beginning at the intersection of New Jersey avenue and C street NW, thence east on C street to Stanton square, thence around Stanton square, on the north side thereof, to C street NE and along C street to Fifteenth street NE, thence north on Fifteenth street to D street NE, thence west on D street to Fourth street; thence south on Fourth street to and along C street to New Jersey avenue and the point of beginning. Provided, That until C and D streets shall be paved and provided with sewers to Fifteenth street the company shall not be required to construct its road beyond Twelfth street, and that the authority to make connection with D street through Twelfth street.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, line 54, after the word "line," to strike out "in" and insert "line," so as to read:

S. 1. If company shall construct any extension of its main line or any of its branches, and any point on such lines to the terminus of its main line or any of its branches.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, to insert at the end of section 1 the following additional provisions:

Provided, That no construction or sand rail on any street where the same may be built, and no extension or appurtenance pertaining to the Washington Avenue line shall be subject to such conditions as may be approved by the Secretary of War, which conditions must be obtained and be accepted in writing by said company before commencing any work on such street, and no steam cars, horse cars, or passenger or other cars for street railroads shall ever be run on the tracks of said company over any such main, fixture, or appurtenance. The said railroad shall be subject to the requirements of section 3 of the act of Congress, approved February 28, 1861, entitled "An act to incorporate the Washington and Arlington Railway Company of the District of Columbia." The said company shall before commencing work on said railroad on such street deposit with the Treasurer of the United States to the credit of the Washington Avenue line the sum of the Secretary of War, the sum of $100,000, to be used by the Secretary of War in the expenses that may be incurred by the United States in connection with the inspection of the work of construction of said railroad on such street, and in making good any damages done by said company or its works, or by any of its contracting agents, to any of said main, fixtures, or appurtenances, and in completing, as the Secretary of War may deem necessary, any of the work that the said company may neglect or refuse to complete, and that the Secretary of War may consider necessary for the safety of said main, fixtures, or appurtenances, and the said company shall at all times deposit such further sums for said purposes at such times as the Secretary of War may consider necessary. Provided, That the said sum shall be used like other moneys appropriated for the Washington Avenue line, and that whenever said sum of said deposits at the end of one year or the expiration of said railroad in such street shall be returned to said company on the order of the Secretary of War, with an account of its disbursement in detail. And provided, That disbursements of said deposits shall, except in case of emergency, be made only on the order of the Secretary of War. The exercise of the rights by the said company to terminate the franchise of the Secretary of War in case of persistent neglect by said company or by its successors to comply with the demands or to comply with any of the conditions, requirements, and regulations aforesaid.

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. McMILLAN. I am instructed by the Committee on the District of Columbia to offer an amendment, which I send to the desk.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be reported.

THE SECRETARY. In section 1, line 39, after the word "street," it is proposed to insert:

Also beginning at the present terminus of the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railroad on Fourth street extended, thence along and wholly outside of the present Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railroad to and along C street, thence east along C street to North Capitol street, and thence north along North Capitol street to B street north, and also beginning at the intersection of C street and New Jersey avenue, east to Massachusetts avenue, thence south easterly along Massachusetts avenue to North Capitol street, and—

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. McMILLAN. In line 84, on page 4, in section 1, I move to strike out "sums" and insert "sums."

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. McMILLAN. In section 1, line 80, before the word "disbursements," I have to strike out "its" and insert "their," so as to read: "with an account of their disbursement in detail."

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. McMILLAN. In section 3, line 2, after the word "act," I move to insert "except as otherwise expressly provided for."

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. CALL. Mr. President, I should be very glad if the Senator from Michigan in charge of this bill would explain the necessity for it.

MR. McMILLAN. The object of the bill is to extend the Eckington road, which now runs to the Soldiers' Home and the Catholic University, to extend its line, which now runs on C street, up to the Baltimore and Ohio depot first, using the tracks of the present companies, so that it is not necessary for them to build a track on one block. Between Fourth and Fifth streets, on C street, they will have to build a track on the two blocks. Then they use the tracks of the B. & O. line until they get up to New Jersey avenue, when they use the tracks of the New Jersey avenue line.

Then it was thought best, instead of permitting new charters to be granted for the purpose of building new lines on the north side of the city, to extend this road up to Fifteenth street north, east. This enables passengers in the north-east part of the city to take the Eckington cars, which will take them either down to the Treasury Department in the center of the city with transfers to Georgetown, or will take them to the Soldiers' Home for the sum of 5 cents. If we were to allow charters to be given to those who are demanding them in the east end, it would simply mean that a passenger would have to pay 10 cents to take the same ride. This bill has had careful attention from the committee; it was examined very carefully, and we think it is a very good bill indeed, satisfactory to the citizens and advantageous for the District in every way. It has behind it petitions from hundreds of people.

Mr. MORGAN. I wish to ask the chairman of the committee whether this proposed railway line passes along G street between Fourth and Fifth?

Mr. McMILLAN. It now runs on G street.

Mr. MORGAN. It runs to Fifth street on G?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes, sir.

Mr. MORGAN. Is it proposed to extend it from Fifth to Fourth on G?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes; to fill up that gap, and then connect with what is called the Belt Line.

Mr. MORGAN. You can not put two lines of railway in that street without ruining it.

Mr. McMILLAN. They do not. There is no track there at all now.

Mr. MORGAN. I mean that you can not put a double track there without ruining that street.

Mr. McMILLAN. There is a double track on G street.

Mr. MORGAN. Up to Fifth there is, but not beyond that, not between Fourth and Fifth.

Mr. McMILLAN. The Senator will remember that on G street at that point the Pension Office is situated.

Mr. MORGAN. Yes, I know, and that is the reason why you can not get a proper width of street there to put in two tracks.

Mr. McMILLAN. I do not think there is any difficulty about it. I have driven down there myself and looked at it very carefully.

Mr. MORGAN. I lived on that street for four years, and I know it to be the fact.

Mr. HARRIS. The street from Fourth to Fifth is as wide as it is from Fifth to Fifteenth.

Mr. MORGAN. No, not as wide.

Mr. HARRIS. It is quite as wide; and on one side there are no buildings. On the north side there are buildings.

Mr. MORGAN. On the south side there is the Pension Office.

Mr. HARRIS. Of course, and there is an open space.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan has the floor.

Mr. McMILLAN. The majority of the people who live there have no objection to this road. The track is laid very smoothly; the new pattern of rail is used, and when it is asphalted over there will not be any difficulty about it, and it will be a very great convenience to have this road extended that one block.

Mr. MORGAN. What is the motive power?

Mr. McMILLAN. Electricity.

Mr. MORGAN. Overhead?

Mr. McMILLAN. Underground or the storage battery. It is expressly provided in the bill that nothing else shall be used. It must be either underground or the storage-battery system.

Mr. VEST. They may use the present power that they have.

Mr. McMILLAN. That is storage. They use on New York avenue now the trolley system, but that has to be done away with now very soon. The company has been using for some time the storage system.

Mr. VEST. The language of the bill, I notice, is

"If electric wires or cables are used.

"If" they are used.

Mr. McMILLAN. There is no doubt that they may use a cable, I suppose, but they can not use overhead wires. That is absolutely prohibited.

Mr. VEST. I simply quote the language, which implies that they may use other power.

Mr. HARRIS. There is no other method except the trolley or overhead system, the storage battery, or the conduit system. The provision is exactly the same that was inserted. I think, upon the amendment of the Senator from Missouri a year or two ago in a similar measure. It will require putting under ground any wire or cable that is used for conducting the electric power.

Mr. MORGAN. Will it prohibit the use of horses for traction purposes?

Mr. McMILLAN. There will be no horses on this road.

Mr. VEST. It does not prohibit the use of them. I will say to the Senator from Michigan that the amendment I offered some years ago and which is now the law prohibited the use of overhead wires; that was all. But the language of this bill would permit them to use any power they saw proper. There is no inhibition on them at all. It simply says, "If electric wires or cables are used, * * * the same shall be placed under ground;" but it does not say what they shall use.

Mr. HARRIS. If the Senator from Missouri will look at the act providing for the extension on G street, passed two or three years ago, I think that the language in this bill is precisely the same as the language in that in respect of the power, and under that extension act storage batteries have been exclusively used. I think I can safely say that nothing else is contemplated in this extension than the use of storage batteries.

Mr. McMILLAN. I think that they do not contemplate using anything else.

Mr. VEST. I should like to ask the chairman of the committee a question. I am not so familiar with these streets as I possibly ought to be. Where would this road run on B street?

Mr. McMILLAN. It does not run on B street. It runs upon New Jersey avenue within 150 feet of B street. That was done at the request of the property-owners and people who live there. They agreed to that suggestion, so that the people could take cars coming to the Capitol here on New Jersey avenue; but objection was made to coming up to B street, and that was stricken out of the bill.

Mr. VEST. It runs then within 150 feet of B street?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes, sir.

Mr. HARRIS. To the Baltimore and Ohio depot, within 150 feet of B street.

Mr. MORGAN. There ought to be a restriction in the bill against the use of horse power.

Mr. McMILLAN. The committee have no objection to an amendment of that kind. There is no danger of horse power being used, I can assure the Senator.

Mr. MORGAN. There is always danger when there is an opening for a railroad company.

Mr. HARRIS. If the Senator will suggest an amendment, there can be no objection to prohibiting the use of horse power.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to it.

Mr. MORGAN. In section 1, line 39, after the word "provided," I move to insert, "That horse power shall not be used on said line for traction purposes, and;" so as to read:

Provided, That horse power shall not be used on said line for traction purposes, and that if electric wires or cables are used to propel its cars over any of the routes hereby authorized within the limits of the city of Washington the same shall be placed under ground.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Alabama.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move that the Senate request a conference with the House of Representatives upon the bill and amendments.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. McMILLAN, Mr. HARRIS, and Mr. PERKINS were appointed.

EXCLUSION OF CHINESE.

Mr. DOLPH. I move to take up for present consideration the bill (H. R. 6185) to absolutely prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States.

Mr. BATE. Why can we not go on with the Calendar regularly?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill indicated by him.

Mr. BATE. Why can we not go on with the Calendar regularly?

Mr. DOLPH. As I explained when the bill was reported, in my judgment it is of the utmost importance that it shall receive early action, and if the bill is taken up I am going to give my reasons in support of my proposition.

Mr. BATE. I have no doubt it will get us into a general debate on the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion of the Senator from Oregon to take up the bill, and the motion is not debatable.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations with an amendment to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That all laws now in force prohibiting and regulating the coming into this country of Chinese persons and persons of Chinese descent are hereby continued in force for a period of ten years from the passage of this act.

SEC. 2. That any Chinese person or person of Chinese descent, when convicted and adjudged under any of said laws to be not lawfully entitled to be or remain in the United States, shall be removed from the United States to China, unless he or they shall make it appear to the justice, judge, or commissioner before whom he or they are tried that he or they are subjects or citizens of some other country, in which case he or they shall be removed from the United States to such country; Provided, That in any case where such other country of which such Chinese person shall claim to be a citizen or subject shall demand any tax as a condition of the removal of such person to that country, he or she shall be removed to China.

SEC. 3. That any Chinese person or person of Chinese descent arrested under the provisions of this act shall be adjudged to be unlawfully within the United States unless such person shall establish, by affirmative proof, to the satisfaction of such justice, judge, or commissioner, his lawful right to remain in the United States.

SEC. 4. That any such Chinese person or person of Chinese descent, once convicted and adjudged to be not lawfully entitled to be or remain in the United States, and having been once removed from the United States in pursuance of such conviction, who shall be subsequently convicted for a like offense, shall be imprisoned at hard labor for a period of not exceeding six months, and thereafter removed from the United States, as hereinbefore provided.

Mr. CHANDLER. I move to amend the text of the original House bill. In section 1, line 3, after the first word "that," I move to insert "for fifteen years;" so as to read:

That for fifteen years from and after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful for any Chinese person or persons, etc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER].

Mr. DOLPH. Mr. President, at the time I reported this bill I suggested that there was a necessity for speedy action on the part of the Senate, from the fact that the other House had not considered the Senate bill, but had sent to the Senate another bill, a House bill, so that neither bill could become a law without passing one branch of Congress. I stated that in my judgment there was no more reason why the Senate should act upon the House bill than why the House should act upon the Senate bill, and that if the House had amended the Senate bill by striking out all after the enacting clause and inserting the House bill, the matter would have gone into conference and some agreement could probably have been arrived at by which some legislation could have been had extending the existing laws for the exclusion of Chinese.

I stated that in my judgment on the 6th day of May next the present law for excluding Chinese would expire. There seemed to be some question in the minds of some Senators as to whether I was correct or not, and I learn from the RECORD that the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations yesterday stated that he had given further examination to the subject and that he was clearly of the opinion that the existing laws will not expire until the 5th of July, 1894; that is, ten years from the passage of the amendatory act of 1884. I am sorry to be compelled to disagree in toto and emphatically with the position taken by the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations and with any other Senator or lawyer who asserts that such is the proper construction of the act of 1884.

I had not when I reported the bill examined the authorities on the subject, but my own good judgment taught me that it must be that I was right. Since coming into the Senate Chamber this afternoon I have looked at some authorities, and I think I find authority to fully bear me out in my proposition. The first section of the act of May 6, 1882, is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the expiration of ninety days next after the passage of this act, and until the expiration of ten years next after the passage of this act—

To this language I call the attention of my colleague, because I think he has fallen into an error by not closely examining this provision of the section. I repeat—

And until the expiration of ten years next after the passage of this act—

Not after the expiration of the ninety days—

And until the expiration of ten years next after the passage of this act, the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States be, and the same is hereby suspended; and during such suspension it shall not be lawful for any Chinese laborer to come, or, having so come, after the expiration of said ninety days, to remain within the United States.

In 1884 we found it necessary to amend the law so as to provide that no Chinese laborers should come from any foreign port or place. The question having arisen whether they must not come from China under the original act and whether we could exclude when they came from an English or other foreign port, Congress amended the law. It amended the first section, and that is all that is necessary to consider in examining this proposition. It is all that throws any light upon the subject whatever. Instead of amending it by saying that there should be stricken out of it certain words or that there should be inserted in it certain words, it amended it by saying it should be amended "so as to read as follows." In interpreting an amendment to a statute it is important to observe the manner in which it is amended. Suppose we had merely provided that there should be inserted in the act the words which were inserted by this amendment of the act, "from any foreign port or place," would anyone contend that we had at all changed the time during which Chinese laborers were prohibited from coming into the United States by the original section? We would not have touched the question. But instead of amending it in that way we amended it by saying—

That section 1 of the act entitled "An act to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to the Chinese," approved May 6, 1882, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 1 of the act of 1884 provides—

That from and after the passage of this act, and until the expiration of ten years next after the passage of this act, the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States be, and the same is hereby suspended, and during such suspension it shall not be lawful for any Chinese laborer to come from any foreign port or place, or having so come to remain within the United States.

All that Congress was seeking to do was to provide that Chinese laborers should not come from any foreign port or place. They were not attempting to deal with the question of time during which they should be precluded from coming. They did omit the provision that they should not come after the expiration of ninety days, and why? Because that provision had expended its force; the ninety days had run. The prohibition against the coming of Chinese laborers did not take effect until after the expiration of ninety days from the time the original act had been passed, and therefore there was no necessity to repeat those words; they were no longer in force; they had performed the office it was intended they should perform.

Mr. MITCHELL. May I ask my colleague a question?

Mr. DOLPH. Certainly.

Mr. MITCHELL. Would not the construction of the amendatory act placed upon it by my colleague have the effect to shorten the period of suspension ninety days?

Mr. DOLPH. There is just where my colleague is mistaken, and that is what I am trying to explain to him. The original act did not provide that the Chinese should be prohibited from coming into the United States for ten years after the expiration of ninety days. There is where my colleague is in error. The original act provided that after the expiration of ninety days they should be precluded from coming for ten years from the passage of the act.

Mr. MITCHELL. The original act says in so many words:

That from and after the expiration of ninety days next after the passage of this act, and until the expiration of ten years next after the passage of this act, the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States be, and the same is hereby suspended; and during such suspension it shall not be lawful for any Chinese laborer to come, or, having so come, after the expiration of said ninety days, to remain within the United States.

Mr. DOLPH. I agree to that. My colleague has not changed my statement in regard to the matter at all. They could freely come for ninety days after the passage of the act. I suppose that was intended to enable those who were on shipboard on their way to the United States to come in, and then from that time until ten years from the passage of the act they were precluded from coming—not ten years from the expiration of ninety days, but ten years from the passage of the act. They were precluded only nine years and nine months by the original act from coming to the United States. So if the act of 1884 is read as part of the act of 1882 it does not change the time a particle, because it is said they are precluded from coming for ten years from the date of the passage of the act.

There is where my colleague has fallen into an error, in supposing that if the first section of the act of 1884 was inserted in the act of 1882 and read as part of it, it would shorten the time for which the Chinese were precluded from coming to the United States. That is not true. So, I say, that Congress was not dealing with the question of time. It only sought to amend the act by providing that Chinese should not come from any foreign port or place, and it did not change the time in which Chinese were prohibited from coming into the United States one moment, either to extend it or to shorten it, under that view of the case.

I had an impression—and I had not looked at the authorities when I made that report—my own judgment taught me that where you amend a section of a previous act "to read as follows," the section must be read just as if it were cut out and pasted in the original act in place of the section amended. I think I have found some authorities, hastily looking for them this morning since I came into the Senate Chamber, because I was absent when the Senator from Ohio made the statement yesterday, that bear me out. I read from the case of the People vs. Sweetser, in the 1st Dakota Reports, from the syllabus first:

An amendment becomes a part of the original act, whether it be the change of a word, figure, or line, or the striking out of an entire section, or striking out and inserting, or in any other way modifying or altering its provisions. When an amendatory act sets forth the entire sections amended, they are to be construed as introduced into the place of the repealed sections, and in view of the provisions of the original act after such introduction.

I now read from the opinion in the case:

As the provisions of section 4, act of 1872-73, applied to sections 1 and 2

diers' home for disabled and needy soldiers and sailors; which were referred to the Committee on Territories.

Mr. PROCTOR presented the memorial of Daniel Wilcox and other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church at Jamaica, Windham County, Vt., remonstrating against Congress committing the Government to a union of religion and the State by the passage of any legislation to close the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the petition of Clarke W. Harrington, of Hampton, Va., praying that he be appointed custodian of the Yorktown Monument, in Virginia; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. PLATT presented a memorial of Colechester Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Connecticut, remonstrating against the passage of legislation allowing gambling in farm products; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a memorial of citizens of Washingtonville, Pa.; a memorial of citizens of Lehigh County, Pa.; a memorial of citizens of Luzerne County, Pa.; a memorial of citizens of Sandusky, Ohio; and a memorial of citizens of Chester County, Pa., remonstrating against the passage of the Faulkner, Caine, and Teller bills to provide home rule for Utah; which were referred to the Committee on Territories.

Mr. FRYE presented the petition of Rev. C. M. Emery and 42 other citizens of Norridgewock and South Norridgewock, Me., praying for the passage of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting any legislation by the States respecting an establishment of religion, or making an appropriation of money for any sectarian purpose; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a petition of 29 members of Vincent Mountfort Post, No. 22, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Maine, praying for the passage of legislation providing for the marking of battle lines at Gettysburg, Pa.; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DANIEL presented the memorial of W. W. Hubbell, of Appomattox County, Va., remonstrating against the passage of any legislation permitting the free importation of wool; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE presented a petition of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Ypsilanti, Mich., praying that the Chinese exclusion act be not made to apply to those who come with wives and families to make permanent homes in this country; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

He also presented the memorial of W. H. Falconer and 25 other members of the Jefferson Seventh-Day Advent Church of Pittsford, Mich.; the memorial of John T. Terrell and 23 other members of the Seventh-Day Advent Church of Byron Center, Mich.; and a memorial of sundry citizens of Michigan, remonstrating against the passage of any legislation by Congress committing the Government to a union of church and State; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the following petitions of Bath Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Michigan:

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Petitions praying for the passage of House bill 395, defining lard and imposing a tax thereon—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the free delivery of mails in rural districts—referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Petitions praying for the passage of a bill making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts—referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. CULLOM presented a petition of sundry citizens of Rockford, Ill., praying for the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, prohibiting any legislation by the States respecting an establishment of religion or making an appropriation of money for any sectarian purpose; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2174) to incorporate the Cross-Town Railroad of the District of Columbia, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2805) to establish a botanic hospital and home and a free school in the District of Columbia, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2852) to change the name of the Capitol, North O Street and South Washington Railway Company, and for other purposes, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1965) to reimburse James M. Trotter, late recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, for amount expended for record books of the office of recorder of deeds in said District, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Claims; which was agreed to.

Mr. STEWART. I am directed by the Committee on Appropriations, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6323) making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, to report it with amendments. I give notice that I shall call the bill up on Monday next.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. PROCTOR, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the resolution of the common council of Sault St. Marie, Mich., in favor of an appropriation for the completion of the new post at Fort Brady, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations; which was agreed to.

He also, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the memorial of the Legislature of Oregon, concerning the re-establishment of Fort Klunath as a military post, asked to be discharged from its further consideration; which was agreed to.

Mr. PADDOCK, from the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the agricultural appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

He also, from the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, to whom was referred an amendment submitted by himself intended to be proposed to the agricultural appropriation bill, reported it favorably, and moved its reference to the Committee on Appropriations and that it be printed; which was agreed to.

APPEALS IN CAPITAL CASES.

Mr. HOAR. I am directed by the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2171) to amend section 766 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, to report it favorably, with an amendment. I call the attention of the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON] to the report.

Mr. McPHERSON. I ask the chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary if he will object to my requesting the unanimous consent of the Senate for the immediate consideration of the bill?

Mr. HOAR and Mr. HARRIS. Let the bill be read for information.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That section 766 of the Revised Statutes be amended by adding thereto, at the end of said section, the following words: "Provided, That said appeal shall not stay execution in capital cases unless accompanied by an order from the judge from whose decision such appeal is taken, restraining the sheriff or other officer from executing the sentence of the trial court."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. DOLPH. I should like to know what the section is that is proposed to be amended and what the bill is before. I consent to its being considered at present.

Mr. HOAR. I will make an explanation, if it please the Senate. Let the amendment be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment of the committee will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. Add to the bill:

Or unless such order be obtained from some justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mr. HOAR. The section of the Revised Statutes of the United States referred to authorizes an appeal to the circuit court of the United States, among other things, where any person convicted in a State court claims to have acted under the authority of any statute of the United States, or under any authority derived from the law of the United States, or that he is restrained of his liberty in violation of the Constitution or any law or treaty of the United States, or where he justifies his act by setting up an authority from any foreign power, the latter being intended to cover the old McLeod case, which my friend from Oregon [Mr. Doan] knows as thoroughly as anybody, who was formerly a citizen of the State of New York, where it arose.

The provision of the Revised Statutes further is that where an application is made to a circuit court of the United States for a habeas corpus, and an appeal is taken, no action of the State authority shall be of any validity thereafter until the appeal is decided. That provision was originally applied only to a case where the prisoner set up the action of a foreign government in justification, but by a subsequent statute that provision is extended to all cases, the result of which is that a person sentenced capitally in a State court may apply to a circuit court of the United States and set up that he was acting under some authority of the United States in the matter for which he is convicted, or that he is restrained of his liberty in violation of the Constitution or any law or treaty of the United States, and if the habeas corpus be denied by the circuit court he can appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, and in such cases all proceedings in the State must be suspended. When the case reaches the Supreme Court of the United States, and is just ready for decision he can withdraw his appeal, or his claim can be overruled by the Supreme Court of the United States, he takes another application to a circuit court and another appeal, and so on forever.

Judge Sawyer, a very eminent and learned judge, lately deceased, held—and the circuit court in New Jersey deems itself bound by the precedent established by Judge Sawyer—that the overruling of one appeal or the withdrawal of one does not prevent a new application and a new appeal founded on precisely the same cause. Although Judge Green, of the New Jersey circuit, does not think that is a sound view, he feels constrained to follow it. So no person can be executed capitally in this country. There is a man in New Jersey who has been sentenced by the court of that State to be executed for an atrocious murder of his own wife. He pleaded guilty, and the court under the law of New Jersey declared the murder to be murder in the first degree, and he was sentenced to be executed. He comes into the circuit court and claims that that is in violation of the Constitution of the United States, which provides a jury trial in all capital cases, although it has been again and again declared by the Supreme Court of the United States that that provision of the Constitution does not apply to State courts, but only to courts of the United States, which is as well settled a doctrine of law as any in the reports. Still Judge Green, denying his application for a habeas corpus, feels constrained to grant his appeal, and, one having been granted and withdrawn by the petitioner, he comes and asks anew and gets another one, so that the State authority is absolutely defied.

The bill proposes to remedy that by providing that the proceedings in the State where an appeal is taken shall not be delayed unless one of two things happens: either the judge who denies the application for a habeas corpus and grants the appeal shall make an order directing the State authority to proceed no further, or, in order that that may not rest exclusively on the discretion of the judge whose judgment is appealed from, that such order shall be obtained from any justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. This appeal has existed only since 1885 in the suspension of this class of cases, and we think we have carefully guarded it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. HALE. I shall not object if it takes no time.

Mr. HOAR. It is over now.

Mr. PALMER. I should like—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Illinois rise to object to the consideration of the bill?

Mr. PALMER. I merely want to ask a question.

Mr. HALE. I object, if it gives rise to debate.

Mr. HOAR. I think all the time has been taken that will be required.

Mr. PALMER. I merely want to ask if the bill would still permit applications to be made to any justice of the Supreme Court.

Mr. HOAR. Certainly, the application may be made to any justice of the Supreme Court.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Committee on the Judiciary to add to the bill:

Or unless such order be obtained from some justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and was read the third time.

Mr. HOAR. There is a brief letter from the attorney-general of New Jersey to the Senator from New Jersey, which I ask may be printed in the RECORD as part of my remarks.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will be so ordered, if there be no objection.

The letter is as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY, OFFICE OF ATTORNEY-GENERAL.
Trenton, February 10, 1897.

MY DEAR SENATOR: I desire through you to call the attention of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate to the importance of the immediate amendment of Revised Statutes 761, as amended by the act of March 3, 1885.

Judge Sawyer, In re Sun Hung and another, 24 Federal Reporter, page

723, thus speaks of the section as it stands: "Upon examination I have come to the conclusion that I have no discretion in the matter, and that the right of appeal is absolute. I think the act must have passed without due consideration, without appreciating the effect or the consequences of an unlimited right of appeal." Other circuit courts have taken the same view of the act, and the courts of the United States are being used in cases where they have no jurisdiction to stay the execution of the criminal laws of the State courts. There have been several cases, but perhaps the most striking is the case of Hallinger, which was before Judge Green, judge of the district court of New Jersey. The case was this: About a year ago Hallinger pleaded guilty in the court of oyer and terminer of the county of Hudson to an indictment setting forth the facts constituting atrocious murder of his own wife.

Under the New Jersey statute and in accordance with the settled practice of the State the judge fixed the degree of murder, which the law applied to the facts as found in the first degree. He was accordingly sentenced to be hung. A few days before the time of execution application was made to Judge Green for a writ of habeas corpus under the act of 1867, extending the power of the United States judiciary to all cases where any person may be restrained of liberty in violation of the Constitution or any treaty or law of the United States (see section 753, chapter 39 title habeas corpus, Revised Statutes 1878). The petition alleged that Hallinger was deprived of his liberty contrary to the Constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of New Jersey, because he had not had a trial by jury. Judge Green refused to grant the writ, and petitioner took an appeal. The judge allowed the appeal under the statute. The petitioner did not present the appeal, but suffered it to be dismissed by the Supreme Court of the United States, in accordance with the practice in New Jersey another day was fixed by the judge for the execution, which was the 10th of February. On the 6th an application was made to Judge Green again for another writ of habeas corpus; the petition containing the full record of the court and alleging, as before, that the detention was in violation of the constitution of the State and of the United States because the culprit had not had a trial by jury. The attorney-general of the State was notified after the judge had refused the writ, but before the appeal papers had been indorsed. He objected to the appeal being granted on the ground that the judge himself had decided that he had no jurisdiction in the matter, and therefore no appeal would lie; that in Judge's case (19 U. S., page 291) the court held that the statute made the appeal a stay from all proceedings in the State court "until final judgment," that the former appeal should be considered as an estoppel from a new application to release from the same imprisonment.

Judge Green agreed entirely with the attorney-general, but felt himself bound by the decision of Judge Sawyer and the words of the act to grant the appeal, although on the face of the petition itself it appeared that it simply was an effort to examine into error from a writ of habeas corpus directly from a court of oyer and terminer of the State to the Supreme Court of the United States. This construction of the statute is contrary to the ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States In re Lange and Ex parte Parks, where it is held that if a court has jurisdiction and a writ of error lies, that error will not be examined under a writ of habeas corpus. It will be also observed that it is settled law that the fifth amendment to the Constitution of the United States does not guarantee the right of trial by jury in the State courts, and the allegation is therefore simply that the State law is not in accordance with the State constitution, and this is the only question presented to the United States judge, and for which reason he of course properly refused the writ.

My own judgment is that Hallinger could have been hung to-day without any risk whatever. Judge Green refused to make any declaration on the subject, and directed the sheriff to take the advice of the attorney-general, in view of the fact that Judge Green granted the appeal against his will, because he felt bound by the decision of Judge Sawyer, and that Judge Sawyer, in making the decision, had pointed out the evil which would flow from his construction, and the fact that Judge Harlan held in Judge's case that the appeal was an absolute stay. I advised the sheriff to disobey the sentence of our own court.

Under these circumstances Judge Green has suggested that the power of appeal should be discretionary in the court or judge refusing the writ. As this is also the opinion of Judge Sawyer, it would seem to be proper that such an amendment should be immediately made to relieve the State authorities from the dilemma in which they are placed, or it is suggested that the same end would be reached by declaring that no appeal should be a stay, but giving discretion to a judge of the supreme court or the presiding judge of the circuit court of appeals to grant a stay in his discretion.

You will see the importance of immediate action in this matter, and I will thank you to present it to the proper committee, and if I can be of any service in further explanation I will be glad to attend on being notified.

I am, very truly, yours,

JOHN P. STOCKTON.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is, shall the bill pass?

The bill was passed.

LANDS AT DETROIT.

Mr. WILSON. By direction of the Committee on the Judiciary I report back favorably without amendment the joint resolution (H. Res. 10) for the release of all claim of the United States to lot 18, section 2, governor and judges' plan, Detroit. Inasmuch as it is a matter of some importance in connection with quieting title, I ask that the joint resolution may be considered at the present time. It will give rise to no debate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

Mr. HALE. If it gives rise to no debate I shall not object.

Mr. WILSON. I do not think it will incur any debate.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

Mr. WILSON. In explanation of the joint resolution, I will state that it was submitted to the Secretary of the Interior for any suggestions or information that he might desire to communicate to the committee, and he referred the matter to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who has reported fully upon it, and from which report I will read two brief paragraphs. Referring to the report of the House Judiciary Committee, he says:

It appears from said House Judiciary report that the western part of the lot in question "passed by one conveyance into the possession of Gen. Lewis Cass," and further, that "a search through the Department's files fails to show a title in Gen. Cass to the eastern portion of the said lot." I am therefore of the opinion that the Government has never in any manner parted with title to the eastern portion of said lot 18, except as provided by the above-cited act of August 29, 1812, in accordance with which fee-simple title to all public land in the original site of Detroit passed to the mayor, recorder, and aldermen of said city.

Said last-named officials were required to make report of their proceedings to Congress on or before January 1, 1841. Presuming that they did so without having conveyed to anyone the portion of the lot in question, and in view of Mr. Glover's long and undisputed possession of the same, I respectfully recommend the removal of all cloud to his title thereto by the passage of the resolution.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DISTRICT BUILDING PERMITS.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the joint resolution (H. Res. 118) to suspend the issue of permits to erect dwelling houses in alleys in the District of Columbia, to report it favorably with amendments, and I ask unanimous consent for its immediate consideration. The matter is one of great importance.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

Mr. COCKRELL. What is the object of the joint resolution?

Mr. WOLCOTT. Let the amendments be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendments of the committee are now in order, and will be stated.

Mr. KENNA. Let the joint resolution be read as proposed to be amended.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The first amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 6, strike out the words "until further provided for by," and insert in lieu thereof "less than 40 feet in width, during the first session of the Fifty-second;" so as to read:

That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby instructed not to issue any more permits for buildings intended for human habitation in alleys in the District of Columbia less than 40 feet in width during the first session of the Fifty-second Congress.

Mr. WOLCOTT. There is another amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the first amendment proposed by the committee.

Mr. KENNA. Let the joint resolution be read as it would stand if amended.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That may be done for the information of the Senate. The amendments, however, must be proceeded with in a parliamentary way.

Mr. KENNA. For that purpose I ask that it be done. It is very short.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be read as it would read if amended.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution as proposed to be amended, as follows:

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby instructed not to issue any more permits for buildings intended for human habitation in alleys in the District of Columbia less than 40 feet in width during the first session of the Fifty-second Congress; and that all such permits heretofore granted on alleys less than the width aforesaid shall be revoked where construction shall not already have been actually begun.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the first amendment reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia which has been read.

The amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The next amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. The committee report to add to the joint resolution:

And that all such permits heretofore granted on alleys less than the width aforesaid shall be revoked where construction shall not already have been actually begun.

The amendment was agreed to.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the joint resolution to be read a third time.

The joint resolution was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I move that the Senate request a conference with the House of Representatives on the joint resolution and amendments.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. WOLCOTT, Mr. McMILLAN, and Mr. HARRIS were appointed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. DAVIS introduced a bill (S. 2979) for the relief of Edward Dorsey, late Company C, First United States Colored Troops; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. FRYE introduced a bill (S. 2980) to correct the military record of Michael Collins; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 2981) for the relief of the Citadel Academy of Charleston, S. C.; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. BUTLER. I ask that the bill be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs; and I beg to call the attention of the committee to the affidavits of the superintendent of the Citadel Academy and two officers of that institution, and also a letter from the War Department in regard to the destruction by fire of its ordnance stores by the Government, the object being to relieve that institution of any money liability on that account.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill and accompanying papers will be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PROCTOR introduced a bill (S. 2982) to restore to the pension roll the name of Mary F. Prindley; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. DANIEL (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2983) to authorize the construction of a railway across the Government reservation at Willoughby Spit, Va.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. FRYE introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 75) authorizing the printing of 2,000 copies of the Twenty-third Annual List of Merchant Vessels of the United States, for the year ending June 30, 1891; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. FRYE. I ask that the joint resolution be referred to the Committee on Printing. I call the attention of the chairman of the Committee on Printing to the fact that the edition of that book is very small. It is a list of names of vessels. I think the edition is only 2,000, and the vessel-owners of Maine, I am informed, want to take up nearly the whole of the edition themselves.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The joint resolution will be referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill (S. 2984) defining "lard" and imposing a tax on manufactures of compound lard; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. WALTHALL submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. CULLOM submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY HEARING.

Mr. HALE submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the stenographer employed to report the hearings before the Committee on Naval Affairs on Senate bill No. 1703, to provide for a more perfect organization for the United States Naval Observatory, and for other purposes, be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

WILLIAM AND MARY COLLEGE, OF VIRGINIA.

Mr. HALE. I gave notice yesterday that I should call up the urgent deficiency appropriation bill on the close of the routine morning business this morning. I learn that the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR] is desirous of leaving the city within a short time, and that he has a bill which will involve no debate, and I will not at present interfere with him. If the bill takes up much time I must ask the Senate to go on with the appropriation bill; but I will not interfere now.

Mr. HOAR. I call up Senate bill 2566, according to the agreement yesterday.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. By the unanimous consent of the Senate, given yesterday, the Chair lays before the Senate the bill (S. 2566) for the relief of William and Mary College of Virginia.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to pay to the College of William and Mary, in Virginia, $64,000 to reimburse that college for the destruction of its buildings and other property destroyed without authority by soldiers of the United States during the late war.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HOAR subsequently said: I ask that the report, which is brief, in regard to the bill (S. 2566) for the relief of William and Mary College of Virginia may be printed in the Record.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PLATT in the chair). The Senator from Massachusetts asks that the report of the Committee on Claims on the bill referred to by him, which was passed this morning, be printed in the Record in connection with the action of the Senate upon the bill. If there be no objection that order will be made. The Chair hears none.

The report, submitted by Mr. WHITE March 6, 1892, is as follows:

The Committee on Claims, to whom was referred Senate bill 2566, submitted the following report:

A bill similar in its nature, has been before Congress for many years, has often been reported favorably in the House and in the Senate, and has passed the House and Senate at various times, but never reached consideration in both Houses of any one Congress.

Your committee adopt now as their own the report made in the House of Representatives, first session, Forty-fourth Congress, on behalf of the Committee on Education and Labor, by the Hon. GEORGE F. HOAR. That report, as will be observed, apart from technical legal considerations, bases its conclusions upon broad and comprehensive lines of justice and public policy. These findings, being predicated on exceptional conditions, can give rise to no other of engendering thereby a general rule to do harm if invoked in the future.

The report is as follows:

"On the 9th day of September, 1862, the principal building of the College of William and Mary was destroyed by fire. This college is in the town of Williamsburg, 35 miles from Fort Monroe, on territory which remained under the control of the United States during nearly the whole of the war. Williamsburg is situated on the narrowest part of the peninsula, partly in the county of York and partly in that of James City. York County was in the hands of the Union troops from May, 1862, to the close of the war. It was never during that time treated as rebel territory; was expressly exempted from President Lincoln's original proclamation of emancipation; it formed a part of the State of Virginia, which had for a time its seat of government at Alexandria under Governor Pierpont, was represented in Congress, and gave the necessary constitutional assent to the separation of West Virginia. The college is a little over the line in James City, but was in the town of Williamsburg, and was held by the Union forces, as was York County, and was practically Union territory as much as the rest of the town of which it formed a part.

"Before the fire the United States took possession of the college buildings for military uses. Its rooms contained hay and other stores and cavalry equipments. The day before the destruction of the building a court-martial was going on in it, which was not over at the time of the destruction. On the morning of May 9, after a conflict between the Union forces and a body of rebel cavalry, the latter got possession of the place for a few hours. After their withdrawal, some returning stragglers of the garrison, provoked by defeat and under the influence of drink, set fire to the building and prevented the residents of the neighborhood from extinguishing the flames till it was wholly consumed.

"The sum appropriated by the accompanying bill is somewhat less than the actual value of the building, which was erected in 1859, and is without the addition of interest.

"We are of the opinion that the United States should restore the building so destroyed, for several reasons which do not apply to any other claim whatever which can hereafter be made for the injury or destruction of property during the rebellion. The Government had taken possession of the property for its own purposes, excluding the owners and preventing them from taking any measures to secure its protection. This was on what was practically friendly and not hostile territory, and the case should be treated as if it had happened in Washington or Philadelphia.

"There are other considerations which appeal most powerfully alike to reason and patriotic feeling in demanding this relief.

"Every civilized nation has its hallowed spots, about which its patriotic memories cluster, and whose names arise before the imagination whenever these memories are stirred. Sometimes these spots are the scenes of famous battles, as Bunker Hill, or Saratoga, or Yorktown; sometimes the places where the foundations of great States have been laid, as at Jamestown or Plymouth; sometimes where great civic events have occurred, as Independence Hall or Faneuil Hall; sometimes the dwelling places or burial places of heroes or statesmen, as Mount Vernon or Westminster Abbey; sometimes the venerable institutions of learning which have educated and trained the great benefactors of the people, as Oxford and Cambridge, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, and William and Mary. Under our form of government these hallowed spots are in the custody of States. But they hold them as trustees for the whole people, and the gratitude and affection which surround and hallow them are the gratitude and affection of the whole people. Unless this be true, the American people, alone among civilized nations, are without any common objects of national reverence.

"The colleges of the period preceding the war of the Revolution were among the most potent forces in accomplishing our independence and founding our Constitution. Among them, none can claim precedence over William and Mary. The names of Washington, to whose genius in war and to whose influence in peace we owe the vindication of our liberties and the successful inauguration of our Constitution; Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, who announced the great law of equality and human rights; Marshall, without whose luminous and far-sighted exposition the Constitution could hardly have been put into successful and harmonious operation, are inseparably connected with hers. She first called Washington into the public service in his youth, giving him her commission as deputy surveyor, the office of surveyor-general being then held by the corporation of the college. He was for the last twelve years of his life chancellor of William and Mary. Jefferson and Marshall were her graduates. We doubt if any college in America or Europe can, in proportion to the whole number borne on its catalogue, show so large a list of names famous for conspicuous patriotic service or can extract from its history a passage like this, which is taken from President Lowell's historical sketch of William and Mary:

"Besides her long roll of most eminent divines, lawyers, and physicians in private life, she has given to the country two eminent Attorneys-General of the United States; to the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, nearly twenty members; and to the Senate of the United States, fifteen Senators; to Virginia and other States, seventeen governors; to the country, one historian and numberless eminent writers; to the State and the United States, thirty-seven judges; to the Revolution, twenty-seven of her sons; to the Army of the United States, a Lieutenant-general and a score of principal and subordinate officers; to the United States Navy, a list of admirals of the sea, headed by Warrington and Thomas Ap Catesby Jones; to the colleges and university, twelve professors; to the nation, three Presidents—Jefferson, Monroe, and John Tyler; to independence, four signers of its Declaration; to the first American Congress, its President; to the Federal judiciary, its most eminent Chief Justice, John Marshall; to the Federal Executive, seven Cabinet officers, and to the convention which framed the Constitution of the United States, Edmund Randolph, its chief author and draftsman.

"In all she has given to her country more than two hundred heroes and sages who have been preeminently distinguished in public service and place.

"Your committee are of opinion that if the accidents of war had led to the injury of Mount Vernon, of the house or the tomb of Washington, or of Independence Hall in Philadelphia, we should have hastened to repair the injury. We shall more truly honor Washington by restoring the living fountain of learning whose service was the pleasure of his last years than by any empty act of worship or respect toward his sepulcher.

"There is another view of this matter which impresses one of the members of your committee with very great force. It is unquestionable that, by the law of nations, institutions of learning are exempted by all civilized nations from the hostilities of war.

"They are to be classed, in this respect, with public libraries, monuments, collections of art or science, hospitals, etc. The Government of the United States, in its Instructions for the Government of Armies in the Field, originally prepared by Dr. Lieber, revised by a board of officers, of which Maj. Gen. Hitchcock was president, and approved by President Lincoln in 1863, binds itself by these rules:

"Extract from General Order No. 100, Adjutant General's Office, section 2, paragraphs 31 to 36:

"31. As a general rule, the property is belonging to churches, to hospitals, or other establishments of an exclusively charitable character, to establishments of education or foundations for the promotion of knowledge, whether public schools, universities, academies of learning, or observatories, museums of the fine arts, or of a scientific character, such property is not to be considered public property in the sense of paragraph 31, but it may be taxed or used when the public service may require it.

"35. Classical works of art, libraries, scientific collections, or precious instruments, such as astronomical telescopes, as well as hospitals, must be secured against all avoidable injury, even when they are contained in fortified places while besieged or bombarded.

"36. If such works of art, libraries, collections, or instruments belonging to a hostile nation or government can be removed without injury, the ruler of the conquering state or nation may order them to be seized and removed for the benefit of the said nation. The ultimate ownership is to be settled by the enduring treaty of peace. In no case shall they be sold or given away, if captured by the armies of the United States; nor shall they ever be privately appropriated or wantonly destroyed or injured.

"It is needless to multiply citations. Every authority on the law of nations who touches this subject, from Grotius to Hallerck, agrees that the destruction of property of this class is a violation of this law. But it can not be maintained that the Government is liable for all injuries committed either by its authority or wantonly by its troops, without orders, upon property protected by this rule. But there are many examples in history which seem to place the case of endowed institutions of learning, established by funds given for public purposes, upon grounds of their own, and give them a peculiar title to reparation when so injured which is not possessed by the public school or even by the church. The funds or buildings of the public school are public funds belonging to the hostile sovereign and appropriated to the fulfillment of a function which that sovereign undertakes to perform for the citizen. The funds or buildings of the church, though consecrated to the highest objects, are the property of particular sects and are neither within the control nor for the use of mankind at large. But, in the language of an eminent judge, 'the arts and sciences are admitted among all civilized nations as forming an exception to the severe rights of warfare, and as entitled to favor and protection. They are considered, not as the peculium of this or that nation, but as the property of mankind at large, and as belonging to the common interest of the whole species.' (Case of the Marquis de Somerelles, Stewart's Rep., Nova Scotia, page 482.)

"The endowed corporation of the college can do nothing except hold and apply its fund to a cause which is for the benefit of mankind at large. It can not commit an act of war, and the hostile character can not properly be imputed to it. While a violation of the law of nations in the conduct of the war for the suppression of the rebellion can not constitute a claim upon the Government of the United States, using the term 'claim' in the sense of legal constraint, we believe this Government should, in dealing with an American college, imitate the frequent examples which history furnishes, where the most highly civilized nations and the most famous commanders have respected their moral obligations by making voluntary reparation at their own expense of injuries inflicted on endowed colleges and kindred institutions by the operations of war.

"During the battle of Princeton, the Americans, in dislodging the British from the college building, fired a cannon shot through the walls; Washington, in order to make good to the college the damage sustained by the fire of his troops, made the trustees a present of 50 guineas.

"During the war of Independence the buildings of William and Mary were repeatedly occupied by British troops. They were in every instance respected as sacred to the cause of letters and left intact. After the close of the war, Louis XVI, the ally of America, caused the buildings accidentally destroyed by the fire of his troops to be replaced and every injury to be repaired.

"Thus it appears that a Virginian, the chancellor of the College of William and Mary, rendered to a Northern college the justice which is now asked for her. Thus it appears that a foreign monarch rendered, under like circumstances, to William and Mary herself the justice which she now asks of her countrymen of the Republic.

"The British troops under Tryon, when they occupied Yale College in 1779, spared Yale College, although its students in arms harassed their approach. But President Clapp's manuscripts were carried off. President Stiles addressed a letter to General Tryon, in which he represented that 'a war against science had been reprobated for ages by the wisest and most powerful generals. The irreparable losses sustained by the Alexandrian library and other ancient monuments of literature have prompted the victorious commanders of modern ages to exempt the monuments from the ravages and desolations inseparable to the highest rigors of war.' General Tryon replied that 'disposed by principle as well as inclination to prevent the violence of war from injuring the rights of the republics of learning, he very much approved of the president's solicitude for the recovery of the manuscripts, and caused every effort to be made for their recovery and restoration.'

"In the war with Great Britain of 1812 a quantity of paintings and prints, designed for the Academy of Arts at Philadelphia, were captured by the British on their passage from Italy and taken into Halifax. Dr. Croke, the distinguished judge of the admiralty court, without hesitation ordered them to be restored, saying, in addition to the quotation already quoted, 'Heaven forbids that such an application to the generosity of Great Britain should ever be ineffectual.' (Case of the Marquis de Somerelles, above cited.)

"We believe that to follow the example of Washington, of Louis XVI, of Judge Croke, of Tryon, will make every college in America safer, if civil strife or foreign war should ever hereafter disturb our peace. Every new State, as it takes its place in the great family, makes haste to establish its university. Their pupils, scattered over the country, retain an attachment for them and for each other which is one of the strongest bonds of the Union. In her bloodiest and angriest civil strife England has respected her great schools and colleges. The cause of William and Mary is, in this respect, the cause of every college in the country.

"The act of April 23, 1884, entitled 'An act to increase the endowment of the University of Alabama from the public lands in said State, and another act for the indemnity of the theological institution in Alexandria, furnish exact precedents for our action in reporting the accompanying bill and recommending its passage by the House.

"A bill like the present passed the House in the Forty-second Congress, but it was not reached in the Senate for want of time. It was received with expressions of approbation by the press of all parties and by persons connected with the colleges throughout the country."

URGENT DEFICIENCIES.

Mr. HALE. I ask that the appropriation bill reported yesterday, and printed, be laid before the Senate.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 7818) to provide for certain of the most urgent deficiencies in the appropriations for the service of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for other purposes; which had been reported from the Committee on Appropriations with amendments.

Mr. HALE. I ask that the formal reading of the bill be dispensed with, and that the amendments of the Committee on Appropriations be acted on as they are reached in the reading.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will be so ordered in the absence of objection.

The Chief Clerk proceeded to read the bill.

The first amendment reported by the Committee on Appropriations was, under the head of "State Department," on page 2, after line 3, to insert:

Columbian Historical Exposition at Madrid: For the expense of representation of the United States at the Columbian Historical Exposition to be held in Madrid in 1892 in commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, $25,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be expended under the direction and in the discretion of the Secretary of State; and the President is hereby authorized to appoint a commissioner-general and two assistant commissioners, who may, in his discretion, be selected from the active or retired list of the Army or Navy, and shall serve without other compensation than that to which they are now entitled by law, to represent the United States at said exposition; that it shall be the duty of such commissioners to select from the archives of the United States, from the National Museum, and from the various Executive Departments of the Government such pictures, books, papers, documents, and other articles as may relate to the discovery and early settlement of America and the aboriginal inhabitants thereof; and they shall be authorized to secure the loan of similar articles from other museums and private collections, and arrange, classify, and install them as the exhibit of the United States at the said exposition; that the President is authorized to cause the detail of officers from the active or retired list of the Army and Navy, to serve without compensation other than to which they are now entitled by law, as assistants to said commissioners; and the said commissioners shall be authorized to employ such clerical and other assistance as may be necessary, subject to the approval of the Secretary of State.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, under the head of "Treasury Department," on page 3, after line 24, to insert:

Payment to State of Montana: To reimburse the State of Montana for moneys paid and expended in defraying so much of the expenses of the constitutional convention held therein in 1889, pursuant to an act entitled "An act to provide for the division of Dakota into two States and to enable the people of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, and Washington to form constitutions and State governments, and to be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States, and to make donations of public lands to such States," approved February 22, 1889, as have not heretofore been paid by the United States, $7,231.09, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 7, after line 2, to insert:

Fish hatchery, Northville, Mich.: The act approved August 30, 1890, entitled, "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1891, and for other purposes," shall be construed as giving to the United States Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries authority to expend the sum of $5,000 therein appropriated for the erection of new buildings at Northville, Mich., for such constructions as may be necessary for the development of the work of the Fish Commission at that place, including the introduction of a water supply, the construction of ponds, and repairs to the present buildings.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, under the head of "Department of the Interior," on page 8, to strike out the clause from line 8 to line 14, inclusive, as follows:

Rent of buildings: That if the whole of the $16,000 already appropriated for rents for the General Land Office shall not be expended for that purpose, the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to expend such part of the unexpended balance thereof as may be necessary to rent rooms for office or storage purposes for any of the bureaus or offices of the Interior Department.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 8, after line 14, to insert:

Eleventh Census: For salaries and necessary expenses for continuing the work of compiling the results of the Eleventh Census, $100,000, to be available until expended.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, under the head of "Department of Justice," on page 8, line 22, before the word "roof," to strike out "iron" and insert "metallic," so as to make the clause read:

For covering alleyway adjoining Department of Justice building for use of the Court of Claims, including flooring, glass, and metallic roof, front and rear walls, or sash, steam heat, party wall, painting, set of cases full length of the room, and cutting doorway, to be done under the supervision of the Architect of the Capitol, $4,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, to strike out the clause from line 1 to line 4, on page 9, as follows:

Eleventh Census: For salaries and necessary expenses for continuing the work of compiling the results of the Eleventh Census, $100,000, to be available until expended.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, under the head of "Post-Office Department," to strike out the clause from line 8, on page 9, to line 2, on page 10, inclusive, as follows:

For editing and preparing for publication a new edition of the Postal Laws and Regulations the Postmaster-General be, and he is hereby, authorized to use any sum not exceeding $2,000 of the appropriation of $40,365, provided for the printing and publishing of said edition by "An act making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1891, and for prior years, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1891, which sum of $2,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, he may direct to be paid to any officers or employees of the Post-Office Department whom he may designate for that purpose, in consideration of their services rendered out of the regular Department hours, in the editing and preparation of the same, and the said appropriation of $40,365 is hereby continued and made available until the completion of the printing and publishing of the edition of laws and regulations to which it applies.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, under the head of "Senate and House of Representatives," on page 10, in line 8, after the word "House," to strike out "three thousand" and insert "five thousand eight hundred;" so as to make the clause read:

SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

For the expenses of the typhus fever and mummification investigation to be made by the Senate Committee on Immigration and the House Select Committee on Immigration and Naturalization under concurrent resolution of the Senate and House, $5,800, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be advanced or paid, in sums as needed by the Secretary of the Senate, on the joint orders of the chairmen of said committees.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 10, after line 11, to insert:

SENATE.

For stationery and newspapers, $500.
For expenses of inquiries and investigations ordered by the Senate, including compensation to stenographers to committees, at such rate as may be fixed by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, but not exceeding $1.25 per printed page, $10,000.

For fuel, oil, and cotton waste, and advertising for the heating apparatus, $2,862.

For fuel, oil, and cotton waste, and advertising for the heating apparatus, fiscal year 1891, $43.02.

For purchase of furniture, $11,750.

For services in cleaning, repairing, and varnishing furniture, $300.

For expenses of maintaining and equipping horses and mail wagons for carrying the mails, $1,430.

For miscellaneous items, exclusive of labor, $8,900.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

LEONARD I. BROWNSON.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Calendar under Rule VIII being in order, the first case will be reported.

The bill (S. 1430) for the relief of Leonard I. Brownson, late first lieutenant, Company K, Fifth Vermont Volunteers, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That the President of the United States be, and he hereby is, authorized to revoke and set aside so much of General Orders No. 21, Headquarters Middle Military Division, dated September 18, 1864, as dismissed First Lieut. Leonard I. Brownson, Company K, Fifth Vermont Volunteers, for absence without leave and for conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline, and to grant and cause to be issued to said Leonard I. Brownson a certificate of honorable muster out of the service as of the date of September 18, 1864; and said Leonard I. Brownson shall not be entitled, by virtue of this act, to any pay or allowance subsequent to said September 18, 1864.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PROPERTY RIGHTS OF MARRIED WOMEN IN THE DISTRICT.

The bill (S. 2280) to amend sections 727 and 729 of the Revised Statutes, relating to the District of Columbia, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Sections numbered 727 and 729 of the Revised Statutes relating to the District of Columbia are by the bill amended so as to read:

Sec. 727. In the District of Columbia the right of any married woman to any property, personal or real, belonging to her at the time of marriage or acquired during marriage by her trade, business, labor, or services carried on or performed on her sole and separate account, or in any other way than by gift or conveyance from her husband, shall be as absolute as if she were unmarried, and shall not be subject to the disposal of her husband nor be liable for his debts.

Sec. 729. Any married woman may contract and sue and be sued in her own name, and in matters having relation to her sole and separate property, or to her trade, business, labor, or services carried on or performed on her sole and separate account, in the same manner as if she were unmarried, and may make notes, drafts, or other negotiable or business paper or evidence of indebtedness, and the same shall be of like effect and valid in law as if made by an unmarried woman.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY IN THE DISTRICT.

The bill (S. 1714) to prevent cruelty to children in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments.

The first amendment was, to strike out section 2, as follows:

SEC. 2. That any parent or guardian, in the District of Columbia, who unreasonably neglects to provide for the support of his or her minor child or ward shall upon conviction of such unreasonable neglect be punished by fine not exceeding $30, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section (4) 3, in line 9, after the word "individuals," to strike out "and the knowledge and acts of agents and employes of such corporations and companies, in regard to animals owned or employed by them, shall be held to be the knowledge and acts of such corporations and companies themselves;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. (4) 3. That section 12 of the act of August 23, 1871, entitled "An act for the prevention of cruelty to animals in the District of Columbia" is amended to read as follows: "That in this act the words 'animals' or 'animal' shall be held to include all living and sentient creatures (human beings excepted) and the words 'owner,' 'persons,' and 'whoever' shall be held to include corporations and incorporated companies as well as individuals.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section (5) 4, line 8, after the word "not," to strike out "less than ten days nor;" so as to read:

SEC. (5) 4. That a person being the owner or possessor or having charge or custody of a maimed, diseased, disabled, or infirm animal, who abandons such animal, or leaves it to lie in the street, or road, or public place more than three hours after he receives notice that it is left disabled, is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $250, or by imprisonment in jail not more than one year, or both.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section (6) 5, line 2, after the word "docking," to strike out "or by any other operation performed for the purpose of shortening the tail;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. (6) 5. That whoever cuts the tail part of the tail of any horse in the operation known as docking, and whoever shall cause the same to be done or assist in doing such cutting (unless the same is proved to be of benefit to the horse), shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by imprisonment in the jail not exceeding one year or fine of not less than $10 nor more than $250.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section (7) 6, line 7, after the word "not," to strike out "less than $10 nor;" and in line 9, after the word "not," to strike out "less than ten days nor;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. (7) 6. That any person who sets on foot, instigates, promotes, carries on, or does act, as assistant, umpire, or principal, or attends or in any way engages in the furtherance of any fight between cocks, fowls, or other birds or dogs, bulls, bears, or other animals, premeditated by any person owning or having custody of such birds or animals, is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than $250 or by imprisonment in jail not more than one year, or both.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

Mr. McMILLAN. I should like to ask if the numbers of the sections have been changed?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That will be attended to by the enrolling clerk in the enrollment of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HARRIS. I think the title ought to be amended by adding the words "or animals" after the word "children."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Tennessee suggests that the title of the bill should be amended. The Chair hears no objection, and the title will be amended to read as follows: "A bill to prevent cruelty to children or animals in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes."

PUBLIC BUILDING AT WOONSOCKET, R. I.

The bill (S. 2331) for the erection of a public building in the city of Woonsocket, R. I., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LANDS ADJOINING NAVAL STATION, PORT ROYAL.

The bill (S. 1299) to provide for the purchase of lands adjoining the United States naval station, Port Royal, S. C., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Naval Affairs with an amendment, to add at the end of section 3 the words "or ten thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. 3. That for the purchase of the lands heretofore described there is hereby appropriated the sum of $10,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PURCHASE OF LAND OPPOSITE GOSPORT NAVY-YARD.

The bill (S. 1543) authorizing and directing the Secretary of the Navy to contract for the purchase of a lot of land opposite to the Gosport navy-yard, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Naval Affairs with amendments.

The first amendment was, in section 1, line 9, after the word "purposes," to strike out:

Provided, That he can obtain the same at a price by him considered to be fair and reasonable.

So as to make the section read:

That the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to negotiate and contract for the purchase at private sale of the tract of land known as "Cold or Grove," containing 50 acres, with a water front of 1,000 feet on the Elizabeth River, immediately opposite to the Gosport navy-yard, for the purpose of constructing a wet dock, for other purposes.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was to add to section 2 the following proviso:

And provided further, That where he is unable to purchase such lands at what he may deem a reasonable price, or where the owner or owners of said lands or any part thereof may be unable for any reason to vest by voluntary conveyance a complete and valid title to any part of said lands heretofore described, then the same shall be acquired by condemnation, agreeably to the act of Congress of August 1, 1888, relative to such condemnations, and to the laws of the State of Virginia for the condemnation of land for public uses in that State.

So as to make the section read:

SEC. 2. That to enable the Secretary of the Navy to make the said purchase the sum of $20,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated: Provided, That if money shall be expended for the purchase of said land until a valid title to the same shall be vested in the United States and the State of Virginia shall have released and relinquished jurisdiction over the same and exempted from taxation said land and such buildings as may hereafter be erected thereon, so long as the same are the property of the United States, And provided further, That where he is unable to purchase such lands at what he may deem a reasonable price, or where the owner or owners of said lands or any part thereof may be unable for any reason to vest by voluntary conveyance a complete and valid title to any part of said lands heretofore described, then the same shall be acquired by condemnation, agreeably to the act of Congress of August 1, 1888, relative to such condemnations, and to the laws of the State of Virginia for the condemnation of land for public uses in that State.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SALE OF PROPERTY UNDER UNITED STATES COURT DECREES.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I desire to offer amendments to the bill (H. R. 5816) to regulate the manner in which property shall be held under orders and decrees of any United States court, and I ask that the amendments be printed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator desire to have them referred?

Mr. WOLCOTT. No, I prefer that they shall lie on the table, as the bill is on the Calendar.

Mr. WOLCOTT subsequently said: Referring to House bill 5816, to which I offered amendments a few moments ago, after further consideration and consultation with some members of the committee, I move that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on the Judiciary, with the amendments I have offered. I think that will facilitate action.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PLATT in the chair). The Senator from Colorado asks that the bill referred to by him, together with the amendments intended to be proposed by him, be recommitted to the Committee on the Judiciary. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and that order will be made.

PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

The bill (H. R. 3927) to amend "An act to provide for the performance of the duties of the office of President in case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability both of the President and Vice-President," approved January 19, 1886, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to amend the first section of the act of January 19, 1886, by inserting after the words "Secretary of the Interior" the words "or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of Agriculture."

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

The joint resolution (S. R. 12) extending an invitation to the King and Queen of Spain and their descendants of Old Castile to participate in the World's Columbian Exposition was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The joint resolution was reported from the Select Committee on the Quadricentennial with an amendment, in line 9, before the word "that," to insert "and;" and in line 11, after the word "entertainment," to strike out "and that a sufficient sum to pay the expenses thereof is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, or the same to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of State, according to the provisions of section 291 of the Revised Statutes;" so as to make the joint resolution read:

Resolved, etc., That the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, authorized and requested to extend to His Majesty Alfonso XIII. of Her

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. SHERMAN. I have no objection if the usual clause is inserted, which is always done in resolutions addressed to the President, "if not incompatible with the public interest."

Mr. TELLER. I have no objection to those words being put in, but I can not see how it can be possible that a disclosure of what has occurred could be incompatible with the public interest. However, let those words be put in.

Mr. SHERMAN. That is the usual language always adopted. The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Colorado modifies his resolution, and the modification thereof will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In the first line, after the word "requested," insert the words "if not incompatible with the public interest;" so as to read:

Resolved, That the President be, and is hereby, requested, if not incompatible with the public interest, to inform the Senate, etc.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

INQUIRY CONCERNING RAILWAYS.

Mr. CALL submitted the following resolution; which was read:

Resolved, That a special committee of the Senate shall be, and is hereby, created, to consist of nine members, chosen by resolution of the Senate, who shall be charged with the duty of inquiring into and reporting to the Senate the present value per mile of the railways of the United States; also the present capitalization of the same, and the difference, if any, between the capitalization and the actual cost of construction and equipment of said railways; also to inquire and report to the Senate the gross and net receipts of all and each of the railway companies in the United States; the number of employees and the compensation paid to each; the amount of the bonded indebtedness; the amount of its outstanding capital stock; the kind and value of all property, whether money, stocks, and bonds, or real and personal estate, the names and residence and amount of stock or bonds held by each stockholder or bondholder of each and all of such railroads.

That the committee shall have power to send for persons and papers and to compel their attendance, and to employ a clerk and stenographer.

That the committee shall also inquire and report to the Senate whether any of said railway companies, their stockholders or bondholders, agents or employees have used or attempted to use their corporate privileges or powers, or money, to influence and control the elections of members of Congress or the members of the State Legislatures.

Mr. CALL. I ask that the resolution may be printed and lie on the table, to be called up hereafter.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be read.

Mr. MORGAN. I suggest an amendment which I hope the Senator from Florida will concur in and put in the resolution; that in reporting the amount of stocks and bonds issued by railroad corporations the committee will also report whether they are held in the United States or held abroad, and at what rates of interest.

Mr. CALL. I accept the modification. I ask that the resolution may be modified in that form.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The modification of the resolution suggested by the Senator from Alabama, and adopted by the Senator from Florida, will be made and the resolution will be printed and lie over.

The Chief Clerk will report the modification.

The CHIEF CLERK. Add to the resolution the following words:

That the committee shall also report the amount of stocks and bonds owned or controlled abroad, and the rate of interest.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will lie over under the rule.

PORTAGE CANAL AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of War be, and he hereby is, directed to send to the Senate as soon as may be the report of Maj. C. E. L. Davis on the Portage Canal and Improvement Company.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 1415) for the relief of John Nickles.

The message also announced that the House had agreed to some and disagreed to other amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 6746) making appropriations to provide for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, asked a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. DICKERY, Mr. COMPTON, and Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa, managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message further announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 5681) for the better control of and to promote the safety of national banks, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. BACON, Mr. COX of Tennessee, and Mr. WALKER managers at the conference on the part of the House.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the enrolled bill (H. R. 2786) to amend the act giving the approval and sanction of Congress to the route and termini of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad in the District of Columbia, and it was thereupon signed by the President pro tempore.

EXCLUSION OF CHINESE.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there further morning business? If not, the Calendar under Rule VII is in order.

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the unfinished business. I believe that was the understanding, so that we may have the full day on it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Ohio moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the unfinished business, which is the bill (H. R. 6185) to absolutely prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill, the pending question being on the amendment in the nature of a substitute reported by the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President, I do not intend to debate the merits of the bill. That has been done by several Senators who agree with the action of the committee. I only rise because yesterday I made a statement of what I understood to be the well-established rule of international law, which seems to have been questioned by the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER], and perhaps by others. I desire to say that, whatever may be our relations with China, I do not think there can be any dispute as to what the law on the subject touching the rejection of a minister whom we proffer to China is. I understand it to be an elementary principle that a minister serves as such with the consent of both nations, and both nations must consent before he can be a minister. He must be received as well as sent. I have myself been unable to find any case (and my attention has been called to this matter on several occasions) where it has been considered offensive for a nation to reject a minister sent to it. I find the authorities to be uniform on the subject that the nation to whom he is sent is to judge for itself. The nation to whom the ambassador or minister is accredited is not required to give any reasons why the minister is not acceptable. As stated by the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS] so well yesterday, all it has to do is to say that it does not want him.

Mr. Fish, Secretary of State during the administration of General Grant, declared that not only a nation was not required to give a reason for the rejection of a minister or for his recall, but that no self-respecting nation would do it. So if the Chinese Government rejected Minister Blair, or refused to receive him, it is not a ground of complaint here, and our legislation should proceed exactly as if it had accepted that minister.

But it is said that the Chinese Government gave reasons why it would not receive him and that those reasons were untenable. There is nothing in that. It was not required to give any reasons. If it gave reasons that were not sufficient, it still was left with the unquestioned right to fall back and say, by giving no reason if it chose, it would not receive the minister.

I have taken a little pains to look up this subject since it was called up. I do not intend to take more than a moment or two on this point. I just want to call attention to the authorities:

Every foreign agent depends upon the double will of the two Governments: of that which sends him, and of that which is to permit the exercise of his functions within its territory, and when either of these wills is refused or withdrawn his authority to act within that territory becomes incomplete.

That is the language of Mr. Jefferson, Secretary of State, to the minister of France, and that was touching the conduct of a minister who had been received, but the principle as laid down is the same. I find later this declaration:

No instance is recollected of one power pressing another equally independent to recognize against its will a minister to whom objections of a personal nature are entertained.

That is Mr. Monroe, Secretary of State, to Mr. Onís, in 1815. I find also the following:

A minister from a foreign sovereign will not be received when there are personal objections to him, and when the nomination is forced, not as a matter of courtesy, but in defiance of such objections.

That is Mr. Dallas, Acting Secretary of State, to Mr. Onís, in June, 1815.

It must be borne in mind that an envoy is a person as well as the abstract representative of his government, and that it is the prerogative of every government to require that those with whom it deals be persona grata, and to decide the question for itself. This Government has on several occasions availed itself of this personal right, without thereby being supposed to reflect on the representative character of the person himself, and still less upon the collective representative character of his associates.

That is Mr. Frothinghuyzen, Secretary of State, to Mr. Morgan, in 1884. There are quite a number of cases where ministers have been recalled, and the same rule, I understand, prevails exactly as when the minister is not received.

Every government has the right to have the representative of another power an acceptable person, and no government has the right to expect of another the retention of a representative who indulges in personal abuse of the head of the government to which he is accredited, as Mr. Cutaicay has done.

This is Mr. Fish, Secretary of State, to Mr. Curtin. This is what he referred to, and this is laid down as the general rule:

The declaration of the authorized representative of the power to which an offending minister is accredited is all that can properly be asked, and all that a self-respecting power could give.

I think it must be admitted that we have no ground of complaint against China because Senator Blair was rejected as minister. They had a right to reject him on absolutely false premises or without any whatever.

I wish to say just a word about the abrogation of treaties, and I shall not dwell on that point, because I understand that the Senator from Oregon who sits on my left [Mr. MITCHELL], who made a few years ago a very able presentation of the law on that point, will probably say something on the subject now. I understand the rule to be exactly as I laid it down yesterday. Every nation that treats with another treats with the understanding that that nation may retire from the treaty at any time it sees fit, and it may do that notwithstanding there is a provision in the treaty that it shall continue for a limited period of time. All treaties that are not stipulated to expire at a particular time, unless in the very nature of the circumstances surrounding which they treat, are for unlimited periods. A stipulation that a treaty shall remain in force five years or ten may be annulled by either of the contracting parties at will.

The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES] says when that is done the country must take the responsibility. That is true; there is no doubt about that. There might be such a condition of affairs that the abrogation of one section of a treaty, or the whole treaty by one nation without conferring and consulting with the other might be very offensive, and it is possible out of that might grow complications very important and sometimes very disastrous; but the rule remains just as I have stated it, that legislation in this country by the national legislative body will set aside any treaty inconsistent with the provisions of that enactment, whether it was intended so to be done or not.

In the Cherokee Tobacco Case, which has been mentioned, the Supreme Court fairly decided that doctrine, where there was no reason to suppose that the legislative branch of the Government intended to set aside the treaty, but did in fact by the enactment of a law that was entirely inconsistent with the provisions of the treaty; and that is certainly true when the legislative department of the Government purposely abrogates a provision of a treaty.

The Senator from New Hampshire seemed to think that the terms "abrogate" and "repeal" are synonymous with "violation." To abrogate a treaty, or to repeal a treaty, is a legal right which is always presumptive of a moral right. The violation of a treaty is presumptive of wrong. A treaty should be enforced while it remains, and repealed or abrogated whenever it is improper or contrary to the interests of the nation to enforce or to maintain its provisions.

Mr. President, I do not need to speak to any extent of the merits of this bill. The bill as it comes here from the other House may be, and doubtless is, exceedingly harsh in its provisions; but there is one thing certain, that the public sentiment in this country demands the exclusion of this class of people from the United States, or, in other words, if not the exclusion of those who are here the exclusion of those who may seek to come. I remember very well some ten or twelve years ago, perhaps ten, when this question was presented to the Senate for the first time—

Mr. DAWES. In 1882.

Mr. TELLER. In 1882, some Senator says. I do not recall the exact time. I remember there was a very determined opposition to the bill, based upon the high ground that this country is the asylum and the refuge and the home of all peoples. We who favored then the restriction of the Chinese maintained, as we maintain now, that the exclusion of the Chinese from this country is no violation of that well-established and honored rule. We also maintained that rigid and strict rules may be enacted touching the immigration of people not of the same class as the Chinese, if we saw fit. The question of the immigration of a class of people who are entirely different from ours, a class of people with whom we can have no social relations and with whom our people can not and will not amalgamate, presents, in my judgment, a very different question from that which is presented even when we come to consider the undesirable immigration of persons from foreign countries who are of our family.

We can assimilate with the most objectionable classes that come here from Europe; they become in a few years a part and parcel of the American citizenship, and we shall find in one or two generations at most a homogeneous people in language, in sympathy, in feeling, and in taste, possibly not altogether in religion; but in all those things that go to make a harmonious people and that induce coherence and peace within the borders of a nation, there will be no distinction between the children of the immigrant of to-day and the children of the immigrant of 200 years ago.

Mr. MORRILL. May I ask the Senator from Colorado a question before he leaves that subject?

Mr. TELLER. Certainly.

Mr. MORRILL. I am inclined to believe that Congress has the power to pass a law which would supersede a treaty, but now I should like to ask the Senator from Colorado whether he thinks other nations have the same power?

Mr. TELLER. Oh, Mr. President, I thought I stated explicitly that all nations have that power.

Mr. MORRILL. Then, I should like to ask the Senator whether Japan can repeal the treaties which are existing between it and several other nations, especially with England, in relation to the duties on imports?

Mr. MITCHELL. We have done it over and over again.

Mr. TELLER. I should have a very poor opinion of a nation which would surrender that right, and I do not believe that the Japanese nation, or even the Chinese, have ever surrendered any right of that character. I have no doubt that any treaty may be retired from.

Mr. MORRILL. Japan has endeavored to secure a release from her treaty from Great Britain for years, and has not succeeded.

Mr. TELLER. Very well, Mr. President, Japan may not be willing to abrogate the treaty, and thus, perhaps, create friction and a complaint in Great Britain, not of a legal character, but of another character. We have been trying to get rid of a treaty with Great Britain for a great many years, too, and a great many people in this country believe we got rid of the treaty by the action of Great Britain in violating it.

There has never been quite such a condition of affairs that anybody wanted to propose the absolute repeal or abrogation of that treaty—I refer to the Bulwer-Clayton treaty—and yet neither the United States nor Great Britain, I think, is to the highest extent respecting the terms of that treaty. It is very evident that the people of the United States would insist upon the abrogation of that treaty whenever it should appear that it was inimical to the interests of the great masses of the people of this country.

We shall never assimilate with the Chinese; we never shall assimilate with them, because even if we would they will not.

I listened with great interest to the very able speech of the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS] when he spoke of these people, of their great civilization, their great age, their great wealth, and their great numbers. They are a very wonderful people, and perhaps the most wonderful thing about the Chinese people is that practically they are to-day where they were a thousand or two thousand years ago, and that to the Chinaman is the highest possible evidence of his superiority over all other men. In the whole catalogue of nations there is no nation that is so thoroughly satisfied with its life and its surroundings as the Chinese. Their civilization to them is infinitely superior to the civilization of Europe and America. They believe that their scholastic attainments are infinitely greater and better than the scholastic attainments of any other people in the world, and they are as unchangeable now in this, the last of the nineteenth century, as they were when they were first touched and we first learned of them through Marco Polo, of whom the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations [Mr. SHERMAN] spoke a few days since. They will, in contact with the civilization of Europe and America, remain Chinese, and so a reason exists for keeping them out of our country that exists for keeping out of the country no other class of people who desire to come here.

The Senator from Minnesota said that Chinamen did not come here to remain, but they came here with the intent to return. That is the objectionable feature of this immigration: it is objectionable because they come here simply to take money out of the country and return to their homes. They take no part in building up the society in which they live. The lowest immigrant who comes from Europe, whether he be a convict, pauper, or otherwise, comes here and contributes something to civilized society; he puts his children in school, and the great mass of them contribute materially to the prosperity of this country.

Nichols, department commander of the Virginia Grand Army of the Republic; the petition of E. Calkins, department commander of the Indian Territory Grand Army of the Republic; the petition of C. L. Eaton, department commander of the Michigan Grand Army of the Republic; and the petition of S. G. Hillis, department commander of the Kentucky Grand Army of the Republic, praying that if any disposition is made of the Industrial Home property at Salt Lake City, Utah, it be set aside for a soldiers' home for disabled and needy soldiers and sailors; which were referred to the Committee on Territories.

Mr. VILAS presented the memorial of E. V. Higgins and 42 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Portage County, Wis., and the memorial of C. K. Ackley and 55 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Richland County, Wis., remonstrating against Congress committing the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. JONES of Arkansas presented the memorial of W. R. Robinson and 6 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Sebastian County, Ark., remonstrating against the United States Government committing itself to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the joint resolution (H. Res. 96) to authorize the loan of certain ensigns, flags, and signal numbers for the purpose of decorating the streets and buildings of Washington on the occasion of the Grand Army Encampment in September, 1892, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. LAPHAM, Mr. OUTHWAITE, and Mr. HULL managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills and resolution: in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 793) to amend the military record of De Loss Cramer;

A bill (H. R. 2973) granting a pension to Mrs. Jennie Y. Wade;

A bill (H. R. 3587) for the relief of Jonathan Ramey, Mexican war veteran;

A bill (H. R. 4279) for the relief of D. P. Abbott, A. S. Keever, and T. E. Smith;

A bill (H. R. 4620) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to consent to the use of a portion of the public grounds of the United States in the town of Abingdon, Va., for a public street;

A bill (H. R. 5290) for the relief of Betsey Worthington;

A bill (H. R. 5396) for the relief of W. H. Howard;

A bill (H. R. 5722) increasing the pension of Meridy Smith, a Revolutionary pensioner;

A bill (H. R. 6093) for the relief of Quincy McNeil;

A bill (H. R. 6490) to amend an act entitled "An act establishing post roads, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1877;

A bill (H. R. 7281) granting a pension to William F. C. Nindemann, late of the Jeannette expedition to the Arctic Ocean; and

A joint resolution (H. Res. 97) to fill vacancies which will occur in the Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers on April 21, 1892.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which, with the accompanying report, was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

He also, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2885) to authorize the Legislature of the State of Mississippi to sell or lease the lands heretofore appropriated to the use of schools within the Chickasaw cession, and to ratify and approve the sales already made, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PUGH, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2519) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to sell certain lands in the city of Springfield and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, reported it without amendment.

Mr. McPHERSON, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 653) for the relief of Charles W.

Cronk, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. WILSON, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was recommended the bill (H. R. 5816) to regulate the manner in which property shall be sold under orders and decrees of any United States court, reported it with amendments.

Mr. PADDOCK, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 90) explanatory of an act entitled "An act to settle certain accounts between the United States and the State of Mississippi and other States," and for other purposes, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. PETTIGREW, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2829) granting to the State of North Dakota certain portions of the abandoned Fort Abraham Lincoln military reservation, together with the buildings thereon, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. CARLISLE introduced a bill (S. 2991) for the relief of Margaret Jane Lovell, administratrix; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. VEST introduced a bill (S. 2992) for the relief of William W. Arnett; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2993) authorizing the purchase of the Quidan and Kolb letter-engraving machine for the use of the Navy Department; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. McMILLAN (by request) introduced a bill (S. 2994) to prevent the sale or delivery of ice within the District of Columbia on the Sabbath day, commonly known as Sunday; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (S. 2995) granting a pension to Cornelius Meydant; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. ALLISON introduced a bill (S. 2996) providing for the erection of a public building at Muscatine, Iowa; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. CASEY introduced a bill (S. 2997) to place James W. Foley, late commissary sergeant, upon the retired list of the Army; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DOLPH introduced a bill (S. 2998) for the relief of settlers upon certain lands in the States of North Dakota and South Dakota; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. DUBOIS introduced a bill (S. 2999) extending the time for the completion of the Spokane and Palouse Railway through the Nez Percé Indian Reservation in Idaho; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 76) to authorize the President to invite certain Governments to send delegates to the Pan-American Medical Congress; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. CAREY introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 77) for the relief of Maj. Henry A. Read; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. McPHERSON submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. McPHERSON. I submit an amendment intended to be proposed to the bill to place wool on the free list and to reduce the duties on woolen goods. This is an amendment placing sugar also on the free list.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be printed and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. McPHERSON. I also submit an amendment intended to be proposed to the naval appropriation bill, making an appropriation for an increase of the Navy, which I should like to have referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and be printed.

Mr. CALL submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. WARREN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

THE FINANCIAL SYSTEM.

Mr. COKE. Mr. President, I desire to give notice that to-morrow morning, after the routine business is closed, I shall ask permission to address the Senate very briefly on the silver resolutions lying on the table, introduced by the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN].

TRANSFER OF REVENUE MARINE.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. President, I desire to give notice that a week from next Thursday I shall ask the Senate to consider the bill (S. 67) to transfer the Revenue Cutter Service from the Treasury Department to the Navy Department. I shall move to proceed to the consideration of the bill after the routine morning business on that day.

Mr. ALLISON. I shall not interfere with the Senator's notice except to say that when appropriation bills are ready I hope it will be understood that they shall take precedence of all other matters.

EXCLUSION OF CHINESE.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. In compliance with the unanimous consent of the Senate made upon the last legislative day, the Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 6185) to absolutely prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The pending question is on the amendment reported to the bill by the Committee on Foreign Relations. Is the Senate ready for the question? Those in favor of the amendment will say "ay," contrary "no." [Putting the question.] The ayes seem to have it. The ayes have it, and the amendment is adopted.

Mr. PLATT. May the question be stated again?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the committee in the nature of a substitute for the House bill.

Mr. CULLOM. It is the Senate bill that is proposed as a substitute for the House bill, I understand. Is that right?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair will restate the question. An amendment is proposed by the committee in the nature of a substitute for the House bill.

Mr. CULLOM. By the Committee on Foreign Relations of this body?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Yes.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ought to say to the Senate that I understood from the general arrangement made the other evening that the vote should be taken upon this proposition, and that the amendment, if adopted, should be open to amendment.

Mr. PLATT. That is what I wanted to ask.

Mr. SHERMAN. The amendment, if adopted, is to be treated as the text of the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That was the understanding of the Chair, that in the event the committee amendment should be adopted to the House bill that amendment would still be open to amendment, and in the event that the amendment proposed by the committee should be lost the House bill would be open to amendment by the Senate.

Mr. PLATT. That was all I desired to inquire about.

Mr. HARRIS. If the amendment shall be adopted, it stands as an original proposition, so that an amendment in the second degree will be admissible.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair would so understand it.

Mr. BUTLER. I understand that the amendment has been adopted.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair did so decide, but will count it as no vote, and will again state the question. The question is on the adoption of the amendment reported by the Committee on Foreign Relations. Is the Senate ready for the question?

Mr. MITCHELL. No, sir. I took the floor on Saturday, but I consented when the bill came up to permit the Senator from Washington [Mr. SQUIRE] to go on this morning. He desires to address the Senate on this question before the vote is taken. He will be in the Senate in a moment. He has gone to get his papers.

Mr. SHERMAN. I suggest that until the Senator from Washington comes in the Calendar be called.

Mr. SQUIRE entered the Chamber.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The pending question is on the adoption of the substitute reported by the Committee on Foreign Relations, and the Senator from Washington will proceed.

Mr. SQUIRE. Mr. President, I desire to define my position as to this bill. I will first premise by referring briefly to my own convictions upon the general subject of the exclusion of the Chinese. When I first went to reside on the Pacific coast in 1879, like many another who has been educated in New York and New England, I was inclined to think there was too much prejudice against the Chinese, and perhaps persecution of them. I was inclined to take the humanitarian view and to believe that our country was so grand and so strong that it could safely withstand the friendly incursions of the people of China without danger to our civilization.

During my residence in the city of Seattle, between 1879 and 1884, I met a number of Chinese merchants who were engaged in legitimate business upon a somewhat extensive scale for the size of the place. I remember in particular the firm of Wa Chong as being one that was well thought of by the citizens of Seattle. The members of this firm owned their own real estate, and the city had let to them extensive contracts for street work which had been executed satisfactorily. I found the manager of this establishment to be an able and honorable business man; and by reason of meeting a few of this class of Chinese I had come to be very favorably disposed toward them.

I soon found, however, that there were a great many Chinese of a different order there, and on visiting the cities of Tacoma, Olympia, Portland, and San Francisco, I ascertained from personal observation that a very large portion of the Chinese on the Pacific coast are of a kind whose presence is deleterious to the best interests of society.

In the years 1884, 1885, 1886, and 1887, I happened to occupy the position of governor of the Territory of Washington, and during that time I had occasion to investigate this subject officially, by reason of the strong hostile feeling then prevailing in all those cities and places in the vicinity of Puget Sound. During a part of this time there had been an unusual depression in business in that country as a result of the great business failures of 1873.

The work upon the railroads of that country had been to a large degree suspended, and many of the laboring class were without employment. A profound feeling of dissatisfaction and unrest prevailed among the masses, and hostility against the Chinese was developed to a remarkable degree. Public meetings were held, at which heated discussions prevailed. The Chinese were attacked and driven from the mines and their habitations destroyed. In another instance they were driven from the hop yards in Squak Valley, where they had been given work; their tents were burned and several of them were killed. At another time they were driven out of Tacoma by an organized body of citizens, which the sheriff of the county and his posse could not control, and their dwellings were burned.

An attempt was also made to drive them out of the city of Seattle, where I happened to be at the time, but in consequence of the vigorous measures adopted, including the employment of the militia of the Territory and the subsequent support of United States troops, this attempt was unsuccessful. The President sent a regiment of United States troops there under Gen. Gibbon, commanding the department, and these troops remained in Seattle for several months in order to prevent further trouble. Every effort was made by me in four of the large counties to protect the Chinese, as it was my duty to do; and I have been given to understand that the Chinese Government was satisfied with the action of the United States Government in its endeavor to carry out the spirit and the letter of the treaty.

These trying events led me to understand, as I had never done before, the intense feeling of antagonism that is seated in the breasts of the great body of our laboring people in reference to the Chinese.

In my official report to the Government, dated October 1, 1886, I stated as follows:

The fact is not to be disguised that the people of the Pacific coast, with very few exceptions, possess a spirit of hostility toward the Chinese residents, and although a large proportion of our citizens entertain feelings of loyalty and patriotism toward the Government, yet in several large towns they are inclined to believe to those who engage in acts hostile to the Chinese, and this fact makes it extremely difficult to secure convictions of this class of offenders against the law.

This feeling has been greatly aggravated by the fact that notwithstanding the terms of the so-called restriction act large numbers of Chinese have continued to cross the border from British Columbia in defiance of the law, and though appeals have been made to the Government to employ sufficient force in the customs department to prevent such unlawful incursions by Chinese, it has been found that with the limited customs force at its disposal the Government is practically unable to enforce the exclusion of the Chinese under the terms of the law.

The letter of the Secretary of the Treasury (copy here inclosed), dated December 9, 1885, explicitly states that "the appropriation heretofore made by Congress for carrying out the requirements of said act is entirely exhausted, and that at present it is impracticable for the Department to take any measures other than those already taken to prevent the landing and entrance of unauthorized Chinese laborers in United States territory."

I may be permitted to urge the view which is naturally taken by American residents of the Pacific coast, that it is important to have that country settled by free American laborers, who have respect for the institutions and laws of our country, who will establish permanent homes, and who will rear their families and train their children to have proper respect for labor in even its humblest sphere.

The presence of Chinese in large numbers has heretofore been necessary, ing and were degraded, this Republic of ours, founded as a light for the people of the world, should have no obligation to perform towards elevating and improving and instructing nearly one-half of the human race?

Mr. President, let us see whether there is any necessity for this, whether there are any other methods by which the result of limiting the immigration of these people may be attained or the prohibition of them in particular States where the people are unfriendly to them and where their competition might interfere with the industry of the native people.

What is the trouble in the State of California to-day legislating to prevent the social evils which the Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL] alluded to. Is our republican system of State governments inadequate to eradicate a social evil of any kind? Can we not make laws and execute them of sufficient rigour equal to that which any other people can, to suppress vice in any form which it may assume? Here we have a national policy of prohibition, founded upon the idea that the State governments are inadequate to preserve their people from moral contamination by the suppression of vice. There is no ground for this proposition. Why is it not practicable for this Government, negotiating a treaty with China, to say that we will let Chinese in certain quantities and of certain employments come here for certain purposes of study, of education, of commerce, or of trade, limiting it as the country may need, and also so to be admitted to such States as shall not forbid their admission.

Is a treaty of that description, recognizing the authority of the States and allowing free egress to those who are permitted to come in to States which desire their admission? There is no trouble in establishing a treaty of that sort and leaving it to the legislation of the States to exclude them.

The ninth section of the first article of the Constitution provides:

The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year 1808.

That implies that Congress not exercising its authority, the States may prohibit the migration or importation of such persons as they see fit, certainly being supervised by the paramount authority of Congress, if it sees fit to require them to be admitted.

But why is it not adequate to all these purposes of prohibition of this evil upon the Pacific coast, that a treaty should be made recognizing the right and power of the States to prohibit absolutely, if they see fit to do so, by a majority of their people, in their State legislation or their constitution, the admission of these immigrants? I apprehend that the Chinese people, the Emperor of China, and the public authorities of that Empire would not object to a proposition of that kind, that the local State government being unfriendly to their admission, the treaty should provide that they should not be admitted into such a State.

Are we to be told that there are no systems of registration, of police inspection, or of the execution of the laws known to the States by which a Chinaman coming into a State can be identified, recognized, removed, and, if necessary, extradited? There is no difficulty in California or in Oregon providing a State system of legislation by the permission of the Congress of the United States in a treaty with China, by which every Chinaman who comes into either of those communities can be required not only to register, but also to keep himself in communication with the public authorities as to his residence and even his temporary place of abode. The whole subject is perfectly in the power not only in respect to the admission and the egress of these people, but also in respect of their vices and the suppression of them by the local authority of those States.

So, Mr. President, taking this bill and these declarations that our people are to have no commercial intercourse—for that is unquestionably what it is as shown conclusively in the very able and clear exposition of the House bill made by the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations—this bill declaring that there shall be no intercourse of any kind whatever between the people of the United States and the people of China, for that is the unquestionable force and effect of the bill, you can not suppose that the Chinese people, when we declare here that they shall be absolutely prohibited from coming to this country, except as diplomatic or other public officials, and provide for their arrest and punishment with a degraded punishment if they violate this law, and provide a penalty upon every person who shall bring them—there can be no question that this nation, which has existed for these thousands of years, famous in statecraft, famous for its protection of its own people, with its wisdom, the accumulation of many centuries—this people, who have been able to defy the changes which have destroyed all other races and all other peoples for hundreds of centuries—there can be no question that these people would retaliate by making a similar declaration and no payment of one hundred millions or two hundred millions of dollars to this immensely rich country would be of avail to prevent their Government from excluding Americans precisely as the Chinese are to be excluded from our domain.

What is to be the effect of this policy upon the great cotton-producing interests of this country? Cotton is already at such a price that it brings no remuneration to the producer, and a vast portion of the people of this country are absolutely dependent upon it for all the comforts of life. What is to be the effect of this policy of saying that one-half the human race shall be excluded from the privilege of dealing with our people and obtaining the fabrics which are produced from our cotton, whether here or in England or elsewhere? What is to be the effect upon this interest of this prohibitory, this exclusive policy, which this bill provides? Why, Mr. President, in an economical point of view alone, looking to this single production of the Southern States, I should say that this bill ought not to be passed, but ought to meet with the condemnation of the whole country.

How about the production of wheat? China is a great grain-producing region, but with its vast overgrowing population there have been periods of time and are now in India and China in which the supplies of wheat from this country will readily find a market. Are we to deny to our wheat-growers the possibility of a market there?

Upon all these considerations it seems to me that the mere statement that because these people who come here possess certain vices, because they are transitory and return to China, carrying with them the avails of their labor, but leaving behind them great works of industry and permanent improvement—that because of their competing successfully and more cheaply with American labor we shall exclude them from the whole country, is a consequence that has no promise to sustain it.

Why not admit them to those parts of the country where their labor may be useful? Why declare this policy since we have here in our midst a vast portion of another population which we have civilized, more diverse from the Anglo-Saxon than are this people and yet pursuing the paths of peaceful industry and progressing in civilization? Why not say the powerful influences of our republican system, our educational system, our religious system, are adequate, with proper police and municipal regulations, to deal with this evil? Why not prohibit the Chinese from exercising the elective franchise? Why not, if necessary, deny by law their right to become citizens? Why not leave to the States the economies which shall prescribe such prices for labor, either in their great trade organizations or otherwise, that these people may be required to conform to, instead of declaring the impossible doctrine that there shall be absolute nonintercourse, commercial, educational, scientific, mechanical, and of any and every kind, between them and us?

The writer of this book, Mr. Whitney, advocates strongly absolute exclusion upon the theory that the greater power of this vast multitude of people, as suggested by the Senator from Oregon who spoke this morning, will so increase with the knowledge of the arts of offense and defense which this age is developing, that they will be dangerous to the future safety and independence of the people of this country. But suppose that to be so, how will the policy of isolation and exclusion contribute in any degree to the diminution of that power? Suppose it to be true that this people with their vast numbers will increase and grow and become skilled in the use of arms, of naval architecture, and of naval warfare until they can transport to this country or elsewhere an indefinite and sufficient number of people to overpower us, how will the policy of exclusion protect us from that result?

So it must be by the power of intercourse, by impressing upon them our superior powers, by measuring strength with them, and if there is to be, as I have no idea and we can see nothing to warrant it if there is an irrepressible conflict between the Chinese power and ourselves, let us prepare to meet it by a knowledge of it. But I have no fears. The military power of this Anglo-Saxon race and the religious power of our civilization and our Christianity need have no fear from these Mongolian people with their vast antiquity and in their vast numbers, inhabiting, as they do, the most fertile and prolific region of the world. I have no apprehension of that result.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair calls the attention of the Senator from Florida and the Senate to the unanimous agreement made by the Senate on the last legislative day that debate should cease upon the bill at 1 o'clock to-day and the vote be taken upon the pending question.

Mr. CALL. I have no desire to continue the discussion further.

Mr. TELLER. I rise to make an inquiry as to the bill. I did not fully hear the arrangement made. I wish to inquire, if the House bill is adopted instead of the Senate amendment, will it be open to amendment?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That is the understanding of the Chair. The pending question is on the amendment proposed by the Committee on Foreign Relations. If that amendment shall prevail by adoption, then it will be open to amendment as the text of the bill. If it should be defeated, then the bill as it came from the other House will be open to amendment. The question is on the adoption of the amendment reported by the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. FELTON. On that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CASEY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Florida [Mr. PASCO].

Mr. DAVIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TURPIE], and therefore withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. I do not know how he would vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], but he has sent me word that he is in favor of the amendment, and I vote "yea."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (when Mr. MANDERSON'S name was called). The occupant of the chair is paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN]. The Chair understands that if that Senator were present he would vote "yea," and therefore the occupant of the chair votes "yea."

Mr. MILLS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER].

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). My colleague [Mr. HAWLEY] is absent and is paired with the Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL], but upon this question I think my colleague would vote, if present, as the Senator from Missouri voted, that is, in favor of the report of the committee. I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. BARBOUR], but I am at liberty to vote upon this question. I vote "yea."

Mr. COCKRELL. In this connection I desire to say that the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY] before leaving the Chamber told me that he would vote with the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] upon this matter, and as I supposed the Senator from Ohio would vote for the committee's substitute, I voted.

Mr. PUGH (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the junior Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR]. On this amendment, however, he would vote "yea." That is my vote. I vote "yea."

Mr. WOLCOTT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. KENNA]. If he were present I should vote "nay," and I think he would vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. PERKINS. I was told that I was paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TURPIE], but the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS] informs me that he is paired with him, and hence I vote "yea," unless I am advised that I have another pair. I am quite willing to obey orders.

Mr. DOLPH. I announce my pair with the senior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE].

The result was announced—yeas 43, nays 14; as follows:

YEAS—43.

Allison.	Cullom.	McMillan.	Pugh.

So the amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment becomes the text of the bill. The text of the bill is open to amendment, and under the unanimous agreement of the Senate amendments are to be considered under the five-minute rule.

Mr. PLATT. I offer the amendment of which I gave notice some time since.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 1, line 5, after the word "descend," it is proposed to insert:

Excepting only the act approved October 1, 1888, entitled "An act supplement to an act entitled 'An act to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to Chinese,' approved the 6th day of May, 1882."

So as to read:

That all laws now in force prohibiting and regulating the coming into this country of Chinese persons and persons of Chinese descent, excepting only the act approved October 1, 1888, entitled "An act to supplement to an act entitled 'An act to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to Chinese,' approved the 6th day of May, 1882," are hereby continued in force for a period of ten years from the passage of this act.

Mr. PLATT. Mr. President, the effect of this amendment, if adopted, would be to exclude from the provision which extends the present laws relating to the coming of Chinese persons for ten years the Scott act, so called. It would extend for ten years all other laws relating to the coming of Chinese. It would not extend the provisions of the Scott act.

Mr. DAWES. I should like to inquire of the Senator what effect it would have on the Scott act. Is not that an act without limitation?

Mr. PLATT. That is a conundrum which I can not answer in five minutes. If the Scott act is limited to the time mentioned in the other laws, this would prevent its extension. If it is not limited in its operation, this would have no effect upon it. As to that legal question I am not able at this time to speak.

But I can not vote for the bill without this amendment. We are told that the passage of that act was a violation of the treaty of 1880. It is agreed on all sides that it was a violation of that treaty. It has been remonstrated against by the Chinese Government, and we are told in a dispatch which has been read here that they have addressed repeated notes to the State Department claiming that it was a violation of the treaty, none of which have received any notice by the State Department. Under those circumstances I can not again vote by an extension of that act to abrogate the treaty or vote for a bill which is in conflict with it. I know that I voted for it before. I voted for it under protest. As all Senators know, it was voted for under somewhat peculiar circumstances. It has been thrown in the face of everybody who voted for it and who is to-day opposed to the House bill that we violated or abrogated the treaty of 1880; that we propose to do it again by this bill, and that we should not stickle very much about going further and violating the treaty more. I do not propose hereafter to be charged with violating the treaty by voting for the bill as it is since the adoption of the amendment.

Mr. CHANDLER. Mr. President—

Mr. PLATT. I have only five minutes, and I want to say this in that time: I do not believe it is necessary to extend the Scott law. I believe the laws of 1882 and 1884 are amply sufficient to protect this country against the coming of Chinese laborers into it. I believe, and I think there is no question about it, that since the law of 1882 went into operation the number of Chinese laborers in this country has diminished by at least 35,000 or 40,000. There were in 1880, in round numbers, 105,000 Chinese laborers in this country. There came into this country, according to the immigration records, in the year ending June 30, 1881, 11,890; in 1882, 39,579; in the year ending June 30, 1883, 8,031. That is about 60,000. So it is safe to assume that by the time those laws took effect there were 160,000 Chinese laborers in the country. The present census, not entirely complete and not entirely accurate, but accurate enough for all purposes, however, shows that there are now in the country about 110,000. There are at the outside figures from 35,000 to 40,000 less Chinese laborers in the country now than there were when that act was passed. It is a diminishing evil, and it is not necessary to violate treaties, and if we have done it, to violate them over again, to diminish and finally remove and eradicate this evil.

I am willing to do what we can do, keeping faith, for after all that has been said here I do hold that there is some obligation on the Government to keep faith with a nation with whom it makes a treaty and a contract. I do believe that keeping faith with China, extending these laws for another ten years, we shall have practically eradicated the evil, if it be one, and I agree that it is one, resulting from this undesirable class of immigration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The time of the Senator has expired.

Mr. CHANDLER. Mr. President, I think logically the advocates of the Senate committee's amendment ought to vote for the amendment of the Senator from Connecticut. Certainly the adoption of that amendment will have a beneficial effect upon our relations with China. Perhaps I ought to vote for it, because we have the assurance of China that if we will do that my late colleague will be willingly received as minister to that Empire. Senators will realize what they are voting in the face of if they adopt the amendment of the Senator from Connecticut.

The minister says that the passing of that law while the treaty was being considered has had a very bad effect in China. If the President or the Secretary of State could do anything to repeal that law and to put in force again the treaties, the situation in China would be much changed; and then it would not make much difference what Mr. Blair has said and he would be well received if the President asked for it. But Mr. Wharton—

There is another point to which I call the attention of the Senate, and before we finally vote here we ought to have some light on the subject. Perhaps the Senator from Connecticut may give us some light on this subject.

But Mr. Wharton must know that the last Chinese minister had written to Mr. Bayard and afterwards to Mr. Blaine long notes, and that he had also written Mr. Blaine notes complaining of the passing of that law, showing by great American public men that—

That is the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] and the late Senator from New York, Mr. Evans—

It was against the treaties and in violation of all the conduct of the United States to all other governments, and that its passage had done great harm and loss to many thousands of poor Chinese; and Mr. Wharton must know that the United States Government has not made any answer to these complaints.

Mr. President, we are legislating here entirely in the dark on this subject. We are taking up a work that, if we repeal the Scott law and mend the broken treaty and again go back to those treaties, we are doing entirely in the dark. As to what the reasons were why there have been no answers made to the many complaints of the Chinese Government against the passage of the Scott law, about the only thing we do know is that notwithstanding they have refused to receive Mr. Blair on account of words spoken in debate in the Senate, if we will only do this thing, no matter what he may have said, they will take him as minister if the President continues to desire it. I have no knowledge on the last point.

Mr. STEWART. Mr. President, I hope the amendment will not be adopted. The old law led to a great deal of fraud and scandal, to habeas corpus proceedings, and litigation, and fraudulent certificates, and it was impracticable in its operations. A great many Chinese came in under it. It was a very defective arrangement. There are many leaks in the present law, but nothing like as many as existed under the other acts. They led to innumerable scandals. It was impossible to execute them with anything like decency. The Chinese had learned so many ways of evading them by fraudulent contrivances that it became a public scandal involving nearly half of the community. The laws were exceedingly loose, without safeguards; and it would be a very dangerous step to repeal the Scott law and revive those ancient and defective statutes.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. President, I feel a good deal of hesitation in regard to this amendment. I believe the Scott law was one of the most vicious laws that have been passed in my time in Congress. I believe now and I believed then it was a mere political race between the two Houses, then opposed to each other in politics, in the face of a Presidential election. I say it was a mere political race between two political parties to try and influence the vote of the Pacific coast in the last Presidential election. When the bill came here it had passed the other House nem. con. on the day it was introduced. It came to the Senate and it was not referred to any committee. A proposition to postpone it for a few days to ascertain whether the Chinese embassy would not agree to the provisions of it as a part of the treaty was voted down by almost a tie vote; I believe there was one majority against the motion; and the bill was finally passed.

I believe the passage of that law prevented the negotiation of a treaty which would have accomplished the object. The whole sum and substance and the only provision in the Scott law that had any weight or effect was the declaration that when Chinamen went to China and attempted to return they should not be again admitted into our country. That I believe was the only provision, was it not?

Mr. MITCHELL. Chinese laborers.

Mr. SHERMAN. That laborers who had been here and went over from our country to China and remained there awhile should not return.

Mr. PLATT. And it canceled the certificates.

Mr. MITCHELL. It canceled the certificates. That was the most important feature.

Mr. SHERMAN. I believe from the light of history and from what I learn from the debates that if that bill had not been passed within two weeks after the time it did pass a treaty would have been made by the Chinese Government agreeing that when a Chinaman should return to China he should not have the privilege of coming back to America if he was a Chinese laborer. No one then proposed to interfere with the right of merchants to go and come.

Now, if this amendment should be adopted I think the bill would stand with the amendment in it on stronger grounds than it would without it; but I do not myself care to vote to change the existing law. My inclination now is to vote against the amendment and leave the law as it stands. We have got to be consistent somewhat when we attempt to carry out our laws. The object of the bill, as reported by our committee, is simply to continue the existing status for ten years longer, leaving open, however, all the time to the Executive authority the right to make treaties and to Congress the right to pass laws without limit. We simply provide for a bridge to go over the chasm as it exists. If we propose to remedy the existing things before now, to change the laws that exist, we may be embarrassed by it.

So I think it would be an act of wisdom to just let the law of 1888 and all the laws on the Chinese question stand as they are until Congress, with more deliberation than it can now have, may take up the subject and either take away some of the stringent provisions of existing law or modify them in some way, or negotiate a new treaty. But now we are under the present spur of the moment, and we have to pass this bill in some form to continue existing laws in order to prevent the income of a great mass of population which all of us agree ought not to come.

That is my position, although it may be not entirely consistent with my course, because I have been opposed to the Scott law all along, especially when it was introduced at a time when we might have made a treaty. Under the circumstances I am not disposed to embarrass our friends on the Pacific coast by any change of existing law, but would simply continue the laws as they stand, good, bad, and indifferent, until Congress may at its proper leisure take up the subject calmly and consider it deliberately.

Mr. FELTON. Mr. President, I have no desire to discuss this amendment, but I do desire to correct what I deem to be a false impression from the remarks of the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT]. I undertake to say that the census is in no wise a correct enumeration of the Chinese population within the United States. For instance, in the city of San Francisco alone it is well understood by the police at their headquarters that there are between 35,000 and 36,000 Chinese within the city, while the census gives less than 25,000. We in the West who are conversant with these people and their way of doing things know of their evasions of laws before, and we know that it is not in accordance with their theories, their aims, their ambitions, and their interests to give a proper enumeration of them. Whenever they can evade it, I desire to assure the Senate they will do it, and have done it.

Mr. DOLPH. Mr. President, I hope this amendment will not prevail. The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations concluded after a fair deliberation to report a bill extending all existing laws, including the Scott law. Whatever changes that law made in the treaty have been acquiesced in virtually by China. Our diplomatic and other relations have continued substantially unimpaired. The most important objection to the Scott law was the fact that it cancelled the certificates of Chinese laborers who were out of the country holding certificates entitling them to return. Undoubtedly most of the Chinamen whose certificates were cancelled have entered into other employment, and probably not many of them would desire to return again to the United States. But to repeal the Scott law would change the existing status and allow Chinese laborers to go abroad with certificates entitling them to return and open the door again to the admission of any number of Chinese laborers.

Mr. GRAY. I should like to ask the Senator from Oregon before he takes his seat whether the law as it existed prior to the enactment of what is called the Scott law was confined, in its permission to Chinese laborers to go abroad and come back again, to those who were in the country at the date of the treaty, that is, November, 1880?

Mr. DOLPH. I am not prepared now without an examination of the treaty to state.

Mr. GRAY. That is true, I think.

Mr. DOLPH. I do not know whether it extended to Chinese laborers who came in afterwards or applied only to those who were here at the date of the treaty, but if the Senator is correct that will only make the argument made by me all the stronger.

Mr. GRAY. So that the Scott law in effect merely took away from all laborers, whether they were here at the time of the treaty or subsequently came, the right to go and return.

Mr. DOLPH. It took away the right to return from those already abroad. The worst feature of it, if I may be allowed to use the expression, the most objectionable feature to anyone who opposed the law would be the fact that it cancelled outstanding certificates and prevented the return of those who had been once here and gone back with the understanding that under the treaty and existing laws they could return and had certificates entitling them to return.

Mr. GRAY. That is the fact.

Mr. DOLPH. But we could not make any adequate restitution by the repeal of the Scott law, and I do not think it advisable to disturb existing laws.

Mr. GRAY. That may be, but a repeal of the Scott law would do only in that view being about this state of things, that no Chinese laborer who is here now could go back to China and return unless he had been here in November, 1880.

Mr. DOLPH. That is possibly true.

Mr. GRAY. And that would confine the right of going and returning to, I suppose, a very small class of Chinese laborers.

Mr. STEWART. That is, if the law could be executed.

Mr. GRAY. If the law could be executed.

Mr. STEWART. You can not pick them out.

Mr. GRAY. That is another phase of it.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. President, I shall vote with the committee against this proposed amendment, although in my view of the state of the law and of the proposed legislation it does not make very much difference whether the amendment is adopted or not. My impression is that even if the amendment were adopted the Scott law would stand all the same forever, until it was repealed. I do not think the amendment as proposed by the Senator from Connecticut would operate as a repeal of what is known as the Scott law.

The Scott law, as I understand it, is an independent act, although it says something in the title about being supplementary. At the same time I do not think the Scott exclusion act expires with the acts of 1882 and 1884. I think they might expire and the Scott exclusion act would remain and continue on. There may be a question, however, in that view of the case as to whether the amendment proposed by the committee would not operate as a limitation upon the existence of the Scott act, making what is a perpetual act as it stands now an act that would only be vital for ten years. But taking it altogether, I shall risk the position of the committee and vote against the amendment of the Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. DOLPH. I will state to my colleague if he has any fears that the Scott law was a continuing act it would limit it to insert after the words "descent" the words "shall expire by their own limitation," and confine this extension to those acts which expire by their own limitation.

Mr. MITCHELL. That would do very well, but that would still leave open the question, if it should turn out that I am wrong in my opinion that the Scott law is permanent.

Mr. DOLPH. This would extend the Scott law, because it would expire then by its own limitation or by being limited by reference to another act.

Mr. MITCHELL. I think it is in pretty good shape the way the committee has fixed, if we simply intend to extend the existing law.

Mr. DOLPH. I am inclined to think myself that the Scott law falls with the other, being built upon it as a supplementary act.

Mr. SHERMAN. I should like to have the Scott law read if the Senator has it.

Mr. MITCHELL. I have it here. It is short.

Mr. SHERMAN. Let it be read at the desk.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The law of 1888 will be read. The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That from and after the passage of this act it shall be lawful for any Chinese laborer who shall at any time heretofore have been or who may now or hereafter be a resident within the United States, and who shall have departed or shall depart therefrom and shall not have returned before the passage of this act, to return to, or remain in the United States.

Sec. 2. That no certificates of identity provided for in the fourth and fifth sections of the act to which this is a supplement shall hereafter be issued; and every certificate heretofore issued in pursuance thereof is hereby declared void and of no effect, and the Chinese laborer claiming admission by virtue thereof shall not be permitted to enter the United States.

Sec. 3. That all the duties prescribed, liabilities, penalties, and forfeitures imposed, and the powers conferred by the second, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth sections of the act to which this is a supplement are hereby extended and made applicable to the provisions of this act.

Sec. 4. That all such part or parts of the act to which this is a supplement as are inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Approved, October 1, 1888.

Mr. DAWES. Mr. President, I shall vote for this amendment without regard to the effect it may have upon what is called the Scott law, for the reason that the Scott law was passed under circumstances very peculiar and which I have not heard lately any man approve. It was passed by both Houses of Congress almost in a single day. It passed the other House without being referred to a committee upon the day it was introduced there. It was passed very soon afterwards by the Senate, without reference to any committee.

Mr. SHERMAN. Within three days.

Mr. DAWES. It was enacted in the face of a treaty in which we had covenanted that those Chinese who had already come to this country under the encouragement of the treaty stipulations might go and come and remain as citizens of the United States are permitted to go and come and remain. Instantly, without a single hour's warning, every one of those Chinamen who had gone abroad under this stipulation had the gates shut down between him and this country and all they had here that would induce them to remain here or come here for any purpose, except a few. A man might come if he had a wife and a child, and there were one or two other such exceptions; but without the slightest warning to all others who went on the faith of a treaty abroad that stipulated they might return we passed that law that they should never come back to this country. We passed it under such circumstances which could never, it appears to me, meet the approval of Congress again.

The question comes up here to-day under calmer times and when reason seems for this time and on this subject to have some sway, and yet we are asked to-day to approve of that proceeding. Four years after it has passed Congress, looking back upon it, Senators have been free to say that their participation in it they regret exceedingly, and yet we are asked to reaffirm what we did then. We see now that if we had not done it the way would have been clear for a reasonable and stringent, if you may say, law sufficient, and a treaty stipulation sufficient to exclude all such Chinamen whose presence would be injurious here.

I am ready to go as far as anyone in the enactment in accordance with treaty stipulations of any law that shall exclude any Chinaman or anyone of any other nation whose presence here is injurious to our society or our institutions. I am ready to cooperate in an effort to make treaty stipulations with China or any other nation; but I am not ready now, looking back for four years and recollecting the circumstances under which that law was passed, to reaffirm, as the bill in its present shape does, all that was done then, and stamp it with the approval of to-day.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, I voted for the Scott law and I shall vote for it again. I do not choose to be put in the role of those who are in a penitential mood over that transaction. I voted for it, as I have voted for all laws which I believed would prevent a Mongolian inundation on the Pacific Slope or any other portion of this country. I voted for it as I am willing to vote for any law that will prevent so great a calamity to this country.

The Chinese are subgenus emphatically. They do not belong to the general category of immigrants into this country. They do not assimilate with the American people. To use a better word, they do not homologate with our people at all. They are political parasites. They do not come here for the purpose of assisting in working out the great problem of American republican government upon this continent.

My conscience has never been lacerated and torn by any legislation doing away with the treaty when self-preservation demanded that we should take immediate action to protect our own people. The Supreme Court of the United States has time and again decided that Congress had the right by an act of both Houses, approved by the President, to do away with any treaty. While I hold this opinion, I am convinced that the Scott law has worked well and there is now no imminent and overwhelming danger of an inundation of Asiatics upon the Pacific Slope of this country.

I have voted to sustain the report of the Committee on Foreign Relations exactly as I would vote anywhere else as a legislator when the principal argument against an existing law was that it had not been enforced. What would be thought of the legislator who had assisted in passing a law for punishment by imprisonment in the penitentiary for ten years when he was told that that penalty ought to be changed into a death penalty because the ten years in the penitentiary could not be enforced? If the Scott law is not strictly enforced it is the fault of administration. The law, if enforced, is ample and if it is enforced partially, as it has been, there has been no tremendous increase of Asiatics upon the Pacific Slope, as has been alleged here in this debate.

But more than that, Mr. President, if the words of the late minister to China, John Russell Young, just published in the North American Review, are true, then we should go no further in this direction than is absolutely necessary for the protection of our own people. I have supported the Committee on Foreign Relations because I believed that we had already a remedy sufficient in existing law to prevent this great evil of which I have spoken, and I did not think it proper to go farther and needlessly and ruthlessly to end the Chinese Government when it did not become necessary for the protection of our own people. As a matter of justice, however, if Mr. Young is a credible witness, the Chinese Government is not to blame for any amount of immigration to the soil of the United States of their people. He says:

The Chinese are blamed for what is our own fault. We denounce the Chinese Government for the immigration of Chinese and overlook the fact that this immigration is from an English port and under the English flag, and that China has no more control over it than over the immigration of Irishmen from Londonderry.

If that assertion be true, coming from our late minister to China, we should be careful not to insult or outrage the sentiment of the people of China or the Government of China on behalf's breadth further than is absolutely necessary to exercise the right of self-preservation for our own people.

I am willing, if I believed it was necessary, to go as far as any Senator from the Pacific Slope to protect the people of this country from this inundation of Chinese. In the southern States we have seen the ruinous effect of taking a people unprepared for citizenship who knew nothing about making laws and suddenly lifting them into the sphere of determining the destiny of the people of the United States. We have seen there the ruinous effect of such experiments, and with the humble negro, who assimilates himself with us in our institutions, who is essentially imitative in everything, to go further and take a people who can never become Americans, who can never be anything else but political parasites, and to enable them to flood this country to such an extent as either in labor or society or political affairs to exercise any material influence shall never come about by any vote of mine.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, I shall vote for the amendment proposed by the Senator from Connecticut. These general terms are very eloquent, but shall we adopt a rule that nobody shall come to the United States who does not homologate with our people, as the Senator from Missouri says? How many hundreds of thousands of people are there who come here who have no sympathy with free institutions? How can you apply these doctrines? If it be said that the Chinese are incapable of improvement, upon what data does the Senator from Missouri found that proposition? They are among the most civilized people of the country, from whom we have derived, as I have shown, many of our most valuable discoveries and inventions.

Mr. President, let us have something practical. There is no trouble in any State excluding every Chinaman. There is no trouble in having a treaty made that will enable them to do it. There is no reasonable danger of any overflow in this country by the Mongolians. But if there were a million of them here the people of this country are capable of holding them in subjection and of keeping them from containing any control or domination. We are capable of establishing systems of labor that will prevent them from competing injuriously with our country. There is no trouble in keeping the Chinese out of this country or out of any State without resorting to these harsh and unreasonable provisions.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. President, in some observations which I made Saturday upon a condition of affairs found by a joint committee of the two Houses of Congress to exist in San Francisco, I took occasion to condemn that condition of affairs as being unworthy of any judicial tribunal. I did express the opinion that it did not continue. It was said that complaints being made by Chinese persons that they were unlawfully detained, writs of habeas corpus were issued by the courts, and when upon an inquiry as to whether they were lawfully or unlawfully detained, it was adjudged that they were lawfully in custody, not 5 per cent of them could be found to be returned to the custody from which they were taken by the writ. I expressed a belief that that condition of things did not continue, and I rose simply to say that I am reliably informed from San Francisco by parties in a situation to know that no such condition of affairs to-day exists. The courts in that city refuse to accept Chinese bail, for they have found it to be worthless, and as a result of enforcing the law in that spirit the number of habeas corpus cases has diminished from 7,000 in the year 1888 to 2 within the last six months.

Mr. DOLPH. Two cases or 2,000 cases?

Mr. SANDERS. Two cases.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. PLATT. On that let us have the yeas and nays.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, if this were a question of the exclusion of immigrants in the ordinary sense of the term, men who come to the United States with their wives and children and assume the responsibility which belongs to civilized manhood, I should hesitate. But I understand from all I have heard that this is an invasion of Chinese men, who come into the country for their own temporary purposes, and in the nature of things they do not assume the ordinary burdens and responsibilities of manhood, and they can much more easily elude a law passed for their exclusion.

I see no reason why we should not exclude the Chinese men who come into this country and assume none of the duties not of citizenship alone, but none of the duties of manhood, who do not intend to remain, but who come to earn what they may rightfully earn and then return to their own country. I see no difficulty in excluding them; and when we keep within the limits of legal justice and charity I am in favor of the most rigorous laws. The distinction is a very wide one between immigration and the mere migration of these herds of laborers.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. President, I have never found any difficulty in gaining my own consent to vote for any measure of exclusion of the Chinese that seemed to be necessary by the condition of things on the Pacific coast where they most abound. I do not believe that it accords with the best interests of that people or any other people to introduce an alien race among them, nor a labor element that will come in competition with the American laborer who performs work on such different principles and surrounded by essentially different conditions.

I therefore have voted, as the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] said he has voted, for every measure of Chinese exclusion that has come before the Senate since I have been a member of it. But I shall vote for the Senate substitute and against the House bill because I do not believe that any exigency which would warrant the harshness of the provisions of the House bill exists on the Pacific coast. There has been no evidence produced either in the Senate or before the committees to which the bill has been referred—certainly none before the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate—to show that any condition exists on the Pacific coast which demands the enactment of a stronger measure of exclusion than we already have.

I did not understand the junior Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL] to cite any evidence to the effect that the present laws of exclusion do not operate to substantially prevent any ingress of Chinese within our borders. The condition of things which he cited from a newspaper as existing in San Francisco is deplorable enough, but it exists by reason of the presence of Chinese who are already there, and I do not understand that he even said that that was increased by the importation of Chinese at the present time or that the present laws do not sufficiently exclude them.

But I can not vote, although I thought at first I might be able to do it, for the amendment of the Senator from Connecticut, because I can see that there are difficulties of administration in regard to the law existing prior to the law of 1888 which might create a grievance of which the people on the Pacific coast would have a right to complain. I shall feel compelled to vote against that amendment and by my vote seek to establish and continue the present condition of statute law in that regard.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT] demands the yeas and nays on agreeing to the amendment submitted by him.

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COLQUITT (when Mr. BUTLER's name was called). The Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] is paired with the senior Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. I am authorized to state that if the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] were present and unpaired he would vote in the affirmative upon this question.

Mr. CASEY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Florida [Mr. PASCO]. As I do not know how he would vote, I withhold my vote.

Mr. DAVIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TURPIE]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. When Mr. MANDERSON's name was called. The occupant of the Chair is paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. MILLS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER].

Mr. POWER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. McMILLAN (when Mr. STOCKBRIDGE's name was called). My colleague [Mr. STOCKBRIDGE] is paired with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON].

Mr. BERRY (when Mr. TELLER's name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER]. He was compelled to be absent this evening, and stated that he would vote "nay," and I voted "nay." The Senator from Colorado would vote "nay" if he were present.

The roll-call was concluded.

Mr. COCKRELL. I am paired with the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY]. I do not know how he would vote, whether for or against the amendment, and therefore I withhold my vote.

Mr. CALL. My colleague [Mr. PASCO] is paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. I do not know how my colleague would vote. I desire to state that he is detained at home by important business.

Mr. DOLPH. I will announce my pair with the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE].

The result was announced—yeas 8, nays 45; as follows:

YEAS—8
Bate	Call	Dixon	Platt
Blodgett	Dawes	Frye	Paugh

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. CHANDLER. In section 4, line 2, I move to strike out the word "once;" in line 3, after the words "United States," to insert "shall be imprisoned at hard labor for a period of not exceeding six months, and thereafter removed from the United States as heretofore provided, and any such Chinese person or person of Chinese descent having been once so convicted," and, in line 7, to strike out "six months" and insert "one year."

Mr. BUTLER. How will the clause then read?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The section will be read as proposed to be amended.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to amend the section so as to read:

That any such Chinese person or person of Chinese descent convicted and adjudged to be not lawfully entitled to be or remain in the United States shall be imprisoned at hard labor for a period of not exceeding six months and thereafter removed from the United States as heretofore provided, and any such Chinese person or person of Chinese descent having been once so convicted and having been once so removed from the United States in pursuance of such conviction, who shall be subsequently convicted for a like offense, shall be imprisoned at hard labor for a period of not exceeding one year, and thereafter removed from the United States as heretofore provided.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendments to the section proposed by the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER], which question will be taken in gross unless there be objection.

Mr. PLATT. I should like to ask the Senator from New Hampshire if he thinks that a Chinese laborer having once come to the United States and having been convicted here for being here, and imprisoned six months at hard labor, would be likely to come back again after he had been removed from the United States?

Mr. CHANDLER. The Senate committee seemed to think that a second coming was possible. Senators will notice that the original House bill, section 7, provides that any Chinese person coming here contrary to law "shall be imprisoned in a penitentiary for a term of not exceeding five years, and at the expiration of such term of imprisonment be removed from the United States to the country whence he came." The Senate provision is only for imprisoning a Chinaman unlawfully coming here on a second conviction. It has been already developed in this debate that the deportation of Chinamen who come here unlawfully, without imprisoning them, does not deter them from coming.

Now, this is merely a question of adequate penalty. We pass this proposed law. We exclude these Chinamen, and they know they have no right to come here. If they come here there ought to be an adequate penalty to punish them for coming. The penalty of deportation is not sufficient, for our experience has shown that they come here just the same. If they come across the border and are sent back across the border they come again.

The universal judgment, I think, of Senators from the Pacific coast and others who are familiar with this subject and desire a rigid and stringent enforcement of the existing law is that there should be a penalty of imprisonment upon the first conviction of a Chinaman for coming here contrary to law. I do not ask that there shall be a five years' imprisonment, but I submit that if the law is to be effectually enforced there should be some imprisonment, no matter how short, for coming here contrary to law.

Mr. FELTON. I hope we shall have a vote upon the pending question, because I desire to offer an amendment which I think is important. The time is getting late, and I desire to have it acted upon to-night.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER].

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. FELTON. I offer the amendment which I send to the desk.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to insert after line 6, at the end of the first section:

And that it shall be the duty of all Chinese persons, except diplomatic and other officers and their body and household servants, within the limits of the United States at the time of the passage of this act to apply for and obtain from the collectors of internal revenue in their respective districts, within one year after the passage of this act, certificates of residence; and any such Chinese person within the limits of the United States who shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, or who, within one year after the passage hereof, shall be found without such certificate of residence, shall be adjudged by the court, before whom he may be brought as being unlawfully within the limits of the United States, and shall be subject to the same fines and penalties as if he had unlawfully come into the United States in the first instance as in this act provided.

That immediately after the passage of this act the Secretary of the Treasury shall make rules and regulations and prescribe the necessary forms to enable the Treasury Department to issue the certificates required hereby. Such certificates may be issued by the collector or deputy collector of internal revenue nearest the place where such Chinese resides. The certificate shall contain a true photographic copy of the applicant, together with his name, age, local residence, and occupation, and a duplicate of the same shall be retained in the office of said collector of internal revenue. That in the case of the loss or destruction, proven to be without the fault of any Chinese, of his certificate of residence issued to him, a duplicate may be issued to him under rules and regulations which may be prescribed by said Secretary of the Treasury.

That the Secretary of the Treasury may appoint additional deputy collectors for the purpose of enforcing this section, and the sum of $100,000 is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated to carry out the provisions of this section. And it shall be the duty of all Chinese persons, except diplomatic and consular officers, entitled to come and remain in the United States, upon entering the United States, to apply for and obtain from the collector of customs of the port at which they enter like certificates, showing their right to remain in the United States; and immediately after the passage of this act the Secretary of the Treasury shall make the necessary rules and regulations to enable collectors of customs to issue such certificates.

Mr. DOLPH. I wish to say to the Senator from California that in hearing the amendment read, I think he has made a mistake in providing that if the Chinaman be found here within one year after the passage of the act without the certificate, he shall be arrested. I think what the Senator intended to say is, that if he be found after the expiration of one year he shall be arrested.

Mr. FELTON. That was my intention.

Mr. DOLPH. I ask that the amendment be so modified.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The modification will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In the ninth line strike out the word "within" and insert the words "at the expiration of," so as to read:

And any such Chinese person within the limits of the United States who shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, or who, at the expiration of one year after the passage hereof, etc.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from California as modified.

Mr. FELTON. Mr. President, I have offered the amendment for the purpose, as I believe, of making the present law, the Scott law, operative wherein it is now inoperative. There is no provision in that law which at all prevents the incoming of Chinese across our frontier. They come to the countries adjoining us, pass over the border, and the instant that they are here it is very difficult, almost impossible, to distinguish one from another. If this amendment should pass the result would be that within the time prescribed all Chinamen entitled to remain in this country would have a certificate or a passport practically showing that fact. If one were found without it that one might be distinguished and suffer the penalties of the law.

I think this would be no hardship upon these people. Our own people are required to register for other purposes. There is no imputation upon these people, nothing against their rights, so long as they are here, as I see it, and if they are simply honest it will prevent collusion between them and the others coming in. I am unable to see that it is a violation of the present law or of any treaty obligation in relation to the matter. The facts remain that the borders are utterly without any law to prevent the incoming of these people. The treaty provides that the laborers are not entitled to come in any more. I should like very much to see the amendment passed.

In this connection I desire to say that the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK], able and distinguished as he is, has, in my opinion, an entirely wrong view in regard to the present law being sufficient for this purpose. The Senator is of the opinion that we of the Pacific coast by enforcing the law would be enabled to exclude all Chinese who were not entitled to remain in the country. In order to do this we would select, for instance, some one person and we would arraign him, believing that he was not entitled to be here. He would immediately swear that he was entitled, that he had been here ten years, and he could get any quantity of his countrymen to indorse that proposition.

What gentleman upon this coast can not understand is the fact that the Chinese have no morals, no regard whatever for the sanctity of an oath. With them the end justifies the means, and the end is to come in here and possess themselves of what we have and return to their own country with it, and let another herd come and take their place.

Mr. HISCOCK. Mr. President, I regret extremely if under this bill, in the event of its passage, California should find itself unable to have it executed; but is there danger of that? As I understand, section 13 of the law will be in force, and it provides:

That any Chinese person, or person of Chinese descent, found unlawfully in the United States, or its Territories, may be arrested upon a warrant issued upon a complaint, under oath, filed by any party on behalf of the United States, by any justice, judge, or commissioner of any United States court.

He has a summary trial there.

Mr. FELTON. How are you going to identify him?

Mr. HISCOCK. He has to identify himself. I answer the Senator, and I have but five minutes, that he is compelled to identify himself. He is compelled to prove that twelve years ago, when the treaty of 1880 was negotiated, he was here; that he came in here lawfully; that he had a right to be here, and that he has not been home and returned since.

If these people have reached that stage of morals that you have described—and I do not doubt it, I am not questioning it—I see it is advertised, and they are exhibited in the California papers which are read here, as an attraction, I suppose, to visit the city of San Francisco, and I have been told that they are under police espionage, and strangers are conducted through these dives and places to see them as the greatest living curiosities there, rather than to be punished for violation of the law. I do not undertake to say that these things are true, but if they are in that state of degradation that you have described, what one of your justices, what one of your judges, what one of your officers there will believe them? They will require to have something besides Chinese evidence to establish their identity.

The burden of proof is upon them to do it, and if a whole battalion of Chinamen might advance and swear that they knew that a man was there twelve years ago and entitled to a domicile in the United States it would have no effect whatever on the judicial mind of a judicial officer in the judicial State of California. As is suggested by the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN], the accusation that the law can not be enforced is an arraignment of the whole judiciary system of the country. I have seen, and so have you, Mr. President, a dozen men go upon the stand, so degraded that they were not entitled to credit, and, with their evidence all one way, the jury finding a verdict the other and the judge sustain it. This evidence is to be weighed, and to be weighed by men, if they are human, prejudiced against these people.

Mr. FELTON. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair calls the attention of the Senator from California to the fact that he has spoken once on this amendment.

Mr. HISCOCK. If I have any time left, I will yield it to the Senator.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair does not understand that that can be done under the rule. The Senator from California can proceed by unanimous consent.

Mr. FRYE. I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from California be permitted to proceed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection, the Senator will proceed.

Mr. FELTON. Only one word, Mr. President. If, as the Senator from New York said, there shall be no justice in any court whatever and a Chinese oath is not to be taken under any circumstances, then I will grant that the Senator's position is correct, but not otherwise.

Mr. STEWART. The Chinese are the only witnesses that can be found under such circumstances, and under the civil rights act they are permitted to testify.

I have had some experience in relation to Chinese testimony. About forty years ago I was the district attorney of Nevada County, Cal., and tried the first murder case in which Chinese testimony was used. I labored very hard to ascertain what regard Chinamen had for an oath. A Chinese missionary, Rev. Mr. Speer, who had been in China for a long time, was then living in San Francisco, and was familiar with them. I sent for him, and the board of supervisors made an appropriation to send for everybody who knew anything about the matter. There were a large number of people there who had lived in China, and they came to attend the trial. The question was how an oath could be administered. Some stated that it was the habit to administer it by cutting off a chicken's head, others that it was by burning papers, and various other devices were suggested.

We tried them all in order that there might not be any mistake about it. We thought we would get the truth out of the Chinese witnesses by separating them, and so we hired rooms in different parts of the town, kept them separately, and brought them in separately; but when they came in each one of them told precisely the same story in exactly the same language. [Laughter.]

Mr. ALLISON. Did they tell the truth?

Mr. STEWART. They did not; but they told the same story in exactly the same language, and they had undoubtedly made up their stories before they came there. On further investigation we found that in China they were in the habit of using some torture to make witnesses tell the truth; and whenever a crime was committed there the witnesses were in the habit of getting together and all telling the same story; so that if they should kill or torture one they should have to kill or torture all of them. That was the general mode they had.

I spent several months over this question, and finally I took it up to the Supreme Court. There was no objection taken in the court below except as to the difference in the names, Kong-Wing, and Ching-Chee, and all these Chinese names. I convicted my man and went to the Supreme Court with great confidence. The statute required that there should be exceptions taken. None had been taken. I argued the case for the State and Gen. McConnell was on the other side. He made a very learned argument against Chinese evidence and undertook to show that the Chinamen were the same as the Indians and then used the statutes against Indians testifying against a white man, and to my astonishment the Supreme Court held that a Chinaman was an Indian, and could not testify against a white man in the State of California. [Laughter.]

Having had this experience with them, I have observed their testimony in the courts of San Francisco and on the Pacific coast generally. There have been five or six thousand of these cases, and the Chinamen all come in and tell the same story. They have one man bailed out and substitute another for him and play all sorts of games on the courts.

Because you have got a law if you think it practicable that you can remove a Chinaman who is improperly here, if you think you can get one out of one hundred thousand of them in twenty years and make a case to extradite him, then I shall be disappointed. I do not believe it can be done. A white man, a stranger, can not tell Chinamen apart. They will substitute one for another right before your eyes and then go right on with the case. [Laughter.] They understand all these games to such a degree that the men who lecture on sleight of hand would have no chance with them. They would play in court a game that no lecturer on sleight of hand ever dreamed of as far as that was concerned. [Laughter.]

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The time of the Senator from Nevada has expired. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from California [Mr. FELTON].

Mr. MITCHELL. I can only see one objection to this amendment. The effect of this amendment, if adopted, will be, I presume, to legalize—if that is the proper word—the remaining here of all Chinamen who shall take out a certificate in a year, whether they are lawfully here or not. I do not know that there is any other way out of it, but it will have that effect. It was the opinion of Judge Field, which I read the other day, that at least two-thirds of all who were here five years ago came here unlawfully, in violation of the law.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from California. [Putting the question.] The yeas seem to have it.

Mr. FELTON. I should like to have a division on the amendment.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, it seems to me evident that we are not going to dispose of this bill this evening.

Several SENATORS. Oh, yes.

Mr. HARRIS. I have no further remark to make.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from California asks for a division on his amendment.

The question being taken, there were—ayes 12—

Mr. FELTON. I withdraw the demand for a division. I am satisfied.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The demand for a division is withdrawn, and the amendment is rejected.

Mr. FELTON. I intended to offer one other amendment, which, in my simplicity, I thought very important in this case, but I rather think that I understand the temper of the Senate, and I have no desire to delay the matter further, so I shall not offer the amendment.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill to prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States."

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that the Senate insist upon its amendment and ask a conference with the House of Representatives.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. DOLPH, Mr. DAVIS, and Mr. BUTLER were appointed.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had approved and signed on the 23d instant the following acts:

An act (S. 113) to establish a military post at Little Rock, Ark.; and

Mr. COCKRELL. I present a petition of sundry citizens of Carthage, Mo., together with the affidavit of C. B. Stickney and T. M. Garland, praying that a pension be granted Mrs. Ann Bradford, for whom a bill has already been introduced. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Pensions, to accompany the bill.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. HALE. I am directed by the Committee on Appropriations to report back the bill (H. R. 7093) making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, with sundry amendments, which I ask may be printed. I shall call the bill up at some near day in the future.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. VILAS. I am instructed by the Committee on Claims to report back adversely the bill (S. 1585) for the relief of the New Orleans and Bayou Sara Mail Company, and to submit a report thereon. At the request of the junior Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE], made before he left for his home, I suggest that the bill and report be placed upon the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill with the adverse report will be placed upon the Calendar.

Mr. ALLEN, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1426) for the relief of Dabney, Simmons & Co., submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. SHERMAN, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2940) to authorize Admiral George Brown, Capt. George C. Remey, Lieut. George S. Dyer, Medical Inspector George W. Wood, Ensign George P. Blow, and Mr. Frank Lavie, United States Navy, to accept certain decorations from the Government of Hawaii, reported it without amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 76) to authorize the President to invite certain governments to send delegates to the Pan-American Medical Congress, reported it without amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the message of the President of the United States, transmitting, in response to Senate resolutions of March 16 and 21, 1892, a report from the Acting Secretary of State, with accompanying statistics, showing the duties imposed by the Governments of Venezuela and Colombia upon products of the United States imported into those countries, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Finance; which was agreed to.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1445) for the relief of Adolph von Haake, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2657) granting to Sergt. Thomas O. Harter, Company 1, First Indiana Cavalry, $10,000 and a gold medal for losses and services, which, in July and August, 1862, saved Pope's army and the nation's capital from capture by Lee's army, to report it adversely. In the absence of the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER], who has some interest, I think, in the bill, I ask that it be placed upon the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BERRY in the chair). The bill will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 3008) for the relief of William Devine, teamster, authorizing the president of the Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers to receive him at one of the branches of said national home; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. VOORHEES introduced a bill (S. 3009) for the relief of David B. Moore, late a captain Company D, Sixteenth Regiment Iowa Infantry Volunteers, and subsequently first sergeant Troop B, Seventh United States Cavalry and acting sergeant-major Seventh United States Cavalry; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 3010) making appropriation for the establishment of a national park near Florence, S. C.; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. FELTON introduced a bill (S. 3016) for the relief of Charles Harkins; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3017) to provide and equip a steam vessel for boarding purposes at Philadelphia, Pa.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3018) for the erection of a statue to the late Admiral David D. Porter, United States Navy; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Library.

Mr. TURPIE introduced a bill (S. 3019) to amend an act approved February 3, 1887, amending an act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men on the volunteer forces, approved June 3, 1884; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. MITCHELL introduced a bill (S. 3020) for the relief of Lieut. Col. George H. Elliot; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. KYLE introduced a bill (S. 3021) to increase the pay and allowances of officers of the Army who have been continuously in one grade for a period of twenty years; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. KENNA introduced a bill (S. 3023) to authorize the purchase of the manuscript of William Vans Murray; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Library.

MISSOURI RIVER BRIDGE AT LEAVENWORTH.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a joint resolution (S. R. —) authorizing the Leavenworth and Platte County Bridge Company to sell, transfer, and assign to the Leavenworth Terminal Railway and Bridge Company the rights and franchises as granted by acts of Congress approved February 25 and March 22, 1889, and by act of Congress approved July 25, 1890; which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. PERKINS. If there is no objection, I will ask for the immediate consideration of the joint resolution. There are reasons why this matter is of considerable importance to those concerned. I think there can be no objection to it, and I should like to secure its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Kansas asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the joint resolution introduced by him may be now considered.

Mr. HARRIS. Let it be read for information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The joint resolution will be read at length for information.

The joint resolution was read the second time at length, as follows:

Resolved, etc. That permission be, and is hereby, granted to the Leavenworth and Platte County Bridge Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Kansas, to sell, transfer, and assign to the Leavenworth Terminal Railway and Bridge Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Kansas, its successors and assigns, all of the rights and franchises granted to the said Leavenworth and Platte County Bridge Company by an act of Congress entitled "An act to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River between the city of Leavenworth, in the State of Kansas, and Platte County, in the State of Missouri," approved April 25, 1889, and by an act of Congress entitled "An act to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River between the city of Leavenworth, in the State of Kansas, and Platte County, in the State of Missouri," approved March 2, 1889, and by an act of Congress entitled "An act to authorize the Leavenworth and Platte County Bridge Company to substitute a pivot drawbridge over the Missouri River in place of a pontoon bridge," approved July 25, 1890; and any such transfer and conveyance as has been heretofore made is hereby consented to and confirmed; all subject, however, to the conditions named in said act of Congress.

Mr. PERKINS. All that the joint resolution contemplates is that the Leavenworth and Platte County Bridge Company may transfer to the Leavenworth Terminal Company the right to construct this bridge. They have sold the right and franchise to the latter company and that company now desire an approval of the location of the bridge. In consequence of this transfer, the Secretary of War doubts whether he can approve their application. They have made contracts with the railroad companies there to use the bridge when constructed, they have arranged for money for its construction, and they ask that this joint resolution may be passed by Congress giving to them the right to make this transfer. That is all there is of the measure, and it does not seem to me that there can be any objection to it.

Mr. KENNA. Is the joint resolution now introduced?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is now introduced.

Mr. PERKINS. It is a matter of local importance to the people there, and can not be to the prejudice of anyone.

Mr. SHERMAN. I will ask the Senator from Kansas whether it does not propose to change the form of the bridge? It seems to me it gives the right to make a drawbridge instead of another kind.

Mr. PERKINS. There were two acts of Congress passed—one authorizing the construction of a pontoon bridge and the other authorizing the construction of a drawbridge. The joint resolution gives to this company the right to transfer both privileges, and the transfer is to be made with the conditions that were imposed upon the original company.

Mr. COCKRELL. As I understand this case, simply the rights, privileges, and authority granted in the two acts are transferred from one company to the other, subject to the same action of the Secretary of War.

Mr. PERKINS. Yes, subject to all the original conditions. No change is contemplated in any particular, except—

Mr. COCKRELL. The joint resolution simply authorizes the Secretary of War to act upon the plans and specifications presented by this company instead of the original company?

Mr. PERKINS. That is all that is contemplated by the joint resolution.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair suggests to the Senator from Kansas that the parliamentary precedent in measures of this character is that they should be bills rather than joint resolutions. If there be no objection, the Chair will direct that the form of the measure be changed from that of a joint resolution to a bill.

Mr. PERKINS. I shall be very glad to accept the suggestion of the Chair.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That change will be made. Is there objection to present consideration?

Mr. SHERMAN. I do not wish to object to this measure, but I think it would be bad as a precedent. Here is a proposition introduced which it is proposed to pass into the form of a law without any reference. I would a great deal rather that it should be referred, informally even, to the Committee on Commerce and reported back. It is a very bad precedent to act in this way.

Mr. PERKINS. I will say in answer to the Senator that the joint resolution does not contemplate a change of the present law in any particular. It authorizes this transfer, but coupled with it all the conditions of the original act. The reason for early action is that these people have already arranged for the money with which to make the construction of the bridge, and they are only embarrassed in the War Department because of the transfer, the War Department thinking that it can not approve the application made in the name of this terminal company because the grant was to the Leavenworth and Platte County Bridge Company.

Mr. SHERMAN. I have no doubt, from the statements made by the Senator from Kansas, that the bill ought to pass, and

Mr. BUCHANAN of Virginia. I desire to state that my colleague, Mr. LAWSON of Virginia, is at home sick, and I ask that he be excused.

The committee then rose, and the Speaker resumed the chair.

Mr. OATES. Mr. Speaker, the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill H. R. 7624, and found itself, while proceeding, without a quorum. The Chair caused the roll to be called and 154 gentlemen only answered to their names as present. Being still without a quorum, the committee rose under the rule, and I report the names of the absentees.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Alabama [Mr. OATES], chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reports that that committee found itself without a quorum, and that he caused the roll to be called and noted the absentees. The names of the absentees will be entered on the Journal.

Mr. BLOUNT. I move that the House adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and accordingly, (at 4 o'clock and 48 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The following reports of committees were handed in at the Clerk's desk and referred to their appropriate Calendars as indicated below:

SALARY OF SUPERVISING ARCHITECT, TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Mr. BRICKNER, from the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department, reported back with amendment the bill (H. R. 4540) to provide for the increase of the salary of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

SALARY OF ASSISTANT AND CHIEF CLERK OF SUPERVISING ARCHITECT, TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Mr. BRICKNER also, from the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department, reported back favorably the bill (H. R. 3998) to increase the salary of the assistant and chief clerk of the Supervising Architect, Treasury Department; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE TO OFFICERS AND EMPLOYÉS IN CUSTOMS SERVICE.

Mr. BRICKNER also, from the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department, reported adversely the bills (H. R. 2939 and H. R. 2622) providing for leave of absence for officers and employés in the customs service of the Government who receive a per diem compensation; which were laid upon the table and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

SETTLEMENT OF ACCOUNTS AND CLAIMS IN CERTAIN CASES.

Mr. STOCKDALE, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported back adversely the bill (H. R. 374) to provide for the settlement of accounts and claims in certain cases; which was laid upon the table, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

PUNTA GORDA, SUPPORT OF ENTRY.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts—to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. TURPIE presented a memorial of the Indianapolis Typothetie Association, in which the memorialists state as follows:

We desire to call to your attention the evident injustice practiced by the United States Government in furnishing printed envelopes to anyone desiring them at the price of the cost of envelopes only, with one charge for the printing, and without any charge whatever for freight or delivery. By estimate, the number of envelopes furnished the mercantile community in this way exceeds 300,000,000. Our objections are based upon the ground that the Government has no right to set up opposition to private enterprise or invade its field, and that such action is a clear deprivation to the printers of the country of an actual revenue of not less than $250,000; that the injustice to the printers extends far beyond this sum by reducing the price on all envelope printing to a ruinous degree because of the unequal and unfair competition of the Government; that the advantage to the Post-Office Department is certainly small; and that therefore the Government cannot be defended upon either that ground or the principle of "the greater good to the greatest number," for the advantage thus offered by the Government is made use of principally by large firms and corporations better able to pay for what they get than are the smaller concerns, who naturally can not, and in fact do not, except in very few cases, take advantage of such privilege.

I move that the memorial be referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. TURPIE presented a memorial of sundry citizens of Bunker Hill, Ind., remonstrating against the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of Kempton, Ind., praying for the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting any legislation by the States respecting an establishment of religion or making an appropriation of money for any sectarian purpose; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. DAWES presented the memorial of William J. Boynton and 30 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Essex County, Mass., remonstrating against Congress committing the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. DIXON presented a petition which, although addressed to me personally, is evidently intended for the consideration of the appropriate committee of this body. It is a petition of citizens of West Kingston, R. I., praying for the adoption of a constitutional amendment prohibiting any State from passing legislation respecting the establishment of religion, etc. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. WASHBURN presented a petition of the Board of Trade of Winona, Minn., praying for the passage of legislation increasing the salaries of employes in the Railway Mail Service; which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Graham and other citizens of Lane County, Oregon, remonstrating against Congress committing the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. COCKRELL, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2990) for the relief of George W. McKinney, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. WOLCOTT, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 3974) to provide for the opening of alleys in the District of Columbia, reported it with an amendment.

Mr. HAWLEY. Sundry petitions, praying for the passage of a bill providing for the marking of the battle lines at Gettysburg, have been sent to the Committee on Military Affairs. Before they were sent there a bill on that subject was reported favorably. I report back the petitions, and move that they be laid upon the table.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HAWLEY, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2988) for the relief of Josiah Freeman Herring, of Company K, Fourth Georgia Volunteers, Indian war, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Pensions; which was agreed to.

Mr. HAWLEY. The bill (S. 2974) granting an honorable discharge to Ephraim Morrison is no longer necessary, because the War Department found itself able to give the requisite relief. I report back the bill, ask that the Military Affairs Committee be relieved from its further consideration, and that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. BRICE from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2321) granting an increase of pension to Jonas Deyo, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

On motion of Mr. SAWYER, it was Ordered, That Kate M. Smith be leave to withdraw her petition and papers from the files of the Senate, subject to the rules.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. TURPIE. I introduce a bill, and I hope I shall be indulged in being allowed to say that the object of the bill is to relieve any soldiers now in the classified service or who may hereafter be appointed from competitive examination in the civil service of the United States in applications for promotion. We are well aware that in the class of soldiers now serving many of them are those who did not have the advantages in early life of education; that those persons who were engaged in service in the armies of the Union occupied a great part of the time in the prime of their life in labors not necessarily educational and not very well adapted to early educational training. I hope, therefore, that the Committee on Organization, Conduct, and Expenditures of the Executive Departments, to which the bill will be referred, will give the measure early consideration, and that the soldiers now engaged in the civil service will have the benefit of its provisions as well as those ex-soldiers of the Union who may hereafter be appointed.

The bill (S. 3024) to exempt veterans from competitive examinations in the classified service of the United States was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Organization, Conduct, and Expenditures of the Executive Departments.

Mr. COLQUITT introduced a bill (S. 3025) for the relief of the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills Company, of Atlanta, Ga.; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BARBOUR introduced a bill (S. 3026) to mark the birthplace of James Madison, fourth President of the United States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Library.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3027) granting pension to Celestia P. Hart; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill (S. 3028) for the relief of William P. Dunwoody; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. WILSON. In connection with the bill, I desire to say that I hope the Committee on Claims will take early action upon the subject-matter of the bill, as I think it is one involving decided merit.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. ALLEN introduced a bill (S. 3029) authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Columbia River, in the State of Washington; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

AMENDMENT TO A BILL.

Mr. PERKINS submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DISTRICT THEATER LICENSES.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia be, and hereby are, instructed to report to the Senate forthwith what action, if any, they have taken to make building regulations to carry into effect the joint resolution "to regulate licenses to proprietors of theaters in the city of Washington, D. C., and for other purposes," approved February 25, 1892, also whether said Commissioners have issued any permits for theaters or public halls to be constructed at any considerable height above the level of the street.

CHEYENNE AND ARAPAHOE RESERVATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day, which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. Resolution by Mr. JONES of Arkansas relative to the President's message of February 18, 1892, upon the appropriation of March 3, 1891, for payment to the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations for their interest in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservation, Indian Territory.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the resolution, on which the yeas and nays have been ordered.

Mr. ALLISON. Mr. President, when the Senate adjourned yesterday I believe I had the floor for the purpose of submitting some observations on this resolution.

Mr. SHERMAN. As this question involves two or three million dollars, I should like to see a quorum present. There is no quorum here now.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The roll will be called.

The Secretary called the roll, and the following Senators answered to their names:

Allen,	Cullom,	Kyle,	Ransom,
Allison,	Daniel,	McMillan,	Sawyer,
Bate,	Davis,	McPherson,	Sherman,
Berry,	Dawes,	Mauderson,	Shoup,
Blackburn,	Dixon,	Morrill,	Stanford,
Blodgett,	Dolph,	Paddock,	Stewart,
Brice,	Feiton,	Palmer,	Stockbridge,
Call,	Frye,	Perkins,	Teiber,
Cameron,	George,	Pettigrew,	Turpie,
Carlisle,	Gibson, Md.	Platt,	Vest,
Casey,	Hansbrough,	Power,	Wadhall,
Chandler,	Hawley,	Proctor,	Washburn,
Cockrell,	Jones, Ark.	Pugh,	Wilson,
Colquitt,	Kenna,	Quay,

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Fifty-five Senators have responded to their names. A quorum is present, and the Senator from Iowa will proceed.

Mr. WEST. I have been detained upon a committee, and I ask the Senator from Iowa to permit me to make a report.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well.

MISSOURI RIVER BRIDGE AT LEAVENWORTH.

Mr. VEST. I am directed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3022) authorizing the Leavenworth and Platte County Bridge Company to sell, transfer, and assign to the Leavenworth Terminal Railway and Bridge Company the rights and franchise as granted by acts of Congress approved February 25, and March 2, 1889, and by act of Congress approved July 25, 1890, to report it favorably, with an amendment.

Mr. PERKINS. I ask unanimous consent for the consideration of the bill at this time. It was up yesterday, and was referred by consent to the committee.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read for information.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, and there being no objection, the Senate as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment of the Committee on Commerce will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 25, after the word, "confirmed," it is proposed to strike out the remainder of the bill, the words to be stricken out being as follows:

All subject, however, to the conditions named in said act of Congress.

And insert the following proviso:

Provided, how ever, That the conditions, limitations, and restrictions imposed by existing law upon the said Leavenworth and Platte County Bridge Company shall continue in force as to the said Leavenworth Terminal Railway and Bridge Company.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MANAGERS OF NATIONAL SOLDIERS' HOME.

Mr. HAWLEY. I beg the Senator from Iowa to yield to me a moment for a matter of morning business that ought to be transacted promptly.

Mr. ALLISON. I have no objection to yielding with the consent of the Senator from Arkansas, who is in charge of the pending resolution. I do not wish the time unnecessarily occupied with business, inasmuch as by unanimous consent the pending question was to come up immediately after the morning business was disposed of.

Mr. HAWLEY. This is morning business.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well, if the Senator has morning business, I yield.

Mr. HAWLEY. It is a report from a committee, which I should be glad to have considered now.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well, if the Senator from Arkansas yields.

Mr. HAWLEY. It will give rise to no discussion.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I am perfectly willing to yield.

Mr. HAWLEY. I am directed by the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the joint resolution H. Res. 97, to fill vacancies which will occur in the Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers on April 21, 1892, to report it favorably with amendment. The vacancies occurred one week ago and the Board would like to have them filled. The names mentioned are satisfactory to everybody, I believe. Three of them are reappointments.

By unanimous consent the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution. It proposes to appoint Gen. William J. S. and Gen. Martin T. McMahon, Capt. John L. Mitchell, and Maj. George Bonbrake, managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers for the terms of office commencing on the 21st day of April, 1892, to fill vacancies which will occur by expiration of terms of office.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EXCLUSION OF CHINESE.

Mr. DAVIS. I am obliged to be absent from the city for a few days, and I ask to be excused from service upon the conference committee on the so-called Chinese exclusion bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. COCKRELL in the chair). If there be no objection, the request of the Senator from Minnesota will be granted. The Chair hears none.

Mr. SHERMAN. I understand that the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY], who is one of the conferees on that bill, will be absent also. I therefore ask that the Senator from Delaware be relieved from service on the committee and that some other Senator be appointed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there be no objection, in consequence of the absence of the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY], he will also be excused from service on the conference committee. Is it the desire that the Chair shall fill these two vacancies?

Mr. SHERMAN and others. Yes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will appoint the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] and the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] in place of the Senators who have been excused.

TELEPHONE LINE ON VIRGINIA COAST.

The bill (H. R. 7727) to authorize the construction of a telephone line on the coast of Virginia, from Cape Charles to Assateague Island, in aid of the preservation of life and property, was read twice by its title.

Mr. FRYE. I ask that that bill may take the place of the bill (S. 2806) to authorize the construction of a telephone line on the coast of Virginia from Cape Charles to Assateague Island, in aid of the preservation of life and property. Calendar No. 592, the House bill being the same exactly with the Senate bill reported, and I ask that Senate bill 2806 may be indefinitely postponed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there be no objection, the House bill will be placed on the Calendar with the same number as the Senate bill, and the Senate bill will be postponed indefinitely. The Chair hears no objection, and it is so ordered.

CHEYENNE AND ARAPAHOE RESERVATION.

The Senator resumed the consideration of the resolution reported by Mr. JONES of Arkansas, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, relative to the President's message upon the appropriation of March 1, 1891, for payment to the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations for their interests in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservation.

Mr. ALLISON. Mr. President, the resolution proposed by the Committee on Indian Affairs and reported to the Senate by the Senator from Arkansas is a resolution in response to the message of the President of the United States, which message was read last evening, wherein the President calls the attention of Congress to an appropriation made by Congress at the closing hours of the last session, the appropriation carrying $2,391,450 to pay an alleged claim due from the United States to the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations. The resolution before us not only commits the Senate, if it shall be adopted, to a recommendation to the President for the immediate payment of this sum, but it commits the Senate to the reciting and statements of the printed report which accompanies the resolution. The resolution provides in its terms—

That for reasons set forth in the report of the Committee on Indian Affairs upon the President's message of February 18, 1892, etc.

This report I hold in my hand, and I wish to call attention to it, in view of the fact that the Committee on Indian Affairs not only ask us to agree to a resolution which shall provide for the payment, but also ask us by our votes to be committed to the reasons and arguments made use of in this report showing or claiming that this amount is due to the Choctaws and Chickasaws. Therefore the Senate must agree to two distinct propositions. It must affirmatively agree to the payment of the money, and it must affirmatively agree to the reasoning of this committee, which of course places this committee in the position of direct antagonism to the argument and propositions made by the President of the United States.

It is in the beginning worth while for us to know something of the origin of this appropriation, amounting in round numbers to $3,000,000, and I shall endeavor as near as I can, to truthfully recite the history of the transactions.

It is enough for me to say that no committee of this body and no committee of the House of Representatives, as a separate and distinct measure, recommended this appropriation.

Mr. PERKINS. Will the Senator permit a suggestion there?

Mr. ALLISON. Yes, sir.

Mr. PERKINS. The Senator is in error in that particular. The Committee on Indian Affairs of the House of Representatives did report as an independent measure a bill appropriating this sum for the purpose of the purchase of this land, and subsequently the proposition was attached here to the Indian appropriation bill; but an independent measure was reported by the Committee on Indian Affairs in the House, and was considered for two days in the House, but a vote was not reached upon it.

Mr. ALLISON. The Senator from Kansas very properly says that the Committee on Indian Affairs of the House of Representatives reported a bill, but it did not report this bill, and in theatives reported a bill, but it did not report this bill, and in the report that it made and the separate bill that it introduced it provided for a sum of 20 cents an acre less than is included in this appropriation. So, then, we have the deliberate judgment of the House of Representatives as respects this question, as it is required by foreclosure proceedings to take property from time to time, which, however, under the proposed law, it can not hold for more than five years.

The bill has passed the House of Representatives without objection; it was carefully considered by the committee of the Senate, and was unanimously reported. It was thought that the bill was right.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to ask whether the House or the Senate bill is being considered?

Mr. PERKINS. The House bill is being considered, as I understand it. The Senate bill was laid upon the table, as I remember, or indefinitely postponed.

Mr. COCKRELL. I was looking at the Calendar to see if this was a House bill. There are two bills here just the same.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ORDNANCE STORES AND SUPPLIES TO NEBRASKA.

The bill (S. 1348) for the issue of ordnance stores and supplies to the State of Nebraska, to replace similar stores destroyed by fire, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with amendments.

The first amendment was, in line 12, after the word "trousers," to strike out "forty-two" and insert "forty;" and in line 13, after the word "caps," to strike out "forty-two cavalry dress coats, forty-two cork helmets with spikes and plumes, two bugles, and one stand of colors, including two cavalry guidons," and insert "and two trumpets;" so as to make the clause read:

Clothing, camp, and garrison equipage: Forty-two cavalry blouses, forty-two cavalry trousers, forty forage caps, and two trumpets.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in line 18, after the word "pattern," to strike out "fifty cartridge belts and fifty slings;" so as to make the clause read:

Ordnance and ordnance stores: Fifty sabers, fifty saber belts, fifty cavalry bridles complete, fifty Springfield carbines complete (latest pattern).

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, to insert the following as an additional section:

SEC. 2. That there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $1,216.34 to enable the Secretary of War to purchase the ordnance and ordnance stores called for herein, and the further sum of $368.12 to further enable the Secretary of War aforesaid to purchase the quartermaster's stores or clothing, camp, and garrison equipage mentioned and called for in this act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DUNBAR R. RANSOM.

The bill (S. 2481) to place Dunbar R. Ransom on the retired list of the Army was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to authorize the President of the United States to nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint Dunbar R. Ransom, late captain in the Third Artillery of the Army, a captain in the Army, and to place him on the unlimited retired list.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LORAIN RUGGLES.

The bill (S. 307) for the relief of Lorain Ruggles was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. I object to that bill. It ought to be postponed indefinitely, as recommended by the Committee on Military Affairs, unless some Senator desires its retention on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection being made, the bill will go over under Rule IX.

SILK CULTURE IN THE UNITED STATES.

The bill (S. 979) for the development and encouragement of silk culture in the United States, under the supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture, was announced as next in order.

Mr. VEST. Let that bill go over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection being made, the bill will be passed over.

Mr. MITCHELL. I hope the Senator from Missouri will not insist on his objection, but will allow the bill to go over without prejudice. It is an important bill for the development of the silk industry in this country.

Mr. PLATT. I should like to examine the bill. I do not ask to have it go over permanently but only temporarily.

Mr. VEST. I have not had time to examine the bill. Does it not create another office?

Mr. MITCHELL. The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE] reported the bill. I had the honor to introduce it originally, but a substitute has been reported by the committee.

Mr. GEORGE. It only provides for an expenditure of $2,000 per annum.

Mr. VEST. I should like to look at the bill.

Mr. MITCHELL. I hope the bill will not lose its place on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be passed over informally, retaining its place.

PERJURY AT LAND OFFICES.

The bill (S. 2161) to provide for and to punish the crime of perjury before the United States local land offices was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the Judiciary with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That in all cases where any oath, affirmation, or affidavit shall be made or taken before any register or receiver, or either, or both, of them, or any local land office of the United States or any Territory thereof, or where any oath, affirmation, or affidavit shall be made or taken before any person authorized by the laws of any State or Territory of the United States to administer oaths or affirmations, or to take affidavits, and such oaths, affirmations, or affidavits are made, used, or filed in any of said local land offices, or in the General Land Office, as well in cases arising under any or either of the orders, regulations, or instructions, concerning any of the public lands of the United States issued by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, or other proper officer of the Government of the United States, as under the laws of the United States, in anywise relating to or affecting any right, claim, or title, or any contest therefor, to any of the public lands of the United States, and if any person or persons shall, taking such oath, affirmation, or affidavit, knowingly, willfully, or corruptly, swear or affirm falsely, the same shall be deemed and taken to be perjury, and the person or persons guilty thereof shall, upon conviction, be liable to the punishment prescribed for that offense by the laws of the United States.

Mr. WILSON. This bill is rendered necessary by reason of the effect of some recent decisions of some local courts in the West. There can be no objection to it, as it merely revives a section of law passed in 1857, which by an omission in the repealing clause in the Revised Statutes was repealed entirely, so that the character of crime described in this amendment, which is simply a recital of the old law, can not be reached in the courts. Therefore it is necessary, in order to provide for the punishment of such crimes, that this additional legislation should be had.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the preamble, which the committee recommend be stricken out.

Mr. WILSON. The preamble should be stricken out, I think. The preamble was rejected.

CUARTEL LOT, IN MONTEREY, CAL.

The bill (S. 2599) releasing the right, title, and interest of the United States to the piece or parcel of land known as the Cuartel lot to the city of Monterey, Cal., was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to have some explanation of that bill. I see the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH] who reported it is present. It purports to confirm title to one particular lot, naming it, but there is such language in the body of the bill as to confirm all the public lands around Sacramento to the city. Now, if this bill is intended to confirm only title to this one lot, then we know exactly what it is, but if it is to be a sweeping and general law, we do not know what it covers.

Mr. DOLPH. The bill relates simply to a little lot that had some sort of a military establishment on it at the time Mexico was captured, and the title is disputed.

Mr. COCKRELL. This bill seems to be very adroitly prepared, and appears to have been introduced by request. The language used is as follows:

That the city of Monterey, Cal., is hereby designated as the trustee of the original grant made by the Mexican Government of pueblo lands—

Not of this Cuartel lot, but of all pueblo lands. That is a little too broad. I move to strike out in line 9 the words "of pueblo lands," and then in line 10, after the word "of," to strike out "said pueblo."

Mr. DOLPH. If the Senator will allow this bill to go over a moment, I will look at it. It was reported and passed at the last session. I will make some inquiries about it. I think it is only intended to make the present city of Monterey the successor of the old corporation.

Mr. COCKRELL. To this lot?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. DOLPH. Let it go over temporarily, and I will call it up again.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be passed over informally.

SOLDIERS' HOME IN KANSAS.

The bill (S. 2140) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to convey to the State of Kansas certain lands therein named for homes of old soldiers and their families, etc., was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that bill go over without losing its place on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection being made, the bill will be passed over informally.

Mr. PERKINS. I hope it may go over with the understanding that it may not lose its place.

Mr. COCKRELL. I said not to lose its place on the Calendar. There is no report with the bill. There is already a national volunteer soldiers' home in Kansas at Leavenworth, and the General Government supports these State homes by one-half contributions to them. Unless there is some very extraordinary reason, I do not see why we should establish a State home in a State where there is already a national home.

Mr. PERKINS. This bill does not provide for the establishment of a soldiers' home under the supervision of Congress, but simply donates this land to the State of Kansas that the State of Kansas may establish a home.

Mr. COCKRELL. But there is a general provision that the United States Treasury pays one-half of the expenses of the State homes, and Kansas would come in and claim that as a matter of course. There is no question on that point.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be passed over, retaining its place on the Calendar.

SALE OF DISTRICT LOTS.

The bill (S. 2755) to provide for the sale of certain lots in the District of Columbia was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVAL.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 30th ultimo approved and signed the act (S. 1415) for the relief of John Nickels.

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

Mr. DOLPH submitted the following report: which was read:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill H. R. 6185, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate, and agree to the same with amendments as follows:

In section 3, line 2, after the word "act," insert the words "or the acts hereby extended."

In section 4, line 2, after the word "descent," strike out the word "once," in section 4, after the words "United States," in line 3, strike out all down to the word "shall," in line 6.

In section 4, line 7, strike out the words "six months" and insert in lieu thereof "one year."

Add new sections as follows:

"Sec. 5. That after the passage of this act, on an application to any judge or court of the United States in the first instance for a writ of habeas corpus by a Chinese person seeking to land in the United States, to whom that privilege has been denied, no bail shall be allowed, and such application shall be heard and determined promptly, without unnecessary delay.

"Sec. 6. And it shall be the duty of all Chinese laborers within the limits of the United States at the time of the passage of this act, and who are entitled to remain in the United States, to apply to the collector of internal revenue of their respective districts, within one year after the passage of this act, for a certificate of residence, and any Chinese laborer within the limits of the United States who shall neglect, fail, or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, or who, after one year from the passage hereof, shall be found within the jurisdiction of the United States without such certificate of residence, shall be deemed and adjudged to be unlawfully within the United States, and may be arrested by any United States customs official, collector of internal revenue or his deputies, United States marshal or his deputies and taken before a United States judge, whose duty it shall be to order that he be deported from the United States, as hereinbefore provided, unless he shall establish clearly to the satisfaction of said judge that by reason of accident, sickness, or other unavoidable cause he has been unable to procure his certificate, and to the satisfaction of the court, and by at least one credible white witness that he was a resident of the United States at the time of the passage of this act; and if upon the hearing it shall appear that he is so entitled to a certificate, it shall be granted upon his paying the cost. Should it appear that said Chinaman had procured a certificate, which has been lost or destroyed, he shall be detained and judgment suspended a reasonable time to enable him to procure a duplicate from the officer granting it, and in such cases the costs of said arrest and trial shall be in the discretion of the court. And any Chinese person other than a Chinese laborer, having a right to be and remain in the United States, desiring such certificate as evidence of such right, may apply for and receive the same without charge.

"Sec. 7. That immediately after the passage of this act, the Secretary of the Treasury shall make such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the efficient execution of this act, and shall prescribe the necessary forms, and furnish the necessary blanks to enable collectors of internal revenue to issue the certificates required hereby, and make such provisions that certificates may be procured in localities convenient to the applicants. Such certificates shall be issued without charge to the applicant, and shall contain the name, age, local residence, and occupation of the applicant, and such other description of the applicant as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, and a duplicate thereof shall be filed in the office of the collector of internal revenue for the district within which such Chinaman makes application.

"Sec. 8. That any person who shall knowingly and falsely alter or substitute any name for the name written in such certificate, or forge such certificate, or knowingly utter any forged or fraudulent certificate, or falsely personate any person named in such certificate, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $1,000, or imprisoned in the penitentiary for a term of not more than five years.

"Sec. 9. The Secretary of the Treasury may authorize the payment of such compensation in the nature of fees to the collectors of internal revenue, for services performed under the provisions of this act, in addition to salaries now allowed by law, as he shall deem necessary, not exceeding the sum of $1 for each certificate issued.

And the House agree to the amendment of the Senate to the title so as to read as follows: "An act to prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States."

JOHN T. MORGAN,
Managers on the part of the Senate.
T. J. GEARY,
J. LOGAN CHIPMAN,
Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After two hours and thirteen minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and at 4 o'clock and 10 minutes p. m. the Senate adjourned until tomorrow, Tuesday, May 3, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:
To Mr. MCKINNEY, for one day, on account of important business.

To Mr. WASHINGTON, for one week, on account of important business.

To Mr. HARTER, for this day.

THE CENSUS INVESTIGATION.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will lay before the House a proposed order, which the Clerk will read:

The order was read, as follows:

Ordered. The Committee on Census, heretofore ordered to investigate the administration of the Census Office, is authorized to discharge that duty by a subcommittee appointed by the chairman, and the expenses of the investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House on vouchers to be approved by the chairman of said committee.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the adoption of this order?

There was no objection, and the order was adopted.

The result was announced—yeas 19, nays 26; as follows:

So the Senate refused to adjourn.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question recurs on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL] to the bill under consideration.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. QUAY. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After ten minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and (at 4 o'clock and 5 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Thursday, May 5, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

NOMINATIONS.

Executive nominations received by the Senate May 4, 1892.

UNITED STATES ATTORNEY.

Ferdinand B. Earhart, of Louisiana, to be attorney of the United States for the eastern district of Louisiana, vice William Grant resigned.

CONSUL.

Richard Lambert, of San Francisco, Cal., to be consul of the United States at Mazatlan, to which office he was appointed during the last recess of the Senate, vice Edward G. Kelton, resigned.

PROMOTIONS IN THE ARMY.

Infantry arm.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, May 4, 1892.

The House met at 12 o'clock noon, and was called to order by the Speaker.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

ADDITIONAL ROOM SPACE, ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Adjutant-General, representing the necessity for additional room space for his office, to accommodate the division of military information as reorganized and enlarged, and recommending that the request be complied with; ordered to be printed, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

URGENT DEFICIENCY, SUPREME COURT, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Attorney-General, transmitting a petition signed by the clerks and bailiffs of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, and recommending that an urgent deficiency appropriation be made covering this subject-matter; ordered to be printed, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

SENATE BILLS REFERRED.

The SPEAKER. There are quite a number of Senate bills that came over day before yesterday, the titles of which have been printed in the RECORD. If there be no objection, the Chair will refer them without having them separately read at the Clerk's desk.

There was no objection.

The bills and references are as follows:

A bill (S. 453) granting a pension to Eliza Conroy—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

A bill (S. 520) granting an increase of pension to Oliver P. Goodwin—to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (S. 789) for the relief of Warren Hall—to the Committee on Claims.

A bill (S. 1140) for the relief of John C. Smith, Milton Evans, and others—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

A bill (S. 1143) granting a pension to Mary A. Wise—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

A bill (S. 1279) for the correction of the military record of Wilhelm Spiegelburg—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

A bill (S. 1318) for the issue of ordnance stores and supplies to the State of Nebraska to replace similar stores destroyed by fire—to the Committee on the Militia.

A bill (S. 1535) to increase the pension of Andrew J. Moore—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

A bill (S. 1777) for the erection of a public building at Selma, Ala.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

A bill (S. 1975) for the protection of livery-stable keepers and other persons keeping horses at livery within the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

A bill (S. 2067) for a public building at Altoona, Pa., and appropriating money therefor—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

A bill (S. 2087) for the relief of Charles Fletcher, alias James H. Mitchell—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

A bill (S. 2092) to fix the price of lands entered under the desert-land laws—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

A bill (S. 2481) to place Dunbar R. Ransom on the retired list of the Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

A bill (S. 2575) to provide for the sale of certain lots in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

A bill (S. 2605) granting a pension to Mrs. Adelia New, of Indianapolis, Ind.—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted to Mr. ROCKWELL, for ten days, on account of important business.

NEMIAH GARRISON, ASSIGNEE.

Mr. WINN. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The bill was read, as follows:

A bill (H. R. 3508) for the relief of Nemiah Garrison, assignee of Moses Perkins, Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to pay Nemiah Garrison, a citizen of the State of Georgia, the sum of $750, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, in accordance with the judgment of the Court of Claims in the case of Nemiah Garrison, assignee of Moses Perkins vs. The United States.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this bill?

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have some explanation of it. The report, I suppose, accompanies the bill.

Mr. WINN. Certainly.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the report.

The report was read, as follows:

The Committee on War Claims, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 3508) for the relief of Nemiah Garrison, assignee of Moses Perkins, submit the following report:

This claim was submitted to the Fiftieth Congress and a report was made thereon by the Committee on Claims. As the investigations of your committee have led them to substantially the same results as those arrived at by the committee of the Fiftieth Congress, it is deemed unnecessary to recapitulate the facts. A copy of the report in the Fiftieth Congress is attached hereto for information and made a part of this report.

Your committee recommend that the bill do pass.

[House Report No. 610, Fiftieth Congress, first session.]

The Committee on Claims have considered House bill No. 7409, for the relief of the executor or administrator of the estate of Nemiah Garrison, assignee of Moses Perkins, and recommend that it do pass, with the following amendment: Strike out the words "with interest," in line 7.

This matter received the favorable consideration of the Committee on Claims in the Forty-fifth Congress. The following report from that committee is adopted and made a part hereof:

"The Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill H. R. 955, have had the same under consideration, and present the following report thereon: "The facts upon which this claim are based were investigated and determined by the Court of Claims, which rendered judgment against the United States on the 24 day of March, A. D. 1860, as fully appears by a report of the proceedings had in said court made to the first Session of the Thirty-sixth Congress (Report Court of Claims No. 232). A copy of the opinion of said court in the case is hereto attached and made part of this report."

Your committee report back said bill, with an amendment, as follows, viz: In line 7, strike out the words "with interest;" and, thus amended, recommend its passage.

Mr. BURROWS. Do I understand this was passed upon by the Committee on War Claims?

Mr. WINN. Yes.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There was no objection.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. WINN, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Mr. WISE. I am instructed by the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce to report back the bill S. 1295, and to ask that the committee be discharged from the further consideration of it, and that it be referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the title of the bill. The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1295) to authorize the construction of jetties, piers, and breakwaters at private expense in the Gulf of Mexico, at the mouth of Ropes Pass, in the State of Texas.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Virginia [Mr. WISE] asks that the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce be discharged from the further consideration of this bill, and that it be referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors. Is there objection?

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

Mr. GEARY. I have a conference report which I wish to present. I send it to the Clerk's desk, and move that it be adopted; and upon that I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The conference report will be read.

The Clerk read as follows:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill H. R. 6185, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate, and agree to the same with amendments as follows:

In section 3, line 2, after the word "act," insert the words "or the act," hereby extended.

In section 4, line 2, after the word "descent," strike out the word "once."

In section 4, after the words "United States," in line 3, strike out all down to the word "shall," in line 5.

In section 4, line 7, strike out the words "six months" and insert in lieu thereof "one year."

All new sections as follows:

SEC. 5. That after the passage of this act, on an application to any judge or court of the United States in the first instance for a writ of habeas corpus by a Chinese person seeking to land in the United States, to whom that privilege has been denied, no bail shall be allowed and such application shall be heard and determined promptly, without unnecessary delay.

SEC. 6. And it shall be the duty of all Chinese laborers within the limits of the United States at the time of the passage of this act, and who are entitled to remain in the United States, to apply to the collector of internal revenue of their respective districts, within one year after the passage of this act, for a certificate of residence, and any Chinese laborer within the limits of the United States who shall neglect, fail, or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, or who, after one year from the passage hereof, shall be found within the jurisdiction of the United States without such certificate of residence, shall be deemed and adjudged to be unlawfully within the United States, and may be arrested by any United States customs official, collector of internal revenue, or his deputies, United States marshal or his deputies and taken before a United States judge, whose duty it shall be to order that he be deported from the United States, as hereinafter provided, unless he shall establish clearly to the satisfaction of said judge that by reason of accident, sickness, or other unavoidable cause he has been unable to procure his certificate, and to the satisfaction of the court, and by at least one credible white witness that he was a resident of the United States at the time of the passage of this act; and if upon the hearing it shall appear that he is so entitled to a certificate, it shall be granted upon his paying the costs. Should it appear that said Chinaman had procured a certificate, which has been lost or destroyed, he shall be detained and judgment suspended a reasonable time to enable him to procure a duplicate from the officer granting it, and in such cases the costs of said arrest and trial shall be in the discretion of the court. And any Chinese person other than a Chinese laborer, having a right to be and remain in the United States, desiring such certificate as evidence of such right, may apply for and receive the same without charge.

SEC. 7. That immediately after the passage of this act, the Secretary of the Treasury shall make such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the efficient execution of this act, and shall prescribe the necessary forms, and furnish the necessary blanks to enable collectors of internal revenue to issue the certificates required hereby, and make such provisions that such certificates may be procured in localities convenient to the applicants. Such certificates shall be issued without charge to the applicant, and shall contain the name, age, legal residence, and occupation of the applicant, and such other description of the applicant as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, and a duplicate thereof shall be filed in the office of the collector of internal revenue for the district within which such Chinaman makes application.

SEC. 8. That any person who shall knowingly and falsely alter or substitute any name for the name written in such certificate, or forge such certificate, or knowingly utter any forged or fraudulent certificate, or falsely personate any person named in such certificate, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $1,000, or imprisoned in the penitentiary for a term of not more than five years.

SEC. 9. The Secretary of the Treasury may authorize the payment of such compensation in the nature of fees to the collectors of internal revenue, for services performed under the provisions of this act, in addition to salaries now allowed by law, as he shall deem necessary, not exceeding the sum of $1 for each certificate issued.

And the House agree to the amendment of the Senate to the title so as to read as follows: "An act to prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States."

T. J. GEARY,

J. LOGAN CHIPMAN,

Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

J. N. DOLPH,

JOHN T. MORRAN,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

The statement of the conferees on the part of the House was read, as follows:

STATEMENT

The managers on the part of the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on H. R. 6185 make the following statement to accompany the report of the conferees of the two Houses.

The first amendment merely makes more certain the laws to be continued in force.

The second amendment provides for the punishment of those who attempt to violate the law the first time instead of for the second offense.

The third amendment increases the limit of punishment from six months to one year.

The other amendments explain themselves.

T. J. GEARY,

J. LOGAN CHIPMAN,

Managers on part of House.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from California demands the previous question upon the adoption of the report.

Mr. HOOKER of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I hope we shall have some discussion of this matter, or some explanation of the report greater than this small fragment that has been read. I do not understand, and I take it for granted a great many members do not understand, precisely the effect of the report. Therefore I think we ought to have some discussion upon the report. It is a very important matter, one which was very fully discussed when Senator DOLPH made the report in the Senate, and it is one of importance to the House, and it is a question upon which the House ought to pass more deliberately than it did the bill as it originally passed through the House. I think there ought to be a full explanation of the charges that have been made by the committee of conference. I hope the motion for the previous question will be voted down. We passed the former bill under the spur of the previous question, and passed it without the House understanding it.

The SPEAKER. The question is not debatable.

The question was taken on ordering the previous question, and the Speaker announced that the "ayes" seemed to have it.

Mr. HOOKER of Mississippi. I demand a division.

The House divided, and there were—ayes 97, nays 17.

So the previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER put the question on the adoption of the conference report.

Mr. HITT. Is there no debate upon this question after the previous question has been ordered?

The SPEAKER. There is, if gentlemen desire it, fifteen minutes on either side.

Mr. HITT. I think there ought to be some explanation of this report.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois.

Mr. HITT. I shall oppose the adoption of the report. I hope the gentleman from California [Mr. GEARY] who brings in the report is willing to explain it so that an intelligent man watching him closely can get some understanding of the bill, whatever it be, contained or implied in this conference report.

Mr. GEARY. It depends upon the degree of intelligence possessed.

Mr. Speaker, this bill, as it has been reported back by the committee of conference, provides for the continuance of the existing law upon this subject, with the addition of a few amendments agreed to by the Senate, and which are intended to make more effective the operation of the existing law. It is not the House bill. All those drastic features that some gentlemen found so much fault with have been eliminated by the Senate. The Senate has agreed to this report, and we are anxious to get the bill through, because the law expires the day after tomorrow.

Mr. HITT. The statement of the gentleman throws very little light upon the bill. A very close search of a series of several obscure documents is required in order to learn the meaning of this conference report. In the first place, it is the House bill, amended by the Senate by the substitution of a bill continuing the existing exclusion laws. To that the committee of conference have made a series of verbal and important amendments to different parts of that Senate bill. Added to that are a series of of Maryland, are engaged at the present time in the laudable effort to erect in the State of Maryland a monument to all patriots of the said State who aided during the Revolutionary war to establish the independence of the said State and of these United States of America; and

Whereas Maryland furnished over 20,000 soldiers fully equipped and perfect in discipline to the Revolutionary army, troops that were distinguished for great bravery in the field, as shown:

First, At Fricks Mill Pond, Long Island, where 400 of the Maryland Regiment, under Maj. Gist, with fixed bayonets charged six different times Cornwallis's brigade of Regulars, and by their great gallantry saved the American Army, and caused Washington to exclaim, "Good God! what brave fellows I must this day lose."

Second, As shown when acting as rear guard in the defense of the retreat of the American Army from Long Island and from New York.

Third, As shown at Harlem Heights, when the First Regiment, Col. Griffith, and the Fourth Regiment, Col. Richardson, Regulars of the "Flying Camp," charged and carried with fixed bayonets the intrenchments of the British Regulars and drove them until recalled by Gen. Washington.

Fourth, As shown at Fort Washington, when Col. Moses Rawlings's Regiment of Rifles, but 274 strong, resisted the six different charges of a body of 5,000 Hessians, killing and wounding over 600 of the enemy, and only retired from their post after the rest of the American Army had retreated from the field.

Fifth, As shown at Monmouth, where Lieut. Col. Ramsey's Maryland battalion and Col. Stewart's Regiment of Regulars saved the American Army.

Sixth, As shown at Cowpens, where the gallant Capt. John Eager Howard and his Maryland company saved a retreating army and turned defeat into a glorious victory.

Seventh, As shown at Germantown, Trenton, Eutaw Springs, and other battlefields of the Revolutionary war; and

Whereas the United States Government has made a number of liberal appropriations to Revolutionary monuments in other States, or else erected at its own cost the said monuments; and

Whereas nearly all of the over 20,000 heroes of Maryland rest in unknown and unmarked graves, and it is proper and right that their patriotic and great deeds be handed down to future generations, as the patriotism of the people is the safety of the state; and

Whereas the State of Maryland after the said war did by its firm stand against the claims made by the State of Virginia to sole ownership of the Western territory, preserve to the General Government the said territory now largely developed into great States of this National Confederacy, and did also cede for the purposes of the General Government the present District of Columbia, and did advance to aid in erection of proper buildings for the said General Government the sum of $93,000, which money came in a very large measure from the same families that furnished their fathers and sons to the Revolutionary war; and

Whereas the said Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution intend to apply to the Congress of the United States for the sum of $40,000, to aid in the erection of the said Revolutionary monument; Therefore,

Be it resolved, First, that this national congress of the Sons of the American Revolution, composed of delegates from the different State organizations, do most heartily indorse the erection of the said monument by the Maryland Society, and ask that the active aid and influence of each and every member of the society throughout the United States be given to the enterprise.

Second, that this congress, by the signatures of its general officers hereto attached, petitions the Congress of the United States that the said appropriation of $40,000 be granted the Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution to aid in the erection of the said monument to all Maryland patriots of the Revolutionary war.

HORACE PORTER,

President-General.

JAMES C. CRESAP,

Lieutenant, U. S. Navy, Secretary-General.

CITY HALL, NEW YORK, April 30, 1892.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. BLACKBURN, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 823) allowing the pay of rear-admirals to commodores while acting as rear-admirals, reported it without amendment.

Mr. VEST, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2900) authorizing the Aransas Harbor Terminal Railway Company to construct a bridge over and across the Corpus Christi Channel, known as the Morris and Cummings Ship Channel, in Aransas County, Tex., reported it with amendments.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2893) authorizing the construction of a free bridge across the Arkansas River, connecting Little Rock and Argenta, Ark., reported it with amendments.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. VOORHEES introduced a bill (S. 3076) granting an increase of pension to Wells Johnson; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3077) granting an honorable discharge to David Patterson; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3078) granting an honorable discharge to Spencer D. Gleason; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3079) granting an honorable discharge to Timothy Way; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3080) supplementary to an act entitled "An act to provide a government for the District of Columbia," approved February 21, 1871, and also to an act entitled

"An act for the government of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes," approved June 20, 1874; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 3081) to authorize the issue of a duplicate to Addison A. Hosmer of a certificate of location of certain land therein described, which has been lost or destroyed; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. BARBOUR introduced a bill (S. 3082) for the relief of Sophia Miller; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3083) granting a pension to Henry Stein; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3084) granting a pension to Martha J. Griffith; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. DOLPH submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. TELLER submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the naval appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. SQUIRE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

HAMPTON INSTITUTE REPORT.

Mr. DAWES submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That there be printed for the use of the Senate 3,000 extra copies of Executive Document No. 31, first session Fifty-second Congress, being report made by the Hampton Institute regarding its returned Indian students.

POWDER BOATS IN NEW YORK HARBOR.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a concurrent resolution submitted yesterday by the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON], which will be read.

The concurrent resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to remove at once all powder boats used for the storage of powder now lying in the harbor of New York; and that hereafter no boats of this description shall be allowed in said harbor, except boats in transit or those engaged in transferring army and navy supplies of powder.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the concurrent resolution.

Mr. CHANDLER. Since yesterday I have investigated this subject. I find that there are no army or navy boats in the harbor used for the storage of powder. The only boats that come within the province of the resolution—

Mr. DAWES. Let me inquire how the resolution comes before the Senate?

Mr. McPHERSON. I can not hear the Senator from New Hampshire.

Mr. CHANDLER. I waited for the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. DAWES. I understood that there was an arrangement for the order of business this morning.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution comes over from a previous day.

Mr. DAWES. Is it part of the morning business?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair laid the resolution before the Senate under the rule.

Mr. DAWES. Is it part of the morning business?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is morning business.

Mr. CHANDLER. There are no boats which would come within the purview of this resolution except mercantile powder boats. There are such boats moored in the harbor, and I suppose perhaps that is the safest place in which to keep powder in the vicinity of New York City. I think there is some reason to doubt whether it would be wise to prevent the storing of mercantile powder in those boats in that harbor, but I make no objection to the resolution if the Senator desires its passage, because before it passes the other House the owners of those harbor boats will have an opportunity to make themselves heard.

I desire to call the attention of the Senator, however, to the fact that this should be not a concurrent resolution but a joint resolution, because it is an act of legislation. It is an act directing the Secretary of the Treasury to remove the powder boats, and I do not suppose that that act of legislation can be performed by the two Houses by concurrent resolution; but if the Senator will change the resolution to a joint resolution, which will go to the President in the ordinary method, I will make no further objection.

Mr. McPHERSON. Very well; I have no objection to changing the form of the resolution.

Mr. HISCOCK. What is the resolution?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be again read. The Chief Clerk read the resolution.

Mr. HISCOCK. I should like to have the resolution go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It has already gone over one day.

Mr. McPHERSON. The resolution came over from yesterday.

Mr. HISCOCK. This is the first I have heard of the resolution, and I should like to ascertain something of the facts.

Mr. McPHERSON. The facts are simply these: There has been complaint made to the Department by the boards of trade and commerce of Jersey City in the past few years with respect to the nearness of the powder boats that are moored in the harbor of New York and often in and about B-does Island and Ellis Island. Before Ellis Island was taken as an immigrant station it was used for the storage of powder; and when the Government took possession of that island the powder which had been stored there for the use of the Army and Navy and also for commercial purposes was stored upon boats in the harbor. At any hour of the day or night anybody who is familiar with that locality will see a hundred powder boats, both foreign and engaged in domestic trade, moored in and about the harbor. It was confessed by the Navy Department and the War Department that there had been hundreds of tons of powder stored on those boats. The people of Jersey City are very much afraid of it; and although the Ordnance Bureau of the Navy Department assured the people of Jersey City that two or three hundred tons of powder blown up in the harbor of New York would not injure anybody that does not satisfy their fears.

There are a great many places where the powder boats could be moored, up the Hudson River, if you please, somewhere along the shore, or down below the harbor in the Kills, or anywhere far removed from these populations.

I have repeatedly asked the Department to make a change. Last year we proposed an appropriation of money, one was offered here, for the purpose of providing a powder magazine for the Navy Department, and they have established themselves in the interior of New Jersey, something like 40 miles from the coast. They have purchased property alongside of the army magazine, which is somewhere up in the mountains of New Jersey, and there they manufacture and store their powder. There is train communication twenty times a day between the powder station and the coast, and powder can be transported on cars if it is to go on board a naval ship, or if it is to be used by the Army it can be put on board a boat and transferred immediately to the ship.

There is no necessity for storing powder in and about the harbor of New York. It is a menace all the time, and if some foreign ship, a merchant ship, if you please, or a naval ship, should come into the harbor and moor alongside a powder boat and by some accident there should be a collision, or a shock upon the boat should explode the powder, the effect would be serious; it would blow all the lot of craft out of the water. It is in close proximity to B-does Island, where the Statue of Liberty is erected, and it is a case of the most extreme negligence and carelessness of which I have any knowledge. It is the duty of Congress to simply say that some other place must be provided for storing these immense quantities of powder.

Mr. HISCOCK. Am I interrupting the Senator?

Mr. McPHERSON. Not at all.

Mr. CHANDLER. If I may be allowed a moment, I should like to ask the Senator from New Jersey whether he understood my statement that there is no army or navy powder in the harbor; that these boats are all private boats for the storage of commercial powder? I have ascertained that fact since yesterday; so that it is not a case as against the army or navy powder boats, but only as against the few boats that are kept there for the storage of powder by private parties for commercial sale.

Mr. McPHERSON. Then I want to ask the Senator from New Hampshire if that should be permitted? Why should not commercial powder be transported through the harbor in like manner as is the powder to be used for the Army and the Navy?

Mr. CHANDLER. That is a question—

Mr. McPHERSON. It was confessed here about a year or a year and a half ago that the Navy did store powder on boats in the harbor and so did also the Army, but the occasion for doing that has now been entirely avoided by reason of the close proximity of the powder magazine in the State of New Jersey, some 30 or 40 miles from the coast, with direct rail communication. If the commercial boats in which the commercial powder is stored are moored in the harbor of New York the Secretary of the Treasury, having control of the police department of that harbor under the revenue system, is perfectly qualified to see that they are removed.

Mr. HISCOCK. This resolution may be all right. I do not know whether it is or not. The condition of things depicted by the Senator from New Jersey has existed for years. The resolution, if it should pass, would not be effective, as it would be simply the direction of the Senate and not a law.

Mr. McPHERSON. The Senator, then, is not aware of the fact that I have consented to change the form of the resolution and make it a joint resolution for that purpose?

Mr. HISCOCK. What I propose is that in any case, whether in this resolution or a joint resolution, it is always unusual, so unusual that there is scarcely a precedent for it, to pass a measure of this kind unless it has been acted upon and reported by a committee of the Senate. I do not care how speedy action is taken in investigating this question, the sooner a committee may report the better, but in my judgment it should go to a committee; and therefore I move its reference to the Committee on Commerce. I believe the Senator is a member of that committee. Let them report the facts and report a joint resolution. If this action should be justified or desirable, if a half of what the Senator has stated as justifying it is true, it certainly will meet no objection at my hands; but I think, as it interferes with the commerce of a great city and a great harbor, there should be a report upon the question. Therefore I move its reference to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. McPHERSON. Mr. President, a single word, if you please. If the Senator from New York had watched the reading of the resolution he would have found that I make no interference in the resolution with the operations of commerce. The resolution itself proceeds against the storing of powder in boats in the harbor of New York and using them for storage purposes. I have no objection to the resolution going to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. HISCOCK. All right; let it go there.

Mr. McPHERSON. I hope the committee will report it back at an early day.

Mr. HISCOCK. The sooner the better. I do not intend any obstruction of it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there be no objection the resolution will be referred to the Committee on Commerce. It is so referred.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TWAYLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 4636) making appropriations for the support of the Military Academy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1883, asked a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. WHEELER of Alabama, Mr. NEWBERRY, and Mr. HELL managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House insisted upon its amendment to the bill (S. 1379) to provide for a pension for Obe Sutherland, late a teamster in the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Army, disagreed to by the Senate, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. MARTIN, Mr. SNOW, and Mr. CURTIS managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message further announced that the House had agreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 256) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River at DeWitt, Carroll County, Mo., and to establish it as a post road.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following resolution in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

Resolved by the House of Representatives, (the Senate concurring), That the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 5818) to provide for certain of the most urgent deficiencies in the appropriation for the service of the Government for the fiscal year 1883, and for other purposes, be, and they are hereby, authorized to consider, and if they deem the same to be necessary, to embrace in their agreement an appropriation for fees of witnesses in United States courts.

CHEYENNE AND ARAPAHOE RESERVATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business which was assigned for this hour, being the resolution submitted by the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES] relative to President's message upon the appropriation of March 3, 1881, for payment to the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations for their interests in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservation. The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES] is entitled to the floor.

Mr. DAWES. Mr. President, I voted for this resolution in committee, and as I propose to vote for it in the Senate, I desire to state very briefly the reasons which control my vote. Those reasons will not lead me to follow either the Senator money they take more satisfaction in the fact that they will hoist the American flag upon these two magnificent ships than they do with any question of dollars and cents or other matters, whether pertaining to subsidy or anything else. They own them; they run them, and they want them under the flag.

There is no harm in my stating what I think, that the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE] in his very full and clear statement, did not make altogether clear that the International Navigation Company is an American company, organized under American law, with large capital and splendid management. It owns the Red Star or Antwerp line. It owns the Inman Line, which is the one in which the 90 per cent is held, as referred to in the bill. It also owns five line American vessels built in America, the Ohio, the Pennsylvania, the Indiana, the Missouri, and the Conemaugh. Now they seek to make the nominal transfer, not of title, not of ownership in any way, but the nominal transfer of flag in the case of these two magnificent vessels. It is a matter of national pride that we have so great a steamship company now already engaged in the foreign trade, and it will be a gratification to everybody to see these two splendid vessels sailing under our flag and have the pecuniary advantage of being able to draw many more passengers by doing so, which would be a reward for the transfer.

Mr. MILLS. I desire to ask the Senator if I am to understand that the language of this bill excludes these vessels from participation in the benefits of the provisions of the law passed by the last Congress?

Mr. HAWLEY. My inclination was to agree with the view of the Senator [from Missouri [Mr. VEST], because I wanted the bill to go through, but I am not very particular whether they get subsidy or not. They are surrendering over $100,000 a year by this transfer, which the British Government is giving them.

Mr. MILLS. I do not believe, Mr. President, that they will be actuated by such strong emotions of patriotism as to surrender $100,000 simply that they may display the American flag upon the masts of their vessels. Gentlemen do not trade by such promptings as that. When these gentlemen are surrendering this $100,000 per annum which they are deriving from the treasury of Great Britain, they do it that they may derive more than $100,000 from the Treasury of the United States.

It seems to me the question presented by this bill is, Shall the owners of these vessels draw their subsidies from the treasury of Great Britain or shall the Treasury of the people of the United States contribute it to them? This measure means that we shall give out of the money placed in our Treasury by the taxpayers of the United States this subsidy and permit the owners of these vessels to pay it back in subsidy into the coffers of Great Britain.

I am as much in favor of free ships as any gentleman on the other side of the Chamber or any gentleman on this side of the Chamber, but I want free ships to come upon a question of principle, and I want anybody, in the exercise of his natural right as a free man, to be permitted to go anywhere in the markets of the world to buy anything from a ship to a pin and bring it to this country, and to display over the masts of your vessels the ensign of the Republic and navigate the waters of the earth with it. I do not want to vote to permit a given company as a favorite of the Government to go to a foreign country and buy one or two vessels, not to enlarge the commercial marine of the United States, but to put their hands into the public Treasury and extort the revenues taken by unjust principles of taxation and placed there by the hard earnings of the people of the United States.

Let your ship measures stand upon a principle, and if you want to enlarge the commercial marine of the United States and you want to see the flag of the Republic riding upon all the waters of the earth, then make laws that will permit all the citizens of the United States to go into foreign markets and have their ships built at foreign navy-yards and bring them to the United States free of duty. If we can make ships in the United States cheaper and better than the people of other countries there will be no necessity for the adoption of this or any other measure of this kind.

If there is anything upon our statute books that forbids American shipbuilders from building vessels as cheap and as good here as vessels are built in foreign shipyards, then let us repeal the law and permit the American people to build their own vessels in their own shipyards, and build them without bounty contributed from the pockets of the people of the United States.

I do not like this measure. I am sorry that the Senator has presented it so hastily, and that he demands for it such hasty and rapid consideration. There is a great question involved in this measure, which ought to receive the calm and deliberate consideration of this very deliberative body, but, instead of that, a bill is brought forward in this body without even a report, and it is demanded that it shall be rushed through, and it has nothing behind it to recommend it except the patriotic desire of the owners of these vessels that the American flag shall float above them instead of the flag of Great Britain. It is the old flag and an appropriation again. Patriotism always comes to Congress, but it comes for dollars, and this company would not be so desirous to transfer the flag of Great Britain back to some British vessels and place upon its own vessels the Stars and Stripes, except that dollars are to be made by the transaction. If this company has the right to make these dollars, then every citizen of the United States has the same equal right, and this Senator, representing the States and the people of the United States, ought to so make the laws that they shall render equal and exact justice to all.

Mr. PALMER. I am always very much inclined to suspect a claim proposed by private individuals which promises such large public advantages. I can appreciate the sentiment so beautifully expressed by the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY] of the anxiety of these shipowners to sail under the American flag. I can comprehend that. I do not know how long they have been bearing the flag of Great Britain; I do not know when this sudden passion became so potent as to bring them before Congress to require this assistance. It seems to be new-born, though it has been slow in developing; still I say I am inclined to suspect a scheme in what promises so much.

I have listened with admiration to the brilliant picture drawn by the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE], and if my imagination was not somewhat chilled by age, probably, or by remoteness from the ocean, I should sympathize with him, but it promises too much—too much good to the country. There is too much offered by these patriotic citizens to justify, at least, speedy and sudden action upon this bill.

If the statements made are true, might not some general law be prepared which would allow other patriotic men to indulge their passion for the flag? Why limit it to these two ships? Are there not others afloat which would also desire to bear the flag? Why should the privilege be conferred especially upon the owners of these two ships?

Underlying all this, Mr. President, there is a very important question, and one which I think ought to be carefully considered before we commit ourselves to the special policy proposed by this bill. As a rule, I dislike special legislation; as a rule, general legislation is much more likely to promote the general welfare, and while I do not profess to understand this subject, and my remoteness from the sea, perhaps, disqualifies me from appreciating the disinterestedness of seafaring men, still this matter involves a good deal more than is on the surface, and I should be glad, before we are called upon to vote on the bill, to hear more about it. I know of no one who can furnish me information that would be so satisfactory as the Senator from Maine.

Mr. HIGGINS. Mr. President, I shall vote for this bill, but with very great reluctance and upon a single ground, and that is that it will give to the American Navy two ships that can be used for cruisers in case we are involved in any imbroglio such as we have been threatened with in the last year or two, when we have needed some such vessels. Other than that, I think we ought to stand on the rule which has governed this Government since its origin, that ships flying the American flag shall be built in the United States, and I object to their being brought in here under what seems to be special legislation.

The reason given by the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY] that 90 per cent of the stock of this company is owned by Americans does not appeal to me. If Americans want to build ships, let them build them in the United States and not buy them in foreign countries. I think it is dangerous to establish any exception, even this exception to the rule for which I stand, and I only get my consent to vote for it on the ground I have named, and that is that the needs of the Navy require that these ships should be introduced when there is the opportunity thus to do it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS].

The amendment was rejected.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, and read the third time.

Mr. MORRILL. I ask for the yeas and nays on the passage of the bill.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll, and Mr. ALLEN responded in the affirmative.

Mr. MANDERSON. I wish to interrupt the roll call to state that I do not think the question is understood. Is the question on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Texas?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the passage of the bill. The amendment has been disagreed to.

Mr. ALLEN. I voted with the understanding that I was voting for the passage of the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator is correct.

Mr. CULLOM (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY]. I have been informed that he would vote for this bill if present, and with that belief, I shall vote. I vote "yea."

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. In his absence I withhold my vote.

Mr. IRBY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. JONES of Arkansas (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK], who is detained from the Senate, and therefore I withhold my vote.

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], but I understand from his colleague [Mr. RANSOM] that I am permitted to vote on this question, and so I vote "yea."

Mr. MANDERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN]. Not knowing how he would vote upon this question if present, I abstain from voting. I should vote "yea" if he were here.

Mr. MILLS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. PUGH. I am paired with the junior Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR], but I am satisfied he and I agree on this bill, and I vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the junior Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER], who is absent. Being informed that if present he would for the bill, I vote "yea."

Mr. SHERMAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. CARLISLE]. I do not know how he would vote if present, and therefore I withhold my vote.

Mr. TURPIE (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the senior Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS]. He being absent, I withhold my vote.

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. I am not advised how he would vote, if present, on the question. In his absence I withhold my vote. Otherwise I should vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. CASEY (after having voted in the affirmative). I am paired with the Senator from Florida [Mr. PASCO]. I do not know how he would vote on this bill, and I therefore withdraw my vote.

The result was announced—yeas 41, nays 10; as follows:

YEAS—41.

So the bill was passed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. MORGAN. At the request of the senior Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER], I desire to ask leave of absence for him until Thursday next. He is called away from the Senate on some matters that require his attention in Philadelphia. I believe.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The leave of absence will be granted in the absence of objection.

INTERNATIONAL MONETARY CONFERENCE.

Mr. MORGAN. I beg to announce also, at the request of the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER], that on Thursday morning, after the routine business of the Senate is finished, he will ask the Senate for permission to speak upon the subjects involved in the President's message on bimetallism, which I shall then ask to take from the table.

DISTRICT TAX SALES.

Mr. McMILLAN. I ask unanimous consent to take up Order of Business 566, being House bill 4815.

Mr. COCKRELL and Mr. DAWES. Regular order!

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The regular order is called for.

Mr. McMILLAN. The bill I desire to have acted upon is an administrative matter that requires to be passed immediately. It is connected with the District of Columbia, and it will not take more than two or three minutes to act upon it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. DAWES. The Senator will excuse me—

Mr. McMILLAN. It will only take a few minutes.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair will lay the unfinished business before the Senate, which is the resolution of the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES] relative to the President's message concerning the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservations.

Mr. DAWES. I hope the Senator from Michigan will excuse me. The time is fixed for taking the vote on the pending measure, and there are other Senators who desire to occupy the attention of the Senate in that time. If the Senator will excuse me, I shall be much obliged to him.

Mr. CULLOM. I think the bill of the Senator from Michigan will be disposed of in a moment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The title to the bill will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 4845) to amend an act entitled "An act relating to tax sales and taxes in the District of Columbia."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to amend the act relating to tax sales and taxes in the District of Columbia, approved February 6, 1879, so as to read:

That it shall be the duty of the assessor for the District of Columbia to prepare and keep in his office, for public inspection, a list of all real estate in the District of Columbia heretofore sold, or which may hereafter be sold, for the nonpayment of any general or special tax or assessment levied or assessed upon the same, said list to show the date of sale and for what taxes sold; in whose name assessed at the time of sale; the amount for which the same was sold; when and to whom conveyed if deeded, or, if redeemed from said sale, the date of redemption. And it shall be the duty of said assessor, whenever called upon, to furnish, in addition to the regular tax bills, a certified statement, over his hand and official seal, of all taxes and assessments, general and special, that may be due and unpaid at the time of making said certificate; and for each and every certificate so furnished by said assessor, the party requesting the same shall pay into the treasury of said District a fee of 50 cents; and said certificate when furnished shall be a bar to the collection and recovery from any subsequent purchaser of any tax or assessment omitted from and which may be a lien upon the real estate mentioned in said certificate, and said lien shall be discharged as to such subsequent purchaser, but shall not affect the liability of the person who owned the property at the time such tax was assessed to pay the same, mentioned in said certificate. And it is hereby declared that all public records which have any reference or in any way relate to real or personal property in said District shall be open to the public for inspection free of charge.

All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with any of the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CHEYENNE AND ARAPAHOE RESERVATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business which was assigned for this hour, being the resolution submitted by the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES] relative to President's message upon the appropriation of March 3, 1891, for payment to the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations for their interest in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservation.

Mr. DAWES. Mr. President, it will be recollected that at the cessation of the debate on Friday I was calling attention to what evidence there was in support of the position that there was an implied trust accompanying this conveyance by the Choctaws and Chickasaws of the land about which this debate has arisen. I had admitted that upon its face the deed was an absolute conveyance. I had stated, and this is what I mean by an implied trust, that without regard to the form of the deed, the transfer by the Choctaws to the United States was by them and by the United States understood to be for the purpose of settling upon the land friendly Indians. That restriction and limitation was not put in the deed.

I desire, first, to bring to the attention of the Senate what evidence there was of the existence of this understanding before I discuss the question what obligation that imposed upon the United States. I had first called the attention of the Senate to the admission of the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT] to that effect, wherein he had stated that both parties supposed that the lands would be used for an Indian government, and that that was in contemplation. I might have added at that time, which I desire to now, the admission of my other distinguished friend and colleague upon the committee, the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON], to the same effect, wherein in the same debate he stated:

These treaties, taken by and large, not only with the Choctaws and Chickasaws, but with the Creeks and Seminoles and Cherokees, do provide, running all through them, that here is to be a government by Indians, and that white men, except in certain conditions, are not to interfere with them.

Mr. MUTCHLER. As announced by the Clerk, I am paired with the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. WARWICK]. If he were present he would vote "no" on this question and I would vote "ay."

The result of the vote was announced as above stated.

The question recurred on the motion of Mr. HOLMAN to recommit with instructions.

The SPEAKER. The instructions will be read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the bill (H. R. 7820) making appropriations for the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors be recommitted to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, with instructions to report the same back at once, amended by striking therefrom the two provisions authorizing contracts to be entered into amounting in the aggregate to $26,702,321 for certain works in excess of appropriations proposed in the bill.

The question was taken, and the Speaker announced that the yeas seemed to have it.

Mr. HOLMAN demanded a division.

Mr. HEMPHILL. In order to save time, Mr. Speaker, we may as well have the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 85, nays 152, not voting 92; as follows:

Mr. STUMP with Mr. GEISSENHAINER.

Mr. WILSON of West Virginia with Mr. BUCHANAN of Virginia.

The result of the vote was then announced as above recorded.

The question recurred on the passage of the bill.

Mr. HOLMAN. On that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were not ordered, there being on a division (demanded by Mr. HOLMAN) 31 in support of the demand and 144 against it, the affirmative not being one-fifth of the whole.

Mr. HOLMAN and Mr. COOPER demanded tellers.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, it was agreed that there would be no filibustering. We are consuming the time unnecessarily.

Mr. HOLMAN. Give us the yeas and nays.

Mr. BYNUM. We may as well have the yeas and nays on this or otherwise there will not be a vote on anything else to-day.

Tellers were ordered.

Mr. BLANCHARD. I ask unanimous consent that we take the vote by the yeas and nays, as it will save time.

There being no objection, the vote was ordered by yeas and nays.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 185, nays 66, not voting 78; as follows:

YEAS—185.

So the bill was passed.

The Clerk announced the following additional pairs:

Mr. ABBOTT with Mr. WILSON of Kentucky, for the rest of the day.

Mr. WILSON of West Virginia with Mr. BUCHANAN of Virginia, on this vote.

The result of the vote was then announced as above recorded.

On motion of Mr. BLANCHARD, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that on to-morrow morning I shall ask that the House proceed to the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

WASHINGTON AND GEORGETOWN RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I ask to call up the bill (H. R. 6913).

Mr. HICOUT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of order. I wish to know if upon the last District day the previous question was not ordered and the yeas and nays ordered on a bill concerning the charter of a railroad corporation in this District, and if that is not the regular order at this time?

Mr. HEMPHILL. I think the gentleman from Georgia is correct, and if there be no objection on the part of the House I will ask that that bill be laid upon the table. I will state that it is impossible for the company to complete the work which was contemplated by it at the time the bill was before the House, and its passage to-day would not only not be of any benefit but would be an injury.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman indicate the title of the bill?

Mr. HEMPHILL. Is the bill S. 2015, known as the Washington and Georgetown Railroad bill.

Mr. BLOUNT. I have no objection to the disposition suggested by the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. HEMPHILL], if the bill can be got out of the way in that manner.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest to the gentleman that perhaps the better way would be to indefinitely postpone it rather than to lay it upon the table, if it is a Senate bill.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I ask unanimous consent that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. HEMPHILL] asks unanimous consent that the bill just indicated by him (S. 2015), known as the Washington and Georgetown Railroad bill, be indefinitely postponed? Is there objection?

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bills and joint resolution of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (H. R. 276) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River at De Witt, Carroll County, Mo., and to establish it as a post-road.

A bill (H. R. 5108) to establish a military post at or near the city of Helena in Lewis and Clarke County, Mont.

A bill (H. R. 5374) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Osage River between the town of Warsaw and the mouth of Turkey Creek, in Benton County, Mo.

A bill (H. R. 5441) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the National Union Insurance Company of Washington," approved February 14, 1895.

A bill (H. R. 6295) to punish falsifying before trial boards of the Metropolitan police force and the department of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

A bill (H. R. 6788) to establish supports of entry and delivery at Superior, Wis., and at Ashland, Wis., in the Superior collection district of Michigan and Wisconsin.

A bill (H. R. 5803) making appropriations for expenses that may be incurred under the treaties between the United States and Great Britain concluded at Washington February 29 and April 18, 1892; and Joint resolution (H. Res. 118) to suspend the issues of permits to erect dwelling houses in alleys in the District of Columbia.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. McCOOK, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had insisted upon its amendments to the bill (H. R. 4636) making appropriations for the support of the Military Academy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, disagreed to by the House of Representatives, had agreed to the conference asked by the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. CULLOM, Mr. STEWART, and Mr. CALL as the conferees on the part of the Senate.

It also announced that the Senate had passed without amendment bills of the following titles:

A bill (H. R. 7023) to encourage American shipbuilding; and

A bill (H. R. 4845) to amend an act entitled "An act relating to tax sales and taxes in the District of Columbia."

It also announced that the Senate had passed the following resolution:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring). That the conferees on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7818) to provide for certain of the most urgent deficiencies in the appropriations for the service of the Government for the fiscal year 1896, and for other purposes, be, and they are hereby, authorized to amend the bill, if they deem the same to be necessary, to embrace in their agreement an appropriation for fees of witnesses in United States courts.

LAND TITLES, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I ask to call up the bill (H. R. 6913). This bill was read on the last District day, and I ask that it now be read by sections for amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Sec. 3. That the records in any trustee's deed, executor's deed, guardian's deed, or marshal's deed, recorded in the proper office in said District prior to March 3, 1893, shall, in favor of the parties in possession actual or constructive claiming thereunder, be prima facie evidence in all courts of law and equity of the facts recited: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not affect pending suits, nor the rights, if any, acquired under existing laws, of any person who, within twenty years next before the passage of this act, shall have asserted on the land records of the District of Columbia any title adverse to the title of any person claiming under such deeds.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I offer the amendment which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The amendment was read, as follows:

Section 3, line 7, strike out all after the word "provided" and substitute the following:

"That, excepting in cases of actual, open, and notorious possession for twenty years under such deeds, the provisions of this section shall not bar the right of entry of any person having such right within said twenty years, until after the expiration of three years from and after the passage of this act; nor operate upon or as to any land about which any litigation is now pending for the period of three years from and after the date of any final decree or judgment in, or discontinuance or dismissal of any such litigation, nor bar the right of entry, if such right existed at the date of commencement of possession actual or constructive under any such deed, of any person who, under existing law, was then laboring under any legal disability, until after the expiration of three years from and after the removal of such disability.

Mr. CULBERSON. To what section do you offer that?

Mr. HEMPHILL. I offer that to section 3 in place of the provision.

Mr. CULBERSON. What is the effect of the amendment?

Mr. HEMPHILL. The effect of the amendment is to give persons who have any rights within the period of twenty years, exemption from the operation of this section until the expiration of three years after the passage of this act.

Mr. CULBERSON. I think that is a good amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will ask the gentleman from South Carolina if it is a motion to strike out and insert this?

Mr. HEMPHILL. To strike out the provision therein contained, and insert the words indicated.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. CULBERSON. I will ask the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. HEMPHILL] if he has any objection to an amendment to line 5, section 3, to strike out the words "or constructive."

Mr. HEMPHILL. I will state to the gentleman that with his consent I will go on with the bill a little further, and let him offer the amendment he suggests a little later; or if the gentleman prefers it, I might as well agree to that amendment. I think it is not unreasonable.

I will state to the gentleman from Texas, I think this ought to apply to no one except as against a person in actual possession; and if he will draw the amendment so that it will be applicable where the party is in constructive possession against any one else claiming to be in constructive possession, but not against a person in actual possession, I think it would be a proper amendment.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Speaker, I do not think that the gentleman should insist that the records in an official deed should be prima facie evidence in favor of a person who is not in actual possession.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Well, if the gentleman will offer his amendment to strike out the words, I will accept it. I think there is a great deal of force in the position of the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. DIXON presented the memorial of Robert B. Flowers and other citizens, of Washington County, R. I., remonstrating against the commitment of the Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation to close the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of the District of Columbia, praying for the passage of Senate bill 1213, so that working people may unite their capital and labor in the District of Columbia for the purpose of conducting coöperative enterprises; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. WILSON presented a petition of the directory board of the Commercial Exchange of Des Moines, Iowa, praying that ample appropriation be made for the service of the Weather Bureau; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. SANBERS. I present a petition of the Board of Trade of Butte, Mont., praying for the passage of legislation segregating the northeast corner of the Yellowstone National Park so as to permit railroad construction therein.

I also present a petition of the city council of Butte, Mont., to the same purport.

I also present a petition of the Helena (Mont.) Commercial Club, praying for the passage of legislation enabling railroads to be constructed to Cooke City, Mont.

I move that the petitions lie on the table, as there is a bill pending which contemplates this legislation.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. PADDOCK presented memorials of Perley E. Wilson and 227 other citizens of Lexington, Nebr.; of Mrs. P. S. Thompson and 13 other citizens of Barwell, Nebr.; and of the Presbyterian Church of Diller, Nebr., remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday and the sale of intoxicating liquors thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. COKE presented the petition of J. L. Long and other citizens of McLennan County, Tex., praying for the passage of the Hatch antioption bill; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented the memorial of S. W. Henderson and other citizens of Texas, remonstrating against Congress committing the United States Government to a union of religion and state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. GIBSON of Maryland presented a memorial of citizens of Maryland, remonstrating against the passage of Senate bill No. 362, providing for the removal of the Southern Ute Indians from their present reservation in Colorado; which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also presented two petitions, collected by the National Woman's Temperance Union of Maryland, containing 72 and 92 individual signatures, respectively, praying that no exposition or exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress shall be opened on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the memorial of Mary E. Middlekauff and other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Hagerstown, Md., and a memorial of sundry citizens of Bloomington, Md., remonstrating against Congress committing the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented sundry petitions, collected by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Maryland, containing 1,197 individual signatures, praying that no exposition or exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress shall be opened on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. WASHBURN presented the memorial of J. W. Kraushaar and 34 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Medford, Minn.; the memorial of D. Alway and 17 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Eagle Lake, Minn.; the memorial of Almada Southworth, a member of the Eunace Church of Pelican Rapids, Minn., and the memorial of A. D. West and 28 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Litchfield, Minn., remonstrating against Congress committing the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the petition of Robert Stanton and other citizens of Crookston, Minn., praying for the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting any legislation by the States respecting an establishment of religion or making an appropriation of money for any sectarian purpose; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. COCKRELL presented a petition of the North Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, Mo., praying that the World's Columbian Exposition be closed on Sunday and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. MANDERSON presented the memorial of H. H. Schnebly and 19 other citizens of Exeter, Nebr., remonstrating against Congress committing the United States Government to a union of religion and the state in the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of the Presbyterian Church of Diller, Nebr., remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday and the sale of intoxicating liquors thereat; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented sundry petitions, collected by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Nebraska, containing 202 individual signatures, praying that no exposition or exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress shall be opened on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. CHANDLER presented the following petitions of Salem Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of New Hampshire:

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation for the encouragement of silk culture—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Petition praying for the passage of House bill 395, defining hard and imposing a tax thereon—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the free delivery of mails in rural districts—referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts—to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. CAMERON presented memorials of the Presbyterian churches of Pittsburg, Brandt, Reading, Jenkintown, Lawrence County, Hawley, Chameford, Moore, and Butler; of the Methodist Episcopal churches of Greenfield, Philadelphia, Pleasantville, and Kimersburg; of the Lutheran churches of Maytown, Potts Grove, and Pine Grove Mills; of the Baptist churches of Uniontown and Sycamore; of the First Congregational Church of Pittston, and of the Reformed Church of Elderton, all in the State of Pennsylvania, remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday and the sale of intoxicating liquors thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. SHERMAN presented sundry petitions, collected by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Ohio, containing 533 individual signatures and 72 representative endorsements, praying that no exposition or exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress shall be opened on Sunday, which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PLATT. I present three memorials from churches in the State of Connecticut, remonstrating against any appropriation for the World's Fair unless a guaranty is given that the Fair shall be closed on Sunday and no liquor sold on the premises, with a threat of opposition hereafter to all members of Congress not heeding the demands of the memorialists. I wish to say that I think I am in sympathy with the purpose of the memorialists; I have long ago announced my opinion that the World's Fair ought to be closed on Sunday, but I am not in sympathy with the threat which is contained in the memorials. I do not like to do anything under duress because I am threatened.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The memorials will be referred to the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial.

Mr. HISCOCK presented petitions of the Presbyterian churches of Rochester, Lewiston, Hornellsville, Parma Center, and Brighton, in the State of New York, praying that the World's Columbian Exposition be closed on Sunday, and the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. SHERMAN, from the Committee on Finance, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

He also, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, submitted a report to accompany the joint resolution (S. R. 76) to authorize the President to invite certain governments to send delegates to the Pan-American Medical Congress, heretofore reported by him.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2637) to extend North Capitol Street to the Soldiers' Home, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 429) to incorporate the District of Columbia Suburban Railway Company, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom were referred the following bills, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bills were postponed indefinitely:

A bill (S. 760) to incorporate the District of Columbia Suburban Railway Company;

A bill (S. 1105) to incorporate the Washington and Deanwood Railway Company in the District of Columbia;

A bill (S. 1314) to incorporate the Washington and Brookland Railway of the District of Columbia;

A bill (S. 1433) to incorporate the Washington and Bladensburg Street Railway Company; and

A bill (S. 1193) to incorporate the Washington Northeastern Street Railway Company.

Mr. SHoup, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2999) extending the time for the completion of the Spokane and Palouse Railway through the Nez Perces Indian Reservation, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

GEORGE H. ELLIOT.

Mr. MITCHELL. I am instructed by the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3020) for the relief of Lieut. Col. George H. Elliot, to report it favorably, without amendment. I ask leave to place the bill on its passage. I think when I shall have made a brief statement there will be no objection to it.

The bill proposes to authorize the accounting officers of the Treasury to pass to the credit of Lieut. Col. George H. Elliot, of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army, the sum of $40, paid out by him in October, 1889, to Dr. John H. Neail, for medical attendance furnished to one G. W. Brown, a laborer in the employment of the United States, under the direction of said Elliot, and who was seriously injured, through no fault of his own, as shown by the papers, by the fall of a derrick at Washington, D. C., September 21, 1889. The Secretary of War recommended the passage of this bill; the committee has recommended its passage unanimously, and in order to save printing I ask the Senate to proceed to its consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REPORT ON TABLING.

Mr. MORRILL, from the Committee on Finance, reported the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That there be printed for the use of the Senate—copies of Senate report No. 639, Fifty-second Congress, first session, of which number 5,000 copies shall be for the use of the Committee on Finance.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY HEARING.

Mr. PADDOCK. I am directed by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred a resolution providing for payment of stenographer employed by the Committee on Naval Affairs to report hearings on Senate bill 1763, to report it favorably without amendment, and I ask for its present consideration.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution; which was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the stenographer employed to report the hearings before the Committee on Naval Affairs on Senate bill 1763, to provide for a more perfect organization for the United States Naval Observatory, and for other purposes, be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. COCKRELL. That comes from the Committee on Contingent Expenses?

Mr. PADDOCK. It does. I so reported it. It is simply to authorize the payment of a charge upon the contingent fund of a stenographer who was employed by a previous resolution under which a hearing has been proceeding.

Mr. COCKRELL. That fund is being trenched upon very rapidly.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is upon agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE introduced a bill (S. 3108) granting a pension to Persis Barnard; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3109) to amend the act incorporating the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3110) granting a pension to Eunice M. Brown; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CARLISLE introduced a bill (S. 3111) for the relief of Robert S. Hill; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. GIBSON of Maryland (by request, introduced a bill (S. 3112) to regulate the sale of distilled and fermented liquors in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 3113) to remove the charge of desertion standing against John W. Wacker; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. CAMERON submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was ordered to be printed, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Commerce.

NATIONAL GUARD AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Mr. MITCHELL submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select), and ordered to be printed:

Resolved, That the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial be, and it is hereby, instructed to inquire into the propriety of Congress making a suitable provision to cover the cost of transportation and subsistence of the National Guard of the different States to enable such National Guard to be placed in encampment for a reasonable period at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, in 1893; and to report by bill or otherwise.

HON. HENRY W. BLAIR.

Mr. CHANDLER submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That Senate Executive Document E, of the present session, being appropriation the Secretary of the Treasury has very little authority or ability to act, especially if restricted to the appropriation for fuel, lights, and water. I will append to my remarks some letters throwing much light on this question, which I will not take up the time of the committee by reading. These letters show clearly the economy of the proposed change.

Why, sir, although this addition of $1,500 to the bill by my amendment would seem at the first glance to be swelling the appropriations, and therefore in the line of extravagance, it is in reality in the line of economy, retrenchment, and reform. There is not a business man in the country who would not invest $1,500 additional in equipping his "plant" if by so doing he could save that amount yearly thereafter. The Government is now paying nearly $4,000 per annum for gas in the post-office and custom-house at Nashville. If we expend twelve or fifteen hundred dollars putting wire and lamps, I am informed that we can get the same light from an electric-light company for about half what is now paid for gas. The following are the letters referred to:

UNITED STATES POST OFFICE,
Nashville, Tenn., May 7, 1892.

DEAR SIR: Respecting electric-light plant in Nashville custom-house building, I beg to report: * * * What we need now is the wiring of the building. The sale of the Capital Electric plant of Nashville to the Thomson-Houston Company has been confirmed, and they are now erecting an immense plant in Nashville which will be able to supply us with electric light. I enclose herewith:

First, Proposal of Western Electric Company, of Chicago, Ill., to furnish a complete plant. In the ninth article of said proposal you will find the bid for wiring, etc., which includes everything (see their subsequent letter dated May 3, 1892, attached to proposal) to make plant complete, the work to be done for $1,065.

Second, I enclose proposal of Capital Electric Company, of Nashville, Tenn., to do the wiring, etc., for $1,315.

Third, I enclose a chart (blue) showing the distribution of the lights on the different floors. The above bids were made with said charts before the bidders.

I respectfully recommend the bid of Western Electric Company, $1,065, this being the lowest bid, and the bidders responsible. I trust you will be able to have the work ordered at the earliest possible date, to enable me to get the electric light in before the hot weather. With gas at night in our post-office main room the thermometer in June, July, and August reaches nearly 100°.

Our principal mails, as you know, arrive late in the evening and must be distributed in the night. The electric light will be very much cheaper than gas.

If the work is ordered, I respectfully ask the return of the blue chart, so I can see the work is done in accordance with the plan.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
A. W. WILLS, Postmaster.

Hon. JOSEPH E. WASHINGTON, M. C.,
Washington, D. C.

[Extract from letter of A. W. Wills, postmaster at Nashville, Tenn., also custodian of the custom-house building, to honorable Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, D. C.]

Concerning the almost absolute necessity of the use of electric light in the Nashville post-office, I beg to say that the heat from the gas is so oppressive during the hot nights, as well, too, in the day, when gas must be used, that our employes in the summer months break down under it. As many as five mail trains arrive at Nashville about dark every night. All this mail must be distributed at night by gas light; also all the mail received from dusk until near midnight in our hourly collections must be made up for the six outgoing mail trains leaving between the hours of 5:30 and 7:30 every morning. All this work must be done at night. The question of the great saving to the Government by the use of electricity is one of material importance. The record of the Treasury will show that the Nashville Gas Company was paid for the year ending October 31, 1889, the sum of $3,498.43. This for gas consumed in Nashville custom-house building. For the year 1890 we paid $2,904.61.

The use of the electric light will be a great blessing to the Nashville post-office employes. The thermometer for nights in June, July, and August stands from 95° to 100° in the Nashville post-office under the great heat generated by the gas, in addition to the torrid atmosphere.

I respectfully submit estimates herewith for the establishment of an electric plant in the building in my custody.

A glance at the facts will readily evidence the very few years required to pay for the whole plant considering the annual payments we are making for gas, hence it is great economy as well as giving us a better and more satisfactory light. * * *

NASHVILLE, TENN., April 25, 1891.

SIR: Your communication, of the 24th instant, relative to the lighting of the custom-house with electricity, is at hand, and in answer would respectfully state, that if the estimates for furnishing the plant and cost of running the same are correct and accurate, there should be no delay in advertising for bids, for it would undoubtedly be a very great improvement in every sense.

There would doubtless have to be an act of Congress, however, authorizing the expenditure and making an appropriation for the same. Should there be any appropriation available I have no doubt but what the Department would authorize an advertisement for bids at once, and should the matter be submitted to me, with limited investigation I have made, I would not hesitate to recommend the substitute of an electric plant as being more economical, more satisfactory as light, and infinitely more comfortable to the employes. Only those who have worked under the fierce heat and flickering light of gas jets in hot summer nights for hours can understand how oppressive it is.

Very respectfully,
JOHN W. LINCK, Special Agent.
Maj. A. W. WILLS, P. M.,
Custodian Custom-house, Nashville, Tenn.

[Copy of certificate by L. W. Walker, superintendent repairs on public buildings.]

I believe the electric plant established in the Nashville post-office would result in quite a saving to the Government, and I would certainly be a great relief to the employes.

Respectfully,

L. W. WALKER,
Superintendent Repairs on Public Buildings.

[Copy of letter from Hon. Assistant Secretary United States Treasury.]

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF SECRETARY,
Washington, D. C., Oct. 22, 1891.

SIR: The Department is in receipt of your communication of the 7th instant, inclosing proposal of the Western Electric Company, of Chicago, Ill., for the introduction of an electric-lighting system in the building in your custody, and in reply thereto you are informed that until Congress shall have provided an appropriation for such a purpose it is impracticable to favorably consider the proposition submitted.

The Department has several times made an effort to have appropriations made for the introduction of electric plants into some of the larger buildings, but without success.

Respectfully yours,

L. CROUNSEY, Assistant Secretary.

CUSTODIAN Custom-house, Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. HOLMAN. Just a single word, Mr. Chairman. The committee thought that the appropriation of $725,000 for these purposes was sufficient. That is the judgment of the committee. The gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. WASHINGTON] called upon me to inquire whether his item was in the bill. I told him, of course, that it was not. We never put those items in separately. They are all put in in gross; and I feel very certain that if this is a measure of economy, the Secretary of the Treasury will see to it that the proper amount is taken out of this $725,000 and applied to this object.

Mr. DINGLEY. I move to strike out the last word, simply for the purpose of remarking upon this point that the estimate of the Secretary of the Treasury was $775,000. That was a considerable reduction from the estimates of the previous year. The committee have cut down the estimates to $725,000, notwithstanding there are a large number more of public buildings to be heated and lighted; so that gentlemen can see how little chance there is for any new building to come in under this general appropriation.

Mr. HOLMAN. I ask for a vote.

The question being taken on the amendment of Mr. WASHINGTON, the Chairman announced that the yeas seemed to have it.

Mr. WASHINGTON. I demand a division.

The committee divided; and there were—ayes 35, noes 80.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. HOLMAN. As some gentlemen desire to leave the House in a few minutes, and as it is very nearly 5 o'clock, to accommodate them, without, I hope, discommoding the committee, I move that the committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

The committee accordingly rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. LESTER of Georgia, from the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that that committee had had under consideration the bill (H. R. 7529) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, and had come to no resolution thereon.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

A message, in writing, from the President of the United States was communicated to the House by Mr. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries.

The message also informed the House that the President had approved and signed bills and joint resolutions of the following titles:

- On April 28, 1892:
  - An act (H. R. 5978) to extend the time for making an assessment of real estate in the District of Columbia outside the cities of Washington and Georgetown.
  - An act (H. R. 4429) to empower the commissioners of the District of Columbia to grant respites and pardons in certain cases.
  - On April 30, 1892:
    - An act (H. R. 2786) to amend the act giving the approval and sanction of Congress to the route and termini of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad in the District of Columbia.
    - An act (H. R. 6286) to amend the charter of the Rock Creek Railroad Company.
    - On May 3, 1892:
      - An act (H. R. 7029) to create a third division of the district of Kansas for judicial purposes and to fix the time for holding court therein.
- Joint resolution (H. R. 819) for the release of all claim of the United States to lot 18, section 2, governor and judges' plan, Detroit.
- On May 5, 1892:
  - An act (H. R. 6185) to prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States.

An act (H. R. 7023) to encourage American shipbuilding.
Joint resolution (H. Res. 97) to fill vacancies which will occur in the Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers on April 21, 1892.

On May 11, 1892:

An act (H. R. 8503) making appropriations for expenses that may be incurred under the treaties between the United States and Great Britain concluded at Washington, February 29 and April 18, 1892.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. PLATT, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had passed without amendments bills of the following titles:

A bill (S. 2699) to repeal section 16, chapter 294, of the act approved July 15, 1870, making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1871, relating to brevets;

A bill (S. 2150) in regard to a monumental column to commemorate the battle of Princeton, and appropriating $30,000;

A bill (S. 1304) for the erection of a public building at Pierre, S. Dak.;

A bill (S. 1126) for the establishment of fish hatcheries in the States of Montana and Texas and on the Gulf coast;

A bill (S. 894) authorizing the Secretary of War to cause a survey to be made for a ship canal connecting the waters of Lake Erie and Ohio River; and

A bill (S. 242) for the relief of the estate of John W. Whitfield, late register of the land office in the Delaware land district of Kansas.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined and found truly enrolled bills of the following titles; when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (H. R. 7727) to authorize the construction of a telephone line on the coast of Virginia from Cape Charles to Assateague Island, in aid of the preservation of life and property;

A bill (H. R. 4845) to amend an act entitled "An act relating to tax sales and taxes in the District of Columbia;" and

A bill (S. 4) for the relief of Alfred J. Worcester.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. COCKRAN, until Tuesday next, on account of important business.

To Mr. LOCKWOOD, for the remainder of the week, on account of important business.

And then, on motion of Mr. HOLMAN (at 4 o'clock and 54 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned until to-morrow at 12 o'clock m.

AMENDMENT TO A BILL.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVAL.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 9th instant approved and signed the act (S. 2305) to provide for the permanent preservation and custody of the records of the volunteer armies, and for other purposes.

WEST INDIAN COMMERCIAL RELATIONS.

Mr. CALL submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was ordered to lie on the table and be printed:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That a joint committee of three Senators and four Representatives of the Congress of the United States shall be appointed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, respectively, who shall inquire into the conditions of Cuba and the islands known as the Greater Antilles and the Lucayas or Bahama Islands, and the Lesser Antilles or Windward or Caribbean Islands, and their commercial, military, and political relations with the people of the United States of America and report to Congress such legislation as may be expedient and necessary to improve the commercial and political relations of the United States of America and the people of these islands.

2. That the committee shall have power to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer, and the expense of such investigation, including the pay of the stenographer and clerk, shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

INDEPENDENCE OF CUBA.

Mr. CALL submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Resolved, That the President be, and he is hereby, authorized and requested to open negotiations with the Government of Spain for the purpose of inducing that Government to consent to the establishment in the island of Cuba of a free and independent republic; such consent to be given upon the payment by Cuba to the Government of Spain of such a sum of money as may be equivalent both to the value of the public property belonging to Spain in the said island and to the relinquishment of her sovereign rights, and also the securing, by treaty, of such commercial advantages as may be agreed upon.

WASHINGTON AND ARLINGTON RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. HALE. I submit a resolution for adoption.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Whereas the Washington and Arlington Railway Company of the District of Columbia was incorporated by an act approved February 28, 1891, and W. H. Bando, D. C. Forney, J. S. Lawrence, Beriah Wilkins, C. G. Lee, and James L. Barbour were named as the incorporators of said road; and

Whereas no one of the above-named persons appeared as a stockholder in said company in the report made to the Senate dated January 23, 1892; and

Whereas the charter of said road authorizes the company, on certain conditions, to construct and maintain a street railroad on the Canal Road in Georgetown, which road will be seriously obstructed for public travel if such railroad were so constructed; and

Whereas it is a matter of public report that the charter of the said railroad company was sold by the incorporators for the sum of $48,000 or thereabouts, before any part of the construction of said road was begun, and has been sold several times subsequent to the first sale; and

Whereas the amount of money expended on said road is stated to be in the neighborhood of but $5,000; Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Committee on the District of Columbia be instructed to investigate the affairs of the said Washington and Arlington Railway Company, and to report to the Senate by bill or otherwise what action, if any, is necessary to be taken to protect the public interests in accordance with the reserved power of Congress to amend, alter, or repeal the said act of incorporation.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, I do not need to call the attention of the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia to this matter, because I know that he is most vigilant in guarding the rights of the public against such transactions as will be brought out on the investigation proposed. It has been found that in several cases, enough in number so that I may say it has been a practice, parties living here or living outside got acts of incorporation for building roads in the city and in the country adjacent in this District, and then sell them outright, involving the interposition of Congress to secure charters in order that they may be hawked about in the market, and six months after we pass a bill and make it an act incorporating one of these companies everybody in it has disappeared, and they have exacted whatever terms they can agree upon, whatever sums of money can be paid from others who come in, pay the money, and, as in the case indicated here, sell it out again.

I know that the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN], who is giving much time and labor to these questions, will see to it that this practice obtaining heretofore shall cease. When valuable privileges are granted it ought to be upon the bona fide statements and representations of parties who are really going to act under the charters and build the roads, and not, as in this case, under the pretense of spending money, putting a few thousand dollars in, and then selling out their charter.

Mr. COCKRELL. Why should not Congress revoke the charter, then?

Mr. HALE. I leave all that, in the language of the resolution, to the committee that will report. I do not speak, of course, with authority; I am not even a member of the committee; but I have no doubt that the result of this investigation, which need not be long, will be that the charter of the company will be revoked.

I may say here that in the bills being now reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia I am very glad to see that provisions are being inserted, which has not been done before, that unless the company itself proceeds forthwith to build the road and complete it and throw it open to the public the charter shall be forfeited.

Mr. DAWES. Mr. President, I wish it were practicable to extend this investigation further than the District of Columbia. This reprehensible practice has come to be very prevalent in other quarters. There is quite a vigorous traffic in railroad corporation, authorized to build railroads through the Indian country, going on at this time. There were a great many of those roads chartered in the last Congress and the one previously, and they are offered for sale all over the country. Whenever a road which is absolutely necessary for commercial purposes there is proposed, up comes one of these roads and shakes itself in the face of those parties and tells them that they will sell themselves out to them for a certain sum of money or else they can not go through. It has come to the notice of the Committee on Indian Affairs that that has been carried on a good deal. The committee has reported two bills repealing charters of that kind.

I heartily cooperate with the Senator from Maine in this investigation. I do not think it is practical to extend it to the case I call attention to, but it ought to be thoroughly ventilated in this country that it is quite a matter of mercantile business here getting charters of various kinds, not only these railroads but other corporations for special privileges, and they are offering them for sale around the country.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the adoption of the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HALE. I desire to call up the naval appropriation bill, if the routine business is concluded.

Mr. MORGAN. On last Monday I gave notice, at the request of the senior Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER], that I would call up to-day for debate on his part the message of the President which lies on the table in reference to an agreement with foreign countries for the free coinage of silver or some bimetallic arrangement. I desire now, if the routine business is finished, to call up that message so as to enable the Senator from Kansas to deliver his address.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair will recognize the Senator from Kansas at the conclusion of morning business.

Mr. MORGAN. Very well.

REPORT ON TARIFF.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day, which will be read.

The resolution reported yesterday from the Committee on Printing was read, as follows:

Ordered, That there be printed for the use of the Senate 15,000 copies of Senate Report No. 619, Fifty-second Congress, first session, of which number 5,000 copies shall be for the use of the Committee on Finance.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. COCKRELL. Yesterday morning when the resolution was up I called the attention of the members of the Committee on Finance, some of whom were not here, to this matter.

Mr. McPHERSON. It has been, I think, understood by the chairman of the committee that the resolution could not be called up for consideration, as there is some difference of opinion in the Finance Committee as to whether it has been reported to the Senate by the Finance Committee.

Mr. MORRILL. I have no objection to the resolution going over until Tuesday.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be passed over.

JANE SHERRY.

Mr. HALE. If the Senator from Kansas desires this morning to address the Senate I shall not push the naval appropriation bill, but at the conclusion of his remarks I shall ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of that bill.

Mr. ALLISON. May I ask the indulgence of the Senator from Kansas one moment to have a pension bill passed? I think it will take but a moment, and it is a case that is rather pressing. The old lady is paralyzed, and it is hoped that she will live long enough at least to have the pension granted. The bill has passed the other House. I ask the Senate to consider House bill 724.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Iowa asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that it now consider the bill H. R. 724 granting a pension to Jane Sherry. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read for information.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, at the rate of $12 per bill, H. R. 395, and praying for the passage of a general pure-food law—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. WILSON of West Virginia: Petition of A. F. Allender and others, of Randolph County, W. Va., against the passage of the Brosius land bill and in favor of the Paddock pure-food bill—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. WRIGHT: Resolutions of the First Baptist Church of Canton, Bradford County, Pa., against Sunday opening of the World's Fair and against the selling of liquors on the grounds of said Exposition—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

By Mr. YOUNG: Petition of E. Williams and 26 others, Seventh-Day Adventists, of Bancroft, Shiawassee County, Mich., against the closing of the World's Fair on Sunday—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

SENATE.

MONDAY, May 16, 1892.

The VICE-PRESIDENT resumed the chair.

DEATH OF SENATOR BARBOUR.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D., offered the following prayer:

O God, Jehovah, we reverently draw nigh to Thee, worshipping Thee, the only living and true God. Amid the mysteries of life and of death, the generations coming and going, we rejoice that Thy throne abideth. We bless Thee for the life and immortality brought to life in the Gospel. We thank Thee for Him who is the way, and the truth, and the life.

As we stand among the dying and the dead, give us grace to walk in Christ, ever accepting His truth and imitating His life, having begotten in us, by Thy divine Spirit, that life which shall never end.

Sanctify to us, we pray Thee, this bereavement. Remember very tenderly, thou God of all comfort, those who stand most nearly related to Thy departed servant. We thank Thee for every true and faithful life and for this life spared so long.

We pray Thee, teach us to live wisely and well, serving God and our own generation, keeping our consciences right before Thee and toward each other, doing whatsoever our hands find to do with all our might faithfully and well, not knowing the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh, so that whenever Thou shalt come we may be prepared to give account to Thee, the judge of quick and dead.

Hallow to us the day of God with all the blessed privileges that center in the holy Sabbath. Sanctify all the orderings of Thy providence unto us Thy servants this day. Have us in Thy holy keeping, O Thou, in whom we live and move and have our being. If it please Thee, spare and prolong life, and teach us so to use life's blessed opportunity that when we shall come to the end we may enter into rest. Blot out our transgressions, and grant us grace and peace, in the name of Christ our Saviour. Amen.

The Journal of the proceedings of Friday last was read and approved.

Mr. KENNA. Mr. President, in the absence, on account of sickness, of the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL], it becomes my painful duty to announce to the Senate the death of Hon. John S. Barbour, late a member of this body from that State.

Apparently in the full and healthful possession of every normal faculty, Mr. Barbour was among us on Friday in the active and zealous discharge of public duty. Even beyond the allotted time of threescore years and ten he crossed this threshold on Friday afternoon, seemingly in vigorous health, his last day's labor unconsciously performed. At 10 o'clock in the closing hours of that day he retired to his bedroom the embodiment and type and perfection, as far as human eye could see, of physical manhood. On Saturday morning, at the age of seventy-one years and five months, at the hour of five and a half o'clock, with only a word of admonition to those who affectionately surrounded him at his house in this city, John S. Barbour passed away.

Mr. President, in this second sudden visitation of Providence in the present session of the Senate we recognize a power in whose inscrutable wisdom we were born to live, and in the presence of whose unchallengeable majesty we are born to die. The death of Mr. Barbour is a great grief to his household, a calamity to his friends. It has come as a personal affliction to his late associates in the public service here. His State will exhibit in the bereavement of her people a realization of the full measure of her loss, and his country, by the observances in which the nations, by their accredited representatives, are soon, by your invitation, to take part, will acknowledge her sense and appreciation of this melancholy event.

And yet, Mr. President, speaking for myself and making frank expression of the inspiration of which this solemn occasion possesses me, I have felt, as the associate and neighbor and friend of Mr. Barbour, that memories of his private virtues and public career, elevated and clean and noble as they were, give back, at least in some degree, a compensation from the grave. They soften by the sweet influences which radiate from the consciousness of a life well spent the asperities of grief which nature is prone to indulge on occasions like this. This death is to my mind the gathering of ripened fruit, the garnering of the sheaf in the well rounded fullness of its golden maturity.

John S. Barbour was in all the relations of this world an elevated character and an upright man. His sterling qualities of mind and heart bore practical fruit. His genius for affairs made monuments in the business and public walks of men, as, in a narrower sphere, his humanity made gratitudes which will follow like angels, guarding him to the tomb.

When the Senate, as is its custom, shall have set apart a day to be devoted to the recounting of his manly virtues and the exhibition of the elements of his lofty character, it will be seen of all that his traits were above those of most of his fellow-men; that he was useful and valuable to his country and his countrymen; that he practiced justice and fair dealing; that he was imbued with a love of right; that he gave example worthy of emulation by youth as well as by age, and that he moved and had his being, without ostentation or form, in the reverence and veneration of his God.

Mr. President, I offer the resolutions which I send to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolutions will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolutions, as follows:

Resolved, That the announcement of the sudden death of Hon. John S. Barbour is received with profound sorrow by his associates in the Senate.

Resolved, That a committee of nine Senators be appointed by the Vice President to take order, with a committee of the House of Representatives, for the funeral of the late Senator Barbour, and as a mark of respect for his memory that his remains be removed from the Capitol to his late residence in Washington, and thence to Poplar Hill, Md., for interment in charge of the Sergeant-at-Arms, and attended by said committee, who shall have power to carry this resolution into effect.

Resolved, That the Senate will at 1 o'clock to-day attend in its Chamber the exercises incident to his funeral.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate communicate these proceedings to the House of Representatives and invite the House of Representatives to attend the funeral in the Senate Chamber at the hour named.

The resolutions were agreed to unanimously.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Under the second resolution, as the committee on the part of the Senate to take order with the committee from the House of Representatives to accompany the remains of their late colleague to his final resting place, the Chair appoints the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL], the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. KENNA], the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN], the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL], the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. CARLISLE], the Senator from Nevada [Mr. STEWART], the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN], the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM], and the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN].

RECESS.

Mr. KENNA. Mr. President, I ask the adoption of the resolution which I send to the desk.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Senate do now take a recess until 12:50 o'clock.

The resolution was agreed to; and (at 12 o'clock and 15 minutes p. m.) the Senate took a recess until 12 o'clock and 50 minutes p. m., at which hour it reassembled.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the House of Representatives accept the invitation of the Senate to attend the funeral services of the late Hon. John S. Barbour, a Senator of the United States from the State of Virginia, to be held in the Senate Chamber this day at 1 o'clock p. m.

Resolved further, That the Clerk of the House be directed to inform the Senate that the Speaker of the House has appointed the following committee, to act in conjunction with the committee of the Senate, to make necessary arrangements and accompany the remains to the place of burial, viz: Mr. MEREDITH, Mr. HOLMAN, Mr. Wilson of West Virginia, Mr. HENDERSON of North Carolina, Mr. HENPHILL, Mr. MUEHLER, Mr. BLOUNT, Mr. COMPTON, Mr. O'FERRALL, Mr. HARBER, Mr. PAYNE, and Mr. GROOT.

FUNERAL OF SENATOR BARBOUR.

At five minutes before 1 o'clock the members of the House of Representatives, preceded by the Sergeant-at-Arms and Clerk and headed by the Speaker, entered the Senate Chamber. The Speaker was escorted to a seat at the right of the Vice-President, the Clerk at the Secretary's desk, and the Sergeant-at-Arms on the right of the Vice-President's desk, and the members of the House were escorted to the seats on the floor provided for them.

They were soon followed by the Major-General Commanding the Army, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the Chief Justice and associate justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, the members of the Cabinet, and the Diplomatic Corps, who were respectively escorted to the seats assigned them on the floor of the Senate Chamber.

At 1 o'clock and 10 minutes p. m. the casket containing the remains of the deceased Senator was brought into the Senate Chamber, having been preceded by the family and friends of the deceased, and escorted by the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate and the committee of arrangements of the two Houses and pallbearers selected from the Capitol police, and followed by acolytes and Rt. Rev. John J. Keane, rector of the Catholic University of America, Rev. C. Gillespie, S. J., Rev. M. C. Dolan, S. J., Rev. A. M. Mandalari, S. J., Rev. James Smith, S. J., Rev. Jacob Walter, Rev. James F. Mackin, Rev. John T. Delaney, Monsignor I. Schroeder and Prof. Joseph Pohle, of the Catholic University, and Rev. Aloysius Brosnan, S. J., master of ceremonies.

The prayers for the burial of the dead, prescribed in the ritual of the Catholic Church, were read by Rev. C. Gillespie, S. J., rector of St. Aloysius Church, first in Latin and then in English, the responses being made by the attending clergymen. After the incensing and blessing of the body, Rt. Rev. JOHN J. KEANE delivered the following sermon:

Judge not before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts, and then shall every man have his praise from God.—1 Cor. iv. 5.

In the presence of the judgment of God, how must all human judgment bow in adoring silence! It is the lesson which the apostle of the Gentiles thus solemnly impressed on the Corinthians. It is the lesson which in this hour of mourning and of wistful gazing beyond the tomb he lovingly whispers to us. It is the lesson by which he ever shaped his own life. In no spirit of contempt for his fellow-men, but in the profound conviction that man's judgment is of but small account when compared with the judgments of the Almighty, he exclaimed: "To me it is a very small matter how I am judged by you, or by human judgment; neither do I judge my own self. For I am not conscious of any wrong in myself; yet am I not hereby justified; but He that judgeth me is the Lord."

Could those white lips speak to us now, would they not, with the awful eloquence of eternity, repeat the words of the Apostle? "Judge me," he would say, "ye friends and partners and witnesses of my life, judge me, for it is your right; my life was not my own but yours, and you have a right to pass sentence on it. Judge me, all ye whose interests were for so many years intrusted to my keeping; honestly I strove to do my full duty to you, but I own my responsibility and your judgment is welcome. Judgemen! O, my country, to whom the best energies of my life were consecrated; thou knowest that I loved thee devotedly; that I strove to serve thee unselfishly; that beyond all the interests of family or friends or party thy welfare was the chief object of my desires; to thee my life belonged and thou hast a right to judge it. But, O, my country and my friends, highly though I value your judgment, sorely though I would be grieved if ye found me worthy of your disapproval, sweet as will be to me the sentence of your approbation, the hope of which was ever a spur to my endeavors, yet what will all this avail me in the eternity into which I now have entered, unless the judgment of Him who searcheth the reins and the hearts be also a judgment of mercy and approval? O, pray for me, my friends, for the hand of the Lord hath touched me."

"Who hath known the mind of the Lord, or who hath been His counsellor?" Not even the Church of Christ pretends to lift the veil and declare the sentence of the Most High. For every child of God over whom her funeral rites are celebrated she has ever the self-same form of humble and repentant supplication for mercy. Even over those who have been highest in the ranks of her ministry she utters the same cry for mercy, and whatever there is of added liturgy is only addition of supplication because of their weightier responsibility. Knowing full well how truly the apostle says: "If we say that we have no sin we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us;" in the awful hour of death she discerneth not between layman and cleric, between the poor stray sheep that has got into the fold, as it were, at the last moment, and the faithful one that has stayed in it always; but over them all and in the name of all equally, she cries out to the Eternal Judge: "Have mercy on me, O God, according to Thy great mercy, and according to the multitude of Thy tender mercies blot out my iniquity. For I know my iniquity and my sin is always before me."

She offers up that prayer for mercy not only for them, but in their name. She prays for all men, without limit or exception, with a charity as catholic as her name, as limitless as the charity of Christ. But she can pray in the name only of those who have associated themselves with her, who have become her members either in accomplished fact or in clearly declared intention and desire. She prays this day not only for Senator Barbour, but in his name, because for years past he had identified his religious life entirely with her. She regards him as having been a catechumen, a candidate for baptism and for full membership in her communion, for such his words and acts plainly declared him to be. And from the earliest days of the Church's history we see with what special tenderness she regarded her catechumens. History has preserved to us the discourse pronounced by the great St. Ambrose over the Emperor Valentinian, who was cut off by an untimely death ere yet he had joined the membership of the Church by receiving baptism.

Grieve not—

Says the saint—because he died without the sacrament of baptism. Tell me, is there anything on our part but the will, the desire? That grace he desired he asked for; who then will say that having asked he did not receive? Assuredly because he asked the grace he received it. Pour forth then, O Eternal Father—pour forth on this Thy servant the abundance of the mercy and the grace which he so desired. As Thou has crowned Thy unbaptized martyrs with the baptism of their blood, so crown this Thy servant with the baptism of his desire. And ye, O brethren—

He continues—

He exclaims to the people—unite your supplications with mine; offer for his soul the holy mysteries; with pious affection let us pray for his repose; by the offering of the heavenly sacraments let us follow his soul with spiritual help. I scatter not flowers on his tomb, but I pour upon his soul the sweet perfume of Christ. With this will I sanctify his remains; through this will I invoke on him all heavenly grace.

In very many words like these, all glowing with faith and charity, all laden with the sweetness of Christian hope, did this great father of the Church utter the feelings of his soul towards his beloved catechumen. And well we know that this was no prompting of human respect, no sacrifice of Christian principle to the dignity of the dead emperor. For it was that same Ambrose who met the Emperor Theodosius at the church door and drove him from the consecrated threshold and from the communion of the faithful, because the blood of the people of Thessalonica was on his hands. No, it was a duty which the great bishop knew that he owed to the catechumen whom death had so suddenly snatched away. And were he here to-day he would speak and act in like manner towards this our friend, who years ago declared his intention of becoming a member of the old Church of Jesus Christ, who, when the duties of public life, which he then thought he had laid aside forever, again seized on him and absorbed him, though he temporarily delayed the final step, never retracted his expressed determination to take it, who all these years has spoken and acted as if he were already in full membership, and who, had time been given him at the last, would assuredly, as his family well knew, have asked for the grace and consolation of her sacred rites.

What Ambrose did fifteen hundred years ago we, his successors in the holy ministry, do to-day. And his eminence Cardinal Gibbons finding it impossible to fulfill this sad duty himself, glad am I that to me should fall the honor of filling his place; for during the eleven years that Richmond was my home and Virginia the field of my episcopal labors I shared in the pride that every Virginian felt at having for the representative of the proud old State in the national Congress so honorable, so high-toned, so spotless a man as John S. Barbour. When, about six years ago, shortly after the untimely death of his saintly and beloved wife, he gave me to understand that soon we would be fellow Catholics, I rejoiced that the luster which his civic virtues reflected on his State and the honor which his public career did to his whole country was likewise to be shared in by the old church of all the ages, the mother of saints and heroes and sturdy upright men and women in every age and clime and condition of human life. Their lives are a testimony to her which she values highly because of its utility to their fellow-men.

In this age of intense activity, when absorption in temporal pursuits so often makes men unmindful of their eternal interests; when the hard-wrought children of men are so prone to think that fidelity to the business of this life renders it impossible to be busy about the life to come; when Caesar's claims are so importunate and so all-pervasive that the representative of the spiritual order is apt to be considered, as her Divine Founder was, an intruder, a usurper, a disturber of the public peace—in such an age that man is a benefactor to his race who by the example of his life gives practical proof that it is possible and easy to be at the same time an energetic business man and yet a man of prayer, to be an active politician and yet a conscientiously religious man, to be a clear-sighted American statesman and yet a firm believer in the old Catholic Church of Jesus Christ.

Soon this Senate Chamber will resound with eloquent tributes to the admirable character and the eminent public services of this good and noble man. Would that the sound of those eulogies might reach so far and sink so deep into the heart of the nation that all his fellow-citizens might thereby be spurred to emulate his civic virtues. Would that the moral of his life might inspire good men everywhere with a better appreciation of their duty to their country, with a firm resolve that no private considerations should hinder them from taking their full part in safeguarding the public interests, instead of leaving them to the mercy of selfishness and greed. Would that, before this example of clean-handed public service, venality and corruption might cower in shame and disappear from the sanctuary of our country's liberties forever. Would that, at the sight of this union of American statesmanship with Catholic faith, the out-ery of religious animosity, so out of place in this land of civil and religious liberty, might forever be hushed. And, oh, would that, above all, the silent eloquence of this impressive spectacle might indelibly imprint on the mind of our country and on the minds of all her public men that lesson so solemnly taught us by Washington in his Farewell Address, that the absolutely indispensable foundation and props of national prosperity must be morality and religion.

Grant, O Heavenly Father, that such may be the beneficent fruit of the life and the death of this good man. From his example may there go forth an influence to purify and to elevate the life of his people. May his country, which so lovingly honors his memory and so sincerely deplures his loss, reap profit from the practical lesson which his death bequeaths to all her citizens. May his testimony to the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ strengthen that faith in the souls of us all and make it invulnerable against the attacks of unbelief. And as Thy holy Pontiff, St. Ambrose, prayed for the soul of his beloved catechumen, so do we implore thee, O Father of Mercies and God of all consolation, to deal in sweetest mercy and love with the soul of this Thy servant. Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him. May he rest in peace. Amen.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The committee of arrangements will escort the remains of the deceased Senator from the Chamber, and after the guests of the Senate have retired the Senate will accompany the body to the residence of the late Senator Barbour, returning to the Chamber for further duty.

The casket was borne from the Chamber, and the Senate, as a body, the invited guests, and the clergymen attended the remains.

At 2 o'clock and 10 minutes p. m. the Senate returned to its Chamber, and the Vice-President resumed the chair.

Mr. MANDERSON. I move that the Senate do now adjourn. The motion was agreed to; and (at 2 o'clock and 11 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Tuesday, May 17, 1892, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, May 16, 1892.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of Saturday last was read and approved.

DEFICIENCIES IN APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting supplemental estimates of deficiencies in appropriations for the District of Columbia submitted by the Commissioners; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

ENGLISH SCHOONER WANDRIAN.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a communication from the Secretary of the Navy, with its inclosures, asking for an appropriation to enable that Department to adjust a claim for damages to the English schooner Wandrian, caused by a collision with the United States steamship Monongahela; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

WHITE EARTH AGENCY, MINNESOTA.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Acting Secretary of the Interior, transmitting a copy of a communication from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs relative to allotments to the Indians of the White Earth Agency, Minnesota; which, with accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

VESSEL TWO SISTERS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a communication from the acting clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings of the court in the French spoliation claims arising out of the seizure of the vessel Two Sisters; which, with accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DEATH OF HON. JOHN. S. BARBOUR.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following letter from the Vice-President of the United States:

VICE-PRESIDENT'S CHAMBER,
Washington, May 11, 1892.

SIR: It is my sad duty to announce the sudden death to-day of Hon. John S. Barbour, late a Senator from the State of Virginia.

The funeral services will be held in the Senate Chamber at 1 o'clock p. m. Monday, May 16, 1892.

On behalf of the Senate, I beg to extend to you and through you to the House of Representatives an invitation to attend these services.

A committee of five Senators will be appointed to act with such committee as is appointed from the House of Representatives to accompany the remains to the place of burial.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

LEVI P. MORTON.

The Hon. CHARLES F. CRISP,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is informed that the resolutions giving the action of the Senate on that subject will come over in a few moments. The gentleman from Indiana [Mr. MARTIN] desires to present a conference report.

OBE SUTHERLAND.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I present a conference report on the bill (S. 1379) to provide for a pension for Obe Sutherland, late a teamster in the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Volunteer Army.

The report of the committee of conference was read, as follows:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 1379) to provide for a pension for Obe Sutherland, late a teamster of the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Volunteer Army, having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the House, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the amount proposed to be inserted, insert "thirty-five;" and the House agree to the same.

A. N. MARTIN.

H. W. SNOW.

Managers on the part of the House.

G. G. VEST.

GEO. L. SHOUP.

Managers on the part of the Senate.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the statement.

Mr. MARTIN. There is nothing further than the report.

The SPEAKER. The rule requires a statement of the managers on the part of the House to accompany the conference report.

Mr. MARTIN. With the permission of the Chair I will withdraw the conference report.

The SPEAKER. If there be no objection, the gentleman can make an oral statement. The rule requires a statement in writing, explaining the effect of the agreement reached by the committee of conference.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, the bill as it originally passed the Senate was for the allowance of a pension at the rate of $50 per month. When the bill came to the House, the Committee of the Whole adopted an amendment by which the amount was reduced to $20. When the bill was returned to the Senate, that body refused to agree to the amendment of the House, and insisted on the rate of $50 a month. A committee of conference on behalf of the Senate met a like committee on behalf of the House and agreed to the amount of $35 in place of $50 as asked by the Senate and $20 as adopted by the House; and to that, Mr. Speaker, we ask the concurrence of the House.

The report of the committee of conference was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. MARTIN, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the report of the committee of conference was agreed to was laid on the table.

MILITARY ACADEMY BILL.

Mr. WHEELER of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, I ask to have the report of the committee of conference on the bill (H. R. 4630) making appropriations for the Military Academy printed in the Record, together with the statement.

The SPEAKER. Without desiring to call it up to-day?

Mr. WHEELER of Alabama. Without desiring to call it up to-day.

The SPEAKER. Without objection that order will be made. There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

The report of the committee of conference is as follows:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 1636) making appropriations for the support of the Military Academy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its amendments numbered 3, 4, 5, 28, 29, 30, 33, 34, and 40.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 1, 2, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 31, 35, 36, 39, 41, 42, 43, 44, and 45 and agree to the same.

Amendments numbered 6 and 7: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 6 and 7, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the amended paragraph and insert in lieu thereof the following: "For one clerk to the adjutant, $1,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 22: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 22, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the same proposed, insert "$15,120," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 37: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 37, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed in the amended paragraph insert "$1,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 38: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 38, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$7,500," and the Senate agree to the same.

The statement is as follows:

The managers on the part of the House of the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the bill (H. R. 1636) making appropriations for the support of the Military Academy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, submit the following written statement in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon and recommended by the conference committee, namely:

Amendments numbered 1, 2, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 31, 35, 36, 39, 41, 42, 43, 44, and 45 are simply verbal amendments, or amendments in punctuation.

Amendment numbered 3 appropriates $1,200 for clerk to the disbursing officer and quartermaster, instead of $1,500 as proposed by the Senate.

Amendment numbered 4 appropriates $1,200 for clerk to adjutant in charge of cadet records instead of $1,500 as proposed by the Senate.

Amendment numbered 5 appropriates $1,200 for clerk to treasurer instead of $1,500 as proposed by the Senate.

Amendments numbered 6 and 7: Appropriate $1,000 for one clerk to the adjutant instead of $2,400 for a clerk to the adjutant and a clerk to the quartermaster as proposed by the Senate.

Amendment numbered 8: Simply changes a total.

Amendment numbered 12: Simply changes a total.

Amendment numbered 17: Simply changes a total.

Amendment numbered 23: Changes the appropriation for a rifle-carrier gun so as to admit limitation as to the ammunition to be used.

Amendment numbered 25: Is the incorporation of a total.

Amendment numbered 26: Gives the appropriation of an enlisted man employed as waterman from $150.00 to $127.75.

Amendment numbered 27: Increases the appropriation for gas, coal, oil, candles, lanterns, torches, chimneys, and wiring for lighting the Academy, chapel, library, cadet barracks, mess-hall, shops, hospital, offices, stables, and riding hall, sidewalks, camps, and wharves from $1,000 to $5,000.

Amendment numbered 28: Appropriates $1,200 for pay of engineer of heating and ventilating apparatus instead of $1,500 as proposed by the Senate.

Amendments numbered 29 and 30: Appropriates $3,000 for pay of five firemen instead of $2,600 for pay of six firemen as proposed by the Senate.

Amendment numbered 31: Limits the period for which a landscape gardener may be employed.

Amendment numbered 32: Changes a total to $15,120 instead of $16,020 as proposed by the Senate.

Amendments numbered 33 and 34: Appropriate $800 for pay of superintendent of gas works instead of $1,500 as proposed by the Senate.

Amendment numbered 36: Strikes out an appropriation of $900 for additions and improvements to organ in cadet chapel.

Amendment numbered 37: Appropriates $1,000 for broken stone and gravel for roads instead of $2,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Amendment numbered 38: Appropriates $250 for maintaining and improving the grounds of the post cemetery instead of $500 as proposed by the Senate.

Amendment numbered 39: Strikes out the words "upon approval of this act."

Amendment numbered 40: Strikes out an appropriation of $760 proposed by the Senate for renewing woodwork in bathrooms.

Amendment numbered 41: Strikes out an appropriation of $1,200 for enlarging ceilings in cadet rooms.

Amendment numbered 42: Strikes out an appropriation of $9,540 for electrical plant for lighting cadet barracks.

Amendment numbered 43: Appropriates $18,250 for enlarging and replacing gas plant, and for placing a two-light pendant with slide light in each cadet room.

Amendment numbered 44: Strikes out an appropriation of $2,000 for asphalt road and walk in front of and around new gymnasium.

Amendment numbered 45: Appropriates $1,000 for equipment of new gymnasium instead of $2,475 as proposed in the original bill.

The principal increase in the bill by the Senate is the sum of $18,250 for enlarging and replacing the gas plant. The conferees have given this matter careful consideration and find that this appropriation is absolutely essential to the welfare of the academy.

The following is from the last report of Col. J. M. Wilson, of the Corps of Engineers, the present superintendent of the Military Academy:

"EXTENSION OF GAS PLANT AND METHOD OF LIGHTING CADET BARRACKS."

"During past years great complaint has been made of the character of light furnished cadets for studying at night, and in my last annual report I submitted a plan and estimate for a complete electric light and power plant for this post."

"This plan did not meet with favorable consideration and no action was taken upon my recommendation."

"During the past year the post surgeon has recommended the use of gas for studying in a number of cases of cadets, and at the medical examination of the graduating class in June the surgeons informed me that the eyes of nearly every graduate were more or less congested, inflamed, and the young gentlemen failed to come up to the requirements of the War Department as to vision, and six failed to read the test type at three-fourths of the required distance. In every instance the young gentlemen claimed that the difficulty had commenced since they entered the Military Academy."

"The gas furnished for the use of the post is reported by the professor of chemistry, who tests it frequently, as of excellent quality. Owing to some bad coal furnished by the contractor it contained more or less sulphur on two or three occasions during the year."

"The gas jet used in barracks is what is known as the hot wing burner, placed upon an iron 10 inches long projecting directly from the side wall of the room and over the table. Two cadets are seated on either side of the table, study by this light, which not only is of insufficient power, but gives out so much heat near the head of the student as to be extremely uncomfortable."

"In order to furnish a better light I propose to increase the gas plant sufficiently to furnish a full supply for all buildings on the post, and to place in every room in barracks a plan in iron chandelier with two arms and a slide drop light. This chandelier will be in the center of the ceiling immediately over the table, so that the cadets can study without difficulty."

"An estimate of $18,000 is submitted for the purpose of carrying out this plan, and I earnestly urge that an appropriation be made for this very important and I may say, almost absolutely necessary improvement."

"An officer of the medical department made an inspection of the gas works at West Point. An extract from his report, now on file in the War Department, says:

"The light now in general use in the cadet barracks is the gas flame or jet supplied by what is known as the 'hot wing light' or 'hot wing burner.' This burner consists essentially in a short horizontal tube terminating at each end in a small vertical tube from which the gas is led. Attached to the center of the horizontal piece is a longer vertical tube which seems to have been designed to act in some way as a pressure regulator. A short nipple beneath the horizontal piece appearing as a prolongation downward of the vertical tube is screwed for attachment to the gas pipe, the whole arrangement having the appearance of an inverted cross, with the extremities of the horizontal arm bent up, and provided with the narrow openings or slits for the exit of the gas. It is seen, therefore, that it is a double jet. This constitutes the entire illumination for each room. There is no special feature about this burner except the central vertical pipe which, as above stated, I probably intended to regulate the pressure of the gas as it is supplied to the burners."

"There is no arrangement for regulating the flow of gas except the key on the common supply pipe, by which the flame may be turned down or out. This double burner is provided with a white glass shade, having the shape of a truncated cone, the diameters of top and bottom being 5 inches and 10 inches. The shade is suspended over the two flames by means of a wire frame, into which the upper or small rim of the shade is fastened. The frame is attached to the top of the vertical pipe or stem already described as the special feature of the burner."

"The general character and defects of the light produced by this burner may be briefly stated as follows: (1) Good illuminating power; the light is indeed, unless suitably modified by distance and proper shading, much too bright for the eyes; (2) unsteadiness of lighting; (3) variability of intensity; (4) high degree of heat; and (5), as a necessary result of the combustion of the gas, a large and rapid production of carbonic acid in the apartment."

"This matter of the increase there of eye diseases has been one that has challenged the attention of every Board of Visitors for many years. The Board of Visitors in the year 1880 called attention to the matter, and I say in their report:

"The eyes of whole generations of officers of the Army are concerned in this vital issue. A student's eyes are not replaceable like his boots, or interchangeable like another's weapons. The long periods of darkness in winter months include prolonged study, and the priceless sight, which is tested so carefully when the cadet enters the Academy, is apt to be injured through want of better illumination purchasable by a few dollars from the Government, which so recently ordered the ophthalmic tests."

"The Board also says:

"Complaints of soreness of eyes are made by about a dozen cadets every three months. Out of an average of 285 cadets 28 with eye affections consulted the post surgeon with regard to them during the three months ending January 31, 1887."

"Since the bill was before the House the conferees have made a careful investigation and find that while electric lights are excellent for illumination, their adaptability for close study by students is seriously questioned, and this is more particularly the case when the students are young boys who have not reached maturity, and particularly is this the case in small plants, such as was proposed by the House for lighting the cadet barracks."

"The conferees find that the Senate has inquired into this matter."

"A letter addressed to the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate by the secretary of War is as follows:

"WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, March 9, 1892."

"SIR, In response to your telegram of the 5th instant, requesting to be informed whether it is desirable to enlarge the gas plant or establish an electric light plant for lighting the Military Academy buildings at West Point, N. Y., I have the honor to invite your attention to the inclosed copy of a telegram dated the 8th instant from the superintendent of the Military Academy on the subject."

"Very respectfully,

"S. B. ELKINS, S. of the War."

"THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS."

"The telegram from Col. Wilson referred to in the secretary's letter is as follows:

"[Telegram.]

"HEADQUARTERS UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY

"West Point, N. Y., March 8, 1892."

"ADJUTANT-GENERAL UNITED STATES ARMY."

"Washington, D. C."

"I have made a report for 1891. I recommended an electric light and power plant at first cost of about $99,000, a plant and cost of $11,000 for operating. As this did not meet with approval of War Department, I submitted in 1891 an estimate of $4,700 for a small gas plant and planing cheap chandeliers in cadet barracks."

"The item of $4,400 in Military Academy bill for electric light, based upon Lieut. Anderson's plan, submitted before I came here, is entirely too small; the plant recommended by him would cost about $13,000, and the annual cost of running it would be $2,400."

"Further study of the subject leads me to prefer gas to electric light for study, except where the plant is immense and the power controlled from a large central station, as in large cities, and I therefore recommended that the gas plant be enlarged and cheap chandeliers introduced into barracks at cost of $18,250."

Mr. HALE presented a petition of the First Congregational Church of Calais, Me., and a petition of the Congregational Church of Andover, Me., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

BETSEY WORTHINGTON.

Mr. SAWYER. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5290) for the relief of Betsey Worthington, to report it back favorably without amendment, and to submit a report. I ask unanimous consent that the bill may be considered now. It proposes to increase the pension of the widow of a soldier of the war of 1812. She is 95 years old, very poor, and her health is such that she has to be nursed night and day.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read for information.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, at the rate of $30 per month, the name of Betsey Worthington, widow of Ransford Worthington, who was a member of the Massachusetts Militia and served in the war of 1812, said pension to be in lieu of the amount now drawn by her.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the report, as follows:

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5290) for the relief of Betsey Worthington, have examined the same, and report:

The report on which this bill was passed by the House of Representatives is concurred in, and is as follows:

"The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5290) for the relief of Betsey Worthington, have considered the same, and report:

"The claimant is the widow of Ransford Worthington, who was a private of Capt. Day's company of Massachusetts Militia in the war of 1812. He was a pensioner on account of said service until his death, which occurred October 16, 1878, and his widow (this claimant) was then placed on the pension roll. She receives $12 per month.

"The testimony of Dr. Judson W. Hastings, of Agawam, Mass., shows that the claimant is 95 years old, and without any means of support except her pension; also, that on November 13, 1891, she suffered a fracture of left thigh and has since required the constant services of nurses day and night, being unable to move herself in bed without help.

"The doctor also testifies that the claimant has other physical troubles due to weakness and old age which add to the difficulty of caring for her, and that she is a worthy woman who gave two sons to the Union Army.

"The above testimony is fully corroborated under oath by Charles W. Hastings, postmaster of Agawam, Mass.

"The passage of the bill is recommended with an amendment fixing the rate of pension at $25 per month, and showing that the same is to be allowed in lieu of the amount now drawn by her."

The bill is reported favorably with a recommendation that it do pass.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in the Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REPORT OF COMMISSIONER OF LABOR.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report back favorably, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute, the concurrent resolution for printing additional copies of the Seventh Annual Report of the Commissioner of Labor, I call the attention of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL] to this matter. I ask for the present consideration of the resolution.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the concurrent resolution.

Mr. MANDERSON. I ask that the substitute may be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. As proposed to be amended:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring). That there be printed 35,000 additional copies, in cloth binding, of the Seventh Annual Report of the Commissioner of Labor relating to the cost of producing textiles and glass in the United States and Europe, and the wages and cost of living of the persons employed in the textile and glass industries; 16,000 copies for the use of members of the House of Representatives, 8,000 copies for the use of members of the Senate, and 11,000 copies for the use of the Department of Labor.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment as read.

The amendment was agreed to; and the resolution as amended was agreed to.

ORDNANCE AND FORTIFICATIONS REPORT.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the following House concurrent resolution, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring). That there be printed 500 additional copies of the report of the Board of Ordnance and Fortifications for the use of the War Department.

OBE SUTHERLAND.

Mr. VEST submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 1379) to provide for a pension for Obe Sutherland, late a teamster of the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Volunteer Army, having in that matter and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective House as follows:

That the Senate recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the House, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the amount proposed to be inserted, insert "thirty-five;" and the House agree to the same.

G. G. VEST,

GEO. L. SHOUP,

Conferees on the part of the Senate.

A. S. MARTIN,

H. W. SNOW,

Conferees on the part of the House.

The report was concurred in.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. PALMER introduced a bill (S. 2135) granting a pension to Mrs. Elizabeth Crowley; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a petition of Council No. 62 of the American Defense Association, of Connecticut, praying for the passage of the bill to amend the naturalization laws; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented the following petitions of Rocky Hill Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Connecticut:

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation for the encouragement of silk culture—referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Petition praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Petition praying for the passage of House bill 325, defining lard and imposing a tax thereon—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the passage of a bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs—ordered to lie on the table.

Petition praying for the free delivery of mails in rural districts—referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads. Mr. MANDERSON presented a memorial of citizens of Hall County, Neb., remonstrating against the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORT ON MENHADEN AND MACKEREL.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE presented a letter from Marshall McDonald, United States Fish Commissioner, transmitting a report upon the natural history of the menhaden and mackerel, together with notes upon the fisheries; which was ordered to be printed for the use of the Senate.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. VILAS, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1161) for the relief of Catherine Metz, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1148) for the relief of drafted men in Pendleton County, Ky., asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs; which was agreed to.

He also, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 702) for the relief of the Mo-kaw-ho-ko Band of Sae and Fox Indians of the Mississippi, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. HISCOCK, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2454) for the application of the accretions of the Caracas awards of 1868 to the new awards made in 1889 and 1890, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 804) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2904) to prevent the sale or delivery of ice within the District of Columbia on the Sabbath day, commonly known as Sunday, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. SANDERS, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2527) to pay John Pope Hodnett for services rendered as counsel to the Government in the investigation into affairs of the District of Columbia, acting as such counsel by order of a resolution of the House of Representatives; also for acting as counsel for the workmen of the District of Columbia for fifteen years last past, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. ALLEN, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1970) for the relief of Daniel C. Rodman and others, sureties on the bond of Ozius Morgan, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1613) for the relief of Charles A. de Arnaud, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs; which was agreed to.

Mr. SQUIRE, from the Committee on Coast Defenses, reported an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the fortification appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. SANDERS introduced a bill (S. 3155) granting an honorable discharge to certain officers; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 3156) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Thompson Hicks, deceased; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. WOLCOTT introduced a bill (S. 3157) to reimburse the State of Colorado for expenses incurred by said State in repelling a threatened invasion and raid by the Utes in 1888; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PALMER introduced a bill (S. 3158) to perfect the military record of Warren Alonzo Alden; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3159) for the relief of Nicholas G. Chesbrough; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3160) providing a pension for Mrs. Julia C. Sharpe; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PETTIGREW introduced a bill (S. 3161) granting a pension to Anna M. Craig; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 3162) granting a pension to Rev. J. M. Madding; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HISCOCK (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3163) for the relief of Caleb R. Turner; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3164) granting a pension to Mary McCarthy; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 3165) to incorporate the Holstein-Friesian Cattle Association of America; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced a bill (S. 3166) for the relief of Betsy McGeorge; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. GORMAN introduced a bill (S. 3167) for the relief of William L. Winans; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. VILAS introduced a bill (S. 3168) for the relief of the legal representatives of William I. L. Nicodemus; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. CASEY submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PLATT submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the river and harbor appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there further morning business?

Mr. HALE. If there is no further morning business I ask that the naval appropriation bill be laid before the Senate.

Mr. PETTIGREW. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from South Dakota rise to morning business?

Mr. PETTIGREW. I rise for the purpose of making a personal explanation in regard to a matter. It will take but a moment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Maine yield to the Senator from South Dakota?

Mr. HALE. Certainly.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I send to the desk and ask to have read a clipping from the Chicago Times of April 29.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The article referred to will be read by the Secretary.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

A dispatch from Washington, published in the Chicago Times of April 29, 1892, contains the following:

"Mr. PETTIGREW went on a $200,000 public bill and at Deadwood, S. D., in part of his method to obtain it he went to Gen. NEWBURY, of Chicago, who, on the Public Building Committee, and intimated that he would report the World's Fair bill favorably in the Senate if Mr. NEWBURY would not get the $200,000 for the public building at Deadwood. Gen. NEWBURY examined the latest census reports and they showed that Deadwood was decreasing in population, consequently the Federal Government was not to make any such large disbursement. He would have no bill there, and at all and any condition."

It is reported that Mr. PETTIGREW will report the World's Fair bill to the Senate when it is ready if Gen. NEWBURY does not get the $200,000 at Deadwood. If this should appear in the Chicago Times, it will rise in his place, recite the story as reported, and then declare the bill be reported by the person next to the chairman. This is all probably not be pleasant for Mr. PETTIGREW, but it would give him a lesson that would need no repetition during the rest of his natural existence.

Mr. PETTIGREW. Mr. President, the article is untrue in every particular. If it did not reflect upon me as a representative and had only a personal bearing I should take no notice of it whatever, but as I am chairman of the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial I can not allow it to go unnoticed. I therefore addressed a letter to Representative NEWBERRY, calling his attention to the article, and I send his reply to the desk and ask that it be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The letter will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES
Washington, D. C. May 13, 1892.

DEAR SENATOR: Your letter of May, quoting a dispatch from a Chicago paper of April 20, 1892, is before me, and had been noticed by me in the public prints. I am very glad indeed to say there is no foundation for the statement in fact or by inference. In your conversations with me regarding the Deadwood public building you have at no time made any improper efforts to obtain favorable action, neither did you at any time refer to the fact that you were chairman of the Quadro-Centennial Committee of the Senate.

Very respectfully,

WALTER C. NEWBERRY

Hon. R. F. PETTIGREW,

United States Senator.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the joint resolution (H. Res. 96) to authorize the loan of certain ensigns, flags, and signal numbers for the purpose of decorating the streets and buildings of Washington on the occasion of the Grand Army encampment in September, 1892.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. HALE. I ask that the naval appropriation bill be proceeded with.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7093) making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, the pending question being on the amendment reported by the Committee on Appropriations to insert on page 41 as amended.

Mr. HALE. I think the Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL] has the floor.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Missouri is entitled to the floor.

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, in continuation of what I said yesterday evening, I desire to say now that on every occasion when a Democrat refers to the difficulties thrown in the way of the present Democratic House of Representatives in reducing the appropriations below the amount shown by the records of the billion-dollar Congress, the Fifty-first, immediately Republican Senators and the Republican press herald it to the world as a justification, extenuation, and mitigation of the action of the Fifty-first Congress.

In 1891, after the Fifty-first Congress had expired, I noticed there was quite a number of leading Democrats and leading newspapers showing great interest in the question of appropriations and predicting long in advance the amount the Democratic House would reduce the appropriations made by the Fifty-first Congress, and it was given out by these prophets that the Democratic House when it assembled would reduce the appropriations $100,000,000. I am not certain that leaders who always predict to the enemy publicly in advance six months or a year what they intend to do are the wisest and safest leaders when the conflict comes. In these predictions they seem to have utterly ignored the laws enacted by the Fifty-first Congress, which laws the present Democratic House has no power to amend, repeal, or modify.

In this connection I desire to say further that the Democratic party has not controlled the administration of the General Government since the 4th of March, 1861, and cannot be legitimately held responsible for any legislation enacted in that time which it did not upon the record sanction and approve. The Republican party had absolute control of every branch of the Government until the 4th day of March, 1875, the beginning of the Forty-fourth Congress, and in that Congress the House of Representatives only was Democratic, the Senate and the President being Republican. In the Forty-fifth Congress, from March, 1877, to March, 1879, the House was still Democratic, but the President and the Senate were Republican. In the Forty-sixth Congress, from March 4, 1879, to March 4, 1881, the Senate and House, the Congress, were Democratic, and the President Republican. In the Forty-seventh Congress, from March 4, 1881, to March 4, 1883, the House and Senate and the President were all Republican again. In the Forty-eighth Congress, from 1883 to 1885, the House only was Democratic, the Senate and the President being Republican. In the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses, from March 4, 1885, to March 4, 1889, the Executive and the House were Democratic, and the Senate was Republican; and in the Fifty-first Congress the Senate and the House and the President were all Republican. In the Fifty-second Congress we have a Democratic House, a Republican Senate, and a Republican Executive. So there rests upon the Democratic party no responsibility for the legislation enacted save only to the extent that the majority of the members of that party have voted for and sanctioned that legislation.

But a word in regard to the appropriations of the Fifty-first Congress. The appropriations are not always a test of expenditures. By an examination of the receipts and expenditures of the Government for a long series of years, it will be observed that the expenditures never come up to the amount of the appropriations. I want to call attention to this point, because I see how our very discernible and able Republican friends intend to shirk out of the responsibility of the billion-dollar appropriations of the last Congress in their statement of receipts and expenditures; and in connection with this I desire to call attention to the statement of the distinguished Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON], that we are going to have a twenty-five-million-dollar surplus on the 30th day of June, 1892. We can have that, there is no doubt about it, if the executive department determines to have it. Now, I want to explain this.

In the receipts and expenditures of the Government which I hold in my hand, from 1856 to 1891, inclusive, I find that the expenditures for the fiscal year 1891 were only $365,773,965.35, while the appropriations for that year were $463,398,510.79. What is the difference between the appropriations as specified in the appropriation acts and the books and records of the Treasury Department showing the actual expenditures? I will explain it. In the expenditures of the Treasury Department no account is taken of all the postal revenues received by the Post-Office Department and expended by it without ever having been covered into the Treasury. That amount is at various times $30,000,000 or $60,000,000 per year. Another item that is not included in these expenditures here is the sinking fund. The expenditures of the millions for the sinking fund are not counted in these expenditures.

Another item that is not counted in these expenditures is the national-bank-note redemption fund. The Senate will recollect that some time ago we had in the Treasury Department $54,000,000 as a national-bank-note redemption fund, but by the silver-billion-certificate law of July 11, 1890, this vast sum was covered into the Treasury as a surplus and thereafter counted as a surplus. The national-bank notes are now redeemed out of the surplus in the Treasury under a permanent annual appropriation, and what ever amount is paid in their redemption is not contained in these estimates of expenditures by fiscal years.

These expenditures have no reference whatever to appropriations, none at all. They are the actual amounts paid out by the Treasury Department during the period from the first day of July of one year to the 30th day of June of the next year, both inclusive. How can the present Treasury have its $25,000,000 surplus on the 30th day of June next? It is a very easy matter, out of such appropriations as were made for the present fiscal year, 1892, of $525,000,000, to delay, to postpone the completion of work ordered, the payment of sums appropriated, the expenditure of the money contemplated. It is a very easy matter in the Department to have a suspension of the consideration of items which, if adjusted, would take money out of the Treasury and have that labor expended on items which will not take it out. It is a very easy matter, with $50,000 pension claims pending in the Pension Office to-day to be disposed of, that the clerks shall give precedence and preference to those under the law of June 27, 1890, none of which take any arrears.

It is very easy for these matters to be delayed and postponed, and if the Treasury Department and the executive officials wish for any reason to show a surplus in the Treasury of $25,000,000 on the 30th of June they can so manipulate as to do it. They can not do it, however, if they pay out the $25,000,000 for the 2 per cent bonds, the old 4 per cent bonds, which have been continued at 2 per cent, because that would exhaust the Treasury. This is the only way that a surplus can be shown in the Treasury at the close of the present fiscal year.

As to the appropriations of the Fifty-first Congress, I have never directly or indirectly apologized for or extenuated them. I have always said, and say now, that they were appalling to the country, that they were in excess of anything that had been appropriated in the whole history of the country. For example, the total appropriations of the Forty-third Congress were $653,794,991.21; of the Forty-fourth Congress, $595,597,832.28; of the Forty-fifth Congress, $704,527,465.98; of the Forty-sixth Congress, $727,537,614.22; of the Forty-seventh Congress, $777,435,948.54; of the Forty-eighth Congress, $655,269,402.33; of the Forty-ninth Congress, $746,342,495.01; of the Fiftieth Congress, $817,963,859.80; of the Fifty-first Congress, $988,417,183.34, about one hun-

I was in Florida last Christmas, upon the coast, at Mosquito Inlet, where there have been a good many maritime disasters. I happened to have in my fishing boat with me a young fisherman, born and raised there, in the prime of life, who knew nothing except about that inlet and that coast. He knew every foot of it, and was as familiar with it as I am with the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD that is printed here from day to day, and more so. I asked him if he was a pilot. "Well, yes," he said; "I think I know every inch of this coast, and I could bring any vessel in here anywhere the darkest night that was ever known; but I can not get into the pilots' association." Said I, "It may be there is no vacancy." "Yes; there have been two up here at Jacksonville for two years, but I can not get in; I do not belong to the family; I am excluded." That thing is going on all over the country. I was last week down at the light-house 7 miles above Virginia Beach, talking with a signal officer, for we have a signal station there. Two of these pilot boats were in the offing. Twenty-six of them belong to Virginia, I believe, or twenty-six to Maryland and some to Virginia.

Mr. FRYE. There are twenty-six in Virginia.

Mr. VEST. There are twenty-six in Virginia. I asked the signal officer in regard to the regulations that govern them, and he said, "When a vessel is sighted and signaled by one of these boats from a port in one of the States then the fees go to that State organization; that when sighted by a pilot who belongs to another State and signaled, then the fees go to that association; but no matter whether the service is performed or not the money must be paid; and when the man protests he is told the State of Virginia, or North Carolina, or Maryland is a better judge of how to take care of your property than you are yourself."

Mr. President, this is the whole statement. If I consulted my personal affiliations and affinities I should certainly oppose this bill. No man has ever approached me except friends from the South who desire its defeat in the interest of some of these pilots, who are exceedingly active upon the other side of the question; but I can not see any escape from the proposition that in this instance we should not deviate from the plain course of duty, as I regard it: that duty which points out to me but one course in regard to public affairs, and that is that all of the people of this country shall stand alike before the law. It is impossible for me to see how I can oppose the bill with my convictions in regard to the matter.

Mr. MILLS obtained the floor.

Mr. BUTLER. Will the Senator from Texas permit me to offer an amendment?

Mr. MILLS. With pleasure.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. President, I am glad to be afforded an opportunity to offer an amendment to the bill, which will give the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] an opportunity to illustrate his regard for enlarging trade in this country. I offer an amendment to come in as section 3, and ask that it be considered.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. Add a new section as follows:

SEC. 3. That such parts of the navigation laws of the United States as prevent the purchase by American citizens of ships in foreign countries and the right of American registry and flying of the American flag be, and the same are hereby, repealed.

Mr. VEST. I have labored for that principle ever since I have been in the Senate, and I shall be very glad to vote for it.

Mr. MILLS. Mr. President, there are certain principles by which I always try to regulate my public utterances and public actions as a representative of my constituents. I have observed that the navigator who tries to keep his vessel in the channel, and who observes the buoys and light-houses along the coast, will carry his cargo and his vessel more safely into port than if he shuts his eyes, abandons his wheel, and leaves his ship to the mercy of wind and wave. The principle by which I govern my actions here is that defined by the great father and founder of the body to which I belong—that the General Government should be supported in the whole scope of its constitutional power as the sheet anchor of our peace at home and our safety abroad.

In the organization of our Government, the power to regulate commerce among the States is confided to the General Government, and this is a part of that regulation.

This system of pilotage was adopted in the early days of our Republic, and continued almost without complaint, because the burdens of this pilotage rested upon the great Issachar, who was patiently bending beneath the burdens and failing to make complaint against them. But within recent years a change has come over the spirit of the dreams of this country. In the progress of development of our industrial system and our civilization the railroad in a great measure has supplanted the sail vessel along the coast in the carrying business of the country.

When the sail vessel was the only carrier and had no competition then it could pay these pilotage fees, even to the extent of $1,000, as I understand was demanded once in Baltimore. But that was unloaded upon the consumer of the goods. The master of the vessel cared nothing for that. In recent years, however, in the sharp competition with the railroads of the country, he is forced to cut his charges for transportation down to the lowest farthing in order to keep in the business.

It is a general principle that the consumer pays all the charges on that which he consumes. I do not care where the article is produced, he has to pay the cost of producing it, the cost of insurance, and the cost of transportation from the producer to the consumer; he has to pay all taxes, whether Federal taxes or State taxes. But when the law fixing the charges is excessive upon one character of transportation in competition with another, that character of transportation has to pass out of existence or pay the burdens imposed from its own profits.

Suppose to carry a ton of freight from Boston to Charleston by coastwise steamers costs $10 and $5 to carry it by rail. The cost by the cheaper line of transportation fixes the price at which the article is sold in the Charleston market, and the carrier by sail has either to come down with his charges or leave the business.

There are two sides to this question, and we sometimes confound them. The consumer pays the tax, but sometimes the producer pays it, or loses his business. The injustice of this upon the commerce of the country, of all countries, is that it falls, like wrong of every character, the on wrongdoer as well as on his victim. We can not by high taxes prevent the transportation of commerce in order to injure the producer without injuring ourselves, too.

In the early days of the Republic, before we had even canals, the history of interior transportation shows that it cost on an average 20 cents per ton per mile to convey freight. When the Erie Canal was built the transportation charge was brought down to less than half that amount. When the other canals followed in the wake of that great work, making water lines from the great reservoirs of the lakes on the north down to the Ohio River on the south, freights were lowered all over the country. Then when the railroad system came freights still continued to come down. Twenty or twenty-five years ago they were about 3 cents per ton per mile in the United States, and during the last year, sir, they have come down to less than 1 cent per ton per mile. The railroads are constantly bringing down the freight charges of the country, and it is that system which is imperiling the success of the coastwise business.

Our shipbuilders in Maine, Massachusetts, and along the New England coast, so long as the burden was on the consumers did not care to unload. They were human. I would not have done it. Nobody else would have done it. The burden was on somebody else's shoulders. They did not care. They did not suffer the pain.

Now, the railroad charges have been put so much lower than heretofore that the vessels can not afford to pay these pilotage charges, and so they call upon the Government to remove these charges, so that they can continue in their business, and I am going to help the Government to do it, and I am going to do it because they are wrong. There should be no charge of this kind upon the commerce of the country. No government should attempt to sustain any mere occupation by its action when the parties engaged in that occupation are able to take care of themselves. I hold it to be one of those fundamental principles of which I was speaking a few moments ago, and so well expressed by Mr. Samuel J. Tilden, who wrote the English language so accurately, so forcibly, and so well, as defining the Jeffersonian creed for me in one sentence:

The General Government should never do for the State government what the State government can do for itself, and no government should do for the individual what he can do for himself.

That is where I stand, sir. If these vessels can not have their own pilots and take care of their own business, they will simply have to go out of the business, and try hotel-keeping or something else.

I propose to let them have their own pilots. I propose to take off this unjust burden from their shoulders and permit them to run their own vessels in competition with the railroads or in competition with other vessels, and if they can not succeed in that business, then there must be the "survival of the fittest." The Government can only injure the business by retaining its burdens in this manner. I agree with my friend from Maine [Mr. FRYE], and it is very rare that I have had the pleasure of agreeing with him; we have been serving together for about twenty years; I have always had a great admiration for him; he is a big, noble, brave-hearted man; more than that, I have loved him many years, and he knows it.

Mr. FRYE. I reciprocate.

Mr. MILLS. How much more now because of our change hands with him when he agrees with me and helps to protect the commerce of the country from unjust exactions against the prod-nets of human labor in passing from the hand of the producer to the mouth of the consumer, which transit should be as free as the winds of heaven. I will vote with him, and then I will go further than that. But he will not follow me any further. He will stop right here on the road. I will vote to emancipate the whole commerce of this country. I will vote to let new ships come in here, but I will not vote to let them come in clandestinely and surreptitiously. I will vote that any citizen of the United States may go and buy a vessel wherever he pleases, because that is a natural right, and should be secured by what I understand to be a free Government, in accord with the general principles of that Declaration of Independence that we all read on the Fourth of July and forget the remainder of the year. That just government comes from the consent of the governed. This principle is to secure to the citizens—secure, not grant. Governments do not grant natural rights, but should secure to the citizen the enjoyment of those inalienable rights with which his Creator has endowed him.

There is where I stand.

I want the citizens of the United States to navigate these waters in vessels and go to all ports, and if they can beat anybody else in that business I want them to do so. I am willing to unload the citizens of Boston, Portland, Portsmouth, or anywhere else, North, South, East, or West. I am patriotic. My patriotism extends from the State of Texas to New England, clear up to the northern peak of Maine. I want to unload every citizen of the United States from every unjust burden which the Government has placed upon him.

I have a peculiar sort of fancy, Mr. President, for these people of New England. They were among the first American settlers of that great State from which I come. They came in the old adventurous days when we built ships and could go where we pleased. They sailed down the coast and around to Texas. They were a noble, brave-hearted, generous, adventurous people. They helped to build up our civilization. The first printed newspaper that was seen west of the Sabine River was edited by a Yankee from the State of Maine. That newspaper taught the principles of civil and religious liberty almost within sight of the battle smoke of the Alamo. Almost in the very presence of the armies of Mexico that little press appeared, following the army of Sam Houston, and teaching the principles of liberty as they were planted upon this continent, and those principles have grown, watered by the very blood of our common fathers.

Yes, I would relieve the people of Boston, the people of New England, anywhere, of any burdens upon their shipping. But this is one of the taxes that the consumer does not pay. The railroad comes in and prevents it. Otherwise he would. The railroad delivers freight to him more cheaply than he can get it by vessel, and hence the American vessel has it to pay. But it is an unjust tax, and I will help to unload it.

Mr. FRYE. Mr. President, I have been so anxious to take up the river and harbor bill that I shall not undertake to reply to any of the arguments that have been made touching this bill, but will move to lay the amendment offered by the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] on the table.

Mr. BUTLER. Before that is done I should like to make an observation or two in regard to it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. A motion to lay on the table is not debatable. Does the Senator from Maine withdraw his motion?

Mr. FRYE. I withdraw it.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. President, we have had a sort of love feast here to-day between the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST], the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS], and the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE], which I have very much enjoyed. It has been refreshing. My object in introducing the amendment was to allow that love feast to continue. These distinguished Senators have agreed so well on this question of unburdening the commerce of the country and reading the Declaration of Independence to us again that I am in hopes that under the inspiration and motive of that lovely condition of affairs we may perhaps take off some other burdens at the same time. But I am inclined to think that when the Senator from Texas and the Senator from Maine come together at that point they will divide again.

A good deal has been said about monopoly, about the outrageous charges of these pilots, and the general iniquity of the whole system. I want to read briefly what some of the navigation laws of this country prohibit, from a book written by Mr. David A. Wells, who summarizes those laws in the following language:

1. No American citizen is allowed to import a foreign-built vessel, in the sense of purchasing, acquiring a registry or title to, or of using her as his own property, the only other absolute prohibitions of imports on the part of the United States being in respect to counterfeit money and of obscene publications or objects.

With the exception of counterfeit money and obscene publications or objects ships are the only other items of property that an American citizen can not purchase abroad.

2. An American vessel ceases to be such if owned in the smallest degree by any person naturalized in the United States who may, after acquiring such ownership, reside "for more than one year in the country in which he originated or more than two years in any foreign country, unless such person be a consul or other public agent of the United States."

3. If a native-born American citizen, for health, pleasure, or any other purpose, except as a consul of the United States or as a partner or agent in an exclusively American mercantile house, decides to reside "usually" in some foreign country, any American vessel of which he may be, in all or any part, owner at once loses its register and ceases to be entitled to the protection of the flag of the United States, even though the vessel may have been of American construction and have regularly paid taxes in the United States, and the owner himself has no thought of finally relinquishing his American citizenship.

4. Every citizen of the United States obtaining a register for an American vessel must make oath "that there is no subject or citizen of any foreign power or state directly or indirectly, by way of trust or confidence, or otherwise, interested in such vessel or in the profits thereof."

5. A foreigner may superintend an American factory, run an American railroad, be president of an American college, or hold a commission in the American Army, but he can not command or be an officer of a registered American vessel.

6. No foreign-built vessel, or vessel in any part owned by a subject of a foreign power, can enter a port of the United States and then go to another domestic port with any new cargo or with any part of her original cargo that has been once unloaded without having previously voyaged to and touched at some other port of some foreign country, under penalty of confiscation.

7. An American vessel once sold or transferred to a foreigner can never be brought back again and become American property, not even if the transfer has been the result of capture and condemnation by a foreign power in time of war.

8. A vessel under 30 tons can not be used to import anything at any seaport.

9. Goods, wares, and merchandise, the produce of countries east of the Cape of Good Hope, when imported from countries west of the Cape of Good Hope, are subject to a duty of 10 per cent in addition to the duties imposed on such articles when imported directly.

10. If a vessel of the United States becomes damaged on a foreign voyage, and is repaired in a foreign port, her owner or master must make entry of such repairs at a custom-house of the United States as an import and pay a duty on the same equal to one-half the cost of the foreign work or material, or 50 per cent ad valorem; and this law extends so far as to include boats that may be obtained at sea from a passing foreign vessel in order to assure the safety of the crew or passengers of the American vessel.

11. Foreign vessels losing rudder, stern-post, or breaking shaft, and arriving in the United States in distress, can not import others to replace these articles here without payment of the duty on the same.

12. If a citizen of the United States buys a vessel of foreign build which has been wrecked on our coast, takes her into port, repairs and renders her again serviceable and seaworthy, he can not make her American property, unless it is proved to the satisfaction of the Treasury Department that the repairs put upon such vessel are equal to three-fourths of the cost of the vessel when so repaired.

13. Every vessel belonging to the mercantile marine of the United States engaged in foreign trade—vessels employed in the fisheries excepted—must pay annually into the Federal Treasury a tonnage tax at the rate of 30 cents per ton.

Now, if the Senator from Maine desires to make his motion I have nothing further to say.

Mr. FRYE. I renew my motion to lay on the table the amendment of the Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. BUTLER. Upon that I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BUTLER (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. I therefore withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. PASCO (when the name of Mr. CALL was called). My colleague [Mr. CALL] is paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR]. My colleague is necessarily absent on account of business.

Mr. DOLPH (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE]. I call the attention of his colleague [Mr. WALTHALL] to that fact, and ask if we can arrange for a transfer of pairs, as was done yesterday.

Mr. WALTHALL. That arrangement will be satisfactory to me.

Mr. DOLPH. I vote "yea."

Mr. HALE (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. RANSOM]. If it is agreeable to the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL], I will transfer my pair to the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON], which will enable the Senator from Virginia and myself to vote.

Mr. WALTHALL. I will inform the Senator from Maine that I have already made an arrangement with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH] for the transfer of my pair.

Mr. HALE. Then I shall not vote at present.

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. If the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] desires to transfer his pair, we can transfer our respective pairs and vote.

Mr. HALE. That may be done.

Mr. HARRIS. Then I vote "nay."

Mr. HALE. I will vote "yea."

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. Not knowing how he would vote if he were present, I withhold my vote.

Mr. McPHERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. HIGGINS], whom I do not see in his seat. Not knowing how he would vote, I withhold my vote.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (when Mr. MANDERSON'S name was called). The occupant of the chair is paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. PROCTOR (when his name was called). My pair with the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] has been transferred to the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR]. I therefore vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the senior Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER]. I therefore withhold my vote.

Mr. SHERMAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. CARLISLE]. By an exchange of pairs the Senator from Kentucky may stand paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. HIGGINS], and the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON] and I can vote, if that is agreeable.

Mr. McPHERSON. That is perfectly satisfactory to me.

Mr. SHERMAN. I vote "yea."

Mr. McPHERSON. I vote "yea."

Mr. SQUIRE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL], who is necessarily absent.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON], but will vote if I find my vote necessary to make a quorum.

Mr. WARREN (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON]. I will withhold my vote unless it is necessary to make a quorum. While I am on my feet I wish to announce the pair of my colleague [Mr. CAREY] with the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. IRBY].

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. I therefore withhold my vote; otherwise I should vote "yea."

The roll-call was concluded.

Mr. CULLOM. I have a pair with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY], who is absent, and I withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE. I transfer my pair with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON] to the Senator from California [Mr. STANFORD], so that the Senator from Maryland will stand paired with the Senator from California, and I will vote "yea."

Mr. SHERMAN. As the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON] votes the same way I do, I think it would not be right for us to make the change of pairs that was proposed a moment ago.

Mr. FRYE. I think it would be entirely right for the Senator from New Jersey to vote, for the Senator from Delaware [Mr. HIGGINS] told me he should vote for the bill right through.

Mr. McPHERSON. As the point has been raised, I think I would prefer to withdraw my vote under the circumstances.

Mr. SHERMAN. Then I withdraw my vote.

Mr. COCKRELL. Has the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON] voted?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. He has not.

Mr. COCKRELL. I am paired with him. If present, I presume he would vote "yea," and I should vote "nay."

Mr. ALLEN. I am usually paired with the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. BATE]. Under the circumstances, I think I had better withhold my vote unless it is necessary to make a quorum.

Mr. FELTON. I am paired with the junior Senator from Ohio [Mr. BRICE].

Mr. SHERMAN. In order to make a quorum I am at liberty to vote, and I will vote "yea."

Mr. ALLEN. I vote "yea" to make a quorum.

Mr. McMILLAN. I will vote "yea" to make a quorum.

The result was announced—yeas 31, nays 13; as follows:

YEAS—31.

Aldrich.	Dubois.	McMillan.	Sanders.
Allen.	Frye.	Mitchell.	Sawyer.
Blodgett.	Gallinger.	Paolock.	Sherman.

So the amendment was laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill is still in Committee of the Whole and open to amendment. If there be no further amendment as in Committee of the Whole the bill will be reported to the Senate.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

KLAMATH INDIAN LANDS.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I wish to call up and move the adoption of the conference report upon the bill (H. R. 38) to provide for the disposal and sale of lands known as the Klamath River Indian Reservation.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair lays before the Senate the conference report, which will be read.

The report was read, as follows:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on certain amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 38) to provide for the disposal and sale of lands known as the Klamath River Indian Reservation have met, and after full and free conference and agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the amendment of the Senate be amended as follows:

On page 3, strike out the word "and," at the end of line 8, and strike out the word "provision," at the beginning of line 9.

Insert the word "stone" after the word "mineral," in line 9.

After the word "thereof," in line 21, insert the following:

"Provided, That lands settled up or improved, and now occupied by settlers in good faith by qualified persons under the land laws shall be exempt from such allotments unless one or more of said Indians have resided upon said tract in good faith for four months prior to the passage of this act."

R. E. PETTIGREW,

H. L. DAWES,

On the part of the Senate,

THOS. LYNCH,

JOHN L. WILSON,

On the part of the House.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to have the bill read as it will be when the amendments indicated in the conference report are adopted.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will take time to prepare the bill in that form.

Mr. COCKRELL. The Senator from South Dakota can call it up at any time. In the meantime let the clerks prepare the bill so that it will show just how it will read as it has been agreed to in conference, and then we shall understand it.

Mr. HARRIS. I wish to make a suggestion to the Senate conference. That is a very singular conference report. It simply asserts that the amendment of the Senate be amended as follows. It does not follow the usual form in showing that the House recedes from its disagreement to the Senate amendment, and agrees to the same with an amendment. I do not know how material it may be, but I have never seen just such a conference report presented to either House of Congress before.

I suggest to the conference that I think it would be very much better to conform it to the usual form of a conference report, showing that the House recedes from its disagreement to the Senate amendment, and agrees to the same with an amendment. I shall make no motion about it, but it seems to me that it would be well to recommit it to the conference and have the report changed so as to conform to the usual form. The report does not show that the House has receded from its disagreement to the Senate amendment.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I will withdraw the conference report.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from South Dakota withdraws the conference report.

SENATE CLERICAL FORCE.

Mr. ALDRICH. I ask unanimous consent to submit a series of resolutions, and I ask for their present consideration. If the resolutions lead to any discussion I shall not press them.

The resolutions were read, as follows:

Resolved, That the office of principal clerk of the Senate be abolished, and that the Secretary of the Senate be authorized and directed to appoint an additional clerk at an annual salary of $2,000, to be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate for the remainder of the fiscal year; and that the Committee on Appropriations be instructed to provide in their next appropriation bill for the annual pay of said clerk.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate shall detail from his force a competent paying clerk, and that the entire clerical force of the Senate in the Secretary's office, including the Chief Clerk, be under the control and direction and subject to appointment and removal by the Secretary of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolutions?

The resolutions were considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business, which is the bill (S. 2499) to provide for the punishment of violations of treaty rights of aliens.

Mr. FRYE. I ask that that be temporarily laid aside, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the river and harbor bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7820) making appropriations for the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes, which had been reported from the Committee on Commerce with amendments.

Mr. FRYE. I ask that the formal reading of the bill be dispensed with and that the amendments of the committee be acted upon as they are reached.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The request of the Senator from Maine will be agreed to, if there be no objection.

Mr. HALE. The same course is to be pursued as in the case of the regular appropriation bills?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair hears no objection, and such course will be pursued.

Mr. McPHERSON. I sent to the desk this morning a motion that I intended to make touching the consideration of the river and harbor bill when it was called up. I should like to have that motion read.

Mr. FRYE. I have no objection, if the Senator desires that we shall take that course.

Mr. McPHERSON. I think it is infinitely better for the progress of the bill, and it will be much easier for the question to be understood before we proceed to its consideration.

Mr. FRYE. I understand that unanimous consent has been given, as is general in reference to appropriation bills, that the amendments of the Committee on Commerce shall be acted upon as they are reached in the reading of the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Such has been the order of the Senate. The motion to recommit the river and harbor bill, referred to by the Senator from New Jersey, will be read by the Chief Clerk.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Mr. J. That House of Representatives bill No. 7820, making appropriations for the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes, be recommitted to the Committee on Commerce, with instruction to report the same back to the Senate with such amendments as will exclude from the bill all authorization for new contracts for materials and work, and proportionally reduce by 50 per cent the entire amount therein appropriated.

Mr. McPHERSON. Mr. President, I have somewhere heard it said that the expenditures of the Government were in excess of its receipts and the Treasury is in a condition bordering on bankruptcy.

I have heard it stated upon this floor repeatedly in the last few days that owing to the legislation of a former Congress the expenditures of the Government to be provided for at this session were necessarily in excess of the appropriations in the first session of the fifty-first Congress, popularly known as the billion-dollar Congress. If all this be true, and I find no reason to doubt it, speaking for myself here and now, I declare myself unalterably opposed to the whole policy of the pending bill in that it continues the vicious system which will inevitably bind the Congress which follows this to still greater appropriations from the Treasury, and to meet which involves still greater taxes upon the people.

The river and harbor bill now pending has no precedent in the amount of money it appropriates and pledges in the legislation of this or any other country. The amount of money necessary to carry out its completed purpose is indeed frightful; and it is a source of infinite regret that it is to become a law without the approval of a body pledged to reduce the expenditures of the Government and lighten the burdens upon the people.

A Senator who sits near me, always careful and correct in his figures, hands me a statement giving the per capita expenditures of the Government in 1890 at $2.20; in 1892 the per capita expenditures are $9.09.

Turning to this bill I find direct appropriations of over twenty-two millions, and a authorization for new contracts for work and material of over thirty-three millions more, in all fifty-five millions.

Mr. FRYE. Looking over how many years will the Senate stay?

Mr. McPHERSON. It is no answer to say that because the money is not to be all expended this year it is therefore no lien upon the Treasury. It is well known to every Senator, and to none better than the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE], that it is the practice of this Government in all its departments to make contracts whenever authorized to do so by Congress, and it is as well the practice of Congress as it is the duty of Congress to provide means for their faithful execution. Congress has the power to levy taxes and to spend money, and there is no fear it will not do both if this bill is passed.

I appeal to both sides of this Chamber to stop in this mad career to send this bill back to the committee with the instructions contained in my motion, which are to exclude from the bill all authorization of new contracts for material and work, which strikes out at once thirty-three millions, and to reduce the appropriations by 50 per cent, which will reduce the bill eleven millions more. This will leave eleven millions in the bill without changing in any particular the objects to which it is to be applied. This will give more money than can be judiciously expended before Congress will again meet, and if it shall then appear that more money is needed to protect improvements being made or for new work, it may then be given.

Of late years Congress is usually in session one-half the time of each Congressional term, and no great public improvement need suffer for proper attention by Congress. The policy into which we have drifted of making monster appropriations, covering a period of two years of expenditure and contracts for a still longer period is, in my opinion, wasteful and injudicious, as there can be no supervision of the work and no comparison of work with cost of same by the lawmaking power, a policy no intelligent experienced business man would think of adopting in his business for a single moment.

Mr. DOLPH. Mr. President—

Mr. FRYE. On moment.

Mr. DOLPH. I yield to the Senator from Maine.

Mr. FRYE. I simply wish to say that as in the progress of this bill whatever the Senator from New Jersey has said will be replied to, I do not desire to make any reply at the present time.

Mr. DOLPH. I move to lay the motion to recommit on the table.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oregon moves that the motion to recommit the bill be laid on the table.

Mr. McPHERSON. Upon that question I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BUTLER, when his name was called. I have a general pair with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON], but I am informed by his colleague that he would vote "yea" on this proposition and I vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL, when Mr. GEORGE'S name was called. My colleague [Mr. GEORGE] is paired on this question with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PINCH].

Mr. HARRIS, when his name was called. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MONTAGUE]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. McMILLAN, when his name was called. I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. I suggest to the Senator from Tennessee that we exchange pairs and vote.

Mr. HARRIS. That is satisfactory to me.

Mr. McMILLAN. I vote "yea."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. When Mr. MANCHESTER'S name was called. The occupant of the chair is paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. PROCTOR, when his name was called. The same transfer, pairs holding good, I vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY, when his name was called. Being informed by his colleague that the junior Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER], with whom I have a general pair, would vote in the affirmative on this question, I vote "yea."

Mr. SHERMAN, when his name was called. I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. CARLISLE].

Mr. TURPIE, when his name was called. I am paired generally with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. WARREN, when his name was called. I am paired with the junior Senator from Georgia [Mr. COMBES]. I wish to announce the pair of my colleague [Mr. CARY] with the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. LEE].

Mr. WILSON, when his name was called. I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COMBES]. I am informed that he would vote "yea" on this proposition, and I therefore feel at liberty to vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. CULLOM. I am paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS. Under the agreement with the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] to transfer pairs, I transfer my pair to the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE] and record my vote. I vote "nay."

Mr. SQUIRE. I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 42, nays 6: as follows:

YEAS—42.

Aldrich,	Frye,	Mitchell,	Shoup,
Allen,	Gallinger,	Morgan,	Stewart,
Berry,	Gorman,	Pasco,	Stockbridge,
Butler,	Hale,	Peffer,	Teller,

Condrell,	Gordon,	Platt,

So the motion to recommitt was laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read for action upon the amendments of the committee.

The Chief Clerk proceeded to read the bill.

The first amendment reported by the Committee on Commerce was, in section 1, on page 1, line 11, before the word "thousand," to strike out "six" and insert "twelve;" so as to read:

Improving harbor at Camden, Me.: Continuing improvement, $12,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 2, in line 7, after the word "Maine," to strike out "Continuing" and insert "Completing;" and in line 8, after the word "improvement," to strike out "twenty" and insert "thirty;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Portland, Me.: Completing improvement, $30,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 2, line 12, before the word "thousand," to strike out "twenty" and insert "fifty;" so as to make the clause read:

For construction of breakwater from Mount Desert to Porcupine Island, Maine: Continuing improvement, $50,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading was continued to the bottom of page 2.

Mr. FRYE. I am instructed by the committee to move, on page 2, line 19, to strike out the words "one hundred and forty-five thousand dollars" and insert in lieu thereof "by deepening and widening the main channel to a depth of 27 feet and a width of 1,000 feet, $300,000."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 2, line 19, it is proposed to strike out the words "one hundred and forty-five thousand dollars" and insert:

By deepening and widening the main channel to a depth of 27 feet and a width of 1,000 feet, $300,000.

So as to read:

Improving harbor at Boston, Mass.: Continuing improvement by deepening and widening the main channel to a depth of 27 feet and a width of 1,000 feet, $300,000, of which $10,000 may, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, be used in the further prosecution of the work in Nantasket Beach Channel, and $25,000 in extending main ship channel from its termination at the southeast corner of Grant Junction wharf eastwardly towards Jeffreys Point.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Commerce was, in section 1, on page 4, in line 11, after the word "Massachusetts," to strike out "Continuing" and insert "Completing;" and in line 12, after the word "improvement," to strike out "ten" and insert "fourteen;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Salem, Mass.: Completing improvement, $14,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 4, line 16, after the word "Neshawana," to insert "completing improvement;" and in line 17, after the word "thousand," to insert "eight hundred;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving Caspich Channel, Massachusetts, between the islands of Cutchunk and Neshawana, completing improvement, $1,800.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, after line 17, to insert: Improving harbor at Scituate, Mass.: Continuing improvement, $10,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, after line 19, to insert: Improving harbor at Winthrop, Mass.: Continuing improvement, $3,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 4, after line 21, to insert:

Improving harbor at Kingston, Mass., and the approach to the public wharves of said port and of North Plymouth, $10,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 4, in line 25, after the words "Rhode Island," to strike out "continuing" and insert "completing;" and on page 5, line 1, after the word "improvement," to strike out "fifteen" and insert "twenty-four;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Block Island, R. I.: Completing improvement, $21,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 5, in line 5, after the word "improvement," to strike out "ten" and insert "twenty-five;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Newport, R. I., including the removal of the spit at the south end of Goat Island: Continuing improvement, $25,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to line 14 on page 5.

Mr. FRYE. I am instructed by the committee to offer an amendment to the paragraph just read. After the word "construction," in line 7, I move to strike "one hundred" and insert "seventy-five;" and in line 12, after the words "one million and," to strike out "seventy-five" and insert "one hundred."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 7, page 5, it is proposed to strike out "one hundred" and insert "seventy-five;" and in line 12, after the word "and," to strike out "seventy-five" and insert "one hundred;" so as to make the clause read:

Constructing harbor of refuge at Point Judith, R. I.: Continuing construction, $75,000: Provided, That contracts may be entered into by the Secretary of War for such materials and work as may be necessary to complete the present project of improvement, to be paid for as appropriations may from time to time be made by law, not to exceed in the aggregate $1,100,000, exclusive of the amount herein and heretofore appropriated.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Commerce was, in section 1, on page 6, in line 8, after the word "improvement," to strike out "thirty" and insert "thirty-five;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor of refuge at Duck Island, on Long Island Sound, Conn.: Continuing improvement, $5,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 6, after line 14, to insert:

Improving harbor at Cos Cob and Mianus River, Conn.: Continuing improvement, $7,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 6, in line 18, before the word "hundred," to strike out "three" and insert "two;" and after the word "hundred," to insert "and twenty-five;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Buffalo, N. Y.: Continuing improvement, $25,000.

Mr. PLATT. I do not know what the rule is, but my colleague desires to move an amendment to increase the amount for the harbor at New Haven.

Mr. FRYE. I have just stated to the Senate's colleagues that that would be in order after the committee amendments are completed.

The reading of the bill was continued to page 7, line 11.

Mr. FRYE. On page 7, in line 10, after the word "New York," I move to strike out the words "and Bay Ridge;" so as to read:

Improving Harlem Bay channel, New York: Continuing improvement, $100,000, for distribution by allotment between the R. I. Hook and Gowanus Creek channels, at the discretion of the Secretary of War.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. FRYE. I am instructed by the committee to move the insertion of the amendment which I send to the desk.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 7, after line 11, insert:

Improving Bay Ridge Channel, New York: Harbor New York: Continuing improvement, by dredging out and opening a new channel from a point at its mouth with the Gowanus Creek Channel, and extending said channel southerly therefrom along and in face of the eastern Battery and the Battery point where the said Bay Ridge Channel, so to be opened, to a depth of 27 feet and a width of 1,000 feet, so to be opened, shall be of a uniform depth of 27 feet and a width of 1,000 feet at low water, $200,000: Provided, That contracts may be entered into by the Secretary of War for such materials and work as may be necessary for the completion of the above project, to be paid for as appropriations may from time to time be made by law, not to exceed in the aggregate $240,000, exclusive of the amount herein and heretofore appropriated.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to line 22, on page 7.

Mr. FRYE. On page 7, line 22, I move to strike out "thirty," and insert "forty," so as to read:

Improving harbor at Oswego, N. Y.: Continuing improvement, $10,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Commerce was, in section 1, on page 8, after line 23, to insert:

Improving Jamaica Bay, New York: Completing improvement in accordance with plan number 43 of Lieut. Col. Gillespie, Corps of Engineers, submitted December 16, 1890, $9,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 9, line 5, after the word "improvement" to strike out "forty" and insert "twenty;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Raritan Bay, New Jersey: Continuing improvement, $20,000, one half of which, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, may be used in dredging bar between South Amboy and Great Boes Light.

Mr. FRYE. I am instructed by the committee to ask the Senate to disagree to that amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HARRIS in the chair). The question is, Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The amendment was rejected.

The reading of the bill was continued. The next amendment of the Committee on Commerce was, in section 1, on page 9, after line 11, to insert:

The material removed in improving the harbor of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, in accordance with the plan adopted by Congress in the act of September 19, 1890, under appropriations heretofore made, or any part of said material, may be deposited in any place or places approved by the engineer officer in charge of the work: Provided, That the full amount of material to be deposited and spread on League Island, as provided for under the existing contract, shall be so deposited and spread before the completion of the work covered by the contract; and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent or in conflict with this provision are hereby repealed.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 9, in line 25, after the word "improvement," to strike out "fifty" and insert "one hundred;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving Delaware Breakwater, Delaware: Continuing improvement, $100,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 10, in line 18, in the clause providing for "improving harbor at Cape Charles City, Va., after the word "provided," to strike out:

That no part of this sum shall be expended until the owners of the basin forming the harbor, and the channel or canal leading thereto, or connecting said harbor with Cherrystone Inlet, shall have executed a good and sufficient deed to the United States to said basin and the approach thereto, up to mean low-water mark; the said conveyance to be approved by the Attorney General of the United States and accepted on behalf of the United States by the Secretary of War, and to be in all respects equivalent to a dedication to the public; and until the owners of said basin shall have dedicated to public use, by proper deed or conveyance, a public landing upon and along the shore of the said basin, at some suitable and eligible point, to be approved by the Secretary of War, of not less than one acre in area, with a water frontage of not less than 200 feet, together with an approach to said landing from the nearest public highway of not less than 40 feet in width.

And insert:

That before any Government money shall be expended in the improvement of this harbor, or any of its approaches, the said New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad Company shall execute and file with the Secretary of War a paper satisfactory to said Secretary of War, giving to any and all vessels, upon any and all occasions, for all time to come, the right to enter and remain in said harbor, and transit business therein without charge, except legitimate, usual, and reasonable wharf charges.

Mr. FRYE. In line 12, before the words "New York," I move to strike out the word "said."

Mr. BUTLER. What amendment is that?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In line 12, page 11, of the committee's amendment, to strike out the word "said."

Mr. FRYE. It is a mere verbal amendment.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Commerce was, in section 1, on page 11, in line 23, after the word "improvement," to strike out "three" and insert "two;" so as to read:

Improving harbor at Charleston, including Sullivan Island and Mount Pleasant Shore, South Carolina: Continuing improvement, $200,000.

Mr. BUTLER. May I inquire what the object of that amendment is? What is the reason for it?

Mr. FRYE. Simply this. The discussion in the Senate a day or two since showed that it was the duty of Congress to make no appropriations which were not necessary. In the opinion of the Committee on Commerce all of the appropriations which were made where contracts were provided for to complete could without any injury at all to the works or to the progress of the works be reduced. The consequence was that we reduced all of them alike 25 per cent.

Mr. BUTLER. All where contracts had been provided for?

Mr. FRYE. All where contracts were provided for.

Mr. BUTLER. I do not know that I have any right to make any objection to the course pursued, and yet I do not like to see that appropriation cut down.

Mr. CULLOM. It will not hinder the work a bit.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed and continued to page 12, line 5.

Mr. FRYE. On page 12, line 3, I move to insert "nine hundred and fifty-three," striking out "eight hundred and seventy-eight." This is rendered necessary by the amendment just made. It will then read, "not to exceed in the aggregate $1,953,000."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. FRYE. Now, turning back, in line 23, page 11, I move to insert, after the word "hundred," the words "and twenty-five," making the amount $225,000.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 11, line 23, after the word "hundred," insert the words "and twenty-five;" so as to read:

Improving harbor at Charleston, including Sullivan Island and Mount Pleasant Shore, South Carolina: Continuing improvement, $225,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Commerce was, in section 1, on page 12, in line 13, before the word "thousand," to strike out "one hundred and twelve" and insert "two hundred;" and after "thousand," to strike out "five hundred;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving Cumberland Sound, Georgia: Continuing improvement, $240,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, on page 12, line 16, before the word "hundred," to strike out "four" and insert "three;" and after the word "hundred," to strike out "and twenty-five;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Savannah, Ga.: Continuing improvement, $300,000: Provided, That contracts may be entered into by the Secretary of War for such materials and work as may be necessary to complete the present project of improvement, to be paid for as appropriations may from time to time be made by law, not to exceed in the aggregate $2,791,000, exclusive of the amount herein and heretofore appropriated.

Mr. FRYE. In line 16, after the word "improvement" instead of "$300,000" I move to insert "$318,750;" so as to read:

Improving harbor at Savannah, Ga.: Continuing improvement, $318,750.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to line 23, page 12.

Mr. FRYE. In line 21, after the word "million," I move to strike out "seven hundred and ninety-two" and insert "eight hundred and ninety-eight thousand two hundred and twenty;" so as to make the proviso to the appropriation for improving the harbor at Savannah read:

Provided, That contracts may be entered into by the Secretary of War for such materials and work as may be necessary to complete the present project of improvement, to be paid for as appropriations may from time to time be made by law, not to exceed in the aggregate $98,200, exclusive of the amount herein and heretofore appropriated.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued. The next amendment of the Committee on Commerce was, in section 1, on page 13, in line 14, before the word "hundred," to strike out "three" and insert "two;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Mobile, Ala.: Continuing improvement, $250,000: Provided, That contracts may be entered into by the Secretary of War for such materials and work as may be necessary to complete the present project of improvement, to be paid for as appropriations may from time to time be made by law, not to exceed in the aggregate $1,034,800, exclusive of the amount herein and heretofore appropriated.

Mr. FRYE. I offer an amendment to that item.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment to the amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 13, line 14, strike out "two hundred and fifty thousand," and insert in lieu thereof "two hundred and sixty-two thousand five hundred;" in lines 19 and 21 strike out "one million ninety-three thousand eight hundred," and insert in lieu thereof "one million one hundred and eighty-one thousand three hundred;" so as to make the clause read:

Improving harbor at Mobile, Ala.: Continuing improvement, $272,500: Provided, That contracts may be entered into by the Secretary of War for such materials and work as may be necessary to complete the present project of improvement, to be paid for as appropriations may from time to time be made by law, not to exceed in the aggregate $1,181,000, exclusive of the amount herein and heretofore appropriated.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to page 14, line 2.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1229) amending section 1202 of Revised Statutes of the United States, providing for the attendance of witnesses before a court-martial, reported it with an amendment.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the joint resolution (H. Res. 195) extending the time in which certain street railroads, compelled by act of Congress approved August 6, 1890, to change their motive power from horse power to mechanical power, for one year, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2693) for the relief of John H. Crane, of the District of Columbia, submitted an adverse report thereon, which was agreed to; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. FAULKNER, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2746) granting the right to sell burial sites in parts of certain streets in Washington City to the vestry of Washington parish for the benefit of the Congressional Cemetery, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed in definitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2812) to provide for a change of grades and the opening of streets in that part of the District of Columbia lying outside of the city of Washington, bounded by Sixteenth street extended, Eighteenth street extended, Florida avenue, and Columbia road, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2916) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Marine Mutual Relief Association of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1869, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred a petition of Augustus F. H. Hain, late a major and aide-de-camp in the military service of the United States, praying to be allowed an honorable discharge and one year's pay, reported adversely thereon, and asked that the committee be discharged from its further consideration; which was agreed to.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE, from the Committee on Fisheries, to whom was referred the amendment submitted by Mr. TELLER on the 17th instant, intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill, reported it and moved its reference to the Committee on Appropriations; which was agreed to.

He also, from the Committee on Fisheries, to whom was referred the bill (S. 381) to make the Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries an officer of the Department of Agriculture, and for other purposes, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom the subject was referred, submitted a report thereon, accompanied by a bill (S. 3178) for the transfer of the Bureau of the United States Geological Survey and the United States Commission of Fish and Fisheries to the Department of Agriculture; which was read twice by its title, and, on his motion, referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. QUAY, from the Committee on the Library, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2799) to provide for the dedication of the statue erected to the memory of the Marquis Marie Jean Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier de Lafayette, a major-general in the Army of the United States, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. WOLCOTT, from the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 62) proposing an amendment to the Constitution concerning eligibility to the office of President, reported it with an amendment.

Mr. HAWLEY. I am instructed by the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3123) to restore Lieut. Samuel Howard to his proper rank, to ask that the committee be excused from its further consideration, as it relates to an officer in the Revenue Marine, and that it be referred to the Committee on Commerce.

The report was agreed to.

Mr. HALE, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3138) for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamer Despatch on Assateague Shoals, Virginia, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred a petition of citizens of California, requesting the removal of the United States marine hospital from its present site to the eastern side of Angel Island on San Francisco Bay, asked to be discharged from its further consideration and that it be referred to the Committee on Commerce; which was agreed to.

Mr. HALE. I present on behalf of the minority of the Committee on Naval Affairs their views upon the bill (S. 67) to transfer the Revenue Cutter Service from the Treasury Department to the Navy Department, and ask that they be printed, to accompany the majority report.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The views of the minority will be printed with the report upon the bill.

Mr. WASHBURN, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 155) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey, submitted an adverse report thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2626) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey, reported adversely thereon.

Mr. VEST. The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. KENNA] is called away necessarily from the Senate and requested me to ask leave that he be permitted to file a minority report on that bill. Let the bill go upon the Calendar with the understanding that the minority report may be filed hereafter.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee, with leave to the minority to submit their views to accompany the report of the committee.

GEORGE W. JONES.

Mr. TURREL. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 312) granting a pension to George W. Jones, to report it favorably, with an amendment; and I will ask the courtesy of the Senate for the present consideration of the bill.

The claimant is George W. Jones. He served during the entire period of the Black Hawk war. He not only rendered great services, but, being a man at that time of large means, he erected a blockhouse and stockade on the frontier where he was then residing, which served as a refuge for white settlers and inhabitants of that section of the country. He is at present a resident of Dubuque, Iowa. He was formerly a member of this body, and was one of the first Senators chosen from that State. He is 88 years of age, and in greatly reduced circumstances. Both the Senators from Iowa are personally acquainted with him, and will second me in this request for the present consideration of the bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The amendment of the Committee on Pensions was in line 10, to fill the blank by inserting the word "twenty;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll the name of George W. Jones, of Dubuque, Iowa, on account of services as a drummer boy in the volunteer company of Capt. William Lynn, at St. Genevieve, Mo., in 1811; and also on account of services as aide-de-camp to Gen. Henry Dodge in the Black Hawk war, 1832, and pay him a pension of $20 per month.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3179) authorizing the Secretary of War to cause a survey to be made for a ship canal from Philadelphia across New Jersey to New York Bay; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3180) for the relief of Samuel Lodge; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3181) for the relief of Luster P. Chester and Free-land Chester, and Luster P. Chester and Free-land Chester, executors of Thomas P. Chester; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. SANDERS introduced a bill (S. 3182) enlarging the operation of the homestead act; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 3183) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to accept the surrender of and cancel land patents to Indians in certain cases," approved October 19, 1888; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3184) to provide for allotments to Indians on White Earth Reservation in Minnesota; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. HARRIS (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3185) for the relief of Isaac L. Musselman, of Tennessee; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3186) to amend an act entitled "An act to apply a portion of the proceeds of the public lands to the more complete endowment and support of the colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts established under the provisions of an act of Congress approved July 2, 1862," approved August 30, 1890; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

Mr. PLATT introduced a bill (S. 3187) for the better protection of hotel-keepers, inn-keepers, lodging-house keepers, and boarding-house keepers in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. WASHBURN introduced a bill (S. 3188) to extend to Duluth, Minn., the privilege of immediate transportation of unappraised merchandise; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 86) for the protection of those parties who have heretofore been allowed to make entries for lands within the former Mille Lac Indian Reservation, in Minnesota; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

AMENDMENT TO A BILL.

Mr. HAWLEY submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

PORTRAIT OF HENRY WILSON.

Mr. DAWES submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Library be instructed to inquire into the expediency of purchasing for the use of the Senate the portrait of Henry Wilson, late Vice-President of the United States, painted by the late L. M. D. Guillaume, and report by bill or otherwise.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there further morning business? If there be no further morning business, the Calendar under Rule VIII is in order.

Mr. FRYE. I ask that the river and harbor bill be proceeded with.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7829) making appropriations for the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes.

Mr. PLATT. I wish to offer an amendment to the bill.

Mr. FRYE. If the Senator will withhold it one moment there are one or two more committee amendments to be acted upon.

Mr. PLATT. Certainly.

Mr. FRYE. On page 28, line 22, the committee agreed to an amendment which was accidentally left out. I move to strike out "continuing" and insert "to complete," and to strike out "fifteen thousand" and insert "eighteen thousand five hundred;" so as to read:

Improving narrows at Lake Champlain, New York: To complete improvement, $18,500.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. FRYE. On page 42, line 10, I move to strike out the word "Vienna" and to insert "Columbus;" so as to read:

Improving Tombigbee River, from Fulton to Columbus: Continuing improvement, $6,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. PLATT. I offer an amendment to the bill. I have explained it to the chairman of the committee and I think there will be no objection to it. Certainly they will have it within their power to alter it if it be necessary.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 68, in lines 1, 2, and 3, strike out the following words:

Any port, roadstead, haven, harbor, harbor of refuge, or inclosure within the limits of any breakwater, or of.

Change the colon in line 4 to a comma, and add at the end of line 4:

Or to excavate or fill in, or change or alter the condition or capacity of, any port, roadstead, haven, harbor, harbor of refuge, or inclosure within the limits of any breakwater, in such manner as to obstruct or impair the navigation, anchorage, or commerce of said waters.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. WHITE. On page 13, line 24, before the word "thousand," I move to strike out "ten" and insert "twenty." It does not change in any way the amount of the appropriation. I understood the chairman of the committee to state yesterday that he saw no objection to it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 13, line 24, before the word "thousand," strike out "ten" and insert "twenty;" so as to read:

Improving mouth and passes of Calcasieu River, La.: Continuing improvement, $100,000, of which $20,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, may, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, be used on the inner bars.

Mr. FRYE. As that makes no change in the amount of the appropriation, if in the judgment of the Senator from Louisiana it ought to be done, no objection will be interposed by me.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. QUAY. I move to amend the bill on page 78, line 11, by striking out the words "dam at or near the mouth of the Beaver River, in Pennsylvania" and inserting "Falls of the Ohio, at Louisville, Ky." It is an enlargement of the general plan of survey.

Mr. FRYE. That is in the surveys, is it?

Mr. QUAY. It is in the surveys only; in the general clause for the surveys.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. McMILLAN. On page 52, after line 9, I move to insert:

For the improvement of Grand River below Grand Rapids, in the State of Michigan, the sum of $100,000.

This is a very important improvement in the State of Michigan.

Mr. FRYE. One moment, if the Senator will allow me. I think I shall be compelled to make a point of order, but I shall not make it until the Senator has concluded whatever he desires to say.

Mr. McMILLAN. I wish to say but very little, Mr. President. This river is 40 miles in length between Grand Rapids and Grand Haven, and it connects the city of Grand Rapids with Grand Haven. Last year the engineers were ordered by the Committee on Commerce to make a report as to the feasibility of opening a channel 10 feet wide from Grand Rapids to Grand Haven, but the report was not made in time to be placed in this bill. The engineers reported that for $600,000 or $700,000 this improvement could be made.

Grand Rapids, as almost everyone knows, is a great manufacturing center. There is more furniture manufactured there than in any other city in the country. Those manufacturers are very anxious to have access by water to Lake Michigan, and at an expense of $600,000 or $700,000 they can save at least $250,000 a year in freights. The engineers reported in favor of making this appropriation but the report did not reach us until after the river and harbor bill was made up. Now, I should like to have an appropriation made for this purpose. The Engineer Department recommend $100,000. I should like the committee to allow even a smaller amount than that. If they object to $100,000 make it $25,000, so as to start the work. Grand Rapids is a city of 90,000 people, a growing city—this is a very important river, and it seems to me as if the improvements ought to be made. That is all I wish to say at present.

Mr. FRYE. The amendment is not subject to a point of order. I remember now that the amendment was offered by the Senator from Michigan and was before the committee; but the committee had no opportunity to consider it. The Secretary of War had not returned the conclusions of the engineer in season for us to consider the matter.

I do not feel at liberty to assent to any further increase in this bill. The State of Michigan was represented in the other House by two members of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and it seemed to the Committee on Commerce of the Senate that almost everything had been done for Michigan that we were justified in doing. Yet the two Senators from Michigan, when I informed them that Michigan must be cut considerably, came before the committee, and the result of the operation of economy on my part was that they had the bill increased still further by some $30,000 or $40,000.

Under all the circumstances, the committee having had no opportunity to examine this question, as the Senator knows perfectly well, I do not feel that I can assent to the amendment which the Senator desires.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Maine withdraws his point of order, the Chair understands.

Mr. McMILLAN. If the Senator will allow me, I will state that a report was called for last year in regard to this improvement but the report was delayed. Had it reach the other House in time, I have no doubt that the $100,000 would have been put in the bill. As I said before, if the Senator will agree to make it $25,000 so as to start this work, it will be satisfactory to these great manufacturing interests in Grand Rapids. They consider it a very important improvement and I am deluged with letters and telegrams and petitions urging that an appropriation be made. The people of that city think that after the engineer has made a favorable report it is too bad that the work can not be commenced.

Mr. FRYE. There is nothing personally that I would not do for the two Senators from Michigan, but a great many such requests have been made to me since the bill was passed upon by the committee, and I do not feel, without the authority of the committee, that I have any right to assent to the proposition.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Michigan.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. HAWLEY. I also wish to make an attempt to amend the bill, though at the same time I know the pressure which is upon the committee. I move, on page 6, in line 11, before the word "thousand," to strike out "fifteen" and insert "twenty-five," so as to raise the appropriation for improving the harbor at New Haven, Conn., from $15,000 to $25,000.

It is in some respects a misfortune that we legislate upon this matter only once in two years, because $15,000 looks large until we reflect that it only means $7,500 a year.

The engineer's report and the Treasury estimates say that $63,000 could be profitably used at this point. New Haven is the only natural harbor of any great size or consequence between a point near New York and New London on the east, a stretch of 77 miles. The commerce of that body of water is extraordinary. From the New Haven breakwater in one year about 134,000 vessels of various sorts were counted passing.

The Government is wisely expending a very large sum of money to make a splendid breakwater on the outer limits of that harbor, so that there will be an abundant harbor of refuge there, and that independent of the local necessities of the port of New Haven. When these vessels get within that breakwater, under stress of weather, as they easily can do, they want ground to move in and to anchor in. There must be some dredging there. If we can get means to perfect the dredging and establish satisfactory anchorage there, the better, the more use the costly breakwater will be.

I represent the commercial interests of New Haven, as I am led to think by distinguished citizens, in asking that the amount be made $25,000, in order that there may be $12,500 a year for this work.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 1, on page 6, line 11, before the word "thousand," it is proposed to strike out "fifteen" and insert "twenty-five," so as to read—

Improving harbor at New Haven, Conn., Continuing improvement, $5,000.

Mr. FRYE. Mr. President, this appropriation is not made for work on the breakwater?

Mr. HAWLEY. No.

Mr. FRYE. The work on the breakwater will require $16,000, as the Senator says, to complete it.

Mr. HAWLEY. No, no; I did not mean to be so understood.

Mr. FRYE. I so understood the Senator.

Mr. HAWLEY. No; a larger sum than that. I am speaking of the inner water. After the breakwater is finished there has got to be sufficient ground for vessels to move about and anchor within the inclosure of the breakwater.

Mr. FRYE. It takes $63,000 to complete the harbor. I remember two years ago, when the river and harbor bill was under consideration, that from the engineers or someone we received information that it would take about $7,500 a year to keep the harbor properly dredged, and two years ago we appropriated this same sum of $15,000, when the bill carried at least $25,000,000. Now, this bill only carries $21,000,000, and we have appropriated the same amount of $15,000. I have no doubt it is adequate for the purpose for which the appropriation is made, which is simply to continue the ordinary dredging out of the harbor.

Mr. HAWLEY. Well, I understand the extent of the pressure that is upon the chairman of the committee, but nevertheless I make the motion that the amount of $25,000 be appropriated instead of $15,000, because the engineers say that $63,000 can be properly expended.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY].

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. PUGH. I desire to move two amendments, to which I think there can be no objection, as they do not make any increase in the amount appropriated by the bill. On page 13, line 13, the improvement of harbor at Mobile, Ala., has been put under the contract system authorized by the bill. That makes it immaterial to that improvement whether the amount appropriated is $200,000 or $500,000, as the contract takes it out of the river and harbor bills to be passed hereafter.

There is another improvement in Alabama provided for on page 41, beginning in line 20:

Improving Black Warrior River, Alabama, from Tuscaloosa to Daniels Creek. Continuing improvement, $150,000.

Mobile is deeply interested in the completion of that work to the extent of entering the Warrior coal fields. The engineer has estimated that for $50,000 more the locks and dams can be constructed so as to allow transportation from those fields to Mobile. When that is accomplished, coal can be carried from those Warrior coal fields to Mobile at $1.25 a ton, making that port the cheapest coal port in the world.

I ask, with a deduction of 25 per cent under the committee amendment, that the amount of $262,500 be reduced to $212,500, deducting $50,000 from that amount, and that the $50,000 be transferred and added to the appropriation for the construction of the locks and dams on the Warrior River above Tuscaloosa up to Daniels Creek.

My amendment is to strike out "sixty-two" and insert "twenty-two." That will make the amount $212,500. That is the first amendment I offer.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 13, line 11, before the word "thousand," it is proposed to strike out "sixty-two" and insert "twenty-two," so as to read:

Improving harbor at Mobile, Ala., Continuing improvement, $122,500.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Alabama.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President—

Mr. PUGH. On page 41—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Maine rise to this question?

Mr. HALE. I do not understand that the vote has yet been taken.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. No, the Chair did not announce the result.

Mr. PUGH. Will the Senator from Maine allow me to complete my amendments before he proceeds?

Mr. HALE. What I wish to say is naturally suggested by the clause which the Senate is now considering. Therefore, I should prefer in what remarks I have to submit to go on at present on this proposition.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question before the Senate is on the motion of the Senator from Alabama [Mr. PUGH] to amend by striking out "sixty-two" and inserting "twenty-two."

Mr. PUGH. A reduction of fifty thousand in that appropriation.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, I want to call the attention of the Senate to one or two considerations touching this bill. This provision, as it comes from the House, provides $350,000 for improving the harbor at Mobile, but it goes on and provides:

That contract may be entered into by the Secretary of War for such material and work as may be necessary to complete the present project of improvement, to be paid for as appropriations may from time to time be made by law, not to exceed in the aggregate $1,000,000 exclusive of the amount herein and hereafter appropriated.

I have been looking over the bill, and I find provisions of this kind involving and carrying not only the appropriations which are limited in the bill, but obligations of the Government which can not be changed until the provisions are repealed, carrying immensely larger sums. I have a list here of the different items of this kind where appropriations in the bill amount to $6,266,250, while the obligations imposed upon the Government for which we must appropriate hereafter, being bound hand and foot by provisions of the bill, such as the House of Representatives put in, upon this very item of Mobile, Ala., for $32,815,357 besides.

The other day, Mr. President, in discussing the naval appropriation bill, where the Committee on Appropriations had only increased the House bill by $70,000, Senators upon the other side, the Senators from Missouri and the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS], speaking in the interests of economy, divided the statement that was made here by the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALDRICH], that the bill only increased the appropriations for the present year $700,000, claiming that if we passed the amendment as reported by the Senate committee it really added $11,000,000, which must be appropriated for hereafter. The Senator from Wisconsin, the Senators from Missouri, and other Senators, I think, upon the other side, inveighed against this as being extravagance under the guise of not increasing the present appropriation bill. I did not deny that the bill carried these amounts as appropriations upon subsequent bills, but claimed that, representing the present condition of the Treasury, only $700,000 was to be reckoned and would be called for from the revenues contributed by the people for the next fiscal year; but that was considered by these Senators as no answer whatever.

I call attention to the fact that I do not see any of these Senators rising in their seats and looking at the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS], who appeared as the foremost advocate of economy upon that side, and declared that in the present condition of the Treasury these large appropriations were an outrage upon the taxpayers, and I find that, while the items on this bill are colossal compared with those which were upon the naval appropriation bill—that seat is vacant. I do not see either of the Senators from Missouri rising and objecting to these immense burdens which are being laid upon the Government by future contracts which we can not escape.

I discover something of what was alluded to the other day as masquerading as economists when the appropriation does not sion the House take a recess until the evening for pension business.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Indian asks unanimous consent that the hour for the recess to-day be fixed at half past 5 o'clock instead of 5.

Mr. KILGORE. I object. I am willing that we shall run on until 6 o'clock if the evening session be dispensed with. But I am not willing that the afternoon session be extended if we are to come back here this evening at 8 o'clock.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

A message from the President, by Mr. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had approved and signed bills and joint resolutions of the following titles:

On May 20, 1892:

An act (H. R. 5444) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the National Union Insurance Company of Washington," approved February 14, 1865:

An act (H. R. 6295) to punish false swearing before trial boards of the Metropolitan police force and fire department of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes; and

An act (H. R. 6788) to establish supports of entry and delivery at Superior, Wis., and at Ashland, Wis., in the Superior collection district of Michigan and Wisconsin.

On May 12, 1892:

Joint resolution (H. Res. 118) to suspend the issue of permits to erect dwelling houses in alleys in the District of Columbia;

An act (H. R. 5108) to establish a military post at or near the city of Helena, in Lewis and Clarke County, in the State of Montana;

An act (H. R. 250) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River at De Witt, Carroll County, Mo., and to establish it as a post-road;

An act (H. R. 5354) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Oage River, between the town of Warsaw and the mouth of Turkey Creek, in Benton County, Mo.;

An act (H. R. 804) to authorize a national bank at Chicago, Ill.; to establish a branch office upon the grounds of the World's Columbian Exposition;

On May 13, 1892:

An act (H. R. 7527) to authorize the construction of a telegraph line on the coast of Virginia from Cape Charles to Assateague Island, in aid of the preservation of life and property;

An act (H. R. 7818) to provide for certain of the most urgent deficiencies in the appropriations for the service of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for other purposes; and

An act (H. R. 1845) to amend an act entitled "An act relating to tax sales and taxes in the District of Columbia."

ENROLLED JOINT RESOLUTION.

Mr. WARWICK, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined and found truly enrolled joint resolution (H. Res. 96) to authorize the loan of certain ensigns, flags, and signal numbers for the purpose of decorating the streets and buildings of Washington on the occasion of the Grand Army Encampment in September, 1892; when the Speaker signed the same.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. HARE, for ten days, on account of important business.

To Mr. CAPEHART, for ten days, on account of important business.

To Mr. COX of Tennessee, for ten days, on account of important business.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

On motion of Mr. CASTLE, by unanimous consent, the Committee on Rivers and Harbors was discharged from the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 223) to provide for the making of a survey and estimate for a canal from the St. Croix River to Lake Superior, and the same was referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I move that the House now take a recess until 8 o'clock.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from New York [Mr. CAMPBELL] moves that the House now take a recess until 8 o'clock p. m., the evening session to be devoted to the consideration of business under the special rule.

The motion was agreed to; and accordingly (at 4 o'clock and 55 minutes p. m.) the House took a recess until 8 o'clock p. m.

EVENING SESSION.

The recess having expired, the House at 8 o'clock p. m. was called to order by the Speaker.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole to consider bills on the Private Calendar under the rule.

The question was taken; and on a division (demanded by Mr. KILGORE) there were—ayes 37, noes 4.

Mr. KILGORE. I think we ought not to go to work until we get more members here, and I will have to insist on a quorum.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I suggest that we proceed to the consideration of business to which there is no objection, and if we reach bills to which the gentleman objects, then he can call for a quorum or make other objection.

The SPEAKER. The point of order being made that no quorum has voted, the Chair will appoint tellers.

Mr. KILGORE and Mr. MARTIN were appointed tellers.

The House again divided; and the tellers reported—ayes 41, noes 10.

Mr. KILGORE. There is not quite enough present yet; no quorum. [Laughter.]

Mr. COBB of Alabama. I move a call of the House.

The SPEAKER. The tellers will continue the count.

The count being concluded, the tellers reported—ayes 41, noes 10.

So, no further count being demanded, the motion was agreed to.

The House accordingly resolved itself into Committee of the Whole House, Mr. DOCKERY in the chair.

CHARLOTTE SNAVELY.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the first bill upon the Calendar.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 714) for the relief of Charlotte Snavely, of Mead, Holly Springs, Cumberland County, Pa.

Mr. MARTIN. In view of the fact that there is a substitute reported by the committee for this bill, I suggest that the substitute be read.

The CHAIRMAN. In the absence of objection that will be done.

The substitute was read at length.

Mr. COBB of Alabama. Let us have the report read.

The report (by Mr. KIBBS) was read at length.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the adoption of the substitute.

Mr. KILGORE. I am informed that this bill is one in which the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BELTZHOVER] is interested, and he requested that it should be laid aside without losing its place, if this is the bill to which I think he referred. It is impossible for him to be present to-night on account of sickness.

The CHAIRMAN. In the absence of objection the bill will be laid aside, and the Clerk will report the next pension bill on the Calendar.

JONATHAN KIMBALL.

The next business on the Calendar was the bill (H. R. 6038) for the relief of Jonathan Kimball.

The bill was read at length.

Mr. KILGORE. I do not know but that the bill just read is obnoxious to the point of order, from what I could gather of the reading.

Mr. RAINES. Let us have the report.

Mr. KILGORE. I am willing to have the report read subject, of course, to the point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is informed that this bill was laid aside at the last meeting of the committee without prejudice, and if there be no objection that order will be made again to-night.

Mr. JOLLEY. Mr. Chairman, the same point of order was made heretofore and the Chair has ruled on it.

Mr. KILGORE. I think the Chair was mistaken in the ruling, but it is possible he may have reformed by this time. [Laughter.] I make the point of order again. I believe a demurrer is always in order in court, and I think the point of order may always be presented if it goes to the substance of the question, and the jurisdiction of the House over the subject-matter. I renew the point of order therefore, but will yield to any gentleman who wants to make a speech.

The CHAIRMAN. If the Chair remembers his decision on last Friday evening correctly, he ruled that the bill was in order, the effect of the language being to allow claimant arrears of pension. As the Chair now recollects it, that is the provision of the bill. The Chair thinks that the bill is in order, though of course it is a question for the committee to determine whether or not they desire to grant arrears of pensions.

Mr. LANE. Mr. Chairman, I move to lay the bill aside without prejudice, if the gentleman in charge of the bill is not here. I ask consent that it be laid aside.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. JOLLEY. Mr. Chairman, this same bill was laid aside in the same way two weeks ago. If there is any particular objection to the bill I would like to have it brought up now; if not, the bill ought to pass.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Illinois has asked that the bill be laid aside without prejudice. The Chair stated the request and heard no objection. If the gentleman states that he rose for the purpose of objecting, of course the Chair will recognize it.

Mr. JOLLEY. I did; but if the gentleman wants to lay it aside for consideration before the next meeting, I have no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The bill will of course retain its place on the Calendar, and if there be no objection it will be laid aside for the present.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

CHARLES T. GARRARD.

The next business on the Calendar was the bill (H. R. 2932) for the relief of Charles T. Garrard.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to remove the charge of desertion appearing on the records of the Adjutant-General United States Army against Charles T. Garrard, late quartermaster-sergeant Sixth Regiment United States Cavalry, and that a certificate of honorable discharge as of Sixth United States Cavalry be furnished said soldier.

The report (by Mr. BOWERS) was read, as follows:

The Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 2932) for the relief of Charles T. Garrard, have had the same under consideration and report.

The military record of this soldier shows that said Garrard enlisted October 23, 1861, in Troop K, Sixth Cavalry, served faithfully until February 10, 1864, when he was discharged by reason of reenlistment in the same troop the same date, and served faithfully until October 12, 1865, when he deserted, having served over four years and until long after the war was over; was in many battles and wounded severely at the battle of Winchester.

Many affidavits of comrades show him to have been a good soldier. He received a furlough for three days and overstaid his time two days, occasioned by an accident. For this he was arbitrarily and unjustly treated. In view of his long service, honorable wounds, good citizenship, and mitigating circumstances of his hasty and unlawful act committed while smarting under his unjust treatment, your committee are of the opinion that the relief should be granted, and recommend that the bill do pass.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Will the gentleman in charge of the bill tell what that accident was that happened to this soldier?

Mr. DURBOROW. Mr. Chairman, I can inform the gentleman. As the report states, the soldier was granted a short leave of absence. Coming back, he was detained by a railroad accident which prevented his getting back to his command until two days after his leave expired. His commanding officer, a young lieutenant, came to him and abused him most shamefully, according to the testimony of a bystander, a member of the man's company. This so incensed the soldier that he retorted rather hotly, and for his words he was court-martialed. They had a trial about it, and during that the man picked up his things and walked off. He had been a good soldier. He has been a good citizen since the war, and he asks that Congress grant him this relief for the sake of his family and his children.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. The charge of desertion does not rest upon the two days' delay on account of the accident?

Mr. DURBOROW. Oh, no.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. It rests upon his picking up his things and leaving while the trial was in progress.

Mr. DURBOROW. That is about it. It was after the war was over. He served through the war. He was severely wounded. He has a fine record as a brave soldier, and having completed his service, it seems as though this little matter might be adjusted now.

Mr. LANE. I think the bill ought to be amended in the usual way, so as to provide that he shall receive no pay or emoluments on account of the passage of this bill.

Mr. DURBOROW. I accept that amendment. I supposed that was in the bill.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the gentleman state the amendment?

Mr. LANE. It should read:

Provided, however, That this bill shall carry no pay or emoluments.

Mr. DURBOROW. That is all right.

Mr. HULL. I think the usual form is that—

No pay arrearages or emoluments shall become due by the passage of this act.

That is the customary form.

Mr. DURBOROW. That is the customary form, and I accept that.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

And no pay, emoluments, or arrearages shall become due by the passage of this act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is, Shall the bill be laid aside with a favorable recommendation?

Mr. EVERETT. Mr. Chairman, if I understand the reading of that report, it acknowledges the desertion on the part of this soldier. It does seem that there is no crime in the catalogue that a soldier can commit that will cut him off from the benefits of the pension laws. There has never been a meritorious case asking a pension in this House that I have not freely and willingly voted for; but when the attempt is made to put upon this country the deserters from the Army, I think that the limit in pensioning has been reached. It is asking entirely too much of the country.

We expect to pension the good soldiers, who were true and faithful and brave, who remained in their places, and I think the section from which I hail has proven that we are willing that those pensions should be given. But I have sat here and seen men placed on the pension rolls who I am satisfied were not deserving men. It seems that there is nothing that will cut one out. For one, I am opposed to pensioning any man who deserted from the ranks. I care not whether in the face of the enemy or not.

Mr. SCOTT. Will the gentleman permit me to ask him a question?

Mr. EVERETT. Yes.

Mr. SCOTT. If I understood the report and the explanation made by the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. DURBOROW], this bill is not for the purpose of pensioning the soldier, but for the purpose of removing a charge of desertion, that desertion having taken place after he had served through the entire war, and it occurred on account of some difficulty with an officer.

Mr. EVERETT. That is my understanding, and I want to say to you right here that if there were not a pension looming up in the dim distance that application never would have been made here to-night. It is for the purpose, and the sole purpose, of putting him and his family in line in order that they may draw a pension in the future. Think of it! One hundred and thirty-five million dollars a year now, and, according to the report of the Commissioner, 30,000 men going onto the pension rolls in addition every month; two and a half millions to keep up the places of desert at which soldiers are kept! That is all right; but I say that we ought to scrutinize these cases more carefully. I do not know when I have ever objected to voting for a pension to a person who I thought was a worthy subject, but when you come to pension your deserters you touch me in a tender spot.

I shall vote against it, and I hope other members of this House will do the same thing.

Mr. BRETZ. Mr. Chairman, I desire to send to the Clerk's desk a communication from the Grand Army of the Republic of Indiana, and have it read in connection with this matter.

The CHAIRMAN. The communication will be read.

The Clerk read as follows:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF INDIANA,
GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC,
Indianapolis, April 27, 1892.

DEAR SIR: The department of encampment of Indiana, Grand Army of the Republic, at its recent session at Fort Wayne, by a rising vote, unanimously resolved that we protest against the indiscriminate correction of records of deserters by Congress, and the placing on the rolls of the Army with honorable discharges those who deserted us in the hour of peril, unless on investigation satisfactory proof is given of error in records. I was directed to certify the same to you. I was also by vote of the encampment, directed to ask your support for the measure increasing the pensions of deaf soldiers.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, yours,

IRVIN ROBBINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Hon. J. L. BRETZ, M. C.

Mr. TANSNEY. Mr. Chairman, the letter just read from the desk in the main meets with my hearty concurrence. I have not established for myself in this House a reputation for supporting indiscriminately measures for the removal of charges of desertion, nor of granting pensions. I have endeavored in the conduct of my duties here to be governed in the consideration of each case and each measure as it came up, as I would in the consideration of any other measures.

While I concur in the purpose of that letter which has been read, I would impress upon this committee, and upon the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. EVERETT], and upon my friend from Indiana [Mr. BRETZ], that in these measures for the relief of soldiers having the word "Desertion" recorded against them, that there are distinctions in those cases. For a man who abandoned his duty, who forgot his allegiance, who in the face of the enemy deserted, I have not now and never have had any sympathy or consideration; and no pressure or inducement could ever incline me to the support of a bill for the removal of that charge from such. But there are technical offenses of desertion as there are offenses merely technical in the violation of any criminal code.

If we could stop here and calmly consider this matter, robbed of this hateful word "desertion," and look coolly at the facts as presented in this report concerning the conduct of this soldier, I anticipate we would not look upon this as one of the cases that does not call for relief. Here was a soldier, according to this report, brave and true in the line of his duty until that duty members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Sodus, Mich., and the memorial of D. W. Milks and 32 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Saginaw, Mich., remonstrating against the commitment of the Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 319) to amend the act incorporating the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom were referred the following bills, submitted adverse reports thereon; which were agreed to, and the bills were postponed indefinitely:

A bill (S. 2863) for the relief of Mrs. Letitia S. Elliott;

A bill (S. 2695) for the relief of Patrick Cook;

A bill (S. 2642) to extend the time for the payment of unpaid taxes for the year 1891 and all previous years, and for the remission of the penalty;

A bill (S. 1961) relating to the office of the register of wills of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes; and

A bill (S. 1960) relating to the office of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

Mr. COLEQUITT, from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5396) for the relief of W. H. Howard, reported it without amendment.

Mr. MORGAN, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 85) to correct a misnomer in the records of the General Land Office, and for other purposes, reported it without amendment.

Mr. PROCTOR, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3117) relating to post traderships, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. VEST. I am instructed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3067) granting the right of way to the Kentucky and Indiana Bridge Company on and across the grounds of the Louisville and Portland Canal, the property of the Government of the United States, to report it adversely. I suppose the bill may go on the Calendar, as it was introduced by the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN], who is not present.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri asks that the bill be placed on the Calendar, although there is an adverse report. If there be no objection it will be so ordered.

COURTS IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Mr. WILSON. I am directed by the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2968) to provide for a May term of the district court of the United States for the eastern district of South Carolina, to report it favorably without amendment, and inasmuch as it is very brief and will require but a moment for its consideration, I ask unanimous consent that the bill may be considered at the present time.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LANDS AT BOONVILLE, MO.

Mr. WALTHALL. I am directed by the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3036) to confirm New Madrid location survey, No. 131, and to provide for the issue of a patent therefor, to report it favorably, with an amendment to the title, and to submit a written report thereon.

Mr. VEST. That is a bill which will excite no debate, and it is of very great importance to one of the cities of my State. It is a mere formal matter, reported favorably from the Interior Department and the Land Office and the Committee on Public Lands. It simply confirms a survey; and I ask the Senate to consider the bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. WALTHALL. There is an amendment to the title.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill to confirm New Madrid location survey No. 2475, and to provide for the issue of a patent therefor."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is inclined to think that the body of the bill ought to be amended so as to conform to the title.

Mr. WALTHALL. It is only the title that requires to be amended. One number has reference to the certificate of location and the other number has reference to the survey. The bill is right.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. VILAS (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3189) for the relief of Augusta Kratzenberg; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (S. 3199) for the relief of John C. Peters, alias Peter L. Weber; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3194) granting a pension to Susan A. Russell; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3192) to equalize to some extent the burdens imposed upon the people by an act entitled "An act to reduce the revenue and equalize duties on imports, and for other purposes," approved October 1, 1890; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3193) for the advancement of the science of agriculture; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. PADDOCK. The bill should go to the Committee on Patents, and I will read the first paragraph of the measure to indicate that it should go there:

That any person who has invented or discovered any new and useful plant, fruit, or flower not known or used by others in this country, and not patented, etc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. CHANDLER introduced a bill (S. 3194) for the relief of Jeronemus S. Underhill, of the city of New York; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. WARREN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. BUTLER submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill (S. 2571) to amend section 19 of an act entitled "An act to regulate commerce," approved February 4, 1887; which was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

FUNERAL OF SENATOR BARBOUR.

Mr. KENNA submitted the following resolution; which was read:

Resolved, That the expenses incurred by the select committee appointed to take order for the funeral of the late Senator Barbour be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. KENNA. I ask for the present consideration of the resolution.

Mr. SHERMAN. The law requires that it shall go to the Committee on Contingent Expenses. There is no objection to the resolution, of course, but a reference is required.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the rule or law the resolution must be referred.

Mr. KENNA. Very well; let it take the regular course.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution will be referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

WOOL AND WOOLEN GOODS.

Mr. VEST. I offer a resolution which I ask to have read and lie on the table. I shall call it up some other day.

The resolution was read, and ordered to lie on the table, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be discharged from the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 6067), being "An act to place wool on the free list and to reduce the duties on woolen goods," and that the same be reported back to the Senate for its action thereon.

REPORT ON NICARAGUAN CANAL.

Mr. MORGAN submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That 10,000 copies of Miscellaneous Document No. 97 (Fifty-second Congress, first session), being the letter of the Secretary of War and the report of Maj. C. E. Dutton on the Nicaraguan Canal, be printed, of which 6,000 copies shall be for the use of the House and 4,000 for the use of the Senate.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following bills:

A bill (S. 812) granting a pension to George W. Jones; and

A bill (S. 1975) for the protection of livery-stable keepers and other persons keeping horses at livery within the District of Columbia.

The message also announced that the House had agreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 711) to remove the charge of desertion now standing against Albert Keach.

The message further announced that the House had passed a bill (H. R. 5719) for the relief of Harriet W. Shacklett; in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

ENROLLED BILLS.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills and joint resolution:

A bill (H. R. 1528) to pension Samuel O. Fisher, of Lynn, Mass.;

A bill (H. R. 2073) granting a pension to Mrs. Jennie Y. Wade;

Petitions praying for the enactment of legislation for the encouragement of silk culture—referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Petitions praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent gambling in farm products—to the Committee on the Judiciary. Petition praying for the passage of House bill 395, defining lard and imposing a tax thereon—ordered to lie on the table.

Petitions praying for the free delivery of mails in rural districts—referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Petitions praying for the passage of a bill making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts—to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. FELTON presented a petition of the North Battle Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of California, praying for the free delivery of rural mails: which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented the memorial of W. G. Myers and other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Oakland, Cal., and the memorial of C. F. Eaton and other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Napa, Cal., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday: which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. TURPIE, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (H. R. 2902) for the relief of David L. Truex;

A bill (H. R. 3838) to pension Elizabeth R. Crawford, widow of C. A. Crawford, soldier in Creek war of 1836;

A bill (H. R. 3202) to pension Nancy E. Renfro;

A bill (H. R. 5364) granting a pension to Mary Gatlin;

A bill (H. R. 4043) granting an increase of pension to William A. Birch; and

A bill (H. R. 5363) granting a pension to David C. Barrow.

Mr. TURPIE, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 317) granting an increase of pension to John M. Roberts, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. DAWES, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom the subject was referred, reported a bill (S. 3195), granting to the Yuma Pumping Irrigation Company the right of way for two ditches across that part of the Yuma Indian Reservation lying in Arizona: which was read twice by its title.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3103) granting right of way to the Yuma Pumping Irrigation Company across the Yuma depot quartermaster's reservation in Arizona, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment:

A bill (S. 2292) to accept and ratify an agreement made with the confederated tribes and bands of Indians occupying the Yakima Reservation, in the State of Washington, for the extinguishment of their title to so much of said reservation as is required for the use of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and to make the necessary appropriations for carrying out the same;

A bill (S. 3183) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to accept the surrender of and cancel land patents to Indians in certain cases," approved October 19, 1888; and

A bill (S. 3184) to provide for allotments to Indians on White Earth Reservation, in Minnesota.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 1669) granting an increase of pension to Fordyce R. Melvin; and

A bill (H. R. 7281) granting a pension to William F. C. Nindemann, late of the Jeannette expedition to the Arctic Ocean.

Mr. GALLINGER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (H. R. 1445) for the relief of Kate P. Mitchell, daughter of Stephen Mitchell, late of Fifth Maine Battery;

A bill (H. R. 1276) to pension Adeline Alexander;

A bill (H. R. 2436) granting a pension to Bridget Maloy; and

A bill (H. R. 5602) granting a pension to Lucy Haskell, mother, by adoption, of John Haskell.

Mr. PALMER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment:

A bill (H. R. 2496) granting a pension to Noah Staley;

A bill (H. R. 5734) granting a pension to Eliza M. Boatright, the surviving widow of Alexander M. Boatright, who was a soldier in the Black Hawk war; and

A bill (H. R. 2713) in relation to the execution of declarations and other papers in pension claims.

Mr. VOORHEES. I am instructed by the Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1525) directing the issue of duplicate United States bonds to Elijah P. Holleroft, guardian of Barton J. Parr, to report it without amendment. I shall ask leave to submit a written report hereafter to accompany the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar, and leave will be granted as requested.

Mr. MITCHELL. I am instructed by the Committee on Privileges and Elections to report back the joint resolution (S. R. 8.) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing for the election of Senators by the votes of the qualified electors of the States, without recommendation as to merits but with the recommendation that the joint resolution be placed on the Calendar for consideration, and as the committee is divided in regard to this matter it is understood that each member of the committee, either conjointly with one or more of his fellows or by himself, shall within a reasonable time submit his views to be filed either in support of or against the proposed change in the Constitution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be placed on the Calendar, and leave will be granted as stated.

Mr. VEST, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 419) fixing the compensation of United States marshals and deputies, and for other purposes, reported it with an amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom the subject was referred, submitted a report, accompanied by a bill (S. 3196) fixing the compensation of clerks of the circuit and district courts of the United States, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. VEST. There are certain reports from the Attorney-General's office accompanying these bills, and I move that the ordinary number of copies be printed for the use of the Senate.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. PETTIGREW, from the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 83) authorizing and directing the President to proclaim a general holiday commemorating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, on the 12th day of October, 1892, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. GALLINGER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 4779) granting a pension to Annie M. Greene, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

MARY JEWETT TELFORD.

Mr. PALMER. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5921) granting a pension to Mary Jewett Telford, an army nurse, to report it favorably without amendment, and to ask for its immediate consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to place on the pension rolls the name of Mary Jewett Telford (formerly Mary Jewett), now a resident of Denver, Colo., at the rate of $12 per month, on account of disability resulting from disease contracted while serving as a hospital nurse during the war of the rebellion.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Mr. POWER. I am directed by the Committee to Examine the Several Branches of the Civil Service, to whom was referred the resolution submitted April 27, 1892, in reference to the Geological Survey, to report it with amendments, and have it referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. As proposed to be amended:

Whereas, at a meeting of representative citizens of Montana, known as the State Irrigation Convention, held in the city of Helena on the 7th, 8th, and 9th of January last, for the purpose of considering measures and policies beneficial to that Commonwealth, and designed to aid in the settlement and development of the lands and resources within the same, the following resolutions were adopted, to wit:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our Senators and Representative in Congress be requested to implore and, if possible, secure large appropriations for public surveys in Montana, this State having at present but one-fifth of its land surveyed, 70,000,000 acres being yet unsurveyed.

Resolved, That we believe it will best subserve the interests of this State if no appropriation whatever be made to be expended under the direction of the Government Geological Survey, for the State of Montana; and

Whereas complaints have been made and heard through the press and through organized public bodies from all of the Western States in which the largest portion of the remaining public domain is located, at the small areas of public lands that are now annually surveyed, thus hindering the progress of settlement and the security of titles; and

Whereas a growing opposition is manifested everywhere in the same region to the large annual appropriations that have been made, and are still proposed, for the carrying on of the United States topographical surveys, which, in the communities most seriously affected, are regarded as injurious to the efficiency of the system of public land surveys, as retarding such surveys; and which are also strenuously opposed as extravagant in expenditure, wasteful in management, and without suitable beneficial results to the people directly affected or the country at large; Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate be, and are hereby, directed to make a full investigation into the relations of said Geological Survey Office and the topographical survey under it, to the public lands, the necessity for the existence of two such systems in the same areas, their character, survey, and development, and as to the processes, personnel, and expenditures of the same, with power to employ a stenographer and to send for persons and papers and to administer oaths, reporting the results to the Senate, at as early a day as possible, with such recommendations as may be deemed suitable.

Mr. HARRIS. Should not the resolution require the Committee on Public Lands to make the investigation suggested?

Mr. POWER. It has already been to the Committee to Examine the Several Branches of the Civil Service and we want to have it referred now to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

Mr. HARRIS. Still, if the committee to which it is referred is required to make the investigation, as I understand the resolution as read from the desk to require, it certainly is going to the wrong committee. It ought to go to the Committee on Public Lands to make such an investigation.

Mr. POWER. It can be reported back from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate and then referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. PADDOCK. What is the subject of the investigation, may I inquire?

Mr. HARRIS. It relates to surveys of public land. Let the resolution be read again.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be again read as proposed to be amended.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution.

Mr. HARRIS. I suggest to amend the resolution by striking out "the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate" and inserting "the Committee on Public Lands," and then refer the resolution to the Committee to Audit and Control, because they will have to act upon it as it involves an expense payable out of the contingent fund.

Mr. POWER. All right; I accept that.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In lieu of inserting the words "the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate" insert the words "the Committee on Public Lands."

The amendment was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

MRS. FANNY N. BELGER.

Mr. VILAS. I am instructed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2647) for the relief of Mrs. Fanny N. Belger, to report it with an amendment fixing the rate of pension proposed at $50. The committee are unanimous in respect to this bill. The case is one of very deserving merit. The beneficiary has reached an advanced age and is in feeble health, and I ask for the immediate consideration of the bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The amendment of the committee was, in line 6, before the word "dollars," to strike out "twenty-five" and insert "fifty;" and in line 7, after the word "husband," to insert "December 10, 1894;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and is hereby, directed to place the name of Mrs. Fanny N. Belger, widow of Col. James Belger, on the pension rolls, and that she be paid a pension of $50 per month, to date from the death of her said husband, December 10, 1894.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. PEPPER introduced a bill (S. 3197) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Emporia, in the State of Kansas; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3198) for the construction of a public building at Adrian, Mich.; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. MITCHELL introduced a bill (S. 3199) for the relief of Carrie E. T. Knox; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 3200) for the relief of Charles Gould, who enlisted in the Navy to serve in the Mexican war; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. SANDERS introduced a bill (S. 3201) to provide for holding terms of court for the district of Montana; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. COKE introduced a bill (S. 3202) re-conveying to the original grantors the title to certain lands in the State of Louisiana conveyed by them to the United States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 87) to authorize the Chief of Engineers, United States Army, to take possession of certain property of the United States in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. PASCO submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the agricultural appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PETTIGREW submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the agricultural appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. TURPINE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the general deficiency appropriation bill; which was ordered to be printed, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

REPORT OF MONETARY COMMISSION.

Mr. STEWART submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 50,000 copies of the report of the Monetary Commission created under the joint resolution of August 15, 1876, being Senate Report No. 703, second session Forty-fourth Congress; 20,000 for the use of the Senate and 30,000 for the use of the House of Representatives.

HISTORY OF PORTSMOUTH (N. H.) NAVY-YARD.

Mr. HALE. At the request of the Senate from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER], who has been called away from the Senate, I submit a resolution and ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That there be printed and bound with the history of the Portsmouth navy-yard the plans of the yard made in 1890 and in 1898, showing the buildings and other improvements finished or proposed at those dates.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read again. What is the resolution?

Mr. HALE. I will tell the Senator. We have provided for the printing of a certain work upon the Portsmouth navy-yard. This is a resolution providing that there shall be printed with that certain maps and charts of the yard.

Mr. HARRIS. Should not the resolution go to the Committee on Printing?

Mr. HALE. It will add nothing of any account to the expense. It is not of magnitude enough to go to the Committee on Printing under the rule.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution refers to two small maps.

Mr. COCKRELL. Oh, yes; that is all right.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

CITIZENS' BANK OF LOUISIANA.

Mr. HALE. The Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER], who has just been called from the Senate by a dispatch announcing the serious illness of a member of his family, asked me to enter a motion to reconsider the vote by which the Senate yesterday passed the bill S. 145 to authorize the Court of Claims to hear and determine the claim of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana, etc. I enter that motion now.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The motion will be entered.

Mr. HALE. If the bill has gone to the other House, I ask that a message be sent recalling it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That order will be made in the absence of objection.

MRS. CLARA MORRIS.

Mr. PEPPER. Some time during the early part of the session a bill was presented for the relief of Mrs. Clara Morris. It was referred to the Committee on Claims. By direction of the committee I had the honor of reporting the bill adversely. I have just received a letter from the claimant asking permission to withdraw the papers in the case from the files of the Senate. In her name I now make the request.

Mr. COCKRELL. That will be done subject to the rule of the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Leave will be granted subject to the rule of the Senate.

Mr. PEPPER. What is the rule?

Mr. COCKRELL. To leave copies when the case has been reported adversely.

Mr. PADDOCK. It is a standing rule.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Copies are left when a case has been reported adversely.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following bills and joint resolutions: in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 7931) to provide for semiannual statements by foreign corporations doing business in the District of Columbia;

A bill (H. R. 7720) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Savannah River;

A bill (H. R. 8125) to provide for the regulation of the equipment and operation of street-railroad lines with the District of Columbia by the Commissioners of said District;

A bill (H. R. 8295) to authorize the Glen Echo Railroad Company to cross the Washington Aqueduct;

A joint resolution (H. Res. 121) relating to the Memorial Association of the District of Columbia; and

A joint resolution (H. Res. 132) to pay the officers and employees of the Senate and House of Representatives their respective salaries for the month of May, 1892, on the 28th day of said month.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills:

A bill (S. 661) for the regulation of the practice of dentistry in the District of Columbia, and for the protection of the people from empiricism in relation thereto;

A bill (S. 2460) to repeal the license tax of $25 per year now imposed upon produce-dealers in the markets of the District of Columbia; and

A bill (S. 2613) to amend sections 2807 and 2881 of the Revised Statutes.

TENNESSEE RIVER BRIDGE AT CLIFTON, TENN.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business? If not, that order is closed, and the first bill on the Calendar under Rule VIII will be proceeded with.

The bill (H. R. 7092) to authorize building a bridge over the Tennessee River was announced as first in order on the Calendar, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Commerce with amendments.

The first amendment was, in section 1, line 11, after the word "county," to insert "in the State of Tennessee;" in line 12, after "point," to strike out "which" and insert "as;" and in the same line, after "May," to strike out the words "deem more acceptable" and insert the word "determine;" so as to make the section read:

That the St. Louis and Birmingham Railway Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of Tennessee, be, and is hereby, authorized to construct and maintain for the purpose of running railway trains, also for passage of all kinds of road vehicles, wagons, carts, and conveyances for passengers, and for foot passengers, if said railroad company may desire to do so, a bridge over the Tennessee River, at a point on said river known as Clifton, in Wayne County, in the State of Tennessee, or within 5 miles either above or below said point, as said company may determine.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 6, before the word "transportation," to strike out "the," and in line 9, after the word "telegraph," to insert "and telephone;" so as to make the section read:

That any bridge built under this act and subject to its limitations shall be a lawful structure and shall be recognized and known as a post route, upon which no higher charge shall be made for the transmission over the same of the mails, troops, and the munitions of war of the United States passing over said bridge than the rate per mile paid for transportation over the railroad leading to said bridge; and equal privileges in the use of said bridge shall be granted to all telegraph and telephone companies, and it shall enjoy the rights and privileges of other post roads in the United States.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 3, line 5, after the word "clear," to insert "at low-water mark;" so as to read:

That the bridge built under this act shall be constructed as a pivot draw-bridge, with a draw over the main channel of the river at an accessible and best navigable point, and with spans not less than 100 feet in length in the clear at low-water mark on each side of the channel or pivot pier of the draw, and said span shall not be less than 14 feet above extreme high water mark, measuring to the lowest part of the super-trunnion of the bridge, and the pier of said bridge shall be parallel to and the bridge itself at right angles to the current of the river at the average stage of water where said bridge may be erected.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 3, line 13, after the word "clear," to insert "at low-water mark;" so as to make the proviso read:

Provided also, That in said bridge there shall be one span of not less than 300 feet in length in the clear at low-water mark, that said draw shall be opened promptly by said company, upon reasonable signal, for the passage of boats or vessels; and said corporation shall maintain at its own expense, from sunset to sunrise, such light- or other signals as the Light House Board shall prescribe.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 4, line 14, before the word "Tennessee," to insert "the State of;" so as to read:

And in case of any litigation arising from any obstruction or alleged obstruction to the free navigation of said river, caused or alleged to be caused by said bridge, the case shall be brought in the district court of the United States of the State of Tennessee, in which any portion of said obstruction or bridge may be located.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 6, line 6, after the word "owner," to insert "or owners;" so as to make the section read:

That all railroad companies desiring the use of any bridge constructed under this act shall have and be entitled to equal rights and privileges relative to the passage of railway trains or cars over the same and over the approaches thereto upon payment of reasonable compensation for such use; and in case the owner or owners of said bridge and the several railroad companies, or any one of them, desiring such use shall fail to agree upon the sum or sums to be paid, and upon rules and conditions to which each shall conform in using said bridge, all matters at issue between them shall be decided by the Secretary of War upon a hearing of the allegations and proof of the parties.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 7, line 14, before the word "cents," to strike out "sixty" and insert "fifty," and in line 17, before the word "each," to strike out "2 cents" and insert "1 cent;" so as to make the section read:

That it shall not be obligatory on said company in constructing said railroad bridge to so construct the same for the passage of road vehicles or foot passengers, but may, as in this act provided, construct the same only as a railroad bridge if said company so decides; but in case the said bridge is constructed for the passage of common road vehicles and foot passengers, said company shall have no right to charge tolls on the same for a longer period than fifteen years, and then the same for such travel shall be free. But in charging tolls, no charge shall be in excess of the amounts here stated, to wit: Footmen, 5 cents each; single horse conveyance, including conveyances for people, 20 cents each; double horse conveyances 30 cents, four-horse conveyances, drawn by horses or oxen, 50 cents; horses with riders, 10 cents; horses and cattle loose or led, 6 cents each; sheep and hogs, 1 cent each; turkeys, 1 cent each.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 8, line 6, after the word "year," to strike out the words "from the passage of this act, and it becoming a law;" and in line 8, after the word "from," to strike out the words "that time" and insert "date hereof;" so as to make the section read:

That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved, without any liability of the United States for damages on account of the alterations, amendments, or repeal of this act. That this act shall be null and void if actual construction of the bridge herein authorized be not commenced within one year and completed in three years from date hereof.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. There are a good many amendments made to that bill. I should like to hear it read as amended.

Mr. BATE. I believe all those amendments came from the committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. They were all reported from the Committee on Commerce. Does the Senator from Iowa desire to have the bill read as amended?

Mr. ALLISON. I shall not press the request, although there are a good many small amendments, and I should like to know their effect on the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. They are mostly verbal amendments.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT OWOSSO, MICH.

The bill (S. 300) for the construction of a public building at Owosso, Mich., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Buildings and grounds with an amendment, in line 13, before the word "thousand," to strike out "sixty" and insert "fifty" and in line 14, before the word "thousand," to strike out "sixty" and insert "fifty," so as to read:

That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to purchase, acquire by condemnation, or otherwise provide a site and place to be erected thereon a suitable, commodious, and substantial building, including in proof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, elevators, and approaches, for the use of the accommodation of the United States post-office and other Government offices in the city of Owosso and State of Michigan; the cost of the site and building, including in proof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, elevators, and approaches, complete, not to exceed the sum of $50,000, which said sum of $50,000 is hereby appropriated for said purpose out of any moneys in the United States Treasury not otherwise appropriated, upon the following provisions:

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ADJUSTMENT OF LAND GRANTS.

The bill (S. 1774) to enable the Secretary of the Interior to carry out the provisions of certain laws was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that bill be passed over without prejudice.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

ISHAM T. OWEN.

The bill (S. 2386) for the relief of Isham T. Owen, of Missouri, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Claims with an amendment, at the end of the bill to insert "and after such payment the Secretary of the Treasury shall report his action in the premises to the governor of the State of California" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to examine the claim of Isham T. Owen, of Marion County, Mo., for the payment of two California Indian war bonds issued by the State of California in payment of the expenses by her incurred in the suppression of Indian hostilities in that State prior to January 1, 1854, payment of which was assumed and authorized to be made by Congress under its act approved August 5, 1854 (10 United States Statutes, 582 and 583), as modified by the act of Congress of August 18, 1856 (11 United States Statutes, 90), which bonds were owned and lost by said Owen, and if he be satisfied that said bonds have never been paid by or presented to the United States, that he be, and he is hereby, authorized to audit said claim, and upon the finding with said Secretary of a bond sufficient in the opinion of said Secretary to indemnify the United States against all possible loss in these premises to pay said bonds, with interest up to September 1, 1856, said payment to be made out of the unexpended balance of the appropriation made by Congress under said acts, which is hereby reappropriated for such purpose, and after such payment the Secretary of the Treasury shall report his action in the premises to the governor of the State of California.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PURCHASE OF PORTRAIT OF GEN. G. H. THOMAS.

The bill (S. 681) to authorize the purchase of Lawrie's picture of Gen. George H. Thomas was announced as next in order.

Mr. HALE. I ask that that bill may be passed over without prejudice.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE TO EMPLOYEES IN BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING.

The bill (S. 1768) to allow thirty days' leave of absence to employees in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Education and Labor, after recommendation, with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That the employees of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, in the course of their work, shall be allowed a leave of absence with pay, not exceeding thirty days, which shall be in any one year, and such regulated sick leave shall be taken time in the absence of the President with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe and designate. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the employees of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, in the course of their work, shall be allowed a leave of absence with pay, not exceeding thirty days, which shall be in any one year, and such regulated sick leave shall be taken time in the absence of the President with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe and designate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be passed over as agreed to, if there be no objection.

Mr. COCKRELL. There was some question in regard to that bill. I think it was once before the Senate and was recommended. The point is in regard to—

Mr. PEPPER. Mr. President—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Missouri yield to the Senator from Kansas?

Mr. COCKRELL. I yield.

Mr. PEPPER. I was going to suggest that, in the absence of the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CARY], who has been interested in this bill, perhaps it had better be passed over until his return.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be passed over until it properly comes. The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice. The amendment reported by the committee will be regarded as still open.

RIGHT OF WAY ACROSS FOND DU LAC INDIAN RESERVATION.

The bill (S. 2765) granting to the Duluth and Winnipeg Railroad Company a right of way across the Fond du Lac Indian Reservation was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs with an amendment, in section 2, line 14, after the word "reservation," to strike out "as" and insert "to the location of said road and;" so as to read:

But a right of way of any land, natural or artificial, or any other thing, to any part of the right of way here provided for and parts thereof, made upon actual survey for the definite location of such right of way, shall have been approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and the compensation and shall have been made, and the cost of the Indian reservation to the location of such right of way, to the amount of such compensation shall have been entered on the public accounts of the United States.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT OAKLAND, CAL.

Mr. STANFORD. I ask the Senate to consider at this time the bill (S. 1211) to provide for the purchase of a site for and the erection of a public building at Oakland, in the State of California, here to be passed over without prejudice.

There being no objection, the Senate as in Committee of the Whole proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. STANFORD. Mr. President, Oak and is a place of about 50,000 inhabitants. The collections at the post-office there last year amounted to $83,206.51, and the net revenue to $37,172.92. The public building accommodations there at the present time are entirely inefficient. Oakland is a very prosperous and growing city, and is really very much in need of a new post-office.

I think the amount as reported by the committee is not too much, and property in the neighborhood of where the lot is located is very valuable and worth a good deal of money. If the opinion of the land tract, as stated in the report, the amount named is required to construct a proper building.

This bill has been heretofore reported favorably and passed the Senate a year ago but failed to receive action in the other House.

Mr. COCKRELL. While I am not going to object to the passage of this bill, I propose to take $300,000 out of the Treasury, and the Treasury can not stand that drain for this purpose. There is no absolute necessity for this building, no public urgency compelling it, and, in my judgment, the condition of the Treasury does not justify Congress in making the appropriation of this amount for a public building at that place. I simply desire to have recorded on the record that I vote against the passage of this bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT SAN DIEGO, CAL.

Mr. STANFORD. I now ask for the consideration of the bill (S. 1212) to provide for the erection of a public building at San Diego, Cal.

There being no objection, the Senate as in Committee of the Whole proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. STANFORD. The building provided for by the bill is to accommodate the customs, the custom-house, a military post, and an international office, and it will be but a short time before the constantly increasing business at San Diego will make it necessary to have United States courts there. That is the statement in the report made by the House committee. The building is very badly needed not only for a post-office, which now gives an annual net revenue of $2,000, but the erection of a building is very much needed for a custom-house there, and also for the collection of internal revenue. There are sea and land accommodations there and only such as San Diego and San Pedro are regarded as a village of two or three thousand people. The place is constantly increasing, and this increase has been particularly great during the past few years. It promises to become a large city.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. HAWLEY presented a memorial of the West Suffield Congregational Church of Connecticut, remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. GALLINGER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 641) to adjust the pensions of those who have lost limbs or the use of them, or have additional disabilities, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2794) to pension soldiers and sailors for disabilities received in addition to loss of a leg or an arm, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. WHITE, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1710) to authorize the Rio Grande, Mexico and Pacific Railroad Company to purchase certain land, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. VILAS, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2502) to reimburse the State of Kentucky for arms, ordnance, and ordnance stores issued to volunteers and militia organizations and United States ordnance officers, and used in aiding to suppress the rebellion against the United States, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs; which was agreed to.

He also, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1664) for the relief of Lester Noble, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 2979) for the relief of Edward Dorsey, late Company C, First United States Colored Troops; and

A bill (S. 3160) providing a pension for Mrs. Julia C. Sharpe.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5377) granting a pension to Mary Isabella Hutchison, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1465) for the relief of Frank J. Burrows, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. SQUIRE, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 2996) providing for the erection of a public building at Muscatine, Iowa; and

A bill (S. 677) for the erection of a public building at Muncie, State of Indiana.

Mr. SQUIRE, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom was referred an amendment submitted by Mr. HAWLEY on the 26th instant, intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill, reported it favorably, and moved that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed; which was agreed to.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 457) for the relief of the assignees or legal representatives of John Roach, deceased, to pay balance due on the United States steamer Dolphin, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 29) for the relief of Wetmore & Bro., of St. Louis, Mo., reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MITCHELL. I am instructed by the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads to report back adversely the bill (S. 2834) to amend section 3893 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and for other purposes, and to submit a report thereon, and move the indefinite postponement of the bill. It is a bill proposing an amendment to the law excluding obscene literature from the mails. The reason for the adverse report is mainly that in the judgment of the committee the legislation now on the statute book is ample for the purpose intended.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. VOORHEES, from the Committee on Finance, submitted a report to accompany the bill (S. 1525) directing the issue of duplicate United States bonds to Elijah P. Holleroft, guardian of Burton J. Parr, heretofore reported by him.

PEACE CONFERENCE AT CHICAGO.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am directed by the Committee on Foreign Relations to report back the joint resolution (S. R. 34) to provide for a peace conference in the city of Chicago in 1893, and also a resolution and several petitions from important bodies of the United States praying for the same object, and to ask that the committee be discharged from their further consideration on the ground that this object, which every one desires, is more likely to be accomplished by the action of the world's congress auxiliary to the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893. Upon this subject I will ask to have printed a letter from the Secretary of State, together with certain schedules and programmes, which I send to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Committee on Foreign Relations will be discharged from the further consideration of the joint resolution and the petitions.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ask that the letter, in the nature of a report, and the accompanying documents, be printed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Shall the joint resolution be referred to the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial?

Mr. SHERMAN. It is not necessary that it should have any further reference? As the letters and papers show, it is already provided for in the action of the auxiliary congress, as it is called, of the Columbian Exposition. I ask that the papers be published for the information of the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution and the petitions will lie on the table, and the accompanying papers will be printed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. DAVIS introduced a bill (S. 3203) granting a pension to Daniel Whalen; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3204) granting a pension to A. K. Maynard; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. DAWES (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3205) to authorize the building of permanent bridges with fixed spans across the Harlem River, New York; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. PETTIGREW introduced a bill (S. 3206) to dispose of that portion of the Fort Randall military reservation which lies in the State of South Dakota; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. STANFORD introduced a bill (S. 3207) for the relief of Emily Murdock, administratrix; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DIXON introduced a bill (S. 3208) for the relief of Hannah L. M. Frye; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3209) granting a pension to S. W. Johnston; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 3210) for the relief of the Rev. E. T. Walker; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. WOLCOTT introduced a bill (S. 3211) to authorize the establishment of an academy and gallery of art in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. CAMERON (for Mr. QUAY) introduced a bill (S. 3212) to authorize the Philadelphia and Camden Elevated Bridge Company to erect a bridge over the river Delaware at Philadelphia for general purposes and as a postroad; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 88) to authorize the postmaster of the city of Washington to construct and maintain a platform in the alley in square 454; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. TELLER submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the general deficiency appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

JUDGMENTS IN INDIAN DEPREDAATION CASES.

Mr. MITCHELL submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Attorney-General be directed to transmit to the Senate a list of the judgments rendered in the Court of Claims in Indian depredation cases.

from the 1st of June, 1892, together with a statement of the date when each was rendered, in whose favor rendered, and the amount in each case, and of the total amount of claims now pending in said court and not determined, which have heretofore been examined, approved, and allowed by the Secretary of the Interior, or under his direction.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives by Mr. T. O. Taylor, its Chief Clerk, returned to the Senate, in compliance with its request, the bill (S. 145) to authorize the Court of Claims to hear and determine the claim of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana, etc.

The message also announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 1646) making Laredo, Tex., a subject of entry.

The message further announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 1307) to provide a permanent system of highways in that part of the District of Columbia lying outside of cities, with amendments in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

The message also announced that the House had agreed to the amendments of the Senate to the following bills:

A bill (H. R. 1923) granting an honorable discharge to William W. Wedgwood; and

A bill (H. R. 7092) to authorize building a bridge over Tennessee River.

The message further announced that the House had disagreed to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 8275) to authorize the Glen Echo Railroad Company to cross the Washington Aqueduct; asked a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HARRIS, Mr. RICHARDSON, and Mr. POST managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 915) for the relief of the heirs of Noah Noble, deceased; and

A bill (H. R. 8367) regulating the delivery and sale of ice within the District of Columbia on the Sabbath day, commonly known as Sunday.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the enrolled bill (H. R. 711) to remove the charge of desertion now standing against Albert Keach; and it was thereupon signed by the Vice President.

PORTSMOUTH (N. H.) DRY DOCK.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT. If there is no further morning business that order is closed, and the Calendar, under Rule VII, is in order. The first bill on the Calendar will be stated.

The bill (S. 1772) for the construction of a wooden dry dock at the United States Navy-Yard, Portsmouth, N. H., was announced as first in order on the Calendar.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that bill be passed over for the present.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT. Without prejudice?

Mr. COCKRELL. Yes, sir.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over.

THE FINANCIAL SYSTEM.

The next business on the Calendar was the resolutions submitted by Mr. MORGAN, directing the Committee on Finance to make examination and report to the Senate certain information in relation to currency and coinage.

Mr. MORGAN. On that I ask for the yeas and nays.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolutions, on which the Senator from Alabama demands the yeas and nays.

Mr. ALLISON and Mr. SHERMAN. Let the resolutions be read.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolutions will be again stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. Resolutions by Mr. MORGAN, directing the Committee on Finance to make examination and report to the Senate certain information in relation to currency and coinage.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT. Is the demand for the yeas and nays seconded?

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. CULLOM. I hope the resolutions will be read. We do not know what they are.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolutions will be read at length.

The Chief Clerk read the resolutions submitted by Mr. Morgan March 31, 1892, and the supplemental resolution submitted by him April 5, 1892, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance is directed to make examination, and report to the Senate as soon as practicable—

First, What has been the effect on the price of silver bullion, of the provisions of the act of July 11, 1890, directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and whether the said act has in any manner contributed to promote or sustain the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals, gold and silver, on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio, or such ratio as may be provided by law, as declared in section 2 of said act.

Second, Whether the issue of Treasury notes as provided in said act has been and will be a sufficient provision of law for maintaining "the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio," or whether any and what further legislation is necessary to provide a new ratio between gold and silver to keep them on a parity with each other.

Third, Whether the Treasury notes that have been issued under the first section of said act of July 11, 1890, have at any time, or at any place, been at a discount in exchange for gold or silver coin, and whether, in the judgment of said committee they are likely to be at such discount, if said act shall remain permanently in full force and operation. And further, whether said Treasury notes furnish to the people a safe and sound legal-tender currency, as good for their purposes as gold coin or silver coin; and further, whether said Treasury notes have at any time, since the date of the act of July 11, 1890, taken the place in our national currency of large sums of gold coin that were sent to Europe for speculative purposes, and whether the presence of those Treasury notes in our volume of currency, during the absence of such large sums of gold, did not save our people and our Government from a danger of financial crisis and threatened bankruptcy.

Fourth, Whether the coining or issue of any dollar of gold or silver is now authorized by the laws of the United States, and, if so, under what law is such coinage permitted; and further, whether it is a safe and sound system to authorize the printing and issue of paper dollars, and to forbid the coinage of gold and silver dollars.

Fifth, Whether it is just to the people who are compelled to use the subsidiary coins of the United States in their daily business, and to receive them in payment for labor, and also to use them in payment for food, medicine, clothing, and shelter, that such coins should contain less pure silver than the full legal-tender silver dollar in which their owners and bankers have the right to collect their debts from them.

Sixth, That said committee ascertain and report to the Senate, as nearly as they may, the proportion of the silver coin and gold coin that is in a ready circulation in Great Britain and the European states; in Russia, China, and Japan; in India, Turkey, and Egypt; and in Australasia, Canada, the United States, and each of the other commercial states on this hemisphere, and in Hawaii, and the West Indian Islands.

Resolved further, That inasmuch as great anxiety exists among the industrial classes of the United States as to the causes of the depression of prices and the paralysis of markets for their productions, and as their sufferings are severe, that said committee shall proceed promptly to inform the Senate upon the matters submitted to them under the foregoing resolutions, except the sixth, and, as to that resolution, they shall have authority to send for persons and papers, if they shall see fit.

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance is instructed to prepare and report to the Senate an act supplementary to the act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes, approved July 11, 1890, which shall provide for the coinage of gold and silver bullion on equal terms as to each metal and for the issue of Treasury notes in denominations not to exceed $500, and upon the terms and conditions prescribed in said act, upon all gold and silver bullion that the United States shall acquire by purchase, and that any depositor who shall deposit in the Treasury gold or silver bullion in quantities of not less than $100 in value, the product of mines in the United States, which has not been previously coined, shall, at his option, receive in exchange therefor the same at the mint value of such bullion.

Mr. MORRILL. Mr. President, much of this information I suppose might be easily obtained, and there is so much of it that might require a long time that I fear my life will not be long enough to get through with it. I therefore would ask the Senator from Alabama who introduced the resolutions whether he would have any objection to have them referred to the Committee on Finance, that we may examine them first before acting upon them.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, the resolutions are resolutions of the Senate to instruct that committee what to do, and I do not suppose that they would like to have a matter of that sort referred to them in the first place. The Senate has an independent judgment about this matter which I desire to have expressed. It is a salverve to me, well and good. The resolutions contemplate that the Committee on Finance shall not only respond to these resolutions of inquiry in the manner in which they are stated, but also shall report a supplemental bill. The resolutions in fact, by right to the front the question of the coinage of silver, and of course I do not wish to have that referred to that committee where I know it will simply meet its death. I know, of course, if the resolutions get in a that way, I shall hear no more of them until after the Democratic Convention at Chicago, and then I am afraid my Democratic brethren will not feel so much interest in them as they do now, and I want them defeated. It is a demand by those Senators here who believe that the finances of the country are in a very crippled condition for relief in behalf of the laboring, tolling millions of this land, and when our Senate takes its stand, I demand to know what I wish to know. Hence it is that I have asked for the yeas and nays upon agreeing to the resolutions.

I am perfectly willing, without having consultation, I would, with other gentlemen who feel as I do about these resolutions, to name a day, a very early day, for the discussion of these subjects. I am willing also on that day to limit debate to four hours. I am willing also to limit each Senator's right to debate this subject to thirty minutes, so that not more than eight speeches can be made on either side of it, and let the Senate then take up the subject and vote upon it, and let the country understand what we are upon this question. If the subject of the free coinage of means that he is not only in favor of national coinage, but opposed to international coinage, or anything looking to it?

Mr. STEWART. Yes; I am opposed to sending gold men to Europe to connive with other gold men and fix some machinery whereby silver shall be entirely demonetized.

Mr. HIGGINS. Is the Senator opposed to sending silver men there?

Mr. STEWART. I am opposed to an international conference until some of those who will be represented at such conference have expressed in an authoritative way that they will rehabilitate silver on some terms. The United States has not done it. It is said that this conference is to have no power except to advise. Should we submit to a conference with the gold manipulators of Europe? Should we ask them to arrange a programme under which silver can not be used as money? There is no evidence that they have any other purpose.

I am opposed to an international conference unless it is on the basis that the parties engaged intend in good faith to rehabilitate silver, and until some expression of that kind is authoritatively made it is a mere makeshift and a fraud. We have had two conferences, one in 1878 and one in 1881, and they both answered the end designed, to delay. This conference is for delay. This conference is to bridge over. This conference is to distract the minds of the American people from the subject. This is a Morgan for an election both in England and the United States. They have a campaign in England. All the manufacturers of that great Empire have petitioned Parliament to give relief by the free coinage of silver. They have got to throw dust in the eyes of their people. The Administration has got to deceive men here, and both parties are afraid of this issue. They are afraid to allow the people to speak on this issue. Hence this is a Morgan for the coming election. That is all there is of it.

Do you think that the speech of the Senator from Ohio will help this conference when he gives out that free coinage would quintuple the production of silver, flood the world, make it more plentiful than lead? All these arguments are made for the purpose of showing that silver is not fit for use as money. What are the facts, with all the stuffing of statistics, and I think they have been stuffed, because they are naturally stuffed? I do not say that they are materially stuffed in this country, but when you take the reports from Mexico and South America of what those having mines for sale report of their production, they must necessarily be exaggerated. With all the exaggeration we only have about $130,000,000 of silver reported for the whole world. Here we have unprotected paper to the amount of more than $800,000,000, that is, paper which has neither gold nor silver behind it. Before you could reach a metallic basis, dollar for dollar, we would exhaust twice the silver obtainable.

The reason why I do not care for an international coinage is because we would not get enough even on the ratio of 16 or 15 to 1 to supply our wants. It is a mistake to say that the Treasury notes issued under the act of 1890 are secured by bullion, dollar for dollar. That is not true. These notes are secured by coin, dollar for dollar. They are redeemable in gold or silver coin, dollar for dollar, at the option of the United States. It was the question whether we would have bullion redemption here. We fought that question for months and defeated the Administration. There is no bullion redemption. There is no security behind any one of these notes but a silver dollar, and the Secretary of the Treasury is required to coin sufficient of these silver dollars to provide for redemption, and he must coin them at the coin value and not otherwise; not the market value.

The United States is still speculating. It has made about $80,000,000 now out of the miner by the difference between the purchase price and the coin value of silver. I repeat, there is no security behind these notes but coin dollars. Furthermore, I say to those people who are fancying that they are on a sound basis that they are on the brink of a silver standard under existing law. Not a silver standard with silver rehabilitated, but a degraded silver standard. Our greenbacks, our national bank notes, our silver certificates, and our silver coin amount in round numbers to but $1,000,000,000. All these classes of money are receivable for public dues.

As I said before, there are only $118,000,000 behind this vast mass, this $1,000,000,000. Every month and every week the amount of gold going into the Treasury is less and less. How are we going to get gold to sustain this vast fabric on the gold basis? There will be little gold in the Treasury in a very short time, particularly if the gold advocates continue to disparage silver.

The United States is not in a position to disparage silver. It has $500,000,000 of silver and silver certificates circulating among the people, and it is the duty of the Government to protect it. This is the greatest silver-producing country in the world, and it is the duty of the Government to foster the industry. We need money more than any other country, borrowing it from wherever we can, and it is our duty to coin our own money. If we would coin what silver we need there would be none left if the production of all the world for the next thirty years. We can take the 130,000,000 or 140,000,000 ounces per annum and put $500,000,000 or $600,000,000 behind this unprotected paper and increase our circulation with the growth of population. If we undertake to do that the product of silver is inadequate. The only difficulty is the want of a sufficient supply.

But the proposition, from the remarks of the Senator from Ohio, seems to be to call an international conference to demonetize silver and not to remonetize it. I hope no conference will be held for such a purpose. I predict here and now that the conference will result like those that have preceded, if not more disastrously. It may recommend something that we will have to meet, and something very injurious. The way is to pass a free-coinage bill and make an unlimited demand for silver in this country. That would put silver at par. But you say we can not sustain it, and that Europe will help us break it.

How can she do it? If the silver dollar depreciates, if the two part company, what will be the result? Suppose the silver dollar should go down 10 per cent, could the European nations send their silver coin here to be received into such cheap dollars? Why do they not send it to India and have it recoined there? The balance of trade has been against France and in favor of India for the last eighteen years to the extent of an average of $35,000,000 a year. She does not send any silver to India to be coined. India has free coinage. If we can not put silver to par there is no danger of Europe sending it here. They will not send it here any more than they would send it to India. If we do put it to par and maintain it there then everybody is willing that the silver shall come.

I hope the resolutions will pass. I would prefer a direct bill, but I should like to see an expression right here before the nominating conventions, and see how many silver men we have, and how many men are satisfied with an international conference to change the ratio and destroy silver, for that seems to be the design of the gold advocates, if we may judge from the remarks of their representative, the Senator from Ohio.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, on the 10th day of December, 1891, the Senator from Nevada [Mr. STEWART] introduced a bill, and sent it to the Committee on Finance, which provides for the free coinage of gold and silver bullion, and for other purposes. The committee took that bill under consideration, and they reported it back adversely through their chairman [Mr. MORRILL] on the 9th of February, 1892. That bill brought before that committee the whole consideration of the subject of the free coinage of silver, so that the committee have had ample opportunity to consider this question, and the complaint the Senator from Ohio puts up this morning, that we would force them to the consideration of a new subject, I think is hardly tenable. Not that committee only, but every member of the Senate has thought this subject over and made up his opinion about it very maturely. No subject that has ever come before this body has been so thoroughly and completely and exhaustively debated as the question of finance, including the question of the free coinage of silver and the ratio between silver and gold.

After the committee made that report and the case went upon the Calendar as an adverse report, it was well known to the committee that we could not debate the question here upon a motion to take up and consider that bill. We thought that it was the duty of the friends of silver, and being from a State which had committed itself in every way that it could to the free coinage of silver, I thought it was my duty, humble as I may be, to bring forward, if I could, the discussion of this question in the Senate.

The Senator underrates my views about this matter and does not do me very full justice when he supposes that I introduced these resolutions for the cheap purpose of trying to find out the opinions of certain gentlemen on both sides of this Chamber who are ostensible candidates for the Presidency. I trust that while I have the honor of representing a sovereign State here I shall have higher duties to perform than to commit myself to the fortunes of any individual whatsoever in either of the parties for the Presidency of the United States, for after all Presidents will come and Presidents will go, and this country will go on forever, I hope. It will make very little difference with us perhaps thirty years after this date who has been President, nominated in June and elected in November of 1892.

The condition of the people of my own State, of the Southern States, of the Western States, and of the laboring people in all the States of this Union, not only attracted my attention, but commanded my most sincere devotion to such study as I was able to bestow upon the subject to see if any method could be devised out of the wisdom of the Senate and through debate by which we could relieve against what I consider to be a very unfortunate and lamentable condition. I therefore brought in the first of this series of resolutions with a view of trying to elicit debate. I brought it in the form of instructions to the Committee on Finance, so that they would be compelled to do something, so that they could not lock their doors against inquiry and against all access and come in here simply with adverse reports and get the benefit of the rule of the Senate which excludes us from debating questions on a motion to take them up. I wanted the Senate to express its opinions, and to express them as they have this morning, that it is the duty of that committee to lay before this body in some form or other a measure substantially restoring the coinage of silver as it was in 1873.

By the way, the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] has given utterance recently and on frequent occasions to the very solemn enunciation that there was not a man in the world more in favor of the free coinage of silver than he, if it could be done upon such terms as he thought were beneficial to the country.

Mr. SHERMAN. At its market value.

Mr. MORGAN. At a market value. And yet in 1873 there was no man in the world more opposed to the free coinage of silver than the Senator from Ohio was when he headed the march for its utter destruction. He does not forget that.

Mr. SHERMAN. Now, Mr. President—

Mr. MORGAN. What has brought that tremendous conversion upon the mind of the Senator from Ohio?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Alabama yield?

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. President—

Mr. MORGAN. Let me say, before I yield to the Senator from Ohio, that he is in my mind, and in the minds of many Senators, and in the minds of many of the people of the United States to-day, whether willing or unwilling, a candidate for the Presidency of the United States; and the Senator does well when he makes friends of what he conceives to be "the mammon of unrighteousness" in getting up here and making pledges of his private wishes for the equal and free coinage of gold and silver when it was his hand that struck silver to death.

Mr. SHERMAN. Now, Mr. President, I will not take advantage of my friend's weakness to try and divert him from the matter we have in hand by introducing a matter totally disconnected with this proposition. I wish now to say sincerely—I think the Senator from Alabama knows it—that the demonetization of silver in 1873 was not participated in by me more than by any other member of either House of Congress.

The silver dollar had not been in existence as a coin for circulation for years. There was at that time neither silver nor gold in circulation. A bill prepared in the Treasury Department was sent here, a heavy, loggy bill, which continued for three years pending in this body, and on the only vote that was ever taken upon that bill by yeas and nays I voted against it. I had not the slightest care or interest in its passage. It was changed at one time and the trade dollar was put in. The Senator from Nevada [Mr. STEWART], who was here and helped, voted whenever I did the same way. All that story has been repeated over and over again. It is on the records, and I do not enlarge upon it here. Therefore, when the Senator says I am responsible for the demonetization of silver in 1873, he does what I think is gross injustice, and I think he ought to know it by this time, because he has heard it talked of so much here.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, I am willing to give the Senator from Ohio in his expected campaign the benefit of this explanation, if it will do him any good. I do not think it will.

Mr. SHERMAN. That does not go.

Mr. MORGAN. I think the people will regard him as the head of the column, having been chairman of the Committee on Finance at that time, as the Senator was. The history of this matter has been gone over very often, and there is a man now sleeping in his grave in Kentucky who made statements in the presence of the Senator from Ohio here upon that question which were placed in the RECORD; and for the purpose of getting him a little more conspicuously before the country I took upon myself the perhaps unwelcome task at the moment of rereading to the Senate of the United States in a later debate and after he was in his grave all that he said.

The evidence presented by the then Senator from Kentucky convinced my mind, I think it convinced the minds of the people of the United States generally, that the Senator from Ohio had a greater responsibility for the destruction of silver in 1873 than he now seems disposed to admit. I applaud that feeling in the Senator's heart which causes him to try to rectify the wrongs that he has done to the people of the United States, but if he were speaking with manliness to us on this side of the Chamber and to the friends of silver to-day, and had reflected for a moment how elegantly and beautifully manly it would be in him to come out and put some distinctive measure into operation that would restore the people of the United States to the constitutional rights of which they were bereft by him in 1873, I could admire him even more than I do; and yet I admire him very much.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, it is the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 2109) to provide for the punishment of violations of treaty rights of aliens.

Mr. MORGAN. I understood that the unanimous consent which was given in this Chamber this morning extended to the pending resolutions until the subject was disposed of.

Mr. HAWLEY. That was not mentioned. I say it was not; the Senator from Missouri asked consent to waive the five-minute rule, but said nothing about the pending order at 2 o'clock.

Mr. MORGAN. I had nothing to do with it except to give my assent to it. I had the understanding of course that the subject was taken up by the Senate by unanimous consent to be proceeded with until it should be exhausted.

Mr. SHERMAN. Even if that was the understanding—I did not so understand it—it would not supersede the unfinished business at 2 o'clock. The Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY] has the floor at this time.

Mr. MORGAN. Unanimous consent supersedes everything.

Mr. GRAY. As I understood it, the unanimous consent was that the debate, then under Rule VIII, should be proceeded with without the limitation of the five-minute rule.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That was the understanding of the Chair.

Mr. COCKRELL. That was all.

Mr. MORGAN. I submit to any explanation. The Senator who made the request says he had in mind only the limitation of the rule.

Mr. COCKRELL. That was all; only to set aside the five-minute rule.

Mr. MORGAN. Now, unless the Senator from Delaware has some particular reason for going on with his remarks—

Mr. GRAY. Of course.

Mr. MORGAN. The Senator desires then, of course, to use his advantage in favor of his friends to cut us off at this moment. I give notice that as soon as the Senator's speech is finished I shall move to take up the resolutions.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. President, I have certainly no desire to use any advantage adverse to the Senator from Alabama. The Senator from Alabama occupied the floor at considerable length yesterday on the matter which I now wish to address myself to.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 915) for the relief of the heirs of Noah Noble, deceased, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

The bill (H. R. 8357) regulating the delivery and sale of ice within the District of Columbia on the Sabbath day, commonly known as Sunday, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

DISTRICT IMPROVEMENTS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 1367) to provide a permanent system of highways in that part of the District of Columbia lying outside of cities.

Mr. HARRIS. I move that the Senate nonconcur in the amendments of the House, and request a conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the Vice-President was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. HARRIS, Mr. McMILLAN, and Mr. PERKINS were appointed.

GLEN ECHO RAILROAD COMPANY.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the action of the House of Representatives disagreeing to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 8275) to authorize the Glen Echo Railroad Company to cross the Washington Aqueduct, and asking a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon.

On motion of Mr. McMILLAN, it was

Resolved, That the Senate insist on its amendment to the said bill, disagree to be the House of Representatives, and agree to the conference asked by the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered, That the conferees on the part of the Senate be appointed by the Vice-President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT appointed Mr. HARRIS, Mr. McMILLAN, and Mr. GALLINGER.

Mr. HARRIS. I think the amendment wholly immaterial, but it is an amendment proposed by the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN]. This is purely a Maryland road, and I ask that Mr. VOORHEES. That makes a different question.

Mr. MORGAN. The Senator from Alabama [Mr. PUGH] presented this question with absolute certainty, that the question is whether we shall empower the Federal judges to try men in such cases.

Mr. VOORHEES. According to State laws?

Mr. MORGAN. Yes, according to State laws.

Mr. BUTLER. Adopting them in full?

Mr. MORGAN. Adopting them in full. Now, if there is any better State-rights doctrine than that for the administration of the Government of the United States I do not know what it is.

Mr. VOORHEES. This is a sort of divided trust the Senator is now speaking of. The division is caused by the fact that the bill before us seems to trust the legislative capacity and security for the purpose of the States but not its judicial officers to administer its own laws. I think the bill gets worse to my mind than it was before. But if the Senator is willing now I will move that we adjourn until to-morrow morning, so that we may look into this matter a little further.

Mr. MORGAN. All right.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Indiana that the Senate do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 5 o'clock and 15 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Thursday, May 26, 1892, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, May 25, 1892.

The House met at 11 o'clock a. m., and was called to order by the Speaker.

Prayer by the Rev. J. T. WIGHTMAN, of Washington, D. C.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

PRINTING AND BINDING FOR THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a communication from the Secretary of State in relation to the necessity existing for an immediate appropriation for printing and binding for the Department of State for the current fiscal year; ordered to be printed and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

BRIDGE OVER THE TENNESSEE RIVER.

The bill (H. R. 7092) to authorize the building of a bridge over the Tennessee River was laid before the House with Senate amendments.

Mr. PATTERSON of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, the Senate amendments to that bill are only verbal, and I move that they be concurred in.

The SPEAKER. It is in order to act upon them. This is a House bill with Senate amendments, and the bill carries no appropriation. The amendments will be reported.

The amendments were read at length.

Mr. BURROWS. Mr. Speaker, I understand this is simply a bridge bill.

The SPEAKER. Yes; a House bill with Senate amendments.

Mr. PATTERSON of Tennessee. I move to concur in the Senate amendments.

The question being taken,

Mr. BAILEY demanded a division.

The House divided; and there were—ayes 101, noes none.

Mr. BAILEY. No quorum.

Mr. HOLMAN. I hope the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. PATTERSON] will withdraw that bill and let it lie on the table.

Mr. PATTERSON of Tennessee. I will agree to that.

Mr. HOLMAN. I call for the regular order.

The SPEAKER. This is the regular order.

Mr. HOLMAN. There are several other bills of this character, as I understand.

Mr. BAILEY. We might just as well act on this bill, for I will not permit any other to pass until a quorum appears.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will appoint as tellers the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. PATTERSON] and the gentleman from Texas [Mr. BAILEY].

The House again divided; and the tellers reported—ayes 170, noes none.

Mr. BAILEY. I withdraw the point.

So the amendments of the Senate were concurred in.

GLEN ECHO RAILROAD COMPANY.

The bill (H. R. 8295) to authorize the Glen Echo Railroad Company to cross the Washington Aqueduct was laid before the House with Senate amendments.

Mr. HEARD. By direction of the committee, I move that the House nonconcur in the Senate amendments and that a committee of conference be ordered. I do that for the mutual accommodation and benefit of the Government and the railroad company.

The Senate proposes that the Aqueduct shall be crossed at a right angle. If the railroad crosses at a right angle it will occupy more of the Government ground after the Aqueduct is crossed than if it cross at a different angle. What we desire is that it shall cross at such angle as may be fixed by the Government engineers in charge. We have agreed on that.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Missouri [Mr. HEARD] moves to nonconcur in the amendments of the Senate and to ask for a conference.

The motion was agreed to; and the Speaker appointed as conferees on the part of the House Mr. HEARD, Mr. RICHARDSON, and Mr. POST.

WILLIAM W. WEDGWOOD.

The bill (H. R. 1923) granting an honorable discharge to William W. Wedgwood was laid before the House with Senate amendments.

Mr. PERKINS. I move that the House concur in the Senate amendments.

The amendments were read at length.

Mr. HOLMAN. What is this bill?

The SPEAKER. The title has been read.

Mr. HOLMAN. There is so much confusion in the Hall that it was impossible to hear.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the title again.

The title of the bill was again read.

The SPEAKER. This is a House bill with Senate amendments, and the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. PERKINS] moves to concur in the Senate amendments.

The motion was agreed to.

RETURN OF BILL TO SENATE.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will submit to the House the following request of the Senate.

The Clerk read as follows:

Ordered, That the Secretary be directed to request the House of Representatives to return to the Senate the bill (S. 145) "to authorize the Court of Claims to hear and determine the claim of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana, etc."

The SPEAKER. Without objection, the request of the Senate will be complied with, and this bill will be returned to that body. There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

SENATE BILLS REFERRED.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following Senate bills; which were severally read a first and second time, referred to the committees indicated below, and ordered to be printed:

A bill (S. 41) for the relief of E. B. Crozier, executrix of the last will of Dr. C. W. Crozier, of Tennessee—to the Committee on Claims.

A bill (S. 300) for the construction of a public building at Owosso, Mich.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

A bill (S. 512) for the relief of Benjamin F. Campbell, late second lieutenant of the Eighteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

A bill (S. 1212) to provide for the construction of a public building at San Diego, Cal.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

A bill (S. 1214) to provide for the purchase of a site for and the erection of a public building at Oakland, in the State of California—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

A bill (S. 1959) donating 20 acres of land from the Fort Sidney military reservation, on the northeast corner thereof, to the city of Sidney, Neb., for cemetery purposes—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

A bill (S. 2221) for the relief of Mary J. Norman—to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

A bill (S. 2386) for the relief of Isham T. Owen, of Missouri—to the Committee on War Claims.

A bill (S. 2647) for the relief of Mrs. Fanny N. Beld—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

A bill (S. 2667) to provide for the detail of an assistant to the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation in the Navy Department—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

A bill (S. 2765) granting to the Duluth and Winnipeg Railroad Company a right of way across the Fond du Lac Indian Reservation—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

A joint resolution (S. R. 70) directing payment of the unpaid balance of an appropriation made for the payment of the expenses of the constitutional convention of the State of Illinois—to the Committee on Appropriations.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. PICKLER. I desire to ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill which I send to the Clerk's desk.

Mr. McMILLIN. In order to go on with the appropriation bills I demand the regular order.

Mr. PICKLER. We had no recognitions on this side yesterday, and you had five on that side.

Mr. McMILLIN. The trouble is if we get into this thing it is hard to get out of it.

Mr. PICKLER. You had five recognitions on that side yesterday and we had none; and I think you ought to allow us to have some recognitions on this side.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Tennessee demands the regular order, which is the call of committees for reports.

The committees were called for reports.

SALE OF NAVY-YARD LANDS AT BROOKLYN.

Mr. GEISSENHAINER, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, reported back with amendments the bill (H. R. 8769) to provide for the sale of navy-yard lands in the city of Brooklyn; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

ENGINEER CORPS OF THE NAVY.

Mr. McALEER, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, reported back favorably the bill (S. 139) terminating the reduction in the numbers of the Engineer Corps of the Navy; which was referred to the House Calendar, and ordered to be printed.

SETTLEMENT ON AGRICULTURAL LANDS BEFORE SURVEY.

Mr. McRAE, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported back with an amendment the bill (H. R. 7028) to protect settlement rights where two or more persons settle upon the same subdivision of agricultural public lands before survey thereof; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

The call of the select and standing committees was completed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:
To Mr. BAKER, for fifteen days, on account of important business.

To Mr. ELLIOTT, for two weeks, on account of sickness.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HOLMAN. I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of general appropriation bills.

The motion was agreed to.

SUNDRY CIVIL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The House accordingly resolved itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, Mr. LESTER of Georgia in the chair.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read the next paragraph.

The Clerk read as follows:

Government exhibit: For the selection, purchase, preparation, transportation, installation, care and custody, and arrangement of such articles as the heads of the several Executive Departments, the Smithsonian Institution, and National Museum, and the United States Fish Commission may decide shall be embraced in the Government exhibit, and such additional articles as the President may designate for said Exposition, and for the employment of proper persons as officers and assistants to the board of control and management of the Government exhibit, appointed by the President, of which not exceeding $5,000 may be expended by said Board for clerical services, $300,500; Provided, That all expenditures for the purposes and from the appropriation specified herein shall be subject to the approval of the said Board of Control and Management and of the Secretary of the Treasury, as now provided by law.

Mr. COGSWELL. I offer the amendment which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

On page 29, at end of line 5, insert:

"Authority is hereby granted for the payment of $750 to St. Julien B. Dapray, for special and legal services rendered the board of control and management, Government exhibit, World's Columbian Exposition, to be held at Chicago, Ill., 1892-93, from moneys hereby appropriated."

Mr. McMILLIN. I reserve the point of order upon that.

Mr. COGSWELL. I do not understand, Mr. Chairman—

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Tennessee will state his point of order.

Mr. McMILLIN. It changes existing law, and does not retrench expenditures.

Mr. COGSWELL. Mr. Chairman, I do not understand that this amendment increases the expenditures, but only allots of the appropriation—

Mr. McMILLIN. I rise to a question of order. There is so much confusion that I can not hear what the gentleman from Massachusetts says.

Mr. COGSWELL. That point of order is better than your other.

The provision only authorizes the Commission, out of whatever money it has, to pay this bill for services which have been rendered the Commission, which bill they approve, and it is the only way in which this party can be paid for these services. I do not understand there is any objection to it on the part of the committee. I do not think it is subject to the point of order, for when the appropriation is made it is only saying that out of the sum appropriated to the Commission so much shall be allowed to pay this bill.

Mr. DOCKERY. I would like to hear the amendment read again.

Mr. HOLMAN. Let it be read again, so we may understand it.

The amendment was again reported.

Mr. HOLMAN. That subject has not been before the Committee on Appropriations, and there is no information on the subject, I think. I do not know whether it is subject to the point of order or not.

Mr. McMILLIN. Mr. Chairman, I think it is subject to the point of order, for the reasons, first, that there is no authority of law for the payment of this money. It requires an enactment to authorize it, therefore it is a change of existing law. In addition to that, I am informed that this gentleman is an officer of the Government, and there is a law prohibiting the payment of more than one salary to any one person in the employ of the Government; and on the double ground, if the latter is true, as I understand it is, it is subject to the point of order. It will not be claimed by the gentleman from Massachusetts that without this enactment the officers in charge of that fund could pay it. Therefore, to enact it is to change existing law, and it does not retrench expenditures as it shows on its face.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. I wish to ask the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. McMILLIN] whether it is not true that this diverts the money from the purposes contemplated in the bill to a specific purpose, and is in that respect new legislation?

Mr. McMILLIN. Unquestionably.

Mr. COGSWELL. The gentleman from Illinois assumes certain facts and then puts the case to the gentleman from Tennessee upon that basis and gets the answer he expects. Upon that statement, if correct, I might agree with both the gentleman; but this is not a diversion of the funds to another purpose. It is to pay for services which the Commission requested this man to perform, which he has performed, and for which his bill has been approved by the Commission.

Mr. McMILLIN. Will the gentleman point to the existing law which authorizes this payment?

Mr. COGSWELL. I suppose that in making an appropriation for the World's Columbian Commission, we could say that of the amount appropriated, so much should be used to pay for any particular service therein named. It is part and parcel of the act of appropriating.

Mr. McMILLIN. Is this gentleman an officer of the Government?

Mr. COGSWELL. I think he is connected with the Supervising Architect's Office.

Mr. McMILLIN. Is there not already a law which prevents him from receiving more than one salary or compensation from the Government in more than one way without a specific enactment authorizing it?

Mr. COGSWELL. If that is so, he can not get this and he ought not to; but the Comptroller will decide that question and not myself.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. Mr. Chairman, what I say is not so much in opposition to paying this official for services alleged to have been rendered, but my point is this, that in the bill as it is presented by the committee a general appropriation is made, and the gentleman from Massachusetts seeks to divert one part of that money thus appropriated for general purposes to a specific purpose not contemplated in the general bill. Therefore, I maintain that this is new legislation, and that the point of order made by the gentleman from Tennessee is well taken.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Chairman, I understand—and the gentleman from Massachusetts will correct me if I make a mistake—I understand that this claim has been before the proper accounting officers of the Treasury, and that payment has been refused upon the ground that there is no law authorizing such an expenditure.

Mr. COGSWELL. I do not know about that; but if the gentleman states that it is so I accept his statement.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is satisfied that there is no law authorizing this specific appropriation, and the point of order is therefore sustained.

Mr. HOUK of Ohio. Mr. Chairman, I offer the amendment which I send to the desk.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Ohio may have the floor.

Mr. PATTISON of Ohio. It seems to me Mr. Chairman that there has not been a more important question before the House this session than the one now before the committee, and from the statement made by the chairman of the committee and the gentlemen from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE], it seems to me that it is not only our right but also our duty to state our feeling and judgment upon this subject before this appropriation is made and we should do it now. If there are persons preparing to make exhibits at the World's Exposition with the idea of getting seven days instead of six, then they have the right to know it, and they have the right to know it now.

On the other hand, the people of this great country—and I do not only include the Christian people—the members of the Christian churches, which were in 1890 in round numbers nearly twenty-two millions, and which are increasing at the rate of over a million per year—but all the people—have a right to know whether or not the Exposition is going to be open or closed on Sunday; and we as representatives of the people have the right and it is our duty to say whether or not this Exposition is to be opened or closed on Sunday. The United States is a peculiar country. The Sabbath of our country is a peculiar Sabbath. It is known as the American Sabbath all over the wide world; and if there is to be a World's Fair maintained and originated in this great country of ours it is due to the people we represent that we should take advantage of this opportunity and say to the people of the United States that this World's Exposition shall not be open on Sunday, but that the American Sabbath shall be respected.

All the Christian churches of every name and denomination are a unit in favor of closing the Fair on Sunday. Not only these, but a very large proportion of all the people of the United States, without regard to party, sect, or creed, are a unit in demanding that the Sabbath day shall not be desecrated by opening the gates of this great Exposition on the Sabbath day.

The Sabbath day is recognized in some way by every civilized nation of the world, but the Sabbath, as we understand it, is peculiar to the United States alone, and hence we can very properly call it the American Sabbath. To us the Sabbath day was a part of our very being. It came with the Mayflower; it came with almost every band of Pilgrims; it was the corner stone of every State.

It was in the web and woof of every State constitution, its spirit permeates every article of the Confederation of States, and when the Constitution was adopted the American Sabbath was as firmly established in the hearts of the American people as was the spirit of liberty itself, and we but voice the sentiment of the many millions of Christian people and also of at least nine-tenths of the American people in all sections of the country when we declare in favor of the American Sabbath, and by our votes say that the World's Fair shall not be open on the Sabbath day. [Cries of "Vote!" "Vote!"]

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. What would the gentleman do with those people who have Saturday for their Sabbath?

Mr. PATTISON of Ohio. There are very few of those, and while they venerate the religious ideas of their own people, they respect American institutions.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. But their conscientious scruples are as sacred to them as those who desire the doors to be closed on Sunday.

Mr. PATTISON of Ohio. Certainly, and as such they are entitled to consideration.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE] moved a substitute for the pending amendment, an amendment which the Clerk will read.

Mr. McMILLIN. I rise to a point of order. The proposition first is upon the amendment to the text. The committee have the right to perfect the text before the substitute is acted upon.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Tennessee is correct. The Chair understood that that was accepted.

Mr. McMILLIN. I did not know that it was acted upon.

The CHAIRMAN. Was the Chair mistaken? The understanding of the Chair was that it was accepted. The Chair would ask the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. JOHNSTONE] whether the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi was accepted?

Mr. JOHNSTONE of South Carolina. It was accepted in this form—

The CHAIRMAN. Then the question is upon the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi to the amendment of the gentleman from South Carolina.

Mr. JOHNSTONE of South Carolina. The Chair is mistaken. My amendment is the first one—Provided.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair understands that.

Mr. JOHNSTONE of South Carolina. And the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi was Provided further.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair simply asked whether it had been accepted. The question, therefore, is upon the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi, which will be read.

The amendment was read, as follows:

Provided further, That in no event shall the exhibit to be made by the Government be open to the public on Sunday.

Mr. O'FERRALL. Let us have the whole paragraph read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Provided, That no part of the amount of this appropriation shall be available unless the doors of the Exposition shall be closed on Sunday. Provided further, That in no event shall the exhibit to be made by the Government be open to the public on Sunday.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. HOOKER] to the amendment offered by the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. JOHNSTONE].

The question was taken; and there were—ayes 197, noes 51.

S. the amendment to the amendment was adopted.

The CHAIRMAN. The question now is upon the amendment of the gentleman from South Carolina as amended.

A MEMBER. I ask that the amendment as amended be read.

The amendment of Mr. JOHNSTONE of South Carolina as amended was read, as follows:

Provided, That no part of the amount herein appropriated shall be available unless the doors of the Exposition shall be closed on Sunday.

Provided further, That in no event shall the exhibit made by the Government be open to the public on Sunday.

Mr. PAYNTER. Mr. Chairman, is it in order to offer a substitute?

The CHAIRMAN. There is one substitute already pending.

Mr. HOOKER of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, let the Clerk read the substitute that is pending.

The Clerk read the substitute, as follows:

That before any money appropriated by the Government is paid, the managers of the Columbian Exposition shall pass and file with the Secretary of the Treasury a resolution and agreement to close the Exposition on Sunday.

Mr. PAYNTER. Mr. Chairman, is it in order to offer an amendment to that substitute?

The CHAIRMAN. That would be in order.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Chairman, a parliamentary inquiry. Is this last proposition offered as a substitute for the first?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes; the proposition of the gentleman from Pennsylvania was offered as a substitute, and now the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. PAYNTER] offers an amendment—

Mr. PAYNTER. I offer it as an amendment to the substitute.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Kentucky offers an amendment to the substitute, which the Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Provided, That the building or buildings containing the Government exhibit shall not be open to visitors on Sunday.

Mr. JOHNSTONE of South Carolina. But, Mr. Chairman, under that provision the money goes, and there is no power in the provision to enforce itself.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Kentucky proposes to add this as an amendment to the proposition of the gentleman from South Carolina.

The question was taken on the amendment of Mr. PAYNTER; and the Chairman declared that it was rejected.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order. That same proposition has been already voted down.

A MEMBER. Well, now it has been voted down again.

Mr. ATKINSON. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment to the substitute of my colleague from Pennsylvania.

The amendment was read, as follows:

Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be available until the Board of Managers of the World's Columbian Exposition shall give satisfactory assurances that no intoxicating liquor shall be sold on the grounds of said Exposition.

The question was taken on the amendment of Mr. ATKINSON; and the Chairman declared that the news seemed to have it.

Mr. ATKINSON. I call for a division.

The committee divided; and there were—ayes 89, noes 76.

Mr. TAYLOR of Illinois. I demand tellers.

The question was taken on ordering tellers, and 27 members voted in the affirmative.

Mr. BUTLER and Mr. TAYLOR of Illinois. No quorum, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN. The point of no quorum is made, and the Chair will appoint tellers.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. It does not require a quorum to order tellers.

The CHAIRMAN. The tellers are appointed on the amendment of the gentleman from Pennsylvania. The Chair appoints to act as tellers the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. ATKINSON] and the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. BUTLER].

The committee divided; and the tellers reported—ayes 57, noes 80.

So the amendment was adopted.

Mr. HOLMAN. I move that the committee rise.

Mr. COGSWELL. I ask the gentleman to withhold that motion for a moment in order that I may ask unanimous consent that my colleague, Mr. MORSE, who is absent sick and who I very much fear will never return to his labors here, may have leave to print in the RECORD a few remarks upon this question of closing the Exposition on Sunday.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

Mr. OWENS. I object.

Mr. HOLMAN. I move that the committee rise.

The motion was agreed to.

The committee accordingly rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. LESTER of Georgia reported that the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, having had under consideration the sundry civil appropriation bill, had come to no resolution thereon.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. WARWICK, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined and found truly enrolled bills of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (S. 812) granting a pension to George W. Jones;

A bill (S. 1975) for the protection of livery-stable keepers and persons keeping horses at livery stables within the District of Columbia;

A bill (H. R. 1923) granting an honorable discharge to William W. Wedgwood;

A bill (H. R. 5021) granting a pension to Mary Jewett Telford, an army nurse; and

A bill (H. R. 7365) to authorize the Illinois and Iowa Railway and Terminal Company to build a bridge across the Mississippi River at Moline, Ill.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, informed the House that the President had approved and signed bills of the following titles: On May 23, 1892:

An act (H. R. 7369) authorizing the construction of a wagon and motor bridge over the Missouri River at St. Charles, Mo.; and

An act (H. R. 507) to provide for a term of the United States circuit and district courts of Evanston, Wyo.

On May 25, 1892:

An act (H. R. 6658) to vacate that part of Madison street, Georgetown, west of Back street, and extend Y street in Barleith, in the District of Columbia;

An act (H. R. 5209) for the relief of Betsy Worthington;

An act (H. R. 4288) authorizing the payment of the pension of Edward S. Smith, accrued at the date of his death, to his mother, Catherine;

An act (H. R. 724) granting a pension to Jane Shierry; and

An act (H. R. 4533) for the relief of holders of drawback certificates issued under an act of Congress approved June 2, 1890.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. MCCOOK, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had insisted upon its amendments to the bill (H. R. 8295) to authorize the Glen Echo Railroad Company to cross the Washington Aqueduct, disagreed to by the House; had agreed to the conference asked by the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses, and had appointed Mr. McMILLAN, Mr. GALLINGER, and Mr. GORMAN as the conferees on the part of the Senate.

It also announced that the Senate had disagreed to the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 1397) to provide a permanent system of highways in that part of the District of Columbia lying outside of cities, asked a conference with the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HARRIS, Mr. McMILLAN, and Mr. PERKINS as the conferees on the part of the Senate.

It also announced that the Senate had passed the following concurrent resolution: in which concurrence of the House was requested:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring). That there be printed in addition to the usual number of the report of the National Academy of Sciences for 1891 2,000 copies, 500 for the use of the Senate, 1,000 for the use of the House, and 500 for use of the Academy of Sciences of the memoirs which accompany the report of 1891 2,500 copies, 500 for the Senate, 1,000 for the House of Representatives, and 1,000 for distribution by the Academy of Sciences. The concurrent resolution of March 11 on that subject is hereby repealed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. STOCKDALE, indefinitely, after Monday next, on account of important business.

To Mr. PICKLER, for two weeks, on account of important business.

To Mr. SHIVELY, for ten days, on account of important business.

To Mr. HARTER, for eleven days, on account of important business.

LEAVE TO PRINT.

Mr. COGSWELL. The gentleman from Ohio [Mr. OWENS] withdraws his objection to the request I made a few minutes ago in Committee of the Whole. I now renew the request that my colleague, Mr. MORSE, who has been absent sick for a long time, and I fear will not be able to return to this House again, may have leave to print in the RECORD remarks in regard to the closing of the World's Fair on the Lord's day.

There being no objection, leave was granted.

PATENTS.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey, by unanimous consent, reported back with amendments, from the Committee on Patents, the bill (H. R. 601) revising and amending the statutes relating to patents: which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

BONDS HELD FOR REDEMPTION PURPOSES.

Mr. DOCKERY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. BUCHANAN] withdraws the objection which he made yesterday afternoon to the adoption of the resolution offered by me calling on the Judiciary Committee for its construction in certain respects of the redemption act of January 14, 1875, and also for other information. I ask that the resolution be now adopted. It was read in full last evening.

There being no objection, the House proceeded to the consideration of the following resolution: which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary be and is hereby directed to inquire and report to the House, in addition to the matters heretofore referred to the same by House resolution adopted February 23, 1892, whether under the act entitled "An act to provide for the redemption of specie payments," approved January 14, 1875, and the acts amendatory thereof, any bonds were sold for redemption purposes, and, also, the amounts realized from such sales, the amount of surplus revenues in the Treasury each year since the passage of said act, or available for redemption purposes, and if any, whether the same was or should have been first used therefor: the amount of legal-tender notes redeemed each year under the provisions of said act; whether the same or any portion thereof were redeemed from the proceeds of the sale of bonds or from the surplus revenues in the Treasury; whether such redemption fund, if any, under said act must be maintained by the Secretary of the Treasury by the sale of bonds or the transfer of surplus revenues in the Treasury at the time of its depletion; and whether, if same is depleted or reduced by redemptions and the amount so used restored from the surplus in the Treasury, said sum so taken from said surplus revenue and added to said redemption fund is thereafter subject to use for any other than redemption purposes.

And then, on motion of Mr. HOLMAN at 5 o'clock and 30 minutes p. m., the House adjourned.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII, private bills and resolutions were severally reported from committees, delivered to the Clerk, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House, as follows:

By Mr. WOLVERTON: Resolution of the Lutheran congregation at Bloomsburg, Pa., opposed to the opening of the World's Fair on Sunday—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

SENATE.

FRIDAY, May 27, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

ADJOURNMENT OVER DECORATION DAY.

Mr. HALE. I move that when the Senate adjourn to-day it be to meet on Tuesday next.

The motion was agreed to.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, recommending that the appropriation in the House bill for the maintenance of the United States quarantine stations during the coming fiscal year be raised from $50,000 to $80,000; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

COURT OF CLAIMS REPORT.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting the conclusions of fact and of law in the French spoliation claim of Alexander Proudhon, administrator of John Proudhon, deceased, relating to the ship Eliza, which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS.

Mr. COCKRELL. On the 25th instant I presented to the Senate a table prepared by the Director of the Mint in regard to the stock of money in the aggregate and per capita in the principal countries of the world and it was printed as Miscellaneous Document No. 164. I submitted the document to the Director, Mr. Leach, and he has made numerous corrections in it, bringing it down to this date. The reply that he sent to me did not quite bring it down to the present date. The changes do not alter the aggregate to any considerable amount, but it is much more absolutely accurate than the one that was printed. I ask that the print in the Record, on page 4673, may be corrected according to the amended table, and that Miscellaneous Document No. 164 be withdrawn—that is, the tabular part of it—and the corrected table substituted for it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The statement will be corrected in the Record.

Mr. COCKRELL. And an order made to reprint Miscellaneous Document No. 164, with the figures corrected.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will be so ordered.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. HARRIS, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 897) regulating the delivery and sale of ice within the District of Columbia on the Sabbath day, commonly known as Sunday, reported it with amendments.

Mr. VELAS, from the Committee on Claims, to whom were referred the following bills, submitted adverse reports thereon, which were agreed to, and the bills were postponed indefinitely:

A bill (S. 659) for the relief of the legal representatives of William Johnson, Joseph Torrey, and Thomas Blackwell, respectively; and

A bill (S. 980) for the relief of the legal representatives of John Baptiste Ashe.

Mr. SANDERS, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 88) for the relief of William Somerville, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1790) for the relief of Thomas Antisell, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. WILSON, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1923) to amend section 860 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, reported it with amendments.

Mr. VEST. I am instructed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1473) to authorize the Missouri River Power Company of Montana to construct a dam across the Missouri River, to report it with an amendment. I move that an order be made for printing the papers accompanying the bill.

The motion was agreed to.

PAY OF EMPLOYEES.

Mr. ALLISON. The Committee on Appropriations instruct me to report back without amendment the joint resolution (H. Res. 132) to pay the officers and employees of the Senate and tion, without any appointment to army service, but moved by his kindly feeling for the young men who were leaving home at the call of the Government, determined to march with "the boys" and care for them and the regiment to the best of his ability.

From the determined character of the man he accomplished wonders in his service as wagon-master for the regiment in its early campaigns in Virginia.

When the Sioux Indians in our State in August, 1862, counting upon the defenseless condition of our frontier settlements because of the absence of our soldiers in the South, began a war of indiscriminate slaughter upon men, women, and children on our then Western frontier, this patriotic and tireless man, Northrup, quickly raised a company of mounted men and moved to the defense of Fort Ridgely, then occupied by the Superintendent of Indian Affairs, in charge of a large sum of Government money for payment of Indian annuities, with many citizens who for protection had sought the post upon the sudden outbreak of the red devils; he with others relieved the fort.

I have no doubt that in all these services he was called upon to expend his own money, for when he had it he used it freely, and such services as he rendered required money and there was none among our people.

He is now far advanced in years and a generous people should gratefully remember his service and place him above want in the few years that are left him.

Very respectfully,
Hon. C. K. DAVIS,
United States Senator.

ALEX. RAMSEY.

ST. PAUL, November 2, 1891.

DEAR SIR: In a general way I am somewhat conversant with the doings of Anson Northrup during the civil and Indian wars, and was at the time satisfied of the great service he rendered. I have known him for nearly fifty years. His patriotism and energy have been his predominant characteristics. If anything was to be done he never waited for particulars nor to study consequences. For many years I was intimately acquainted with him during the early settlement of the West, and know that he was always to the front, and from reliable sources I know he was, during our troubles, where his services could be the most useful. He is now old, decrepit, and poor. If a man was ever entitled to the consideration of the Government it is he. The great mistake he made was not waiting for a written commission, but without which no army mission was ever more faithfully executed than his.

Truly, yours,

HENRY M. RICE.

Hon. C. K. DAVIS,
United States Senator.

ST. PAUL, MINN., December 23, 1891.

MY DEAR SIR: Having learned that my old friend, Anson Northrup, was making some appeal to Congress for relief in his old age, I take pleasure in adding my mite of assistance in his behalf. I have been shown two letters addressed to you upon the subject, one from Judge William Lochren, of date October 16, 1891, and one from Governor Ramsey, of November 5, 1891, and have read them both carefully.

Of course I can say nothing about the services of Mr. Northrup in connection with the First Regiment, which are detailed in such an interesting manner by Judge Lochren, but you know as well as I do that it is useless to attempt to add anything to what the judge says. I fully concur in all that both he and Governor Ramsey say as to the valuable services rendered by Mr. Northrup during the Indian troubles in 1862. He was among the very first to relieve Fort Ridgely, arriving there with his company on the 27th of August, which fact I mention in my narrative of the Indian war, on page 736 of the second edition of the State war book. Mr. Northrup is now very old and very poor, and incapable of supporting himself. Among the thousands of pensions that are being granted for military services I know of none that could be more worthily bestowed than in the case under consideration.

Trusting that you will do all in your power, as I know you will, in Mr. Northrup's behalf, I remain,

Very truly,

CHAS. E. FLANAGAN.

Hon. C. K. DAVIS,
United States Senator, Washington, D. C.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF GEORGE K. OTIS.

Mr. SAWYER. On the 24th of February I entered a motion to reconsider the vote by which the Senate passed the bill (S. 469) for the relief of the legal representatives of George K. Otis, deceased. I now wish to have the vote reconsidered. I will state to the Senate that there is a typographical error in the bill. In describing a mail route it is given as "1681," when it should be "1671." I simply wish to change the number. It is a mistake in the print. The bill was originally printed right.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Wisconsin moves to reconsider the vote by which the bill indicated by him was ordered to a third reading and passed.

The motion to reconsider was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. When was the bill passed?

Mr. SAWYER. The bill was passed in February, and there was a mistake in the mail route described. I wish to move an amendment so as to insert the right number.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill was passed February 24.

Mr. HARRIS. It has probably gone to the other House and it will have to be returned.

Mr. SAWYER. No; the bill is in possession of the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment moved by the Senator from Wisconsin will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. Amend by striking out, in line 8, "eighty-one" and inserting the word "seventy-one," so as to read "route 1671."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and was read the third time, and passed.

SALARIES OF RAILWAY POSTAL CLERKS.

The bill (S. 2504) to reclassify and prescribe the salaries of railway postal clerks was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read in that case.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, April 5, 1892.

This is a bill to classify and prescribe the salaries of railway postal clerks. The following statement shows the rates of compensation under existing law, and the proposed changes as provided in this bill.

Compensation per annum.

	Existing law.	This bill.
First class	$800	$800
Second class	600	1,000
Third class	1,000	1,200
Fourth class	1,200	1,300
Fifth class	1,400	1,500
Sixth class		1,600
Seventh class		1,800

The bill adds a sixth and seventh class, at a compensation, respectively, of $1,600 and $1,800, and provides that the Postmaster-General, in fixing the salaries of clerks in different classes, may grade the salaries of the same class with due regard to the amount of work, the number of hours employed, and the responsibility incurred. It also provides that clerks of class seven may be detailed as chiefs of divisions and clerks of class six may be detailed chief clerks of two or more lines under prescribed restrictions. These changes have the approval of the Postmaster-General, and the present Second Assistant Postmaster-General, who was for many years Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, very strongly recommends this reclassification.

The life of a postal-railway clerk carries with it many risks, and from the nature of the employment a great deal of pride and ambition is developed among these custodians of the United States mails. As the importance of this class of employment increases, there ensues a progressive requirement for reorganization, and it is essential that men who have gone through all the details and responsibilities of transportation should be encouraged by advancement in their rates of compensation, which they justly earn in the regular line of promotion. They are, beyond all question, men of intellectual and physical ability, and the character of their service ranks among the highest under the Government.

It is believed that the reorganization proposed by this bill will raise the service to a higher plane than is demanded by the growth of the mails, and that it will contribute to the general good. The increased cost of the organization would be in the neighborhood of $55,000 per annum.

The bill is reported favorably with a recommendation that it do pass.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to ask the Senator reporting this bill why there is such an additional increase as proposed in classes 6 and 7? Class 5 is increased $100, and then two new classes are made running up to sixteen hundred and eighteen hundred dollars, respectively. Is not that rather a big jump? This is a thing a considerable amount to the drain on a depleted and exhausted Treasury.

Mr. McMILLAN. Mr. President, the service seems to demand that these salaries be increased. Besides, the class of men who are required to do this work, which is very onerous, have to do it at very great risk to their lives. The service demands a good quality of men, and they receive small salaries.

Mr. COCKRELL. There is no question about that.

Mr. McMILLAN. The service is now underpaid, and I think the enactment of this bill will give us better service. I think $1,800 a year is not too much to pay a man who does this kind of work. It is only a few, however, who will receive that amount. The service is to be graded. The lowest service is $800, and it is to be graded from that up to $1,800.

Mr. COCKRELL. Under the existing law the salaries range at $800, $900, $1,000, $1,200, and $1,400. Under this bill the salaries start at $800 and then skip $900; there is no $900 class under this bill. The first class then is $800, then $1,000, $1,200, $1,300, $1,500, $1,600, and $1,800. The highest salary under the present law is $1,400.

It strikes me that, notwithstanding these officers are of a meritorious class and some increase of salary might be justified and some increase of the classes, yet we must look at the fact of an exhausted Treasury and the appropriations demanded by law, which will take every dollar of revenue if not more. There is no disguising it. Everybody knows that fact. Now, why shall we, unless there is an existing law requiring it, increase the strain upon the Treasury and force in the end some method of increasing the revenues of the Government? The necessity stares us squarely in the face. I know that the Treasury can be so manipulated that there will be a surplus apparently on the 30th day of June, but it will be because the appropriations made by the last Congress which ought to have been paid out of the resources and the revenues of this fiscal year have been postponed and will be dumped upon the Treasury, and the Treasury exhausted during the coming fiscal year 1893. That will be the inevitable result of this condition of affairs, and we may just as well look at it squarely.

I say I know the Secretary of the Treasury can by manipulation, by postponing the expenditure of appropriations made by the last Congress, delaying payments, and procrastinating business, have a surplus on the 30th day of June; but, then, those appropriations are already made, they are liabilities already created, they must be met, and they will be met out of the revenues of the fiscal year 1892, and the revenues of that year will be exhausted and a deficit left. That is unavoidable, and if you keep on passing such bills no power on earth can prevent it, because we are not increasing the revenues.

I acknowledge the worth and merit of these employes of the Government; I should like to see them rewarded fairly and justly, but when we have not the money to pay and we are not providing any increased taxation or increased revenues, why shall we place this strain upon the Treasury? I see no necessity for it. Therefore I must move that the three last items, "$1,500, $1,600, and $1,800," be stricken out, and in lieu of them insert "$1,400, $1,500, and $1,600," instead. That makes an increase of two grades with a corresponding increase of $200 a year, and makes two classes with $100 and $200 salaries, respectively, higher than now exist by law. That is a considerable promotion and a considerable increase. It makes two classes with that increased salary, and two classes, the sixth and seventh, with $1,500 and $1,600, while the highest class now is $1,400.

Mr. McHILLAN. In answer to the statement of the Senator from Missouri, I would say that this matter was very carefully considered by the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, and that the increase is recommended by the Post-Office Department.

This is a comparatively new service, and the $1,800 allowed to the highest class is a very small salary to pay for the service called for. We are paying in the different Departments in Washington to-day from $800 up to $1,800 for service which has no particular risk about it, while these men take their lives in their hands every time they get on mail trains, especially on those trains running at the rate of 40 and 50 miles an hour.

I think the service demands that the pay should be increased, and I think that the recommendation made by the committee and the Postmaster-General should be followed.

Mr. SAWYER. I hope the amendment of the Senator from Missouri will not be adopted. We considered this subject very carefully in committee. There is no service which is so poorly compensated as the service we are exacting of these railway postal clerks. The Post-Office Department will earn its revenue if you give it the opportunity, and if it is to increase its revenue it must have better men to take charge of these divisions.

I hope the bill will pass as reported by the committee. As I have said, we spent a great deal of time over it.

Mr. COCKRELL. Does the Senator think the bill ought to pass when there is no money to pay the salaries provided by law?

Mr. SAWYER. If you give it a chance, the Post-Office Department will earn its own money.

Mr. COCKRELL. It does not earn enough to pay expenses. Does the Senator think we ought to do this when we have not the money to pay it?

Mr. SAWYER. The Post-Office Department, if you give it the proper facilities, will earn the money itself to pay for it.

Mr. COCKRELL. They never have done it yet.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 1, line 10, after the word "thousand," it is proposed to strike out "five" and insert "four;" in line 11, after the word "thousand," to strike out "six" and insert "five;" and in line 12, after the word "thousand," to strike out "eight" and insert "six;" so as to read:

Fifth class, not exceeding $1,000; sixth class, not exceeding $1,500; seventh class, not exceeding $1,600.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment. The amendment was rejected.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

JOSEPH H. WELTY.

The bill (S. 1186) granting a pension to Joseph H. Welty was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of Joseph H. Welty, late of Company I, Second Regiment of Iowa Infantry.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LEROY ROOT.

The bill (S. 1536) to increase the pension of Leroy Root was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to increase the pension of Leroy Root, late private, Company D, First Michigan Engineers and Mechanics, to $30 per month from October 3, 1890.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move, in line 6, after the word "month," to strike out "said increase" to date from October 3, A. D. 1890.

Mr. PADDOCK. There is no objection to that amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ABASHA RISK.

The bill (S. 1008) granting a pension to Abasha Risk was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Pensions with amendments, in line 5, before the word "dollars," to strike out "fifty-two" and insert "eighteen;" and in the same line after the word "month," to insert "the same to be paid in lieu of any pension or future claim for pension;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That the Secretary of the Interior be and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, at the rate of $18 per month, the same to be paid in lieu of any pension or future claim for pension, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Abasha Risk, of St. John, Kans., late private in Company A, One hundred and twenty-third Regiment Indiana Volunteers.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the time, and passed.

EL RENO, OKLA.

The bill (S. 2839) for the relief of the town of El Reno, Okla., was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. WALTHALL. Let that bill go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

JOSEPHINE L. OFFLEY.

The bill (S. 1691) granting a pension to Josephine Q. Offley was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Pensions with amendments, in line 6, after the word "Josephine," to strike out the initial "Q" and insert "J;" and in line 5, before the word "dollars," to strike out "one hundred" and insert "forty;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That the Secretary of the Interior be and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Josephine L. Offley, widow of Robert H. Offley, late colonel of the Tenth United States Infantry, at the rate of $40 per month, in lieu of the pension to which she is now entitled by law.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting a pension to Josephine L. Offley."

JAMES HARVEY DENNIS.

The bill (S. 597) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of James Harvey Dennis was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Claims with an amendment, in line 5, before the word "thousand," to strike out "twenty-nine" and insert "twenty-five," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby, directed to pay to the personal representative of James Harvey Dennis, deceased, the sum of $25,638, being the sum found by the Court of Claims to be due him by reason of certain contracts for the improvement of the Tennessee River.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

GEORGE A. BARNES.

The bill (S. 223) for the relief of George A. Barnes was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It provides for the payment to George A. Barnes, late surety on the bond of Joseph Cushman, receiver of public moneys at Olympia, Wash., $7,447, wrongfully collected from him as such surety and covered into the Treasury of the United States.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read in that case.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. ALLEN April 6, 1892:

The Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 223) for the relief of George A. Barnes, respectfully state that, upon application to the Treasury Department for information, the following communication was received:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, FIRST COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE.
Washington, D. C., April 1, 1890.
SIR: Replying to your letter of March 27, 1890, regarding George A. Barnes bill 1861, for the relief of George A. Barnes, late surety on the bond of Joseph Cushman, receiver of public moneys at Olympia, Wash., and requesting to be advised of the status of his case as appears from the records of this office, I have the honor to inform you as follows:

"In said Cushman's account as receiver for the quarter ending December 31, 1861, under bond of September 13, 1861, he admitted a balance due the United States of $19.25. This office examined his account, found the same to be correct, and certified the balance of $19.25 due the United States per report No. 18698, on April 26, 1862.

"In Mr. Cushman's next account, under bond of January 23, 1862, he erroneously brought forward the balance due the United States of $19.25 under his 1861 bond, and improperly credited the United States with the same. Subsequently Mr. Cushman deposited the item of $19.25, and the amount was covered into the Treasury June 30, 1863, by warrant No. 11, and said amount was by the accounting officers erroneously credited to Mr. Cushman's account under his 1862 bond, where he was then a debtor, and suit was pending for the recovery of the money due.

"In March, 1866, suit was instituted against Mr. Cushman and the sureties on his 1861 bond for the recovery of the balance of $19.25 standing against him on the books of the Treasury. Judgment was rendered for $19.25 principal, interest $27.53, and costs $7.70, aggregating $54.48, which last-named sum was paid by one of his sureties, George A. Barnes, and has been covered into the Treasury to the credit of miscellaneous receipts, or moneys unappropriated.

"Mr. Cushman having paid the balance of $19.25 due the United States under his 1861 bond, as stated above, it thus appears that no legal liability attached to Mr. George A. Barnes as surety on the aforementioned bond, and that the amount of $54.48, as stated in your bill, was wrongfully collected from him as such surety and covered into the Treasury.

"Respectfully, yours,

"A. C. MATTHEWS,

Comptroller.

"D. A. G.

"By J. R. GARRISON,

Deputy Comptroller.

"Hon. JOHN B. ALLEN,

United States Senate, Washington, D. C."

From which it clearly appears that Mr. Barnes is entitled to the relief prayed.

The committee therefore recommend that the bill do pass.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WILLIAM H. RHETT.

The bill (S. 2114) for the relief of William H. Rhett was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Claims with an amendment, in line 6, before the word "dollars," to strike out "eighty" and insert "eighty-eight," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to pay to William H. Rhett, of Helena, Mont., out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $288, same being due him by the United States for mileage and per diem while serving as a member of the Legislature of the Territory of Idaho.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read in that case, omitting the exhibits.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read, omitting the exhibits.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. VILAS April 6, 1892:

The Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2114) for the relief of William H. Rhett, respectfully report:

The petitioner, William H. Rhett, and George M. Shearer were candidates for the county of Idaho, in the then Territory of Idaho, for representative to the Legislature at the election held in November, 1874, and the canvassing board gave Shearer the certificate. The Legislature assembled on the 7th of December, 1874, and the claimant, Rhett, contested the seat successfully, so that on the 16th of December, the tenth day of the session, he was seated in place of Shearer. The house of representatives, however, by a resolution passed on that day, declared Shearer entitled to the mileage and ten days per diem allowed by law, and the Territorial secretary paid such mileage and per diem to Shearer accordingly, and withheld the amount from the claimant, Rhett.

Not only according to the general usage of legislative bodies in such cases, but according to the settled instruction to Territorial secretaries by the Treasury Department, Mr. Rhett was entitled to the per diem from the beginning of the session, and to his mileage, as was also Mr. Shearer entitled to what he received. The Territorial secretary made the mistake of supposing that he could not pay two for the same service.

The subjoined letter from the First Comptroller of the Treasury, addressed to the subcommittee who had the bill particularly under consideration, shows the facts of the case to be in all respects in accordance with the statements of the claimant's memorial, and that he is clearly entitled to the sum of $288, the same amount which was paid to Shearer, being $224 for mileage and $60 for per diem, according to the circular letter of instructions to Territorial secretaries issued from the First Comptroller's office in the Treasury Department, and accompanying the Comptroller's letter, of which the material extracts are also appended to this report. To correct the bill amend by inserting the word "eight," after "eighty," in sixth line, is necessary.

Your committee recommend the passage of the bill after amendment as aforesaid.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

RESIDUARY LEGATEES OF MARK DAVIS.

The bill (S. 708) for the relief of the residuary legatees of Mark Davis, deceased, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The preamble recites that it is shown that the military authorities of the United States in command of the city of New Orleans on the 23d of February, 1863, demanded and received at the city from the agent of Mark Davis, a loyal citizen of the United States then residing at Petersburg, Va., certain personal property, consisting in part of fifty-five promissory notes, of the amount and value in the aggregate, without interest and deducting certain indorsements thereon, of $27,383.38, and legal currency to the amount of $275.50, and also demanded and received possession of certain real estate belonging to Mark Davis, and subsequently collected certain rents for the use and occupation of the same, all of which personal property and real estate were duly receipted for by the officer receiving the same; and that Mark Davis has since died, leaving a will wherein certain parties are constituted residuary legatees of his estate.

The bill therefore proposes to direct the Secretary of the Treasury to pay to the personal representative of Mark Davis, deceased, for the use of his residuary legatees named in his last will and testament, or their heirs or assigns, $21,828.33, that being the amount and value of the promissory notes and cash so taken. But the payment of this amount is to be received as full acquittance and discharge of all claim or demand against the United States growing out of or in any way connected with the taking, whether of the personal property or real estate.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The preamble was agreed to.

DISTRICT POLICE COURT.

Mr. WILSON. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 3011) to amend "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1891. It is important for the public interests here and the proper administration of the law within the District that that bill should be promptly passed. I do not think it will take any time.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the Judiciary with amendments. The first amendment was, in section 1, line 6, after the word "act," to strike out "following after the word 'jury,' in the fifth line of said section;" and in line 8, after the word "following," to insert:

SEC. 2. That prosecutions in the police court shall be on information by the proper prosecuting officer. In all prosecutions within the jurisdiction of said court in which, according to the Constitution of the United States, the accused would be entitled to a jury trial, the trial shall be by jury.

So as to make the section read:

That an act entitled "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1891, be amended as follows: Strike out all of section 2 of said act, and in lieu thereof insert the following:

"SEC. 2. That prosecutions in the police court shall be on information by the proper prosecuting officer. In all prosecutions within the jurisdiction of said court in which, according to the Constitution of the United States, the accused would be entitled to a jury trial, the trial shall be by jury, unless the accused shall in open court expressly waive such trial by jury and request to be tried by the judge, in which case the trial shall be by such judge, and the judgment and sentence shall have the same force and effect in all respects as if the same had been entered and pronounced upon the verdict of a jury. In all cases where the accused would not by force of the Constitution of the United States be entitled to a trial by jury, the trial shall be by the court without a jury, unless in such of said last-named cases wherein the fine or penalty may be $50 or more, or imprisonment as punishment for the offense may be thirty days or more, the accused shall demand a trial by jury, in which case the trial shall be by jury. In all cases where the said court shall impose a fine it may, in default of the payment of the fine imposed, commit the defendant for such a term as the court thinks right and proper, not to exceed one year."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 4, after the words "SEC. 1060," to strike out "He" and insert "The clerk;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. 2. That section 1060 of the Revised Statutes relating to the District of Columbia be, and the same is hereby, amended so that said section shall read:

"SEC. 1060. The clerk and the deputy clerks, and such other officers of the court as may be assigned by the judges of the court for that purpose, shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

TRUSTEES OF ISAAC R. TRIMBLE.

The bill (S. 2260) for the relief of the trustees of Isaac R. Trimble was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to refer to the Court of Claims the claim of the trustees of Isaac R. Trimble against the United States for the construction and use by the War Department of Howe's patent truss in the bridge over the Potomac River. Jurisdiction is conferred on that court to proceed as a court of equity, and to report the findings therein to Congress at an early day.

Mr. COCKRELL. I notice in this report, in an extract from the Barracks and Quarters Branch, Quartermaster-General's Office, April 25, 1873, that there is an account stated:

Case of I. R. Trimble, for patent fees on Howe truss spans in Long Bridge over Potomac River, erected under the supervision of Gen. McCullum, 1861, as per items enumerated..... $1,545.21
Interest to February, 1873, twelve years..... 2,545.92

Total..... 4,091.13

That would indicate that the question of interest had been considered by the Committee on Military Affairs. I am sure it was not considered and is not in the bill. If the Court of Claims should allow interest in making their report to Congress I have no doubt that Congress would strike out any provision allowing interest, as it has done in all similar cases. This bill simply reserves the claim of the trustees to the Court of Claims, and the court are to report their findings to Congress at an early day. So the question of interest will still be left with Congress; and this bill does not require the Court of Claims to find interest upon the claim. If it did I should vote against the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BUILDINGS ALONG ALLEYS IN WASHINGTON.

The bill (H. R. 5419) to prevent the building of houses along certain alleys in the city of Washington, and for other purposes, was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. KENNA. Mr. President, that bill is in charge of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT], and in his necessary absence the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN], the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia, and I have just agreed, and I hope it will suit the convenience of the Senate, that the bill shall go over for the present without prejudice.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

RESUBDIVISION OF SQUARE 673 IN WASHINGTON.

The joint resolution (S. R. 47) authorizing the resubdivision of square 673 in the city of Washington was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PRACTICE OF MEDICINE IN THE DISTRICT.

The bill (S. 2868) to regulate the practice of medicine in the District of Columbia was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. COCKRELL. Section 9 provides:

That a proper office for the use of the medical examining boards provided for in this act shall be furnished by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Section 11 provides:

That the fees received by each of said boards of medical examiners shall be first used to defray necessary expenses, and such surplus as shall remain may be distributed equally among the members as compensation for their services, but otherwise they shall receive no compensation whatever.

Now, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia have no building here; they are occupying a rented building, and if they furnish an office for this purpose, they will have to rent it. I move to insert in line 3, of section 11, after the word "expenses," the words "including office rent."

Mr. GALLINGER. That will be very satisfactory to the committee. I think there is no objection to that amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 11, line 3, after the word "expenses," it is proposed to insert "including office rent."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. Under those circumstances the Senator from Missouri would strike out section 9, would he not?

Mr. COCKRELL. No, leave section 9 in, because the District of Columbia Commissioners will rent the building and furnish it to the examiners, but they will pay out of the fees the rent and then the surplus will go to them.

Mr. GALLINGER. As I understand it, that is probably correct.

Mr. COCKRELL. I have been requested by some one of the medical profession—I am not sufficiently well versed in it to determine exactly the title it should be given—to offer some amendments, and I hope they will be acceptable. I will explain them all before they are separately acted upon. I move, in line 3 of section 1, after the word "two," to insert "or more" so as to read:

That there shall be for the District of Columbia two or more separate boards of medical examiners, etc.

Then, after the word "Columbia," in line 7, I move to insert "and one representing the vivopathic system adopted by the Society of the White Cross University of Science as incorporated by virtue of act of Congress of May 5, 1870."

Then I have one or two other little amendments to offer, so as to include this particular school of medicine in the number of those who can have a medical board.

I have another amendment in line 13, after the word "society," to insert "college, or university;" in the same line to strike out "school" and insert "system," and before the word "may," at the end of line 14, to insert "now is or;" so as to read:

Now is or hereafter may be incorporated by any act of Congress in the District of Columbia.

I do not know that there can be any objection to these amendments.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, I am disposed, as a member of the committee reporting this bill, to take a very liberal view, and to cover, so far as possible, every school of medicine which ought to be recognized, and yet there are difficulties especially in the way of adopting the second amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri.

The bill starts out with the idea that the two medical societies already incorporated by Congress shall have recognition, and that when any future medical school becomes incorporated it likewise shall have the same rights and privileges.

We have passed through the Senate a bill incorporating the Eclectic Medical Society, and if that should pass the House and become a law, the Eclectic Medical Society could ask for and under this bill would have a board of medical examiners.

The Senator from Missouri asks that we include an association called the Vivopathic Association, which claims to have a charter from Congress—I have not looked at it very carefully to know whether it is really incorporated or not—but it is composed of a few estimable gentlemen, I have no doubt. The man who is at the head of it presented a little bottle of elixir and a package of powder to the committee, telling the committee that if they mixed those two ingredients and took a dose now and then they never would die, they could not die, and indeed he left some of it in the committee room with the assurance that if I wanted to live forever all I had to do was to mix those ingredients in equal quantities and occasionally indulge in them, and my life was assured for all time to come.

I have no doubt the man is a well-meaning man, but he does not represent anybody but himself; he is a theorist, and it strikes me that it will be ridiculous in adopting a measure to regulate the practice of medicine, which needs regulation and which almost every State in the Union has already done, to recognize possibly a school that consists of two or three well-meaning but rather erratic gentlemen. I should be opposed to that amendment, and I think the Senator from Missouri will scarcely press it upon the Senate.

Mr. President, concerning this entire bill, I will say that it has been a very difficult matter to construct a bill which would meet the necessities of the occasion, and this bill is not satisfactory to the medical fraternity of the city of Washington. I had two drafts presented to me as a subcommittee of the Committee on the District of Columbia, and I found great objection to both of them in the minds of individual members of the profession, and to some extent of the profession at large. I took upon myself, having some little knowledge of medical matters, to rewrite the entire bill and I present it in this form for the consideration of Congress.

I have now in my desk some amendments proposed by some of the leading physicians in Washington who complain that, inasmuch as we recognize societies, they are excluded from becoming members of these examining boards; that they are not members of these societies, do not care to become members, and possibly could not become members if they desired. Then, I have had a request from distinguished medical gentlemen here to hold up this bill until the two leading schools could get together and propose certain amendments; but inasmuch as they were here before the committee and presented a bill, which the committee considered, I hardly think it necessary to delay action on this bill for the purpose of reopening the entire case.

My own individual feeling is that this is a very good bill. It is broad; it is liberal; it is just; it will harm nobody. It will do some good, and I think it ought to pass substantially as reported by the committee.

I trust, therefore, that the distinguished Senator from Missouri, who is always good natured and who always wants to do the right thing, will not press his amendments, which, I think, would endanger the passage of the bill and certainly would destroy its leading features and make it of very little account to the profession.

Mr. COCKRELL. I am very glad to have the explanation made by the distinguished Senator from New Hampshire, who is also a distinguished member of the medical profession. He knows much more about this question than the rest of us.

I was simply requested to present these amendments, not knowing that they had been submitted to the committee and not now remembering who requested me to present them, and I thought I ought to suggest them. I knew the Senator from New Hampshire would know whether they were appropriate or not.

If this vivopathic society is trying to keep all the people living forever, I think we had better not recognize it. The country would become too populous after awhile, and we should not all be able to make a living. [Laughter.]

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PADDOCK in the chair). Does the Senator from Missouri withdraw his amendments?

Mr. COCKRELL. I do not withdraw the amendments. If

By Mr. ELLIS: A bill (H. R. 9032) for the relief of H. Oberdorfer—to the Committee on War Claims.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

SATURDAY, May 28, 1892.

The House met at 11 o'clock a. m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. WILLIAM H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read.

ADJOURNMENT OVER DECORATION DAY.

Mr. McMILLIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that when the House adjourn to-day it adjourn to meet on Tuesday next.

The motion was agreed to.

LEGISLATIVE, EXECUTIVE, AND JUDICIAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. FORNEY, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported a bill (H. R. 9040) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year 1893; which was read twice, referred to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

Mr. DINGLEY. Mr. Speaker, it is understood that all points of order are reserved.

CHINESE EXCLUSION ACT.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, inviting attention to the necessity for an appropriation for the enforcement of the act approved May 5, entitled "An act to prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States;" which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

PAY OF BAILIFFS, UNITED STATES COURTS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a communication from the Attorney-General, submitting for an appropriation a voucher of expenses incurred under the appropriation for pay of bailiffs, etc., United States courts, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1891; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

POSTAL SERVICE INCIDENT TO COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting an estimate of appropriation submitted by the Postmaster-General for the postal service incident to the World's Columbian Exposition for the fiscal years 1893 and 1894; which was referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

L. A. BARKER VS. THE UNITED STATES.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a communication from the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings of the court in the case of L. A. Barker, deceased, against the United States; which was referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN WARREN.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a bill (H. R. 4489) for the relief of John Warren, with an amendment of the Senate thereto.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House concur in the Senate amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The amendment was read, as follows:

In line 2, strike out all after "to," down to and including "service," line 6, and insert: "Revoke and set aside so much of Special Orders numbered 245, War Department, Adjutant-General's Office, Washington, September 17, 1892, as dishonorably discharged Capt. John Warren, Sixty-third New York Volunteers, the service of the United States, and grant him an honorable discharge from the service as of date September 17, 1892."

The amendment was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair laid before the House several Senate bills, and the titles having been once printed in the RECORD, if there be no objection the Chair will have the bills referred without the titles being again read.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3015) providing for the retirement of wagon masters, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

WASHINGTON POST-OFFICE PLATFORM.

Mr. McMILLAN. I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 88) to authorize the postmaster of the city of Washington to construct and maintain a platform in the alley in square 454, to report it without amendment, and to ask for its immediate consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. FAULKNER introduced a bill (S. 3226) granting a pension to Thomas Dean; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 3227) granting a pension to Levi C. Faight; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. COCKRELL. In connection with the bill I desire to file the affidavits of Messrs. T. J. and J. J. Gideon, a certificate of Dr. C. C. Clements, and a letter from the Pension Office. I move that the bill be referred, with the accompanying papers, to the Committee on Pensions.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 3228) granting a pension to Typo S. Williams; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. COCKRELL. In connection with the bill I desire to present the affidavits of Thomas Hale, a comrade, and of Drs. A. W. Parrish and J. A. Wilson, and the military record of this soldier, who is 87 years old; and I call especially the attention of the Committee on Pensions to the case.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill, with the accompanying papers, will be referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PETTIGREW introduced a bill (S. 3229) to authorize the assignment of Sioux half-breed scrip, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. KYLE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PADDOCK submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

RECIPROCITY WITH HAITI, COLOMBIA, AND VENEZUELA.

Mr. TURPIE submitted the following resolution, which was read:

Resolved, That the Secretary of State, if not incompatible with the public interests, be requested to transmit to the Senate copies of the dispatches and correspondence between the Government of the United States and the governments of Haiti, Colombia, and Venezuela in relation to the reciprocity offered to those countries prior to the date of the President's proclamations in the premises of 16th March last.

Mr. TURPIE. I ask that the resolution lie on the table for the present, and I give notice that I shall ask the courtesy of the Senate on Thursday next, after the conclusion of the business of the morning hour, to submit some remarks very briefly upon the subject-matter of the resolution.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will lie on the table for the present.

WIDTH OF SUBURBAN STREETS.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Whereas the act entitled "An act to regulate the subdivision of land within the District of Columbia," approved August 27, 1888, authorizes and directs the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to make and publish such general orders as may be necessary to regulate the platting and subdividing of all lands and grounds in the District of Columbia; and

Whereas the general orders made and published by the said Commissioners on December 6, 1888, provide that "streets not in alignment with the streets of Washington shall be not less than 90 feet in width," and also that no minor street in a square shall be less than 60 feet in width; and

Whereas a bill has passed both Houses of Congress providing that streets hereafter laid out shall not be less than 90 feet in width; and

Whereas the map of Stellwagen & Wolf (trustees) subdivision of the school-zen Park, near Washington in the District of Columbia, surveyed April, 1892, and bearing the approval of the District Commissioners, shows Hancock street, McClellan street, and Stenben street, each with a width of but 60 feet; and

Whereas the map of Stellwagen & Edmonston (trustees) addition to Le Droit Park and Washington, D. C., approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia November 11, 1891, shows Thomas street and Seaton street (both minor streets) with a width of but 50 feet; and

Whereas the platting of such narrow streets is seemingly in direct violation of the act of August 27, 1888, and the general orders made thereunder, and further, is calculated to entail large expenses hereafter when the streets shall be widened, to make them conform to the established width of streets of the District; Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia be, and they hereby are, directed to report to the Senate forthwith, first, by what authority and for what reasons they approved the above-mentioned platting; secondly, whether they have approved other plats not made in conformity to the general orders of December 6, 1888; and, thirdly, what steps, if any, can be taken, in cases of such approval, to cause the plats to be amended so as to conform to the general orders of the Commissioners.

REPRINTING OF PENSION BILL AND REPORT.

Mr. GALLINGER. I ask that an order be made for reprinting the bill (S. 641) to adjust pensions to those who have lost limbs or the use of them, and the report thereon, the usual issue having been exhausted and calls being quite frequent for copies.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from New Hampshire asks the consent of the Senate that the bill and report to which he alludes be reprinted for the use of the Senate. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

LENNES A. JACKSON.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there further morning business? If not, the Calendar under Rule VII being in order, the first bill on the Calendar will be stated.

The bill (S. 2680) for the relief of Lennes A. Jackson was announced as first in order, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration. It proposes to appropriate $270 to refund in full to Lennes A. Jackson the amount paid to James L. Stone, collector of customs, Detroit, Mich., which amount was stolen from the vaults of the Coldwater National Bank at Coldwater, Mich., March 2, 1892.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MEXICAN GULF, PACIFIC AND PUGET SOUND RAILROAD.

The bill (S. 2022) granting the right of way to the Mexican Gulf, Pacific and Puget Sound Railroad Company over and through the public lands of the United States in the States of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee, and granting the right of way to said railroad company over and through the United States naval and military reservations near Pensacola, in the State of Florida, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with amendments.

The first amendment was, in section 1, line 9, after the word "naval" to strike out the words, "reservation be, and is hereby, granted to the Mexican Gulf, Pacific and Puget Sound Railroad Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the States of Florida and Alabama," and insert "and military reservations;" so as to read:

That the Mexican Gulf, Pacific and Puget Sound Railroad Company, company organized under the laws of the States of Florida and Alabama is hereby granted the right of way, 100 feet in width, through the lands belonging to the United States in the States of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee, and through the reservations lying near Pensacola in the State of Florida, known as the naval and military reservations.

The amendment agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, line 16, after the word "materials," to strike out "along and on" and insert "within;" in line 17, after the word "States," to strike out "as can or could be used" and insert "except said naval and military reservations, as may be necessary;" so as to read:

The said The Mexican Gulf, Pacific and Puget Sound Railroad Company is hereby granted also the privilege and authority to use the timber, gravel, stone, and all such materials within the said right of way through lands belonging to the United States, except said naval and military reservations, as tary reform of 1871-73. It is only a question of time when Germany will sell her thalers, so as to make her monetary system as completely gold monometallic as England's, which she is imitating.

Austria-Hungary, which has by law the silver standard, but actually an irredeemable paper currency, is actively agitating the resumption of specie payments on the gold standard. She can not resume on the silver standard for the reason that her silver coins are, even now, less valuable than the paper currency. There are about 166,000,000 silver florins in the bank of Austria-Hungary, and according to public prints, the intention is to sell 60,000,000 (about $25,000,000) of these in order to procure gold.

The Italian Government has some 41,000,000 lire (or francs) in Bourbonnais, about $8,500,000, which are looking for a market.

Romania only a few months since sold some 25,000,000 lei (or francs)—about $5,000,000—of full legal-tender silver coins at a ridiculously low price—about $1.06 an ounce—and has 22,000,000 or about $4,400,000 more, which it is anxious to dispose of.

It has been publicly stated that only recently agents of the Netherlands were trying to dispose of its stock of silver through New York bankers.

Again, the Belgian press has recently been urging the Government of that country to sell the Belgian francs, about $20,000,000, in the vaults of the Bank of France, which would have to be redeemed in gold if the Latin Union were terminated.

I shall show the Senate in a moment that the people of France and of England especially are deeply interested in the success of that negotiation.

It has sometimes been said that as we have maintained this large mass of silver and $1,200,000,000 or $1,300,000,000 of paper money at par with coin, much of it based upon silver, we could therefore maintain the whole mass of silver of the world in coin. It does not follow. Every measure that has led to the success of our financial system heretofore has been tentative, and it has been proven before it was adopted. If there is any doubt about any of them it is only in that law miscalled the Sherman law, which has yet to be tested by the judgment and experience of more time than has yet transpired.

I have here a paper showing the assets and liabilities of the United States of America:

TREASURY OF THE UNITED STATES,
Washington, D. C., May 25, 1892.

It shows a great variety of assets and a great variety of liabilities, and a surplus consisting of $127,727,181.77, all told. Of that $100,000,000 is in gold specially set aside for a specific purpose. There is in addition to that $27,727,000 in the nature of surplus revenue. Does any man believe that upon that basis of $127,000,000 we can maintain the parity between silver and gold, taking all the silver of the world in view? Does any man dream of such a thing? If so, how idle is that dream. Better build upon the airy phantoms that float above us. Finance is the hard logic of facts. If you create a doubt, if you arouse a suspicion that we can not maintain our present system, you may bring serious disaster upon us.

This very threat of the free coinage of silver, in my judgment, is doing more now to disturb the business of our country than anything else. It is caused by the very possibility that we shall undertake this more than herculean task. It is a task that only the Almighty God could execute. The idea of basing our financial operations upon this basis of $127,000,000, $100,000,000 already pledged, is the wildest scheme of the imagination. The only ultimate outcome of it can be a single standard of silver based upon the market value of 371½ grains of silver. I feel that in every fiber of my body, feeling as I do a deep interest in the maintenance of our financial system, and knowing, so far as a man can know about anything that is in the future, that it is utterly impossible to maintain our system upon such a basis.

How can we meet it? Shall we sell bonds for gold? The very effort of our doing so would probably impair our credit and deprive us of all our hopes on account of our high position among the nations of the world. Shall we sell the silver on hand? We have $400,000,000 in the Treasury. Our people will not readily take it as money. With all the efforts that have been made by Congress there are only fifty or sixty million dollars of silver in circulation. The balance is there in vaults, in cellars, as the security for the payment of the various forms of paper money. Dare you sell that silver? I wanted to provide in the law of 1890 for the disposition of that silver in certain cases, but the conferees would not agree to it, and now to attempt to sell that silver in a falling market would only be adding misery to ruin. I do not like to talk about these things, but it is my duty to state my own opinions. They may be all wrong.

Mr. TELLER. I wish to ask the Senator a question. He says we have $400,000,000 of silver. That statement would go out as if the Government owns $400,000,000 of silver. Does the Senator mean to make that statement?

Mr. SHERMAN. It is in our Treasury, the property of the Government, and our Treasury notes are outstanding against it.

Mr. TELLER. Will the Senator tell me who owns that silver, whether it is the Treasury of the United States or the people of the United States who hold the certificates?

Mr. SHERMAN. We hold in the Treasury of the United States $413,000,000 of coined silver. We hold of subsidiary silver $77,000,000. So I was nearly $100,000,000 within the mark. I do not want to say anything about this. We have got this vast mass, and we can not sell it; we dare not sell it?

Mr. TELLER. Will the Senator assert here that the Government has any right to sell the silver dollars; that if there was a law authorizing it the Government would sell the silver dollars, when it is a trustee and holds the money in trust?

Mr. SHERMAN. There is no doubt the Government will hold that coined money for the payment of these notes outstanding, but it has bullion in its keeping that it dare not sell; and it owes for it. That is affecting the money market.

Mr. TELLER. Has it a right to sell a dollar?

Mr. SHERMAN. It has a right to sell the bullion to pay the notes, but there is no law providing for its sale.

Mr. TELLER. Then it has not any right to sell it.

Mr. SHERMAN. Suppose, for instance, that these Treasury notes outstanding should come to the Treasury for payment, would you take the gold in the Treasury to pay them?

Mr. JONES of Nevada. The Government of the United States has no right to sell bullion.

Mr. SHERMAN. The very moment you attempt to force the silver dollar into the hands of the people you would find at once the gap, the dangerous gap, between silver and gold.

Mr. MORGAN. Will the Senator allow me?

Mr. TELLER. Will the Senator—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Ohio yield?

Mr. SHERMAN. I guess not. I presume I had better wind up.

Mr. MORGAN. If the Senator will allow me to ask him—

Mr. MORRILL. The Senator from Ohio has been speaking now for nearly two hours and a half.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am not at all tired. I can go on if I do not tire the Senate.

Mr. PUGH. For three hours and a half?

Mr. MORRILL. Not for two hours and a half.

Mr. PUGH. Yes; two and a half?

Mr. SHERMAN. I do not want to keep the rest here if Senators desire to adjourn, but I do not ask an adjournment for myself.

Mr. MORRILL. I do not think there are many young men here now who want to speak longer than two hours and a half. It would be a strain upon a man as young as myself. [Laughter.] I therefore move, if the Senator will yield—

Mr. SHERMAN. If there is a desire for an adjournment, I will yield to the Senator from Vermont.

Mr. MORGAN. I hope the Senator from Vermont will not press that motion until I have had an opportunity to ask the Senator from Ohio a question of fact.

Mr. SHERMAN. There will be plenty of time to-morrow.

Mr. MORGAN. I desire to know it now, if the Senator will allow me; that is, has anyone—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Ohio yield to the Senator from Alabama?

Mr. SHERMAN. I have yielded to the Senator from Vermont.

Mr. MORRILL. I therefore move that the bill be laid aside until to-morrow—

Mr. SHERMAN. Let us just adjourn; that is all.

Mr. MORRILL. I move that the Senate adjourn.

Mr. COCKRELL. I suggest to the Senator to move an executive session.

Mr. MORRILL. I will move an executive session at the request of the Senator from Missouri.

Mr. McMILLAN. Mr. President—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senator from Vermont withdraw the motion until the Senator from Michigan can present a conference report?

Mr. MORRILL. Certainly.

GLEN ECHO RAILROAD.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 8295) to authorize the Glen Echo Railroad Company to cross the Washington Aqueduct, having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its amendment to the House act, and agree to the same with amendments as follows: In line 6, after the word "crossing," insert the words "over the paved portion of the said Conduit road shall be made at right angles with the said road, and," also after the words "in writing," in line 11, insert the sentence, "At no point on the line of said Glen Echo Railroad, except at the crossing aforesaid, or of any extension of said railroad, under whatever name, shall the inner rail be less than 50 feet from the middle of the paved portion of the Conduit road," and that the House agree to the same.

JAMES McMILLAN,
J. H. GALLINGER,
A. P. GORMAN,
Managers on the part of the Senate.
JNO. T. HEARD,
JAMES D. RICHARDSON,
P. S. POST,
Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

The report was concurred in.

Mr. MORRILL. I learn that there is no executive business pressing, and I therefore move that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 4 o'clock and 30 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Wednesday, June 1, 1892, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, May 31, 1892.

The House met at 11 o'clock a. m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. WILLIAM H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of Saturday was read and approved.

EMPLOYÉS, DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Attorney-General, submitting for consideration, in connection with the estimates for appropriations for the use of the Department of Justice for the fiscal year 1893, a list of employes in addition to those appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITIONAL SPACE FOR TREASURY EMPLOYÉS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, inviting attention to the urgent necessity for immediate action toward providing additional space for certain officials and employes of the Treasury Department; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

PRACTICE OF MEDICINE IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House an act (S. 2868) to regulate the practice of medicine in the District of Columbia; which was read twice, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows: To Mr. BRICKNIDGE of Kentucky, for six days.

To Mr. BAILEY, for ten days, on account of sickness.

To Mr. OUTHWAITE, indefinitely, on account of attendance at West Point examination.

To Mr. HULL, for ten days, to attend session of Board of Visitors at West Point.

To Mr. CRAIN of Texas, for fifteen days, on account of important business.

ESTATE OF JOHN W. WHITEFIELD.

Mr. McMILLIN. Mr. Speaker, at the session on Saturday last the gentleman from Texas [Mr. SAYERS] asked and obtained unanimous consent for the consideration of a Senate bill, but the matter was not disposed of, and it would properly come up this morning. I ask unanimous consent that it go over until to-morrow morning, preserving the same rights that it would have if called up to-day.

Mr. BURROWS. What is the matter?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Texas [Mr. SAYERS] asked unanimous consent on Saturday for the consideration of a Senate bill and the consent was given, but no quorum appearing it went over until to-day, and the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. McMILLIN] now asks unanimous consent that it go over until to-morrow morning.

Mr. LANHAM. And I suggest, Mr. Speaker, that it go over retaining its present status.

Mr. McMILLIN. I included that in my request.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. McMILLIN. Now, Mr. Speaker, in order to reach the appropriation bills as soon as possible, I ask for the regular order.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is the call of committees for reports.

INTRUDERS UPON THE FIVE CIVILIZED TRIBES.

Mr. ENGLISH, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported, as a substitute for the bill (H. R. 6799) to punish intruders on either of the five civilized tribes, a bill (H. R. 9053) to punish trespassers on the lands of either of the five civilized tribes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

The original bill (H. R. 6799) was laid on the table.

PENSIONS AND OTHER CLAIMS.

Mr. SNOW, from the Committee on Pensions, reported back with a favorable recommendation a bill (H. R. 6881) to expedite the prosecution of pensions and other claims arising out of the military and naval service of the United States of America; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The call of committees having been completed.

Mr. HENDERSON of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of general appropriation bills.

The motion was agreed to.

The House accordingly resolved itself into Committee of the Whole. Mr. BUCHANAN of Virginia in the Chair.

POST-OFFICE APPROPRIATION BILL.

The CHAIRMAN. The House is now in Committee of the Whole for the further consideration of the Post-Office appropriation bill.

Mr. HENDERSON of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, before the bill is read by paragraphs I ask unanimous consent for the correction of a typographical error in the bill. On page 4, line 24, the word "millions" should be "thousands," and I ask unanimous consent that the correction be made.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

Mr. HENDERSON of North Carolina. Now, Mr. Chairman, I ask that the bill be read by paragraphs.

The Clerk read as follows:

OFFICE OF THE FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

For compensation to postmasters, $15,500,000.

Mr. LOUD. Mr. Chairman, I offer the amendment which I send to the desk.

The amendment was read, as follows:

Amend page 1, lines 12 and 13, after "millions" strike out "two hundred and fifty thousand" and insert "three hundred and sixty-five thousand."

Mr. LOUD. Mr. Chairman, I do not see that there is any disposition on this side of the House to delay in any measure the Res. 121) relating to the Memorial Association of the District of Columbia, to report it favorably, without amendment. I ask for the consideration of the joint resolution now, if there be no objection.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The Chief Clerk read the joint resolution.

Mr. PERKINS. I will state that this is an honorary organization, that these gentlemen serve without pay, and that it involves no expense to the District government or the United States Government.

Mr. BLACKBURN. What is the purpose of it?

Mr. PERKINS. It is a memorial association, as recited in the joint resolution.

Mr. McPHERSON. What are the purposes of the organization?

Mr. PERKINS. As I understand from their charter, and according to the information given to our committee, it is a memorial association organized here and chartered. These gentlemen serve without pay, either from the Government of the United States or the District government. They have been already incorporated but want the authority granted by an act to the President of the United States as well as to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House to designate the gentlemen who are to serve in the future.

Mr. GRAY. It is a memorial of what, may I ask the Senator from Kansas?

Mr. PERKINS. It is a memorial association growing out of the late war, I understand.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

Mr. PERKINS. It is a joint resolution from the other House. It has already passed that body, and the Committee on the District of Columbia directed me to report it favorably here.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

Mr. ALLISON. Let it be read at length.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The joint resolution will be again read.

The Chief Clerk read the joint resolution.

Mr. PERKINS. I am advised that there are some errors in the spelling of the names, and I ask that the matter may be deferred until I can get the correct data.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The errors having been noticed at the desk, the original joint resolution as it came from the other House has been sent for, and when it is received the Chair will call the attention of the Senator from Kansas to the measure.

Mr. PERKINS. That may give the correct names.

Mr. PERKINS subsequently said: Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate resume the consideration of the joint resolution (H. Res. 121) relating to the Memorial Association of the District of Columbia, which was temporarily laid aside during the morning hour.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the joint resolution.

Mr. PERKINS. Mr. President, I am satisfied upon an examination of the original bill that the mistakes which were found in the printed copy exist also in the original bill. For that reason I move to amend the bill in line 7 by changing the name "Hauffman" to "Kaufmann," in line 8 by changing the name "Gardner G. Hubbard" to "Gardiner G. Hubbard," and in line 10 by changing the name "Tennis S. Hamlin" to "Tennis S. Hamlin."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendments will be agreed to in the absence of objection. The Chair hears no objection.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the joint resolution to be read a third time.

The joint resolution was read the third time, and passed.

FAILED NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. MORRILL, from the Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. CHANDLER on the 9th of May, 1892, providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate the failure of the Maverick National Bank of Boston, Mass., reported it with an amendment, to strike out all after the word "resolved" and insert:

That a committee of five Senators be appointed to inquire whether the existing provisions of the laws relative to national banks and the customary proceedings under said laws in cases of failures of such banks furnish sufficient protection to the depositors and other creditors and to the stockholders of such failed banks; said committee to report by bill or otherwise, and to have power in pursuing its inquiry to investigate any recent failures of such banks and any violations of law and inequalities happening in connection therewith; and said committee, or a majority thereof, to have authority to administer oaths to witnesses and take testimony in Washington or elsewhere, according to its discretion, during the present session or the recess of Congress; to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer and an expert; the expenses of the investigation to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask that the resolution just reported by the Senator from Vermont be referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That order will be made if there be no objection. The Chair hears none.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. DAWES (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3230) for the relief of James Grace; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BLACKBURN introduced a bill (S. 3231) for the relief of Mrs. E. S. Golladay and J. W. Bowling; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. FAULKNER introduced a bill (S. 3232) for the relief of Mrs. Mary Scott, of Richmond, Henrico County, Va.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. MITCHELL introduced a bill (S. 3233) for the relief of Charles M. Blake; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DAVIS (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3234) extending the benefits of the act of June 27, 1890, to certain persons; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3235) to provide for the establishment, protection, and administration of public forest reservations, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

JOHN BAPTISTE ASHO.

Mr. HARRIS. I have just ascertained that on the 27th of May the bill (S. 980) for the relief of the legal representatives of John Baptiste Asho was adversely reported and indefinitely postponed. I ask unanimous consent that the vote by which it was indefinitely postponed and the report agreed to be reconsidered, and that the bill be placed, with the adverse report, upon the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will be so ordered if there be no objection. The Chair hears none, and the bill, with the adverse report, will be placed on the Calendar.

HEARINGS BEFORE COMMITTEE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Committee on Indian Affairs be authorized to employ a stenographer to report the hearings before said committee or a subcommittee thereof in regard to the Stockbridge and Muncie Indians, and that the compensation of said stenographer be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

On motion of Mr. GALLINGER, it was Ordered, That the papers in the claim of Jeremiah Atkins be withdrawn from the files, subject to the rules of the Senate.

FLOWER-MARKET BUILDING IN WASHINGTON.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there further morning business? If there is no further morning business, the Calendar under Rule VII is in order, and the first bill on the Calendar will be announced.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I ask unanimous consent, as I am going away, that the Senate take up for consideration Senate bill 2157, which was passed over the other day at the suggestion of the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN]. It is the bill permitting the construction of a flower market in the city of Washington. I beg leave to say that we all misled the Senate, most unwittingly, the other day when the bill was up.

The space to be occupied is not the space upon the north side of the Avenue, nor is it the long parallelogram in front of the market, nor is it the triangular piece of ground where the statue of Gen. Rawlins stands, but farther still to the west, in front of what the Senate may know by name as the Bijou Theater, there is a small irregular tract of ground with an abandoned or never-used fountain, the ground being much deserted and neglected. It is a small, irregular piece of ground, larger to the west, tapering as it comes to the east, and this building, a picture of which I exhibited to the Senate the other day, is designed to exactly fill that space. This construction cuts off from view only Harris's Bijou Theater. I take it that anybody who desires to find that institution will still be able to find it in spite of the erection of the flower market. It will greatly beautify the space there, and by the selection of this site every objection which was even suggested the other day is removed. I ask unanimous consent that the bill may be put upon its passage.

Mr. COCKRELL. What is the Order of Business on the Calendar?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. No. 535. The bill having been passed over without prejudice, it is entitled to consideration, if there be no objection.

Mr. WOLCOTT. The Senator from Missouri will remember that it is the bill which was considered the other day.

Mr. COCKRELL. I remember. I only wanted to get the Order of Business.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 2457) to provide for the erection of a building for a flower market in the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill has been read at length as in Committee of the Whole. If there be no amendment to the bill it will be reported to the Senate.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, it is with the very greatest reluctance that I ever antagonize the views of my friend from Colorado, but after this matter was under discussion the other day I took occasion to look at the proposed site of this building, and I am constrained to state my opinion that the building ought not to be erected at that point, however much architectural beauty there may be about it. I saw the plan of the proposed building as exhibited in the Senate the other day, but it will still, it seems to me, beyond question, injure that street greatly and it must be considered to be out of place.

I shall make no opposition in regard to the purpose of the building. I appreciate fully the object which the Senator has in view, and I shall say nothing in that regard; but as a member of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, in the absence of the chairman of that committee, I consider it my duty to make this statement to the Senate.

Mr. WOLCOTT. May I interrupt the Senator from Missouri for a moment in order to ask him if he understood the statement I made as to where the building is to be located? It is not north of the avenue. It is on the other side of Ninth street. It is on the other side of the triangle where the Rawlins statue is. It is a little piece of ground directly in front of the Bijou Theater, the other side of it being occupied by a little narrow street running in front of that building.

Mr. VEST. Exactly. I examined the site in company with a friend, another Senator, who called my attention to it. I am satisfied that the Senate upon examination would come to the conclusion that it would not be right to put this building there. In the first place, although I can hardly discuss the question unless Senators could understand the location, it is too prominent a locality. It is right upon Pennsylvania avenue, in the business portion of the city. It seems to me that a building devoted to this purpose ought to be in some place less conspicuous and less connected with the mercantile pursuits of the city.

But as I said, I can hardly make an argument about it unless Senators could see the site, when I am satisfied they would agree with me. I say this with very great reluctance because I appreciate fully the object my friend from Colorado has in view and I sympathize with him to a large extent, but I do not think this building ought to be put at that place.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I understand the Senator does not object to the present consideration of the bill.

Mr. VEST. I do not.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I desire to say only one word. The building is proposed to be put in this location for two reasons. First, because the building itself is to be an object of beauty. It will be a great attraction to visitors to Washington, and it will be a source of great delight to those of us who stay here. The other reason why it is proposed to be put there is in order that those going to market may buy their flowers in a place near by the market, although they will not be compelled to find the flower stalls in among the butcher shops and the green-grocer stalls. For those reasons it seemed to us that the building would be in the best possible situation.

I desire to say further that this tract of ground is neglected, deserted. The fountain is not used; it is all in decay; and I believe sincerely that the erection of this building will add very much to the attractiveness of that tract of ground.

Mr. VEST. I will simply say, without going into any elaborate discussion of places where the public buildings should be located in the District of Columbia, that these little squares, triangular or otherwise, in the city of Washington are to me among its most attractive features. It has been said by some one, I do not remember his name, that they are the breathing places of an urban population. Take away the parks, especially the smaller parks, in the city of Washington, and you will take away its greatest beauty.

It is true that this little reservation or triangular piece of ground is not in the highest state of preservation—and I am sorry to say that that is the case with a large number of the smaller parks in the city of Washington—but the erection of a building there would destroy it as a park. If put up in the style and upon the plan which was exhibited here by the Senator from Colorado, although I of course am disposed to think the gaudy coloring added a good deal to the appearance of it as seen on paper, still if the building, no matter how beautiful architecturally, is put there it must be in a great contrast to the surrounding business houses, and above all it would destroy the open space there which adds to the beauty of Pennsylvania avenue, making it the most beautiful street possibly in the world.

If I were disposed to go into this matter in extenso I would say that my idea has been, in my service upon the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, for years that the public buildings ought to be put upon the other side of the avenue. While serving on the subcommittee that located the city post-office I acted upon that idea, and I have never regretted it. I am satisfied every time I pass along the present site that the committee and Congress were right in making that location. For us now to put this building by itself, isolated from other public buildings, upon one of these small reservations on the other side of the avenue, in the business part of the city, would seem to me entirely inappropriate. It would seem to me that if we wanted to put up a building for flowers, it should be put in some more retired place, if I may use the expression, and not in the busy mart and hum of commerce, even if it is upon the way to market.

I am constrained to say this with great reluctance, because, to be perfectly frank about it, my great and kindly feeling for the Senator from Colorado constrains me to a large extent, and then I know that behind it, greatly to his credit, are some of the most refined and attractive ladies in the city of Washington, and I always antagonize their wishes with great reluctance.

Mr. VOORHEES. Will the Senator from Colorado explain to me the relation of this ground to the park where the statue of Gen. Rawlins stands?

Mr. WOLCOTT. With pleasure. The ground is directly back of the statue. The statue of Gen. Rawlins occupies a triangle, with the front of the triangle towards us as we are here. The base of the triangle is Ninth street. The other side of Ninth street appears as if it were cut through what was originally a larger triangle. The Rawlins statue is this side of Ninth street. There is a parallelogram there larger at the west than at the east, extending on the whole, we will say, 150 or 125 feet on a little street which has no name, in front of the Bijou Theater. It is perhaps a hundred feet or less on Ninth street, a small piece of ground in which there is an ugly little fountain erected, which, I understand, is piped, but has never been used.

Mr. COCKRELL. It has been there for many years.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Under this bill, I will say to the Senator from Indiana, the grass plot north of the avenue will still stand, and the triangle where the Rawlins statue stands will continue to be a green spot. It still leaves the long tract of ground in front of the market covered with green and trees.

Mr. VOORHEES. Another question. Will the Senator please state the size and dimensions of the proposed building?

Mr. WOLCOTT. I have the plans.

Mr. VOORHEES. I mean just in a general way.

Mr. WOLCOTT. My impression is that it is to be about 100 by 50 feet.

Mr. VOORHEES. A large building.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I would say to the Senator from Indiana that it is a low building, and, not only that, but it is an open building, and has an open court surrounded by Moorish architecture, through which the exhibition of flowers can be seen from the street, so that it is really a green spot beautified, with the addition of a very handsome clock tower.

Mr. VOORHEES. This is not a matter in which I propose to antagonize the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT], but I do thoroughly sympathize with the views expressed by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST].

The locality has an objection which has been perhaps foreshadowed by the Senator from Missouri, though not expressly stated. A palace of flowers, a place of flowers, ought to be in a bright locality. This is not a bright locality; it has not bright surroundings. The property interests, the property belongings, and the very atmosphere there are of a class that do not assimilate in my mind with a flower garden, a place of flowers. It is near the shambles, as one of the gifted Senators in my rear suggests, it is near where they butcher lambs and calves, haul pork to market, and sell cabbages, and sometimes decayed vegetation salutes the atmosphere there with anything but an agreeable odor. Taken altogether, the surroundings are not aesthetic. The Senator from Missouri would have said these things, because he is more aesthetic than I am, but for his forbearance toward the Senator from Colorado, in which I fully share. I fully share the expressions of the Senator from Missouri of kindness, of friendship, and of admiration of the Senator from Colorado, who, perhaps, is a better judge of aesthetic surroundings than we are; but to my mind a market place, where sausages are hung up and the quarters of beeves and hogs are hauled in, is not the place where I would establish a flower garden.

In fact, Mr. President, it always seemed to me the sun did not shine quite as brightly down there as it did elsewhere. It seemed to me that there was a sort of eclipse of beauty and of brightness of the town where life is taken, even where it is taken to support the lives of the rest of us.

I would place this flower garden, or palace of flowers, or whatever you may choose to call it, up higher, at some place back on the lifts and heights of this beautiful city. I would place it where it would have splendid social surroundings, instead of these dismal accompaniments I have spoken of. At the same time, having said these things, I will not seriously antagonize the Senator from Colorado, if it be in the mind of the Senate to place this building where the Senator has indicated. I felt, while the Senator from Missouri was talking, a little stronger in the line of the remarks than he was going himself. It is about the last place where I would fix a work of this kind.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Just a word, and then I trust the measure may be voted upon.

The trouble with the present locality of the flower market is this: We have more flowers in Washington than in almost any other city in the United States, and we have them for more months in the year. They are now offered for sale among the sausages and cabbages and other articles exposed for sale in the market, and the persons holding stalls in the market at first very much antagonized this measure, because they said hundreds of people came to Center Market to get flowers, and that this brought them business.

We therefore endeavored to get the flower market in such a place that it should not injure their business, and the very purpose the Senator from Indiana seeks to accomplish is to be accomplished by this measure. We are going to improve and beautify what has been an unpleasant part of Washington. We are going to make it brighter and more beautiful. The building suggested is almost entirely open. It will be an object of beauty, and the flowers may be seen to far greater advantage than the green which is now in the triangular space can be seen, and the general effect will be to improve the property on the south side of the avenue.

Mr. FAULKNER. I did not know that the bill had been taken up. I do not propose to make any remarks upon it. I thought it was a question of consideration which was before the Senate. I simply desire to state that I opposed this bill in the Committee on the District of Columbia, and I shall content myself with simply voting against it in the Senate.

I do not think that the revenues of the District or of the United States are in a condition at this time to appropriate one-half of this fund from the revenues of the General Government and one-half from the revenues of the District for the purpose of building up a flower market. I also object to the location of the building as provided for in this bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, I am opposed to this bill for two reasons, and desire simply to enter on record the fact that I shall vote against it, without myself calling for the yeas and nays.

In the first place, I do not like the location proposed, and, in the next place, it is not a matter of necessity, it is not a work of necessity, and the condition of the Treasury does not justify an expenditure of this kind.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and was read the third time.

Mr. COKE. I call for the yeas and nays on the passage of the bill.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. HAWLEY. I will say that when the bill was up the other day both the Senator from Colorado and myself mistook the location. I adhere to the belief I expressed on that occasion, that we never ought to put one of these buildings upon any of the open spaces reserved for parks, circles, or squares. If there is to be a trespass upon that general regulation anywhere, this is the least objectionable I know of. I doubt whether all the Senators now understand where the location is, unless they have been to the ground to look at it. I do not think it would mar the street. I do not think there is anything in the objection which has been made that it is near the business quarter of the city. It will come in very harmoniously with the general location in connection with the market if a proper sort of building is put up.

I will put upon file my objection to the architecture of the building in one respect. One of the prime rules of architecture is first secure your use and then house it, adding something of ornamentation according to your means. The proposed clock tower running up to a considerable height, with no opening in the dead walls of it, is of no mortal use. It is not as high as many of the buildings around there, it will not be a conspicuous or a useful thing as a clock tower, and in my judgment it will mar the general effect of the otherwise very agreeable Moorish plan of the building. There is a shut-up and a high dead wall, perhaps 50 feet, with a clock tower of no use in the world, and to cost probably 25 per cent of the cost of the building; but that is a matter, I suppose, within the discretion of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the passage of the bill, on which the yeas and nays have been ordered. The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DAVIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TERPHE].

Mr. FAULKNER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH].

Mr. PUGH (when his name was called). The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR] is paired with the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL]. I announce my pair with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR].

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON], but I understand he favors this proposition, and therefore I vote "yea."

The roll call having been concluded, the result was announced—yeas 35, nays 12; as follows:

YEAS—35.

Allen,	Dubois,	Jones, Ark.	Power,
Allison,	Felton,	McPherson,	Sanders,

So the bill was passed.

FOUR HUNDRETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I ask unanimous consent that Senate joint resolution 83 may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The joint resolution referred to by the Senator from South Dakota will be stated by title.

The CHIEF CLERK. A joint resolution (S. R. 83) authorizing and directing the President to proclaim a general holiday, commemorating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, on the 12th day of October, 1492.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read at length for information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The joint resolution will be read at length.

The Chief Clerk read the joint resolution.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

The joint resolution was reported from the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial with amendments, in line 5, before the word "four," to strike out "this" and insert "the;" and in line 8, after the word "assembly," to strike out "which may impress them anew with the intellectual, moral, and social developments made possible by the act of Columbus;" so as to make the joint resolution read:

Resolved, etc. That the President of the United States be authorized and directed to issue a proclamation recommending to the people the observance in all their localities of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by public demonstrations and by suitable exercises in their schools and other places of assembly.

The amendments were agreed to.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The preamble was rejected.
The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The first bill on the Calendar will be reported.

MARKING BATTLE LINES AT GETTYSBURG.

The bill, S. 2916 for marking the lines of battle and positions of troops of the Army of Northern Virginia at Gettysburg, Pa., and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CAPITOL, NORTH O STREET AND SOUTH WASHINGTON RAILWAY COMPANY.

The bill, S. 2852 to change the name of the Capitol, North O Street and South Washington Railway Company, and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with an amendment to strike out sections 2, 3, and 4, as follows:

SEC. 2. That the said railway company is hereby authorized to extend its line by laying a single track, and running its cars thereon, on the following streets in the city of Washington, namely: West along P street from Eleventh street to Iowa Circle, thence northerly around said circle to Thirteenth street, thence northerly along Thirteenth street to Q street, thence west along Q street to Nineteenth street, thence south along Nineteenth street to Dupont Circle, thence southeasterly around said circle to P street, and thence east along said P street to intersect, with the necessary curves, its present line on Eleventh street.

SEC. 3. That unless said extension shall be completed within two years after the passage and approval of this act, all rights granted hereunder shall cease and be void. That said company is hereby authorized to operate its cars on said extension by horse, cable, electric, or other power: Provided, That the tracks of said extension shall be laid under the direction of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, with the latest pattern of grooved rails: And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall authorize the use of overhead wires.

SEC. 4. That to enable said railway company to construct and equip the extension of its road, as herein provided for, it is hereby authorized to increase its capital stock not to exceed $100,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill to change the name of the Capitol, North O Street and South Washington Railway Company."

OF LANDS IN CHICKASAW CESSION, MISSISSIPPI.

The bill (S. 2885) to authorize the Legislature of the State of Mississippi to sell or lease the lands heretofore appropriated for the use of schools within the Chickasaw cession, and to ratify and approve the sales already made, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and read the third time.

Mr. PERKINS. I should like to ask the Senator from Mississippi to whom these lands belong now?

Mr. WALTHALL. I will make this explanation of the bill, Mr. President. In 1852 Congress passed a law authorizing the State of Mississippi to sell certain lands previously donated to that State for school purposes, and to apply the interest on the proceeds of the sales to the support of common schools in the district of country where the land is situated. There was a provision in that law requiring that the consent of the inhabitants in the townships and districts where the land lies should first be had. The sales were made for full value, and the interest on the proceeds of the sales has been faithfully applied, but no record can be found of the consent of the inhabitants, which makes a technical defect in the paper title of the purchasers. The Legislature of Mississippi at its last session, in order to have this technical defect cured, memorialized Congress to pass an act in the form of this bill.

The bill has been referred to the Commissioner of Public Lands and has met his approval. It has also received the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and it has received the unanimous approval of the Committee on Public Lands.

The lands belong now, I will say in answer to the question of the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PERKINS], to the purchasers at the sales referred to.

Mr. PERKINS. So that the effect, if the Senator will permit the inquiry, is to ratify or confirm titles already existing.

Mr. WALTHALL. That is the whole purpose of the bill—simply to remove a technical defect in the titles.

Mr. DAWES. The Indians, as I understand the Senator, have no title to this land acquired by the United States from the Indians?

Mr. WALTHALL. None in the world. I will ask, in connection with the bill, that the report of the Committee on Public Lands may be printed in the RECORD, and also a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, which has been received since the report was prepared.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Mississippi asks that the report accompanying the bill and the communication to which he refers may be printed in the RECORD. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The papers referred to are as follows:

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Public Lands, submitted the following report (to accompany S. 2885):

The Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2885) to authorize the Legislature of the State of Mississippi to sell or lease the lands heretofore appropriated to the use of schools within the Chickasaw cession, and to ratify and approve the sales already made, having considered the same, report as follows:

The Legislature of Mississippi, at its last session, memorialized Congress for the passage of an act, in the form of this bill, ratifying the sale of school lands heretofore appropriated for the support of schools in the Chickasaw cession in said State, and authorizing the State hereafter to make disposal of such lands, without the consent of the inhabitants previously had and obtained, as required by an act of Congress passed May 19, 1852. The memorial is appended hereto.

In response to a request for an expression by the Commissioner of the General Land Office of his views upon the bill he made a report in which after setting out the bill in full, he says:

"In reference to the subject, I have to report that Congress, at an early period, in providing for the sale of public lands in Mississippi reserved the sections numbered 16 for school purposes, and by act of May 19, 1852 (10 Stat. 6), authorized the State to sell and convey in fee simple, or lease for a term of years, all or any part of the lands theretofore reserved for school purposes. It appears, however, that that act provided that the said lands should not be sold or leased without the consent of the inhabitants of the township or district of country for which they were originally reserved. Some of these lands were, by acts of Congress of July 4, 1836 (5 Stat., 116), and June 13, 1842 (5 Stat., 490), reserved for the use of schools within the territory ceded by the Chickasaws. In the preamble of said bill (2885) it is recited that as regards the lands reserved for schools in the said territory no evidence of such consent on the part of the inhabitants of the district of country comprised within the Chickasaw cession can now be found; that the school lands in question have been sold and the proceeds held by the State as a sacred trust for schools within the Chickasaw cession, with the acquiescence of the people interested.

"The passage of the bill is urged by a memorial from the Legislature of Mississippi, in which the same facts are stated that are recited in the preamble of the bill—(Congressional Record, April 12, 1892, page 3410).

"The provision in the act of 1852 that the consent of the inhabitants should be procured before the lands could be disposed of for the benefit of the school fund is unusual, no such provision being found in the laws making grants of lands for school purposes in the States generally to which such grants have been made.

"The object of the bill appears to be the quieting of titles to the lands reserved by said acts of 1836 and 1842, for the benefit of schools in the territory covered by the Chickasaw cession and sold by the State under the said act of 1852, and I see no reason why it should not become a law."

The act of May 19, 1852, referred to by the Commissioner, authorizing the State to sell the lands theretofore reserved for school purposes, also authorized the investment of the money arising from said sales "for the use and support of schools within the several townships and districts of country for which they were originally reserved and set apart, and for no other use or purpose whatsoever."

The interest upon the fund arising from the disposition of these lands is paid regularly and distributed among the counties entitled thereto for the support of schools therein. This is provided for in the constitution of the State. (Section 212.)

The titles of persons who bought these lands under authority of the Legislature at their full value and paid the purchase-money and made valuable improvements thereon are under clouds because the "consent of the inhabitants" required by the act of 1852 can not, after the lapse of so many years, be established, nor does there seem to have been any express legislation on that subject by the State.

The inhabitants whose consent was required to be had have raised no objection, so far as known, to the titles of the purchasers, if indeed they are in condition to do so, since they get the benefit of the fund distributed to their counties and districts.

In the present state of the law there seems no reason to apprehend any interference with the purchasers through the court, but they are embarrassed by the imperfection in their titles when they undertake to dispose of their lands, for which they have paid full value.

Your committee therefore recommends the passage of the bill.

A memorial of the Legislature of the State of Mississippi to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, on the subject of the lands heretofore appropriated for the support of schools within the Chickasaw cession, in said State.

Whereas Congress, by act of May 19, 1852 (10 Stat., 6), did authorize the Legislature of the State of Mississippi "to sell and convey in fee simple, or lease for a term of years," as the said Legislature might deem best, "all or any part of the" lands heretofore reserved and appropriated by Congress for the "use of schools within said State," "with the consent of the inhabitants of such township or district, to be obtained in such manner as the Legislature of said State may by law direct;" and

Whereas many sales of such lands have been made under authority of the Legislature of said State, at their full value, the purchase money paid, and valuable improvements made thereon; and

Whereas no evidence of such consent on the part of the inhabitants of the district of country comprised within the Chickasaw cession can now be found; and

Whereas said district of country comprises many counties and parts of counties, townships, and parts of townships, making it a matter of great difficulty to obtain the consent of the inhabitants thereof to any measure, and

Whereas the proceeds of such sales have always been held by the State as a sacred trust for the schools within the said Chickasaw cession, and are now so held; and the said schools have always received the full benefit of the interest thereon, and the people of said district of country, by so receiving and using said proceeds for many years without raising any question as to the entire validity of said sales of land have indicated their approval of the same:

This memorial of the Legislature of the State of Mississippi respectfully authority to administer oaths to witnesses and take testimony in Washington or elsewhere, according to its discretion, during the present session or the recess of Congress; to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer and an expert; the expenses of the investigation to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

By unanimous consent the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. GRAY. There are some of us who did not understand the resolution. I should like to have it stated again.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution will be again read.

The Secretary read the resolution.

Mr. GRAY. May I ask if that is reported from the Finance Committee?

Mr. JONES of Nevada. It is a resolution reported by the Finance Committee, the passage of which was recommended by that committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will state that the resolution was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, having first been reported by the Committee on Finance.

Mr. JONES of Nevada. And it is now reported from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, having previously been reported favorably by the Committee on Finance.

Mr. GRAY. I understand it now. It carries some expense with it.

Mr. JONES of Nevada. It simply provides for an expenditure from the contingent fund.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the adoption of the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will announce as the committee provided for by the resolution the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER], the Senator from Delaware [Mr. HARRIS], the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER], the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS], and the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON].

HEARINGS BEFORE COMMITTEE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Mr. JONES of Nevada, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the following resolution submitted by Mr. JONES of Arkansas, June 1, 1892, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Committee on Indian Affairs be authorized to employ a stenographer to report the hearings before said committee or a subcommittee thereof in regard to the Stockbridge and Munsee Indians, and that the compensation of said stenographer be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

STENOGRAPHER FOR APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE.

Mr. JONES of Nevada, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. ALISON May 27, 1892, reported it without amendment; and the resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Appropriations be, and is hereby, authorized to employ a stenographer from time to time as may be necessary to report such testimony as may be taken by said committee or its subcommittees in connection with appropriation bills, and to have the same printed for its use; and that such stenographer be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

HEARINGS BEFORE COMMITTEE ON TERRITORIES.

Mr. JONES of Nevada, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. PLATT April 13, 1892, reported it without amendment; and the resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the stenographer employed to report the hearing before the Committee on Territories in relation to the bill (S. 1962) to incorporate the Yellowstone Park Company be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

HEARINGS ON CHEROKEE AGREEMENT.

Mr. JONES of Nevada, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. PLATT April 19, 1892, reported it without amendment; and the resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Indian Affairs, or any subcommittee thereof, have power to employ a stenographer to report hearings in connection with Senate bill 2870, "to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Cherokee Nation of Indians of the Indian Territory, to make appropriation for carrying out the same, and for other purposes;" and upon the relations existing between the United States and the five civilized tribes of Indians. Said committee, or subcommittee, shall have power to send for persons and papers; and the expenses incurred by such hearings shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate, upon vouchers properly approved by the chairman of said committee.

INDIANS ON COLVILLE RESERVATION.

Mr. MANDERSON. I rise to a privileged question. I submit a conference report, which I ask may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will be read.

The Secretary read as follows:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. 7575) entitled "An act to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Indians residing on the Colville Reservation, in the State of Washington, with certain modifications, and make appropriations to carry into effect the same," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and to be amended to their respective Houses as follows:

The House agrees to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment, as follows: Insert after section 7, and as a part thereof as follows: "Which said sum shall be reimbursable from the proceeds of the lands when sold, as hereinafter provided;" and the Senate agrees to the same, and the House agrees to the Senate amendment of the title, so that it shall read as follows:

"An act to provide for the opening of a part of the Colville Reservation in the State of Washington, and for other purposes."

CHARLES F. MANDERSON,

WM. F. VILAS,

H. L. DAWES,

Conference on the part of the Senate.

JNO. L. WILSON,

H. H. ROCKWELL,

S. W. PEEL,

Conference on the part of the House.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on concurring in the report of the conference committee.

The report was concurred in.

INTERNATIONAL GEOLOGICAL CONGRESS.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report favorably, with amendments, a House concurrent resolution in relation to the International Geological Congress, and ask for its present consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution, as follows:

Resolved by the House of Representatives, (H. Res. 100, 1892), That there be printed by the Government Printing Office, 3,000 copies of the proceedings and transactions of the International Geological Congress, held in Washington, D. C., August 25 to September 2, 1891, and that they be delivered to the officers of the said congress for the use of its members. The printing to be done on the requisition and with the approval of the Secretary of State.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to hear what are the amendments proposed by the committee.

Mr. MANDERSON. I will suggest the necessary amendments, which propose to add to the 3,000 copies to be printed 900 more, 300 of which shall be for the Senate and 600 for the House of Representatives. It was thought by the committee that there should be a few of these for distribution by members of Congress, or at least for their own use.

Mr. COCKRELL. That will do.

Mr. MANDERSON. In line 1 of the resolution after the word "thousand," I move to insert "900" so as to make the number of copies 3,900; in line 7, after the date "1891," I move to insert "of which number 600 shall be for the House of Representatives and 300 for the Senate;" and in line 8, after the word "and," to strike out "that they," and insert in lieu thereof "3,000 copies shall;" so as to read "3,000 copies shall be delivered to the officers of the said Congress for the use of its members."

The amendments were agreed to.

The resolution as amended was concurred in.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report adversely a Senate concurrent resolution of like import with the one just adopted, which I ask may be indefinitely postponed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution referred to, being adversely reported, will be indefinitely postponed in the absence of objection.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. PLATT. I now renew my motion that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After five minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and (at 3 o'clock and 55 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until Monday, June 6, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

CONCILIATIONS.

Executive nominations confirmed by the Senate, June 2, 1892.

SECRETARY OF ARIZONA.

Nathan A. Morford, of Phoenix, Ariz., to be secretary of Arizona.

PROMOTIONS IN THE ARMY.

Quartermaster Department.

First Lieut. Oscar P. Long, Fifth Infantry, to be assistant quartermaster, with the rank of captain.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, June 2, 1892.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

SENATE BILLS REFERRED.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House several Senate bills. The titles of these bills having been already printed in the RECORD, if there be no objection they will be referred without again reading the titles.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

The bills are as follows:

A joint resolution (S. R. 83) authorizing and directing the President to proclaim a general holiday commemorating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America on the 12th day of October, 1492—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a joint resolution (H. Res. 121) relating to the Memorial Association of the District of Columbia with amendments to the Senate thereto.

Mr. LANHAM. Mr. Speaker, in the absence of the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. HEMPHILL] I ask unanimous consent that that bill be retained on the Speaker's table for the present.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

AMERICAN REGISTER FOR STEAMER FOXHALL.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (S. 153) to provide American registers for the steamers Foxhall and S. Oteri, of New Orleans, La.

Mr. MEYER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of this Senate bill.

The SPEAKER. The bill will be read, after which the Chair will ask if there be objection.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc. That the Commissioner of Navigation is hereby authorized and directed to cause the foreign-built steamer Foxhall, of New Orleans, La., purchased and owned by Lawrence C. Fallon, an American citizen, and repaired by him, to be registered as a vessel of the United States.

SEC. 2. That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and hereby is, authorized and directed to authorize and direct the inspection of said steam vessel, steam boilers, steam pipes, and the appurtenances of said boilers, and cause to be granted the proper and usual certificates issued to steam vessels of the merchant marine, without reference to the fact that said steam boilers, steam pipes, and appurtenances were not constructed pursuant to the laws of the United States and were not constructed of iron stamped pursuant to said laws, and the test to be applied to the inspection of said boilers, steam pipes, and appurtenances will be the same in all respects as to strength and safety as are required in the inspection of boilers constructed in the United States for marine purposes, save the fact that said boilers, steam pipes, and appurtenances not being constructed pursuant to the requirements of the laws of the United States, and are of unstamped iron, shall not be an obstacle to the granting of the usual certificate if said boilers, steam pipes, and appurtenances are found to be of sufficient strength and safety.

Amend the title so as to read: "A bill to provide an American register for the steamer Foxhall, of New Orleans, La."

Mr. LOUD. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object I be taken up in his absence, because I said sufficient to him to make him believe that it would not be.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. I have no doubt he will be here to-night or to-morrow.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. And I notified the gentleman from Vermont [Mr. GROUT] this morning that the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. HEMPHILL] thought he probably would take the whole day for the consideration of District business, and that I probably would not take up this bill this afternoon. It is now half past 3 o'clock, and I do not desire to lose the whole afternoon.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. My friend from Kentucky knows that the gentleman who is to be the conferee is the one who has paid special attention to the details of the bill, and that is the situation in regard to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. COGSWELL].

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. If the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. COGSWELL] was here this afternoon I would not be willing to continue it any longer.

Mr. HEARD. You might let the bill be read.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. Can we agree upon this: That the first reading of the bill should be dispensed with, and that we go along with it under the five-minute rule with the understanding that whenever the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. COGSWELL] comes, if he has any amendments he desires to offer, he shall have the privilege of returning to that particular part of the bill and offer his amendments?

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. The gentleman from Vermont is not here, and is not aware that it is to be taken up, and I do not know but what each of these gentlemen may desire to make some observations by way of general debate on this bill. I would prefer that it should go over until to-morrow.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. I propose, then, Mr. Chairman, that the first reading of the bill should be dispensed with.

Mr. DINGLEY. There is no objection to that.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. That is all right.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Kentucky asks that the first reading of the bill be dispensed with. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

Mr. BRYAN. Mr. Chairman, I wish to ask the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. BRECKINRIDGE] whether it is intended by this to antagonize the tariff bill to-morrow?

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. I will say to the gentleman from Nebraska what I have already said to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. SHIVELY] in charge of the tariff bill, that I am willing that that question shall be determined by the Speaker of the House. I stated to the gentleman that whatever the Speaker desired to have done about that matter I would conform to.

Mr. BRYAN. Mr. Chairman, I see that Mr. SHIVELY is present, and can speak for himself.

Mr. SHIVELY. Mr. Chairman, it was my purpose to call up the tariff bill to-morrow; and while I wish to accommodate the gentlemen of the Appropriations Committee, I can hardly see my way clear to yielding them the floor to-morrow. How much time does the gentleman from Kentucky expect to occupy with this appropriation bill?

Mr. HEARD. Every member of the House is interested in getting rid of these appropriation bills.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. Mr. Chairman, in answer to the inquiry of the gentleman from Indiana as to how much time will be required for the consideration of the fortification appropriation bill, I will say that I see no reason why it should not be considered and disposed of in two or three hours. It is a short bill; there is nothing in it that requires any extended discussion. So far as I am concerned in the management of the bill I shall do all that I can to prevent it from being made a text for general political discussions, and I do not anticipate that the gentlemen of the minority will desire to use it for that purpose, because in the preparation of the bill such considerations have been carefully excluded and there has been no indications of any such discussion in the subcommittee.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. Mr. Chairman, I will simply say this. I was confined to my house when this bill was considered by the full committee, so it is the only appropriation bill that I have no knowledge of from the general discussions in the full committee, and for that reason I am the more anxious that the rule which has usually obtained at times when national conventions have been held shall prevail. There is usually a tacit understanding at such times that bills shall not be brought up in the absence of the gentlemen having special charge of them. I know that Gen. COGSWELL feels a great interest in this bill, and desires to be present when it is considered, and I certainly am not aware of any disposition on our side to bring into consideration of this bill the discussion of any extraneous matters. I have had no intimation of any such purpose.

Mr. DINGLEY. I certainly have had no intimation of anything of the kind.

Mr. SHIVELY. How soon does the gentleman from Kentucky think he can get through with this bill?

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. I think we ought to dispose of it by 2 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. SHIVELY. Do I understand the gentlemen of the minority to say that the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. COGSWELL] will be here to-morrow?

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. I think he will be here to-morrow.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. I notified the gentleman from Vermont [Mr. GROUT], his colleague on the committee, that in any case I would insist upon taking up this bill to-morrow.

Mr. DINGLEY. As one member of the minority I will say that if the gentleman from Vermont [Mr. GROUT] is present to-morrow we will ask for no further delay in the consideration of this bill.

Mr. SHIVELY. Mr. Speaker, in view of the disposition manifested here to expedite the consideration of this appropriation bill so as to dispose of it in two or three hours, I will not object to the arrangement suggested.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the first reading of the bill be dispensed with. There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. Mr. Chairman, I give notice that immediately after the reading of the Journal to-morrow I shall call for the regular order, so that there may be no delay in proceeding with the consideration of this bill. I now move that the committee rise.

The motion was agreed to.

The committee accordingly rose; and the Speaker having resumed the Chair, Mr. MCCREARY, from the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that they had had under consideration a bill (H. R. 8533), the fortifications appropriation bill, and had come to no resolution thereon.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted, as follows: To Mr. BOATNER, for ten days, on account of important business.

To Mr. PEARSON, for three days, on account of important business.

To Mr. STORER, for ten days, on account of sickness.

To Mr. OATES, for Tuesday, the 14th instant.

To Mr. FITHIAN, for ten days, on account of important business.

CRUELTY TO CHILDREN AND ANIMALS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I call up the bill (S. 1714) to prevent cruelty to children or animals in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the police court of the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction in all cases arising under the act of February 13, 1885, entitled "An act for the protection of children in the District of Columbia and for other purposes," subject to appeal to the supreme court of the District, according to the provisions of section 1 of chapter 536, 26 Statutes at Large, entitled "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia;" and the same witness fees shall be allowed in the prosecution of all cases of cruelty to children or animals in the District of Columbia as are allowed in other cases by section 818 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; but no officer or member of the Humane Society shall be entitled to any fee as a witness in any such case.

SEC. 2. That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized, in their discretion, to detail from time to time one or more members of the metropolitan police force to aid the Washington Humane Society in the enforcement of laws relating to cruelty to animals as well as of the laws relating to cruelty to children.

SEC. 3. That section 12 of the act of August 23, 1871, entitled "An act for the prevention of cruelty to animals in the District of Columbia," is amended to read as follows: "That in this act the words 'animals' or 'animal' shall be held to include all living and sentient creatures (human beings excepted), and the words 'owner,' 'persons,' and 'whoever' shall be held to include corporations and incorporated companies as well as individuals."

SEC. 4. That a person being the owner or possessor or having charge or custody of a maimed, diseased, disabled, or infirm animal who abandons such animal, or leaves it to lie in the street, or road, or public place more than three hours after he receives notice that it is left disabled, is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $250, or by imprisonment in jail not more than one year, or both. Any agent or officer of the Washington Humane Society may lawfully destroy, or cause to be destroyed, any animal found abandoned and not properly cared for, appearing, in the judgment of two reputable citizens called by him to view the same in his presence, to be glandered, injured, or diseased past recovery for any useful purpose. When any person arrested is at the time of such arrest in charge of any animal or of any vehicle drawn by any animal or containing any animal, any agent of said society may take charge of such animal and such vehicle and its contents and deposit the same in a place of safe custody or deliver the same into the possession of the police authorities, who shall assume the custody thereof, and all necessary expenses incurred in taking charge of such property shall be a lien thereon.

SEC. 5. That whoever cuts the solid part of the tail of any horse in the operation known as docking, and whoever shall cause the same to be done or assist in doing such cutting (unless the same is proved to be of benefit to the horse), shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by imprisonment in the jail not exceeding one year or fine of not less than $100 nor more than $250.

Sec. 6. That any person who sets on foot, instigates, promotes, carries on, or does any act, as assistant, umpire, or principal, or attends or in any way engages in the furtherance any fight between cocks, fowls, or other birds, or dogs, bulls, bears, or other animals, premeditated by any persons owning or having custody of such birds or animals, is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than $50 or by imprisonment in jail not more than one year, or both.

The bill was ordered to a third reading: and was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HEMPILL moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed; and also moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

Mr. HEMPILL. Mr. Speaker, I have no further bills to present to the House to-day.

Mr. KILGORE. Mr. Speaker, I demand the regular order.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is the call of committees under the second morning hour. The call rests with the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. McRAE. The Committee on Public Lands was passed without prejudice, and I ask that that committee be now called.

INTERNATIONAL GEOLOGICAL CONGRESS.

Mr. RICHARDSON. I ask the gentleman from Arkansas to yield to me for a moment. I wish the House to concur in a Senate amendment in regard to a matter of printing which will not occupy more than a moment.

Mr. McRAE. I will yield if it does not take any time.

Mr. RICHARDSON. If it does I will withdraw it.

Mr. Speaker, a few days ago the House passed a concurrent resolution to print the proceedings of the International Geological Congress. That resolution went to the Senate, where it was amended so as to provide for 900 additional copies, 600 for the use of the House and 300 for the use of the Senate. I ask that the amendment of the Senate be concurred in.

There being no objection, the House proceeded to the consideration of the concurrent resolution to print proceedings of the International Geological Congress of 1892.

The amendments of the Senate were read as follows:

In line 4, after "thousand," insert "900."

In line 7, after "1891," insert "of which number 600 shall be for the use of the House of Representatives, and 300 for the Senate."

In line 8, strike out "that they" and insert "3,000 copies shall."

The amendments were concurred in.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is the call of the committees in what is known as the second morning hour. The call rests with the Committee on Military Affairs, but the gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. McRAE] asks that the Committee on Public Lands, which was passed without prejudice, be now called.

There was no objection.

REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS IN WASHINGTON.

Mr. McRAE. I call up the bill (H. R. 493) to amend section 2238 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relating to fees of registers and receivers.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That paragraph 12 of section 2238 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be, and the same is hereby, amended by striking out the word "Washington."

Mr. McRAE. Mr. Speaker, I scarcely need say anything in reference to this measure. It provides for a reduction of the fees at the land offices in the State of Washington. The land officers there are now entitled to double fees; this bill seeks to reduce the fees to the same standard as in other States.

Mr. TAYLOR of Illinois. If there is a report I would like to hear it read.

The SPEAKER. It can be read in the time of the gentleman from Illinois.

The report (by Mr. CLARK of Wyoming) was read, as follows:

The Committee on the Public Lands, having had under consideration the bill (H. R. 493) to amend the laws relating to the fees of registers and receivers, report as follows:

Under the twelfth paragraph of section 2238 of the Revised Statutes of the United States it is provided that in land offices in certain Territories, including the present State of Washington, the fees of registers and receivers shall be 50 per cent higher than the general schedule. At the time of the enactment of said section making this distinction there was a necessity for the higher rate in the localities named, but the business of these offices in the State of Washington has so largely increased that this necessity no longer exists, and your committee recommend the passage of this bill, which simply strikes out the word "Washington."

The bill was ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. McRAE, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

PUBLIC RESERVATION, HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

Mr. McRAE. I call up the bill (S. 2597) to include lot No. 53, in block 89, at Hot Springs, Ark., in the public reservation at that place.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That lot No. 53, in block 89, of the town of Hot Springs, in the State of Arkansas, as surveyed and laid out according to an act of Congress approved March 3, 1877, under the direction and supervision of the Hot Springs commission, be, and the same is hereby, reserved from sale, and the same is hereby declared to be a part of the permanent public reservation at Hot Springs, and that it shall be subject to the same laws, rules, and regulations that apply to said permanent reservation as now defined.

Mr. PAYNE. I ask for the reading of the report.

The report (by Mr. McRAE) was read, as follows:

The Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2597) to include lot No. 53, in block 89, at Hot Springs, Ark., in the public reservation at that place, have had the same under consideration, and report the same back with the recommendation that it pass, and that bill H. R. 7314 be laid on the table.

Mr. PAYNE. That report scarcely gives the information we desire. Perhaps the chairman of the committee [Mr. McRAE] will give us some explanation on this subject.

Mr. McRAE. My colleague, Mr. TERRY, will explain the matter.

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Speaker, this bill was introduced in the Senate by one of the Senators from Arkansas. Its object is that a certain lot be included in the permanent reservation at Hot Springs, instead of being left subject to sale. The lot being situated on the side of the mountain, and rather inaccessible for building purposes, it is supposed it would be of more value to the public reservation than it could possibly be for purposes of sale. It will bring almost nothing if sold as compared with its value to the permanent reservation.

Mr. PAYNE. Does it adjoin the public reservation?

Mr. TERRY. It does, as I understand.

The bill was ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. McRAE, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. PLATT, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had passed the bill (S. 317) granting an increase of pension to John M. Roberts; in which concurrence of the House was requested.

ENTRIES OF BUILDING-STONE LANDS.

Mr. McRAE. I call up the bill (S. 1273) to authorize the entry of lands chiefly valuable for building stone under the placer mining laws.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That any person authorized to enter lands under the mining laws of the United States may enter lands that are chiefly valuable for building stone under the provisions of the law in relation to placer mineral claims. Provided, That lands reserved for the benefit of the public schools or donated to any State shall not be subject to entry under this act; Provided further, That this act shall not be construed to repeal or in any way modify or affect the act of June 3, 1878, in relation to the sale of timber and stone lands in the States of California, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington.

The amendments reported by the committee were read, as follows:

At the end of the bill strike out the following: "Provided further, That this act shall not be construed to repeal or in any way modify or affect the act of June 3, 1878, in relation to the sale of timber and stone lands in the States of California, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington."

Add the following as new sections:

Sec. 2. That an act entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," approved June 3, 1878, be, and the same is hereby, amended by striking out the words "States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," where the same occur in the second and third lines of said act, and insert in lieu thereof the words "public-land States," the purpose of this act being to make said act of June 3, 1878, applicable to all the public-land States.

Sec. 3. That nothing in this act shall be construed to repeal section 24 of the act entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1881.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. McRAE, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

Mr. McRAE. Would it be in order, Mr. Speaker, at this time to ask a conference with the Senate on that bill?

The SPEAKER. It would not, except by unanimous consent. There is no disagreement as yet between the two Houses.

Mr. McRAE. I ask that the bill H. R. 6656, which is on the same subject, may be ordered to lie on the table.

The SPEAKER. That order will be made in the absence of objection.

SETTLEMENT RIGHTS ON AGRICULTURAL LANDS.

Mr. McRAE. I call up the bill (H. R. 7028) to protect settle-bill, is in harmony with the natural laws and institutions which surround and should govern us. I happen to be one of those peculiar individuals who believe in the everlasting efficacy of the laws of nature. I believe the nearer we approach to and obey those laws, whether in our capacity as individuals or in our collective capacity as a nation, the nearer we will be right.

Why do I say this? Simply because I know that nature has made fewer mistakes than men. Nature has committed fewer blunders than political parties, and when it comes to a contest between a well-ascertained law of nature and a resolution in a political platform, I unhesitatingly endorse the one and condemn the other. [Applause.]

Now, let us pursue this line of argument one or two steps further. Look at this world in which we are living with its vast oceans and continents, not separated by impassable barriers, but each united with all the others.

Behold your valleys and rivers, your forests and plains, your mountains stored full of a thousand useful minerals, with a capacity of the soil to produce in endless variety and wonderful profusion all the grasses and fibers, fruits, and grains essential to man's well-being, with climatic conditions admirably suited to every locality. These things indicate to me, nay, not merely indicate, but overwhelmingly prove, that this earth upon which we live is not an accident, but has been prepared especially for man's habitation. We find that man has been endowed not only with the social instincts and moral perceptions which enable him to utilize and enjoy the companionship of his fellows, but in addition to these primary qualities he has been further equipped with the mental capacity to analyze and determine the various conditions which constitute his environment.

This being undeniably true, I hold it to be man's supreme duty to always work in harmony with and never in antagonism to those natural laws by virtue of which our existence as social beings is rendered possible and enjoyable. Let me pursue this line of thought one more step. During the geological eras—that is, during the periods of the world's natural history, when order was being evolved out of chaos, when the oceans and continents were separated and each assigned to its permanent resting place, when the soils were being ground up and deposited, when climatic conditions were being fixed, in short, when this earth was generally taking on its present shape, we find that all countries were not made alike. No particular country or section was so arranged as to be able to become entirely independent of every other.

Without intending to be the least irreverent, I want to say that when this earth was created the creator thereof did not have the Republican platform to guide him or he would have made it altogether different. [Applause.] He should so have arranged it (with the guidance of the platform) that every country, whether large or small, could be perfectly independent, self-sustaining, and thus would we all have become rich. But we find the world modeled upon a different plan. A dependency one upon the other, and an interdependency existing among all, is the plan that was adopted. We find, for instance, that countries like the greater part of Russia, a large part of Canada, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the Dakotas have received a soil and a climate admirably suited for the raising of wheat, and a large surplus of this valuable cereal is the result of these natural conditions.

When we go south of this wheat belt into Kansas, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, we find the soil and climate exactly suited to the raising of those grasses and grains which enable us to make cheap meat. A surplus of meat products is here the result of natural conditions. But while we have meat in abundance and to the north of us they have wheat in superabundance, neither locality is able to raise a pound of cotton, except under highly artificial conditions, which from an economic standpoint would be out of the question. To the south of us, however, the people are enabled, primarily because of soil and climate, to raise a large part of the world's supply of cotton.

Still further south the people, because of natural conditions, are enabled to raise rice, sugar cane, and all the semitropical fruits. Then when we leave the confines of our own country and look across thousands of miles of an expanse of ocean into the Flowery Kingdom, we find that the people of China, because of natural conditions, are enabled to enrich the world's commerce with their tea and silks and other remarkable productions.

When you go to Brazil the same holds true of coffee, while still other parts of the earth yield up to the world's commerce their spices, their fruits, their oils, their woods, and their drugs, which can grow and mature only under the fierce rays of a tropical sun. Now, when you have thus looked around about you and have taken a hasty and a very incomplete inventory of all these natural blessings, and when you discern in the physical configuration of the globe how the oceans and the rivers are so arranged as to permit an easy exchange of all these various products and commodities, these natural blessings, between different and distant countries; then when, last of all, you take into consideration man's appetites, their wants and their necessities, wherever they may be located, whether south or north, or in intermediate regions—when you have done all that, then let me tell you that for the philosophical mind, for the mind that is free from party prejudice, for the mind that is determined to seek after the truth and willing to embrace it when discovered—for such a mind there is but one conclusion to reach, and that is that when God Almighty created this earth he created it in such a way and fashioned it in such a shape, and he made man's conditions such as not only to permit but actually to compel men and nations to trade with one another. [Applause.]

Why, when you look round about you and behold how everything has been arranged upon so magnificent a scale, how admirably all these conditions have been adjusted—to say nothing at all of revealed religion, with which I am not dealing—these things to which I have called attention are enough to fill every mind with unqualified admiration for the Creator, to fill every heart with thankfulness and praise, and to overwhelm every soul with all the sentiments of an eternal love and a never-dying gratitude. [Applause.] Now, I believe that civilized man the world over has now reached that point in the development of a superior civilization when the commercial policy of every country should be adjusted in harmony with and not in antagonism to the natural law. [Applause.] A law which, if obeyed, will make of every ocean an open public highway, and of every river an unobstructed thoroughfare, and eventually link together in a common bond all the nations of the earth and in an indestructible brotherhood all the races of men.

But the commercial policy fastened upon our country by the Republican party makes fierce war upon all these noble ideas and lofty principles, it seeks to tear down all these natural conditions and institutions, and to ignore all these natural laws, and to set up in their place a creed and a code pitifully narrow and contemptibly selfish [applause], a code and a creed which carried to its logical conclusion would build around about us a wall through which no man could go and over which no being could leap.

The clock admonishes me that my time has long since been exhausted, and were I not encouraged by the excellent attention with which I am honored I should certainly stop. [Cries of "Go on!" "Go on!"] When you and I as Democrats advocate a free trade, a freer commerce, are we advocating that which in principle is wrong and in effect injurious? What is commerce? Is it not true that it has always been in all ages of the world's history the most powerful of all our civilizing agencies? Has it not been the most conspicuous factor in the transformation of barbarian hordes into civilized communities and states?

Commerce has always been the forerunner and must forever continue to be the handmaid of Christianity. Commerce will penetrate and dispel the darkness of heathen lands, and diffuse in its stead the exhilarating sunshine of peace, progress, and prosperity. Commerce will distribute the surplus, the superabundance of our country among the needy, the destitute of other lands, thus avoiding want and preventing famine. Commerce will pick up the waste materials, the refuse products of sections that are highly favored, transform these into articles of value and wealth by transporting them to other sections which are less favored. Between men of distant climes and widely separated regions commerce equalizes the bounty and blessings of nature, tears down man's prejudice, builds up his manhood, teaches him that every other man is his brother, thus emphasizing that eternal truth that God hath made of one blood all the nations. [Applause.] Is there a man among you all who would cast a vote or raise his voice against a blessing so gloriously rich, against a beneficence so nearly universal?

Think of it! Commerce ascending and descending every river, traversing every valley and plain, reaching to the very heart of every desert, braving the storms, riding the mad waves and plowing the deep waters of every ocean, among the simooms of the far south, amidst the waterspouts of the equator, even upon the perpetual ice fields in the far, far north, upon all the water, upon every land, this never-tiring, ever-busy agent is at work furnishing your necessities, supplying your wants, augmenting your knowledge, and increasing your wealth. [Applause.] Remember that the expansion, the extension of commerce and man's civilization have always gone hand in hand.

If you promote the one, you encourage the other. If you injure the one, you necessarily retard the other. Annihilate commerce, and let me tell you, the clock of time would reverse its life; your decay and degeneration would be marked more rapidly than was ever your growth and your progress. We should always remember that from his primeval condition of barbarism to his present state of civilization man has advanced with slow and hesitating steps. He long abused his faculties by mistrusting his neighbers and having his brethren who happened to inhabit a foreign land. Thus man succeeded throughout ages in maintaining his isolation, his exclusiveness, and also his feebleness.

Man has grown strong and capable just in the proportion that he has torn down and leaped over his primitive environments, and nothing in all this wide world has been of such valuable service to man in these his transitory stages from barbarism to civilized life as commercial intercourse with his fellow-man and brother. [Applause.] When, then, you, my Democratic friends, cast your votes for a freer commerce, for freer trade, you have the satisfaction of knowing that you are working in harmony with nature's laws; and I am happy to be able to state in conclusion that your action upon this question is also in harmony with the spirit of the times. [Prolonged applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. SHIVELY. I move that the committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

The committee accordingly rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. BLOUNT, chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that the committee had had under consideration the bill H. R. 8033, and had come to no resolution thereon.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. McMILLIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The SPEAKER. Pending that motion, the Chair will lay before the House some personal requests of members.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows: To Mr. CAUSEY, for ten days, on account of important business.

To Mr. TRACEY, for ten days, on account of important business.

To Mr. AMERMAN, indefinitely, on account of important business.

To Mr. RUSK, for ten days, on account of important business.

To Mr. COMPTON, for ten days, on account of important business.

To Mr. BACON, indefinitely, on account of important business.

To Mr. COWLES, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

To Mr. WIKE, for two weeks from Friday, June 17, 1892, on account of important business.

To Mr. PAGE of Rhode Island, for ten days from June 17, on account of important business.

To Mr. FELLOWS, for two weeks, on account of important business.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Mr. FITCH. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for a change of reference of the bill which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1594) for the relief of David Dealy and Moses Younklin.

The SPEAKER. The Committee on Private Land Claims asks to be discharged from the further consideration of this bill, and that it be referred to the Committee on Public Lands. Without objection that order will be made.

There was no objection.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The following reports of committees were handed in at the Clerk's desk, referred to their appropriate Calendars, and otherwise disposed of, as indicated below:

PATENTS FOR LANDS.

Mr. LYNCH, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported back, in the nature of a substitute for House bill 6076, the bill (S. 2049) authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to carry into effect certain recommendations of the Mission Indian Commission and to issue patents for certain lands; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

House bill 6076 was laid on the table.

ENCOURAGEMENT TO AMERICAN SHIPBUILDING.

Mr. FOWLER, from the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, reported back favorably the bill (H. R. 8818) to encourage American shipbuilding; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

DEDICATION OF STATUE TO THE MARQUIS DE LAFAYETTE.

Mr. CUMMINGS, from the Committee on the Library, reported back favorably the bill (H. R. 7721) to provide for the dedication of the statue to the Marquis de Lafayette; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

SPECIMENS OF ARMS, ETC., FOR GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

Mr. NEWBERRY, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported back favorably the bill (S. 898) to furnish the Gettysburg Memorial Association, at Gettysburg, Pa., with specimens of arms, accoutrements, etc., used by the armies in the battle of Gettysburg, for exhibition and preservation at the Gettysburg Museum; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

MILITARY POST AT FORT WAYNE, MICH.

Mr. NEWBERRY, also from the same committee, reported back favorably the bill (S. 985) to provide for the enlargement of the military post at Fort Wayne, Mich.; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE ST. LAWRENCE RIVER.

Mr. GEARY, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, reported back favorably the bill (H. R. 9065) for the construction and maintenance of a bridge across the St. Lawrence River; which was read a first and second time, referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

EULOGIES ON HON. EPHRAIM K. WILSON.

Mr. PAGE of Maryland. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the order heretofore made setting apart the 18th instant as the day on which eulogies should be pronounced on the late Senator Wilson of Maryland be vacated and that the 25th be substituted therefor.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Maryland asks unanimous consent that the order heretofore made assigning the afternoon of the 18th instant for the purpose of delivering eulogies on the late Senator Wilson of Maryland, be postponed until the same hour on the 25th instant. Without objection that order will be made.

There was no objection.

The motion of Mr. McMILLIN was then agreed to; and accordingly (at 5 o'clock and 16 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII, private bills and resolutions were severally reported from committees, delivered to the Clerk, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House, as follows:

A bill (H. R. 2808) granting a pension to Sarah L. Pangborn, widow of Asa Tobias. (Report No. 1645.)

A bill (H. R. 2809) granting a pension to Electa Ann Stewart. (Report No. 1646.)

BILLS, MEMORIALS, AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. DAVIS: A bill (H. R. 9221) to protect the lawful moneys of the United States against discriminations by contracts—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. JOHNSON of Ohio: A bill (H. R. 9222) providing for the election of Representatives by proportional representation—to the Select Committee on Election of President and Vice-President and Representatives in Congress.

By Mr. CULBERSON: A bill (H. R. 9223) for the continuance of the publication of the Revised Statutes—to the Committee on Revision of the Laws.

Donovan, reported it with amendments and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PADDOCK, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3098) to amend an act entitled "An act for the relief of W. H. Tibbits," approved August 8, 1888, submitted a favorable report.

Mr. HANSBROUGH from the Committee on the District of Columbia, submitted a report to accompany the bill (S. 2845) regulating the sale of distilled and fermented liquors in the District of Columbia, heretofore reported by him.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE, from the Committee on Fisheries, to whom was referred the amendment submitted by Mr. MORRILL on the 7th instant, intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill concerning the fish cultural station in Vermont, reported it favorably and moved its reference to the Committee on Appropriations; which was agreed to.

Mr. SAWYER from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, to whom was referred an amendment submitted by Mr. CAREY June 15, to the sundry civil appropriation bill, reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon; and moved its reference to the Committee on Appropriations and that it be printed; which was agreed to.

OHIO RIVER BRIDGE.

Mr. WASHBURN. From the Committee on Commerce I report back the bill (H. R. 8861) for the relief of the Kentucky and Indiana Bridge Company, and I ask unanimous consent that the Senate consider it at the present time. I will state that a bill precisely the same was reported from the committee by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST], and I now desire to substitute this bill for the one first reported.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the House bill?

Mr. COCKRELL. Does the Senator say that there is a Senate bill like it?

Mr. WASHBURN. It is identical.

Mr. COCKRELL. What is its number on the Calendar?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. No. 806.

Mr. HARRIS. Let the bill be read for information.

The Secretary read House bill 8861, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Kentucky and Indiana Bridge Company, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, be, and it hereby is, authorized to occupy and acquire title to so much of the land of the Louisville and Portland Canal, the property of the United States, as is now occupied by the south abutment of the said Kentucky and Indiana bridge and the contiguous trestles in the approach thereto, on the payment to the United States by the said bridge company of the fair value of such specified tract, to be determined by a agreement between the said Kentucky and Indiana Bridge Company and the Secretary of War.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill (S. 3225) for the relief of the Kentucky and Indiana Bridge Company will be indefinitely postponed, if there be no objection. It is indefinitely postponed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 3276) granting a pension to Mrs. Zipporah Eells Gooch; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3277) granting a pension to Rebecca E. Kutz; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. FRYE introduced a bill (S. 3278) granting a pension to Peter Dalot; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE introduced a bill (S. 3279) for the relief of R. Connable & Sons; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HANSBROUGH introduced a bill (S. 3281) to amend section 7 of "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1891; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. WASHBURN (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3282) to authorize the construction of a bridge over the St. Louis River between the States of Wisconsin and Minnesota; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3283) providing that no electric-light or telephone company shall maintain overhead wires in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. GEORGE introduced a bill (S. 3284) for the relief of the heirs of Abel Walker, deceased; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

SALMON FISHERIES OF ALASKA.

Mr. PLATT introduced a bill (S. 3280) to provide for the enforcement of the provisions of the act of Congress for the protection of the salmon fisheries of Alaska, approved March 2, 1889; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. PLATT. I present a communication from the Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, which I move be referred, with the bill, to the Committee on Fisheries.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. PLATT. I should like at this time and in this connection to submit an amendment to be referred to the Committee on Fisheries, and I should like to say a few words in relation to the proposed amendment.

It is an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill proposing to appoint a special agent of the Treasury Department with power to enforce the present laws relating to the protection of the salmon fisheries of Alaska, and appropriating $8,000 for that purpose. I ask that it be referred to the Committee on Fisheries in order that they may report it favorably for reference to the Committee on Appropriations, and I desire to say one word with regard to the importance of this amendment.

The salmon fisheries of Alaska are very much more important than the seal fisheries of Alaska. The business last year produced about 700,000 cases of canned salmon, about 32,000,000 pounds, of a value of between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000 of the product. There is actually nothing being done to preserve the salmon fisheries of Alaska, and in five years' time they will be practically destroyed. The salmon requires about four years after it is hatched to grow sufficiently to return to the stream where it is hatched. As they return, every salmon that returns to the stream is now being caught out.

Mr. COCKRELL. Do the smaller and younger ones return with the older ones?

Mr. PLATT. The salmon does not return to the stream to spawn until four or five years.

Mr. COCKRELL. But when it does return do the younger ones go with it?

Mr. PLATT. No; but those that are old enough to spawn return to the streams, and they are the ones that are caught for canning purposes. Barriades and dams have been erected on the streams, so that it is utterly impossible for the salmon to reach the headwaters of the stream where it is necessary for them to deposit their spawn. I think it safe to say that in five years' time, as the business is now conducted, there will not be salmon enough left in Alaska to make the business at all profitable. In other words, it will be practically destroyed.

While the Government is expending any amount of money to protect the seal fisheries, it does nothing to protect the salmon fisheries. There is a law for the prevention of barriades and the punishment of persons who erect barriades, and the collector of the port of Sitka has had instructions to enforce these laws, but there is no appropriation for it. I ask in this amendment that a special Treasury agent may be appointed with enough to pay his per diem and his expenses to enforce what laws we have.

I shall in due time, I hope, propose some additional law for the regulation and protection and preservation of the salmon fisheries of Alaska.

Mr. DOLPH. I desire to supplement what was said by the Senator from Connecticut with a single word. It is true that the salmon fisheries of Alaska are more valuable than the seal fisheries, and they are in imminent danger of being destroyed. I saw last year with my own eyes dams built across and nets stretched across the small inlets and fresh-water streams up which the salmon were accustomed to go, which entirely prevented them from reaching their spawning ground; and I saw thousands upon thousands of salmon that had been taken by nets and other appliances and were not canned, but thrown back, dead, floating upon the waters of the various inlets in Alaska. It is very important that something should be done to protect the salmon.

Mr. ALLEN. The Senator from Connecticut has not overstated the seriousness of this matter. Anyone who has observed the destructive system of salmon fishing in the last few years along the Columbia River knows that that valuable fish is destined to early extinction unless something is done to prevent the wanton waste and destruction that characterize the present system of fishing. Already on the tributary streams of the Columbia River where salmon were abundant years ago they have almost disappeared. Even with such police regulations as the States have been able to enforce thus far, a very serious destruction is going on with the salmon fisheries there. If the same wanton course is pursued in Alaska, which I am convinced is the case and in a much more aggravated degree, it will soon be too late to afford relief. It seems to me that action can not be taken any too soon on this important matter.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The proposed amendment will be printed, and referred to the Committee on Fisheries.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE, from the Committee on Fisheries, subsequently reported the amendment favorably, and it was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. MANDERSON submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill: which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MITCHELL submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the deficiency appropriation bill: which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill: which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

Mr. HUNTON. I ask for the adoption of the following order: ordered, That Mrs. Kate L. Roy have leave to withdraw her papers from the files of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The order will be granted, if there be no objection.

Mr. HARRIS. Subject to the condition imposed by the rule. The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Subject to the rule.

GEORGE W. WHITE.

Mr. PEPPER. Would it be in order to call up a bill on the Calendar?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It would be, subject to the unanimous consent of the Senate.

Mr. PEPPER. I ask unanimous consent to call up a bill which I am satisfied will elicit no discussion and can be passed very readily. It is the bill (H. R. 3767) granting an increase of pension to George W. White.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read at length.

The Secretary read the bill; and, there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of George W. White, late a member of Company B, Gray's battalion, Arkansas Volunteers, in the Mexican war, and to pay him a pension at the rate of $20 per month in lieu of the pension he is now receiving.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there is no further morning business the Calendar under Rule VIII is in order.

Mr. MORRILL. Mr. President, I am compelled to ask of the Senate an indefinite leave of absence after Tuesday next.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Vermont asks leave of absence from the Senate indefinitely after Tuesday of next week. Is there objection to the request? The Chair hears none, and it is granted.

FREE COINAGE.

Mr. MORRILL. I suppose that the bill of the Senator from Nevada [Mr. STEWART] is under consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be laid before the Senate.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 51) to provide for the free coinage of gold and silver bullion, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Illinois [Mr. PALMER], to strike out all of the bill after the first section.

Mr. MORRILL. Mr. President, we have had some examples of the repetition of speeches in the silver debate during the present session with little recognizable difference of argument or language; and therefore, not assuming that the subject was wholly exhausted by any previous remarks of mine, and that they only need to be repeated a little louder, I shall not dull the ears of the Senate with loudness, and with as little as possible of what Shakespeare called "damnable iteration."

The free-coinage resolution which opened this debate was evidently pushed by the distinguished Senator from Alabama with some comic hopefulness that the Senatorial Democratic candidates for the Presidency would remain in the Senate to have their votes counted, and not seek by flight outside into the boom-proof smoking room to escape from all harm. But the skilled marksman from Alabama must have been sadly disappointed, as I was, that he did not wing a single Presidential bird, and he was apparently not unwilling that the brave Senator from Nevada, "nothing loath," should jump on board of the rudderless free-coinage craft as the pilot to steer it on its perilous voyage. Surely no pilot from any Northern State east of the Mississippi could be found with a greater contempt of danger.

The accidental absence of Republican Senators and the failure of prominent Democratic members to respond at the roll call brought the question before us, but no friend of sound money on a real and just basis for the actual use of both gold and silver need be apprehensive about the most extended discussion nor about the final result.

Evidently the free-coinage prescription that has been prepared in Nevada for our monetary ills appears to be—

Take the hair, it is well written
Of the dog by which you're bitten.

It will be seen that it is proposed to cure the plague of a great redundancy of American silver on the homoeopathic theory of similia similibus curantur, not, however, by the orthodox diluted infinitesimal dose, but by a larger heroic dose, to include not only all of our own silver product, but also that of the world at large. When I am told by men, sane upon all other subjects, that the United States alone could safely assume, notwithstanding its present impaired digestive organs, the risk of unlimited silver coinage of the bullion of all mankind, I am forced to admit, as much as I am wont to admire glittering Fourth-of-July jaunty jingoism, that I believe the United States would suffer an inglorious surfeit, and it would turn out that we had been only used, like the cat in the fable, to pull the chestnuts out of the fire merely to save the paws of monkeys abroad from being burned, while depreciated silver here would still be depreciated silver.

It has been heretofore supposed that there was one point upon which all Senators were agreed, and that was as to the expediency and necessity of "an international bimetallic agreement." I confess that was and is my strongest hope of deliverance from monometallism. A joint resolution was introduced by the learned Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER] early in January last, and after reference to the Finance Committee, was promptly and unanimously reported with satisfactory amendment. The disclosure recently made in the Senate by the conspicuous leader of free-silver coinage from Nevada is, that an "international bimetallic agreement" is no longer to be sought after, or even tolerated, but to be dismissed with contempt. Even the author of the joint resolution can no longer be reckoned among its supporters. The rabbi of the recent prosilver convention, which assembled here to boom free coinage and dictate what should and what should not be done, issued their edict against any international attempt at an agreement, as well as against any change of the present ratio, by which silver should be maintained on a parity with gold. They do not want it. If any proof were wanting before, this inclusively shows that the design is to thrust upon our country at once, if possible, the silver standard of all legal-tender money.

There never has been a time more auspicious for the solution of the silver problem than the present. All the leading European nations have accepted our invitation for an international monetary conference. With a President beyond all question earnestly in favor of bimetalism, we have an ample guaranty that persons would be selected on our part to conduct the international agreement with efficiency and with fidelity to every interest of the country. India, the most populous and profitable outlying possession of Great Britain, with its extensive industrial interests, disastrously handicapped by the free coinage of silver, sells its products without any augmentation of price for depreciated silver, and collects all of its revenue in silver, which has to be used at the rate of $3 to pay $2 of its enormous indebtedness to England. India is therefore now in precisely the same helpless and pitiful predicament in which the United States would be found whenever it attempts alone to relieve the universal depreciation of silver by free coinage—a job that no other enlightened nation could be induced to assume the risk. England, hitherto standing aloof from bimetalism, is now compelled to listen to the supplicants of India, and no longer withhold favor to all international agreements. Other nations of Europe will follow her example. For the first time in twenty years an agreement in favor of bimetalism no longer appears impossible.

And yet if free coinage of silver were to be established here precedent to any international agreement, there is not a single nation in Europe that would give the subject farther consideration. They would all gladly leave to us and to India the possession of the great white elephant.

When the partisans of free coinage of silver talk about bimetal-of mails in rural districts—to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

A petition praying for legislation to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs—ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. FRYE presented petitions of 37 parents, teachers, and physicians of Houltin, Me.; of 53 parents, teachers, and physicians of Plymouth, Me.; of 31 parents, teachers, and physicians of Linneus, Me.; of 56 parents and teachers of Corinna, Me.; and of 48 parents, teachers, and physicians of Rockland, Me., praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which were referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. ALLEN, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was re-committed the bill (S. 1426) for the relief of Dabney, Simmons & Co., reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. ALLEN subsequently said: In the matter of the bill (S. 1426) for the relief of Dabney, Simmons & Co., the Committee on Claims were laboring under the impression that that bill had been re-committed to the committee. I find that that was a misapprehension. I therefore ask unanimous consent of the Senate that the bill be re-committed to that committee, and that any other action taken in regard to the bill to-day may be expunged.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair is informed that no action has been taken upon the bill to-day. It is upon the Calendar, with the adverse report of the committee.

Mr. ALLEN. The adverse report was vacated, and the impression on the part of the committee was that an order of re-committal had been made. I ask that the order of re-committal be now made, which the committee supposed had been done.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. This is the condition as the Chair understands it: The bill was adversely reported by the Committee on Claims and placed upon the Calendar with the adverse report. The Committee on Claims, acting under the impression that the bill had been re-committed to the committee, this morning reported the bill back favorably, and the committee now asks that there be an order non pro tempore for the re-committal of the bill to the committee.

Mr. ALLEN. That is correct.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That order will be made, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. PUGH, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6023) for the relief of Elizabeth T. Boyd and Joel S. Hankins, of Alabama, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Printing, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill, and moved that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed; which was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, who were directed by resolution of May 4, 1892, to make careful inquiry into the complaint that the Washington High School is unable to prepare pupils to enter Harvard College and to report the results to the Senate, submitted a report thereon; which was ordered to be printed.

Mr. VEST, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5726) to authorize the Lake Charles Road and Bridge Company, of Lake Charles, La., to construct and maintain bridges across English Bayou and Calcasieu River, reported it without amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5941) to build a bridge across the Tennessee River between a point in Whitesburg precinct, in Madison County and Morgan County, in the State of Alabama, reported it with amendments.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3295) to authorize the building of permanent bridges with fixed spans across the Harlem River, New York, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. VEST. I am directed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9563) to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the Oregon and Washington Bridge Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Columbia River, between the State of Oregon and the State of Washington, and to establish it as a post-road," to report it without amendment.

I call the attention of the Senators from Oregon to the fact that this measure is identical with the Senate bill already passed, and the other House instead of passing our bill sent this bill here.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the Post-Office appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

He also, from the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, to whom was referred an amendment submitted by Mr. PADDOCK to the sundry civil appropriation bill concerning reindeer in Alaska, reported it favorably, and moved its reference to the Committee on Appropriations; which was agreed to.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the Post-Office appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. WOLCOTT introduced a bill (S. 3285) granting a pension to Marion G. Dunn; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HUNTON introduced a bill (S. 3286) for the construction of a memorial bridge from the Naval Observatory grounds to the Arlington estate; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. HISCOCK introduced a bill (S. 3287) for the relief of Mary Klingmann; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3288) for the relief of Charles Edward Haynes; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3289) for the relief of James Bigler; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 3290) for the relief of D. K. Ponder; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE introduced a bill (S. 3291) for the relief of Fred B. Lee; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3292) for the removal of the charge of desertion against John Scanlin, late a private of Company F, Eighty-eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. SANDERS introduced a bill (S. 3293) limiting the jurisdiction of certain courts; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. PEPPER introduced a bill (S. 3294) to authorize the construction of a dam across the Kansas River near Kansas City, in the State of Kansas; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. PEPPER. By request of the Wage Workers' Political Alliance, of the District of Columbia, I introduce a bill for reference to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

The bill (S. 3295) to regulate postal affairs, and for other purposes, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3296) for the relief of Henry Cozad; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3297) granting to the Interstate Water and Electric Power Company of Kansas the right to erect and maintain a dam or dams across the Kansas River within Wyandotte County, in the State of Kansas; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. QUAY. On behalf of my colleague [Mr. CAMERON], who is necessarily absent, I introduce a bill.

The bill (S. 3298) authorizing the sale of land in the vicinity of Fort Millin on the river Delaware was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 3299) to amend sec-

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read as amended. The Secretary read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc. That in addition to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Court of Claims and the district and circuit courts of the United States by sections 1 and 2 of the act of Congress approved March 3, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States," the Court of Claims shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine claims, to establish or enforce the rights of claimants to patents from the United States for lands to which the claimant may be entitled under any law or grant of the United States; and where the value of such claim does not exceed $5,000 the United States district courts shall have concurrent jurisdiction with said Court of Claims, and where the value exceeds $5,000 the circuit courts of the United States shall have concurrent jurisdiction with said Court of Claims: Provided, That no suit shall be maintained against the United States under this act unless the same shall have been brought within six years after the passage of this act if the right shall have heretofore accrued, or otherwise within six years after the right shall have accrued for which the suit is brought.

SEC. 2. That upon the filing in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office of a duly certified copy of any final judgment or decree establishing the right of a claimant to a patent for public land, a patent shall be issued in accordance with said judgment or decree.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to have some explanation of the bill. It seems to me to be scattering the business of the General Land Office pretty extensively. If it confined the bringing of these suits to the Court of Claims alone, where all the records of the Government would be accessible, it seems to me the bill would be perfectly proper; but, according to the bill, suit can be brought in any United States district or circuit court in any part of the country in order to get a patent, and the Government must go to that place, defend the suit, and take its records and everything of that kind. If the Senator will agree to strike out that part of the bill, I think it would be perfectly right; and then it would place this class of cases upon the same plane that claims to patent rights for inventions are placed. I think that ought to be done.

Mr. MITCHELL. It seems to me, if the Senator will reflect a moment, he will see that to confine it to the Court of Claims alone would be a very great hardship upon the very class of people who will be more likely than any other class to be compelled to resort to the court in order to obtain their rights in reference to patents for lands. There is a great number of cases of poor people in the West who go on public lands under some of the land laws, do all they think is necessary to be done in perfect good faith, and after they have done all that they are met with some objection in the General Land Office and they are delayed. They can get no standing in court unless a patent is issued to some other person. After a patent is issued to some other person, then, of course, they have a standing in court, and then they can apply to any of the United States circuit courts having jurisdiction and have the patent declared trustee for the benefit of the party to whom the patent ought to have issued; but until that is done, until a patent is issued to some other person, these parties have no standing in court whatever.

The purpose of this bill is to enable any homesteader or any person claiming under the homestead act, or under the preemption act, or under the timber act, or under any of the land laws of the United States, who believes that he has complied with the law and is entitled to a patent, to go into any of the courts specified in this bill and have the matter tested. It would be a very great hardship to compel the large class of persons who would be likely to avail themselves of the benefit of this act, if it should become a law, to come to Washington and sue in the Court of Claims.

There is no trouble about getting all the records before any of the courts of the United States. Exemplified copies are always evidence, and they can be obtained at any time upon application to the General Land Office. It appears to me to eliminate that portion of the bill would be to destroy it to a very great extent.

This whole matter was very carefully considered by the Judiciary Committee, and there was no difference of opinion in that committee in regard to what ought to be done. I did not report the bill. It was reported by the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON], who is absent now and probably will be for some time, and that is the reason I called it up this morning. I believe it to be a bill of very great importance to the people interested in obtaining titles under the several land laws of the United States. I hope, therefore, that no further amendment will be made, and that the bill will pass.

Mr. COCKRELL. There is no question in the world that the titles to land ought to be decided a great deal more promptly than they are and the business of the Land Office ought to be brought up currently, and it can be done. I am very glad to know that the present Commissioner has made some progress in that line, but the work does not progress as rapidly as it should.

I do not think the act referred to, extending jurisdiction to the courts of the United States in claims against the Government, has proved beneficial; but this is a question of title to land, and I suppose suit would be brought in the district where the land is situated. As a matter of course, before the claimant can get judgment for a patent he must show that his entry is complete. For that reason the Government loses nothing and he does not get any judgment from the Government for any money consideration or anything of that kind. It is simply a declaration of his right to a patent.

Mr. MITCHELL. The judgment stands as a patent.

Mr. COCKRELL. If one man does not get the public land, another will. I will not suggest any further amendment.

Mr. MITCHELL. It has been held that this same jurisdiction was conferred by the act of 1887, which this bill proposes to amend, but on appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States they reversed it, and said it did not include a case of this kind. Hence this bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate with amendments, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EXTENSION OF NORTH CAPITOL STREET TO SOLDIERS' HOME.

The bill (S. 2637) to extend North Capitol street to the Soldiers' Home was announced as next in order.

Mr. VEST. That is a bill in which the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] is interested, and it will lead to debate. It had better go over.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Being objected to, the bill will be passed over. Does the Senator desire it to go over without prejudice?

Mr. VEST. Yes, sir.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be passed over, retaining its place on the Calendar under Rule VIII.

DISTRICT SUBURBAN RAILWAY.

The bill (H. R. 429) to incorporate the District of Columbia Suburban Railway Company was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The first amendment of the committee will be stated.

Mr. STEWART. I was going to call attention to a matter in the last section that the Senator in charge of the bill may consider it. I wish to make a suggestion to him before the committee amendments are acted on, and he can consider it in the mean time and determine whether it is necessary to change the language.

I observe in the bill that the company is required to keep its road outside of other roads in the District, and of course it will have to acquire land in order to carry out the idea of the bill. In the last section it is provided that if the company can not make agreement with the land owners where the road goes over private land the usual proceedings for condemnation shall be instituted. Now, there is no appropriation in the bill to provide for that condemnation, and only $5,000 are appropriated in the general District of Columbia appropriation bill for such purposes.

Mr. HARRIS. This is a mere private corporation, and it is to pay for the condemnation.

Mr. STEWART. That is what I was going to suggest, that there ought to be an amendment to that effect. If it is the intention that a private corporation shall pay for the land it acquires there ought to be a proviso at the end of the section stating that it shall furnish the money. That was required in the case of the Rock Creek Railroad.

Mr. COCKRELL. This is not the District of Columbia appropriation bill. This is an individual measure, and has nothing to do with the District revenues. The corporations are bound to pay under the general law.

Mr. HARRIS. The suggestion of the Senator from Nevada is wholly unnecessary. This is a private corporation, and if it takes any proceedings to condemn it must put up the money. The Government has nothing whatever to do except to create the corporation and grant the right to construct its road.

Mr. STEWART. The usual way of condemning in this District is for the District of Columbia to proceed.

Mr. HARRIS. Where the condemnation is for District or governmental purposes, but no other.

Mr. COCKRELL. This is a private corporation.

Mr. STEWART. Is there sufficient provision for condemnation proceedings in the general incorporation law for railroads? Has not that been superseded so that there is no proceeding provided for such a case?

Mr. HARRIS. There is a general law on the subject in the District, under which this proceeding may go forward.

Mr. STEWART. Without further language in the last section of the bill?

Mr. HARRIS. Yes; nothing further is necessary.

Mr. STEWART. If that has been examined, all right; but I am afraid that there is no provision in the District now applicable. There was a general incorporation law for railroads of all kinds.

Mr. HARRIS. This bill was drafted by the attorney of the corporations, who have fully examined the question, and by the subcommittee who reported it. There is no trouble whatever upon the point the Senator suggests.

Mr. STEWART. If we have a general law under which the company can act without further words being added, I have no objection.

Mr. HARRIS. Yes, that is the case.

Mr. STEWART. I have some doubt about it myself.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The committee amendments will be proceeded with in order.

The first amendment was, in section 1, line 21, before the word "street," to strike out "Seventh," and insert "Twelfth;" in the same line after the word "east," to strike out:

And thence along Seventh street east to its intersection with Pennsylvania avenue, also beginning at the intersection of said roadway on Maryland avenue at Twelfth street northeast, and running thence northward on Twelfth street east to Boundary street, and thence northward across Boundary street, passing in the vicinity of the National Fair grounds; thence northward to and along Twelfth street to Philadelphia street, Brookland, beginning at North Capitol and G streets northwest, thence along B street east to First street northeast, thence south along First street to F street northeast, thence along F street east to Twelfth street northeast, thence along Twelfth street to Boundary street.

And insert:

Thence south along Twelfth street east to D street east, thence west along D street to Eighth street northeast, thence south on Eighth street to Pennsylvania avenue, thence westward on Pennsylvania avenue to Seventh street, thence north on Seventh street to C street east, thence east on C street east to Twelfth, thence north on Twelfth to and across Florida avenue; Provided, That on D street east, Eighth street east, Seventh street east, and C street east only a single track shall be laid.

In line 48, after the word "along," to strike out "Thirteenth" and insert "Twelfth;" in line 52, after the word "to," to strike out "Galveston" and insert "Frankfort;" in line 53, after the word "street," to insert "in Langdon;" in line 55, after the word "and," to strike out "that portion" and insert "those portions;" and in line 56, after the word "road," to strike out "between the District line and Fifteenth street east," and insert "outside the city of Washington;" so as to make the section read:

That Eppa Hinton, Charles E. Greney, John P. Mitchell, M. P. Morris, J. W. Denyer, L. G. Hine, Gilbert Meyers, S. E. Mudd, Robert A. Howard, W. I. Hill, John W. Childress, J. F. Kenney, D. W. Glassie, Harry Barton, Dickmon W. Chew, T. C. Daniel, G. P. Davis, Jere Johnson, and L. C. Loomis, and their assigns, successors, and assigns, are hereby created a body corporate by the name, style, and title of "The District of Columbia Suburban Railway Company," and by that name shall have perpetual succession and shall be able to sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, defend and be defended, in all courts of law and equity within the United States, and may make and have a common seal. And said corporation is hereby authorized to construct and lay down a single or double track railway, as may be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, with the necessary switches, turn-outs, and other mechanical devices, in the District of Columbia, through and along the following routes: Beginning at the dividing line between the District of Columbia and the State of Maryland, on the Hadenburg road, and running thence outside of and along the road to Maryland avenue and Pittencher street northeast, thence along Maryland avenue to Twelfth street east, thence south along Twelfth street east to D street east, thence west along D street to Eighth street northeast, thence south on Eighth street to Pennsylvania avenue, thence westward on Pennsylvania avenue to Seventh street, then north on Seventh street to C street east, thence east on C street east to Twelfth, thence north on Twelfth to and across Florida avenue; Provided, That on D street east, Eighth street east, Seventh street east, and C street east only a single track shall be laid, thence along Twelfth street, extend to Mount Olivet road, thence along Mount Olivet road to Corcoran road, thence along Corcoran and Fairview roads to Patterson avenue, thence by such line as may be authorized by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to and along Twelfth street, Brookland, to Philadelphia street. And beginning at Mount Olivet road, and Capitol street, Ivy City, thence along Capitol street, thence in line to La Fayette avenue, Cincinnati street, and Twenty-fourth street to Frankfort street in Langdon; Provided, That all of the routes herein mentioned shall be subject to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and those portions of said road outside the city of Washington shall be constructed before any part of said road within the city limits shall be occupied or broken for the purpose of said railway; whenever a permanent system of streets and highways shall have been established and laid out in the suburban portion of the District contiguous to the route of this railroad, said company shall, when required by the Commissioners of the District, cause such changes to be made in the location of its tracks as said Commissioners shall require in order to make the route of said road conform to such streets and highway system. Wherever the route of this road coincides with that of a country road the railway shall be constructed along and outside of such road. Said company shall keep the space between its tracks, and 2 feet outside of its tracks in such condition as may be required by said Commissioners.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 2, after the word "power," to strike out "subject" and insert "Provided, That if electric wires or cables be used within the limits of the city of Washington, the wires shall be placed underground, and the power used shall be subject;" in line 13, after the word "highways," to strike out "that may be deemed;" so as to read:

That said company may run public carriages propelled by cable, electric, or other mechanical power; Provided, That if electric wires or cables be used within the limits of the city of Washington, the wires shall be placed underground, and the power used shall be subject to the approval of the said Commissioners; but nothing in this act shall allow the use of steam power or any motor which shall in its operation cause any noise or other disturbance which in the judgment of said Commissioners shall be injurious to the public safety or comfort; Provided further, That for the purpose of making a continuous connection the said company shall have the right to cross all streets, avenues, and highways necessary for this purpose.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 3, line 3, after the word "Columbia," to strike out "and the said company may make arrangements with all existing railroad companies in the District of Columbia for the interchange of passengers in payment of fare on its road;" and insert:

Provided, That whenever the road of the company is open to traffic, this act shall cross or connect with the roads of any other street railway in the city of Washington, passing, or which be transferred from one street to the other without the payment of extra fare.

So as to make the section read:

That said company shall receive a rate of fare not exceeding 5 cents per passenger for any distance on its route within the District of Columbia; Provided, That wherever their route the company is provided for in this act shall cross or connect with the route of any other street railway in the city of Washington, passengers shall be transferred from one street to the other without the payment of extra fare; Provided further, That the District of Columbia tickets shall be valid for travel on the same.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 4, line 6, before the word "receipts," to insert "bonded and other indebtedness and other" so as to read:

That said company shall, on or before the 15th of January of each year, make a report to Congress, through the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, of the names of all the stockholders therein and the amount of stock held by each, together with a detailed statement of the bonded and other indebtedness and the receipts and expenditures.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 8, line 14, after the word "company," to insert the following provision:

Provided, That whenever the railroad shall be built, and any road, the space between the inner rail of said railroad and the roadway shall be graded and put in good order for public use at the expense of the company and subject to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia; Provided also, That the construction of said railroad on any street where there are or may be any in this, fixtures, or apparatus pertaining to the Washington Aqueduct shall be subject to such conditions as may be approved by the Secretary of War, which conditions must be obtained and accepted in writing by said company before commencing any work on such street, and no steam cars, locomotives, or passenger or other cars for steam railroads shall ever be run on the tracks of said company over any such main fixture, or apparatus. The said railroad shall be subject to the requirements of section 15 of the act of Congress approved February 8, 1893, entitled "An act to incorporate the Washington and Annapolis Railway Company of the District of Columbia." The said company shall, before commencing work on said railroad on such street, deposit with the Treasurer of the United States to the credit of the Washington Aqueduct such sum as the Secretary of War may consider necessary to defray all the expenses that may be incurred by the United States in connection with the inspection of the work of construction of said railroad on such street, and in making good any damages done by said company, or its works, or by any of its contractors, agents, to any of said mains, fixtures, or apparatus, and in completing, as the Secretary of War may deem necessary, any of the work that the said company may neglect or refuse to complete and that the Secretary of War may consider necessary for the safety of said mains, fixtures, or apparatus, and the said company shall also deposit as above and said further sums of said purposes at such times as the Secretary of War may or he may see fit; Provided further, That the said sum shall be disbursed like other moneys appropriated for the Washington Aqueduct, and that whatever said sum of said deposits at the end of one year after the completion of said railroad on such street shall be returned to said company on the order of the Secretary of War with an amount of its disbursement in full; Provided further, That disbursements of said moneys shall, except in case of emergency, be made only on the order of the Secretary of War. The exercise of the right to borrow a grant of money to terminate at the pleasure of the Secretary of War in case of persistent neglect by said company, or by its officers, to comply with the terms of the act, or to comply with any of the conditions, requirements, and regulations of said act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 11, line 1, after the word "company," to strike out "from B and C streets to Pennsylvania avenue east;" in line 4, after the word "within," to strike out "eighteen months" and insert "two years," and in line 4, after the word "act," to strike out "and the branch of the same shall be completed within three years from the passage of this act" and insert "otherwise this act shall be of no effect;" so as to make the section read:

Sec. 11. That the line of said railway company shall be commenced within six months and completed within two years from the passage of this act, otherwise this act shall be of no effect.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 12, line 2, after the word "exceed," to strike out "$1,000,000" and insert "$2,000,000" so as to read:

That said company is hereby authorized to issue bonds or notes in an amount not to exceed $2,000,000 in shares of $200 each.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. In section 15, line 7, the word "be" should be inserted after "may;" so as to read "as may be necessary."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That correction will be made.
Mr. HUNTON. I offer an amendment to the first section of the bill. In line 3 I move that the name of EPPA HUNTON as one of the incorporators be stricken out and that of Richard K. Cralle be inserted in its place.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HARRIS. I move that the Senate request a conference with the House of Representatives upon the bill and amendments.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the Presiding Officer was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. McMILLAN, Mr. PERKINS, and Mr. HARRIS were appointed.

LIGHT-HOUSE STEAMER PANSY.

The bill (S. 1292) to remit the penalties on the light-house steamer Pansy was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay to Baird, Houston & Co., or their assignee, $1,250, that being the amount of time penalties imposed on the firm under their contract for building the light-house steamer Pansy.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC GROUNDS IN ABINGDON, VA.

The bill (H. R. 4629) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to consent to the use of a portion of the public grounds of the United States in the town of Abingdon, Va., for a public street was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to consent to the use of so much of the public grounds belonging to the United States in the town of Abingdon, not exceeding 30 feet in width, on the west side of the grounds, for a public street in the town, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem proper for the protection of the rights of the United States.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ENLISTED FORCE OF NAVY.

The bill (S. 2091) to promote the efficiency of the enlisted force of the Navy was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that bill be passed over. The Senator who reported it is not present.

Mr. FRYE. It will be passed over informally?

Mr. COCKRELL. Certainly.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GALLINGER in the Chair). The bill will be passed over informally, without prejudice.

GEORGE C. FOULK.

The bill (S. 1713) for the relief of George C. Foulk was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay, upon presentation of a proper account and vouchers, to George C. Foulk, late a lieutenant of the junior grade in the Navy of the United States, $2,630.14, salary as such lieutenant, at the rate of $1,500 per annum, from the 22d day of December, 1884, to the 12th day of June, 1886, inclusive, and for an additional period from the 1st day of September, 1886, to the 11th day of December, 1886, inclusive, not heretofore paid.

Mr. COCKRELL. I do not see in my files the report in that case.

Mr. CHANDLER. I hope the Senator will not object to the passage of this bill. This allowance to Mr. Foulk has been recommended by the State Department, and I assure the Senator that it is entirely a just claim.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will be read.

The Secretary proceeded to read the report, submitted by Mr. CAMERON from the Committee on Naval Affairs, May 11, 1892.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, it is the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 51) to provide for the free coinage of gold and silver bullion, and for other purposes.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask that the unfinished business be laid aside until the pending bill can be disposed of.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire asks that the unfinished business be laid aside until the pending bill be disposed of. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

The Secretary resumed and concluded the reading of the report, which is as follows:

The Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1713) for the relief of George C. Foulk, have had the same under consideration and beg leave to report it back and recommend its passage.

The facts in this case are fully set forth in the appended communication, which is herewith adopted as the report of this committee.

[House Ex. Doc. No. 439, Fifty-fifth Congress, First Session.]

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 27, 1890.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration of Congress, a communication from the Secretary of State of the 19th instant, submitting for an appropriation the claim of George C. Foulk, late a lieutenant in the United States Navy and naval attaché to the legation of the United States at Seoul, Korea.

Respectfully yours,

W. WINDOM, Secretary.

The SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, July 19, 1890.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith a draft of a proposed amendment to the pending general deficiency bill for the relief of George C. Foulk, late a lieutenant of the junior grade in the United States Navy.

Mr. Foulk, at the time an ensign in the Navy and in the line of promotion, was on the 12th of November, 1883, designated by the President as naval attaché to the legation of the United States at Seoul, Korea. On the 23d of December, 1884, he was by force of circumstances over which he had no directing control, and by reason of his availability and competency, placed in charge of the legation upon the departure from Seoul of the minister, Gen. Foote.

Mr. Foulk remained in charge until the 12th of June, 1885. On the 11th of May, 1885, he was instructed by the Secretary of State that from and after the departure of Gen. Foote from Seoul he was entitled to draw upon this Department for compensation as chargé d'affaires ad interim at one-half of the salary of the minister, namely, $2,500 per annum; and for the contingent expenses of the legation in like manner at the rate of $3,000 per annum, which included the salary of an interpreter; and he was further advised at the same time that his salary as chargé was in lieu of the amount due him as an officer in the United States Navy. Accordingly his salary as an officer of the Navy for the period 1 year he had in the sum of $2,250.00 was withheld. On the 13th of June, 1885, Mr. Foulk was relieved, and thereupon proceeded, in ill health, to Japan, whence, about two months later, he was peremptorily ordered to return to Seoul and again take charge of the legation in his former capacity. He arrived there and took charge on the 1st of September, 1885, and remained as chargé d'affaires until the 11th of the following December, during which period his pay as an officer of the Navy, amounting to $19.18, was again withheld upon the ground, as stated by the Fourth Auditor of the Treasury, that no person could hold two offices not compatible and receive the compensation provided by law for each at the same time.

I dissent from that ruling, and in this relation I have the honor to invite your attention to the case of the United States against Saunders, reported in volume 120, United States Supreme Court Reports, pages 126-130, which was a case on appeal from the Court of Claims, January, 1887, and in which the opinion of the Supreme Court was expressed in the following language:

"We are of opinion that, taking these sections altogether [sections 1763, 1764, and 1765, Revised Statutes of the United States], the purpose of this legislation was to prevent a person holding an office or appointment, for which the law provides a definite compensation by way of salary or otherwise, which is intended to cover all the services which, as such officer, he may be called upon to render, from receiving extra compensation, additional allowances, or pay for other services which may be required of him either by act of Congress or by order of the head of his Department, or in any other mode, added to or connected with the regular duties of the place which he holds, but that they have no application to the case of two distinct offices, places, or employments, each of which has its own duties and its own compensation, which offices may both be held by one person at the same time. In the latter case he is in the eye of the law two officers, or holds two places or appointments, the functions of which are separate and distinct, and, according to all the decisions, he is in such a case entitled to receive the two compensations. In the former case he performs the added duties under his appointment to a single place, and the statute has provided that he shall receive no additional compensation for that class of duties unless it is so provided by special legislation."

I am informed that the accounting officers of the Treasury do not regard the opinion in the Saunders case as applicable to the case of Mr. Foulk, again alleging as a reason the "incompatibility" of the two offices he held. But I do not find that the honorable court considered the question of compatibility as at all essential to the conclusions reached, and I am inclined to regard the opinion as clearly if not peculiarly applicable to the case of Mr. Foulk. There is, however, another and parallel view of the matter to which I have the honor to invite your attention.

Section 1686, Revised Statutes of the United States, provides that—

"When to any diplomatic office held by any person there is superadded another, such person shall be allowed additional compensation for his services in such superadded office, at the rate of 50 per cent of the amount allowed by law for such superadded office, and for such time as shall be actually and necessarily occupied in making the transit between the two posts of duty, at the commencement and termination of the period of such superadded office, and no longer, and such superadded office shall be deemed to continue during the time to which it is limited by the terms thereof."

Mr. Foulk's functions and duties were dual. He was instructed to report both to the Navy Department and the Department of State, and he did so, as I am informed and believe, with great acceptability. Regarded as a naval officer performing the additional duties as chargé d'affaires, the opinion in the Saunders case would seem to govern his own; regarded as a diplomatic officer (naval attaché), performing the same additional duties in the office of minister, under the designation of chargé d'affaires, section 1686 of the Revised Statutes, would, it appears, determine the rate of his compensation.

I have been moved to urge upon your attention not only by reason of the law and equity in his case, but as well because of the peculiar hardships entailed upon him through the anomalous position he occupied under instructions from this Department, and the exigencies of the situation in Korea during the two periods of his incumbency as chargé there. He was obliged, at no desire of his own, to perform the duties and maintain the official and social status of a regularly accredited minister, but without adequate means of defraying the necessary incidental expense.

Compliance with his repeated request to the Department of State for relief (by the appointment of a minister) appears to have been unavoidably delayed. He was subject to humiliation, he was compelled to borrow money to maintain his official as his personal standing, and there is no doubt that, as he alleges, he suffered both physically and mentally. He was careful, prompt, and intelligent in the discharge of his duties, and the Secretary of State was glad to compliment him officially in unmistakable terms in a letter to the Secretary of the Navy dated November 1, 1887.

During both the periods in which he acted as chargé d'affaires at Seoul, Mr. Foulk was an officer of the Navy entitled to the pay of a lieutenant of the junior grade, at the rate of $4,500 per annum. Through promotion by operation of law afterwards confirmed by an examination successfully passed, he has since resigned from the Navy.

The Department will be obliged if you will immediately bring this report to the attention of Congress, to the end that the appropriation asked for may be included, if possible, in the pending deficiency bill.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

ALVEY A. ADEE,
Acting Secretary

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

INQUIRY CONCERNING RAILWAYS.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The unfinished business is before the Senate.

Mr. CALL. I ask that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside that I may call up the resolution introduced by me on the 23d of April, and which was ordered to lie on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida asks that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside. Is there objection? The Chair hears none. The Senator from Florida asks that the resolution indicated by him be now considered by the Senate.

Mr. FRYE. I should like to ask the Senator if he intends to ask that the resolution shall be passed when his speech is concluded?

Mr. CALL. I do not. Other Senators, I understand, desire to make some observations upon it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution will be read by the Secretary.

The Secretary read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That a special committee of the Senate shall be, and is hereby, created, to consist of nine members, chosen by resolution of the Senate, who shall be charged with the duty of inquiring into and reporting to the Senate the present value per mile of the railways of the United States; also the present capitalization of the same, and the difference, if any, between the capitalization and the actual cost of construction and equipment of said railways; also to inquire and report to the Senate the gross and net receipts of all and each of the railway companies in the United States, the number of employees and the compensation paid to each; the amount of the bonded indebtedness, the amount of its outstanding capital stock; the kind and value of all property, whether money, stocks, and bonds, or real and personal estate; the names and residence and amount of stock or bonds held by each stockholder or bondholder of each and all of such railroads.

That the committee shall have power to send for persons and papers and to compel their attendance, and to employ a clerk and stenographer.

That the committee shall also inquire and report to the Senate whether any of said railway companies, their stockholders or bondholders, agents or employees have used or attempted to use their corporate privileges or powers, or money, to influence and control the elections of members of Congress or the members of the State Legislatures.

That the committee shall also report the amount of stocks and bonds owned or controlled abroad, and the rate of interest.

Mr. FRYE. This is the resolution about which the Senator explained?

Mr. CALL. It is.

Mr. FRYE. And it will lie on the table after the Senator's speech?

Mr. CALL. It will lie on the table after my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution upon which the Senator from Florida is entitled to the floor.

[Mr. CALL addressed the Senate. See Appendix.]

Mr. CHANDLER. Mr. President, I sympathize entirely with the desire of the Senator from Florida that this resolution of investigation may be passed. It is truly lamentable to contemplate the evil condition, as the Senator has depicted it, of the Democratic party of Florida, which has fallen, according to him, thus woefully under the corrupt control of corporation power. When I contemplate the overwhelming forces which the Senator has described as exercised by the railroad corporations of Florida for the purpose of defeating his reelection, I wonder that he has managed to survive in order to address the Senate of the United States as a member of this body against the corporations which have attempted his defeat.

I take occasion to say to the Senator, by way perhaps of consolation, that the Democratic party of New Hampshire is equally under corporation bonds, and that almost every word which he has uttered concerning the methods adopted by the railroad corporations of Florida for the purpose of taking possession of the Democratic party of that State, has been and is true, and those methods have been and are exercised in New Hampshire for the purpose of giving to those corporations the control of the Democracy of New Hampshire.

I am bound in all candor also to say that the railroad corporations of New Hampshire have a very large influence in the Republican party, to which I belong. The evil of corporation control, which the Senator has described, is not in New Hampshire confined entirely to the Democratic party, but in a large measure, although not in so large a measure, extends to the Republican party.

Perhaps the reason that the corporations of Florida confine themselves so closely to the domination of the Democratic party is because the Republican party has become so small, at least in the number of its members who get to the polls, that it is not worth while for the railroad corporations of Florida to undertake to exert similar influences upon the Republicans of that State.

Mr. President, I had supposed that there would be no objection to the passage of the resolution offered by the Senator, but I have been informed that the Senator gave assurance to the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE] that he would not ask for a vote upon the resolutions this afternoon. I then suggest to the Senator that, if he has no objection, the resolution had better be referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, from which it will be reported back and go upon the Calendar, and then be ready for action. If the Senator has no objection, I will make that motion.

Mr. DOLPH. Has the resolution been referred?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution must go to the Committee to Audit and Control and Contingent Expenses of the Senate under the rules, as it makes a charge on the contingent fund.

Mr. CHANDLER. I will move, if the Senator has no objection, that the resolution be referred to that committee.

Mr. CALL. I wish to say in reply to the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER] that the Democratic party of Florida is not in the deplorable condition he supposes. The sentiment of the Democratic people, and I hope of the Republican people—for I did not make a partisan speech—is that all true and loyal American people, alike devoted to the institutions of their country, desirous to preserve our free institutions, in my opinion, will resist the men who rely upon controlling their organizations by the exercise of corporate power. Therefore, I wish to repudiate the idea that there is anything in what I said to indicate that the people who are controlling the power of the Democratic party in the State of Florida are not a unit upon all these questions.

In reference to other matters they honestly differ with their Republican friends, and there have been here Republican gentlemen to-day, strong in the national faith of their party and supporting their candidates, who unite with the Democratic people of Florida upon local issues because of peculiar circumstances which are incident to that State and to other Southern States.

It was not, however, my intention to speak in a manner which cast censures upon either political party, but to review the public condition in a fair and just spirit. If I had desired to be partisan in my utterances I might have said that a real Republican organ which I read this morning charged distinctly upon the late Republican national convention that its action had been controlled by this same evil of corporate power and influence. I do not wish to make that charge; I do not believe that charge was true in this instance; but yet it has been made, and made upon the Republican party in regard to its late nominations by the convention at Minneapolis.

But, Mr. President, I merely wished to vindicate my own State. I have no charges to make against the Democratic party. I am a Democrat, and the defender of the party, its principles, and its organization.

The Democratic party of Florida is capable of protecting itself against these evils. I have charges to make against the public men, the politicians, the representatives of corporate power in any political party who seek to trample the rights and liberties of this free country into the mud of control by foreign and improper influences.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, I have listened with a great deal of interest and pleasure to the discussion of this question by the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL], and I am very glad to find, upon examining the resolution which he offered some time ago, that this inquiry, if it is made at all, will not apply alone to the State of Florida, but will be applicable to other States of the Union.

I will venture to make the suggestion now that if this resolution passes, as I trust it may pass, and this commission is formed, they will find it convenient to visit the State of New Hampshire, which certain gentlemen have advertised to the world as being absolutely under the control of her railroad corporations. I trust the commission may come there, and make a thorough in-religion or making an appropriation of money for any sectarian purpose; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. FELTON. I present a petition, numerous signed by citizens of the Pacific coast, and forwarded by A. C. Fish, of Riverside, Cal., praying Congress to provide or guaranty such necessary appropriation as will assist, protect, and hasten the completion and secure the national control of the Nicaragua Canal. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. FELTON presented sundry petitions of physicians, teachers, and parents of California, praying for the passage of legislation to prohibit the manufacture, importation, and sale of cigarettes in the United States; which were referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

He also presented a petition of the Bethel Literary and Historical Association of the District of Columbia, praying for the passage of Senate bill No. 1213, providing for the formation of associations in the District of Columbia for the purpose of conducting any lawful business and dividing the profits among the members thereof; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also presented a memorial of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Little River, Cal., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of sundry citizens of California, manufacturers of machinery, remonstrating against the admission into this country of foreign-built beet-sugar machinery free of duty; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of San Francisco, Cal.; a petition of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union of San Francisco, Cal.; a petition of the Evangelical Alliance of San Francisco, Cal., and vicinity, and a petition of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of California, praying for the passage of legislation to prohibit the importation and sale of the opium-smoking extract; which were referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE presented the petition of A. A. Marks and 89 other citizens of Burlington and Union City, Mich., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of Michigan, praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. PERKINS presented a petition of the Congregational Church of Chapman, Kans., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PEPPER presented a memorial of citizens of Ness County, Kans., and a memorial of citizens of Washington County, Kans., remonstrating against closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. VEST presented a petition of the Ministers' Alliance, of Sedalia, Mo., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the memorial of M. W. Moss, and other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Henderson, Mo.; the memorial of M. E. Glenn, and other members of the Baptist Church of Sedalia, Mo., and the memorial of R. M. Feigerson, and other citizens of Pettis County, Mo., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. SANDERS presented the memorial of J. D. Heald and 83 other citizens of Virginia City, Mont., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. CULLOM presented a petition of citizens of Chicago, Ill., praying for the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, prohibiting the passage of any legislation by the States respecting an establishment of religion or preventing the free exercise thereof; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of the Yearly Meeting of Friends, of Chicago, Ill., remonstrating against the passage of any legislation licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors in the Territory of Alaska; which was referred to the Committee on Territories.

He also presented sundry petitions collected by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, signed by 17 citizens of Illinois, praying that no exposition on exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress shall be opened on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented memorials of sundry citizens of Illinois, remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented petitions of the Methodist Episcopal churches of Smithboro, Towanda, North Evanston, and Moline; of the District Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Mount Vernon District, Southern Illinois Conference, and of the Congregational Church of Hampton, all in the State of Illinois, praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. DAWES presented the petition of R. O. Ward and other citizens of Lynn, Mass., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the memorial of A. H. Clark and other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, of Springfield, Mass., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. CALL presented a petition of the National Philatelic Society of Villa City, Fla., praying for the passage of House bill No. 186, placing used and unused postage stamps on the free list; which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2272) granting a pension to Harriet W. Stevens, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. McMILLAN. I report back favorably, with amendments, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, the bill (H. R. 9172) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company. I ask that it may take the place on the same subject of No. 734 on the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Michigan asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the bill now reported be substituted for the bill (S. 804) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and the House bill is substituted for the Senate bill on the Calendar.

Mr. HARRIS. The Senate bill should be indefinitely postponed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senate bill will be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. GALLINGER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3051) granting a pension to Julia A. Hill, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. CULLOM. I am instructed by the Committee on Appropriations, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8224) making appropriations for the service of Post-Office Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, to report it with amendments, accompanied by a brief written report, which I ask be printed. I give notice that I shall call up the bill for consideration in a day or two.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Meanwhile the bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. ALLISON. I am instructed by the Committee on Appropriations, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9089) making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, to report it with amendments. I submit a brief report. There are only a few amendments reported by the committee, and I give notice that to-morrow at some convenient hour I will ask the Senate to consider the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. VEST, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill, and moved that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed; which was agreed to.

He also, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5880) authorizing Arkansas Harbor Terminal Railway Company to construct a bridge across the Corpus Christi Channel, known as the Morris and Cummings Ship Channel, in Aransas County, Tex., reported it with amendments.

Mr. QUAY, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3179) authorizing the Secretary of War to cause a survey to be made for a ship canal from Philadelphia across New Jersey to New York Bay, reported it without amendment.

MRS. JENNIE VAUGHAN.

Mr. DAVIS. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 2125) granting a pension to Mrs. Jennie Vaughan, to report it favorably, without amendment, and I ask unanimous consent that the bill may be now considered.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to restore to the pension roll the name of Mrs. Jennie Vaughan, late wife of the late Capt. William Rowe Baxter, captain of Company H, Ninth Minnesota Volunteers.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. VEST. From the reading of the bill, I understand that the beneficiary was a widow of some one else. How is that? The chairman of the committee can explain.

Mr. DAVIS. The explanation is that Mrs. Vaughan was the wife of Capt. Baxter. He was killed in the service and she obtained a pension as his widow. She married again, and her second husband died, which accounts for the name of Vaughan.

Mr. VEST. The second husband did not die in the service?

Mr. DAVIS. Oh, no. It is simply restoring her to the pension roll.

The bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the bill be read in full. It is a short bill.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

MISSOURI RIVER BRIDGE AT OMAHA.

Mr. VEST. From the Committee on Commerce I report back favorably, without amendment, the bill (S. 3290) to amend section 7 of the act approved June 22, 1888, entitled "An act to authorize the construction of a bridge over the Missouri River at or near the city of Omaha, Neb., and for other purposes. It is a very short bill, one in which the occupant of the chair is interested, and I ask for its immediate consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MILLE LAC INDIAN RESERVATION LANDS.

Mr. MORGAN. I am directed by the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 86) for the protection of those parties who have heretofore been allowed to make entries for lands within the former Mille Lac Indian Reservation in Minnesota, to report it favorably without amendment.

Mr. WASHBURN. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the joint resolution.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution. It extends the provisions of the second proviso to section 6 of the act of January 11, 1889, entitled "An act for the relief and civilization of the Chippewa Indians in the State of Minnesota," to all preemption or homestead filings or entries heretofore allowed for lands within the limits of the former Mille Lac Indian Reservation in the State of Minnesota.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 3301) for the erection of a public building at the city of East St. Louis, Ill.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3302) granting a pension to Mary Seibach; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3303) granting an increase of pension to Robert Ingram; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3304) for the relief of Emma Ochs; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3305) granting a pension to Mary Cass-ill; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3306) to recognize Louis Semmler as of the United States Veteran Volunteer Engineers; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3307) for the relief of Christian Schwarz; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 3308) granting an increase of pension to Watson S. Bentley; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3309) for the relief of Catherine E. Whitall; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DAVIS introduced a bill (S. 3310) to secure certain reciprocal advantages to citizens, ports, and vessels of the United States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. FELTON introduced a bill (S. 3311) to refer the claim of Jessie Benton Fremont to certain lands and the improvements thereon in San Francisco, Cal., to the Court of Claims; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3312) relating to the equitable and legal rights of Jessie Benton Fremont, in possession of certain lands and improvements thereon in California, and to provide jurisdiction to determine those rights; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (S. 3313) granting a pension to Alvin J. Gould; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HISCOCK introduced a bill (S. 3314) for the relief of E. Darwin Gage, late Lieutenant-colonel of the One hundred and forty-eighth New York Infantry; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3315) to grant a right of way to the Kansas City and Pacific Railroad Company through the Indian Territory and the Territory of Oklahoma, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. CALL introduced a bill (S. 3316) to restore the Fort Jupiter military reservation, in the State of Florida, to entry; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. SANDERS introduced a bill (S. 3317) extending the time for the construction of the Big Horn Southern Railroad through the Crow Indian Reservation; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 90) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing for the election of electors of President and Vice-President of the United States by direct vote of the people of the several States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

AMENDMENTS TO APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. SHERMAN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was ordered to be printed, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. FELTON and Mr. PEPPER submitted amendments intended to be proposed by them respectively to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which were referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

RECIPROCAL TRADE RELATIONS WITH CANADA.

Mr. SHERMAN. On Monday, during my absence, a message from the President of the United States in regard to reciprocal trade relations with Canada was referred to the Select Committee on Relations with Canada. It should be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, as it involves questions of treaties, etc. I will make that motion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Ohio moves that the vote by which the message was referred to the Select Committee on Relations with Canada be reconsidered, and that the message be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. Is there objection to the change of reference? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. SHERMAN. I will also ask that word be sent to the Public Printer to give us the message in print as soon as possible.

MARGARET KENNEDY.

Mr. ALLEN. I ask for the reconsideration of the bill (S. 448) for the relief of Margaret Kennedy, which passed the Senate on Monday, and I ask its recall from the other House if it has been transmitted to that body.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair is informed that the bill has not been transmitted to the other House, and is in possession of the Senate. The Senator from Washington moves that the votes by which the bill was ordered to a third reading and passed be reconsidered.

The motion to reconsider was agreed to.

Mr. ALLEN. I ask for the present consideration of the bill. The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair hears no objection to the present consideration of the bill. The bill is in the Senate and open to amendment.

Mr. ALLEN. In line 9, after the word "eighty," I move to insert the word "eight;" so as to read: "Approved October 19, 1888." The motion for a reconsideration was made for the purpose of correcting a mistake by the draftsman of the bill in the date.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Washington. The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FREE COINAGE.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there further morning business?

Mr. SHERMAN. I understand that the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PERKINS] desires to address the Senate upon the silver bill to-day, but will give way for the Calendar until 2 o'clock.

MILITARY ACADEMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. CULLOM submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 4636) "making appropriations for the support of the Military Academy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its amendments numbered 3, 4, 5, 23, 29, 30, 33, 34, and 40.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 1, 2, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 31, 35, 36, 39, 41, 42, 43, 44, and 45, and agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 6 and 7, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the amended paragraph and insert in lieu thereof the following: "For one clerk to the adjutant, $1,000;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 32, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$15,120;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 37, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed in the amended paragraph insert "$1,000;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 38, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$250;" and the Senate agree to the same.

J. A. T. HULL.

Managers on the part of the House.

Mr. CULLOM. There is very little to be said about the report, as there are not a great many items embraced in it. I will, however, make a statement for general information. The amount of appropriations included in the bill as it was passed by the House was $396,665.18; the bill as passed by the Senate amounted to $434,827.33; the bill as agreed upon by the conferees of the two Houses carries with it the amount of $428,917.33; the amount included in the act for 1891 was $435,296.11; and the amount included in the act for 1892 was $402,064.64. The conferees had no serious difficulty in coming to an agreement. The Senate conferees consented to a large number of reductions of items, but insisted upon the main item which was inserted by the Senate, and which made the bill larger than that of the House, which was "for enlarging and increasing gas plant and for placing a two-light pendant, with slide light, in each cadet room" in the Academy.

I do not think it is necessary for me to take up time by explaining the report item by item, as the items are small, though numerous. I ask that the report may be concurred in.

The report was concurred in.

CHIEFS OF BUREAUS IN NAVY DEPARTMENT.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no further morning business, the Calendar under Rule VIII is in order, and the first bill on the Calendar will be stated.

The bill (S. 251) concerning the rank and pay of certain officers of the Navy having served a full term as chief of a bureau in the Navy Department, was announced as first in order, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration. It provides that any officer of the Navy now on the retired list who shall have been retired, after completing forty years of service or having attained the age of 62 as now provided by law, shall receive the rank and pay of commodore if he has served creditably a full term of four years as chief of bureau in the Navy Department.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 1952) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," approved June 19, A. D. 1880, by extending the privileges of the seventh section thereof to the port of St. Augustine, Fla.

The message also announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 410) to amend the charter of the Eekington and Soldiers' Home Railroad Company, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HEARD, Mr. RICHARDSON, and Mr. POST managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message further announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 429) to incorporate the District of Columbia Suburban Railway Company, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HEARD, Mr. RICHARDSON, and Mr. POST managers at the conference on the part of the House.

EXTENSION OF NORTH CAPITOL STREET TO SOLDIERS' HOME.

Mr. McMILLAN. I ask the Senate to consider at this time Senate bill 2637, which was passed over day before yesterday.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill having been passed over without prejudice, and remaining on the Calendar under Rule VIII, is subject to call.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 2637) to extend North Capitol Street to the Soldiers' Home, which had been reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments.

The amendments were, in line 4, before the word "grade," to insert "open and;" in line 6, after the word "condemn," to strike out "any land not donated that;" and insert "in the manner provided by law for the condemnation of land in the District of Columbia, such of the lands of the Prospect Hill Cemetery and of Annie E. Barbour as;" in line 10, before the word "street," to strike out "this" and insert "said;" in the same line, before the word "thousand," to strike out "twenty-five" and insert "ten;" in line 11, after the word "dollars," to insert "(or so much thereof as may be necessary;" and in line 12, after the word "appropriated," to strike out "for the same" and insert "out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to carry out the provisions of this act: Provided, That one-half of the said sum shall be paid out of the revenues of the District of Columbia: And provided further, That one-half of the costs of such grading and condemnation shall be charged against and become a lien upon the abutting property, and the collection of such costs shall be enforced in the manner provided for the collection of general taxes;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby directed to open and grade North Capitol street from Treves to the Soldiers' Home, and are hereby authorized and directed to condemn in the manner provided by law for the condemnation of lands in the District of Columbia such of the lands of the Prospect Hill Cemetery and of Annie E. Barbour as may be necessary for the extension of said street, and the sum of $10,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to carry out the provisions of this act: Provided, That one-half of the said sum shall be paid out of the revenues of the District of Columbia: And provided further, That one-half of the costs of such grading and condemnation shall be charged against and become a lien upon the abutting property, and the collection of such costs shall be enforced in the manner provided for the collection of general taxes.

The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. VEST. I have been engaged for a few moments in looking for some papers in connection with this bill, which I am not able to find. I do not know anything personally in regard to the bill, but some citizens of this District, whom I know to be eminently respectable gentlemen, called upon me some two weeks ago to protest against the passage of this bill on behalf of this cemetery company. I looked into the matter, and my recollection of the facts is that this cemetery company was incorporated a number of years ago, with the provision in the act of Congress that the rights of the company should never be disturbed.

It is hardly necessary for me to say to lawyers that the grant of lands for a burial place is at common law a charity and can be protected as such. Even if this were not the common law, the judgment of mankind and a sense of decency and respect for the dead would establish such a doctrine. If it were otherwise, then the graves of the dead relatives of all of us might be invaded by speculators for mercenary purposes under an act of a Legislature or of Congress.

This bill, as I understand it, proposes to condemn, for the purpose of opening this street, what is known as the Barbour property, belonging to an estate, and also the property of this cemetery company. The gentlemen who called to see me represented themselves as officers of this company and protested against the passage of the bill.

My recollection is that in that bill—whether it has been cured by the amendment of the committee or not I am not able to say—the specific amount to be paid for this cemetery and Barbour property under condemnation are fixed. These gentlemen also represented to me that the price was largely out of proportion to the real value of the property, and that property adjacent to the property here proposed to be condemned had been sold recently for a much larger sum than that fixed in the bill.

But, Mr. President, my principal objection is, assuming these statements to be true, that the cemetery property should be invaded under the circumstances for any purpose whatever. If it be true, as I understand it, that the opening of this street would put one portion of the cemetery upon one side of the street and the other upon the other side, as a matter of course it would be exceedingly objectionable. It would to all intents and purposes destroy a portion of that ground now held by the cemetery company for the purposes for which it was dedicated.

I am very sorry that I am not able to put my hand upon the papers at present; but if the bill goes over there are other points I desire to present in connection with it. I feel it my duty to do this as a Senator, with no especial interest in the matter, but representing the people of this District, who are without any other representation than that given to them by those of us who see proper to listen to their appeals. I hope the bill will go over until I can find the statements.

I will say now with entire frankness that I saw a statement in a newspaper of this city—I think it was the Sentinel—in regard to this bill, of two columns in length, containing charges in regard to this measure which, if true, would unquestionably defeat it. I do not undertake to say whether they are true or not, but they are published in this journal, and I am not willing that the bill shall be disposed of by the Senate until I shall have been able to investigate these statements and to lay them before the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands the Senator to object to the present consideration of the bill.

Mr. VEST. I do, unless the chairman of the committee can give a satisfactory explanation as to the objections I have stated.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have heard what the Senator from Missouri has said about the objections to the bill. The Committee on the District of Columbia took this matter up very carefully and devoted a great deal of time to it. They saw the gentlemen who are the trustees of this company, who have been in the committee room a number of times, and they have been heard. As I understood, they did not object at all to having this street opened. It is one of the most important streets in the District—North Capitol street—and the gentlemen who own property beyond the cemetery and beyond the piece of property adjacent to it, which is in the hands of heirs, have given property to open this street through to the Soldiers' Home. These trustees, as I understand, only object to the price which they think they are going to be paid for the property. They do not object to the opening of the street at all.

It is true there are no graves on the west part of the land which is to be taken, and only two or three graves on the other side of the street.

In my judgment, after looking at it very carefully, I do not think the opening of this street will injure the property of the cemetery company at all; but the benefits will be very great to them as well as to the owners of adjacent property. The street will cut the corner of the land in such a way as to leave valuable lots on the west side and valuable lots on the east side, without at all interfering with the cemetery.

The only objection these gentlemen gave to me was that they thought the price named in the bill was inadequate, and that the property was worth a great deal more money.

Mr. VEST. Let me ask the chairman of the committee a question. Is it not true that the ground in this cemetery was dedicated under act of Congress to the purposes of a burial place?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes; but I believe Congress has the power to repeal, alter, or amend at any time any of these laws.

Mr. VEST. I am not prepared to say that Congress would not have the right as a matter of course to repeal any act that it had enacted; but I understand the Senator to state now that this street goes through this cemetery and on one side of it are a few graves.

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes, and they can be removed without any trouble or any great expense.

Mr. VEST. Then it will necessitate the removal of those bodies, and unless you permit that ground to remain as it is, both sides will be occupied as a burial place. Is that the understanding?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes; that is the understanding.

Mr. VEST. I will ask that the bill go over, Mr. President, because, I tell the Senator frankly, the statements made to me were that the persons interested in that burial ground were opposed to this bill. That is the point I should like to investigate.

Mr. HAWLEY. Before the bill goes over, I wish to second the remarks of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST]. I do not understand that the proposed street, if cut through, will be of any use in the world to the cemetery. It will not enhance the value of the cemetery property one farthing; but it will cut off on the west an irregularly shaped piece that will be of no use in the world, as I recollect the map, for building lots, even if they had the right to sell it for building purposes; which, perhaps, they will have the right to do. The lots will not be deep enough, as I remember the ground, to be of any use in the world in that respect.

As to the highway, I will not say that it may not be to the interest of the public to have it opened; but it will be of no use in the world and of no value to the cemetery company; they will be simply poor lots. There is no use of talking about benefits to the cemetery company at all.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have a communication in my hand from the gentlemen who control the cemetery. They were anxious, of course, not to appear desirous of having this street opened, because a number of the people who own burial lots in that vicinity objected naturally to the passage of the bill, and so they passed this resolution:

1. That we will yield only when compelled to do so by "due process of law."

That is the first resolution.

Mr. VEST. What is the first resolution?

Mr. McMILLAN. That they will yield; that is, that they will allow this street to go through the cemetery only when compelled by due process of law. They wanted us to take the initiative here.

2. That in this event we will have to insist upon a "just compensation," which in our case would mean at this time not less than 50 cents for the square foot, our regular price at present, besides the expense for erecting two solid walls along North Capitol street, and for the removal of twenty-six or more bodies.

That is the number of bodies in all that will be affected, and they are twenty-six, all paupers.

Mr. VEST. They are to be moved?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. President, I introduced this bill at the request of some of the gentlemen interested in this cemetery, and also of others who are interested in property along North Capitol street.

I think if any Senator will go there up on the ground he will see that that street is an indispensable necessity to the growth of this city. It is true that this corporation has a charter for this cemetery, but there is an express reservation in the law itself that Congress may change it. There is a denial of the power to the District Commissioners, but Congress may authorize the opening of streets in this city. That right is especially reserved in the statute.

A law was passed some two years ago to open up this street, and all the property owners gave the property, 150 feet wide, extending from the Capitol directly north to Soldiers' Home. Gen. Willcox and other officers of the Soldiers' Home have been extremely anxious to have this road opened, because they said the grade was direct, the line was straight, and would strike the center of the grounds, and they thought that it was important that it should be done. All the property owners were willing to give away the ground, but there were two properties that could not be obtained except by condemnation.

Two years ago Congress authorized the opening of the street, but the conditions could not be complied with by these two interests. One was the German graveyard, situated at the head of this street, occupying a conspicuous position and holding a valuable grant. I went out there to see what would be the effect of this road if it passes through that cemetery. This road passing through there will leave on the west side a good strip of ground about 200 feet wide and about 500 or 600 feet long on one side of the cemetery, where there are no graves now, nor have any burial lots been sold on the line of the street. It is manifest to the eye of every man who passes that way that that street must some time or other be opened. One of the officers of the cemetery company told us they could not sell lots if they would, because nobody would buy there. The bodies of a few people who did not own lots, and who were too poor to buy in other places, were buried there, but they can be readily removed.

I know the only desire of the gentlemen who came to me is to obtain what I think is an unreasonable price. This land, considered as land, will be greatly benefited by the passage of this street through it. All the other property owners were very willing to give the land to open up this street in order to induce street improvements in that part of the city. There is no doubt it would add greatly to the market value of the adjoining land to condemn sufficient land for this street. That is shown by the fact that two separate juries of leading citizens of Washington, when called upon to condemn streets right alongside in the same neighborhood, only allowed 1 cent a foot, on the ground that the betterments would more than balance the injury, and their judgments were sanctioned by the courts and the money paid. So that I think there is no doubt that the sum of money now appropriated will pay all that will be proper to give to this corporation, and probably a great deal more than ought to be given.

There is another piece of land called the Barbour tract, which I think the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS] may possibly know something about. At any rate it is in litigation between the heirs, and it was not possible to obtain a title and get a right of way through it; but there will be no difficulty in making the assessment and getting the road through. I think it is very important to the local interests in that part of the city to open a direct and immediate connection with the Soldiers' Home. Still, if the Senator from Missouri wishes time to look into the bill so as to ascertain whether these facts are correct or not, I have no objection.

Mr. VEST. Let the bill go over.

Mr. SHERMAN. I introduced the bill at the request of the very gentleman referred to.

Mr. FRYE. The bill is to go over, retaining its place on the Calendar, I suppose.

Mr. VEST. Yes.

Mr. SHERMAN. Let it keep its place on the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Being objected to, the bill will be passed over, retaining its place on the Calendar under Rule VIII.

DISTRICT JAIL EMPLOYÉS.

Mr. PERKINS. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of Senate bill 2429.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 2429) fixing the salary of the warden of the United States jail in the District of Columbia, and the number of the employes and compensation for each.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments.

The first amendment was, in line 9, after the word "month," to insert "fifteen guards, at $85 per month each;" so as to read:

That from and after the passage of this act there shall be allowed for the proper handling and safe-keeping of prisoners confined in the United States jail, to be appointed as now provided by law, one warden at a salary of $2,500 per annum; one deputy warden, $1,100 per annum; three captains of the guard, at $90 per month; fifteen guards, at $85 per month each.

Mr. PERKINS. I will say in explanation of the amendment that it was an omission in printing the bill. There are twelve guards now on duty at the jail and the bill proposes to increase the number to fifteen, which, in my judgment and the judgment of the committee, is absolutely necessary in order to the efficient management of the jail.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in line 12, before the word "dollars," to strike out "sixty" and insert "eighty-five;" so as to read:

One clerk, at $90 per month; one physician, at $1,000 per annum; three matrons, at $85 per month; one engineer, at $100 per month; two assistant engineers, at $80 per month; one cook, at $60 per month; one driver for jail van or carriage, $30 per month.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ABANDONED MILITARY RESERVATIONS IN WYOMING.

Mr. CAREY. I ask the Senate to return to Senate bill 2093, which was heretofore passed over without prejudice.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 2093) to provide for the disposal of certain abandoned military reservations in the State of Wyoming.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with amendments, in line 5, after the word "reservation," to strike out "and that portion of the Fort Bridger reservation in said State to which the act approved July 10, 1890, entitled 'An act to provide for the disposal of certain abandoned military reservations in Wyoming Territory,' does not apply," and insert "the Fort Fetterman old wood reserve, situated in township 32 north, ranges 74 and 75 west, established August 29, 1872, and the Fort Fetterman new wood reserve, situated in townships 28 and 29, range 71 west," and in line 26, after the word "respectively," to strike out "Provided further, That this act shall not apply to any subdivision of land, which subdivision may include adjoining lands to the amount of 160 acres on which any buildings or improvements of the United States are situated, until the Secretary of the Interior shall so direct;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That all public lands now remaining undisposed of within the abandoned military reservations in the State of Wyoming, known as Fort Fetterman hay reservation, the Fort Fetterman old wood reserve, situated in township 32 north, ranges 74 and 75 west, established August 29, 1872, and the Fort Fetterman new wood reserve, situated in townships 28 and 29, range 71 west, are hereby made subject to disposal under the homestead law only: Provided, That actual occupants thereon upon the 1st day of January, 1892, shall have the preference right to make one entry not exceeding one quarter section under either of the existing land laws which shall include their respective improvements: Provided further, That any of such lands as are occupied for town-site purposes and any of the lands that may be shown to be valuable for coal or minerals shall be disposed of as now provided for lands subject to entry and sale under the town-site, coal, or mineral land laws, respectively.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

TOWN OF FERRON, UTAH.

Mr. CAREY. I ask the Senate to take up Order of Business 470, being House bill 1080, which was passed over without prejudice.

The Senate resumed consideration of the bill (H. R. 1080) for the relief of the inhabitants of the town of Ferron, county of Emery, Territory of Utah.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the passage of the bill.

The bill was passed.

PHILADELPHIA AND NEW YORK BAY SHIP CANAL.

Mr. QUAY. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill reported by me favorably from the Committee on Commerce this morning, being the bill (S. 3179) authorizing the Secretary of War to cause a survey to be made for a ship canal from Philadelphia across New Jersey to New York Bay.

Mr. HARRIS. Let that bill go over, holding its place on the Calendar. The Senate is too thin to consider a bill of that character.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill, being objected to, goes over, retaining its place on the Calendar.

ASSISTANT ASTRONOMERS AT UNITED STATES NAVAL OBSERVATORY.

The bill (S. 824) defining the promotions and salaries of assistant astronomers at the United States Naval Observatory, and for other purposes, was announced as next in order.

Mr. VEST. I object to the consideration of that bill now.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Being objected to, the bill will be passed over.

Mr. CHANDLER. I suppose the Senator from Missouri has no objection to the bill retaining its place on the Calendar.

Mr. VEST. No, I have no objection to that.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be passed over without prejudice, retaining its place under Rule VIII.

LANDS IN WASHINGTON.

The bill (H. R. 7081) confirming title to lands in the subdivision of square 206 in the city of Washington, D. C., was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to confirm the subdivision of square 206 in the city of Washington, D. C., made by C. P. Patterson and recorded in book R. W., page 102, in the office of the surveyor of the District, so far as said subdivision embraced any part of the original alleys in that square, and the title of the persons claiming any part or parts of the original alleys under the owner of the original lots at the time the subdivision was made.

Mr. FELTON. I should like to hear some explanation of that bill.

Mr. SHERMAN. The Senator from California can have the report read if he desires.

Mr. FELTON. I should like to have the report read.

Mr. FAULKNER. I will state to the Senate that the Senator from Delaware [Mr. HIGGINS] reported that bill, and I am sure the Senator from California, if he will have the report read, will be so thoroughly satisfied of the correctness of the bill that he will no longer object to its consideration. It is a very important thing in the interest of the District as to the titles of property and to the benefit of the District in the enlargement of the area of the forests.

Mr. FELTON. That is sufficient. I merely wanted an explanation of the object of the bill. It seemed to be a subject of some importance.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from California desire the reading of the report?

Mr. FELTON. No, sir.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MEDALS FOR LIEUT. JORDAN AND CAPT. CARTER.

The joint resolution (S. R. 82) to authorize Lieut. Sidney S. Jordan, Fifth United States Artillery, and Capt. Edward C. Carter, assistant surgeon, United States Army, to accept medals from the British Government was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

JOHN L. BROOME.

The bill (S. 848) for the relief of John L. Broome was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. CHANDLER. It is my intention to move to strike out the preamble; but preliminary thereto I move, in line 5, after the word "appoint," to strike out the words "the said."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In line 5, after the word "appoint," it is proposed to strike out "the said," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the President of the United States be, and hereby is, authorized to nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint John L. Broome, now a lieutenant-colonel in the Marine Corps on the retired list, a colonel in the Marine Corps, and to place him, with the rank and pay of colonel, on the retired list of the Marine Corps from the date of his retirement, March 8, 1888.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. CHANDLER. I move that the preamble be disagreed to. The preamble was rejected.

LEASING OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY.

Mr. PROCTOR. I ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of Order of Business 230, being Senate bill 1040, which was passed over to enable the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] to propose an amendment, which he has now prepared.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill being on the Calendar under Rule VIII, is now in order.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 1040) authorizing the Secretary of War to lease certain public property. It authorizes the Secretary of War, when in his discretion it will be for the public good, to lease for a period not exceeding five years and revocable at any time, such property of the United States under his control as may not for the time be required for public use and for the leasing of which there is no authority under existing law, and such leases shall be reported annually to Congress.

Mr. CALL. I offer the amendment which I send to the desk, to come in at the end of the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. At the end of the bill it is proposed to add:

Provided, That nothing in this act contained shall be held to apply to mineral or phosphate lands.

Mr. PROCTOR. I will accept the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. CHANDLER. I suggest that the title should be changed so as to read: "A bill authorizing the Secretary of War to lease public property in certain cases." The title is a little misleading as it stands.

Mr. PROCTOR. I have no objection to that.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill authorizing the Secretary of War to lease public property in certain cases."

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

Mr. CAREY. I ask the Senate to return to the bill (S. 1843) to provide for the punishment of offenses committed in the Yellowstone National Park, which was passed over without prejudice.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill is in order, having been passed over without prejudice under Rule VIII. The bill will be read.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on Territories with amendments.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendments of the Committee on Territories will be stated in their order.

Mr. TELLER. I wish to inquire of the Senator who has the bill in charge whether, when the State of Wyoming was admitted into the Union, the jurisdiction of the United States was reserved over this tract of country?

Mr. CAREY. I will state that it was. The terms I will not take the time of the Senate to read, but I will hand the statute to the Senator.

Mr. SANDERS. I should like to call the attention of the Senator having the bill in charge to another matter of the same nature. A portion of this park as now defined is within the State of Montana and still another portion of it is within the State of Idaho. It is provided in the bill as to offenses committed within the park that the jurisdiction over them shall be confined to the United States courts of the State of Wyoming, and in that respect it takes a party out of the district where the offense was committed and transfers the jurisdiction and authority to try him to another district and State.

While it is true, as stated by the Senator, that in the act admitting Wyoming there was a reservation of the authority of the United States over this park, there was no such provision of law in the acts admitting either Montana or Idaho. I do not propose to make any inquiry as to whether that reservation is of any effect if it is made, or whether it would be necessary in the face of the fact that this bill gives jurisdiction over that park to the district court of the State of Wyoming.

Mr. CAREY. I will say to the Senator, if he will read the first section of the bill he will find it reads: "That the Yellowstone National Park, in the State of Wyoming, as now defined, or as may be hereafter defined." It follows the proviso of the second section of the act admitting Wyoming as a State.

This bill does not pretend to legislate with reference to any portion of the park except that portion which is within the boundaries of the State of Wyoming. So far as the little strips on the west and north sides of the park are concerned, which are respectively in the States of Idaho and Montana, no one will contend that the United States has any jurisdiction whatever over that portion of the park, as it was not expressly reserved by the acts admitting those two States. There is no attempt whatever in the bill to legislate for any portion of the park that is outside of the State of Wyoming.

I will also state, as the Senator, I think, was away at the time, that a bill which passed the Senate redefining the boundaries of the park omits the two strips alluded to. That measure has already passed the Senate and gone to the other House. This bill does not cover one acre of ground in the States of Idaho or Montana, as the Senator will see by the first section.

Mr. MORGAN. I hope the Senator in charge of the bill will read that portion of the second section of the act to admit Wyoming which creates a reservation for these purposes.

Mr. CAREY. I will read section 2 of the act of July 10, 1890, admitting Wyoming as a State:

SEC. 2. That the said State shall consist of all the territory included within the following boundaries, to wit: Commencing at the intersection of the twenty-seventh meridian of longitude west from Washington with the forty-fifth degree of north latitude and running thence west to the thirty-fourth meridian of west longitude; thence south to the forty-first degree of north latitude; thence east to the twenty-seventh meridian of west longitude; and thence north to the place of beginning. Provided, That nothing in this act contained shall repeal or affect any act of Congress relating to the Yellowstone National Park, or the reservation of the park as now defined, or as may be hereafter defined or extended, or the power of the United States over it; and nothing contained in this act shall interfere with the right and ownership of the United States in said park and reservation as it now is or may hereafter be defined or extended by law, but exclusive legislation, in all cases whatsoever, shall be exercised by the United States, which shall have exclusive control and jurisdiction over the same; but nothing in this proviso contained shall be construed to prevent the service within said park of civil and criminal process lawfully issued by the authority of said State.

That, I believe, follows the usual restriction with reference to such matters.

Mr. MORGAN. I will ask the Senator whether he really thinks that the State of Wyoming is capable of taking care of that property, if we just allow that State to have full control of it. Suppose the State wanted to lay it off into a park and reserve it for State purposes against intrusion or against the destruction of articles of curiosity or the wild animals that we are trying to take care of in that section, does the Senator not think that the State of Wyoming is entirely competent to do that work?

Mr. CAREY. I think perhaps it would be competent, but I

By Mr. LITTLE: Memorial of 64 citizens of New York, against Congress legislating to the close the Columbian Exposition on Sunday—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

By Mr. MARTIN: Papers in the case of William G. Smith, late a private of Company C of the Thirty-fourth Regiment of Indiana Volunteers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MEYER: Two petitions of citizens of Louisiana, asking that the metric system of weights and measures be used exclusively in the customs service of the United States—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. O'DONNELL: Two petitions of citizens of Michigan, one of 81 citizens of Hastings, and the other of 89 residents of Union City, both protesting against religious legislation—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

By Mr. O'NEILL of Pennsylvania: Protest of the Manufacturing Chemists' Association of the United States against an act for preventing the adulteration and misbranding of food and drugs, and for other purposes—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. PICKLER: Two petitions of citizens of South Dakota, one of 27 citizens of Vilas, the other of L. G. Culver and 17 others, members of the Seventh-Day Adventists, of Watertown, Codington County, against any law concerning the closing of the World's Fair on Sunday—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

Also, petition of 50 citizens of Highmore, S. Dak., asking a constitutional amendment prohibiting any State from passing any law respecting the establishment of religion—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, two petitions of Milton Grange, No. 685, of Saratoga County, N. Y., one for a law preventing gambling in farm products, and the other for pure food—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition by the same grange, for the immediate passage of House bill 395, defining lard and imposing a tax thereon—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, petition by the same grange, in favor of laws preventing the making of contracts discrediting legal-tender currency—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. TURNER: Petition of Andrew B. Estes and others, of Blackshear, Ga., protesting against a bankruptcy bill—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, June 23, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

COURT OF CLAIMS REPORT.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the opinion of that court in the case of Frederick Bernard vs. The United States; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CREDENTIALS.

Mr. DIXON presented the credentials of NELSON W. ALDRICH, chosen by the Legislature of Rhode Island a Senator from that State for the term beginning March 4, 1893; which were read, and ordered to be filed.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. SHERMAN presented a petition of 26 citizens of Belmont County, Ohio, praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antiprohibition bills; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a petition of the Cleveland (Ohio) Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, praying for the passage of House bill 8152, regulating the erection of public buildings; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. CULLOM presented a petition of citizens of Dover, Ill., and a petition of the Methodist Episcopal and Christian churches of Bryant, Ill., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the memorial of H. V. Weaver and other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, of Onarga, Ill., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the State by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. WARREN presented a petition of citizens of Sandwich, Wyo., praying for the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting any legislation by the States respecting an establishment of religion or making an appropriation of money for any sectarian purpose; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. PERKINS. I present the proceedings of the San Francisco Board of Trade and of other bodies concerning the Torrey bankruptcy bill. I move that the memorial be printed as a miscellaneous document, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. COKE presented an memorial of sundry citizens of Houston, Tex., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the State by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2379) for the relief of William R. Steinmetz, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 1105) for the relief of Henry S. Cohn, late of the One hundred and sixth Ohio Volunteers, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. BATE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom were referred the following bills, submitted adverse reports thereon; which were agreed to, and the bills were postponed indefinitely:

A bill (S. 2686) granting an honorable discharge to John R. Roberts; and

A bill (S. 2182) for the relief of James W. Turner.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3296) for the relief of Henry Cozad, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3257) for continuing the improvements of Jefferson Barracks, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the amendment submitted by himself June 16, intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill, reported it without amendment, and moved its reference to the Committee on Appropriations; which was agreed to.

Mr. ALLEN, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was re-committed the bill (H. R. 669) for the relief of Dabney, Simmons & Co., reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

STATUE OF GEN. SHERMAN.

Mr. HAWLEY. I am instructed by the Committee on Military Affairs to report back favorably, without amendment, the bill (H. R. 8888) for preparation of site and erection of a pedestal for statue of late Gen. William T. Sherman, and appropriating the sum of $50,000 therefor. I venture to ask for the immediate consideration of the bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to appropriate $50,000 for the preparation of a site and the erection of a pedestal for a statue of the late Gen. William T. Sherman in the city of Washington; the site to be selected by and the pedestal to be erected under the supervision of the president of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, the Secretary of War, and the Major-General Commanding the Army.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. HAWLEY. I may state that the bill is substantially in the terms of the acts relating to statues of Gen. Hancock, Logan, and Sherman.

The bill was ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HAWLEY. I report back from the Committee on Military Affairs the bill (S. 2633) to erect a pedestal and statue to Gen. William T. Sherman in the city of Washington, and a petition of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee relating to the same bill. I ask that the usual course be taken, the committee to be discharged from the further consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The committee will be discharged from further consideration of the petition, and the bill will be postponed indefinitely.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE CHEROKEE NATION.

Mr. DAWES. I ask that the Committee on Indian Affairs be discharged from the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 6591) supplementary and amendatory to an act entitled "An act to refer to the Court of Claims certain claims of the Shawnee and Delaware Indians and the freedmen of the Cherokee Nation, and for other purposes," approved October 1, 1890, and I ask that the bill may be put on its passage, for the reason that on the 13th of April the Senate passed precisely such a bill. It was sent down to the House, and the House by mistake passed another bill in precisely the same words instead of passing the Senate bill. I ask that the committee be discharged from the consideration of the House bill and that it be put on its passage.

Mr. HARRIS. I think the Senator should report the bill back favorably and ask that it be put upon its passage in view of the statement he makes. Instead of having the committee discharged, why not report back the bill favorably?

Mr. DAWES. The only reason is that the committee has not been able to have a meeting since the bill was referred to it. That is the only reason. I suppose nobody will object to my asking to have the committee discharged from the consideration of the bill.

Mr. HARRIS. Of course when the committee is discharged the Senate will consider a bill not reported.

Mr. DAWES. The formal way is the one suggested by the Senator from Tennessee.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The committee will be discharged from the consideration of the bill, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none. The Senator from Massachusetts asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the bill be now considered.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

RAILROAD THROUGH MEMOMONEE RESERVATION.

Mr. DAWES. I report back with amendments from the Committee on Indian Affairs the bill (H. R. 5133) to authorize the Marinette and Western Railroad Company to construct a railroad through the Menomonee Reservation, in the State of Wisconsin.

Mr. SAWYER. I ask unanimous consent that the bill be now considered. It is the grant of a right of way, and it is important that it should be passed now.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. HARRIS. Let it be read for information.

The Secretary read the bill, and, by unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The first amendment reported by the Committee on Indian Affairs will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 1, after line 18, add the following additional proviso:

Provided further, That said route or right of way shall be located within one and one-half miles from the north line of the township hereinafter mentioned.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 4, line 34, after the word "road," to insert the following proviso:

Provided, That all merchantable pine timber on the right of way and deep ground shall be carefully estimated and appraised by a competent person appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, and said railroad company shall pay or cause to be paid the sum of not less than 30 per thousand feet board measure, for each and every thousand feet, together with the expense of estimate and appraisal, said money to be paid to the secretary of the Interior before the building of said road has begun; and, And provided, That after paying the estimate and appraisal, the balance of the money derived from the sale of said timber shall be expended by the Secretary of the Interior for the benefit of the Menomonee Indians.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

COURTS IN IDAHO AND WYOMING.

Mr. MITCHELL. I report back adversely, from the Committee on the Judiciary, the bill (S. 1639) to provide the times and places for holding terms of the United States courts in the State of Idaho. I am about to report a similar bill, a House bill, favorably, and I move that the Senate bill be postponed indefinitely.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. MITCHELL. From the same committee I report back with amendments the bill (H. R. 626) to provide the times and places for holding terms of United States courts in the State of Idaho. This is a House bill; it is very brief, and I ask for its present consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendments of the Committee on the Judiciary will be stated in their order.

The first amendment was, in section 6, line 12, after the word "court," to strike out the words "on the days last named;" so as to read:

And other things pending in or returnable to said court are hereby transferred to and shall be made returnable to, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 7, line 1, to strike out the word "(first);" in line 2, to strike out the word "(second);" in line 3, to strike out the word "(third);" in line 4, to strike out the word "(fourth);" in line 5, to strike out the word "(fifth);" and in line 6, to strike out the word "(sixth)."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

Mr. CAREY. I move to add the following as an additional section to the bill:

SEC. 8. That instead of the times now fixed by law the terms of the circuit and district courts of the United States for the district of Wyoming, to be held at Cheyenne, shall commence on the second Monday in May and the second Monday in November in each year.

The amendment was agreed to.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill to provide the times and places for holding terms of the United States courts in the States of Idaho and Wyoming."

Mr. MITCHELL. I move that the Senate request a conference with the House of Representatives on the bill and amendments.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate; and Mr. MITCHELL, Mr. TELLER, and Mr. COKE were appointed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 3318) to provide for the removal of suits from the courts of the Indian tribes or nations in the Indian Territory in certain cases, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. McMILLAN, by request, introduced a bill (S. 3319) to correct title of lots 13 and 14 in square 959 in Washington, D. C.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3320) granting a pension to William G. Reynolds; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (S. 3321) granting a pension to Mary Tuttle; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 3322) granting a pension to John N. Peall; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3323) granting a pension to George W. Sharps; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill (S. 3324) for the relief of the heirs of Dr. Nathan Fletcher; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

AMENDMENTS TO APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Mr. FELTON submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the general deficiency appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. CALL submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Nicaraguan Canal.

Mr. MORGAN. I submit a resolution and ask its reference to the Committee on Printing. I desire to submit some remarks upon it, however, before it is referred.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That there be printed for the use of the Senate 500 copies of Senate Report 1941, Fifty-first Congress, omitting the maps accompanying said report, it being the report of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, relating to the construction of the Maritime Canal of Nicaragua.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, the edition of that report has mitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. COCKRELL presented a petition of citizens of Clearmount, Mo., praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. BATE presented petitions of the United Presbyterian Church of Union; of the Prospect Church of Lincoln County, and of the Lebanon United Presbyterian Church, all in the State of Tennessee, praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. CHANDLER. I present the memorial of William T. Cass and 24 other citizens of Tilton, N. H., of whom 20 are parents, 2 teachers, and 2 physicians, remonstrating against the "deadly cigarette." I move that the memorial be referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. PEPPER presented memorials of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union No. 988; of the Lone Elm Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union, No. 622, and of sundry other citizens of Cherokee County, State of Kansas, remonstrating against the passage of H. R. 335 and S. 2984, known as the Brosius-Wilson land bills, and praying for the passage of the Paddock pure food bill; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. PLATT presented a petition of citizens of Greenwich, Conn., praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

He also presented a petition of the Bridgeport (Conn.) Christian Endeavor Union, signed by E. K. Holden and A. H. Gainsby, of Bridgeport, Conn., praying that no exposition or exhibition for which appropriations are made by Congress be opened on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. MILLS presented a petition of sundry citizens of Grier County, Tex., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bills; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. PADDOCK presented the memorial of Mrs. Wina Crane and other citizens of Wayne, Nebr.; the memorial of S. J. Morry and other citizens of Largo, Nebr., and the memorial of James Mefford and other citizens of Red Cloud, Nebr., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of citizens of Union County, Miss., and of the Oak Grove Farmers' Alliance, No. 1089, Patrons of Husbandry, of Myrtle, Miss., remonstrating against the passage of the Wilson-Brosius land bill, and praying for the passage of the Paddock pure-food bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. PERKINS presented the memorial of William Gambrill and 84 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Osawatie, Kans., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any other way committing the Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PETTIGREW presented the memorial of Michael Binder and sundry other citizens of Leola, S. Dak., and the memorial of Jacob Hirsch and sundry other citizens of Eureka, S. Dak., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. ALLISON presented the petition of William T. Pickett and other citizens of Des Moines, Iowa, praying that the said Pickett be granted a pension of $25 per month; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented petitions of the First Baptist Church of Newton; of the Convention of Christian Endeavor Societies of Charleston; of the United Presbyterian and two Methodist Episcopal Churches of Garner; of the Young People's Society of Columbus City; of the Congregational Church of Tabor; of the First Presbyterian Church of Harper; of the Sabbath School Association of Taylor County; of the Methodist Episcopal churches of Bloomfield (Iowa) Circuit; of the Methodist Episcopal churches of Alden Charge; of the First Lutheran Church of Newton; of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Floyd; of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Forest City; of the Congregational Church of Belmond; of the Christian Endeavor Convention of the Iowa Central Union; of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Waterloo, all in the State of Iowa, praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Village Creek, Iowa; the memorial of J. C. Smith and 20 other citizens of Castana, Iowa; the memorial of T. C. Davis and 81 other citizens of Marshall County, Iowa, and the memorial of G. F. Watson and 23 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Sioux City, Iowa, remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of the Trade and Labor Assembly of the city of Burlington, Iowa, praying for the passage of House bill No. 319 to exempt improvements on real estate in the District of Columbia from taxation and assess land at its full market value; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also presented a petition of 45 citizens of Clarinda, Iowa; a petition of 45 citizens of Blanchard, Iowa; a petition of 13 citizens of Moscow, Iowa, and a petition of 34 citizens of Burlington, Iowa, praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which were referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. DOLPH presented a petition of sundry citizens of Portland, Oregon, praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN ALASKA.

Mr. DOLPH. I desire to present a matter, in the nature of a petition, which I think ought to come before the Senate. The Senate is aware, and I call the attention of the chairman of the Committee on Territories to the fact, that because I had the honor to propose certain legislation which I thought beneficial for the Territory of Alaska I have been the subject of considerable criticism.

I am in receipt, by reference from the Attorney-General of the United States, of a letter from the recently appointed district judge of Alaska, raising the question as to whether there is any law, except the general law providing against the introduction and sale of liquors in Alaska, for the punishment of the sale of liquors to Indians. I will not ask to have the letter read, but I will have it referred, with certain accompanying papers, to the Committee on Territories.

I am also in receipt of a copy of the report of the grand jury recently assembled in the town of Juneau, in the Territory of Alaska, and accompanying it is a copy of the charge of the district judge to the grand jury, from which I will read a single sentence:

In the Morning Record, a public journal published in this city, ~~of the 15th~~ of April 7, 1892, a statement from United States Senator DOLPH, taken from the Oregonian, is published touching upon this subject—

That is, the sale of intoxicating liquors—

in which, among other things, he says: "I went to Alaska six years ago last summer, and again in August last, and on both occasions endeavored to ascertain the condition and wants of the people by actual observation and by inquiry of the Federal officers and of the people. I found six years ago numerous saloons in Sitka, Juneau, and Fort Wrangel where liquors were openly disposed of, and learned that at some of them Indian women were engaged all night long in drinking, dancing, and debauchery; and there was at least one brewery in full operation in the district. I found when there last summer that there had been no improvement."

This is a part of the charge of the district judge of Alaska to the grand jury. I now quote from the official report of the grand jury:

Regarding your honor's instructions referring to the sale of intoxicating liquors in Alaska, we have carefully considered the matter, and find that there are five breweries engaged in the manufacture, and more than fifty retail dealers engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquors in the Territory of Alaska. After careful consideration of the evidence we were able to obtain, we are of the opinion that it would be impossible to secure conviction. We therefore earnestly recommend that a high-license system be established in Alaska, believing that such a system would be conducive to the general good and prosperity of our own people by ceasing to offer a lucrative business to smugglers from British territory; and we are of the opinion that it would have the effect of compelling the licensed dealers to be vigilant in their efforts to drive out that portion of our community that thrives from the business of selling liquor to Indians.

I call special attention to that, that a portion of the community is thriving by selling liquor to Indians.

We know that it will place the business in the hands of responsible citizens, and that the money accruing from the licenses, placed in the hands of the town trustees, can be expended on our streets, schools, and other public improvements.

I present these papers, and move that they be referred to the Committee on Territories.

The motion was agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House insisted upon its amendments to the bill (S. 1273) to authorize the entry of lands chiefly valuable for building stone under the placer mining laws, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. McRAE, Mr. BAILEY, and Mr. CLARK of Wyoming, managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills: in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 2836) providing for the payment of $450 to pay W. S. Brantly, executor of J. H. Brantly, for damages to property by United States troops in 1865; and

A bill (H. R. 3284) making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for prior years, and for other purposes.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. ALLISON. I report back from the Committee on Appropriations with amendments the bill (H. R. 3040) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes. At the close of the morning business I should like to call up the bill for consideration, and I will now ask unanimous consent that at the close of the morning business the bill may be taken up.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Iowa asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the legislative, etc., appropriation bill be taken up for consideration at the close of the morning business to-day. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. PAULKNER, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment:

A bill (H. R. 8294) to punish the carrying or selling of deadly or dangerous weapons within the District of Columbia, and for other purposes;

A bill (S. 3236) authorizing the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to refuse applications for water connections in certain cases; and

A bill (S. 3248) relating to acknowledgments of instruments affecting real estate within the District of Columbia.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 1661) granting an increase of pension to John Hallam; and

A bill (S. 3321) granting a pension to Mary Tuttle.

Mr. McHILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8122) to prohibit the use of "one-horse" cars within the limits of the city of Washington after the 1st day of January, 1893, and for other purposes, reported it with an amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the amendment, submitted by himself on the 16th instant, intended to be proposed to the sundry civil appropriation bill concerning an appropriation for the Daisy Chain Hospital in the District of Columbia, reported it favorably, and moved that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and printed; which was agreed to.

Mr. MORGAN, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 3397) to amend section 2 of an act approved May 14, 1880, being "An act for the relief of settlers on public lands," reported it with an amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 222) to grant certain public lands to the State of Minnesota for perpetual use as a public park, reported it without amendment.

Mr. DAWES, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3317) extending the time for the construction of the Big Horn Southern Railroad through the Crow Indian Reservation, reported it with an amendment.

Mr. DOLPH, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2421) to repeal the second section, No. 4, of chapter 561 of the laws of the second session of the Fifty-first Congress, and to reenact the preemption laws thereby repealed, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3067) providing for the restoration of the southwest quarter, section 34, township 12 north, range 3 west, to the public domain, and for other purposes, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7028) to protect settlement rights where two or more persons settle upon the same subdivision of agricultural public lands before survey thereof, reported it without amendment.

Mr. DOLPH. I also report favorably, from the Committee on Public Lands, an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill concerning land-grant railroad companies, which had been referred to the Committee on Appropriations and reported from that committee and referred to the Committee on Public Lands. I move that the proposed amendment be re-referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. PERKINS, from the Committee on the District of the Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5446) to provide for the care of dependent children in the District of Columbia and to create a board of children's guardians, reported it with amendments and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred an amendment, submitted by Mr. TRIMBLE on the 24th of May, intended to be proposed to the deficiency appropriation bill, reported it favorably, and moved that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed; which was agreed to.

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2561) to amend section 6 of the act approved March 3, 1891, entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," reported it without amendment.

Mr. HAWLEY, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 3396) for the relief of A. S. Lee, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Claims; which was agreed to.

STATISTICS OF PRODUCTIVE INDUSTRIES.

Mr. HALE. I report back from the Committee on the Census the bill (H. R. 7696) amendatory of an act entitled "An act to provide for the taking of the Eleventh Census," which I ask may be put upon its passage.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read a fourth time for information.

The bill was read.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to hear an explanation of the necessity of the bill. If it relates to taking the present census, is it not too late to go into an examination of all these industries and the taking of additional testimony?

Mr. HALE. The bill passed the other House without opposition, and is reported by the Committee on the Census unanimously. It simply extends to unincorporated companies and individuals having manufacturing establishments the same provisions as to making correct returns that now apply to incorporated companies. It was omitted in the original act, and the Census Office has found embarrassment in some cases because parties shelter themselves by this omission in the original law. Nobody objected to the bill, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection, the bill is before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, it is known to me that the dentists of this city and District and of the country generally take very great exception to the language contained in this bill. I understand from them—

Mr. BERRY. If the Senator will permit me a moment, I will state that a committee from the association of dentists was before the Committee on the Census this morning, and it was all arranged and agreed to.

Mr. CALL. Then I have nothing further to say on the subject.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3325) granting an increase of pension to George W. Clark; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. ALLISON introduced a bill (S. 3326) granting a pension of $25 a month to William T. Pickett; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3327) granting a pension to Duncan McGilvra; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. BATE introduced a bill (S. 3328) for the relief of A. W. Wills, administrator; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 3329) to increase the area of the Northern Cheyenne or Tongue River Indian Reservation, Montana, and to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to settle the claims of bona fide settlers within the present reservation and the addition thereto, and to make appropriation for that purpose; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. PERFFER introduced a bill (S. 3330) to define the status and for the relief of the heirs or legal representatives of certain recruits for the Fourteenth Kansas Cavalry Volunteers who were killed at Lawrence, Kans., August 21, 1863, by guerrillas; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CAMERON introduced a bill (S. 3331) to relieve and exempt John Henry Ley, of the District of Columbia, from the operation of an act entitled "An act to restrict the ownership of real estate in the Territories to American citizens;" which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 3332) to establish a military post at or near the city of Santa Fe, in the county of Santa Fe, in the Territory of New Mexico; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3333) for the relief of Capt. Henry Romeyn, Fifth Regiment of Infantry, Army of the United States; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. TURPIE introduced a bill (S. 3334) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Alexander King, deceased; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. GORDON introduced a bill (S. 3335) for the relief of Charles L. Bradnell; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HUNTON introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 91) extending the time for the construction of a hotel upon the Government Reservation at Fortress Monroe, Va.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

AMENDMENTS TO APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Mr. CAMERON submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was ordered to be printed, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. KENNA submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the general deficiency appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. CALL submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

PRINTING OF PAPERS.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ask for an order to print a letter from the Secretary of the Interior, and also one from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in support of an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to purchase the original records of entries of the lands within the Virginia military district of Kentucky and Ohio, etc., now pending in the Committee on Appropriations. It is important that these communications should be printed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The papers will be printed if there be no objection. The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

INVESTIGATION BY COMMITTEE ON MINES AND MINING.

Mr. STEWART submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Committee on Mines and Mining be, and it is hereby, authorized and directed, to investigate and report the average cost of the production of gold and silver bullion in the United States; and for that purpose the committee is hereby authorized to—during the recess of the Senate, to employ a clerk, and the necessary expenses to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate, upon vouchers to be approved by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

FRENCH SPOILATION CLAIMS.

Mr. HALE. I submit an order and ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent, as follows:

Ordered, That the Committee on Appropriations be discharged from further consideration of the following French spoliation claims favorably reported by the Court of Claims, and that they be referred to the Committee on Claims:

Brig Confidence, Thomas Manning, master; Fifty-second Congress, first session, Senate Miscellaneous Document No. 5, page 17.
Schooner Eliza, Thomas Poulson; idem, page 25.
Snow Fanny, Garrett Barry; idem, page 26.
Sloop Federal George, George Hussey; idem, page 31.
Schooner Haema, Philip Bessom; idem, page 31.
Brig Hope, Church; idem, page 35.
Schooner Lucy, Lewis Holmes; idem, page 33.
Ship Patapsco, William Hill; idem, page 47.
Schooner Thankful, William Ward; idem, page 53.
Schooner Alert, Jacob Oliver; Senate Miscellaneous Document No. 21, page 1.
Ship Betsey, Josiah Obeary; idem, page 1.
Ship Jane, John Wallace; idem, page 10.
Ship Theresa, Philip Brum; Senate Miscellaneous Document No. 22.
Brig Yorick, William Moodie; Senate Miscellaneous Document No. 71.
Schooner Betsey, John Murphy; Senate Miscellaneous Document No. 10.

Mr. MITCHELL. I should like to inquire of the Senator from Maine whether this proposed order includes any of the claims that have heretofore gone to the committee, or relates only to those that have gone there during the present session?

Mr. HALE. It relates to those that have gone there at the present session, I understand.

The resolution was agreed to.

TARIFF POLICY.

Mr. HALE submitted the following resolution, which was read:

Whereas, at no time has so large a proportion of the American people been employed at so high wages and purchasing the necessities and comforts of life at so low prices as in the year 1892; and

Whereas the balance of trade with foreign countries has never been so large in favor of the United States as in the last year; and

Whereas these conditions exist and are largely due to the Republican policy of "protection;" Therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be, and is hereby, directed to inquire into the effect of a policy of "tariff for revenue only" upon the labor and the industry of the United States and to report upon the same to the Senate.

Mr. HALE. I ask that the resolution may lie on the table, and I shall call it up to-morrow morning at the conclusion of the morning business.

Mr. COCKRELL. The Senator proposes to call up the resolution to-morrow for the purpose of making remarks, I understand. He does not propose to call it up for action?

Mr. HALE. No.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will lie on the table for the present.

FREE COINAGE.

Mr. STEWART. I submit an amendment intended to be proposed to the bill (S. 51) to provide for the free coinage of gold and silver bullion, and for other purposes, which I ask may be read and printed. It proposes to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert what I send to the desk.

The proposed amendment was read, and ordered to lie on the table and to be printed, as follows:

The owner of silver bullion may deposit the same at any mint of the United States to be coined for his benefit, and it shall be the duty of the proper officers, upon the terms and conditions which are provided by law for the deposit and coinage of gold, to coin such silver bullion into the standard dollars authorized by the act of February 28, 1878, entitled "An act to authorize the coinage of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal-tender character," and such coins shall be a legal tender for all debts and duties public and private: Provided, That foreign silver coins, or silver coins bearing the impress of foreign mints, and bullion formed by melting down such coins, shall be excluded from the provisions of this act, and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and required to make such regulations as may be necessary to carry this provision into effect. The act of July 11, 1890, entitled "An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes," is hereby repealed.

CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS.

Mr. MITCHELL. I ask the Chair to lay before the Senate the amendments of the House of Representatives to Senate bill 2729.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 2729) to amend an act entitled "An act to establish circuit courts of appeals, and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes."

Mr. MITCHELL. I move that the Senate nonconcur in the amendments of the House and ask a conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. MITCHELL, Mr. PLATT, and Mr. PUGH were appointed.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 21st instant approved and signed the following act and joint resolution:

An act (S. 3036) to confirm New Madrid location survey No. 2175, and to provide for the issue of a patent therefor; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 47) authorizing the resubdivision of square 673, in the city of Washington.

The message also announced that the President had on the 25th instant approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 153) to provide an American register for the steamer Foxhall of New Orleans, La.;

An act (S. 81) to relinquish the interest of the United States in a certain parcel of land in the city of Pensacola, Fla., to Escambia Lodge, No. 15, Free and Accepted Masons;

An act (S. 1380) to amend an act entitled "An act to forfeit certain lands heretofore granted for the purpose of aiding in the construction of railroads, and for other purposes;" and

An act (S. 1714) to prevent cruelty to children or animals in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

RECIPROCAL TRADE AGREEMENTS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, which was read:

To the Senate:

In response to the resolution of the Senate dated April 6, 1892, directing the Secretary of State to send to the Senate, if not incompatible with the public interests, copies of all commercial agreements made with other countries, and also to report what steps have been taken to negotiate a reciprocal commercial treaty with Mexico, I submit herewith the reply of the Acting Secretary of State to that resolution.

BENJ. HARRISON.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, June 27, 1892.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The message, with the accompanying papers, will be printed in the usual number and lie on the table.

Mr. PLATT. Should not the message be referred?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator who introduced the resolution desired that it should lie on the table, that he might address the Senate on the subject.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 2836) providing for the payment of $450 to pay W. S. Brantly, executor of J. H. Brantly, for damages to property by United States troops in 1865, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

The bill (H. R. 9284) making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for prior years, and for other purposes, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the reports of the committees of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the following bills:

A bill (H. R. 410) to amend the charter of the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railroad Company; and

A bill (H. R. 429) to incorporate the District of Columbia Suburban Railway Company.

The message also announced that the House had disagreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 4636) making appropriations for the support of the Military Academy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, asked a further conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. WHEELER of Alabama, Mr. MITCHELL, and Mr. BOWEN managers at the conference on the part of the House.

MILITARY ACADEMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the action of the House of Representatives, disagreeing to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 4636) making appropriations for the support of the Military Academy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and asking a further conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon.

Mr. CULLOM. I move that the Senate further insist upon its amendments, and agree to the further conference asked by the House of Representatives.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. CULLOM, Mr. STEWART, and Mr. CALL were appointed.

LEGISLATIVE, ETC., APPROPRIATION BILL.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no further morning business, the Chair lays before the Senate, under its order, the legislative, etc., appropriation bill.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 9040) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, which had been reported from the Committee on Appropriations with amendments.

Mr. ALLISON. I ask that the formal reading of the bill be dispensed with, and that as the bill is read the amendments of the committee may be considered in the order in which they are reached.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Iowa asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the formal reading of the bill at length as in Committee of the Whole be dispensed with, and that the bill be read for action upon the committee amendments. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. ALLISON. I will state in respect to this measure that it is a bill of details and there are very few controverted questions involved in it. If Senators will turn to report No. 839, which will be found on the desks of Senators, they will see the changes proposed by the Committee on Appropriations. I ask that the bill may be proceeded with.

The Secretary proceeded to read the bill. The first amendment reported by the Committee on Appropriations was, in the appropriations for "Senate," on page 2, line 2, to increase the appropriation "for compensation of the officers, clerks, messengers, and others in the service of the Senate," from "$316,608.90 to $391,041.82."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 2, line 19, after the word "dollars," to strike out "or so much thereof as may be necessary;" so as to read:

Office of Secretary: For Secretary of the Senate, $5,000; including compensation as disbursing officer of the contingent fund of the Senate, and for compensation as disbursing officer of salaries of Senators, $396; hire of horse and wagon for the Secretary's office, $700.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the same clause, on page 2, in line 21, after the word "each," to strike out "principal executive clerk."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the same clause, on page 2, line 24, after the words "financial clerk," to insert "and reading clerk, at:" and in line 25, after the word "dollars," to insert "each;" so as to read:

Principal clerk, minute and journal clerk, and enrolling clerk, at $2,500 each; assistant financial clerk and reading clerk, at $2,400 each.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 3, line 11, to reduce the total amount of the appropriations for "Office of Secretary of the Senate" from $64,638.90 to $64,446.90.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations for "clerks and messengers to committees," on page 5, in line 1, after the words "Coast Defenses," to strike out "and;" and in the same line, after the word "Rules," to insert "and Privileges and Elections;" so as to read:

Patents, Coast Defenses, Rules, and Privileges and Elections, at $2,220 each.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 5, in line 3, to increase the general law is authorized to discharge the duties of the marshal, will be present, and for that presence will be entitled to a per diem.

Mr. FELTON. That being correct, and I apprehend that it is, has there been any additional appropriation in the bill of this year to provide for these marshals, or is the bill predicated upon the conditions that existed before and the condition of the law as it now exists, which amounts to $14,000? In other words, is there anything in the bill which the Senator speaks of, or in a general way has anything been added to that bill for this purpose?

Mr. ALLISON. Not yet. The House of Representatives, if I may speak of that, or I would rather say the sundry civil bill that comes to the Senate from the only place whence it can come, has not only not provided for this, but has not provided by a long way for the ordinary and necessary expenses of the courts of the United States. Therefore, whatever is added must be added in this body, in order that the courts of the United States may be carried on during the next fiscal year. It is true by these parings off and scissorings and filings these bills are a shade less and sometimes a good deal less than they are when they leave this body, and because of these scissorings and these filings the bills seem to meet the approval of the Senator from Arkansas.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Connecticut to strike out the first paragraph on page 115, on which the yeas and nays have been ordered. The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.
Mr. CALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR]. I do not know how he would vote, and therefore I withhold my vote.

Mr. CULLOM (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY]. Not knowing how he would vote on this question, I withhold my vote.

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. Not knowing how he would vote, I withhold my vote.

Mr. MORGAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. In his absence I withhold my vote.

Mr. DUBOIS (when Mr. SHOUP's name was called). My colleague [Mr. SHOUP] is paired on this vote with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER].

Mr. SQUIRE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. FAULKNER (after having voted in the negative). I am paired with the Senator from Idaho [Mr. SHOUP], as announced by his colleague, and I ask leave to withdraw the vote which I cast.

Mr. CULLOM. I will inquire if there was any announcement of a pair with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER].

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. None has been announced.

Mr. CULLOM. If that is the case, I will take the liberty of transferring my pair with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY] to the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER] for the time being, and I vote nay.

The result was announced—yeas 21, nays 14; as follows:

Gibson, Md.,	Jones, Nev.,	Sherman,

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. No quorum having voted, the Secretary will call the roll of the Senate.

Mr. PERKINS. We had better adjourn.

Mr. GEORGE. If in order, I move an adjournment.

Mr. FRYE. I hope the Senator will not do that. I want a brief executive session.

Mr. GEORGE. I will withdraw the motion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The roll will be called.

The Secretary called the roll, and the following Senators answered to their names:

Allison,	Blodgett,	Cockrell,	Davis,
Bate,	Butler,	Coke,	Dixon,
Berry,	Call,	Colquitt,	Dolph,
Blackburn,	Cameron,	Cullom,	Dubois,

Warren.

Mr. FAULKNER. I desire to state that my colleague [Mr. KENNA] is kept from the Senate by indisposition this evening, or he would be present.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Forty-five Senators have responded to their names. A quorum of the Senate is present.

Mr. ALLISON. It is manifest that this bill can not be concluded to-night. Therefore I shall not press it further. The Senator from Maine desires an executive session.

CORRECTION—PAPER CURRENCY.

Mr. FRYE. Mr. President—

Mr. ALLISON. Before going into executive session I ask unanimous consent to say one word respecting some observations I made on Thursday last. I was able to say in some impromptu observations in response to the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER] that the 7.3 notes were a legal tender by law, which was a mistake. They never were a legal tender in any sense. They may have passed for the time being as currency. I wish to correct that statement, made by myself on Thursday last.

FREE COINAGE.

Mr. FRYE. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Before putting the question, the Chair will lay before the Senate the unfinished business which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 51) to provide for the free coinage of gold and silver bullion, and for other purposes.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Maine moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After ten minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and at 5 o'clock and 30 minutes p. m. the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Tuesday, June 28, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

NOMINATIONS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, June 27, 1892.

The House met at 11 o'clock a. m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Saturday's session.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, no quorum is present.

Mr. BELKNAP. I move a call of the House.

The question was taken, and the Speaker announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

Mr. OATES. I ask for a division.

The House divided; and there were—ayes 73, nays 17; so a call of the House was ordered.

The roll was called, and the following-named members failed to respond:

The SPEAKER. The doors will now be closed, and the names of the absentees called; and on this call excuses are in order.

Mr. MUTCHLER (when the name of Mr. CRAIG of Pennsylvania was called). Mr. Speaker, my colleague [Mr. CRAIG] is at home sick. I ask that he be excused.

There was no objection.

Mr. MOORE (when the name of Mr. CRAIN of Texas was reached). I ask that my colleague [Mr. CRAIN] be excused, on account of sickness.

There was no objection.

Mr. KYLE (when the name of Mr. BEEMAN was called). Mr. Speaker, I desire that my colleague [Mr. BEEMAN] be excused, on account of sickness.

There was no objection.

Mr. TUCKER (when the name of Mr. BUCHANAN of Virginia was called). Mr. Speaker, my colleague [Mr. BUCHANAN] has been suddenly called from the city this morning. I ask that he be excused.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Virginia can only be excused for the day, there being no quorum.

Mr. HENDERSON of North Carolina (when the name of Mr. WILLIAMS of North Carolina was called). Mr. Speaker, my ments, of which it is said it shall not be composed of more than two members of any political party.

Mr. DAWES. I think there are two such commissions.

Mr. PLATT. One caught my ear as it was being read.

Mr. DAWES. One was amended by inserting that provision. That provision is also in the other item. One of them is a new commission created to settle the difficulties that have arisen out of a report of the commission this year among the Spokane Indians. That contains the suggestion referred to by the Senator from Connecticut. The one in which the amendment was inserted by the conference committee I can not state unless the Secretary will give me the number of the amendment.

Mr. PLATT. What is the number of that amendment?

Mr. DAWES. Will the Secretary be kind enough to give the number of the amendment which inserts the provision that only two of the members of the commission shall be of one political party?

Mr. PLATT. I suppose that I can just as well say what I desire without that particular reference.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair is informed that the number of the amendment is 53.

Mr. DAWES. The clause reads:

To enable the Secretary of the Interior, in his discretion, to reopen the negotiations with the Shoshone and Arapahoe Indians for the surrender of certain portions of their reservation in the State of Wyoming, and with the Flat Head and Confederate tribes of Indians in the State of Montana, $5,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be immediately available.

Subsequently was added the phrase to which the Senator from Connecticut refers.

Mr. PLATT. Mr. President, it is not important to what duty such a commission is to be assigned; but before this conference report shall be adopted, as I suppose it will be, I want to say that I am utterly opposed to all provisions such as have been creeping into legislation of late, that where a commission is appointed only two members of it shall belong to any one political party. I do not care to what party the members of this commission belong.

I would just as soon there should be five Democrats as five Republicans, if anybody wants the matter of politics to be considered. I think that such provisions are not only foolish but vicious, and I regret that, coming in the way of a conference report, the question is presented in a shape that I can not make an objection and take the sense of the Senate upon the question whether it is to be a practice which ought longer to be perpetuated in legislation.

I am in a measure coerced to support this provision because I do not want to defeat the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill. I do not think we have any right to limit the President or any other appointing power by saying that he shall appoint persons of a certain political character, and there is no occasion for doing it. We might trust that matter entirely to the appointing power. I do not suppose that the persons composing this commission will be appointed because they are Democrats, or Republicans, or Alliance men, or Prohibitionists; and I think that Congress ought to stop this sort of legislation.

Mr. GEORGE. Mr. President, I was on the floor and surrendered it to the Senator from Massachusetts for the purpose of making his conference report, not for the purpose of debate.

Mr. CULLOM. I hope the Senator from Mississippi will allow the report to be voted on.

Mr. GEORGE. I claim that I am entitled to the floor.

Mr. DAWES. I have not provoked any debate; but I want to avail myself of the opportunity to express my surprise at the remarks of the Senator from Connecticut.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BERRY in the chair). Does the Senator from Mississippi insist on his right to the floor?

Mr. GEORGE. I yield for a moment.

Mr. DAWES. I am utterly astonished that the Senator from Connecticut fails to recognize the drift of administrative policy on all hands in this country; that he does not look forward to the speedy arrival of the time when this Government is to be administered in all its branches without regard to political parties; and he will allow me to express surprise at the quarter from which that expression comes.

Mr. President, it may not come in my lifetime, but I look forward, in the progress which is being made in that direction, to the time when we shall cease to talk of parties in the administration of this Government; when we shall be without any such distinction as that; and that the rivalry will be solely which shall be the most patriotic. We have made great advances in that direction. We constituted the Interstate Commerce Commission upon that ground without any protest on the part of the Senator from Connecticut. We constituted the Civil Service Commission, itself the great generative power of reform, upon that very principle. When the Senator had the opportunity upon another proposition in this very bill to offer an amendment I regret exceedingly that he did not avail himself of the opportunity at that time, but waited until the time when he could not offer it to make the remarks he did.

The Senator of course will take kindly these remarks, but I regret that a Senator of so much promise in the future, so able, and so willing, and so earnest to share in the great progress of reform in this country, should have objected to so small a provision as this.

Mr. PLATT. I simply want to say that the remarks of the Senator from Massachusetts have convinced me that he is the avant-courier in proclaiming the coming of the political millennium.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the adoption of the report of the conference committee.

The report was concurred in.

Mr. DAWES. I submit the following statement to accompany the report:

ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE] is entitled to the floor on the agricultural appropriation bill.

Mr. STEWART. Will the Senator give way until I submit a conference report on the army appropriation bill?

Mr. GEORGE. Very well.

Mr. STEWART submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 6923) "making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its amendments numbered 28, 29, 30, 31, 33, and 37.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 15, 17, 18, 19, 24, 26, 27, 36, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, and 44, and agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 1 and 2, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the amendment proviso; and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 12, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Insert after the word "Provided," in line 1, page 6 of the bill, the following: "That the number of paymasters' clerks shall be reduced one for every paymaster reduced under the operations of this act: Provided further," and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 16, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out from said amendment the words "with troops or otherwise;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 20, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Insert after the word "indebtedness," in line 2 of said amendment, the words "to the United States;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 21, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the matter inserted by said amendment and insert in lieu thereof the following: "exchanges, but this proviso shall not be construed to prohibit the use by post exchanges of public buildings or public transportation when in the opinion of the Quartermaster-General not required for other purposes;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 22, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$2,700,000;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 25, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$1,200,000;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 32, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$130,000;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 31, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows:

insist before the word "improved;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 15, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out in line 18, page 19 of the bill, the words "four hundred thousand dollars," and insert after the word "garmentories," in line 11, same page, the words "four hundred thousand dollars;" and the Senate agree to the same.

On amendment numbered 23 the committee of conference have been unable to agree, but has agreed upon all the other items considered by the conference committee.

WM. M. STEWART,
W. B. ALLISON,
J. C. S. BLACKBURN,
Managers on the part of the Senate,
JOS. H. OUTHWAITE,
JNO. L. MITCHELL,
C. E. BELKNAP,
Managers on the part of the House.

Mr. STEWART. The amendment that was not agreed upon by the conferees was to strike out the following proviso, on page 18:

Provided further, That no money herein appropriated shall be used in payment of the transportation of troops and supplies of the Army over any of the nonbonded lines owned, controlled, or operated by the Union Pacific Railway Company, including the lines of the Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern Railway Company, or by the Southern Pacific Company over lines embraced in its Pacific system.

I ask that the conference report be adopted, and I shall then move that the Senate still further insist upon its amendment disagreed to by the House of Representatives.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on concurring in the conference report.

The report was concurred in.

Mr. STEWART. I move that the Senate insist on its amendment disagreed to by the House of Representatives and ask for a further conference thereon.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the Presiding Officer was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. STEWART, Mr. ALLISON, and Mr. BLACKBURN were appointed.

Mr. STEWART. I ask leave to have printed the following statement of the bill:

Army appropriations, 1895.

DISTRICT SUBURBAN RAILROAD.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 439) to incorporate the District of Columbia Suburban Railroad Company, having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the first amendment of the Senate, and agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth amendments of the Senate, and agree to the same amended as follows:

In line 15, on page 1, after the word "routes," strike out all that follows to the word "provided," in line 15, page 2, and insert the following:

Beginning at the dividing line between the District of Columbia and the State of Maryland, on the Bladensburg road, and running thence along the said road so that the outer rail of said railway shall not be more than 5 feet from the eastern boundary of said Bladensburg road, to H street east; thence west on H street east to Seventh street east over the tracks of the Columbia Railroad.

Also, beginning at the junction of Philadelphia and Twelfth streets, in Brookland, and running south along Twelfth street; thence by such line as may be authorized by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to the intersection of Patterson avenue with the Fairview road; thence along the Fairview, Gordon, and Mount Olivet roads to Twelfth street extended; thence along Twelfth street extended to the junction of Twelfth street east and Florida avenue.

PUYALLUP INDIAN RESERVATION LANDS.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE] is entitled to the floor on the agricultural appropriation bill.

Mr. ALLEN. Will the Senator from Mississippi yield to me to make a request?

Mr. GEORGE. Of course. I want Senators to make all the reports they wish to make right now.

Mr. ALLEN. I beg the pardon of the Senator for making this request, but I wish to do so while the chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs is in the Chamber. Senate bill 3556, Order of Business 666, was passed over some time since without prejudice at the request of the chairman of the committee on account of his ill health.

Mr. GEORGE. I thought the Senator wanted to make a report.

Mr. ALLEN. It is just a request.

Mr. GEORGE. Does the Senator desire to have a bill considered?

Mr. ALLEN. No, sir; I wish simply to make a request. The bill was passed over. On account of his ill health the chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs was unable to take the bill up at a specific time to be considered. I should like very much to-morrow, at the close of the routine business, to have the bill considered by the Senate. I make this request now that unanimous consent may be given while the chairman of the committee is in the Chamber. I do so for the reason that the bill very vitally affects the State of Washington.

The consideration of the bill by virtue of the appointment of a commission and other causes has been delayed for more than a year. I have been receiving letters and telegrams requesting its early consideration, and I appeal to the chairman of the committee that he will consent that at the close of the routine business unanimous consent be given that the bill may be considered to-morrow. The important and rapidly growing city of Tacoma is being hampered and greatly embarrassed and hindered by the failure of relief sought in this measure.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senator please designate what bill it is?

Mr. ALLEN. It is the bill, S. 3556, giving consent of Congress to the removal by the Legislature of the State of Washington of the restrictions upon the power of alienation of a portion of the lands in the Puyallup Indian Reservation upon certain conditions therein contained.

Mr. ALLISON. I am constrained to object to the request made by the Senator from Washington. Next Thursday is the last day of this fiscal year, when every department of the Government must cease unless the appropriation bills are disposed of. I can conceive of no business in this Chamber that is possibly of so much importance as the passage of the appropriation bills. Therefore I am directly after the morning business to-morrow I shall insist that the appropriation bills which are ready for consideration may be considered.

I will say to the Senator from Washington that there will be ample time to consider the bill he indicates within a week or two, and intervals of time when conferences are engaged upon the appropriation bills when the bill can be considered. I trust he ment to the way in which this is done. In commenting on the indications and estimates on page 71, Mr. Dodge says:

The error of interpreters of condition averages last year was this: Assuming a fixed value in bushels of certain figures of average condition in July, when the winter wheat average was 96.2 and that of spring wheat 94.1, the outside or unofficial interpretation was 510,000,000 bushels, or about 13.5 bushels per acre.

Giving great importance to the fact that the "official" interpretation is one way, and the interpretation given by the great herd of "outside" people who are not "official" is the other way.

This was erroneously declared to be an official estimate.

I agree with the Senator from Missouri that no Government officer ought to be allowed to parade his opinions in official reports as to what the crop may be. It is a thing that is outrageous and should not be tolerated. But in this same paragraph from which I have just read this gentleman goes on to comment on the amount of the crop, and says:

Ordinarily this small variation, with the figures above stated, would range between 13 and 14 bushels; but last year, one of unprecedented crop vitality, the record was advanced to 15.3 bushels.

Then he follows with this remarkable language, after calling that a "record," not an "official statement":

It is not necessary to prove that this is an overestimate. The grain exists, is handled, exported, consumed, and the fact is conclusively shown that the estimate is conservative as usual, less rather than more than the actual crops.

Yet it was upon this confessed estimate that he at that time gave out a statement to the world that there was 171,000,000 bushels of wheat in the hands of the farmers in addition to the 41,000,000 bushels in sight, and stated that it was the largest quantity ever held by the farmers before. As a result of that the wheat market broke and the price went down at the expense of the farmers of the United States.

The criticism which he indulged in, in this paper from which I have read, that farmers were likely to underestimate what they had on hand, as he did in the Kentucky tobacco case, is not borne out by the facts. There is not a man on the floor of this Senate who does not know that the farmers are disposed to overestimate their crops.

I do not care whether the farmer grows corn, wheat, tobacco, sugar, or cotton, he is likely to believe that he is going to have more of the product than he will have; he is more likely to overestimate than to underestimate.

But when it comes to an officer of the Government undertaking to say that the farmers have been underestimating their crops, and doing it for an improper purpose, those reflections that have been indulged in, I believe, ought not to be embodied in an official document. He says, on page 75 of this report, in commenting on overproduction of cotton:

What is the remedy? It is quite as easily indicated, as the diagnosis of the disease is accurate. Reduce the area in cultivation. This is easily said, but it can only be done with difficulty. It has often been said before, and planters have advised their neighbors to reduce, while they quietly proceed to increase to get the benefit of the expected rise.

Mr. GEORGE. Is not that so?

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I do not believe it, and I think it is a gratuitous insult to the farmers of the United States to have this Statistician charge that they have been deliberately lying to their neighbors for the purpose of getting the benefit of a reduction of the cotton crop.

Mr. GEORGE. It is not lying.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. It is; it means nothing else.

My own opinion, Mr. President, is that the best interests of the country demand that this whole business be stopped; that until these estimates are more accurate and more reliable, until they state more of facts and less of guesses, they ought not to be published.

My intention was to conclude what I had to say by a motion to strike out this whole paragraph providing for the publication of this monthly statement, but I presume it would be voted down. I will content myself by giving notice that I will hereafter, as long as I shall be a member of this body, move to strike out every appropriation made for this monthly crop report, if the evils which we have been commenting upon, and if the course that we have been criticising here, shall not be changed by a change in the bill which comes to us from the other House.

With the modification of this amendment made by the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE] at the suggestion of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST], it seems to me that this evil ought to be corrected, and I believe the Secretary of Agriculture will undertake to have these evils remedied, and so I will not now move to strike out the whole of the appropriation. But if there is a repetition of these evils in the future I will hereafter move to strike it all out, and will vote for that motion persistently session after session until Congress stops this iniquity and outrage.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is upon the amendment proposed by the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON].

The amendment was agreed to.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

LEGISLATIVE, ETC., APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. ALLISON. The regular order is the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill. When the Senate adjourned yesterday the provision in reference to United States marshals for circuit courts of appeals was under consideration. I ask that a vote be now taken.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT], which will be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to strike out lines 4 to 10, inclusive, on page 115, as follows:

That so much of section 2 of the act approved March 3, 1891, to establish circuit courts of appeals, as authorizes the appointment of a marshal to each of said courts at a salary of $2,500 be, and the same is hereby repealed, and the duties and powers imposed upon said marshals under the said act shall be performed by the United States marshals in and for the district where terms of said courts may be held, and to this end said marshals shall be the marshals of said circuit courts of appeal.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The yeas and nays having been ordered upon the adoption of this amendment, the Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HARRIS, when his name was called. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. McMILLAN, when his name was called. I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], but I will transfer that pair to the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH], and vote "yea."

Mr. PASCO, when his name was called. I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. In his absence I withhold my vote.

Mr. WALTHALL, when his name was called. I am paired with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I am paired generally with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. KENNA], but I transfer that pair to the Senator from California [Mr. STANFORD], and vote "yea."

Mr. MANDERSON. I desire to ask whether the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] has voted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He has not.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am paired with that Senator, and withhold my vote.

Mr. CULLOM. Yesterday I took the liberty of transferring my pair with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY] to the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER]. If nobody has announced a pair with him, I will do so now, and vote "nay."

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. Is the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK] recorded as having voted?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He has not voted.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. Then I withdraw my vote, as I am paired with that Senator.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I understand that my colleague [Mr. TELLER] would vote "yea" if he were present under this transfer of pairs.

The PRESIDING OFFICER [Mr. BERRY]. Then I withdraw my vote.

Mr. CULLOM. I desire to know if my vote is counted, or whether I shall withdraw it?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois is at liberty to vote.

Mr. CULLOM. I think I am not entitled to vote because I am paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY]. Unless I can transfer that pair to some other Senator I will withdraw my vote.

Mr. WHITE. I voted through inadvertence. I have a general pair with the Senator from Montana [Mr. POWER], but transferred that pair to the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS] so as to enable that Senator and myself to vote.

Mr. HARRIS. I suggest to the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM], who, I believe, is paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY], that he and I transfer our pairs. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. CULLOM. I am at liberty to vote to make a quorum, if necessary.

Mr. HARRIS. I do not know that I am permitted to vote to make a quorum, but I am willing to transfer my pair.

Mr. CULLOM. I agree to that.

Mr. HARRIS. Then I vote "yea."

Mr. CULLOM. I vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 34, nays 12, as follows:

YEAS—34.

So the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. PLATT. I now move to amend on line 24, page 114, by adding after the semicolon, at the end of the line, these words: For nine marshals at $2,500 each.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. After the word "each," in line 24, page 114, it is proposed to insert the words:

For nine marshals at $2,500 each.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. PLATT. I now move to change the total from $81,000 to $103,500.

The amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The next amendment of the committee, on page 66, that was reserved, will be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 13, page 66, it is proposed to strike out the following words:

That so much of section 9 of the act entitled "An act to amend section 552 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882, as authorizes the President to appoint a board of five persons to exercise certain powers and duties prescribed in said section, be, and the same is hereby, repealed; and the said board is hereby abolished, and all powers and duties conferred upon said board are hereby imposed upon and shall be discharged, without additional compensation, by a board hereby created, to be constituted of the governor, chief justice, and secretary of the Territory of Utah.

For the following expenses of the foregoing board, namely: For printing, stationery, clerk hire, and office rent, $3,000: Provided, That out of this sum the said board is hereby authorized to pay to the secretary of the Territory, who, in addition to being a member of the board, shall be its secretary and disbursing agent, a reasonable sum for such service, not exceeding $200 for the fiscal year 1893.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on striking out the words just reported.

Mr. FAULKNER. Mr. President, yesterday I asked the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations to give the reasons to the Senate for modifying or changing the provision of the bill or the law as it formerly existed in reference to the Utah Commission. As far as I have been able to understand the object and scope and purpose of the original creation of the Commission I could see no benefit that could result either to the country or to the Territory of Utah in preserving and continuing the commission in office any longer. It certainly was not the purpose and intention of Congress when in 1882 it passed the law that ten years after its passage the Utah Commission should still be in existence.

At the time when that measure was before Congress the Territory was in the hands of polygamists absolutely and entirely, and Congress determined to adopt after that period very stringent laws in reference to that offense. In order to carry out those laws all the Territorial officers of every description were abolished and an agreement was entered into at that time for the purpose of supplying the vacancies in the inferior Territorial offices which were abolished by that law by creating a commission of five gentlemen from other States or Territories than the Territory of Utah, to be appointed by the President.

But that law further went on and contemplated that the succeeding Legislature should be elected under an entirely new election law, at which election every man who exercised the right of the elective franchise was to take an oath that he was not a polygamist, and any man who was running for an office was compelled to take the same oath if elected. After having filled these offices with men who were not engaged in these practices, at the succeeding Legislature, which would occur in 1884, then that Legislature was to pass such a law as every other Territorial Legislature had the right to pass in order to fill all the offices made vacant by the Edmunds law, and which were subsequently filled by appointment under the Commission provided for by that law.

After all that had been carried out in accordance with the views of Congress, we find that when the Legislature met under these circumstances in 1884 they passed a law anticipated by Congress to carry out the provisions of the latter clause of the ninth section of the Edmunds law.

The governor of Utah (which is not the case in any other Territory under the Government of the United States) has the absolute veto power. He has not only the absolute veto power but he may by simply pocketing a bill absolutely deprive the legislative body of that Territory from the expression of any opinion on a legislative matter. The organic act of Utah requires the signature of the governor in order to give vitality to any act of the Legislature—something that is unheard of in the Government of this country or in any other Territory under the Government of the United States.

Without reason, without explanation, as I am informed, the governor simply vetoed that bill in 1884. The Legislature, in trying to carry out the provisions of the act of Congress, again in 1886 passed a law, and again in 1890 they passed a law to carry out the provisions of the act and provide for the election of officers in that Territory as anticipated by the Edmunds law, and again in 1892 the Legislature have done the same thing. At the present session of the Legislature that bill was passed, and the governor has simply put it in his pocket. What object and purpose he had in preserving the Territorial Commission created in 1882 I am at a loss to know. He is not a member of it or in any way affected by the provisions of the bill of the Legislature passed in pursuance of the Edmunds law.

Mr. President, I am opposed to any kind of commission sent from the States to govern a Territory. If I had been in the Senate when this commission was created under the act of 1882 I should have opposed it. There is now, so far as I know, no excuse for it. The last Territorial Legislature of Utah passed as stringent a law against polygamy as the Edmunds law itself; its penalties are as severe. That was passed by the Territorial Legislature. I suppose it will not be questioned here that polygamy as an institution in Utah is dead.

I do not know any gentleman who could question it, because if he would go to the records of the Attorney-General's Office here in the city of Washington he would find an application for the amnesty of all those who were convicted under judges appointed during the Cleveland Administration, in which the authorities of the church announce the fact of the abolition of polygamy in the Territory of Utah, its absolute abandonment, and appeal to the President, by reason of a clause in the Edmunds law itself, to exercise that clemency which the law anticipated the Executive of this nation would do whenever he was satisfied of that fact.

If it were simply the church authorities that made that statement there might be some question in this body, but that statement is indorsed by the governor of the Territory, by the secretary of the Territory, by the Utah Commission, and it is indorsed also by all four of the judges of the superior court of Utah. The President, for the reason stated in that petition, is urged to grant the clemency asked for by the people of Utah.

Those who perhaps have not thought about this question should remember that the Commission has but one solitary function to perform in the Territory of Utah. It simply has to govern the elections of the people of Utah. It is sent there for that purpose annually when they have their elections. I refer to the general elections, because the Supreme Court of the United States has held, reversing the superior court of Utah, that the law does not apply to municipal elections. They appoint the registrars, they appoint the commissioners and supervisors of elections.

The returns of elections are made to this Board of Commissioners and they certify the result. That is the sole function and power that has ever been conferred upon them, except under the act of 1891, when they were given the authority to apportion the Territory into legislative districts, which they have complied with. The last Legislature was elected under the apportionment made by that Commission under the act of 1891.

Now, sir, I think the time has come to dispense with the Utah Commission, ten years after the creation of the Commission, when by the very terms of the law it was to have expired in 1884, at the meeting of the next Legislature, by the passage of a proper law by the legislative body under the reform in the elections provided for in the Edmunds law.

When the question of polygamy as a question of offense against the laws of the Territory and against the laws of the United States, is virtually admitted to have been abandoned, when they have no other functions in the world except to control the elections of the people of Utah, I think the time has come when the people of Utah should have the right and privilege of selecting their own registrars and all the men who are to sit behind the ballot box and to pass upon the qualifications and competency of the voter asking to deposit his ballot, especially when no man can be registrar or vote in that Territory who does not take the oath prescribed by the law of the Congress of the United States, known as the Edmunds law.

There is another view I want to take of this matter. What justification can the Appropriations Committee make in reversing the action of the House of Representatives and increasing, as they admit in their report to the Senate it does increase, the amount of the appropriations of the bill, so far as the Utah Commission is concerned, $30,500 in order to give five gentlemen $5,000 a year to go to Utah once a year or once in two years to appoint commissioners of election and receive the returns from the polls and certify them at a general election. That is all they have to do. That embraces all their functions, and yet for that this bill is to be increased in the appropriations made, with the present condition of the Treasury, to the amount of $30,500 as announced to us by the Committee on Appropriations.

That is rather expensive to this Government in order to furnish salaries for five gentlemen to perform duties that every other civilized community where the right of the elective franchise is appreciated is allowed to perform for itself, and not to be required to send off two or three thousand miles in order to bring there a man to designate who shall be the person to pass upon the qualifications of the electors of that section of our country.

I desire to read from a report made in the House of Representatives by Mr. WASHINGTON, from the Committee on Territories, in reference to the expense of this commission. He says:

Since the appointment of this board, to March 1, 1892, the Government has paid in salaries to its members $241,063.91, and for contingent expenses of the board $105,181.82, and for compensation and expenses of officers of election $193,422.14, a total of $539,667.86.
